Germany May Rush Help to the Hard-Pressed Austrians by Transferring Troops From Western Front, But Such is Not Expected--Total Austrian Losses Now Reach Figure of 200,000

By Courier Leased Wire

PARIS, June 25.—Havas Agency—Austrian losses total 200,000 men, according to The Secolo of Milan. Certain enemy divisions lost two-thirds of their effectives.

A dispatch to The Matin from Turin says that the rout of the Austrians is complete, and that the Piave has carried away many Austrian dead. Italian cavalry, it is added, have advanced beyond the eastern bank of the river.

French newspapers continue to acclaim the Italian victory. Hope is expressed that General Diaz, profiting by the demoralization of the enemy, will not confine the fighting to local actions, but will strike out boldly into an offensive, and transform the Austrian retreat to the Piave into a decisive victory.

Several newspapers wonder whether the Germans will rush help to the Austrians by transferring forces from the western front. L'Homme Libre believes that such action is scarcely probable as Emperor William and von Hindenburg are convinced they cannot obtain a decision except on the front from Switzerland to the sea.

AUSTRIANS IN DISORDER

GENEVA, June 24.—The Austrian retreat across the Piave continued in the greatest disorder under the immediate fire of the Allied artillery, according to news received this morning. British gunners especially are doing heavy execution in this sector.

Hundreds of the enemy, the report states, were drowned in the swollen river into which the Austrians are throwing their maxims and light cannon.

In the meantime the Austrians are rushing up new reserves to fill the breach between the Montello plateau and the Adriatic in order to avert a disaster. In spite of the official announcement from Vienna that the retreat was due entirely to the flood in the Piave River, the report states that the Italian armies caused the breaking of the offensive by their continuous pressure against the enemy.

RIVER LINE ONCE MORE BARS FOE

Austria's armies again are beyond the Piave, and the river line once more bars the enemy from the Venetian plain. The crushed Austrian forces, not only were pursued to the river, but the Italians at points have occupied strong bridgeheads on the eastern bank.

How thorough the Italian victory has been, is not yet clear, as every hour brings reports of increasing Austrian losses. Many thousands of the invaders were killed in their attempt to regain the eastern bank of the river, and the latest announcement from General Diaz places the number of prisoners alone at 40,000. One report places the Austrian casualties at 200,000 men. In addition, the enemy lost large stores of ammunition and supplies and many guns.

Apparently the sudden torrent in the Piave, which played havoc with Austrian communications, fell as quickly as it rose, and the river bed was dry when the Austrian retreat began. This enabled the enemy to get many of his troops across, otherwise his losses would have been measurably greater.

Vienna blames the weather and the high water in the river for the retirement, and gives no credit to the stout Italian resistance which held the enemy on the western bank, and was gradually forced back to the river. It says the order to withdraw was given last Thursday, and leaves the impression that the retreat was carried out unobserved by the Italians.

It has been reported that Baron Burián, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, told the German command that grave events, possibly revolution would follow in the dual monarchy if an Austrian attack, which Germany insisted upon, was repulsed. There have been no reports that the disorders and unrest within the Hapsburg Empire have ceased. In fact, latest news dispatches give scanty intelligence as to the state of affairs in Austria.

If the Austrian offensive was expected by the German command to relieve the situation on the western front, the Teuton strategists have had a bitter disappointment. Austria probably will be unable to take up a new forward movement on the Piave line for a few days at least. In fact, the Piave front appears to be stronger now than at the beginning of the present battle. Operations on the mountain front are still at a standstill and if Emperor Charles still desires to push his offensive against Italy the next enemy attacks may come from this front, unless the Italians continue their advance eastward from the Piave, of which, however, there are no indications at present.

Along the front from the North Sea to Switzerland the Allied armies are awaiting another blow from the Germans. Premier Lloyd George has told the British House of Commons that a gigantic blow is coming within a few days, possibly within a few hours. The Allies are ready to combat it. British and French troops on the Flanders battlefield have carried out local operations successfully. On the plateau north of Le Port, west of Soissons, and along the Aisne, the French have improved their positions and captured 170 prisoners. Last night they successfully resisted an attempt by the Germans to recapture the ground lost by the enemy.

GREEK ARMY IS GROWING

Nation Will Soon Have More Than 200,000 Men Under Arms

By Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, June 25.—(Havas Agency)—Greece shortly will have more than 200,000 men under arms, according to a statement given by the Greek legation here to The Matin. Additional troops beyond this number, are to be called to the colors soon, it is added.

The notable work accomplished by the Hellenic Kingdom since its entrance into the war a year ago this month is reviewed and the achievement of Premier Venizelos in restoring public confidence and effectively guarding the interests of the country are pointed out.

FOR ITALY, FOR KING, FOR CIVILIZATION

Stirring Message From General Diaz to His Victorious Army—Barriers of Italian Heroism Unshakable

By Courier Leased Wire

Rome, June 25.—In announcing to his victorious army the repulse of the Austrians, General Diaz, the Italian commander-in-chief, says that the fighting for the present is confined to local attacks. He calls upon the army to prepare for new trials. In an order of the day to his officers and men, General Diaz says:

"The enemy who, with furious impetuosity used all means to penetrate our territory has been repulsed at all points. His losses are very heavy. His pride is broken. Glory to all commands, all soldiers, all salutes!"

"The country understood at once that the harrier set up by your heroism was unshakable and that your strength is the purest of immortal vigor. Our people and our allies who have so many glorious representatives amongst us will again show the enemy that it has lost none of its faith, strength and abnegation."

"For Italy, for King, for civilization, let us persevere in our sacred duty."

Triple Tragedy Feared.

By Courier Leased Wire

Quebec, June 25.—Miss Amelia Fradette, who left Lewis last Friday with two little nephews bound for the Island of Orleans, is believed to have drowned herself and the youngsters. Detectives claim that some persons saw the young woman leap from the wharf into the St. Lawrence, dragging the two little children with her. A child's straw hat has been recovered on the beach near the Island of Orleans.

WHERE THE AUSTRIAN BLOW FELT. The heavy black lines show the part of the Italian line against which the Austrians launched their great offensive. As will be seen from the map, a rupture of the line on the Asiago Plateau would have permitted the Austrians to cut both the railways and make a run under the Alps in the rear of the Italian defences and forced on the troops in the bulge to the eastward a disastrous retreat, with a grave danger of capture.

ENEMY FAILED IN ATTACK ON FRENCH LINES NORTH OF AISNE

Unable to Make Gains in Raid on Position Near Le Port

By Courier Leased Wire

Paris, June 25.—The Germans last night attacked the new French positions in the region of Le Port, north of the Aisne, but were unable to make any gains, says the official statement from the war office today. In surprise attacks in the Woivre and in Lorraine the French captured twenty prisoners.

The statement reads: "North of the Aisne, after a violent bombardment and grenade fighting, the enemy attacked positions recently gained by us northeast of Le Port. The French positions were maintained in their entirety. The artillery activity was rather lively in the region of Faveroilles and Courcy, between the Aisne and the Marne. "French troops carried out in the Woivre and in Lorraine three surprise attacks from which they brought back 20 prisoners."

KUEHLMANN BLAMES RUSSIA FOR THE WAR

France And England Secondary Responsible, Declares Teuton Foreign Secretary — Germany Will Make No Pledges As to Belgium

By Courier Leased Wire

Amsterdam, June 25.—Chief blame for instigating the war was laid at Russia's door by Dr. von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, in an address to the Reichstag yesterday. In which he also dealt with Germany's war aims. France and England were named as the next powers in order of culpability.

"I believe," said Dr. von Kuehlmann, "that one can say without fear of contradiction, as the result of revelations, that the deeper we go into the causes of this war, the clearer it becomes that the power which planned and desired the war was

Troops of Archduke Joseph and General Wurm Must Surrender or be Annihilated, London Hears --- Full Extent of Italian Pursuit Unknown as Yet

By Courier Leased Wire

LONDON, June 25.—The extent to which the Italian pursuit of the Austrians across the Piave has developed is not known here, and no detailed reports have been received bringing events up to date.

A statement current in London yesterday that the Italians had taken 45,000 prisoners, is said by the morning newspapers to be confirmed by the Italian Embassy. The same statement is attributed to Premier Orlando by the Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The same correspondent quotes The Giornale d'Italia as saying that the troops of Archduke Joseph, and of General Wurm are virtually surrounded and must surrender or be annihilated.

MACHIN LIKELY TO LOSE JOB FOR OUTSPOKENNESS

Charges Made by Montreal Director of Military Service a Bombshell

'A METHODIST CABAL?'

By Courier Leased Wire.

Ottawa, June 25.—The government will, it is understood, take into consideration, to-day the interview given by Lieut.-Col. Machin, director of military service at Montreal. It is probable that an official statement covering the charges made by Col. Machin will be issued in the course of the day. In the meantime the circumstances will be investigated.

The Montreal Press to-day says: "The interview given in Montreal yesterday by Lieut.-Col. H. A. Machin in which the director of the military service council charged that a powerful cabal exists in Ottawa against the Minister of Justice and that this cabal showed its hand in the raid on the Jesuit College at Guelph has fallen as a bomb shell in military and political circles here. That a government official of the responsibility and standing of Col. Machin should make such an extraordinary charge and then proceed to follow up with an onslaught upon the Methodist Church in Ontario, is expected to make a splash in political waters, the ripples of which are bound to be felt all over the Dominion. "In official circles, however, Col. Machin's charges created a veritable sensation, and the first impression they created was that a general uproar would be the inevitable result."

"In the best informed circles not much stock is taken in the plain insinuation of Col. Machin that Messrs. Sifton and Meuburn conspired against their colleagues. There have been stories of friction and disagreements, but those best in a position to know, maintain that these never exceeded the usual limits of differences of opinion between cabinet colleagues."

"It is probable that a statement will be issued to-day by General Meuburn dealing with the whole situation, and it is also considered likely that the contingency anticipated by Col. Machin when he said his interview would cost him his job will speedily come about."

Various Opinions. Montreal, June 25.—Commanding officers in this military district and the registrar under the Military Service Act, advanced different views this morning in reference to the statement made yesterday by Lieut.-Col. Machin of the Department of Justice, Ottawa, that not enough (Continued on page 4.)

GLIMPSSES OF WITLEY CAMP

Capt. Harry McNally, of Simcoe Writes From the Old Land

OTHER SIMCOE NEWS

John A. Rose, Widely Known And Respected Resident, Died Today

Simcoe, June 25.—(From Our Own Correspondent).—When a young man who from boyhood played in the old 39th under our townsmen, John Sutton, and who is seized with the lure of martial airs as only handmen are, but is compelled to stay at his post and ply the demitise forceps and drill day after day while unit after unit moves off to enter the "game," such a man, feeling fit and willing to be at ease. And such as contained in a recent letter is the case with Capt. Harry McNally, now at Witley Camp, England, received here yesterday, from which we are permitted to publish extracts.

ner to-night, a few lieutenant-colonels, two or three generals and a lord or two, a brass band and a pipers' band.

"Without any joking, it's certainly a great life and when I hear the drafts leaving for the front (late in the night), headed by the bands going amid loud cheers, and I go out to the road and watch them march past and think, "My God! What a time to live, and if need be, there's no better time to die.

The sad part of it is this: When one looks on, and thinks how many many are going away so cheerful and light-hearted never to return. But strange as it may seem, every man thinks he will come through all right. It will likely be a year before I stand in line for France—but I'll get there." Later same evening, "I've just come from watching a couple of drafts leave for France headed by bands. It's too thrilling for words. It's evening and they are leaving in bunches. I dare not say how many. Here and there I see follows I have met in one way or another and it gets me to see them go away in heavy marching order. As I mentioned before, God only knows whether they will, and many we know, cannot return.

English Air Full of Fight.

A fellow can't stay here in this old English land any of whom himself out of the war. The desire to get nearer the real thing grows on me. The letter was written while the big drive was on, and the writer says Witley camp had no fear of a disastrous outcome, but that men and more men and every available assistance was necessary to stem the tide.

Reverting to matters of detail, he had seen Walter Porse, now three years at war, convalescent from pneumonia, after being twice wounded, and now as he thought worthy of discharge as having done his "bit."

He saw "Ashton" Winter twice and he looks well. Met Lieut. Ed. Diamond, who is minus one toe. And he closes thus: "We may need you over here yet; who knows. When it comes to it I'm ready to discard the forceps for a rifle, if I'm of greater service in that capacity."

Mother of Full Grown Children Guilty of Theft.

Mrs. McKenny of Simcoe pleaded guilty of the theft from the L. E. & N. depot of Saturday of a shopping bag and purse belonging to Mrs. Daniel Brock, of Port Dover. There was no chance for escape. Chief Canning recovered the goods a few minutes after the complaint was laid. The accused offered the plea that she had never been brought to court before, but did not claim that this was her first offence. Magistrate Guntton advised the woman that the parcel should not have been taken from the depot, and that as it contained three different papers and the principal of the high school, and the premier in such terms as would have meant the lock-up for her in Simcoe, she should have made the clerk's effort to hold his municipal job solid, look like a prayer in an old-time pious Sunday school.

The woman has made a name for herself, and the strange part of it all is that in spite of all her reviling against the little registration tickets, it will take about 96% of these little pass books to carry her through the next year, if she keeps promise as expressed when leaving the place. With Mr. Ross' have to issue these, the woman will during the next few weeks have the staidie scraped and painted in side and out.

There were a few belated registrants taken care of yesterday at the post office. They got their mail. Railway ticket agents yesterday required the production of the registration card before issuing tickets.

The winter pipe on Kent St. north of York has been apparently broken to prevent freezing in the winter.

The wax time gardens on the G. V. R. property along Metcalf Street are in the main looking well. The public has been warned against trespassing, but an evening stroll along the streets thereabouts is worth while.

Public school students appear to be awaiting the matter of circumstance, and a moving up to make room. The exams are now on in earnest.

Press Photographs.

Mr. John Rose of Wilson Avenue, who suffered a complete fracture of a femur a couple of weeks ago, was last night reported in a dangerously critical condition. This morning no improvement was reported. Members of the family are coming home from distant parts. Pneumonia has developed and slight hopes are held out for his recovery.

Mr. Rose died at ten o'clock this morning, surrounded by members of his family. Pneumonia had developed.

Miss Florence Misner leaves tomorrow morning for a short holiday with friends at Fort Platts, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson Pettit of Brantford visited Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Robertson on Sunday.

Mr. John Anguish is recovering slowly from his long illness.

Miss Louise Warfield of Woodhouse entertained last evening a number of young people from town. We understand that there were enough boys to go round, and the party had a very pleasant evening.

A REQUEST.

Owing to pressing work, Dr. Jackson requests that any cases wishing to consult with her would, if possible make a morning appointment. Phone calls preferred. No. 222. Out of town prospects kindly drop a line in advance.

THE CHINESE THEATRE.

Dreams of the Orient is quaint and naive.

The theatre of the Chinese is one of the most delightfully primitive institutions extant. Too naive to accept change, its real charm seems to lie in its very artificiality and limitations. Looking at Chinese plays, Chinese audiences, Chinese mis-en-scenes, and Chinese actors is like gazing upon some game of make-believe played by historically inclined children. A schoolboy's drawing of the blackboard order could hardly be cruder or less true to the object which it professes to represent.

There is, for instance, no scenery, as commonly understood, but a conglomeration of stereotyped objects for use as "sets." If the actors desire to represent a mountain, a bed, or a river, they pile up chairs, tables and benches, and let the scene be set; if they want to climb that mountain, or sleep in that bed, or swim that river, they have recourse to pantomimic actions which are perfectly understood by the patient and tolerant audience. Whilst Shakespeare at least made a passable effort at creating a sense of illusion with his properties, the Chinese actor of the twentieth century still relies upon pantomime to represent definite action and meaning.

The actor, for instance, seeking to convey the idea that he is on a journey, may prance round the stage like a horse, brandishing a whip!

The performance is usually a 12-hour affair. Factors and the members of the orchestra, as well as the occupants of the best seats, are provided with dishes and eatables in preparation for the long dramatic feast. The typical play itself lives in the past, its interminable plot and counterplots being based on historical fact or legend, and representing the two great divisions of national life, civil and military. The average boy finds the events portrayed in these plays in his school books, and this circumstance may account for the presence of the theatre in nearly every village throughout China. The play is thus standardized like an automobile or a toy. A play must be acted in a certain manner according to its genre. Some are presented in the form of a story, others are of the acrobatic order, but both kinds are usually intended to stir the deepest emotions of piety and patriotism in the beholder. The actors must shout, dance and jump, and clash their swords and knives, because the custom of the play prescribes it. The comics must wear masks, and their gestures must be according to rigid etiquette. The actors must always strive to strike effective poses and express pompously, and, if they can impress their audiences with their address in sword play and acrobatics, all the better. No actor ever has much of an "entrance," and there is no curtain. The play will probably open with the appearance of an actor wearing a long, black beard, a gruesome-looking mask, and carrying a bright heavy sword. He will stride to the centre of the stage, deliver some of his lines to the audience and then inform his hearers that he has arrived. For this perfunctory and stilted kind of acting he may enjoy a princely salary. Yet he invariably strikes the connoisseur as being somewhat of a mountebank. The fact is that the actors are usually recruited from a class little better than slaves. They can read or write, or have escaped an early life of cruelty and hardship.

The hope for a modern stage in China that shall be national in character seems to be a long way from realization. A certain type of modern play is performed, it is true, and women troupes have been admitted to the stage, but the cut and dried types, the archaic figures, the old pompous attitudes, the mechanical devices, the absurd "properties," still reign supreme.

SEAMEN BOYCOTT GERMANY

French Sailors Urged to Join British in Ostracism of Huns After War

Paris, June 25.—(Havas Agency).—French seamen are urged to join with British mariners in a boycott of Germany. In a letter written to The Matin by Joseph Havelock Wilson, leader of the seamen of Great Britain, the letter includes the copy of a telegram sent by the British seamen to President Poincaré, which states that the British are determined to fight to the bitter end to "bring just punishment on the booby."

It has been decided to exclude all Germans from crews and to carry no German goods. This action is retaliation for the "shameful assassination of 16,000 non-combatant seamen."

Mr. Wilson recalls that the British seamen some time ago decided to boycott Germany until two years after the close of the war, adding one month to each additional crime as a list of non-combatants. The length of the term of boycott now reaches 68 months.

WEEPING ECZEMA SOON RELIEVED

A Perfect Treatment For This Distressing Complaint
WASIKO, Ont.
"I had an attack of Weeping Eczema; so bad that my clothes would be wet through at times. For four months, I suffered terribly. I could get no relief until I tried 'Fruit-a-lives' and 'Sootha Salva'. The first treatment gave me relief. Altogether, I have used three boxes of 'Sootha Salva' and two of 'Fruit-a-lives', and an entirely well."
G. W. HALL.
Both these sterling remedies are sold by dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.
"Fruit-a-lives" is also put up in a trial size which sells for 25c.

HEADACHES DUE TO EYESTRAIN
Women are frequently subject to headaches caused by nothing else than eye strain. Most of them suffer from astigmatism, a malformation of the eye ball which nothing short of properly ground glasses will overcome. If you are suffering from this ailment it is the part of wisdom to let us examine your eyes before you take a lot of useless medicines. Our examination will give you definite information and our advice may be relied upon.

London's Popular Exhibition
This popular Exhibition will be held this year from Sept. 6th to the 14th. Queen's Park, where the Exhibition is held, has been occupied since last year by the Military authorities. They have recently vacated the buildings and grounds, going up to Carling Heights. This leaves a lot of work to do to prepare the place for the Exhibition. Large gangs of men are at work and more will be secured as the work goes on. An addition will be built to the sheep pens in order to accommodate the large entry expected. The large cattle barn will have a new roof put on making it comfortable and dry for the cattle exhibited. It is expected there will be a large entry of live stock of all kinds this year as the Prize List has had such a substantial increase. All information supplied by the Secretary, A. M. # ALLIES READY FOR ANY BLOW

Premier Lloyd George Says Decisive One May Come in Next Few Days
SOME ANXIOUS MONTHS
Enough Americans Are in France Now to Satisfy Allies' Expectations

London, June 24.—Premier Lloyd George announced today that the next couple of months would be anxious ones. There might be a great blow coming in the next few hours, he said, and certainly in the next few days, and on this blow the issue of the campaign might depend. The Entente Allies he added, never felt better prepared to meet it. The Premier, who made his announcement in the House of Commons, referred to the amazing organization which was bringing American troops to France. "Enough Americans," he added, "have arrived to satisfy the allies and to disappoint and ultimately defeat our foes."
Stronger Than Germany.
It was possible that within a short time, the Premier said, the allies would be stronger than Germany. The enemy, he declared, had no further reserves to call upon after another offensive except by a drastic combing out of the essential industries, which he had already started. Replying to criticisms of the military policy and to suggestions that the Cabinet had overruled military advice, Premier Lloyd George said he thought that Mr. Bonar Law last week had given all the information that could be furnished at the present moment consistent with military prudence. Naturally, questions about the distribution and numbers of troops could not be answered. Concerning the American troops, the numbers arriving since March 21, said the Premier, had been more than satisfactory, and he added: "It is an amazing piece of organization which has enabled the bringing of such vast numbers of first-rate American troops to France."
Of Best Quality.
Mr. Hogge interposed: "Are his figures admitted?"
Mr. Lloyd George, waving his arms, said all right. My honorable friend ought to be satisfied. I hope the Germans are also.
In declining to give figures as to the numbers of American troops, the Premier said they were of the very best quality and many were already on the firing line. He hoped that soon very many more would be there.
A breezy altercation arose between Mr. Hogge and the Premier on a reference to something said during a secret session. Mr. Lloyd George warmly protesting against Mr. Hogge committing a breach of faith in referring to a secret session. The Premier defended his earlier statements at the opening of the German offensive in March as the containing forces were as nearly as possible equal.
Dealing with the happenings since then, the Premier said that the Germans had enormously exaggerated the losses they had inflicted on the allies, and it was just possible that the allies might be exaggerating the losses inflicted on the Germans. What was certain, however, was that there had been a great drain on the enemy reserves.
It was impossible, continued the Premier, to make a computation of the relative strength of the forces at the present date. The American troops were arriving at a great rate and he should be very surprised if in a comparatively short time the allied strength on the Western front was not greater than the German. The British were in the position of having to throw in their last reserves within the next two months, and lacked further reserves except by the most drastic combing out of essential industries. There were indications that they were already resorting to such a combing, which proved that the allies had inflicted heavy losses in the course of this campaign.
In the next couple of months, said the Premier, the position would naturally be an anxious one, but the allied position was gradually improving, and he could say without boasting, which would be folly, that the allied Generals felt confidence as to the issue.
Turning to recent battles, the Premier declared that the enemy had intended to reach Compiègne, but had failed and were beaten back by the French army. The losses inflicted on the Germans undoubtedly were very serious, and, on the whole, the Premier declared, the last German attack on the allies was undoubtedly a defeat, for the enemy failed to reach his objectives.
Expected Greater Things.
It was quite certain that if it had been possible on the 29th of March to put before the allied and German leaders what the position would be on the 23rd of June, the allies would have been pleased and the Germans profoundly disappointed. There was documentary evidence, said the Premier, that the Germans expected much greater things than they had been able to achieve.
"With regard to Russia, that country was in a perfectly chaotic condition. One could hardly find the same government in any two villages. It was useless talking about the Russian government, as if there were one government for the whole country. That was one of the difficulties that had to be dealt with. There was a de facto government in Moscow, but also one in almost

CHARGES CABAL OF METHODISTS

Lieut.-Col. Machin Scores Raid on Jesuit College at Guelph
MENACE TO PROVINCE

Montreal, June 24.—"There is evidence that a powerful cabal exists at Ottawa against the Minister of Justice, which showed its hand last week at Guelph, and on this brutal raid on the Jesuit College at Guelph. The greatest menace to the Province of Ontario is the Methodist Church, which seems to make us in Ontario the most hypocritical body class of people in the Dominion of Canada."
This was the declaration made this afternoon by Lt.-Col. H. A. Machin, Director of the Military Service Act branch of the Ministry of Justice and member of the Ontario Legislature, who had just returned from an interview given at the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Lt.-Col. Machin said he realized that he would probably lose his job over the declaration, but he felt bound to express his opinion in view of what had recently been taking place.
Col. Machin went overseas as a Colonel in command of the 94th Battalion, having refused a Judge'ship in order to do so, and his present position which he says he does not expect to hold, is worth $6,000 a year.
Combing Quebec for Men.
Col. Machin's interview follows: "I have been sent to Montreal to devise a means whereby the Militia Department will be able to handle more recruits than they have been able to do. At the present time there are over 11,000 eligible for call in this district, and only 100 have been called because the Militia Department has not been able to take them.
"In the meantime, only those who were requested to be called by the G. O. C. of Montreal and Guelph districts have been taken. This has resulted in only 8,000 under the Military Service Act being called in the Province of Quebec. The fact that Ontario has called 25,000 against 8,000 in Quebec was given out by the Militia Department last week. Immediately the Government became concerned and on Friday last I was plainly told by Messrs. Sifton and McEwen that unless I produced the proper quota from Quebec I could look for another job. I reminded these gentlemen that recruits had been called in the Province of Quebec as fast as the Militia Department could take care of them. I now propose to try to arrange with the G. O. C. of the Montreal district to take care of the 11,000 at present in this district if he can do so."
Defends Doherty.
"I do not care anything about retaining the Militia Department on a matter, but the important business is to carry on this war for humanity. The Minister of Justice has rigidly enforced the Military Service Act ever since I have had the honor of serving under him. There has been no favoritism. No one could have administered the act any better than the Minister of Justice has done, because the act itself invited exemption rather than conscription."
"There is a strong desire on the part of the Militia Department to take over the work of the Military Service Act and the officers, who have heretofore been connected with it as a part of that department. It has been openly stated that the Militia Department has been informed from private sources, that it would be accomplished before very other place and conditions were changing daily."
"I quite agree that it is our interest and just and equitable to stand by Russia—if Russia wants us to," said the Premier. "Russia has been brutally treated by Germany. She has been dismembered, and the treaties which Germany concluded have not been respected twenty-four hours. In defiance of the treaties, Germany is marching through Ukraine, the Don territory and Caucasia, and will carry her march to the north."
Beginning to Know.
"No doubt, these facts are getting well into the minds of the Russian people. The feeling in Russia some months ago that there was no difference between the allied and the entente countries, but that all were striking greedily for territory, has disappeared. The Russians are beginning to realize what German militarism means. Even the Ukrainian peasants are in revolt against German interference."
"I have been informed on very good authority during the last few hours that hatred for the Germans is sinking deeper and deeper into the minds of the Russian population, especially in the parts occupied by the Germans. My informant tells me that Russia is ready to march over to participate in any movement to drive the Germans from Russian soil."
"These things are full of hope, but there are difficulties of access to Russia. The only country having access on a large scale is Japan, but on this subject, I doubt whether

THE SITUATION
 The collapse of the Austrian offensive against Italy is complete. The troops of Diaz are in hot pursuit of the retreating foe, but it may be taken for granted that Foch will see that they do not in any sense get out of hand. There is still serious work ahead, and German troops are already on the way to strengthen their allies in the Alpine regions. In this regard, it should be remembered that three-fourths of the country is mountainous, or hilly, being traversed by the great mountain chain of the Alps. There is no over-flowing Piave to help in such districts, and the Italians without doubt will be content for the present to rest on their splendid repulsion of the invader. It was a great piece of work for all of the Allied troops concerned, and the Armen also lent exceptionally valuable aid.

On the western front, nothing of first importance has recently been recorded. The British Premier has made another of his heartening speeches in which, although he does not underestimate the strenuous work still ahead, he gives abundant cause for faith in the ultimate outcome. Without any doubt, he exaggerated some time ago when he asserted that the Allied forces were equal to the Teuton ditto in the western area, but he was able to affirm that U. S. soldiers were now arriving in such numbers as to more than equalize matters in a short time.

THE NEW ERA.

Lloyd George never uttered a more timely statement when, speaking in the Welsh Baptist Tabernacle on Sunday, he affirmed that after the war the world must be made fit for all classes and everybody to live in. He added, "The upper classes, the middle classes, and lower classes have all passed through the fiery furnace together," and also together must realize and enforce a new order of things.

It has been the part of some agitators to declare that the rich man and the interests precipitated this awful struggle for the benefit of personal gain. A bigger calamity was never uttered for the well to do and their sons have perished in the cause of human liberty just as readily as those of the poorer classes and both have covered themselves with imperishable glory in the determination to give life itself in the God given task of helping to throttle the ruthless Hun.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Lloyd George issues the warning that the biggest offensive yet is likely to be soon launched on the Western front. And the Allies will await the outcome with confidence.

To talk about standing by Russia is about equal to backing the stability of shifting sands.

The letters hap in Hapsburg never stood as an abbreviation for happiness with regard to the Austrian Royal House and they will do so less than ever after the Piave disaster.

The acceptance by Col. Lynch,

Nationalist M.P. of a commission in the British army and the announcement that he will tour the Emerald Isle on behalf of recruiting, constitutes quite an excellent bit of news. He was once under sentence of death for treason, but was pardoned by the late King Edward.

The farmers of Kansas are now engaged in gathering their new crop of wheat, which is estimated to yield at least a hundred million bushels, and although they are handicapped by scarcity of labor, as farmers are everywhere, it is now practically assured that the whole of the great crop will be saved.

The New York Times explains how the labor problem was solved. Every city, town and township was thoroughly canvassed in advance by committees who sought pledges from business men, clerks and others not engaged in agriculture, that they would work for a few days, in the fields. They were successful. The people everywhere, The Times says, wanted to save the wheat. "Owners of stores and factories agreed to release their employees. Some assistance was given by the United States Employment Service with its national system of hundreds of labor agencies for recruiting and distributing workers, but almost all the credit for what has been accomplished is due to the patriotic people of Kansas."

To The Editor of The Courier

The Editor of The Courier, Brantford, Ont., June 24, 1918.
 Sir—In your report of the County Council meeting I notice that with reference to the request of the Salvation Army for a grant, Councilor Seace objected on the grounds that he had been trying for three years to find out where the monies had gone that had already been granted.

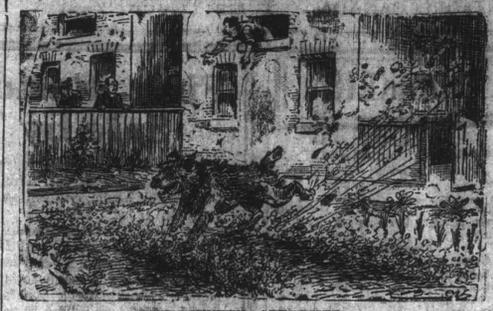

It is a surprise to me, when the works of the S. A. at home and with the boys overseas are so well known, that a citizen of Brantford could so express himself.

Surely the endorsement of His Worship the Mayor, the Chief Constable and the C. W. P. speaks for itself. The S. A. at this time need not apologize for its work. Surely our friend has not tried very hard, for at any time any one of the local officials or the C. O. would have been only too glad to have given him any information.

Thanking you for a space in your valuable paper,
 A. J. Osborne, Superintendent of the S. A. Sunday School.

A CRITICISM.

Sir—One defect in our municipal constitution is that it is too erratic, unlike the British Municipal Constitution it has no connection with past councils except through its officials. It has no personal knowledge of its predecessors' history and precedents and it is selected from one class of citizens only by a complete change every year. It lacks continuity of purpose which broadens slowly down from precedent to precedent. One day you get a considerable expense ordering you to spend from five to ten dollars on new garbage tins (or $25,000 to $30,000 for the whole of the city) and shortly after the Mayor writes to the papers that by his dispensing power he has abolished the tin can ordinance. At another time he proposes to displace the City Engineer or to replace a man in the prime of life with a man of negligible local experience by a young man who might experiment at enormous cost to us to acquire personal reputation. By next Council meeting he has seen further light for some of the town-landers who were here before the flood are unwilling to remove the couldn't make water run uphill during the ten days of waterspouts which fell on the winter snows last spring and had to walk for the river to fall before he got the surface drains to act properly in such frightfully changeable weather. Most people thought our veterans, Howie, Jones and Unger were a pretty good team and had served the city well and some people said a visit to St. Paul's Cathedral and a study of the epitaph on its builder might be valuable to the Mayor. "Si monumentum requiris circumspecte." A little history is good for a man. Some knowledge of it will be useful to the women who will rule us in future by the majority vote. I have always been a supporter of equal suffrage like many other Liberals. John Stuart Mill advocated it before some of us were born. So they should know that Premier Asquith, who suppressed Sir Edward Carson's attempted revolt in Ulster was a wise man as the Kaiser was calculating on that and fomenting it (see H. G. Wells' novel, "Mr. Britling Sees It Through"). He enabled Kitcheener to take the War Office when he was reorganizing the Indian army as he had reorganized the South African and Egyptian armies before, making them all democratic as he made his new army democratic by promoting to high command men like Sir Wm. Robertson, the son of an English agricultural laborer. Asquith had offended the English aristocracy by slipping the claws of the House of Lords and Kitcheener offended them by his promotions from the ranks and his stern abolition of aristocratic pretension to privileges in the army. To competent men in his Union Cabinet Asquith was always fair. Like Napoleon and Kitcheener he gave the tools to the men who could handle them so he steadily backed Lloyd George by giving him place after place in which he could show his energy and talents. He wouldn't be hurried and he wouldn't be worried into false moves. He increased our army to five millions by Kitcheener's advice and re-

CARSON REOPENS IRISH QUESTION IN COMMONS

New Chief Secretary For Ireland Expected to Deliver His First Speech, While Premier is Also Likely to Make Important Announcement—Amunition Seized at Dublin and Belfast

By Courier Leased Wire
 London, June 25.—An important debate was opened in the House of Commons today by Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, who, in accordance with a previous arrangement, raised the whole question of the government's policy in Ireland, with special reference to the recent proclamation of the Lord Lieutenant and the recruiting movement.

The occasion had been awaited with much interest, as it was known that Edward Shortt would make his first speech as chief secretary for Ireland, while it was also expected that Premier Lloyd George would give an important declaration regarding home rule and conscription.

Anticipation that the Irish Nationalists would all themselves grandstanded for the Allied cause, which Asquith voiced in noble oft-quoted words when he flung all the soldiers Britain had ready across the path of the Kaiser in Belgium, and backed them up by three years of hard work and self-sacrifice, while the Northcliffe press were hounding him and Kitchener day and night to put that marvellous triumvirate in power, Carson, Milner and Curzon, with Lloyd George in the position he offered to Asquith, that of Prime Minister without power to govern, was not without some foundation. Well, Mayor MacBride and Mrs. Flora McDonald Denison might have been better employed last Sunday night than in telling and making bitter political speeches about one of our noblest men in the war. So it seems a pity for the Mayor and Council to waste the time in this way-law that the city solicitor publicly advises the Council is illegal. It is a British City Council some veteran aldermen would have pointed out the precedent Mr. Kerby set by his action against a former Brantford Council when they had sold the Market Place for building lots and he would at least have supported Mr. Hurley, the lonely advocate of legality and appeal to the people. You might frame a by-law that would not be illegal, but what is the use of selling the city lands in a way that will expose us to future law suits and give a defective title to the future householder. In a town I know in Wales the city leased its lands for 99 years and has enjoyed a large revenue ever since from the ground rents and fines on renewals, while the builders could sell their houses $500 or $1,000 cheaper because they only leased the ground. From Brantford's development legally we shall get along faster as well as more safely.

Margaret Garrett's Husband
 BY JANE PHELPS

CHAPTER XC.
 A TERRIBLE CONFIDENCE.
 "What could Bob mean? He was very white, and looked so serious I was frightened," said Margaret, trembling. "What could have happened that he must come some purpose to tell me of it? But I asked no questions, somehow I could not. I just stood and watched him as he took off his coat and hat, and then followed him into the library."

"Sit down, Margaret, I want to talk to you. What I have to say may perhaps hurt you, I hope not. But whatever the result, it cannot go unaid any longer."
 He stopped and leaning one elbow on the table he rested his head upon his hand. He was quiet so long that I could stand it no longer and asked:
 "What is it you must tell me?"
 "For some few minutes longer he kept silent. I wanted to say something to him but he still wore that detached, serious look and I hesitated. Finally he commenced again:
 "You remember, Margaret, that when we were married I had just lost my mother. How dear she had loved her, you perhaps have never realized; nor what she was to me. From the time I was a little shaver she had been chums—something you and I never have been. As I grew older, we were comrades, young together. Mother never was too tired, or too busy to welcome and make much of my friends—those of whom she approved. Most of them Margaret, are the same friends you so dislike."
 "I dislike them because they take you from me, and," I interrupted, but he made a motion to silence, then went on:
 "When I grew older and went to college she was still the best pal, the dearest comrade a fellow ever had. Why, I would rather have her come over commencement week than any girl I knew. She entered into all my pleasures; sympathized with my disappointments as no other could do—then," I noticed his hesitation before the word "then," but said nothing; I was too surprised that he should have come back from the party to talk about his mother.

 "She was forever doing things to make me happy. Only to-night Cresmore reminded me of the boxes of goodies she used to send me so that we might have presents in my room; of the Christmas gifts she made, never once forgetting any of the boys who were my companions. Not expensive gifts, but a big fat sofa pillow such as college boys like, or a pretty table cover, or books, something for every one. Is it any wonder that I never got on," he resumed after a moment, "and that sister Adah was just like father, so we did not get on either. After mother left me, it was impossible that I should be happy at home. Then I became acquainted with you, just at the time when my heart was sore and bleeding; when I wanted to write my sorrow; when I felt that nothing mattered, that nothing ever would matter again now that she was gone. I was motherless, I felt homeless, because home without her was no home at all—not for me."
 "But why are you going over all this Bob?" I queried at last.
 "Because I must so that you will understand," again I wondered if he was out of his mind.

"What I came home to tell you," he grew white as chalk. "You were quiet, soothing. Without meaning to I drifted into a sort of dependence on you. You were older, graver than any girl I ever had known; and didn't expect things of me. Things which I had no heart for after mother went. Gradually I commenced to visit you. You were a fine housekeeper; you never annoyed me by light and foolish talk when my heart was sad with my loss. I mistook my feeling for you. It was gratitude, and because I never thought to be happy again, never expected to join in the old gaiety; I let my gratitude to you overshadow me to such an extent that I asked you to marry me."
 "Gratitude—Bob, what are you talking about?" I again interrupted.
 "You cared for me from the first I think, I don't know now; then I was incapable of judging. But as soon as my grief for mother had in a measure worn away—not that I ever shall cease to grieve or her—I knew I had made a mistake. This is hard for me, Margaret, perhaps harder for you, but I must go through with it. I have known for a long time that the feeling I had for you never was love; but gratitude. We are mistamed in every particular. When I bought this house and so was able to enjoy the privacy of my own room I thought perhaps I could go on. But we must come to some understanding. And when I finish talking,—that is for you to say,—and he wearily laid one arm over the other on the table before him.

 Imperial Policy.
 Amsterdam, June 25.—Speaking in the Reichstag at Berlin yesterday on the second reading of the budget, for the Foreign Office and the Chancellor, Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the Foreign Minister, went into some questions of imperial policy, referring first to Germany's relations with her allies.
 "In Austria-Hungary," said von Kuehlmann, "that brilliant representative of her foreign policy, Count Czernin, retired because of internal political reasons. His successor, Baron Dujesic, a well known diplomat, whose loyalty, friendship and devotion to the alliance was assured from the outset. The personal and cordial collaboration which existed in the case of Count Czernin and which contributed to the final settlement and solution of all questions also exists in the case of Baron Dujesic."

SERVICE BUTTONS FOR PARIS "S.O.S."

Boy Farm Workers Presented with Badges for Their Services OTHER NEWS OF PARIS

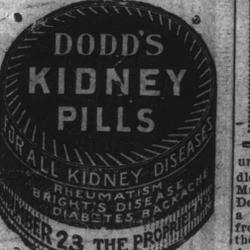

From our own correspondent. Paris, June 24th.—A pleasant time was spent in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. when some 25 boys "Soldiers of the Soil" were presented with their service buttons. Mr. Neigel, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., occupied the chair owing to the unavoidable absence of Mayor C. B. Robinson. Mr. John Harold, M. P. was asked to speak to the boys and in his remarks he said it gave him much pleasure to be able to say a few words to them, so he considered that they could not be employed to any better advantage than on the farm. The Soldiers of the Soil was an appropriate title, and he is sure that the boys would do their best, in trying to help the food question, as when working on the farm you are not only serving the state, but also supporting the soldiers, by the lives of the people of the Allied countries.

Senator Fisher was the next speaker and he said he was delighted to be present on such an occasion and congratulated the boys on their determination to do their bit. He fully endorsed the previous speaker's remarks in regard to the necessity of a larger production, in order to help feed the Allies, and felt sure that every boy would do his duty. Short addresses were also given by Dr. Duntton, Mr. George L. Teller and Mr. John Newton.

The following boys were then presented with service buttons: Howard Bonnar, Martin Webber, Ed. Copeman, L. E. Hitchon, Harry Pink, Earle Bond, Fred W. Morrison, Jack Newton, Stanley Lilley, Louis Foulds, Clarence Wentworth, George Scott, Ed. Flahiff, John Anderson, Fred Key, Will WeClean, Orval Weir, Fred Parkhill, Wade Watson, Ernest Buck, Ralph Nichol, E. Gamble, Roscoe Buck, L. Green, Burt Gill and Austin Nunan.

The meeting was brought to a close by all singing heartily the National Anthem. A most enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pottruff (nee Daisy Folsetter) Brantford township, the other evening, when they entertained the Sunday school teachers from the Presbyterian Church. The teachers motored out from here, when supper was served at 7.30 and all sat down to a bountiful repast. The hostess, the success of which was added to by the spirit of sociability which prevailed. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the happy gathering was called to order when a musical programme was rendered and Mrs. Pottruff favored with several readings. A most enjoyable and profitable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, when all wended their way home with the happy satisfaction of having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Miss Pridham of the Paris High School has resigned, and accepted a position as commercial and art teacher on the staff of the Leatforth Collegiate. Mr. Wm. Hartley, River Street had the misfortune to fall down stairs while at work, breaking a bone in his right ankle. Word has been received in town of the marriage of Marion Weatherald, daughter of Mr. Weatherald of Hamilton, to John West, Toronto, son of the late John West of Paris. The wedding took place last week at the residence of the Assension, Hamilton and Rev. G. S. Tebbis officiated. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. A. W. Irving, and looked charming in a travelling suit of dove grey with Grecian trimmings, and Paris hat, carrying a shower bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by her two nieces, Miss Helen and Bernice Irving, as flower girls. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Irving. The groom is a brother of Mr. Wm. West and Misses West, of Upper Town. On Thursday evening a most enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bell, Jane street, when the estimable couple celebrated their silver wedding. About 40 relatives and friends were present, and a right jolly time was spent in games and music. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were married 25 years ago at Bridgeburg by Rev. Mr. Livingstone, and have resided here ever since. Supper was served in the dining room and the color scheme throughout was pink and white, and when the inner man was fully satisfied a very enjoyable time was spent socially. Many beautiful presents were received, and the wish of the community is that they may be spared to celebrate their golden wedding. Much sympathy will be extended to Mrs. F. Denby, Ball street, in the death of her mother, Mrs. Katharine Denmyer, which took place in Brantford. Deceased was in her 84th year, and was buried at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. A sad death took place early Saturday morning of Miss Mary M. Heddie, at the residence of her brother, Mr. C. M. Heddie, Ranfield street. Deceased was in her 47th year. About a month ago she arrived in town from Australia, intending to spend the summer here with her brother. A few days ago Miss Heddie was taken ill with pneumonia, and passed peacefully away, despite all the care and attention that loving hands could do. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Paris Cemetery. Rev. R. J. Sewan-Adams conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. J. C. Nicholson. The following were the pall-bearers: Mayor C. STANAGE VALUABLE MAN. Detroit, June 25.—Before another week is up Oscar Stanage expects to be in the game again. The return of Stanage will help the Tigers; that is an absolute certainty. But how much help he will give depends upon the condition of the thumb of his throwing hand, which he fractured several weeks ago.

Never has a player with the ability of Stanage received as little credit as Detroit's titanic backstop. We do not mean that other players and writers and owners lacked in appreciation and realization of his value, but the general public never quite knew his worth.

Baker, nervous, was always in action. He jumped around in back of the plate and contributed more movements to each minute of the game than any player we have ever seen. And it made Baker popular.

But to go further on in the investigation. Ask the pitcher. He knows, for it's his business to know and to his advantage. Did they like Baker No. Why? Here is a facsimile answer: "Always hopping around. Can't depend on him. Nervous. Gets excited. Gets you nervous. No balance to his work. Always juggling his arms and legs."

CHESWICK ESTATE SOLD TO GAS WORKS

Picturesque Property in England is Disposed of by Duke of Devonshire

HISTORIC LANDMARK

Attractive Suburb of London

Played Notable Part in Olden Times

Chiswick has played so notable and picturesque a part in times gone by as one of the most attractive and charming suburbs of London, England, that the project of converting the entire property into a site for gasometers, gas and chemical works, has excited a great deal of public indignation; too late, however, it is feared to be of any avail, since the deal is said to have been definitely completed, writes the Marquis de Fontenoy in the New York Evening Sun.

Chiswick is, strictly speaking, a property that belongs to the Duke of Devonshire and comprises not only the fine mansion known as Chiswick House, but also the shady park by which it is surrounded, and several hundreds of acres of meadow land and orchards, known as the Duke's Meadows, and lying on the banks of the Thames half surrounded by the river, where it sweeps in a broad curve from Chiswick church to Strand-on-green.

A Fine Mansion.

Chiswick House was built by Richard Boyle, Earl of Burlington, from a design by Palladio, in the reign of George II, and is accounted to the mansion is by a double flight of steps, the portico being supported by six lofty fluted columns of the Corinthian order.

Throughout the greater portion of the eighteenth century and during the first half of the nineteenth century, Chiswick was the favorite suburban residence and resort of the Lords of Burlington and of the Duke of Devonshire. In 1814 the Duke of Devonshire, and for the Emperor Francis of Austria and the allied sovereigns at a great garden party there. Another one was given for Queen Victoria and for the Prince Consort not long after their marriage, while in 1844 the Duke of Devonshire gave a great entertainment there for Nicholas I. of Russia, for the then King of Saxony, and for a number of other foreign royalties and potentates.

It was at Chiswick House that Charles James Fox went to die in 1806. The bedroom in which he passed away opens into the Italian saloon. Two other persons, including the Duke of Devonshire, died in the same room.

The present King spent much of his time at Chiswick House. For it was frequently loaned by the eighth Duke of Devonshire to Edward VII. and to Queen Alexandra, when Prince and Princess of Wales, for use as a week-end residence, and likewise as sort of a nursery for their children. Just what turned the old Duke and his son and successor against Chiswick I cannot say.

But there is no denying the fact that it fell from grace, and for the past twenty-five years it has been leased for use as a high priced asylum for the rich insane. The patients who have been passing their days in this beautiful retreat, have lived either in the mansion or in one or another of the small lodges in the grounds, which are very extensive and shady, thanks to the stately cedars and wonderful old trees.

Golf Course on Grounds.

The grounds include a nine-hole golf course, tennis courts and other means of recreation, as well as a beautiful lake, and many lawns, three walks, between lofty walls of clipped yew. The land has become, however, too valuable for such uses. The present Duke of Devonshire has long desired to get rid of the place. This wish has been rendered stronger by the prospect of terribly onerous taxation upon land, in order to pay the fiscal burdens of the war. Therefore, being in receipt of an exremely advantageous offer, he does not see why he should refuse to sell. It has been suggested that some of the London Borough Councils or City of London Guilds might buy the property for use as a public farm. But this idea has not met with any response, and, therefore, it looks very much as if Chiswick House, its beautiful gardens and its green and shady meadows were doomed to give way to the unsightly presence of gas and chemical works.

U.S. TELEPHONE GIRLS LEARN MUCH IN FRANCE

Seeing Many Things of Interest While Serving With Army

The young American women who operate the telephone exchanges of General Pershing's army have been abroad for many weeks. The third detachment, thirty-three girls chosen from 1,750 bilingual applicants who were eager to be Uncle Sam's overseas Centralists, arrived in Paris five weeks ago. Letters from members of all three detachments have been received in the United States, says the New York Sun. Some of these, printed in the Telephone Review, are of keen interest to persons who have been curious about the girls' impressions of France. It must be remembered that France was not spiritually a strange land to most of these girls who went fearlessly away from their American homes. Their Christian names, Mathilde, Hortense, Jeanne, etc., indicate their extraction on at least one side of the family. They were Americans, but they had learned French at home; better French we fear than is gained in some of the academies, or at least better adapted to the practicalities of the important duties the girls face. Their French blood makes them feel at home, and some of them write of their fortune in finding relatives abroad.

"When I first got here in France, Captain Vivian, the officer who has charge of us, most kindly allowed me to go out with Tante Jeanne. I had telephoned her and 'Tante Marie' in the morning, and Uncle Albert and Tante Jeanne came and got me. Then we drove to the Majestic and went to her apartment, where she gave me the dearest souvenir to bring me home. This souvenir is an elephant's hair mounted in silver and in the form of a bracelet."

A Hungry Girl

And so on, with dinner and violet and long talks and walks. But, as to the more prosaic life:

"We are accommodated loyally. The house in which we live was originally procured for an officers' club, and appointed accordingly. I sleep two in a room (I room with Suzanne Prevot) and have all conveniences. But what I want to tell you most of all is that when it comes to meals I positively disgrace you. It is as though I were overcome by time I pass a shoe store they dance and beckon and tantalize me. Finally I couldn't stand it any longer and went in rashly, deciding that even if I got a red coat with those high heels and spiffy bows with a uniform, I would get them anyhow to wear in the evenings. The girls soon fairly must have been watching over me because nowhere in that establishment could they find a pair small enough to fit me. It seems that all the women of this town have big feet.

AUSTRIAN COURAGE IS THAT OF DESPAIR

Enemy Harassed by Infantry, Artillery and Aircraft of Allies

Italian Army Headquarters, Sunday, June 23.—(Afternoon).—(By Associated Press).—Cruelly harassed by steady and accurate artillery fire, compelled to face bayonet attacks by the Italians and being constantly bombed by Allied bombers flying at great distances of machine gun and anti-aircraft fire, the Austrians have been fighting recently with the courage of despair. The fighting upon the Carso plateau, east of the Isonzo, are recalled by the repeated examples of valor and endurance shown in the present struggle. Why the Italian armies along the front, they only a stern intention to do or die. There is no effervescent boasting, no victory signs, but a realization that harder fighting lies ahead, and that a stern intention to do or die.

"The word 'Plave' is being written in blood-red letters on Austrian hearts," said a just covered, sweat-soaked officer, who has been fighting every day since Friday and Saturday's lull in the mighty contest for the banks of the Plave. "We are saving the shouting until Austria's plunder expedition is defeated," said a 70-year-old Deputy. "The hills seem like waves. There is an Alpinist's spirit among the troops; among the soldiers telling them that victory is the one way to secure peace."

Behind the lines the civil population is undisturbed, there being but few celebrations. The present victory of the Italian arms is considered by military officials to be greater than that of the Austrians on the Bainsizza Plateau last fall. The Austrian retreat was made more difficult by a violent thunderstorm.

The Italian cavalry took part in the pursuit, harrying the fugitives. As the Austrians were pressed by the Italians they threw away their guns and equipment. They even left the Montello stacks of bread, canned meat and preserves which Austrian aviators had succeeded in bringing to them.

The Austrians crossed the Plave on the banks of which they had brought up or had prepared during the darkness of Saturday night. They left well built trenches, great quantities of ammunition and blankets and every variety of army equipment in their retreat.

TWO YEARS FOR PTE. LILLEY.

Kingston, June 23.—Pte. Robert Lilley, who made his escape from Barrfields Camp on Thursday, was arraigned in Police court yesterday morning, and pleaded guilty to the charge of desertion, was sentenced to two years in Portsmouth penitentiary.

Lilley has an unenviable record as a deserter. He deserted from a Forestry unit in France and came to Barrfields here he was successful in deceiving the authorities, and for a time he aided the British-Canadian recruiting Mission. Later he was arrested on a charge of desertion, but escaped by shooting the policeman who had him in charge. He was later arrested in Toronto, but again he escaped, but was caught at Guelph. Since then he escaped twice from Barrfields, Canada. He asked the magistrate for the chance to return to France, but was told he would have to apply to the Minister of Militia.

AUSTRIAN CABINET QUILTS

Amsterdam, June 24.—Discussing events which led up to the resignation of the Austrian cabinet, a Vienna dispatch to The Voestische Zeitung of Berlin says that Baron Tschirsky, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, took the position that he was unable to make a declaration against the cessation of east Galicia as the Poles demanded, because it was a purely internal affair. Premier von Zeidler was ready to declare that the partition of Galicia should come only by constitutional methods, namely, as a two-third majority in the Reich.

The Poles, however, demanded an expressed declaration that partition was out of the question and also demanded a binding promise from the German parties regarding an Austro-Polish solution.

Prime Minister Hughes, From Heroic Australia, Visits This Continent

HERE are few more interesting men in the world than the Right Honorable William M. Hughes, whose arrival at a Pacific port was announced during the last week of May. Dockery, labor leader, politician in Australia; statesman and orator both in Australia and in the British Isles, Mr. Hughes received a welcome from the people of the United States as one who typifies in another commonwealth qualities of true British democracy.

It is little more than two years ago now since Mr. Hughes passed across this continent on his way to England. He was then little known in London and far less in Ottawa or Washington. But in two brief months he had become a commanding figure in British politics and about him centred a movement to "ginger up" the war.

His speeches attracted an attention which they deserved and at a critical time in the war had an influence which cannot be exaggerated. He literally took England by storm and scored a real success in France.

After his successful English visit the Prime Minister returned to Australia to engage in a fight for conscription, in which he was beaten. But despite his defeat he remained the leader of his country and the exponent of Australian determination to fight it out. A little man in physique, unmistakably familiar with hard work, a Welshman, like David Lloyd George, a dangerous opponent in debate, a good fighter, a democrat, William M. Hughes has earned a place in Allied council and in Allied affairs as one of the men who have helped to keep the fight going and to make the victory possible.

Before he left Australia two years ago he gave orders for the elimination of German influence from the great metal industries of Australia. "If they should ask me how it was to be done, before God I could not tell them," he once remarked, "but they know that I will find a way." This is "Billy" Hughes. He did find a way.

It is to be hoped now that there will be a chance for the Canadian people to hear his virile words and receive the information and encouragement which he brings from Australia. There are few men in the world living outside our own frontiers who more thoroughly understand and sympathize with Canadian ideas and Canadian ideals than Mr. Hughes. And he should be, therefore, a welcome and an honored guest in the Dominion.

The Sun's Heat.

Why is the air generally much colder a mile above the earth than near the ground? The heat of the atmosphere comes from the sun, but by a somewhat indirect process. The incoming sunbeams are only slightly absorbed by the dry air at high levels, and so have little effect on its temperature. In the lower regions of the atmosphere there is always a considerable amount of water vapor (water in the form of gas), and this substance has a relatively large capacity for absorbing heat from sunshine. Lastly, the earth absorbs all the heat that falls upon it, and then gives it back, by radiation or conduction, to the air above it. Thus the atmosphere is mainly heated from below and not from above. Air heated near the ground tends to rise, but it cools rapidly in rising. As it reaches higher levels the pressure upon it is less; it expands, pushing away the surrounding air, and it uses up in this work some of the energy that it originally possessed in the form of heat. This process is referred to by scientists as "adiabatic cooling."

Time's Changes.

"Times have changed," mused Broncho Bob. "Times have changed," "Crinon Gulch does seem less turbulent."

"No doubt about it. In the old days if a tenderfoot refused to take a drink with the boys, they'd shoot at him. Now if they catch one trying to bring a bottle into town with him, they have him arrested."

Paper Rugs.

Rugs are now being made entirely from fine tissue paper and mixtures of paper and wool. The tissue paper is twisted into thread and woven into a compact heavy mat or fabric.

Germs of disease should be promptly expelled from the blood. This is a case where the system is especially susceptible to them. Get rid of all impurities in the blood by taking Blood's purgative, and thus fortify your whole body and prevent illness.

Music and Drama

THE REX.

Crowded houses were drawn by the Rex yesterday for the first showing of "The Adventures of Dot," a picture taken entirely in Brantford, with Brantfordites forming the cast. The leading roles in the production are taken by Mrs. Morton Paterson, Miss Muriel Whitaker, Mr. Charles Draper and Mr. Nelson McNamee, while other notables appearing on the screen are Chief Lewis of the Fire Department, Sergt. Donnelly of the police force, and His Worship Mayor MacBride. Brantford scenic beauties are used to excellent advantage in the production, and an unusual degree of talent is shown by many of the players. "The Adventures of Dot," which is shown under the auspices of Brant Chapter, I.O.D.E., will appear at the Rex all week. Death Farnum also appears in the first half of the week in "North of Fifty-Three," a powerful story set in the rugged, snow-covered wilds of the great Canadian Northwest. The popular star appears at his best in the role of Roaring Bill Westfalo, while Miss Winnifred Kingston plays opposite him with her usual charm. The final chapter of "The Lost Express," and a Pathe comedy, featuring Lonesome Luke, the other attractions upon the motion picture program, while a clever singing and talking vaudeville offering is also a feature.

THE BRANT.

William S. Hart, foremost purveyor of rugged western roles before the screen to-day, is seen at the front the first of this week in his latest Arteract production, "The Tiger Man," a forceful picture, with the star—as usual—in the role of an outlaw regenerated by the love of a good woman. Yet the story is unlike any of Hart's previous ones, and is new and original, abounding in thrilling moments and holding the attention of all throughout. Denkins, McCarthy and Everett present a First Part Minstrel Show, a clever comedy offering with lively musical features. Polly Moran and a stellar cast of Mack Sennett fun-makers appear in "Sheriff Nell's Tussle," while the latest episode of "The Eagle's Eye," the serial depicting German intrigue in America, and featuring King Baggott and Marguerite Show, is also shown.

The Romance of Lighthouses

IN these days of darkened coast lines, danger zones, and forbidden seas, the lighthouse, in many cases, is having a very unwanted rest, for there is one thing especially notable about a lighthouse, it is that it must never be off duty.
Many, indeed, of the most remarkable stories, whether fact or fiction, connected with them have been bound up with determination of the keeper never to fall in the lighting of his lamps. And so the longshoreman, far away, at sea, counts on the lights appearing at the appointed hour, and they have a common bond in the white or red shaft which from dusk to dawn, year in and year out sweeps round the horizon of land and sea.

In the early days, of course, there were no refinements of this kind in the way of lights, moving or stationary. On the tops of the towers built by the Libyans and Cushites in lower Egypt, many centuries before the Christian era, great fires were lighted and kept replenished by the priests.
And so it was for 2,000 years or more; the lighthouse of antiquity and the Middle Ages was a beacon tower, and many of them are still to be found up and down the world to-day.
They were often wonderful structures. The tales, for instance, that are told of the famous Pharos of Alexandria, built by Sostratus of Cyrene in the reign of Ptolemy II., would make the structure a serious competitor with the Eiffel Tower.
No less than 600 feet in height, it was, for more than 1,400 years, regarded as one of the wonders of the world. Evidence in support of the statement is, it is true, what the scholars would call "doubtful," but, at any rate, Sostratus' wonderful creations has come to be regarded as the patriarch of all lighthouses, and has given its name to the art of lighthouse building, although the average man might fall in a definition of Ptolemy II. as the guiding spirit in the construction of the Pharos is not known, but lighthouse building was a special joy of kings and princes. Thus the very earliest example of the wave-swept light-house, the famous light of Cordouan, on a rock in the sea at the mouth of the Gironde, owes its beginning to Louis IX. Debonnaire, whilst the second tower to be built there was erected by Edward the Black Prince.

And yet it was reserved for a countryman of Henry Winstanley, the Eddystone Light, off the coast of Devon. For many years before the day of Henry Winstanley, the Eddystone reef, which, swept by the sea at high tide, lies south some fourteen miles south-southwest of Plymouth mouth, had taken its toll of ships.
Lying close to the entrance of the Channel, the reef is fully exposed to the southwest sea, and, at about the end of the Seventeenth Century, Win-stanley submitted plans for the building of a lighthouse there. Gaining permission to try, he set to work with a will, and gradually there began to rise out of the waters a wonderful structure. Fashioned for the most part of wood, it was built on a polygonal plan, highly ornamented with galleries and projections. Its construction was attended with many adventures. One especially should be mentioned, wherein the redoubtable Henry, whilst superintending his work, was carried off by French privateers, and not released for several months.

When he was released, however, he went back at once to Plymouth and resumed his task on the Eddystone light. The tower was finished, and the light exhibited for the first time. There were those who doubted, who called the strange top-heavy structure, so reminiscent of the ships of the period, and declared that the first great storm would blow it into the sea. But Henry was certain that he had builded true, and he declared that he wished for himself nothing greater than that the first great storm should find him inside his lighthouse.
And so, indeed, it happened. Towards the middle of November in the year 1703, the southwest wind began to blow up the Channel with mighty force, as it does still to-day, on occasion. Winstanley made his way to the Eddystone Light, and, on the night of the 20th, he and his tower were swept away.

Winstanley had, however, done a great and memorable service. He had proved the possibility of building a lighthouse on the reef, where it was so greatly needed, and, when his tower erected his tower there three years later, he profited much with Winstanley's mistakes. His tower withstood the height of some seventy-two feet above the sea. Smeaton's tower was more truly than the rock on which it was built, for it was only the undermining of the foundation which compelled the Corporation of Trinity House, 118 years afterwards, to build a new tower on sounder rock. All this is, of course, about a lighthouse in particular, but, then, about lighthouses in general there is the same family likeness as about the world's sea. To know one well is to be introduced to all the others.

spectively.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Moscow, Tuesday, June 12—(By the Associated Press)—An understanding has been reached between Russia and Austria that pending final agreement regarding the repatriation of war prisoners, able-bodied prisoners may be exchanged immediately, head for head, in number as great as the carrying capacity of railroads and other means of transportation permit. It is also stipulated that civil prisoners of military age shall be released.

COMMISSIONER SHOT

By Courier Leased Wire.
Bulliet, Moscow, Friday, June 21—(Associated Press)—General Pershing's communique for yesterday received to-day at the War Department, is as follows:
"In spite of opposition we again improved our positions northwest of Chateau Thierry. In this region the artillery on both sides continues active. In the Vosges, where pa-troling has been very active, a raid attempted by the enemy was repulsed."

PERSHING'S COMMUNIQUE

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, June 24—A member of the Czechoslovak National Council is now trying to arrange for the transportation of his compatriots at Vladivostok and in Siberia to the French front, which they are anxious to reach at the earliest moment. From the Czechoslovakian former captain in the Russian army and after a few days in Tokio will go to the United States to consult Professor Masaryk, the Bohemian leader now in Washington. He conferred with the French ambassador and had arranged to see the Japanese foreign minister and the Japanese chief of staff. He was hopeful of securing transports and the correspondent of The Times says that ought not to be an insuperable task.
