Chaplin,

THE STORE THAT PLEASES.

Within the next few weeks you are going to buy a new Spring Suit—that's certain. Perhaps to-day, perhaps to-morrow, perhaps in a month—but you're going to buy it.

We think you ought to know why it's wise to "Do it now." The best reason is that our stocks are complete—you're bound to get more style satisfaction out of a broad choice than a narrow one—you get the broad choice now—you may not get it later.

This is why we invite your inspection of the stylish patterns now on hand.

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest. They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build. They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine. They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and "Time is money."

If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the sorriest fisherman who ever signed an order. You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large. REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market.

We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.

We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one. REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest. WRITE FOR A CATALOGUE TO-DAY. FRANKLIN'S AGENCIES, Ltd., St. John's, Nfld.

Stella Mordant: —OR—
The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XLIV.

"You—you think you were," she faltered. "But—but you did not know then that you were an English nobleman; that—that you were somebody of consequence."

"Am I?" he said, unmoved by this feminine argument. "You want me to stay here? All right. It shall be as you say. Wherever you want to go, whatever you want to do, of course I will do."

"But—but," she stammered, "what have I to do with it?"

He looked at her. The lovely down-cast face was turned from him; a vague something, which he could not understand, had come between them. This morning she had clung to him willingly enough, her eyes—

He wanted to see those eyes again, and he turned to her so that he could see, not the eyes, but the long lashes.

"Stella!" he said in a low voice, vibrating with passion. "Stella!"

She did not speak or move.

"What has come to you? Why do you turn away from me? What have I done? Are you angry with me as you used to be sometimes on the island? Angry? I thought you were glad this morning? I never understand you. I remember when I carried you across the beach the day you were tired, you were angry. Stella, I—I don't understand. Look at me, speak to me!"

His heart was beating furiously; the longing to clasp her to his breast, mounting, mounting swiftly to his brain.

"What has come between us? You don't want to go back to the island—you will not speak. Ah!" With a sudden cry he had risen and stood before her. "You have forgotten me—don't care for me—you want me to go without you—to leave you!"

He broke off with a fierce laugh, the laugh of the man who knows what he wants, and who is too ignorant of civilization to refrain from snatching it.

"You can't do that, you can't leave me! I—I should die without you! Why, I nearly died when you were carried from the island! And to lose you again!"

At the horrid thought, he caught her in his arms, lifting her bodily from the seat, and pressed her to him, half laughing, half sobbing, distraught with passion and with dread.

"Stella! I—I love you! I love you! I love you! I can't go back, I can't live without you! They can have everything else! Only you—you—you! I must have you!"

For an instant she surrendered to his passionate appeal. To lie in his embrace, to feel his strong arms round her—holding her. Ah, well; only a woman who has loved with all her heart and soul can understand Stella's sensations at that moment. She lay still as his kisses rained on her face and hair, fierce kisses proclaiming his love and fiercely demanding hers. Then she made an effort.

"Rath! Rath! you must not—you must not! Ah, let me go! It is all changed now, all different! You are the Earl of Rattou. You are free to— to choose."

He gazed down at her with a bewildered, non-comprehending air.

"What? What is all this you are saying? I am Rath, and you are Stella! My Stella! Are you angry with me about something? Because I am somebody else than I used to be? What does it matter? I am Rath, you are Stella! And you belong to me!"

"Ah, that—that is just it, just why—I—I cannot! Ah, let me go, Rath! I—I can't marry you!"

She expected him to loose her, to fall back aghast, overwhelmed; but in stead he smiled, actually smiled.

"All right," he said, cheerfully, but with his eyes still flashing. "Who wants you to? We'll go back to the island and be just as we were. I didn't marry you there—I was happy just because I had you with me—and I was satisfied—I think. Never mind about marrying me. Come back with me; let us go back to the old life, that's all I ask!"

She gasped, then hung her head before his innocence, his great, unselfish love. Then—oh, Eve, who bo-quathed to all your daughters the terrible charm before which the sons of men bow the knee of the slave!—she wound her arms round his neck, and slowly—as one spins out a great delight and unspeakable joy—drew his head down to her and—of her own accord—kissed him on the lips. And with that kiss surrendered.

THE HEIR OF LANCEWOOD

CHAPTER I.

Vivien Neslie was standing in the full glow of the sunshine, near a cluster of Gladioli, that formed a picture in themselves, all crimson and gold, bees buried in the bells, butterflies hovering round them. She had been looking at the gorgeous flowers, and still held one in her hands. There was no fairer spot in England than this sunlit garden, where the heiress of Lancelwood stood with thoughtful face and dreamy eyes. Look where she would, nothing but beauty met her eyes, marvels of color, wonders of sunshine and shade. It was a garden, rather old-fashioned than otherwise, full of heavy rich roses, orange and scarlet nasturtiums, big fair clusters of hydrangea; there were blossoms of purple and white carnations, pure bell-shaped flowers, and a poet might dream, and a painter lose himself in the divine beauty of flower and tree. An old-fashioned sun-dial stood near the bright gladioli; not far from it was a fountain of rare and quaint design; tame white doves fluttered round, and birds of bright plumage sang in the trees. The June sun shone, and over all floated a breath of perfume sweet as the odors of Araby.

Vivien Neslie gazed round with dreamy eyes. Looking at her, one would say she was rightly placed, near the crimson and golden gladioli. She was in perfect harmony with the beauty of the garden—a tall, stately girl, with a Titian face, dark, glowing, splendid in its exquisite coloring and perfect features, the eyes of a rare purple hue, such as one sees in the heart of a passion-flower, darkening with every passing thought, bright as the stars in the sky, fringed with long lashes—mystical, dreamy eyes, full of passion and power—eyes in the liquid depths of which it was easy to lose both heart and senses; straight, imperial brows; a mouth like a pomegranate bud, sensitive, sweet, yet with some proud scornful curves—a girl that Titian would have painted, holding with white hand a crimson flower to her lips. A mass of dark hair, soft and shining, was drawn back from the beautiful face, and lay in luxuriant profusion over the white neck and shoulders. In the bloom of her girlish beauty she looked brilliant as a passion-flower in the sun.

Suddenly one of the tame white doves, fluttering round, lighted on her shoulder, and Vivien Neslie awoke from her dream.

What do girls fair and young dream of in the sunshine and flowers? Of the lover who is to come—of the love that is to crown them—of the sweet vague possibilities of life?

No such pretty thoughts occupied the heiress of Lancelwood. She had been through the Hyde woods and round by the river; returning, she stopped to rest by the old sun-dial, and there her dark eyes wandered over one of the fairest scenes in England. She saw the dark masses of trees in Hyde woods; she saw purple hills rising in the far distance, crowned with rich foliage; she saw the deep, clear river gleaming in the sun; she saw rich clover meadows, golden corn fields, acre after acre of undulating fertile land; she saw a picture-sque park, where grand old trees of the growth of generations formed a shade for the antlered deer; and to the left lay the sunny Southern sea. She saw Lancelwood Abbey, the home of her race, the grand, massive building that was like "a poem in stone;" and she thought that brightened the dreamy eyes was—"One day all this will be mine." All this—the wealth of wood and forest, of field and meadow—low—even the far-famed old Abbey— all would one day be hers, for she was the only child of Sir Arthur Neslie, and heiress of Lancelwood. She had the proud air of one who had always been obeyed. There was a grandeur about her such as comes only from always holding high authority, a frank independence, a certain kind of defiance—for it was a noble face, and a noble soul looked out of it.

Has been Canada's favorite yeast for more than forty years.

EWGILLET CO. LTD. TORONTO, ONT. WINNIPEG MONTREAL

"All this will be mine," thought the young girl, "and I will make good use of it. If I live long enough, my good deeds shall be my monument. I will leave a name that will live in the hearts of the people around me. This is my kingdom, and I shall be its queen."

It was not vanity that shone in her face as she said the words—it was something higher and nobler—pride that, rightly trained, might have made her what she wished to be, a noble woman—pride of race and of lineage, pride in a spotless name and high descent, pride in the grand old home that was second to none in the land.

All to be her own—and she would use it royally. She had often stood here by the old sun-dial, looking round on the vast domain, thinking what she would do when it became hers. She had been brought up as heiress of Lancelwood. No other fate, no other lot in life, no other possibility had ever occurred to her except this. She had filled her mind with grand and noble thoughts, all for the good of others, when she would be queen of this her fair domain. It should be a pattern and model for all others—no one should be poor or sorrowful. She would be a lady bountiful, going amongst her people with open hands and open heart, relieving all distress. There should be churches where none had been built before—schools, almshouses. Her heart warmed as she thought of it all, as she pictured the white heads of the old and the fair faces of the young; and all were to be made happy by her. They were noble dreams—not out of place in the glow of the sunlight and amid the fragrance of flowers.

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 8961 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."

—Miss ESTELLA MAQUERE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The pretty tame doves aroused her from them. She dropped the spray of gladioli, and turned to the fountain. The gold fish almost seemed to know her as she touched the water softly.

Presently down a broad path shaded by acacia-trees came a young, handsome man, looking about him eagerly, as though in search of some one. At length he saw the glimmer of a white dress amongst the trees, and he stood still, silently watching her. She was singing just then in a low, sweet voice, and he listened to the words with a peculiar smile on his face. They were words by the poet Dibdin, quaint and sweet—

"I once had gold and silver—
I thought them without end;
I once had gold and silver—
I thought I had a friend.
My wealth is lost, my friend is false,
My love is stolen from me;
And here I lie in misery
Beneath the willow-tree."

He recognized the song as one called "The Mad Lover," and again a significant smile stole over his face.

"It is a strange song for her to sing," he thought to himself. "One never hears her singing love-ditties, as other girls do. She is far too imperial for that, I should imagine."

Then he went up to the fountain where the gold fish darted amongst the emerald-green weeds and the sun shone in the waters.

"Good-morning, Miss Neslie," he said, with a low bow.

The words of the song ceased abruptly as Vivien Neslie turned quickly round to see from whom the greeting came. A smile came over her face.

"Good-morning, Mr. Dorman; you startled me. Have the books come?"

"Yes," he replied. "I came to tell you. They are well selected; you will be pleased, I think."

"The last were all tiresome—nothing of any value in them," she continued. "Have they sent Browning's last poem?"

"Yes; we have several poetical works this time."

"If it is not troubling you too much, will you bring Browning out here to me? I should like to read in the sunshine; it is very pleasant."

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggist's."

Do you suffer from Indigestion

Indigestion is largely due to a debilitated condition of the stomach. In this condition the stomach is unable to digest food—this is, extract the nutriment from it. Therefore, the food lays in the stomach and ferments, causing pains, fullness and heartburn. You almost dread mealtime because of those terrible indigestion pains afterwards.

But—try taking a winglassful of "Wingarnis" a quarter of an hour before meals. You will find that "Wingarnis" will give a "tone" and a vigour to the stomach and enable it to perform its functions in a natural manner. Don't continue to suffer needlessly. Take "Wingarnis" to-day. Will you try just one bottle?

Portia Returns.

Reports Shore Fishery Practically a Failure—Salt Famine.

The Bowring coaster Portia, Capt. Joe Kean, arrived back from Western ports at 9.30 a.m. to-day. A good run was made to Bonne Bay, which was reached at 1 a.m. Monday last. After three hours' delay the steamer left to come east and encountered much fog on the way down. She brought a full freight and the following saloon passengers: W. E. Squires, R. G. Ross, C. LeVitz, G. J. Bishop, Ed. Harris, J. B. Patten, S. Moskovitch, A. Brushett, F. Fagan, Miss Miles, Miss Codner, Miss Lansdell, Miss Towse and 6 in steerage.

SHORE FISHERY.

Capt. Kean informs us that from today north and across the Straits the shore fishery is good, but from today east all along the S.W. Coast with the exception of St. Lawrence, the shore fishery is a failure. On visiting some settlements one would hardly think that fishing operations were being carried on at all. In fact it is to be away ahead of last year's catch. The fishery at St. Lawrence is being worked for their own consumption. Trapassey and St. Mary's, we hear, have fared very poorly. The fishery at St. Lawrence is being worked for their own consumption. The total catch there promises to be the best on record. They have more than a saving voyage ashore already. When the Portia was at St. Lawrence yesterday morning, Capt. Kean said he saw all the fishing boats there returning from the grounds, trappers and hook-and-line fishermen, both fish and hook-and-line fishermen everywhere but there is a great scarcity of salt as well as cod. The salt famine is being seriously felt at St. Lawrence.

BANK FISHERY.

The reports of the bank fishery continue encouraging. All the fleet are doing well and the aggregate catch when fish up time arrives is expected to be away ahead of last year's catch. Bankers coming to the land for bait and other supplies recently, did not go to the home ports where they outfitted, but rather came to the Southern Shore. Captain Kean was speaking to Capt. Walter Kennedy of the schr. Rostad, yesterday at Cape Broyle where that vessel was getting a caplin baiting. Capt. Kennedy reports himself with a successful catch and that all the rest of our local bankers have done well.

See the regular advertisement of the Crescent Picture Palace for particulars of to-day's big show; all the best of moving picture stars are represented in this great programme to-day. On Monday the Crescent presents a great two reel Selig success: "The Dream Girl," its a thrilling picture play filled with romance; read the story of "The Dream Girl" in to-day's Mail and Advocate, then go to the Crescent on Monday and see beautiful Bessie Eyton and Handsome Tom Santschi.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Another excellent entertainment was given to patrons of the British yesterday and needless to say it was much appreciated. The class and quality of photo plays shown and the manner in which they ARE shown will bear favourable comparison with any. The feature: "The Mad Mountaineer" is a splendid story superbly acted and is furthermore full of action. The management have selected another first class programme for Monday in which a Kalem two-part picture entitled "The Living Fear" will be predominant. There will also be another of George Ade's famous fables which everybody enjoys so much. To-day the usual big extra picture show will be given to the little ones.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was a crowded house at each performance last night at the popular little theatre. The pictures are the most interesting ever seen, and the two little singers received great applause when they sang the latest patriotic song: "Somebody's Boy." Don't miss hearing this song. There will be a special matinee to-day, send the children, and a very special programme is being prepared for Monday.

ASK FOR MINARD'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.

The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household. Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber,"—without any labour at all—Independently of the state of the kitchen fire.

FOR THE BATHROOM.

An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance. Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost! Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

When "Spring cleaning day" suggests the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force. A Gas Water-Heater is economical, because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no fires to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove. The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

Personal.

Dr. Brehm, who has just recovered from an attack of diphtheria, has been ordered to some other climate to recuperate and leaves shortly on a trip abroad. His Excellency Monsignor Stagni, His Lordship Bishop Morrison, His Lordship Bishop Power, Monsignor Simnot and other clerics, who stayed at Picoletta, left by the Gloucester yesterday for Port aux Basques. Miss Southcott, of the General Hospital staff, leaves by the Stephano on a holiday trip to Boston. Hon. W. C. Job is booked to go to New York on the Stephano. Mrs. Otoman and Misses Melburne, Ball and McElroy, and several other ladies, who came from New York a few days ago, go to the Labrador coast to assist in the Grenfell mission work. Mr. N. Snow goes to New York by the Stephano to purchase American goods for Bowring Bros., Ltd. Rev. E. Galway, who came here for the Consecration ceremonies, leaves this afternoon by the Stephano on route to his station at Wheeling, West Virginia.

The German Reply.

Last night's press abstract of the German Reply to the American Note was such as to lead to the belief that the Reply could not be considered a satisfactory one, and we were not surprised to learn from the later despatch to-day that in official quarters the Reply was considered unsatisfactory.

One of the main points in the American demand was that Americans should be free from danger in traveling in mercantile vessels of a belligerent. President Wilson asked for an assent to this principle, and this demand was but a request for a formal recognition in the German Reply of an accepted principle of international law.

President Wilson and Ex-Secretary Bryan have already expressed their opinion that any interference by the Government to stop the manufacture and trade in munitions would be a breach of neutrality.

What Shall She Do?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"My daughter is very anxious to study to become an interior decorator," writes a letter friend. "I had planned for her to be a teacher as I always wanted to be. I shall have to make more or less sacrifice for her education in either case. Now my daughter is clever and I believe she could do one thing as well as another, if she would only put her mind to it. Don't you think I have a right to urge her to carry out my wishes?"

Frankly, my friend, I do not. Not unless you have good reason to think she has no ability in the line she wants to follow.

You imply that she has a good deal of general ability, and say that she can do one thing as well as another, if she puts her mind to it. That's a big mistake. She may be able to do either thing, but not equally well.

One Thing We Each Do Best.

We all have a certain amount of energy which we can turn in one direction or another. But it will not accomplish the same amount in the direction as another. It will not accomplish the same amount in the direction in which it must overcome the barrier of a natural disinclination and an inborn awkwardness as it will in the direction in which natural inclination and facility give it a clear channel.

The line of least resistance is the line of most accomplishment in the matter of talent.

Some Parents Who Chose Ill.

The history of genius is full of examples of parents who insisted on choosing their children's vocations against their natural bent. Sir Walter Scott was put into the law, and the years that might have given us half a dozen more wonderful novels produced only law briefs.

Galileo, the great mathematician, never studied mathematics at all until he was twenty, because his father had made up his mind to have him a doctor and didn't think he needed to know anything about the subject. Aristotle lost five years studying law.

An Income of $200,000 Risked. In our own days Madame Schumann-Henn had to contend with a father who objected violently to her using her voice. Think what the world would have lost if he had succeeded in repressing her into a purely domestic life, to say nothing of her own loss of world fame and an income of almost $200,000 a year.

These are some of those who eventually persisted in expressing themselves in their own way. How many succumbed and followed the paths into which they were pushed, how many mute inglorious Miltons of one sort or another have been made in this way, we cannot know.

Of course, I do not mean that your daughter will necessarily set the world afire if she is allowed to follow her bent. But if she really has a bent that way and not merely a passing fancy, she will doubtless do more than if you force her energy into an obstructed channel.

N.B.—Young folks with artistic longings, but no decided talent, are not to consider this an argument for them.

If Catarrh has Spoiled Your Hearing Get Cured To-Day by "Catarrhazone"

Don't Stay Deaf Any Longer—Follow the Prescription—Use Catarrhazone

Nine cases in ten of hard hearing are curable. By curable we don't mean relievable—we mean that the sense of hearing can be permanently brought back. Catarrh usually causes that deafness.

Cure the catarrhal condition and you remove the cause of your poor hearing. If you were sure you had catarrhal deafness you would use a real cure at once—of course you would. There is a cure for you—one that is inexpensive—pleasant to use—and does its work thoroughly.

Catarrhazone is no experiment for deafness.

Thousands before you have cleared Catarrh out of their heads by the aid of Catarrhazone and have thereby been cured of deafness.

No batteries or miniature telephones to bother you—no internal medicine to take—you have simply to follow special directions for the Catarrhazone Inhaler. Do this and you'll find a wonderful improvement in short order.

Any druggist can supply you Catarrhazone, or you can for $1 secure it post paid under plain wrapper from the Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Canada.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES—MINNESOTA.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slivash." The University of Minnesota was located in the sixties by a thoughtful legislature on the lonely hills above the Mississippi outside the city of Minneapolis.

It was intended at the time that the student should be compelled to divert himself by study instead of travelling into town for amusement. But owing to the lack of prophets in the legislature the growth of Minneapolis was misjudged. The University has moved into the centre of town without budging a foot.

The University of Minnesota is the result of a great passion for education on the part of the Minnesotans who objects to shipping his children in search of knowledge. Without making much fuss about it, the people of Minnesota dig out from their pockets $3,000,000 a year for the support of their state university—more than any state except Wisconsin. As a result the traveler from the far-off and also distant east who visits this megalomaniac of learning expecting to find a modest little school is likely to get lost on the campus and to shout for a guide. The University has about 9,000 students all told, and ranks second in size in the United States.

The University of Minnesota is beautifully situated on the edge of the great gorge of the Mississippi below what was once St. Anthony's Falls before the same was remodelled by the milling interests. There is no more thrilling walk in an American city than the winding foot-path under the edge of this precipice along which men and women students stroll in the spring days. With no effort at all one can step down 150 feet, arriving in a fatally informal manner.

Minnesota is frequented by the tall, ruddy-faced farmer boys of the state who ease their homesickness by milking cows and play football in the fall in an earnest, forceful fashion that makes this institution greatly feared by all its competitors. The most popular expression around the campus is "Ski-U-Mah," an ancient Phoenician word meaning "Death to Michigan and Norway forever."

The University teaches both Greek and dairy classics very successfully, but the latter is by far the most popular. Thousands of Minnesota farmers now have a college education and are showing the results by filling the Minnesota banks to an apocalyptic fullness.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

Is it proper for a woman to take a man's arm while they are out walking," asked Gladys.

"It is no longer custom for a man and woman to walk along the street arm in arm. However it is still permissible for a man to offer his arm to a woman companion if there is any great need of such assistance," was her aunt's reply.

ASK FOR MINARD'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

At the City Hall.

The Chairman, Messrs. Harris, Ayre, Bradshaw, McNamara, Mullaly, Morris, Anderson and Withers were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

F. W. Knight, Secretary of the Board of Fire Underwriters, forwarded a copy of extracts from a letter from a company to its local agent, and which was based on the report of Consulting Engineer Longley. The company suggested an increase in the insurance rates, if conditions as represented by Mr. Longley were not remedied.

The Commission will inform the Board of Fire Underwriters that remedial measures have been taken, that a new system of water supply is being installed as rapidly as time will permit, and that when the work is completed a considerable reduction in insurance rates will be expected from all companies.

C. J. Fox, Secretary S. P. A., acknowledged receipt of the Board's letter re the repairs to certain streets in the city.

M. J. Fewer applied for permission to make repairs to house 47 Lime St. A committee will visit the locality and report.

A number of residents of Central Street petitioned for the erection of a tank in that locality. This matter was referred to the Engineer.

W. Gooble and E. Murphy complained of refuse from a gully at the foot of Job Street being left in the street. The matter will be attended to.

G. Williams applied for permission to erect a work shop at the side of dwelling fronting on Prescott Street. Referred to the Engineer.

Capt. W. Strong forwarded plans of proposed dwelling to be erected on the Southside. Approved, subject to the city regulations.

The Engineer reported that M. Walsh was erecting an annex to building on Duckworth Street without permission. The erection will be ordered down.

The Board authorized the purchase of a copy of Goad's plan of the city at a cost of $105.00.

Mr. Anderson called the attention of the Board to the condition of Water Street and O'Dwyer's Cove near the new Bank of Nova Scotia building. He said that the place was a menace to the health of the city, as there were pools of stagnant water and deposits of old refuse of various kinds in that locality. He felt that citizens would justly hold the commission responsible for such a condition of affairs, and personally he felt ashamed to be a member of a Board which did not insist that the officials performed their duties in a more satisfactory manner. The Commission, said Mr. Anderson, is aware that officials are being paid to attend to such matters, and if the same were in the employ of individuals they would have been dismissed long ago.

Mr. Mullaly endorsed what Mr. Anderson had said, and felt also that the officials should be reminded of their duties. After an expression of opinion from various members of the Board, it was decided that the Sutherland Construction Company be asked to put the place in proper condition or the law will be rigidly enforced. With the passing of pay rolls and the usual routine business the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

Was Not Killed.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of July 3, there is a paragraph concerning two women, a Mrs. Sibley and Mrs. Peddle, found in a destitute condition, the former of whom you speak of as a widow whose husband was accidentally killed at Grand Falls. We should like to point out that this is not quite correct. Mrs. Sibley's husband died at Grand Falls on January 12th, 1913, of pneumonia, and not in any way as the result of an accident. After her husband's death Mrs. Sibley was treated with every consideration here and continued to occupy the bungalow in which they were living, rent free, until July 10th, 1913, a period of six months. Trusting that you will make this correction.

Yours truly, Anglo-Nfld. Dev. Co., Ltd. per L. E. Cooper, Grand Falls, July 8th, 1915.

WE POINT WITH BRIDE.

TO THE STORE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY.

Ten Strong Reasons

Why You should Buy Your Furniture from us.

- 1st—We produce our own lumber which goes into the Furniture and saves considerable in cost.
- 2nd—We have the Surface Oak finish for our Furniture, which is the only thing of its kind in the country.
- 3rd—We import our own Coverings for our Parlour Suites, thus saving two duties, as most all the imported Suites come from Canada and the United States, and they have to import their coverings from France or some of the European countries, and pay duty into Canada or the States. We avoid the second duty by getting the Covering ourselves and having the frames made here.
- 4th—We have our Springs made from the wire by the only Weaver in the country; also the Oxford or Copper Wire Spring by machines too.
- 5th—We have our Mattresses made by machinery in our own building, the only machine of its kind in the country. It can produce 50 against 10 by hand, thus saving considerable in cost.
- 6th—We are producing the Excelsior or Wool Fibre and cutting the cost in two, which will mean considerable saving in the making of Mattresses.
- 7th—We are also selling agents for the celebrated Ideal Beds and Springs and sell at factory price.
- 8th—We also have the COMBINATION LATH and SPRING BED, the only thing of its kind in the country.
- 9th—Having the factory in the same building, we can handle all sizes all repairing; in fact you can choose your own Coverings for Parlour Suites, Mattresses, etc., and have it made to order.
- 10th—Our motto (last but not least) is to sell at the lowest possible prices, and despite the serious advance in prices all round, we are, where possible, reducing the prices, WHICH SHOULD APPEAL TO EVERY HOUSEKEEPER when in need of Furniture and Furnishings, as we now by arrangement work from the "Tree to the Home," thus cutting out all middlemen's profits.

Off Again for the Banks.

The banker Susan E. Capt. Inkpen, which came to port yesterday morning for salt, got a supply at Bowring's and left again last evening for the Grand Banks to resume fishing. She has only a small quantity of squid baiting to use up, after which she will return to the home port and get ready for the final trip to the Labrador. When finishing up the Grand Banks voyage, Capt. Inkpen expects to have reached the 3,000 mark, as the Susan E. has 2,800 qtls. on board now.

CIVIC COLLECTIONS.—The Municipal collections for the week just closed amounted to $1,722.84, as compared with $6,614.01 for the corresponding period last year. The reason for the difference is attributed to the heavy collections for coal duties during the corresponding week in July last year.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, July 9.—The Governor, Newfoundland: General Botha completed the surrender of the entire German force in Southwest Africa; hostilities have ceased, and the campaign there has been completed. The French Government report the German attack between Angres and Souchez completely repulsed. A line of German trenches captured north of the Vosges the French obtained marked success, advancing 700 metres on a 600 metre front; 800 prisoners were captured. The Russian Government report success on the Orze River, on the left bank of the Vistula. The enemy using poisonous gases, occupied some sections of the first line of the Russian trenches near Bollsnow, but the position was subsequently recovered by a counter-attack. Near Lublin the Russians have defeated the Austrians capturing 11,000 prisoners between July 5th and 6th. The Italian cruiser Amalfi was sunk by a submarine in the Adriatic. The crew was saved.

BONAR LAW.

KITCHENER ADDRESSES MEETING.

LONDON, July 9.—Great crowds assembled in and around the Guild Hall and the routes leading to it, this afternoon to hear Lord Kitchener address a meeting to inaugurate a special recruiting campaign. Kitchener's subject was on the need of further recruits for the army, but the enthusiasm of the meeting and the crowds which appeared, were attributed to the public's spontaneous desire to demonstrate its confidence in the Field Marshal, in the face of the attacks upon him, which a certain section of the press has been making. "We require more men, and still more men," said Kitchener, "but the situation in this respect is immeasurably better than it was ten months ago. The military positions to-day, however, is as serious as it was then." This was the key-note of the War Secretary's speech to influence recruiting.

KITCHENER AT THE GUILD HALL.

LONDON, July 9.—Lord Kitchener's motor ride to the Guild Hall and the untimely British enthusiasm, was a scene that had no precedent in London since the outbreak of the war. Handkerchiefs waved and hundreds of thousands cheered the Secretary of War as he passed through an uninterrupted avenue of yelling men, women and children. The text of Lord Kitchener's speech follows in part: "Hitherto the remarks I have found necessary to make as to recruiting have been mainly addressed to the House of Lords, but I have felt the time has now come when I may with advantage make another larger demand on the resources of the Englishman. Enjoying, as I do, the privilege of a freeman of this great city, I am sure my words uttered in the heart of London will spread throughout the nation. The Secretary of War referred to the bravery of the Indian forces, and the Canadian fighting alongside their British and French comrades in Flanders, presenting a solid impenetrable front.

in the Dardanelles, Kitchener continued, Australians and New Zealanders combined, had already accomplished feats of arms most exemplary in their brilliancy, and were pushing the campaign to a successful conclusion. In each of the great Dominions new large contingents were being prepared, while South Africa, not content with the successful conclusion of the arduous campaign in Southwest Africa, was now offering large forces to engage the enemy in the main theatre of war. Strengthened by the support of our fellow citizens across the sea, we seek to develop our own military resources to their utmost limits. This is the purpose which brings us together to-day. Specifying the three things necessary for the conduct of modern warfare successfully, as men, material and money, Kitchener said that the Government with its new loan was supplying the money and with marked success, that the Ministry of Munitions was handling its work in a highly satisfactory manner. When I took up the office I held, I did so as a soldier, not as a politician. I warned my fellow-countrymen that the war would not be only arduous, but long. In one of my earliest statements, made after the beginning of the war, I said I should require more men, and still more until the enemy was crushed. I repeat that statement to-day with even greater insistence. All the reasons which led me to think in August, 1914, that this war would be a prolonged one, hold good to the present time. It is true we are in a better situation than we were in ten months ago, but our position to-day is at least as serious as it was then. Through preparedness Germany, due to her strenuous efforts, sustained at high pressure for some forty years, has issued a military organization as complex in its character, as it is perfect in its machinery. It is true that Germany's long preparation has enabled her to utilize her whole resources from the very commencement of the war, while our policy is one of gradually increasing our effective forces. It might be said with truth that she must decrease while we increase. The speaker dwelt on the question of raising new armies, some of which have already made their presence felt at the front. From the first there has been a constant and satisfactory flow of recruits. The falling off in numbers, recently apparent in the recruiting returns, has been, I believe, in a great degree due to conditions of a temporary character. It would be difficult to exaggerate the value of the response that has been made to my previous appeal, but I am here to-day to make another demand on the manhood of the country to come forward in its defence. (Lord Kitchener's speech is continued on 7th page.)

SURRENDERED UNCONDITIONALLY.

PRETORIA, July 9.—The Germans surrendered unconditionally, following the issuance of Botha's ultimatum, which expired at 5 o'clock on Thursday evening. With the exception of the necessary army of occupation, the citizen army will be brought home as quickly as possible.

MINNEHAHA AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, July 9.—The Minnehaha has arrived off the harbor. A message from the captain this morning said: "Fire appears to be out on the steamer. Think it necessary to discharge some cargo at Halifax. A terrific explosion, evidently from an infernal machine mysteriously placed in compartment No. 3, which shook the ship from stem to stern, occurred on the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha last Wednesday afternoon. The explosion occurred shortly after four o'clock. The steamer was then on her way from New York to the other side, and carried a heavy cargo, largely made up of munitions of war. So terrific was the explosion that the ship was thrown into the air, and was dazed for some minutes afterwards. Whether the explosion was the work of Frank Holt, the would-be assassin of Morton, Capt. Claret could not say. He was non-committal regarding the cause of the explosion. Fire which followed the explosion, spread rapidly. The fire is now under control, the flames having been stifled by steam. The Minnehaha pulled out from her pier at New York early on the afternoon of the 4th. She sailed under sealed orders. Uncertain whether the fire could be extinguished by steam, Capt. Claret decided to make for Halifax. She reached quarantine at 1 p.m. The cargo from the hold where the fire is located will be removed to-morrow, and the extent of the damage to the ship and cargo will be learned.

POWDER MILLS DESTROYED.

LONDON, July 9.—Curtis' big powder mills at Hounslow, Middlesex, were virtually destroyed to-day by a series of explosions which occurred shortly after one hundred men had commenced work. No statement of the casualties is yet available.

WILSON LINE STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, July 9.—The Wilson Line steamer Guida, from Hull for Archangel, was sunk off the coast of Scotland yesterday by a German submarine. The crew were saved.

DEPUTY RECEIVER GENERAL.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 9.—Hon. John E. Wilson, St. John, has been appointed Deputy Receiver General in charge of the Dominion Savings Bank here.

GERMANY'S REPLY.

BERLIN, July 9.—The German reply to the American note, regarding the sinking of the Lusitania, and submarine warfare, was delivered to James W. Gerard, American Ambassador at Berlin, late last night. Germany's offer, embodied in the reply is: First, the reiterated assurance that American ships engaged in legitimate trade will not be interfered with nor lives of Americans upon neutral ships be endangered. Second, German submarines will be instructed to allow American passenger ships to pass freely and safely. Germany entertaining, in return, the confident hope that the American Government will see that these ships do not carry contraband. Such ships are to be provided with distinguishing marks, and their departure announced in reasonable time in advance. The same privilege is extended to a reasonable number of neutral passenger ships under the American flag. Should the number of ships thus available for passenger service prove inadequate, Germany is willing to permit America to place four hostile passenger steamers under the American flag, to ply between North America and Europe under the same conditions.

WAT MASON proved. It goes for newer bridges, which break beneath a load; it goes for plowing ridges and grading up the road. It goes for bum repairing of highway and of hill, and so we hear him swearing, the man who pays the bill. He seeks the county fathers, the men who spend the change, and vexes them and bothers their souls with questions strange. "Why don't you grade the ridges with permanent intent? Why don't you build us bridges of granite or cement? We all would be in clover if lasting roads were made, but over, still, and over, you plow and scrape and grade, you make your culvert wooden, and build your bridge of tin; contractors have a puddin', the strong-bow wading in." But useless is his kicking, the poor tax-paying man; the country dadd are sticking to their old fiddle plan; still building bridges rotten, and roads that wash away, all but the bills forgotten, the bills the workers pay.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mrs. J. Cole, King's Bridge, sincerely wishes to thank the hospital staff, Doctors Keegan, Anderson, Knight and Copperwheat; also, Sisters White, Condon, Redmond, including Nurses Moore, Young, Bradbury, Tibbs, Hartery, Oakley and especially the two little night nurses, Morris and Long, for their most generous attention given me amongst them in my long illness which was appreciated very much by me. Yours sincerely, MRS. J. COLE.

LONDON GOSSIP.

QUEEN MARY AT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

LONDON, June 21st, 1915. Queen Mary paid a visit to Westminster on June 17th to inspect the new tea-room of the House of Commons, which will shortly be available for members and their friends. The tea-room is on the terrace level, and is a beautiful apartment, decorated in the Jacobean style. It has cost, I am told, £6,000, and some economists at Westminster are of the opinion that this outlay in war time was of unnecessary extravagance.

TENNIS AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

The King and Queen, although they have no personal inclination for tennis or other outdoor pastimes during the war, do not discourage others about the Palace from engaging in them. Tennis appears to head the list of games favored at the Palace, and the Princess Mary, with her brothers, when they are at home, and also with her girl friends, almost daily has a turn at the nets. Her Royal Highness, who is very keen on all kinds of sport, plays quite good, and like the King, a vigorous game. The courts are marked out in the delightfully shady portion of the grounds near the Wellington Arch. The Princess, I am told, has done her best to persuade her father to join in a set occasionally, but His Majesty finds little time to engage in pastime of that sort. The war creates for the King an enormous amount of work in addition to the normal Parliamentary duties which fall to his lot. When these duties have been disposed of, there are hospitals to visit. In this the King and the Queen show genuine delight, cheering the wounded, as they do during their informal visits, with words of sympathy and of encouragement. Consequently the King, who last year engaged in a good deal of tennis, has not yet taken the racket in his hands this season.

SCHOOL GIRLS' AID.

Princess Mary is patroness of a great organization, the Patriotic Union of Secondary Schools, which ever since the war began has absorbed the energies of tens of thousands of girls in public, private, and convent schools. The idea originated with the head mistress of a London school, who knew the intense desire all the girls would have to serve, and it was welcomed by hundreds of schools. The Manchester High School, for instance, took advantage of a special list department, and many of its girls gave secretarial help to societies in the early days when it was most needed. Every sort of charitable and relief work is undertaken by the various schools, the head mistress who originated the Union letting them know what work is needed, and where, and it is nearly all organized and carried out by the pupils, who in these days of organized games and school clubs get a knowledge of businesslike methods unknown to their mothers. Some schools do all the mending for a hospital. One of them made and presented everything needed for a typhoid ward. Others are doing similar work for the French hospitals. Sixty pounds of wool was used by another school to knit things for the New Zealanders. In some schools the senior girls beg for the use of motor-cars and make arrangements with the hospitals to have wounded soldiers sent for drives. Perhaps nothing has given more pleasure than the regular visits to old Belgian exiles, who love to see young faces and to be listened to with sympathy as they talk of the beautiful things they used to possess. In many quarters the first eager desire to help is fading, but the English schoolgirl is keener than ever.

DOMESTIC ROLLS OF HONOR.

We are accustomed here to seeing in the windows of the big shops lists of employees who have gone to the front. I hear from a correspondent in Sussex that the people there are adopting a method of their own to let the world know of the patriotism of Sussex men. In the towns and villages, especially on the coast, you see small cards in the windows of houses showing the number of men who have gone from the house. The card has a Maltese cross and the words "For King and Country" printed on it, and the name of the soldier or sailor written underneath. There is a separate card for each man, and Antipon in Canada.

SPREADING THE FAME OF THE GREAT BRITISH SPECIFIC FOR RAPID FAT-REDUCTION.

The burden of obesity is so distressing and so unappealing, and is generally so difficult to get rid of with any degree of permanence, that the introduction to Canada of the famous British Specific Antipon will be welcome in many quarters. The preparation is not unknown here already, but the obstacles in the way of its supply to the general public were necessarily great. All difficulties are now removed.

One of the important discoveries of Antipon the treatments usually employed for the reduction of weight included starvation, dietary rules, sweating and purging, together with mineral drugging. All these things are weakening in the extreme, and when obstinately persisted in, result to the constitution. Antipon is diametrically opposed to such drastic methods.

To expel the superfluous fatty matter from the system is all very well, but the body must be amply nourished at the same time. Now, Antipon does not only rapidly eliminates the excess of fat, but overcomes the unfortunate tendency to "run to fat." Ample wholesome food, therefore, becomes Antipon's strength-giving ally, and there is no need to dread that the extra-nourishment taken will bring about a re-development of excessive fatty tissue.

Every dose of Antipon is a sure step in the direction of the recovery of beauty of form and vigorous nervous energy. The decrease of weight is not a tedious process. Within twenty-four hours of the first dose there is a reduction varying, according to individual conditions, between 80. to 3 lb. The scales will be the unerring recorder. The daily decrease is eminently satisfactory. When normal weight and symmetrical proportions are regained the treatment is no longer necessary.

Antipon contains only the most harmless vegetable substances in solution, the liquid being in appearance like a light red wine. It is palatable, refreshing and slightly laxative, and never occasions any unpleasant reactionary effects. Antipon can be obtained at all drug stores, from stock or order, or in case of any difficulty a large case will be forwarded direct from the Antipon Laboratories, Store Street, London, W.C. Eng., carriage paid, on receipt of remittance for 5 dollars.

concession in the air could produce rains in anything like measurable quantity. But given cyclonic conditions, when rain was normal, it is quite conceivable that the rains could be augmented by the extraordinary rain-falling which has been so persistent over the whole western battle-grounds.

REMARKABLE RESPIRATOR ACHIEVEMENT.

The story of how the British Army at the front was supplied with black net respirators inside three days, is now being told by a Canadian who had trade circles as an instance of what can be done by British industry under the stimulus of a little "push and go." Ten or twelve days was the answer given to the War Office when that Department first inquired as to when delivery of plain black net to the required amount—the exact figures cannot be divulged, but they are enormous—could be made. It was then that the "push and go" policy was put to the test. A certain person was given carte blanche, and in a few hours he had bought up all available stocks of plain net, and arranged with the dyers to give the net thus purchased the necessary blackness. The material was dyed, dried, and despatched to London by passenger train, within a few hours of getting to work. Some of the packages weighed nearly half a ton, and the cost of carriage is said to have run into hundreds of pounds. Arrangements had been meanwhile made in London for the manufacture of the respirators, and as fast as the net was received it was made up. In that way our men at the front were equipped against poisonous gas within three days.

THE INFLUENCE OF WAR ON WEATHER.

There has been a good deal of speculation since the beginning of the war as to how far weather conditions may be influenced by the continuous activity of modern artillery over a large area. Meteorology is not one of the most exact of sciences, and its elusive mysteries are Greek to the average layman, but a strong belief has grown up that the abnormally rainy period experienced in Western Europe during the last winter was intimately connected with the progress of warlike operations. This opinion was given powerful support on June 16th by Charles Harding, in an address which he delivered to the members of the Meteorological Society. Briefly, Mr. Harding's thesis is that when the weather conditions are anticyclonic—that is, when the whole character of the weather is opposed to rain—no amount of explosion or worked to its utmost capacity, and new plants is being laid down. The appeal Mr. Barnes, M.P., has made in Canada for skilled men to help in the factories of Great Britain has been entirely successful, and a careful selection from these is being made, as most of them can be profitably employed in Canada in executing the orders placed there by us. Lloyd George stated at Bristol on June 12th, that more airplanes are required, and the introduction to Canada of this direction is forthcoming from the Crown Colonies and Dependencies. In addition to the fifteen aircraft Malay is presenting to the Army Council, the Governor of Hong Kong has recently remitted, on behalf of that colony, £4,500 to be expended in purchasing two of the latest type of 100-h.p. gun-mounted biplanes. The West Indies and the West and East African Colonies are arranging to send similar presents to the War Office, and in all these cases it is hoped to be able to continue making such gifts as long as the war lasts.

A BIG GAME HUNTER.

James Sutherland, who is reported as having been wounded in Nyasaland, is the celebrated elephant hunter whose exploits, narrated in his wonderful book of adventure, stirred the imagination of the public a year or two ago. Mr. Sutherland has been acting as guide and adviser to the British force operating in that region for some time past, and has gained a reputation, gained partly in his big game hunting expeditions, but chiefly when he was assisting the Germans to repress the Herero rebellion. He was indeed in German East Africa in charge of a hunting expedition when the war broke out. Not wishing to be taken prisoner by his former friends, he made a forced march into Portuguese East Africa, covering a distance of 500 miles in 23 days—surely a record over such difficult country. More than 20 years ago, Mr. Sutherland left an office stool in Leith for South Africa, where he served as miner, professional pugilist, and actor before he penetrated into the wilds and became the world's greatest hunter of elephants.

To any person who cannot be cured of Constipation by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the above reward will be paid. No medicine gives such lasting satisfaction or effects such marvellous cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Relief instantly follows their use. That blind feeling in the skin is soothed away, bilious fits and stomach disorders are stopped. Don't be nervous about using Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild enough for a child, to use, yet certain and effective in action in the most chronic cases. Get a 25c. box to-day; they bring and keep robust good health.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Fear, in children, arises from the necessity of dealing with the unknown. Children are afraid of the dark because there is no telling what may or may not be in there. A child may be made familiar with the dark, as when someone in whom he has confidence stays with him and keeps his attention, until he is quite at ease among the shadows. The familiar never causes fear.

Caution, on the other hand, arises from judgements based on knowledge. It is a known danger that leads to prudence and care. It steadies the muscles instead of making one tremble, because it is so largely a matter of thought and understanding, rather than a matter of feeling as is the case with fear. The more a child knows about the things in his little world the more likely he is to be fearless.

C.E.I-Feildians and Casuals Play to a Draw.

In the presence of a small gathering of onlookers the above teams played to a draw last evening after a hard fought exhibition, each team scoring two goals. Conditions were anything but favourable for good play as the ground was wet and the ball greasy. Mr. H. Foster was referee and the players were:—
C. E. I-Feildians. — Goal, Long; backs, Ryall, M. Stiek; halves, Fox, Drover, Oliver; forwards, Adams, Hunt, Piggott, Winter, Miller. — Casuals.—Goal, Peters; backs, Reid, Tristie; halves, Pike, Squires, Gaudie; forwards, Chacey, Rendell, Smith, Percy, Marshall.

In the first half the combine had the best of the game and Hunt drew first blood, followed immediately after by Marshall sending in the equalizer. Drover gave a nice bit of play and landed No. 2. The teams crossed without further scoring. The Casuals showed up better at the opening of the next period and Chacey notched up the second and equalizing goal. The combine increased the pace, but their repeated attacks proved fruitless and the game ended, as mentioned.

WITH THE ADVENTISTS.—Sunday evening next, at the Cookstown Road Church, Elder W. C. Young will deliver his second lecture in the series announced on the subject of the Holy Spirit and its work for the Church. THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

PROHIBITION.

It is indeed time that the campaign for Prohibition should be started. It is enthusiasm that generally wins a campaign and the enthusiasm of this fight has to be far-reaching—it has to beat down not only the apathy of some temperance people but has to overpower the indifference which Anti-Prohibitionists will seek to create. I had expected some pronouncement of a campaign before this and thought that maybe some internal arrangements were being made before the active work was announced. There surely ought to be many ideas used in the American campaign that could be used with advantage here.

A man and his wife from a nearby suburb came to town last Saturday with pony and cart. While the wife was shopping the man visited the grog shop. With tears in her eyes the wife told a girl: "If you have to wait till you are gray-headed, don't marry a man who drinks."

There are men roaming the streets to-day of splendid ability, but with one weakness that bring them down. Hardly a family but is affected by some member of it who drinks. And these are the reasons why Prohibition should appeal to everyone. Prohibition will help many and hurt no one. It will make homes happier and hearts lighter. There may be no injury in liquor rightly used, but the results of its abuse are far too common and dreadful. A glass of wine is delightful, a bottle of sickness is every opportune, but both are pretty well non-essential. An effective cartoon shows the irony of the situation to-day. It shows the scientist telling what alcohol does to the stomach and how it cooks the brain, but still the world at the bar drinks on. It shows Humanity in the persons of a poor woman and naked children imploring, but still the world at the bar drinks on. It shows the economist pointing to the drunkard, a wretched failure, but still the world at the bar drinks on. And then it shows the God of War appearing, and lo, the world smashes his glass, leaves the bar and marches off to war with a banner of Prohibition!

Oh! the irony of it! Shut down on liquor when the nation is at stake; make men efficient when the nation demands it. But in times of peace neither the words of science nor humanity avail anything. And war accomplishes all. If in war times, why not in peace times?

THE DEATH SENTENCE.

The question of capital punishment for murder as well as general punishment for crime is being debated carefully by thoughtful people at the present time, and the following appeal from the death house at Sing

Sing is a human document which will move many hearts:—

Three domed men in the death house of Sing Sing appeal to the people of the State of New York.

The three undersigned men, doomed to die in the early morning in the death chamber of Sing Sing, make this appeal from the brink of the grave.

Are you as members of this commonwealth justified in taking human life because we did? Did two wrongs ever make a right?

There is not one of us who would not willingly die if it would restore to life those who died by our hands. Owing to our acts, remorse, sorrow, ignominy and shame have been our companions by day and through the long, sleepless nights.

We realize keenly that we will suffer least by our own death, for we know full well that some day, some time, all of us must pass beyond that mysterious veil of eternity from whose bourne no traveller has ever returned.

We make this appeal to you not so much to save our lives, but because our ignominious death strikes beyond the grave and will bring sorrow, woe, and care to those near and dear to us and who will suffer most by our untimely end.

Picture this! Think of this! Then, if you can, by word and pen demand from your representative at Albany that capital punishment, this relic of ancient times, this stain on humanity, be wiped from the statute books.

Only a few months ago our President appealed to the people of this country of all nationalities to attend their various places of worship, there to pray and plead to the Almighty that the legal murder, carnage, and slaughter in Europe might cease.

Is the case for our destruction any greater than that between nation and nation now engaged in bloody warfare? Therefore, we appeal to you, not only to pray for us, but to demand the abolition of legal murder.

If we believed that our slaughter would act as a deterrent to future murderers, we would willingly render up our lives to Society, if it would erase from human nature the causes which tended to our crime.

Can you recall a single instance in all your life where the horror of the death penalty stayed the hand of a murderer? We know we never gave it a thought. Murder is mostly the result of two great human passions, of uncontrollable passions, that of uncontrollable and insane jealousy or a devouring anger roused by the demon drink, both of which so blur the human mind for the instant as to make the person temporarily insane. Jealousy and anger roused by drink were the cause of the tragedies in which we three men were involved.

If this is to be our last word, we send it forth in the hope that, if it avails us nothing, it may perchance aid some brother who may fall by the wayside.

In conclusion, we offer up our prayers that you will not cast us aside into utter darkness by disregarding our plea from the shadows of the grave.

We admit our sins to God, and pray for forgiveness at the hands of our brothers and the Almighty.

THE STAMP ACT.

The Government has at last brought the amended Stamp Act into force and now all receipts for money over ten dollars will have to bear a stamp. Why a special stamp has not been struck I do not know. An ordinary stamp might have been used when the special stamp was not available, and there is no reason why the use of Special Stamps would not be general in the City, or anywhere where there is a post office. A special stamp would serve to check the receipts from this source, and the money might then be passed to a special fund instead of being added to the general postal receipts and spent for postal expenses. The affixing of stamps is left to the honour of the people and it is a way to test the morality of some people. For instance there are men who habitually give cheques without a stamp, telling the collector that they have not got one handy, knowing full well that the payee will have to put a stamp on the cheque before the Bank will cash it. It is a mean action. There are other men who draw a large cash cheque with which to pay a lot of accounts, thus saving a two cent stamp on each account. No doubt this is smart business?

I presume that the one who issues the receipt will have to pay for the stamp. There will be a lot of bother with it and one may easily question whether there are not other means of taxation which would bring in larger returns.

A LITTLE THING.

About a hundred years ago, the English Government estimated that it was losing £100,000 a year through the custom of removing stamps from old parchments and using them again.

Henry Bessemer, then a poor struggling young man, appeared with a perforated stamp which could not be forged or removed from a document.

The Government offered him a definite sum for his process or an office for life at £800 a year. Bessemer chose the office and hastened to tell the good news to the young lady with whom he had agreed to share his fortune. He explained his invention, and told how it would prevent anyone from taking a valuable stamp from a document and using it a second time. "Yes," said his betrothed, "I understand that; but surely, if all stamps had a date put upon them they could not at a future time be used without detection." A very short speech, but that little word "date" meant the saving of £100,000 a year.

Bessemer felt proud of the young woman's ingenuity, and realised that it rendered his perforation device of far less value, but he bravely suggested the improvement at the stamp office. As a result his system of perforation was abandoned, the thankless Government deprived him of his promised office and coolly made use from that day to this, without compensation, of the idea which came from the quick wit of woman. And this same dating of our stamps prevents them being used.

WORK AND WAIT.

To continue the story of Henry Bessemer, he realized that the best capital a young man can have is a capital wife, and at once entered into a partnership which placed at his command the combined ideas of too very level heads. He was one that was not discouraged and after years of thought and experience, he revolutionized the iron industry throughout the world by his process of making steel cheaply.

"All things come round to him who will but wait." But a lot of us are quite unwilling to take time to prepare for life work. "Can't wait" is characteristic of the times and is written on everything; on commerce, on schools, on society, on churches. The boy can't wait to become a youth, nor the youth a man. Everybody is in a hurry. Buildings are rushed up so quickly that they will not stand, and everything is made "to sell." People are not willing to lay broad, deep foundations. Short cuts and abridged methods are the demand of the hour. But patience is nature's motto. She works ages to bring a flower to perfection. And a large part of every successful life must be spent in laying foundation stones underground. Success is the child of drudgery and perseverance.

"I prepared that sermon," said a young sprig of divinity, "in half an hour, and preached it at once, and thought nothing of it." "In that," said an older minister, "your hearers are at one with you, for they also thought nothing of it."

Webster would not speak on any subject till he had fully mastered it. Demosthenes would never rise, even to make remarks, without previously preparing himself. The world wants Field's untiring perseverance, spending years and a fortune laying a cable when all the world called him a fool; a Michael Angelo, working seven long years decorating the Sistine Chapel with his matchless "Creation" and the "Last Judgment," refusing all remuneration lest his pencil might catch the taint of avarice; a Stephenson, working fifteen years on a locomotive. It wants men who can work and wait.

Said an illiterate preacher to a learned clergyman: "Sir, you have been to college, I presume?" "Yes, sir." "I am thankful," said the former, "that the Lord opened my mouth without any learning." "A similar event," retorted the clergyman, "happened in Balaam's time."

"Let us, then, be up and doing With a heart for any fate; Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labour and to wait."
