A CRYSTAL LIGHT.

Doesn't that suggest a clear, bright light? That is why the name CRYSTALITE was chosen.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE is a crystal light, giving forth mellow, penetrating rays. It gives no smoke nor smell, and is good to the last drop.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE will not fluctuate, it gives a steady glow.

The next time you buy illuminating oil don't merely ask for "a gallon of kerosene". Ask for TEXACO CRYSTALITE and find out why this illuminating oil is known as "the light of the home".

TEXACO CRYSTALITE costs no more than ordinary kinds and most good stores have it.

Remember the name. It will be worth your while to discriminate.

YES

A few minutes after Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, a burn, a scratch, or any sore place, the pain is stopped. Mothers should never forget this, because it is one reason why Zam-Buk is the best thing for children's injuries. It stops their crying and gives them ease. Right from the instant of application healing begins, and Zam-Buk heals quickly. Note these statements from reliable persons, some of whom you may know.

Baby's Sore Healed.
"My baby girl had a bad sore on her chin, which was very painful, and caused her to be very restless. We put on some Zam-Buk, and in a wonderfully short time it gave her ease. In a few days the sore was completely healed."
Mrs. E. COCKAN, Yorkton, Sask.

Rusty Nail Pierced Finger.
"I ran a rusty nail under my thumb nail while at work. The pain was terrible and I feared blood-poisoning from the dirty, rusty nail! I melted some Zam-Buk and ran it into the wound, and it stopped the pain almost instantly. It kept away inflammation and in a few days the wound was quite healed."
Mr. A. H. ORR,
Shipley, Ont.

A Bad Burn.
"In moving some wood in the stove, I burned my thumb very badly. In a few minutes it was covered with a big white blister, and the pain was very bad. Zam-Buk was applied, and in quick time it gave me ease!"
H. E. JENSEN, Organist, Carman, Man.

Take this Advice:
If you have some sore place, some skin disease, some cut, or burn or ulcer, why continue to suffer pain? Every hour you suffer is an hour wasted. You cannot do your best work in pain; you cannot enjoy your leisure. Zam-Buk saves far more than it costs, by saving you time in this way.

Zam-Buk is a "short-cut" to skin healing. There is nothing which acts so quickly as it so surely. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases, Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poison, etc., and for Piles. All druggists and stores, 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

CHAPTER III.

"And I—don't know," answers Sydney, her voice dropping, as it always does when she speaks of her mother, who never gives the younger-born more place in her pursuits than she does in her heart. Then, still swinging softly, she thinks profoundly a minute or two, and the outcome of her meditation is—

"I wish, Taffy, I always lived with you, if papa came every day to see me."

Which says more than she intends, for Nurse looks sorry as she answers, "Nay, my pretty. Mr. Alwyn couldn't afford that nowadays!"

"Not afford it! Do I cost so much to keep?"

Nurse is glad of something to laugh at.

"Why, afford to spare you, Miss Sydney, I mean. Your cost ain't much! We wouldn't mind keeping you for nothing."

"Oh, then," says the child, "if I— but she breaks off abruptly, disturbed by the sound of an approaching step.

The little gate at the end of the garden path is unlatched, and striding between sweet-williams and Canterbury-bells, up comes a tall, big-framed lad, with reddish-brown curly hair, and eyes over which he draws his darker brows as if to keep the glare of sunshine off.

Sydney ceases swinging to watch, a trifle jealously, as Taffy gets up and joyfully greets this new-comer with—

"Why, Master Bertie, back again from school! Oh, I ask pardon, my old head can't keep up with such a lot of new names; anyhow, back and not grown too proud to come and see me, I declare!"

"Back!" repeats the youth, as he gives her welcoming hands a hearty shake. "Yes, and likely to keep back. But proud!" flinging himself on the end of the bench under the laburnum

"It's a little late in the day for me to set up in that line, I promise you. For, oh, Taffy, do you know we are in a muddle and no mistake!"

Then he leans forward till he brings his face, with the square-chin resting in his large, nervous hand, close to Nurse Taverner's shoulder, and plunges into the story of whatever escapade or veritable trouble he has just hinted at.

Sydney hears nothing of it all, for when, assured that he is a stranger to her, or nearly so, she has just a glimmering notion she has seen him somewhere, in the town perhaps, and that nurse and he want to talk together, she intuitively turns her back upon the pair, and gives her undivided attention to a couple of black-caps chasing each other in and out among the apple-leaves. But presently she started "Good sakes alive!" from the old woman attracts her attention, and she looks round while Taffy says something else, of her apparently, for most certainly it is at her the boy's deep-set eyes flash the wrathful glance she is just in time to catch, as he exclaims passionately.

"An imp of evil! I hate her!"

"Oh, Master Bertie, do hush!" The child's senses, on the alert now, hear her old friend plead, and then she jumps down from her swing, runs off past Mr. Lewis hoing French beans in his shirt-sleeves, and hides herself and a babyish disposition to cry in a grove of currant-bushes at the furthest corner of the garden.

Somebody says he hates her, and she has never hurt that some one! Why does he hate her—her, when she does so love to be loved? He has called her a dreadful sort of name which she is positive she can't deserve. Will many people treat her like this as she grows older? A fright of the future overtakes her. A great quail of aggrieved injustice sets sobbing and falling under her fading daisy chain, and her sensitive little soul, inured by now to cold neglect, frets sorely at the notion of active unmerited dislike.

In the midst of her distress the intruding origin of it, his conference with Taffy at an end, stalks homeward-bound along the lane outside, and Sydney, no coward howsoever soft-hearted, dries up her tears, peeps at him over the hedge, and arrests his steps before he has passed the bounds of Mr. Lewis's tidy plots.

He is not by any means a grown-up man, she thinks, manhood being identical in her mind, with gray hairs such as her father has, so she has to choose a form of address for him as she climbs over a separating stile; which point settled, she confronts him and demands, with an odd mixture of the imperious and the willful—

"Boy, why do you hate me? Stop and tell me, please."

The lad colors awkwardly, and begins to frown again, but looking from his great height on the exceedingly anxious little face upturned to him, he relents and tries to stave the matter off as a species of joke.

"Oh, that was nothing, little one! Only some of my—my nonsense. Don't you trouble about anything you heard."

"But I must trouble," Sydney persists; "I didn't like it at all. You said I was a—nymph of evil. Why?"

The lad, hard pressed, caught at her blunder.

"I never said you were a 'nymph' of anything."

"Well, something of that sort, you did, indeed; something—unkind!" the great sad eyes again filling with tears.

"But I really never meant to be unkind to you, honor bright I didn't," cried the lad, blinking down at her with very uncertain gaze—truth to tell, he wouldn't be sorry to descend to her level and, for all his five feet ten inches, to let loose some of his private vexations in a good hearty "howl"—but I am awfully bothered, and I—I was angry with some one else, and I didn't think of what I said. That is the truth. So just you forget all you heard."

Sydney sighs, relieved, but not fully satisfied.

"Then you don't hate me?"

"No, no—nonsense! Certainly not." A great breath of growing contentment.

"I am glad," emphatically, "and you won't be cross with me ever any more?"

"Why should I?"

"But you won't?"

"Well, I won't, then."

"Thank you. Now you may go away, boy. Good-bye."

She slips her threepenny-bit of a sand into one of his huge ones, and makes her farewell with such a glad, altered countenance, that he is smitten with remorse for having vexed such a small innocent thing. So he stoops down and gives her a kiss with a furtive glance about, as if afraid lest a bird on the wing should catch sight of the harmless peacemaker.

"There, run off," he says, lifting her clean over the stile with one sweep of his great strong arms; "go back to Taffy. Or, no, look here," his brows knitting again, "play about 'tst a few minutes. And I say," holding her still by a great hunch of olland frock and red sash, "never you mind if people are cross now and then. Take my advice and don't care about it. Good-bye."

He stops to see her safely traverse Lewis's long garden, and when he has started, turns back once more to watch the dark-haired child passing on through the orchard.

"Poor little thing!" he mutters though his tone of pity is at variance with the scowl that gathers on his face again; "poor little thing!" and for all the wrath he may be nursing, carries away with him a kindly recollection of the tender-spirited seven-year-old maid, whom, in spite of all he was to owe her, he was never in this world to see again.

CHAPTER IV.

Memory has a trick of placing her pegs so irregularly, especially in the brains of the young, and hanging upon them incidents so detached from their surroundings, that while the afternoon recorded still stands vividly in the foreground of Sydney's young days, its sequence of events faded clean out of mind; perhaps because changes came thick and fast just then.

In point of fact, however, when the child had strayed among the fruit-trees long enough, according to her calculations, to dry off the traces of tears upon her cheeks, and hide these signs of woe from Taffy's sharp eyes; and when she returned through the back door of the cottage, between the wash-tubs on their settles and the wheelbarrow poised for the night on what she called "its hind-legs," to the flag-floored room where tea was mostly ready by this hour, she found indeed, the meal prepared, but, for a wonder, left unguarded, while, taking joyful advantage of this negligence, a marauding puss from a neighboring establishment was seated on the table, and both the natural guardians of these viands were standing far down the path by the gate, talking to no other than Havens, the Gusswick coachman.

"Papa! Where's papa?" cried Sydney, running forward. "Is he come for me?"

An instant silence fell upon the group. Then nurse, shaking her head at the others, came forward, explaining that Mr. Alwyn hadn't come but "her little miss had" got to go home."

"So come along and let you an' me get your things packed up, my deary," said the old woman, in rather a quavering voice ("nurse doesn't like my going," thought the child, and coaxed the old wrinkled hand caressingly); and together the two speedily collected the small wardrobe though Taffy was so absent-minded she had to open the bag half a dozen times for articles well-nigh forgotten. Then she hugged Sydney wonderfully tight, and kept close, though some what trembling, hold of the child as they left the tiny whitewashed sleeping room, not loosing her till she was safely bestowed in her nook by Haven's side, and ready to start.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9888.—A Dainty Dress for the "TINY TOT."

9888

Children's Dress with Yoke and Long or Shorter Sleeve. In High or Low Round Collarless Style.

Lawn, muslin, dimity, crossbar muslin, crepe voile, mul. silk, percale, cashmere, or flannellette may be used for this design. It has simple lines, is easy to make and pretty. The finish could be lace or embroidery for a "best" dress, while if made of muslin, a yoke of "all over" would be nice, with a simple hem finish. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 3 year size, with 2 1/2 yards of 4 inch edging for ruffle.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

9886.—A PRACTICAL AND PLEASING HOUSE OR HOME DRESS.

Ladies' House Dress (In Raised or Normal Waistline) with Long or Shorter Sleeve.

Black and white checked gingham, with facings of white flannelette is here shown. The design would be pretty in figured lawn or dimity, or in a neat percale pattern. For serviceable wear it would look well in gray or blue striped seersucker, with collar, cuffs and facings in contrasting color. For afternoon or porch wear, there are many dainty materials, also in ans and ratines, that will lend themselves admirably to this style. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 40 inch material for a 34 inch size. The skirt measures 1 1/2 yard at the foot, in a medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

WONDER IF I AM.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine who is very much addicted to procrastination was being criticised for her fault. She defended herself with considerable heat and quite a little logic. Indeed she spoke so convincingly that her critic was silent, and I, the third party was quite convinced. And then, having so successfully justified herself, she started up by remarking thoughtfully, "I wonder if I am a terrible procrastinator?" That remark was to me a key to the girl's character, which is one of unusual strength and sweetness. It made it evident that one of the reasons for her development was that she did not entirely reject all criticism in the facile way of the average person. Criticism,—something to defend yourself against as cleverly as possible and then forget. That is the definition of nine people out of ten. Probably they wouldn't admit it if you taxed them with it (any more than they would admit any criticism) but they prove that they hold that definition by living according to it.

Of course part of the primal instinct of self-preservation is the instinct of self-defense, and that applies to criticism as well as to any other kind of an attack.

Just as instinctively as a man lifts up his arm to ward off a blow on his body, so, automatically and without stopping to think, the average person rears up a defense of explanation and self-justification against any blow of criticism aimed at his conduct.

But the thing that measures a man is what he does after he has defended himself. Does he immediately forget the criticism, or does he open the door of his mind to conviction, and even wonder if there may not be something in the criticism after all.

We need more of this "I wonder if I am" spirit. It is the foundation on which progress and growth are built. It is the anti-drifting spirit.

And we need something more than the query made in a desultory "can't-be-so-fashion with our mind already convinced of the opposite.

We need an honest, vigorous "I wonder if I am." We need to be able to call an unprejudiced jury to consider the matter and to present before it arguments for both sides as nearly unprejudiced as it is possible for weak human beings to make them.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

E.W. GILLET CO. LTD. TORONTO, ONT. WINNIPEG - MONTREAL

Household Notes.

It is best not to put the eggs of the dower egg beater in water.

Coffee stains should be treated with boiling water when fresh.

When fish are fresh the flesh is firm, the eyes and gills are bright.

To remove chocolate stains, soak in kerosene and wash in cold water. Fried food should never be allowed to become cold before serving.

Fish should never be put into the ice-box with other food unless closely covered.

It is a wise precaution to pour boiling soda water down the sink every morning.

Pure glycerine is a very good remedy for chafing a cut and causing it to heal.

Twice the quantity of coffee should be used when making after-dinner coffee.

Coffee should be bought for family use in small quantities, freshly roasted and ground.

A cupful of liquid is all the cup will hold. A tea or table spoonful is all the spoon will hold.

Long white gloves that are worn out can be cut up into convenient pieces for the nail buffer.

The curtain and portiere poles will allow the hangings to slip easily if rubbed with hard soap.

When sauces are set away, put a few bits of butter on the top to prevent a crust from forming.

For making good pastry, pastry flour and the best shortening, thoroughly chilled, should be used.

Hard-boiled eggs will open more smoothly if before cutting them open you dip the knife in cold water.

Cut flowers will revive if plunged into boiling water and allowed to remain there until the water is cold.

Finger marks can easily be removed from furniture with a cloth which has been dipped in sweet oil.

When measuring butter or lard, or any solid fat, pack solidly into the cup or spoon, leveling with a knife.

If you are so unfortunate as to scorch linen, try an application of peroxide, lightly dabbing the stain.

Jelly bags, pudding cloths and strainer cloths should be put into clear, warm water immediately after using.

When brown sugar has become hard and lumpy, put it in a pan and stir it over a vessel of boiling water.

Tortoise-shell objects that have become dull will regain their beauty if cleaned with a little olive oil or vase line.

A little soap added to the starch water will prevent the irons from sticking. The soap will also make the things glossy.

Paste for pies should be one-fourth of an inch thick and rolled a little larger than the plate, to allow for shrinking.

The gloss on the table cloth is the result of ironing the article while it is thoroughly damp and not allowing it to become dry.

Irons should never be allowed to become red hot, as this makes them rough, and they never retain the heat throughout afterward.

A glass jar filled with water and placed in the bottom of the piano if said to keep the piano in tune and prevent the wood from warping.

Cool when red hot has parted with most of its heat. If the dampers are kept open too long, most of the heat will escape up the chimney.

Brick floors can be cleaned with little trouble if you sprinkle the floor with washing soda, then pour boiling water over it and scrub with a stiff broom.

Conservation of Canadian Lobster Fishery

The wonderful productiveness of the Canadian sea-shores is such that the lobster industry is still carried on on a vast scale, and the total monetary value of the lobster fishery is greater than ever, but the annual returns are really misleading, because while the supply of lobsters is declining, the price has so materially advanced that the total value is greater to-day than at any previous period. Thus, in 1880, lobster brought $5 a case, whereas last year the price realized was nearly four times that amount.

In the case of the oyster, though the number of barrels annually produced on the Canadian beds is only half what it was ten years ago, the price per barrel has increased about the same ratio as the price of lobsters, and is now four times what it was in 1880.

SOPER & MOORE

The following points are worthy of attention in considering the present condition of the lobster industry:

1. The size of lobsters has materially declined, great catches being of very much smaller average size than in former years, while the fishing operations are carried on over a very much larger area, and with greatly increased number of traps, and in deeper water, and, in most districts, with the assistance of motor boats.

2. The traps used are more effective and destructive than formerly, and the parlour and other forms of trap have replaced the lobster pot used in past years.

3. There is a tendency in some localities to increase the small catches and, in such canneries, to either pack the fishermen's catches on share or to pack them for the fisherman, charging a rate agreed upon for the cost of cans and the labor.

4. While the size limit has been ignored, and was practically a dead letter when various size limits were in force in the different lobster districts, the fishermen realize that the taking of small lobsters has been detrimental. In such localities as the shores of Grand Manan Island, a large size limit seems to have been observed. It is a widespread opinion that, by returning small lobsters to the water and marketing only the large lobsters, the value of the catch has been increased. But, in general, fishermen do not favor a size limit and some canneries would, for a time, be closed, were the eight or nine-inch limit enforced generally. All, however, are convinced that the berried lobster—the female lobster carrying eggs—must be protected.—Rod and Gun, for March.

CANES.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." The cane is a necessity of old age and a luxury of youth.

Old men and a great many young men find it impossible to walk without a cane. But not for the same reason.

It is the duty of the cane to support an old man. But it is the duty of a stylish young man to support a cane.

If a feeble old man were to go forth without a cane, he would fall down and injure himself grievously. In the other hand, if a proper young man were to leave his home and abandon his cane, he would feel as guilty as if he had left a helpless child to its fate.

Old men grasp the cane firmly by the handle and rest the other end upon the walk. But if a young man were to do this he would make himself the subject of a great deal of comment. Except when propping himself up while standing in conversation, the young man does not abuse his cane by jamming it into the hard, concrete walk. He handles it tenderly and guards the ferrule from injury.

And on the end of a young man's cane is as disgraceful as mud on his collar.

The green and awkward young man is greatly afflicted by his cane. He ticks it into cracks in the walk, forgets it in public places and has to hold it between his legs when he puts on his gloves. It takes several years to learn to wear a young man's cane properly. And the worst of it is the fact that when a man really needs a cane he has to unlearn all that he has learned about it in his gay and carefree youth.

The cane is very useful to the old man. But it also serves a purpose for the young man. While a young man is managing a cane, he has no chance to carry his hands in his pockets. If the cane could only be improved so that it would keep its wearer's hands out of other pockets, too, it would be made a compulsory decoration by a grateful nation.

Technical Education.

A strenuous campaign is being conducted in the eastern provinces of the Dominion of Canada, to popularize Technical Education. In almost any issue of the newspapers which come to hand from these parts, will be found a report of a lecture by Dr. Robertson on this subject, and giving the results of the Commission of which he was chairman, which travelled throughout the States, Great Britain and Ireland, and several countries in Europe investigating what was being done in vocational training. Dr. Robertson especially emphasizes the industrial revolution which has been effected in Denmark by means of Technical training and co-operative effort, decayed agriculture has been stimulated and revived and made the most prosperous in Europe in the course of a period of twenty years. He also lays much stress on the transformation which is being effected in Ireland by the same means. The report of the Canadian Commission has been published. It is lengthy and takes up four volumes. The whole effort should stimulate us in Newfoundland to be up and doing. For we are undoubtedly very backward in provision of this nature and especially in the matter of night schools, where very much of this kind of training is being done elsewhere on those who are at work in the day time. Some little work has been done in the past, but those efforts have lapsed after a time. Another effort is being made under Capt. Saunders, which deserves support. What is wanted, however, is a scheme which shall form part of the regular government machinery. It may be remembered that such a policy forms a plank in the platform of the Opposition Party, as laid down in the Manifesto of Sir Robert Bond. But we need to go further and to reform gradually our whole school curriculum, in such a way as to development of the full activities of the child. We are pleased to find that Miss Dawson, of Bishop Spencer College, dwelt on this phase of Education in the "paper" she read before the Current Events Club. We clip out a few paragraphs, which are "to the point."

"From time immemorial the three R's have been regarded as of primary importance, whilst singing, drawing and physical exercises were considered as of secondary value. Oral composition being unheard of, the splendid art of modelling, story-telling, and dramatized history were considered as wicked inventions.

"To form a new curriculum, we must place the subjects according to educational value, that is, beginning with the purely primary, and ending with the purely derivative.

"A modern curriculum drawn up by well known psychologists has been adapted in several schools in England with most satisfactory results. It is as follows:—

1. Physical activities—including manual occupations.
2. Nature Study in its broader sense.
3. Oral speech—including story-telling and music.
4. Drawing, (taught specially).
5. Arithmetic.
6. Reading.
7. Writing and Spelling."

Preparing For Bazar.

The committee in charge of preparations for the C. L. B. Bazaar met yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Clift presiding. Various plans were discussed for some new attractions that will be offered to patrons in order to enhance the success of the affair. These novel features will include wireless telegraphy, a shooting gallery and gentlemen's club room. At the next meeting, which will take place in the Armoury, the final arrangements will be made.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mrs. Murphy, wife of the late Patrick Murphy, wishes to thank Miss Duncan and nurses, Drs. Brehm and Campbell for their kindness and attention to her and her little son and nephew during their illness at the Fever Hospital; also to thank the doctors and nurses of the General Hospital for their kindness to her little daughter, Agnes, while at that institution.—adv,11

TESTIMONIALS.

To Dr. F. Stafford & Son, Dear Sirs,— I strongly recommend your Prescription "A" to all sufferers with Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I used all kinds of medicine and consulted various specialists without cure. I saw your Prescription "A" advertised in the papers and tried a few bottles and it made a perfect cure of me.

MRS. HALL, Hayward Ave., St. John's.

To Dr. F. Stafford & Son, Dear Sirs,— I am sending you 60 cents in stamps. Please send me one 50 cent bottle of Prescription "A", the 10 cents balance will pay for postage. You sent me a trial bottle a short while ago and it almost cured my wife and I think another 50 cent bottle will make a cure. I have tried doctors and all kinds of medicines but I don't believe that there is any medicine that can cure a bad stomach like Stafford's Prescription "A". I am more than thankful that you advertised this medicine. Please forward as quick as possible.

P. S.— Call at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and see these testimonials for yourself.

Overdue Vessel Turns Up.

Barq. E. S. Hocken Reported Safe— Forced back to Barbados Owing to Adverse Weather.

The barquentine E. S. Hocken, Capt. Martyn, seventy days out from Macleod to this port in ballast to A. S. Rendell & Company, as reported elsewhere in this issue, has turned up safely.

To-day a message was received from Barbados to the effect that the vessel had put in there, having been forced back owing to stress of weather. No further particulars were received and it is not known whether the vessel met with any damage or not. However, news of her safe arrival will be received with genuine gladness and will allay the grave concern expressed. The "Hocken" carried a crew of eight hands, besides Capt. Martyn's son, who was a passenger on board.

Marine Notes.

The schr. Waterwitch, Capt. Moore, will go on the floating dock on Thursday next to be re-coppered. After the necessary repairs are effected she will load codfish at Bowring Bros. for the Brazilian market.

The schr. Jean, Capt. Burke, will leave Barbados during the week to load codfishes for this port.

The schr. Freedom, Capt. Herald, enters the floating dock to-morrow to be re-coppered.

Train Notes.

being "pastry" flour, is just plain talk. Anyone, that Western wheat

flour cannot and does not, make as good Pastry as "Beaver" Flour.
Western wheat has what the bakers call strength. It makes a big loaf of bread—but the bread is spongy and lacks flavor. Ontario wheat, blended with spring wheat, makes the ideal bread and pastry flour.
The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the agricultural colleges—and thousands of homes in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any Western wheat flour, and is equally good for Bread and Pastry.

Divorced Life.

By HELEN HESSONG FUSSELL.
Absorbingly interesting serial novel each day exclusively in The Evening Telegram.
Is divorce an evil?
Is it a menace to American life?
Does divorce lower or raise the standard of womanhood?
Is it the easy solution of marital unhappiness?
Just what is the price that modern life exacts from a divorce?
These and hundreds of equally vital questions are answered by Helen Fussell in her absorbing daily serial story entitled "Divorced Life," which will appear each week day exclusively in The Evening Telegram. The story of what befell Marian Winthrop, a young woman who, after two years of married life, obtains a divorce, is related in it.

"Divorced Life" is a cross section of the life of the great middle class, giving with reality, it sets forth the high lights and low lights of a divorced career, along with the middle lights which testify that the most commonplace episodes of a woman's life, especially when viewed and narrated by a writer who is at once woman, critic and philosopher.
Helen Fussell, author of "Divorced Life" has made a broad study of many angles of the growing feminine unrest which has held hold of American life in the by-ways as well as the high-ways.

Born in the middle west, educated in Boston and a student at close range of every of the causes underlying the feminist movement in many cities, Mrs. Fussell, in writing "Divorced Life," has been able to bring into play a wealth of observation, experience, and sympathy. As a practical sociologist, working among shop girls, factory girls and the people of the slums, she learned basic lessons in human nature which have stood her in profitable stead in the execution of her novel. She also has a knowledge of theatrical life such as is possessed by few women writers;
she has had a chance to see and understand the under currents which draw so many girls and women into the toll of the footlights, and what awaits them when they get there.
The successive chapters of the serial move on with swift action. Mrs.
Fussell pictures both the cold realism and the warmth of occasional romance which run through the career of Marian Winthrop, divorced. Too reluctant to ask or accept alimony, the plunge of this modern heroine of fiction into the struggle for a living is depicted, revealing the contact into which she is thrust with many types of men. There are some unpleasant episodes, but they picture life.

"Divorced Life" tells the truth about divorce, regardless of where the trail ends. It cannot help but shed profitable light upon a subject which unreasoning prejudice has kept all too deeply hidden. It is a stirring and valuable document. It presents a difficult subject at once delicately and truthfully. It is the sort of thing that only a woman could have written—a woman who knows life and appreciates its values. It is a timely and vital contribution to social literature. A frank and earnest study of the social and economic problems that overtake a young woman who honestly believed that divorce was the only solution of her marital error. "Divorced Life" cannot help touching and uplifting the men and women who read it.

day, and each week day thereafter,

C. E. T. S. Meeting

The meeting of the C. E. T. S. held at the Synod Hall last evening, was largely attended. Rev. J. Brinton presided and the yearly report was again read for the benefit of those who were unable to be present at the annual meeting. One applicant for membership was admitted after which the usual business was transacted and the session closed.

Man Homeless and Destitute.

Last night an elderly man, who had been in flourishing circumstances in his day, applied at the police station for admission, as he had no place else to go. He was thinly clad and destitute. He was given shelter for the night and it is likely will be sent to the Poor Asylum.

Blake Knocked Out.

London, March 3.—Bombardier Wells, the former British champion heavyweight pugilist, to-night knocked out Bandsman Blake, the middleweight champion, in the fourth round. Blake had never been defeated and was regarded as England's white hope for the world's championship. Blake was 28 pounds lighter than Wells.

How Mailman Paten Was Treated

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS SERVICE
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dead Sir.—Please allow me space to pass a few remarks re my dismissal from the overland mail service.
In January, 1896 I was engaged by J. O. Fraser, Esq., who was then P. M.
G., through Mr. M. Alcock, the Postmaster at Griguet, to convey mails to and from Flower's Cove.
The journey at that time was anything but pleasant, as not a mark of any description had been erected to guide the traveler in rough weather.
For years I performed my work satisfactorily to public and officials alike. As the mails became heavier the Government decided to shorten the route and employ more men to render the work less arduous and fatiguing.
In so doing my route ended at Lock's Cove, Hare Bay, about one-third the distance to Flower's Cove.
I travelled that route with the same result as Flower's Cove, giving entire satisfaction and doing all in my power to benefit the public.
Again the Government thought it would hasten the mails by still making shorter routes; consequently, I was appointed to go to St. Anthony, another man being engaged at that place for Lock's Cove.
This change was made last year, when the change was made I wrote to the P. M. G. to know if I was to carry the mail for the ensuing year.
In answer I received a letter from the Chief Clerk saying as I was an old servant I was to be kept on although they had tenders in for less money.
In November last I wrote again (as was my custom) to know if I was to be engaged for this year, 1914, and received the following instructions from the Postmaster General:—
GENERAL POST OFFICE,
St. John's, Nov. 17, 1913.
Dear Sir,—
Your letter received, you can take mails to St. Anthony same as last year, you can also take mails to Cook's Harbour when Fogota can't get there.
Yours truly,
H. J. B. WOODS.
Mr. J. Paten, Griguet.

As I had always got my instructions in a similar manner to the above letter, I was quite contented and made preparations for the work.
Now, Mr. Editor, you can imagine my surprise when I called at the Post Office to know when the first overland mail was going, to find that my services were no longer required, as Mr.
Henry Weir, the J. P. of Griguet, had been appointed. I told the Postmistress that I held instructions the same as last year, but was told Weir got it by tender.
I wired the P. M. G. and received the reply, It ran thus:—
"To John Paten,— Tenders being issued for which you were aware of; contract awarded to Weir; P. M. has no authority to give you mail.
P. M. G.
Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to know why the P. M. G. accepted tenders after giving me my instructions, was it fair play? I think not.
Since the route has been shortened there was an inducement to get me dismissed, forgetful of the fact that I once had to bear the burden and heat of the day in past years. There is an old saying which says: a covetous man is seldom satisfied, and I think it stands good at this date. The above mentioned man whom the Government has thought fit to select as a mail courier is also a J. P. and a member of the Road Board. His daughter is operator and postmistress. Politics has made it good for him. It's politics, why so? We returned Mr. Clapp for St. Barbe District and I herewith appeal to him for satisfaction. I still hold my instructions and intend to prove for myself if my appointment is legal or otherwise.
Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space,
Yours, etc.,
JOHN PATEN.

Last Night's Lecture.

Capt. Saunders lectured on Marine Curiosities before a large and enthusiastic audience at St. Patrick's Hall, last night. For over two hours the lecturer entertained his audience with a vivid description of the methods of salvage, and particularly the use of compressed air in saving stranded ships. The sailing of the "Royal George," which was stranded in the St. Lawrence a couple of years ago, was graphically described and illustrated by interesting slides. Several other pictures of interest were shown including photos of the collision between the Bonaventure and Beothic when leaving for the seal-fishery last spring. At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. J. L.
Slattery, and seconded by Mr. John Barron, was heartily accorded. The proceeds, which amounted to a considerable sum, will be devoted to the Holy Cross Extension Fund.

Carnival At Parade Rink.

A very successful carnival was held at the Parade Rink last night. The ice was in splendid condition, and as the event was the last of its kind for the season, it was largely attended. Over 200 masqueraders participated and the costumes worn were quite artistic and unique. The Terra Nova band was in attendance and discoursed a choice selection of music specially prepared for the occasion.

Designing Battleship.

An interesting innovation will be made in the designing of the battleship New York, which is now under construction at the Brooklyn navy yard. This is a large and commodious room in a location very accessible to visitors, which is to be used as a library and reception room for the members of the crew's library, and the room is to be fitted with reading tables, writing desks, paper and magazine racks and chairs. Adjacent to this room are to be lavatory facilities for the use of guests of the crew. This provision is new in warship design.

The One to Own if You Can Own But One.

That is what a critical user of a "Globe-Warwick" cabinet says of his equipment. Another says "It leaves nothing to be desired." Another says "So complete yet so concise." Another "Perfection as a filing arrangement." Another "It is really indispensable." Another "A surprising advance in handling records." Another "A welcome improvement in office conditions"—and so on. The extensive sale of "Globe" filing cabinets in St. John's is by no means as remarkable as the abundant evidence that it is on merit alone that these devices have earned such generous appreciation. For certain when you become a user you will be well contented with your adaptable and reliable outfit. Mr. Percie Johnson has your catalogue ready for the asking as well as other necessary details.

Adopting American Fashions.

Many Chinese women are adopting Caucasian clothing, modified to suit Chinese taste. "This change, though limited to a comparatively small number, is having a marked effect upon trade," writes Consul General George E. Anderson of Hongkong. "Hongkong shops that cater to Chinese trade are full of modifications of foreign dress for the use of Chinese women, and manikins displaying styles are of a distinctly foreign cast. Formerly warmth in winter in China was obtained by a series of garments of various qualities and weights—the number of undergarments, all similar to the outer garment, being proportioned to the temperature. The introduction of knit wear, however, has made these several layers of clothing unnecessary and the change has resulted in a difference in the cut of outer garments. The coat formerly reaching just below the hips, has been lengthened into what is practically a skirt, almost covering the trousers. In the cut of these skirts, of hose, coats, fashionable Chinese women now generally affect foreign styles."

15,000,000 Pipes a Year.

French Briar Pipe Industry Brings in Over $2,000,000.

The briar pipe industry of France is for all practical purposes of investigation, centred in the small town of St. Claude, in the Department of the Jura, where not only pipes but cigarette and cigar holders and other kindred necessities of the smoking world are manufactured.

The principal sources of supply from which French manufacturers obtain the briar roots are, in order of importance, Sicily, Calabria, Corsica, and of late years, Algeria. A small quantity is also obtained from the French Departments of Var, Pyrenees Orientales, and the Alps Maritimes.

The annual production in France is estimated at 15,000,000 pipes. Of these, not more than 193,000 worth, or about 2,000,000 pipes, are "unfinished," and are for export. It is said that a large proportion of the so-called "English" pipes are entirely manufactured at St. Claude, and are exported ready for sale. Considerable success is observed, because of the many attempts that have been made to get inside information and to induce French workmen to go abroad with the promise of extremely high wages.

Montreal Gunman Caught in Church.

Montreal, March 17.—Fashions have changed since medieval days, when a church meant sanctuary to a fugitive from justice. This morning Joseph Bechamp, alleged leader of the three handits sought for the last six days for the murder of Constable Bourdon and the attempted murder of Constable Guyon, crept from cover, footsore and starving, into St. Vincent de Paul church, where he joined the mourners at an early funeral service, not to pray but to rest.

Here, with a serious charge hanging over him and a price of $1,000 on his capture, he was recognized, and, unsuspecting, was seized, disarmed, and handcuffed by Constable Choquette, who had come to attend the obsequies of his niece.

To Treat Militants as Mental Deficients

London, March 17.—Some members of the Cabinet are reported to have received with approval a suggestion that the militant suffragettes can be dealt with under the provisions of the Mental Deficiency law, which becomes operative in April.

Capt. Payne and Mate Osborn who were in command of the ill-fated Tolesby that left her bones in the "dook" are still together. A young lady that was recently united in matrimony received a grand wedding present as a token in return for the kindness extended to the members of that wreck crew. The donor of the gift was the chief officers of the Lady Osborn.

Four Burned to death in Hotel Fire

AT BRECHIN. Brechin, Ont., March 17.—Mrs. Thos. McCauley, her ten months old baby, a boy five years of age, and Josie Callaghan, a domestic of Bradford, twenty five years old, lost their lives early today, when the Brechin Hotel was destroyed by fire.

The body of Mrs. McCauley was found in bed, not burned, but smothered by the smoke. The other bodies could not be found, and were either completely burned or buried under portions of the ruins too hot to search. Mrs. McCauley slept on the ground floor, while Miss Callaghan and the little boy were on the upper floor. Two children of Mrs. McCauley were rescued along with a boy ten years of age who was staying in the hotel.

The fire started in the basement presumably from a defective furnace. The destruction of the hotel and out-buildings entails a loss of $10,000, while Dr. Gilpin's loss is $5,000.

Jumped For Lives.

Two servants, Misses McMeney and Crosby, jumped from the windows and escaped serious injury.

The flames in the hotel were discovered by Victor Adair, one of the boarders, who after making his own escape bravely smashed in the back door and succeeded in dragging out McCauley. He also assisted in getting out Mrs. McCauley, but she had been suffocated by the smoke. The children who escaped the holocaust were saved by the neighbours. The building is totally destroyed and an effort is now being made to recover the bodies of the victims.

Byron would never have agreed with Theophile Gautier's dictum that men of genius should be fat. For the increase of his too, too solid flesh was the one thing he was afraid of, and various freak diets were adopted to keep it under. "Don Juan" was written almost entirely on gin and water, and in 1812 he lived on six biscuits a day and tea. Previously at Athens he had tried a diet of rice in small quantities washed down by vinegar and water, and later on he tried one thin slice of bread for breakfast and a vegetable dinner, keeping down hunger by chewing tobacco. And apparently such diets stimulated the brain while mortifying the flesh.—London Chronicle.

Berlin, March 17.—The wife of a government official at Danzig has been certified as leprous and has been sent to a leper hospital. The infection has been traced to a wig made of hair recently imported from China which she wore at a recent carnival masquerade.

JOHN B. AYRE.

Militants Annoy.

LONDON, MARCH 17.—Militant suffragettes contributed an extra and unheard-of "turn" to the programme given before King George and Queen Mary at a music hall performance today in aid of a hospital.

During the singing of the National Anthem a shower of suffragette pamphlets fluttered from the gallery above the Royal Box. Some of the papers floated into the box.

Simultaneously, a woman, occupying a place in the stalls of the theatre rose, and pointing a finger at the Royal party, shouted: "Your Majesties, Mrs. Pankhurst is in prison. I therefore—"

The woman was unable to proceed further with her speech, as a detective clapped his hand over her mouth, and she was escorted out of the theatre.

Just after the performance opened, a number of women arose and began to chant "Votes for Women." The King seemed amused, but Queen Mary glanced coldly in the direction of the noisemaker and then turned away. The suffragettes were subdued by attaches of the theatre and the performance was continued.

A word to those who wear "Twenty-five cent Glasses." Do you realize that by so doing, you virtually admit that twenty-five cents is the value you place upon God's greatest gift to you? There is no law to prevent you from injuring your eyes by using such glasses excepting, perhaps, the law of common sense. Of course you don't know why cheap glasses play such havoc with your eyes, and health generally, nor does the man who sells them to you know. An eyesight specialist can tell you, and if you would interest yourself to the extent of asking him to explain, you would never look through a pair of them. Anything more perfect or beautiful than the human eye would be impossible for man to conceive. Then, why, when physical aid is needed to enable it to perform its functions with greater ease, do you use cheap glasses or submit yourself to persons of questionable ability to suit you? When your eyes cry out for assistance, go to R. H. Trapnell, the Eyesight Specialist who will faithfully examine them and give you none but the best quality glasses if glasses are needed at all. Thousands are ready to testify to the great benefit received at his hands.—mar18,oodit

Filed for a Year At Hand in a Minute!

There are records kept in your business which are seldom referred to, but when reference to them is desired, can you locate them instantly?

"Office Specialty" Filing Systems do more than provide a place to file papers. The method of filing the papers under proper indexes makes the finding of any letter, on any subject or from any firm, as easy as the filing. You don't have to tumble all the letters out of the file to find any particular one. There is only one place for each letter, and every letter is in its place. Card Records, Cheques, Stock Records, Correspondence, are all found instantly when wanted if filed by "Office Specialty" Saving Systems.

Here is a very convenient stack of Sectional Quarter-Cut Oak, Filing Cabinets, 2 vertical drawers for Letters, 5 drawers for 5 x 3 inch Card Records, 3 Shannon drawers for Receipts, Invoices and Bills, 4 drawers for 6 x 4 inch Card Records, 3 Stationery drawers, which together with the top and base make a very useful stack for any business office.

"The Flying Circus" in 3 Reels.

The Great Northern Film Co.'s most wonderful three-reel production is "The Flying Circus" which gives in detail the life of a travelling circus and also entails a strong drama. The story is founded on the fact of wire-walkers love for the daughter of a town in which the circus is doing business, and his sensational feat of saving her from apparent death is astounding, as when half across the rope a rattling snake meets him; but for the presence of the snake charm-er the destruction of the Mayor's daughter and her lover was a certainty, as they both are saved in the nick of time. This picture is without exception the best ever shown at the Crescent Palace since its opening, and will appear as the big attraction on the opening days next week. Special musical effects will be a feature during the presentation. The Heart of a Jewess, the feature of yesterday and to-day is winning much favorable comment. It is a strong drama in two reels. A complete change to-morrow.

Western Fishery Prospects Brighter.

From messages received in the city yesterday, we learn that the Bellport bankers, operating from Rose Blanche and vicinity, have done fairly well to date. Five of the bankers have an average of 400 qtls. of cod now under salt, and the 'Ethie M. Prior,' Capt. Vatcher, is high liner of the fleet, having secured 500 qtls. to date. Fishery operations have been greatly hampered by ice conditions this spring, but notwithstanding this, all are looking forward to the prospects of a fair spring trip.

"E. S. HOCKEN" OVERDUE.—The late E. S. Hocken, Capt. H. Martin, is now 85 days out from Maceo to this port, and is thus making an unusual long passage. Very little anxiety is felt for her safety, as the vessel is a staunch one and as well found in every particular. She carries a crew of nine men, all told, and the captain's son is also making the trip on the vessel.

WANTED TO KNOW

The Truth About Grape-Nuts Food. It doesn't matter so much what you hear about a thing, it's what you judge is most likely to come from personal experience. "About a year ago," writes an Eastern man, "I was bothered by indigestion, especially during the forenoon. I tried several remedies without any permanent improvement. My breakfast usually consisted of oatmeal, steak or chops, bread, coffee and some fruit. "Hearing so much about Grape-Nuts, I concluded to give it a trial and find out if all I had heard of it was true. "So I began with Grape-Nuts and cream, soft boiled eggs, toast, a cup of Postum and some fruit. Before the end of the first week I was rid of the acidity of the stomach and felt much relieved. "By the end of the second week all traces of indigestion had disappeared and I was in first rate health once more. Before beginning this course of diet, I never had any appetite for lunch, but now I can enjoy the meal at noon time." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. HEALTHY AND UNHEALTHY LIGHTING

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

Look Up.

Discouraged and weary I sat me down On my porch the other day, Weary of life and it ceaseless toil, Too weary to sing or pray, I saw not the beauty of earth or sky, But all seemed a sombre gray; "And heaven is far, far off," thought I, "And the angels—where are they?"

"Why do my burdens heavier grow? Why am I so oppressed? Where is the help I am needing so? Where is the promised rest? Ah! doubts were crowding thick and fast, My cares seemed heavier to be; And faith and God, and all things else, Seemed slipping away from me. But all at once there seemed to stand By my side a Shining One; His raiment was pearly, and glimmering white, And his face shone like the sun. Why are thou so anxious, weary one, To lay thy burdens down? For only those who bear the cross, Shall wear the victor's crown."

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, March 24, 1914. The possessor of a box of Pine Tree Lozenges of which a few are sucked on the very first indication of a coming cold, is often all that is necessary to ward off a severe attack of cough or throat trouble. It is sometimes surprising to note what two or three of these lozenges will do in the way of clearing away hoarseness and irritation of the bronchial tubes. The experience of several winters' past is the foundation on which we base the foregoing claims. Pine Tree Lozenges are no experiment, but a tried remedy for the conditions for which they are indicated. Price 25c. per box. No more delicious after dinner sweetmeat can be had than Creme de Menthe. Our customers find them excellent. Price 25 cents a box.

Carson Still Menacing.

Special to Evening Telegram. BELFAST, March 23. Although there was a lessening of military activity in and around Ulster Province to-day, on the part of the Crown forces, agents of Carson were vigorously scouring the Province rallying Ulster volunteers to Unionist colors. There was some relaxation of tension, but it is admitted the menace of civil war in Ireland over the Home Rule question, is still as threatening as it was forty-eight hours ago. Carson has notified his followers that he is prepared to take the field in person at the head of his troops if fighting begins.

Concert at Conception Hr.

The concert given by the teachers of Conception Harbor and Colliers, on St. Patrick's Night, proved a great success. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. At nine o'clock the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Veitch entered the hall amidst great applause, and made an excellent speech, thanking the audience who came from far and near to patronize his concert. Speeches were also made by Messrs. C. Poole and P. Griffin, teachers of the High Schools at Colliers and Conception Harbor, respectively. At 9.30 the curtain rose and Mr. Griffin announced that the concert would begin. Following is the programme:

Come Little Children—By the boys of the High School.
Farce, "The Cat."—Messrs. Griffin, Keating, Kennedy (2), Lannon and O'Driscoll.
Song, "The Shamrock."—The Convent Girls.
Farce, "White Hat."—Messrs. Griffin, Poole, Whelan; Misses Costello, Wade (2).
Recitation—Miss M. Costello.
Solo—Miss P. Kenney.
Recitation—Mr. P. Griffin.
God Save the King.
After the concert dancing was indulged in until the wee small hours of morning. Refreshments were served by the ladies. The handsome sum of one hundred dollars was realized which goes towards the Church fund.

Haystack Postal Matters.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your paper to state a few facts concerning the way we are treated here in what they term the post office. We are supposed to get a mail once a week, but it is about once a month during winter, and then if the mail steamer comes between six o'clock Saturday night and eight on Monday morning, unless you are a friend of the postmistress, you must wait till then. Has such a mail service as that got to be tolerated in this area?

In other places in this bay where there is double the mail matter handled, people can get their mail a half hour after the mail arrives, thus enabling people to answer important correspondence before the steamer leaves. Imagine, Mr. Editor, a person waiting to hear from a sick friend for a fortnight or three weeks and then when the mails come on Sunday not to be able to hear. If we were getting mails twice or three times a week there would be little excuse. It is my opinion that if a person is as godly as not to give out mail on Sunday, in a small place like this, they should be satisfied to give it up and the few paltry dollars, and seek a higher position in life. Some people say what can be expected from a child fourteen years old? I wonder does she know what she was sworn in for; she may; and that she is a public servant, if so she should be more obliging. It is a very rare occurrence to be able to procure postage stamps. The telegraph and post-office is all as one, and the operator who is a very obliging official should have the post office as well; he only gets a small salary now, and if he had both it would be far better. Trusting that the Postmaster General will give it his attention, and thanking you in anticipation,
I remain, yours truly,
BIRCHY HILL.

Harbour Grace Notes.

Saturday and yesterday were very stormy, and the March winds were keenly felt. To-day our streets, etc., are once more covered with snow.

Judge Oke has been confined to his home for the past few days, suffering from a heavy cold.

Mr. George W. Pynn returned on Saturday from an enjoyable visit to Blaketown and Whitbourne.

Miss Hester Lovelace and Miss Lydia Taylor, of St. John's, arrived by Thursday night's train on a visit to friends. They stayed with Mrs. Thomas Martin, of Victoria Street. They left by Saturday's express en route to Montreal, where they have secured positions at the home of Dr. Finnie. They spent an enjoyable time while here and their friends wish them a pleasant passage to their new home.

The very deepest sorrow filled all our citizens on Saturday evening, when the sad news of the death at Bell Island, of Mr. Ambrose Clark became known. The particulars of Mr. Clark's death are that while at work with another man named Pyc, of Carbonate, an immense pile of clay and rock fell on them, killing Mr. Clark instantly, and breaking the legs and arms of the other man. The remains of our citizen was conveyed here yesterday afternoon, and the funeral took place from the steamer's side. A very large number of attending. Mr. Clarke was one of our most industrious citizens. Kind, pleasant at all times, and a hard worker, he made many friends. He was about 47 years of age, and leaves besides a widow eight little children to mourn their loss. Two of his children are at Halifax in the Deaf and Dumb Institute there, and two more younger children are similarly afflicted at home.

The family have the sympathy of the whole community, in which your correspondent joins.

Fine Show at Rossley's

Last night there was a very large audience at Rossley's Theatre. The programme was a very fine one. The sketch "Kitty's Lovers" was one continual laugh. Jack Rossley, the ever popular comedian, appears to be funnier at every performance. Percy Orth, as the Old Man, made a great hit, while Bonnie Rossley and Joe Burkhardt were well liked, and both played their parts well. The five all feature reels are the best seen in some time, every picture a master piece of photography, while the casts in each picture are all well known artists.

Officers' Revolt Overshadows

Ulster Crisis--The War Office in Panic at finding Revolt Widespread at Aldershot as Well as at Curragh--Government Find They Cannot Rely on Army to Fight in Ulster--Liberal and Labour Papers Indignant--Want to Know if Britain is Governed by Parliament or General Gough.

LONDON, To-day. Prior to the departure of General Paget and his chief officers from London they said they were entirely satisfied with the result of the visit; the terms on which the officers remain at their posts is not disclosed, but the general belief is that they were assured they would not be compelled to fight against Ulstermen. This is considered a distinct surrender by the Government. Lord Morley of Blackburn explained to the House of Lords he did not think in the interests of the efficiency of the army that all that transpired in the army should be made public and that the King approved of the order for the officers returning. Balfour, former Unionist Premier, ridiculed Asquith's efforts to minimize the occurrences in army after declaring that General Gough had been reinstated, after he had declared he would not fight against Ulster. The insane policy of the Government, Balfour asserted, had brought on a crisis of infinite harm and evil to the community which would live for years, which it would have escaped if Government had ascertained what Ulster thought and what her supporters were ready to sacrifice. Ulster believed, he said, and millions in England believed with her, that the Government was forcing on her a legislature she abhorred and driving her outside the community she loved. In such a situation, he argued, ordinary means failed. The Government, declared Balfour, was dealing with something greater and deeper than problems ordinarily met with by politicians. It has, he continued, raised forces which nothing can paralyze except broad statesmanlike treatment of a kind the Government has so far given no indication of being ready to adopt.

MacDonald, Socialist Labor member for Leicester, said more serious than the Ulster question was the effect produced on working people, who were now saying that officers in the army were prepared to shoot down Trade Unionists on strike, because of prejudices against Trades Unionism, but refused to do their duty in Ulster because it conflicted with their class bias and political prejudice. Hamar Greenwood, Liberal, expressed the opinion that the conduct of officers meant the collapse of a system whereby they were drawn from one class. Leaders of the Opposition had done more than they were aware when they tampered with the allegiance of army officers. He said it should be completely demoralized as to make the resignation of officers under similar circumstances impossible. In the House of Lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne, said there had never been more acute anxiety in the public mind than.

Over the Army Situation. He asked for details. Viscount Morley Blackburn, speaking for the Government, replied that in the interests of the efficiency of the army, it was not right to make public everything that transpired in the Army Council. Both the Army Council and the King, he said, approved of the orders. The King's part in the crisis was not disclosed. The army officers address their resignations to His Majesty. It is reported the King insisted that resignations in the present instance should not be accepted, and used influence with the Cabinet for a compromise with the army. Unionists firmly believe the Government participated in the fiasco. They think two most enterprising spirits in the Cabinet, Lloyd George and Winston Churchill.

Were Chief Movers in the Plan, and that the Government proposed a wholesale movement of troops into Ulster to overawe the Covenanters by a display of superior force and to arrest their leaders. The plan was frustrated only by the opposition of the officers. The Government cannot rely upon officers at Aldershot in the present crisis, any more than on those at the Curragh. Ireland, declares the Pall Mall Gazette's correspondent, who is investigating conditions at Aldershot. He asserts in answer to a question what will happen if regiments are ordered to Ulster, that he was told seventy-five per cent of the officers will follow the example of the Curragh officers in resigning. The Westminster Gazette, a Ministerial paper, says they could in the long run be no parliamentary or democratic system if the armed forces of the Crown were at the disposal of the.

Enlist Opposition Against a Liberal Government. The army in such circumstances would have either to get another kind of parliament or be drastically changed, so as to be brought under control of parliament. If a strike of officers against the Government could be successfully carried through one issue, it could be tried in all. There would be nothing to do but to dedicate our lives in getting a Constitution with a different kind of army. The Daily Express asserts that a large number of highly placed staff officers at the War Office threatened to resign unless the Curragh officers were reinstated immediately. Hence Asquith was obliged to capitulate. The Liberal morning newspapers in their editorials, show a spirit of great restiveness towards the Government. They consider Asquith proved too lenient toward the revolt in the army. The Daily News says: "The Appeal of Lordes to the Army to fill the place of the House of Lords in their defense must be taken up hesitatingly and fearfully, adding it is no longer a question of Home Rule for Ireland, it is a question whether we govern ourselves or are governed by General Gough. Though every officer in the army is dismissed, we will have no mailed hand raised in menace against our parliament. We will make the army democratic as we have made parliament democratic. Labor newspapers are still more outspoken. The Citizen says the anti-Home Ruleers are determined to follow to the end the broad road leading to destruction. We are paying the price for a bad army system, which penalizes poor men, and rewards the rich. However Hardworking and Intelligent, places wealthy snobs, however stupid and incompetent, in the places of authority. The Morning Post, giving what it asserts is an accurate history of the crisis, declares that Col. Seeley and Churchill, presumably without Asquith's knowledge, determined to test the strength of the Ulster opposition by ordering troops there, thus bringing about the resignation of officers. The Post confirms the report that Colonel Chetwood was asked to reply to General Gough at Curragh and that when the real state of affairs became known at the War Office, there was something approaching a panic on the part of the general staff. When Colonel Seeley presided at the War Council on Sunday morning, he learned that officers of high standing at the War Office threatened to.

Resign if They Were Penalized in any way. Another Council on Monday heard Gough's views; the War Secretary's first attempt to satisfy Gough failed, he insisting that under no circumstances should his brigade be employed against Ulster loyalists. Finally the Government accepted Gough's conditions, which was embodied in a document signed by the Chief of the General Staff and members of the Army Council. With this document in his pocket Gough returned to his post in Ireland. In conclusion, the Post declares that General Sir Arthur Paget, has been made a scapegoat, but that it is very unlikely he will allow matters to remain as they are. At Belfast, Sir Edward Carson, commenting on the parliamentary debate, said last night: "Hour by hour I am becoming more impressed with the Government's message of peace to Ulster."

Benton Stabbed to Death in Villa's Office. Washington, D. C. March 13.--The facts of the killing of William Benton, the British rancher, became known here to-day. Benton went to Juarez, to get Villa's permission to bring some of his cattle out of Chihuahua for sale in Texas. What had not been known heretofore is the fact that Benton sought to make it worth while for the Rebel chieftain to let him get his cattle out, offering in return for this permission to see that Villa got a certain amount of arms and ammunition. This proposal was favorably received by Villa.

Discussion of the terms of the arrangements, however, led to a quarrel. This quarrel ended in Benton being killed, not by a revolver as previously reported, but by stabbing. The Britisher was attacked with knives by those in Villa's office, during the discussion. He was stabbed in many places, and after he was dead his body was mutilated in the unseemly manner of such frequent occurrences, in Mexico.

Whether Villa personally aided in the stabbing of Benton is not definitely known. The body of Benton was buried in Juarez, and is still there, according to this official information. The investigation of the last few weeks have not only established these facts but have also resulted in the precise place of burial being made known.

Lumbago's Misery Ceases, Every Aching Muscle Cured.

JUST RUB ON OLD-TIME "NERVILINE."

Not necessary to drug inside! That aching stiffness that makes you feel worse than a kicked dog will be cured--cured for a certainty, and quickly, too, if you just rub on Nerviline. Rub Nerviline right into the sore spot, rub lots of it over those tortured muscles, do this and the pain will go. You see Nerviline is thin, not oily. Therefore it sinks in. It penetrates through the tissues, it gets right to those stiff, sore muscles and irritated nerves that make you dance with pain. You'll get almost instant relief from muscle soreness, stiffness, aching joints, lameness or rheumatism by rubbing with Nerviline. It's a soothing liniment, and doesn't blister, doesn't burn or even stain the skin. It's the most harmless cure in the world for Lumbago, Back Strain or Sciatica. It takes away the ache at once and ends your misery quickly.

Now, quit complaining--don't suffer another day--Nerviline, that good, soothing old-time liniment will liberate you up mighty quick. Get busy to-day, the large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, the trial size costs but 25c. Any dealer anywhere can supply Nerviline.

How Sealer Pridman Met His Death

As alluded to in yesterday's Telegram, Messrs. A. Harvey & Co. commencing with Capt. Parsons of the s.s. Bonaventure, enquiring how sealer Henry Pridman, belonging to Petty Harbor, met his death. This morning a brief reply was received by wireless, intimating that the unfortunate sealer fell into the hold of the ship, as mentioned in our sealing column. From the tenor of the message it is evident that he was killed instantly, or it may be a safe assumption that he died as a result of injuries from the fall.

Apple Tree 131 Years Old.

Is in Virginia and Still Bearing Good Fruit.

"There is an apple tree in Virginia that is 131 years old," said Frank Shepherd, of Richmond, at the Raleigh to the Washington Post. "A short time ago W. H. Goodwin, of Avon, Nelson County, shipped to the land and industrial department of the Southern Railway a box of apples from this tree. The fruit is of the celebrated Albemarle pippin variety. Last year this particular tree bore eight boxes of apples of commercial value."

The Goodwin orchard is a few miles west of North Garden Station, and in the heart of a famous apple country. Mr. Goodwin has in his orchard four other trees of the same age. They are in good condition, and the indications are that they will bear perhaps 100 years more. "The tree of which I speak is even older than the famous Handy tree in Patrick county, which is bearing at the age of 100 years, and has a record of 132 bushels to the season. Still another famous tree is the Hull tree in Patrick county, which has produced as many as 165 bushels of apples in one season. These apples have a commercial value in the markets that equals the celebrated Hood River valley fruit of Oregon. In fact, we have produced apples as good as, if not superior to, the fruit shipped across the continent to the eastern markets."

MARITIME TELEGRAPH & TELEPHONE COMMON.
We draw the attention of the investing public to the merits of this stock. The annual statement of the Company shows a large increase in business for the year ended December 31st, 1913, an increase of 2379 subscribers, and the Directors state that it would appear from present indications that this growth will continue for some time to come. The stock pays an annual dividend of 6 per cent.
Public Utility Securities are always very popular. The statements of well managed companies show constant increases in receipts in prosperous times, and only a minimum of disturbance in periods of business reaction.
We are in a position to offer a block of Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Common at an attractive price, and would advise investors to write at once for full particulars.

Port Hope, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—
When acknowledging receipt of the Company's cheque for my matured Endowment Policy No. 24937, I desire to avail myself of the opportunity to express my satisfaction with the outcome of my investment.
The policy was payable to me at age 60, with ten premiums of $48.00 each. The return under it is as follows:
Sum assured $1,000.00
Dividends added 446.51
Total amount payable $1,446.51
Deduct total premiums paid 480.00
$ 966.51

That I should have insurance protection free for all these years and now have over twice the amount of my premiums returned to me in cash is a most satisfactory outcome and I heartily congratulate you on it.

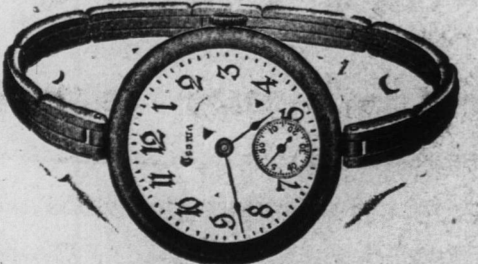

Yours very truly,

Divorced Life
By Helen Hessong Fuesle

Marian's Views on Alimony

"Divorced!" exclaimed Mildred excitedly.
"Yes, I secured my decree yesterday afternoon," answered Marian.
For ten minutes they had sat sipping tea in the resplendent blue room of Mildred's fashionable hotel, where she was spending the week with her father.
"Tell me about it," said the hostess.
"This is too exciting for anything. And you were always such a gentle little mouse. How much alimony did you get?"
"None. I didn't ask for any."
"What? That's the most absurd thing I ever heard of!"
"I don't want any more of his money. I wouldn't feel right in taking it. I wanted my freedom."
"You're a fool," retorted Mildred.
"Thanks," flung back Marian hotly. "I'd feel like a perfect grifter if I took any more of his money. I can't believe that he ever really cared for me. Besides, he earns only $2,000 a year."
"And you married him on that?"
Then what did you expect? Money is the only thing that makes marriage run smoothly. But you shouldn't have let him off so easy; didn't you sacrifice the best two years of your life, your youth, for him? He ought to pay. Well, it's too bad. I'm afraid this divorce has killed your chances to marry again—marry well, I mean."
Mildred's invitation was only half-hearted, and Marian left without any desire to return. Moreover, an idler's life would no longer do. She had less than a hundred dollars left of the $250 her husband had given her six weeks ago when they separated, and she had only herself to depend upon for further funds. She had to find work without delay. What was she to do? She was acutely conscious of an utter unfitness for any particularly remunerative task. The voice of youth, during her unpleasant days with Frank had told her it would be easy to make her own way. More than once, when flocks of unpaid bills descended upon them, adding to the misery of her temperamental antagonism for Frank, she had said impatiently: "I'm going to get a job."
"Hump, I'd like to know what it would be?" he had replied witheringly. "Don't be melodramatic. You'd last long as a working girl, you would."
(To be continued to-morrow.)

ed separately. It is said that among those remaining loyal are officers whose sympathies are with Ulster, but who cannot afford to sacrifice their pay. The same applies to many other officers of various regiments now in Ulster. The Dorsets, tomorrow, will give General MacReady their decision. At Holyrood, it is understood the percentage of refusals to serve among the Dorsets will be even higher than among the Norfolks. The Provisional Government officials are enthusiastic over what they consider a defeat for the Imperial Government, but continue their active preparations for war, at the behest of Sir Edward Carson, who declares he will continue to take such steps until assured that danger has passed. Carson is still at Craigaron, which is surrounded by sentries and says he will not leave Belfast until the crisis is over.

Harbingers.

The horses shed their winter hair until the stable's full of whiskers; the busy husbandmen repair their cultivators and their disks. The fireplace now has lost its charm, the rock-chair has lost its splendor, and every man upon the farm is rapturing his best suspender. The hens are cackling every day, with optimism glad and sunny—the same fool hens that wouldn't lay in winter-time, when eggs cost money. The farmer has ten thousand chores, and lumps with energy surprising, and everywhere, all out of doors, the glad sounds of Spring are rising. The joyous robins and the wrens are warbling in the trees like dingers, and even the dippy guinea hens imagine they are concert singers. The old gray mule, which has no voice (although the blamed beast never knew so), attempts to make the world rejoice by imitating Brer Caruso. Old Winter's day at last is over—it was a sort of sob-and-sigh day; the world seems fresh and young once more, as though just made and shipped last Friday. And every living critter feels the influence of youth within it, and in the air it kicks its heels, and yells with rapture every minute.

Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Gas, Bad Breath, mean Liver and Bowels need Cleansing
Get a 10-cent box now.
No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.
Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.
A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All druggists sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—Their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

Count Ten! Bad Cold Relieved Figure Three--Cold Cured.

Never a Failure With Catarrhzone; it Cures Completely.
Don't snuffle and sneeze with a nasty cold. Kill it at once by "Catarrhzone." It's the surest thing on colds ever known; simply knocks them out in no time. The medicated vapor of CATARRHZONE spreads through all parts of the breathing organs, and its beneficial action is felt instantly. It doesn't matter whether the cold is in the head, chest or lungs, Catarrhzone will reach it and cure it quickly.
Easy to use—you bet it is—not a single drug to take because you simply breathe in the most healing and soothing of plney vapors that come from the wonderful Catarrhzone inhaler.
"I can cheerfully testify that Catarrhzone is simply a magical cure for colds," writes P. F. Clement, of Augusta. "For days last winter my head was completely filled up with cold. My eyes ran water, I sneezed and coughed constantly. I took many medicines. I was sick of the sight of them. Finally, I tried Catarrhzone. Its effect was magical. It soothed the inflamed membranes, stopped the sneezing, and cured in no time. I never met anything to kill a cold like Catarrhzone."

LONDON, March 23.
The wildest excitement prevailed about the House of Commons to-day, shortly before the session, at which Secretary of War Seely, was scheduled to make a statement regarding the Ulster situation. Lloyd George was jeered when he appeared in the Chamber, which was packed with Unionist sympathizers, who took up the shout of "Limehouse," at the appearance of the Chancellor. It was at Limehouse that Lloyd George made the statement that the Government would make no compromise with Ulster.
LONDON, March 23.
Catholics (in Belfast) were thrown into a panic here to-day, when it was discovered that on a number of homes of church leaders, the words, "No Popery," had been written in chalk during the night. Shots were fired into the homes of many Catholics. No one was injured, but further anti-Catholic demonstrations are feared, which may result in open clashes.
SYDNEY, N.E.W., March 24.
Natives of North Malekula Island, in the New Hebrides group, have murdered and eaten six native teachers from the Wall's Island Mission Station.
LONDON, This Morning.
The defection of army officers who refused to serve in Ulster is now a closed incident, but its consequences are likely to prove far-reaching.
