TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW ENGLAND

Greeting:

A little more than a month ago, having received permission from the authorities in Washington and Ottawa, we crossed the border line between our two great countries. We came among you in the strange garb of the ancient Gael—the fighting claes O' oor Faithers Lang Syne Gang. We came with the skirl of the pipes and the birl of the drums. We knew not how warm our welcome would be. We arrived in Boston late in the eventime. We were met by cheering, thronging thousands. We could not have been welcomed more warmly had we been sons of Uncle Sam just returned from far away, having striven for the flag. Boston opened her arms. Her streets were ours. Upon the sacred soil of Boston Common we were allowed to pitch our Recruiting Tent, and the flag of Britain was flung to the breeze for the first time in more than a century. Mayor Curley handed us the keys of the City, saying, "Go where you will." Governor McCall gave us liberty to march or tarry anywhere within the state of Massachusetts. We sounded the call of the Motherland in all of your states, and in many of your cities; in your biggest buildings and your busiest thoroughfares; o'er your fields and your hills, in morning, noon-day and night time, and in answer to that call came the sons of Britain, so that our Unit is up to fighting strength and soon going overseas.

We received at the hands of Col. Scott of New York, your Stars and Stripes. We accepted from Mayor Curley of Boston, the Tri-color of our beloved Ally, France, and there was ence to those who fought and died on Bunker Hill, to carry, for the first time in 142 years, the flag of Britain up over its height, where we were met by an officer of the Army of the United States, who, in extending his hand, said, "You come today upon the soil to receive a hearty hand clasp where 142 years ago you would have received a blow. This war has made it so that we are now at last one people, and will so continue through the centuries."

Could we go back to our homes in Canada, to our Battalion now composed one-half of our sons and one-half of yours, without extending to you for all these kindnesses, these honors and these privileges, our very warmest thanks? We want you to know how in the heart of every Kiltie there is a deep-rooted affection for this land—New England. We hope that your success and greatness as a people will ever continue, and it is our desire in serving the cause for which we have pledged our lives, that our actions shall always commend themselves to you, and that we will be ever worthy of the welcome you gave us, and the love and good fellowship which you have extended. Good bye, New England. God be with you!

THE LADIES OF HELL

There's a toss of the sporran,
 A swing of the kilt,
 And a skreech frae the pipers
 In blood stirring lilt;
 They step out together,
 As the pibroch notes swell—
 O, they're bonnie braw fighters
 The Ladies of Hell.

They are far frae the heather
 And far frae the moor;
 As the rack of their hillsides
 Their faces are dour,
 O, the "Campbells are coming"
 Frae corrie and fell—
 What a thrill to their slogan
 These Ladies of Hell.

As they charged at Culloden
 Like fire o'er the brae,
 Their brothers are charging
 In Flanders today,
 And one lesson in manners
 The boche has learned well
 It's make way for the ladies—
 The Ladies of Hell!

THE FIRST FIVE BOSTON RECRUITS, ALL OFFICERS OF CLAN MacKINLAY, ORDER OF SCOTTISH CLANS, TO CROSS THE BORDER TO FREDERICTON WITH BRIG. GENERAL H. H. MACLEAN, G. O. C. TROOPS, NEW BRUNSWICK COMMAND AND LIEUT. COL. GUTHRIE'S LITTLE SONS DOUGLAS, 3½ AND RONALD 6½ YEARS

(BOSTON GLOBE)

The first five Boston men to enlist in the 236th Canadian Overseas Battalion, Sir Sam's Own—the New Brunswick Kilties—are back in Boston to tell other Boston Canadians what a wonderful outfit they belong to and to persuade Canadians in this city to join.

They were met at Fredericton, N. B., by Brig. Gen. Hugh H. MacLean of the Canadian General Staff, who welcomed them into the ranks of the Kilties, and also by their commander's two little sons, who now wear the uniform of their father's regiment. They were shown about the city and met the members of the battalion of which they are now members, and after donning the Maclean tartan and khaki were eager to return to Boston and get their Canadian friends into what they believe is the greatest regiment ever formed.

Some of these men are well known around Boston. J. P. Allan is possessed of an extremely fine baritone voice, and for some time has been musical director in the Clarendon Street Church. R. M. Finlayson is best known as the chief of Clan MacKinlay, though he was formerly employed as a buyer in the leather goods department of Jordan Marsh Company's stores. J. E. Kerr is a past chief of the Clan MacKinlay and secretary of the Intercolonial Club. Allen and Ferguson have lived in Boston a number of years, and all took advantage of their first opportunity to join a Canadian regiment.

CHRONOLOGICAL HISTORY OF THE KILTIES

NEW ENGLAND RECRUITING CAMPAIGN

Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY, June 3rd. Lt. Col. Percy A. Guthrie, Officer Commanding, 236th Overseas Battalion—The Maclean Kilties of America—Sir Sam's Own, Canadian Expeditionary Force, accompanied by Capt. T. H. Rand McNally and Capt. J. Douglas Black, arrived in Boston with authority from the Adjutant General, Canada, to carry on recruiting in the United States. A conference with Colonel F. B. McCoy, Chief Recruiting Officer for the New England States, was held in the morning at the United States Army Recruiting Headquarters. Arrangements were completed for the beginning of the Kilties' campaign in Greater Boston, and Colonel McCoy placed part of his offices, at No. 3 Tremont Row, at the Kilties disposal.

At noon Capt. McNally spoke in Tremont Temple before a large audience, while Colonel Guthrie and Captain Black were conferring with Colonel McCoy. In the afternoon Colonel Guthrie spoke at the annual memorial services of the Grand Clan of Mass. O. S. C. at the Parker Memorial Hall.

Colonel Guthrie, accompanied by the first five Boston recruits—all being officers of Clan MacKinlay—left for Fredericton, N. B., to attend the "Farewell Field Day" held at the battalion headquarters.

Captain Black remained in Boston to organize the campaign in the New England States and to take charge of the publicity work in connection therewith; Captain McNally took charge of the Kilties' recruiting office.

MONDAY, JUNE 4th. The first recruiting meeting held by officers of the British Army took place at noon on Boston Common, being addressed by Captain McNally and Captain Black, who spoke from the American Army recruiting stand and secured a number of recruits.

TUESDAY, JUNE 5th. Recruiting meeting held at Boston Common and the second lot of recruits from Boston for the Kilties left North Station that night for Fredericton. At 10 p.m. Capt. McNally and Sergt. R. M. Finlayson addressed a meeting of the Boston Caledonian Club.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6th. Lt. Col. Guthrie, accompanied by Mrs. Guthrie and their three children, Ronald, Margaret and Douglas, Capt. and Mrs. Percy F. Godenrath and Lieut. H. A. Seely, arrived in Boston from Fredericton in the evening with the Kilties' Pipe Band of thirty-six pieces. They were greeted by representatives of the Canadian, Scottish and British organizations of Boston, together with the Highland Dress Association Pipe Band, who escorted them through the city to Boston Common. march run up as high as 100,000 and the enthusiasm was such as had never before been seen by "Our Boys." Colonel Guthrie spoke briefly from his auto on behalf of the party in appreciation of the wonderful spontaneous reception they had been given. The Colonel and his party were then escorted to the Parker House, where they established their headquarters, and the Pipe Band were entertained at a beefsteak supper at the Crawford House, the guests of His Honor, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who was represented by Major J. Harry Hartley.

THURSDAY, JUNE 7TH. At 11 o'clock, Colonel Guthrie, accompanied by the Officers and Pipe Band, paraded to City Hall, where they were welcomed by Mayor Curley. Later, Colonel Guthrie, the Mayor, Rear-Admiral Bowles, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Public Safety of the City, and the Officers, held a conference in the Mayor's office. While this was going on the Pipe Band entertained a great crowd which had gathered, by playing several selections.

Mayor Curley made a striking speech in welcoming the Kilties to Boston and expressed the hope that their campaign would be marked with much success.

From City Hall, the Kilties proceeded to the State House and were there received by His Excellency, Governor Samuel W. McCall, on behalf of the State of Massachusetts. The Governor left the Council Chamber and accompanied by his Staff went outside to watch the Pipe Band counter-march and play, after which he made a speech of welcome for the State and said that everything that the Commonwealth could do to assist the Kilties would be done.

From the State House the Officers and Pipe Band paraded to the United States Army recruiting tent on Boston Common, where Mayor Curley was the principal speaker at a big meeting which was held. The Band then paraded to Pemberton Square where another meeting was held. After that Colonel Guthrie and the Officers paid a visit to Commissioner Stephen A. O'Meara, a native of Prince Edward Island, and Supt. of Police Michael H. Crowley.

In the afternoon the Pipe Band attended a performance of Ringling Bros. Circus, the guests of the Management.

In the evening the Pipe Band played at Keith's and the Boston Theatre and another recruiting meeting was staged at Scollay Square.

Through the kindness of Adjutant General E. Leroy Sweetser, Militia of Massachusetts, and Lt. Colonel Stover, the Pipe Band were furnished with billets at the 5th Regimental Armory at Charlestown. The Band is in charge of Lieut. Seely.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8TH. A party of 12 members of the United Spanish War Veterans, headed by Timothy W. Kelly, Senior Vice Dept. Commander, reported for duty, having been assigned by Mayor Curley to assist in the Kilties' recruiting campaign in Greater Boston. Another party of civic employees were also assigned by Mayor Curley for the work of preparing platforms and otherwise making arrangements for the meetings to be held in the various parts of the City. The recruiting tent on Boston Common which had been in use by the 5th Massachusetts Regiment Infantry, was turned over to the Kilties by Lt. Col. Stover and Capt. P. F. Godenrath placed in charge.

Recruiting meetings were held at noon at the Fish Pier, South Boston, and Boston Common, and in the afternoon the pipe band paraded to Fenway Park where the Boston and Detroit teams of the American Baseball League were playing. The band led the baseball players in a march around the park after piping for their physical drill.

Recruiting meetings held at Maverick Square, East Boston, at 7 p. m., and at City Hall, Chelsea, at 8.30 p. m., the Officers being assisted by Past Commander Chas. E. Walsh, of the United Spanish War Veterans, and Sgt. J. Ernest Kerr.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9TH. Recruiting meetings held at 12 noon on Boston Common; 1 p. m., Pemberton Square; 4.30 p. m., at Recreation Park; 7 p. m., Quincy Square; and 8.30 p. m., Gibson Street Playground in Dorchester; 10 p. m., Intercolonial Club at Roxbury.

On the Common, in the afternoon, George B. Hunt, a New York Canadian, spoke at the Kilties' tent and secured a number of recruits.

SUNDAY, JUNE 10TH. Permission had been granted by the Metropolitan Park Commission for the first public speaking that had ever been done on the Park Reservation. Owing to the unfavorable climatic conditions, however, the meetings had to be cancelled.

In the evening Lt. Col. Guthrie and the Officers visited home of Boston Lodge for Elks, where the pipers played about the dining room and the dancers also performed; Colonel Guthrie addressed the members after the "11.00 O'clock toast," and Captain Black, a member of St. John Lodge No. 7, C. B. P. O. E., also spoke.

MONDAY, JUNE 11TH. Almost continuous recruiting meetings at the tent on Boston Common from noon until 4.30 p. m. Twenty-three recruits left in the evening for Fredericton, N. B., in charge of Captain Black, after being paraded to the North Station by the Pipe Band.

J. Mullen presided and afterwards entertained the Officers, speakers and Band at supper. The speakers included Dr. Rustum Rustomjee, the great publicist from India.

At 10.00 p. m., the British Naval and Military Veterans were addressed by Colonel Guthrie.

TUESDAY, JUNE 12TH. At noon, meetings held on Boston Common and at Scollay Square. At 6.30 p. m., parade of thirty recruits to North Station, escorted by 100 American Blue Jackets. Officers and band visit Somerville and at 8 p. m. meeting held at Union Square; and 9 p. m. at Davis Square, returning to Boston at 10 p. m. Officers entertained at Stag Night at the Elks' Club.

Kilties vacate complimentary recruiting room at No. 3 Tremont Row, owing to rush of recruits, and move to temporary office on Sudbury St.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13TH. In the morning the Pipe Band visited the Robert D. Brigham Hospital for Incurables and entertained Mrs. Charlotte Stuart McDonald Cribbes, a Scottish patient, with music and dances.

At the noon recruiting meeting on Boston Common Mr. Ignatius McNulty, a prominent labor leader, assisted the Officers in addressing a most successful recruiting rally.

In the afternoon the Pipe Band and Recruiting Officers went to Lynn in a special trolley car and held recruiting meetings.

Pipe Band gives complimentary concert in the honor of the production of "Caliban," for the Red Cross, at the Parkman band stand on the Common.

THURSDAY, JUNE 14TH. A noon recruiting rally held at the tent on Boston Common.

In the afternoon Boston Elks hold Flag Day Celebration. The Kiltie Pipe Band, in charge of allied Canadian, Scotch and British organizations, presided over by D. J. MacNichol, "The Kilties Farewell" was held at Mechanics' Building before an audience estimated at 10,000. Col. Walter Scott, of the New York Scottish, presented the Battalion with a magnificent silk American flag.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16TH. At noon, Lt. Col. Guthrie and Officers, with the Pipe Band, call on Mayor Curley at the City Hall to bid farewell to Boston. Colonel Guthrie presents a 15-pound St. John River salmon, brought from New Brunswick by Captain Black on his return, to the Mayor. After the band had serenaded His Honor, Mayor Curley presented the Battalion with a stand of French colors which had been caressed by Marshal Joffre.

In the afternoon on the Common the Kilties and the 9th Massachusetts Infantry held joint rallies, and assisting the Officers were Sergeant Major Irving D. Appleby and Corporal Albert Topping.

Between the tent on the Common and the recruiting office at 9-A Bosworth Street, a total of 108 recruits were enlisted today.

SUNDAY, JUNE 17TH. Weather conditions prevent holding of recruiting rally at Revere Beach. Colonel Guthrie and Officers speak in City churches. Lieut. H. A. Seely takes charge of the recruiting office and announces through the press that 727 men had enrolled from Greater Boston to date.

At 6.30 p. m., 129 recruits entrained at the North Station for Fredericton, after a parade headed by the Pipe Band through the City.

In the evening recruiting rally held at Scollay Square—from which point the band escorted Colonel Guthrie to the Clarendon Street Baptist Church where he was introduced by the Rev. William Allan, the Pastor. Sergt. James Allan, member of Clan MacKinley and former leader of the Church quartette, sang.

THE MACLEAN GATHERING AT DUART

Though the sons of Duart wandered from the valleys of their sires,
There's a halo round the mountain peak that nevermore expires;
For the memory of the morning of the heart is ever true
As the hills of Mull and Morvern, gleaming o'er the waters blue.

So we gather, gather, gather,
Like the sons of loyal men,
And we rally round the banner
Of old Duart's house again.

On the field of red Culloden we were midst the foremost there,
When the slogan of the Islesmen rent the sultry battle air,
Well the Hanoverian horsemen knew the valor and the might
Of the children of Clan Gillean in the grappling ranks of fight.

And on lonely Killiecrankie when the onset word was given,
And the soul of Graham was wafted through the distant throbbing heaven,
Oh, we tore adown the Garry's banks like torrents from our snows,
And the claymore of Clan Gillean cleft the glory of her foes.

And when the blood on Sheriffmuir was pouring forth like rain,
The heather bell was deeper red for blood of the Maclean;
Wherever men were gathered in the starkest hour of strife,
The sons of Duart freely flung away for truth, their life.

Never pibroch sounded battle but the foemen saw our plaid,
Never heroes lay in carnage but our brothers there were laid;
Never foe returned to face us, never clansman fled the field,
Never threat of foe or tyrant made the sons of Duart yield.

And though Mull and Morvern slumber far across the distant waves,
And the lonely sea is sobbing by the clansmen's sleeping graves,
We are ready, ever ready, to obey our country's call,
To do battle like our fathers, like our fathers, too, to fall.

So we gather, gather, gather,
Like the sons of loyal men,
And we rally round the banner
Of old Duart's house again.

LAUHLAN MACLEAN WATT.

Edinburgh.

YE SCOTS OF THE MAPLE

Maclean, Maclean, Maclean, come forth!
Come in from the east and the west and the north;
Come in from your glens and your mountainous crags,
Come, fling out your banners and unfurl your flags.
Ho, Gather Ho! Gather ye now for the fray,
For the fiery summons has sped on its way,
And the clans are all rising to stand at your back,
For it's down with the Kaiser, and all his fell pack!

MacKenzie, MacKinnon, MacGregor and Graeme,
All Highlanders wild, who have "Mac" to your name;
Come, throw down your ploughshares; come, fling down your pen;
Be ye farmers or fakirs, remember you're men.
The enemy's gauntlet's been flung in our face;
They've slaughtered our sons and insulted our race;
And the blood of our brothers calls out from afar
For terrible vengeance, for merciless war!

Clan Ranald, Clan Alpine, wherever you are,
Do you no' hear the pibroch a-calling to war?
Must the Frank and the Saxon secure us our food?
Will ye barter your honour for alien blood?
Must our sisters and wives be insulted, and worse;
Must we writhe under Tyranny's horrible curse,
Before ye can see, by the Tartan's dark stain,
That our blood has been spilt, and you're clansmen again?

Ye Scots of the Maple, who've boasted your birth,
And sung your own praise as the "salt of the earth;"
Come, show to the world that your boast is not vain;
What you've done once in battle, you'll do once again;
Though the Skean dhu is gone, with the claymore and targe,
The spirit's the same that leads on to the charge,
So let the proud tyrant know well, for his part,
Our answer to insult—a dirk in the heart!

Douglas Black, took part in the parade. It was the first time in 142 years—since the British red-coats fought their way up the hill in 1775—that the banner of Great Britain had been carried to the summit of the hill. On a platform at the base of the famous granite monument, Lieut. Col. P. A. Guthrie of the Canadian Army, and Capt. Wm. J. Sullivan of the 9th Regiment, U. S. A., stood with their hands clasped and pledged themselves—as representatives of their respective countries—for one cause, "The crushing of the German autocracy and the salvation of the democracy of the world."

Following the parade the pipe band were entertained at luncheon in Charlestown by the United Spanish War Veterans.

In the evening, after a parade down town, Officers and Band entrained for Bangor, Maine. Lieut. H. A. Seely, with staff, left in charge of the recruiting work in Boston.

TUESDAY, JUNE 19TH. Recruiting party arrives in Bangor and after breakfast at depot, under escort of K. Company, 2nd Maine Regiment, parade to West Market Square, being welcomed to City by Mayor John F. Woodman; 8 a. m., first recruiting rally held in West Market Square; 9.30 a. m., Kilties' Pipe Band and 2nd Maine Regiment Infantry escort United States Army and Navy recruits to train.

Following parade Officers and Band visit Oldtown by special trolley car and hold recruiting meeting in public square, assisted by Colonel Frank M. Hume of the 2nd Maine Regiment. Seven enlistments of Canadian born were secured. Mayor W. H. Waterhouse entertained the Officers and Band at luncheon at the Hotel Fransway.

Returning a stop was made at Orono, where a short recruiting rally was also held.

In the afternoon, following the Kilties return to Bangor, Colonel Guthrie and Mrs. Percy F. Godenrath (formerly a nursing sister in the Canadian Army Medical Corps) address a large public meeting in the City Hall, on behalf of the Red Cross, at which music was furnished by the Pipe Band.

Pipe Band was entertained by the City at dinner at the Banquet room of the City Hall, and Officers were guests of the Committee of Public Safety at dinner at the Bangor House.

WALTER SCOTT—KINSMAN

The Maclean Kilties of America have gained many friends in the United States since they crossed the border that memorable first week in June. From the bewildered and awed youngster on the street who nudged his pal and whispered, while they passed with a swish, "Them's the Kilties," to mayors, millionaires and mild-mannered governors, they have been universally received with genuine warmth and hospitality comparable only to the proverbial Highland one. Instead of cities of peoples gathered from many native races, it seemed as though the Kilties were returning to a land that for generations, like "Auld Scotia," had grown to learn and love the sound of skirling pipes and the sight of "the bonnet, the kilt and the feather." For the American friends of the Kilt are legion. By their many acts of kindness they have openly shown it. And of that number one of the most enthusiastic and willing has been—and is—Colonel Walter Scott of the "New York Scottish."

It is he who came over from New York to Boston with staff and pipers to attend that wonderful "Farewell to the Kilties." And as a complete surprise, then presented to the Battalion its beautiful silk "Old Glory." It furnished the crowning thrill of a series of thrills that night. The flag of the United States, on whose soil so many of the boys had enlisted, was now to be carried beside the flag of the British Empire, emblematic of the greater Americanism of the Macleans.

Since that night Col. Scott has been a "box seat Battalion booster." He has spoken of "The Maclean Kilties" continually, and in places, too, where it has helped. He is already sponsor for a number of Kilties.

But this is only typical of the man as he is known, among Scotchfolk, practically, from coast to coast. Born in Canada of Scottish parentage, his pulse always quickens and his heart responds to anything which has in it the call of other days of Scotland's glory. Though a staunch American citizen he is a Scot of Scots, in fact, the best known, perhaps, of any in the country. His love for Scotland's traditions has been applied. For several years, more than anybody, he has kept alive her spirit by donating thousands of medals in cities and towns throughout the country for pipe playing, Scottish dancing and "Best Dressed Highlander" competitions. He has brought those famous gatherings of the North in which the flower of Scottish manhood competed, over to these shores, and made them a permanent institution here. To charities he has been a consistent giver, ever mindful above all of his "ain folk."

In many organizations Col. Scott has been prominent. He is a Past Royal Chief, and at present Royal Tanist of the Order of Scottish Clans, the greatest fraternity of men of Scottish blood in America—of which such a large number of our own boys are members. He founded Clan MacDonald of Brooklyn and was its first Chief. For many years he was Chairman of the Board of Directors of the St. Andrews Society of New York. Caledonian Clubs without number include his name on their roster.

There are scores of other activities with which he is identified in a business or social way. And as a claim to real fame, he is a warm personal friend of Harry Lauder. The regiment of which he is Colonel is the old 79th Highlanders of Civil War fame, the only Scottish regiment that ever served under the Stars and Stripes. In the very first engagement of that war—the disastrous battle of Bull Run, they were there and suffered severe losses, but fought on for the remaining four hard years.

Little wonder that the pipes with the streaming ribbons of Maclean of Duart appeal to the heart of this man. His heart is sheathed in tartan—a man worthy of the name of he of Abbotsford—a Lord of the Isles—a true friend of "The Maclean Kilties of America."

A FAREWELL RALLY

(The Fiery Cross)

A notable gathering of Scots assembled in the Mechanics Building, Boston, Mass., on Friday evening, June 15, to bid farewell to Col. Percy A. Guthrie, his officers, and the pipe band of the Maclean Kilties of America.

The fact that a large number of members of the O. S. C. in Boston and vicinity had joined the Canadian Kilties added a very close and personal interest to the occasion.

In addition to the presence of practically all representative officers, with delegations from the several Scottish societies of Boston, Col. Walter Scott was present from New York, and brought with him as his guests Major Wilson, Captain MacLeod, and several pipers, representing the New York Scottish.

Col. Scott presented to Col. Guthrie and officers a magnificent, silk United States standard.

THE MACLEAN COCKTAIL (A Recent Invention)

As a special mark of honor to the Kilties the liquid refreshment jugglers of Boston and New York invented a perfectly good drink that is now the rage. Ask any white-coated mixologist behind the mahogany at the McAlpine of New York, the Parker House or the Crawford House at Boston to chase along a Maclean cocktail and he will produce a thirst quencher, or should we say an appetite raiser, par excellence. For the benefit of those readers of the BREATH O' THE HEATHER who reside without the bounds of a "dry-bone" state or province and may still enjoy the luxury of a cocktail, the following is the recipe:

Equal parts of "Johnnie Walker" Scotch and Gordon Dry Gin, a good dash of Grenadine, orange juice and mashed pineapple. Frappé well and serve.

In the evening a joint recruiting meeting was held at the City Hall.

Pipe Band, in charge of Capt. J. Douglas Black, entrained for Fredericton, N. B.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20TH. Capt. T. H. Rand McNally of the Kilties, accompanied Col. F. H. Parkhurst (Committee of Public Safety), Col. Frank M. Hume, and Capt. Ashworth Second Maine Regiment and Mr. Sabine W. Wood leave on a joint recruiting trip for Caribou, Fort Fairfield, Presque Isle, Bridgewater and Houlton. Capt. McNally later returned to Headquarters via Woodstock after securing twenty-two recruits.

At 3 p. m., Col. and Mrs. Guthrie and Captain and Mrs. Godenrath left Bangor for Fredericton, arriving at 11 p. m. At the railway station, Brig. Gen. Hugh H. MacLean, G. O. C. New Brunswick Troops, welcomes the Commander of the Kilties back to Canada. Headed by an escort guarding the colors of Great Britain, the United States and France, and followed by the Pipe Band, Colonel Guthrie and party are escorted down town, where the citizens had gathered to receive him and welcome them home.

SCOTLAND, ARISE!

The British flag has finally got up Bunker Hill. But it took a long time. And besides, the feat wasn't accomplished according to the rules of civilized warfare. It was carried up at the head of a gang of barbarians from New Brunswick playing bag-pipes.

KILTIE OFFICERS ARRIVE

(Boston Globe)

Three gay Scotch soldiers, with their kilts and their belts, their sporrans and the feathers acock in their bonnets, tumbled off the train from Fredericton, N. B., yesterday morning. They were officers of the 236th Overseas Battalion, here to recruit Canadians and British subjects, and they went into action with a celerity and effectiveness that rather took Yankee breaths away.

Before nightfall they had made several recruiting speeches, arranged headquarters in the United States Army recruiting office, collected a decent-sized contribution for their work and obtained twenty-one recruits. Five of these were sent east to Fredericton last night. They will learn the ways of the battalion, see how they like it, and return to help to get more recruits.

Lieutenant Colonel—or rather, in the vernacular, Lieutenant Colonel—Percy A. Guthrie, who swinging down the Lafayette mall on the Common.

"You certainly can," said the captain.

"When?"

"As soon as you like."

"I'll go now," said the man. "I'm a Canadian, from Georgia, where I've been living for some years. I'm here visiting my brother."

"Report at the Parker House at 5 o'clock," said Captain Black. And the man went East last night.

"The battalion is a recent one, but many of its men and most of its officers have seen service already. It has now thirty-two officers, of whom thirty have been wounded. Forty-two of its non-commissioned officers are already veterans of the war, too. We have 609 men at present, 182 having been transferred to other units.

"When we reach England we shall first be given three weeks' leave and shall tour Scotland, visiting the clans and winding up on the Isle of Mull, the home of the Macleans of Duart. Our appearance on the front, by the way, will be the first time that the Maclean tartan had been seen in active service since the battle of Culloden, in 1745," said the officer commanding.

Colonel Guthrie brought with him Capt. J. Douglas Black, the battalion quartermaster, and Capt. T. H. Rand McNally, the chief recruiting officer of the Kilties. As orderly the party has Sergt. John Roberts, an Englishman, who lived in Boston for a good many years, but who went to New Brunswick to join the 236th.

A delegation of the Caledonian Club met them at the station. In the group were, besides others, Pres. J. E. Kerr and Messrs. Finlayson, Davidson, McCall, McGregor and Thompson. Later in the morning, Captain McNally addressed the Bible class in Tremont Temple, while Colonel Guthrie went to the Dudley Street Baptist Church and spoke to the Bible class there.

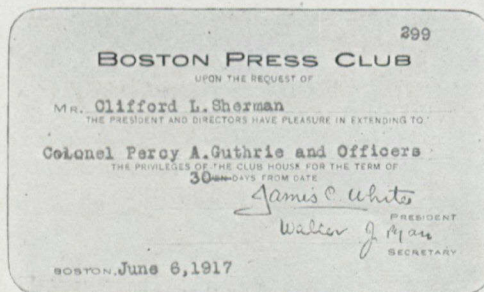

CANADA'S "KID COLONEL"

(Boston Journal)

Canada's "Kid Colonel," first volunteer of the war, veteran now of months of fighting at the front and hero of a series of thrilling adventures, when the ship on which he was returning home wounded was torpedoed by a U-boat, arrived in Boston yesterday in "kilties." He came to get recruits for Canadian troops and his campaign got under headway with such a bang that he left last night with sixteen of them.

He is Lieut. Col. P. A. Guthrie, commander heads the recruiting party, gave the reporters who visited him at the Parker House a new view of Canadian recruiting methods.

In the afternoon, all the officers went to the memorial services in Parker Memorial, conducted by the combined Scottish societies of Massachusetts. Colonel Guthrie spoke again, paying tribute to the memory of Sergt. George Chalmers, who was killed in France last September, fighting in a machine gun section of the second Canadian division.

Colonel Guthrie returned to Fredericton last night; Captain Black and Captain McNally remained to get ready for the recruiting campaign, and the colonel will get back here Wednesday night.

The recruiting methods are simple and direct. "Can I get into the Kilties?" a man asked Captain Black yesterday, as the three officers came of "Sir Sam's Own," the Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth Overseas Battalion and he is coming back for more recruits.

With him, in their kilties, with skien dhus stuck down the legs of their stockings and wearing canes for this duty in lieu of swords, came two of his captains, J. D. Black, a former Boston civil engineer, and T. H. R. McNally, a former New York newspaper man. The captains remain in town to keep up the recruiting work until the colonel returns. They are at the Parker House.

The recruiting party launched a drive that is to spread, under the direction of additional Canadian officers, throughout the country. The campaign is authorized by the United States Government to enlist British subjects. General White of the British army will take up headquarters in New York soon as chief of the campaign.

The first call of the party was at the army recruiting office, 3 Tremont Row, where arrangements were made with Colonel McCoy to use part of the United States station for the Canadian recruiting. A despatch from Washington reached Colonel McCoy yesterday apprising him of the Government's permission for the Canadians to make enlistments here.

Colonel Guthrie will bring back from the camp of his battalion at Fredericton, N. B., Wednesday or Thursday, a band of thirty-four Highland bagpipers to rouse Boston to the British colors. The battalion, which is the only one in Canada now wearing kilts, needs about 300 men before it leaves for the front in a few weeks.

RECRUITING FOR CANADA

(Monitor)

Officers of the Canadian and United States armies, representatives of the two great English-speaking nations, are now working together in a common cause, enlisting men for service on the battlefields of France, and hearing one of the Canadian officers say "go to it," in a typical American manner, gives evidence of a close bond of sympathy and friendship between the representatives of the two countries.

Captains J. Douglas Black and Rand McNally of the Canadian officers are now in Boston enlisting men for the Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth Canadian Overseas Battalion, which will be the last volunteer organization to leave Canada, according to Captain Black, as drafting is well on its way there now. Captain Black was a newspaper man in Canada for fifteen years, later taking up civil engineering with offices in Boston, so he really feels quite at home. Captain McNally has been through the battles of Givenchy and Messines. He was formerly the editor of a New York magazine.

An elaborate bagpipe band, numbering thirty-four pieces, said to be the largest this side of Europe, is scheduled to arrive Thursday, when it will start making daily parades around the city. The Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth Battalion is better known in Canada as "Sir Sam's Own" and the "Maclean Kilties." They wear the Maclean of Duart tartan which, when it goes into battle in France, will be seen in actual service for the first time since the Scottish and English forces fought at Culloden in 1745.

The physical requirements are much the same as in the United States Army. No one but British subjects may enlist, however, but if one could go by the conversation around the recruiting tent, many a United States citizen would like to enlist in this organization. As one said, "I am an American born but I am just Scotch enough to wish that America would raise some Scottish regiments if they even had to wear a red, white and blue tartan to work it."

Assistant, Sergt. John Robert, all expressed the appreciation of the hearty welcome and fine offers of co-operation received from the American people. The Battalion needs but 350 men, and if recruiting goes on as it has been going since the office opened at 3 Tremont Row and at the United States Army tent on the Common, the quota will soon be filled. The battalion leaves Canada at the end of the year for Scotland where a three-weeks' trip will be taken through the Highlands, ending up on the Island of Mull, home of the Macleans. After this trip the men will go into training at one of the big English camps for three months and from there they will be moved to the front.

pipe band of the Maclean Kilties, which got into North Station last night.

Fully 2,000 people were jammed on to the platform in the midway and as many more waited outside in Causeway Street. Most of the crowd joined in the parade of the pipers, and by the time they had gone through Friend street the famous Scotchmen had disappeared in the midst of a tramping multitude.

It was just one great cheering mass that swung along through the dark streets, with skirling pipe-music somewhere in the middle of it. How the gymnastic bass drummer ever got room for his calisthenics, nobody knows.

Behind came Lieut. Col. Guthrie in a motor, with Mrs. Guthrie and two diminutive Guthries in full regimentals. Ahead went a hastily gathered section of the Boston Pipe Band, with a bugler from the British Army and Navy Veterans, and ahead of them a platoon of police.

The police detail was of twenty-five men, from many different divisions, under Sergt. Corcoran of Division 1. Whether it was because the policemen were tired at the end of a day's work, or because they had no ear for rhythm, they didn't march and they didn't keep step.

The route was up Friend, through Washington, Hanover, Scollay Square, Court, Washington to Boylston, and by Boylston to Tremont, to the Parker House. Here Colonel Guthrie's motor swung out of line, and the rest of the parade continued on to the Crawford House, where the visitors were put up for the night.

On the way up Tremont Street the parade stopped in front of the recruiting tents on the Common and Colonel Guthrie made a brief speech, in which he said:

"I am overwhelmed by the reception you people of Boston have given us. It only goes to show how strong are the ties between the United States, the greatest democracy in the world, and Canada.

"When the Central Powers hear what has been accomplished in this country within the last two days they are going to tremble to their very foundations. They have sought to crush the world by the grip of their iron fist, but now they know they are beaten and that they are to be forced to pay for what they have done to poor little Belgium and to the other Nations which have fallen victim to her murderous brutality."

Colonel Guthrie's voice was very husky, as he has been speaking almost continually during the past few days.

All day long Capt. J. Douglas Black of the Kilties had been hustling to make arrangements for the Canadians' 10-day recruiting campaign, which begins this morning. The Governor, the Mayor and the Committee on Public Safety all contributed; in the end the Kilties received a permit to go anywhere and do anything they wish to do, and the police are ordered to help them. Mayor Curley personally paid for their beefsteak supper at the Crawford House and their rooms.

The Governor gave them the Charlestown Armory for a home during their stay here, and Commissioner O'Meara and Superintendent Crowley made every arrangement for the forwarding of their cause.

During the next 10 days the campaign for recruits for the 236th Overseas Battalion will go forward full tilt, and the pipe band will be in the very middle of it.

The Kilties called at City Hall, just before noon, where Mayor Curley and a battery of camera men greeted them.

The Mayor welcomed them to Boston, and said he hoped they would stir up the latent patriotism of British subjects in the city.

While the Mayor and Canadian officers, Col. P. A. Guthrie, Captain Godenrath and Captain Black, conferred regarding the program for the next four days, the pipes gave a concert in the yard of City Hall. Pipe Maj. W. H. Ross announced that five different tunes had been played, but those in the crowd insisted they were all the same.

George B. Cohn, a newsboy, stepped out of the crowd, doffed his straw lid, his coat and vest, and danced the Highland Fling to the plaudits of hundreds.

From City Hall the men marched to the State House, accompanied by Admiral Francis T. Bowles, chairman of the Boston Public Safety Committee, and then to the Common.

It was announced that the band will play on the Common every noon during its stay here. There will be a concert in Scollay Square to-night at 8, and concerts in Quincy and Somerville on Saturday.

The Maclean Kilties' band went to the State House at 12.15 to pay its respects to Governor McCall. Colonel Guthrie and Captain Black, with Admiral Bowles, invited the Governor to the front steps where he was serenaded by the pipers.

The Governor in the course of a brief address, thanked the Kilties for their visit and praised them for what they had done in Europe. He spoke of the neighborliness of United States and Canada and of the democracy of Government which distinguished the North American continent.

KILTIES ARRIVE IN BOSTON—Con.

The Governor pointed out that although 3,800 miles of border separates the countries, it has not been necessary to patrol it with militia in order to maintain the peace between them.

There's something about the squealing pipes that just draws people right along. It isn't altogether their novelty; it isn't that there are so many of them in the pipe band of the Kilties,—the Maclean Regiment that opened its campaign for recruits this morning on Boston Common—but whenever the big pipe major lifts his cane and the drones begin their song, every boy within hearing gets on one foot and prepares to follow.

They came to the Common this morning and made history. For the first time since General Howe or General Gage, or whoever was in command that morning, told the Boston boys they might coast, a British officer in uniform has spoken in the interest of England's Army on Boston Common.

They occupied the rostrum which has been Colonel McCoy's, and the Colonel was there with them. Then began an extraordinary spectacle, an officer of the United States urging men to join the British forces, and officers of the English Army calling on "all Americans" to take off their hats, and then ordering them to report for enlistment in the Army of the United States. Of course, each speaker also worked for his own army, but the sight of the fraternal work was very impressive.

Rustom Rustomjee was the first speaker, and then Colonel McCoy introduced Colonel Guthrie of the Kilties. Colonel Guthrie's throat has gone back on him, however, and he was unable to speak.

Mayor Curley, who has strained precedent to help the New Brunswickers, pointed out that if anybody knew British subjects in Boston he should "make them enlist." His idea is that no British subject should stay here unenlisted; either they should be naturalized, and take their stand with other Americans or they should at once get into the service of their own country.

The pipes played "There's Nae Luck About the Hoose," and set feet jiggling in the crowd. Captain McNally spoke briefly and the irrepressible Captain Black called for every British subject in sight to pull off his hat. Perhaps twenty caps went up.

"Come on in here, boys," shouted Captain Black. "I want every man who took off his cap then to come up to the stand. We want every one of them. We take 'em up to 45; we take 'em single and we take 'em married. Come on, get into the best paid and the biggest army in the world. Your wives and children will be taken care of by the Canadian Government."

A little thrill ran through the crowd as the Britons began to fight their way through the dense mass to the rostrum. A dozen were there in a minute, and as the pipers marched off down to Scollay Square, the rookies fell in alongside. So did about 2,000 of the 5,000 who had been packed on the Common in front of the stand.

KILTIE PIPERS COME TO TOWN

(Boston Herald)

Great crowds welcomed Lieut. Col. Percy A. Guthrie and his pipers of the 236th Battalion, New Brunswick Kilties, on their arrival at the North Station last night. As they marched through the narrow streets of North Boston to the strains of "The Bonnets of Bonnie Dundee" and "The Campbells are Coming," the Kilties' Band and that of the Massachusetts Highland Dress Association playing alternately, thousands cheered them.

From North Station along to Hanover street, across Scollay Square and along Washington to Boylston Streets and the Common, the crowds marched along to the music of the pipes. Usually at 10.30 at night, the uptown streets are almost deserted; last night they were filled with people along the route of the parade.

Colonel Guthrie brought with him Mrs. Guthrie and his two little sons, aged 3 and 6. The little boys were dressed in the kilted uniform of the battalion and much of the cheering was for their special benefit. The pipers wore khaki tunics and plaid kilts, with sporrans, contrasting with the white tunics and gayer colors of the local Highlanders.

At the Common Colonel Guthrie gave a speech necessarily short, for he was hoarse. The crowds filled the street and surged around his automobile. He spoke of the cause of democracy for which the allies are fighting, and declared that the entry of the United States, "the greatest democracy in the world," has made victory certain.

"We are here," he said, "to recruit 300 men in three days. In three weeks they will be in England, and in three months in France. And I want them to take a message red-hot from the melting pot to the Germans."

Captain Black and other members of the battalion who have been in Boston for several days met Colonel Guthrie and his party at the station and marched with them. With Colonel Guthrie there came from Canada Captain Percy F. Godenrath, former publicity commissioner for Prince Rupert; Lieut. H. A. Seeley, and Mrs. Godenrath, who was formerly an army nurse in France.

Today Colonel Guthrie will call on Mayor Curley, Governor McCall, Commissioner O'Meara, Superintendent Crowley and Admiral Powles. Tonight he and his Kilties will attend Keith's Theatre at the invitation of the management. On Friday afternoon the pipe band will give a concert in Fenway Park. Colonel Guthrie is staying at the Parker House. The bandmen, more than thirty in all, are at the Crawford House.

AT THE BALL GAME

(Boston Globe)

The "Kilties" put the ball game in second place out at Fenway Park yesterday afternoon. Colonel Guthrie and his bagpipe band held forth before the game got underway, and before the Scotch-Canadian outfit had finished they had the whole works on ice.

The Colonel met the Red Sox and the visitors. He shook hands with one and all and then presented natty little swagger sticks to Jack Barry, Hugh Jennings and Ty Cobb.

KILTIES ENLIST FOR ALL ALLIES

(Boston Post)

British recruiting in the United States for the armies of all allied powers, through American recruiting agencies, was announced semi-officially in Boston yesterday. The Canadian enlistment forces already at work here are to assist in this recruiting in this district. Subjects of Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and citizens of France will be called upon to enroll for war service either in British soldier units or in the military organizations of their own countries.

KILTIES SECURE MEN FOR U. S.
ARMY

(Boston Globe)

The Maclean Kilties of America last night secured twelve recruits for the United States Army. Colonel Guthrie and Captain Godenrath, accompanied by four pipers and two drummers, made speeches in Maverick Square, East Boston, and in Chelsea. Besides the Canadians who stepped up in answer to the appeal for recruits—there were fifteen of them—twelve Americans said they would join the American Army in preference.

"Good men!" said Colonel Guthrie, "fall right in with us and we'll take you to the American recruiting office." The twelve accepted his invitation.

On their return from the recruiting parades, Colonel Guthrie and Captain Godenrath entertained the twelve Spanish War Veterans who have been assigned to the Kilties by the city during their stay in Boston at a dinner at the Parker House.

The Kiltie band, minus the four pipers and two drummers who were with the Colonel, appeared at Keith's and the Boston again last night.

About seventy recruits were secured by the Kilties for their own Battalion yesterday. Their total is now more than 200 in this city alone.

At the recruiting meeting in Chelsea City Hall at 7 o'clock last evening, two enlistments were made and others promised.

The Kilties' band rendered a musical program and addresses were made by Colonel Guthrie, Captain Godenrath and A/Sergt. J. E. Kerr of Boston, of the Kilties, and Charles E. Walsh of the Spanish War Veterans. Timothy W. Kelley of East Boston, senior vice department commander of the Spanish War Veterans, presided.

REVIEW OF FIRST WEEK

(Boston Post)

Last night the first week of "Kiltie" recruiting in Boston ended with 300 men of British and Canadian birth enrolled for war enlistment in the big Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth Overseas Battalion of the crown. And during the seven days new local history has been made here by the officers detailed on this, the first recruiting mission for foreign armies the United States has ever seen.

Captain T. H. Rand-McNally of the "Kilties" on Monday spoke from the American army recruiting stand on Boston Common, the first foreign officer in uniform to address a meeting of Hub citizens on that hallowed ground. This afternoon Colonel Guthrie, Captains Godenrath McNally and Black, with the bagpiping band of the Scotch-Canadian battalion, hold forth for recruits on the Revere Beach parkway, at 3.30 o'clock, the first time public speaking has ever been permitted on the metropolitan reservation. Governor McCall personally instructed the Park Commission to grant the permits which make such a public recruiting rally on the boulevard possible.

And here the "Kiltie Kids" will hold forth for a minute or two. The three children of the fighting colonel of the Overseas Battalion, all in neat little Maclean plaid uniforms, will be stood on the rail of the speakers' stand for a moment each, to wave their little Scotch-Canadian hands at the big throng, just to show that they are regular youngsters of the North American continent sort.

Yesterday on the Common the "Kilties" got thirty-four recruits. And after they left for Pemberton square to call on Police Commissioner O'Meara and Superintendent Crowley, one heretofore unknown George B. Hunt, New Yorker and travelling man, mounted the platform and secured eight more before he finished speaking. Then he modestly stated that he couldn't help it—he is Scotch-Canadian himself.

GERMAN DYES IN MACLEAN KILTS

(Boston Post)

The dyes used to make the colorful Maclean tartan which the "Kilties" are to wear to the British war front were brought to this country from Germany in the Deutschland on her last voyage here.

Yesterday Captain J. Douglas Black told the story of the dyes which the "Kilties" are going to carry back to the German lines in their plaid dress. The consignment of dyestuffs was bought by a Canadian firm in New York shortly after the Deutschland arrived in July of last summer. From Canada they were shipped back across the water to England.

Then the "Kilties" gave the order for their uniforms. Not until September did the first plaids arrive for their kilts. If the Deutschland had not reached here on her July trip, there would probably be no Maclean tartans today, the captain said.

Incidentally, with these German dyes the famous Scotch Maclean tartan will be carried into battle for the first time since 1745, when 500 Macleans led the charge against the English at Culloden, out of which fight only six Macleans came back, sole survivors of the half thousand who rushed into the fray shouting the Maclean war cry: "Beatha no Bas!" "A life of victory or a death of glory!"

JANITOR MAKES KILTIES VACATE

(Boston American)

The "Kilties" got "fired" out of their complimentary recruiting rooms at No. 3 Tremont Row and had to rush around and hunt up a new place to open as enlistment headquarters.

It all happened on account of the janitor. For months he had been running the elevator on local time-table schedule. But when the army began to get busy and then the "Kilties" started things rolling fast and furiously with swarms of applicants for war service with their overseas battalion, the janitor had to "lean right up against it" in his elevator operating.

No sooner did the "lift" get back to the ground floor than it had to start right up again with a lot of rollicking Scotch-Canadians who wanted to go to war with the 236th.

JANITOR MAKES KILTIES VACATE

—Continued

So the Tremont Row Realty Trust, duly accredited as operators of the office building, had to come through with a request that the "Kilties" vacate to some other structure where the crowds of soldiers-to-be could pour in all day and night without overworking the janitor.

The "Kilties" are locating on Sudbury Street today, within 100 yards of their former offices, "ready for business," as usual.

BIG SEND OFF AT MECHANICS BUILDING

(Boston Journal)

Representatives of the British, Canadian and Scotch societies of Boston met at the City Club yesterday to discuss plans for the big farewell to be given Col. Percy A. Guthrie, his officers and pipers of the Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth Canadian Kiltie Battalion at Mechanics' Building Friday night. Later in the day, Mrs. J.

Walter, Jr., Miss Lena McKenzie, Mrs. Roscoe Davidson, Mrs. Peter Miller, Mrs. A. T. Cann and Mrs. W. E. C. Goudey had a conference in the Parker House to arrange for the reception of the thousands of women who will be at the farewell party.

The women visited department stores and arranged to have tickets sold by clerks who will be assigned to the work by the store managers. Last night they had dinner with Mrs. Percy A. Guthrie, wife of Lieut. Col. Guthrie, and Mrs. Godenrath, wife of Capt. Percy Godenrath, one of the captains of the Two Hundred and Thirty-Sixth, who was sent back from the trenches to assist in the recruiting campaign in Canada and Boston. Mrs. Godenrath, who will be one of the speakers in Mechanics' Building, was mentioned in general orders for her work as a nurse on the battlefield in France.

At yesterday's meeting in the City Club committees were appointed from the different British, Canadian and Scotch societies to handle all details of the farewell, Lieut. Col. Louis D. Menzies and Lieut. Col. John Smith of the British Military and Naval Veterans' associations are to have charge of the parade through the streets before the reception and concert in Mechanics' Building. In the parade will be six pipe bands, at least one brass band, hundreds of men of the British, Scotch and Canadian societies and officers and men of the United States army and navy.

Stirring appeals will be made by the various speakers for recruits for the American, British and Canadian armies.

CALIBAN

Lieut. Col. Guthrie of the 236th Kilties' Battalion of Canada, which has created such a sensation in Boston the past few weeks, has become so interested in "Caliban," which is to be given at the Harvard Stadium the latter part of the month, that he is giving a complimentary concert in honor of the production at the Parkman Bandstand on the Common this evening with the famous Kilties Pipers.

KILTIES PLAY TO SCOTCH LADY

(Boston Post)

Away up on the top of Roxbury's Parker Hill, in the Robert S. Brigham Hospital for Incurables, a little old Scotch woman yesterday smiled joyfully through her tears to hear the bagpipes play once more.

She is Mrs. Charlotte Stuart MacDonald Cribbes, descended from MacDonald of Kippoch of 1745. A detail of Canada's rollicking "Kilties" were carrying her back across the years with their skirling, and "Cock o' the North" and the "March of the Macleans" were crying out for the land of the purple heather and the thistle and the "Hielands."

THE PIPERS PLAY FOR LITTLE OLD SCOTCH INVALID

Mrs. Charlotte Stuart McDonald Cribbes

Mrs. Cribbes had written her plea to Colonel Guthrie of the "Kilties." She wanted to hear the "pipers" again, she said; Here is her letter: "I am an invalid in this hospital, from Scotland, and was laid up while expecting to return home. How I should love to hear the pipers again! Is there no possibility of your men, just a few, being able to come up this hill before you go away?"

"There are many here who would love to hear the bagpipes, some like myself from the Highlands of Scotland. I am a lineal descendant, on my mother's side, of MacDonald of Kippoch of 1745—and to say the sound of the pipes stirs my blood is to say little.

"If you can arrange to let me, and everyone here, as far as I know, have the pleasure of hearing a pibroch or quickstep or anything you may! "Anyway, I wish you great success in wief of our dear martyrs at the front. Many relatives of mine are—and were—there."

So the Colonel sent a detail of pipers out to the hospital away on the top of the big hill to play for Mrs. Cribbes—just a little old Scotch woman in whom the yearning for one more skirl of the bagpipes was strong. And the kilted soldiers of the Scotch-Canadian Overseas Battalion gave over an hour to the kindly duty set them, playing and dancing the Highland fling until the "lineal descendant" of MacDonald

KILTIES CARRY U. S. FLAG TO BATTLE

(Boston Post)

When Colonel Perry A Guthrie of the Two Hundred Thirty-Sixth Canadian Battalion leads his Kilties into action again overseas in France or Flanders, his troops will wave the Stars and Stripes as well as the Union Jack in the faces of the foe.

For last night in Mechanics' Hall, amidst the cheers of more than 10,000 people, who had gathered to give the Kilties a farewell, as they leave for the front again with the recruits who have joined them here, a large silk American flag, with a gilded American eagle atop its staff, was presented to the Canadians by Colonel Walter Scott of the New York Scottish Regiment.

Colonel Guthrie, hailing the gift as marking the "first time in history that an American flag was presented to a British battalion," promised that the Kilties will proudly carry it into action with them alongside the Union Jack.

"It may be that following these two flags the Kilties of Canada and the Kilties just recruited from the United States here in Boston may not return, but we will fight until the last man has dropped, if need be, until the world's peace shall be forever made secure," declared the Kilties' colonel.

High officers of the United States army of the city and of the State joined in the farewell exercises. The big hall was filled to its capacity, floor and galleries, and many stood in the outside aisles. Many who could not gain admittance even stood outside in the rain where only the skirl of the bagpipes was distinguishable.

The parting exercises were carried out under the auspices of the Canadian Club and other allied Canadian, Scotch and British organizations. President D. J. MacNichol of the Canadian Club presided.

Adjutant-General Sweetser, representing the Governor, turning to Major Paul Azan of the French army on one side and Colonel Guthrie on the other, aroused the gathering to an outburst of applause when he expressed the hope that "the next time we meet there may be French troops on my left and Canadian troops on my right."

"And we will see it through," he added, "and the tri-color of France and Maple Leaf of Canada, with our own Stars and Stripes in the centre, will mean democracy and freedom and in the end everlasting peace all the world around."

Major T. L. Hunt of General Edwards' staff, speaking for the army, declared that "ever since the war began Canada has been an inspiration to all America."

"America knows the sacrifice she faces with you now, but she flinches not at the cost," he asserted. "America will not sheath the sword until the crown of thorns crushed down upon the brows of Belgium and France are lifted in their great resurrection day."

Mayor Curley paid a high tribute to Colonel Guthrie and his Kilties. He said:

"They have shown our Boston Committee on Public Safety how to win recruits, but as much as we love Colonel Guthrie and his Kilties we hope it will not be necessary to urge any American to do his plain duty of sacrifice and service for humanity."

Mrs. Godenrath, wife of Captain Godenrath, wearing the nurse's uniform in which she for months administered to the wounded across the water, described the parts the women of England, France and Belgium are playing in the war, and told the women of America that "there is no privation, no sacrifice, you can make too great for the cause our beloved countrymen are now all fighting for. Our guard is in Flanders; heaven help the rest of the world if that line breaks," she said amidst great applause.

Cheers rang through the hall again when John Kinnear, aged veteran of the Civil War, hailed as "the first man to answer Lincoln's call in '61," clasped hands with Colonel Guthrie, the first Canadian to offer to join the colors when Britain entered the war.

When the Kilties marched out of the hall at the conclusion of the exercises, they carried their new battleflag, the Stars and Stripes, beside their old one.

UNION JACK ON BUNKER HILL

(Boston Post)

The British Union Jack, held in the hands of a sturdy Kiltie of the 236th Canadian Overseas Battalion, was carried up Bunker Hill and planted at the base of the monument yesterday afternoon, while a part of the thousands who viewed Charlestown's best Bunker Hill Day parade cheered until they were hoarse.

It was the first time in 142 years—since the British redcoats fought their way up the hill in 1775—that the banner of Great Britain had been carried to the summit of the hill.

The cheers that greeted the flag were mere whispers, however, compared to the roars of enthusiasm which rolled down the hill when a colonel of the British forces and a khaki-clad captain of the forces of the United States clasped hands and joined together in urging enlistment for war.

Their handclasp with the cross-bars of the Union Jack and the starry folds of the Stars and Stripes flapping above them was a fitting climax to a celebration of the famous battle anniversary such as has never before been seen. It was the "Glorious 17th" as in years past, there was the parade—the best ever—as usual, the cheering thousands lined the streets of the route and cheered each and every favorite among the marchers, there was the usual presentation of flowers to the officials, including a bouquet of American Beauty roses to Captain Percy F. Godenrath, who led the skirling pipes.

But war brought a new tinge to the ceremonies. Instead of the oratory telling of the deeds of heroes long dead, speakers joined in urging enlistment and a repeating of the deeds of valor of the men who made the 17th historic.

On a platform at the base of the famous granite shaft Colonel P. A. Guthrie of the Kilties, "Sir Sam's Own," and Captain William J. Sullivan of C Company, Ninth Regiment, stood with their hands clasped tightly and pledged themselves—as representatives of their countries—for one cause, "the crushing of the German autocracy and the salvation of the democracies of the world."

The start of the celebration came with a flag raising in Hayes Square, Charlestown, at 1.30 o'clock. Even there a note of war entered into the ceremonies. Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, who was the chief speaker at the exercises, brought applause from the thousands assembled in the square when he said:

"We shall go to war, every man's son of us that is able to avenge the insults to this flag which we have just raised. We shall go to avenge the cruel, cowardly murder of our citizens on the high seas. We fight for our right to sail the seas—we fight for our place in the sun. We are ready to defend with our lives the institutions made possible by the men who fought in our long war for freedom.

"There is a red glow in the eastern sky—it is the red glow of war, but may we not hope that the reddest part of all of it represents the dawn of a new day when swords shall be put away and democracy shall rule the world? We have started out to crush the mailed dragon of Central Europe, and when we have accomplished that undertaking, and not until then, will peace be possible among the nations of the world."

The parade, with Eugene Mehegan as chief marshal at its head, got away from the corner of Bunker Hill and Elm Streets shortly after 2.30. A long line of military companies and civic organizations, with the usual floats and features, it took fifty minutes in passing the reviewing stand. It wound its way through a route that covered all sections of the district.

Directly behind Marshal Mehegan came Colonel Guthrie, his Scotch plaid uniform contrasting sharply with the khaki of Captain William J. Sullivan of the Ninth Regiment, who acted as chief of staff. Marshal Mehegan shared honors with Colonel Guthrie for the applause that greeted the head of the procession.

Behind came the regulars of the coast artillery, their khaki uniforms followed by the spotless white uniforms of the jacksies from the battleships Virginia and Georgia, and reserves from Commonwealth Pier and Bumpkin Island. The Fifth Regiment of the National Guard, Charlestown's own regiment, followed and drew a good share of handclapping. The G. A. R. veterans, the Kilties Pipers, Spanish War veterans, women of the Daughters of the Revolution, of the Women's Relief Corps and of various patriotic, social and church organizations, marched or rode in carriages, their costumes of white and colors breaking the monotony of the khaki and blue.

Following the parade came the ceremonies and recruiting rally at the base of the monument.

"This is the greatest moment and day in my life," said Colonel Guthrie. "I thought when I led the Tenth Battalion of Canada across German trench lines that I had realized all honors but today, when I followed the skirl of the bagpipes and the emblem of the country for whom I am fighting up the side of this historic hill and now, when I clasp hands with a representative of the forces of the United States, I realize that nothing can ever bring me greater joy or honor. After all these years, since the first blood was shed here, we meet again and we shall send the message forth."

(Boston American)

The pipers of the Maclean Kilties of America—Sir Sam's Own—serenaded Mayor Curley at City Hall today and presented him with souvenirs in return for courtesies extended to them by the city during their recruiting stay in Boston.

The gifts were presented by Colonel P. A. Guthrie and included Battalion albums for Mrs. Curley and some of the children of the Mayor, a British Army swagger stick for James M., Jr., and a genuine Canadian salmon for the Mayor himself, caught the day before by Captain J. Douglas Black.

Before the crowd collected on School St., Mayor Curley responded with a speech in which he called the Kilties "the defenders of Democracy" and then he presented the Battalion with a stand of French colors. The Mayor said: "These colors have been caressed by the hands of Marshal Joffre himself."

Colonel Guthrie responded "This is the crowning glory of all. Every Kiltie will cheerfully give his life that this banner may be consecrated on the field of honor. I consider it an honor to fight beneath its folds, and I hope I may come back with a message of liberty." A member of the Ninth Regiment was impressed into service to carry the flag, and thus the Kilties recruited from Canadian Scotchmen in Boston, marched away to commence training.

MEMORIAL SERVICE GRAND CLAN OF MASSACHUSETTS

(The Fiery Cross)

The sixth annual memorial service took place Sunday, June 3, and was a complete success.

Sergt. James P. Allan, of Clan McKinley, Mrs. Bessie Begg and The Stewart Quartette of Clan Stewart, Mr. Rodger, Mr. Wilson, Miss Rodger and Miss Doull furnished the vocal part of the service, and pleased the large audience. For the first time, in Massachusetts at least, lady members of the various auxiliaries took part. A beautiful ritual ceremony, with responses and an original prayer rendered by Mrs. Helen F. Spaulding, Grand President of the Grand Lodge of Ladies' Auxiliaries, made a deep and lasting impression on all present.

Rev. W. Allan delivered an admirable address. A feature of the day was an eloquent short speech descriptive of the horrors of war, and an accurate account of the gas attacks on troops at the front was given by Lieut. Col. Guthrie of the 236th Canadian Regiment (The Maclean Kilties of America). The platform was bright with the red coats and kilts of the McKinley Guards. Bugler George S. Mitchell played the last post. Over three hundred were present. The ceremony of depositing a wreath on a vacant chair draped with the MacKenzie tartan in memory of Sergt. George Chalmers, who was killed in action in France, was conducted by Colonel Guthrie.

EDITORIAL

(Boston Record)

The "Kilties" are giving Boston a real taste of effective recruiting methods. What red-blooded youngster is there who is not tempted to action by the strains of the bagpipes as they pass through the streets of Boston?

We have never believed in the voluntary system of enlisting in the army. It fails to impress upon the community the sense of duty to serve one's country in whatever capacity needed. It collects soldiers by much the same process that the circus collects audiences. The appeal to duty is mixed up with glowing accounts of how well the men are treated, and with the emotional stimulus of a band of music. It is too much tinsel and glitter. But the "Kilties" do it well. The battalion has been through the mill. They know what war is. Their officers are trained in trench fighting.

The soldier who enlists with them today is in the thick of it in a few months. There is no danger of a long, tedious period of training on this side of the water, made unpleasant because of the inevitable inability of the War Department adequately to supply or care for its troops. We imagine that our own red-blooded native sons envy the Britishers their opportunity to become a "Kiltie."

THE MACLEAN METHOD

(Boston Journal)

A fair example of successful recruiting was seen in the Maclean Kilties' campaign. The Canadian method netted more men nearly every day than the United States army got from Boston in some whole weeks. The Canadians truly exemplified the power of invitation; they talked to the prospective recruits as man to man, not as man to dog. They laughed and talked, and paraded every day with a band that could be heard at a distance of ten city blocks. There were no threats, no shrieks, no apoplectic harangues.

WEARS GORGEOUS PLAID

(Boston News Bureau)

The Maclean Highlanders regiment will soon go into battle wearing their gorgeous seven-color plaid kilts which they haven't worn in war since 1745. They hadn't been on active duty for 200 years and when they did go out for recruits they had to be content with six-color plaids. The seventh color was obtainable only from a dye made in Germany. But on its last trip over the Deutschland brought underseas the necessary dye, and some of it made its way to Canada, thence to London, and thence to the mills which weave the tartans.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

(The Boston Record)

In the "good old days" when war was bloody but romantic, when a first-class fighting man saw the man he was after and hit him with an axe or whatever weapon he had in his hand, there was no lack of show to the game. But lately war has become a sober business, with long-range guns, and with hand-to-hand fighting with bayonets only at particular moments. War will not go back to panoply and pomp and fine feathers. The gilt and tinsel are gone from it forever. Warring kings no longer hold ornate and ceremonious court near the fighting lines, with their dancers, opera troupes, etc.

But the military band remains, at least back of the lines. Why not use it more to stir the blood of potential recruits? We are in the midst of a recruiting campaign hereabouts; but why restrict the emotional appeal to young men who happen to go to the Common and run into a burst of oratory? Why not hold more martial parades through the streets?

Not long ago the Maclean Kilties came to Boston, and startled us all by the ease with which they picked up recruits who were quickly whisked off for rapid training, and who will soon be at, or close to, the front. How did the Kilties do it?

There were several reasons for the success of the Maclean Kilties of America. One was the fact that they were real fighting men who knew their business, who had about them the glamor of rough service, and who offered a promise of quick action to those who went with them. But the best recruiting argument they had was the bagpipers' band. It stirred things up.

ONE THOUSAND RECRUITS FOR CANADA

(New York Herald)

Boston, Mass., Saturday.—Boston will miss the Canadian Kilties when they finish their recruiting campaign and leave here on Monday for their barracks at Fredericton, New Brunswick, via Bangor, Me. The kilted soldiers from New Brunswick have made a recruiting record that leads that of any American military organization that has been at work, by a big margin, and if they had another week to spend here they could easily enlist men enough to make up another battalion.

The recruiting methods of the Kilties, much like the old-time political rallies minus the red fire, are being gradually adopted by the officers of American military and naval organizations on recruiting service here and it is believed that the results will be gratifying to the heads of the Navy and War Departments.

When the Kilties leave Boston they will have enlisted close to one thousand men, all of them British subjects, for the 236th Maclean Battalion, and other Canadian units, and between four and five hundred for the United States army.

Men who expressed a preference for the United States service at the rallies of the Kilties were promptly turned over to American officers, and if there were none their names were taken and given to Colonel McCoy, head of the United States recruiting station in Boston.

The Kilties will be as sorry to leave Boston as Boston is to have them go. They have been featured in every parade or celebration that has been held during the last week, their officers have endured more at the hands of their friends anxious to entertain them than they did in the trenches, and on Friday night the Canadian, Scotch and British societies gave them a farewell at Mechanics' Building which was attended by close to 10,000 persons. The proceeds from the sale of tickets and a collection that was taken in the building was turned over to Col. Percy A. Guthrie for the battalion recruiting fund.

If the weather is fine tomorrow, the Kiltie band will give a concert to between 150,000 and 200,000 persons on the Revere Beach Boulevard, and tomorrow officers and band will participate in the exercises to be held in Charlestown in commemoration of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

"Yours will be the first British military body to take part in a Bunker Hill day celebration," Colonel Guthrie was told when he was asked to send his Kilties to Charlestown.

"We will be with you," the Colonel answered. "Bunker Hill was a long time ago, and we are Allies now and I hope we always will be."

Colonel Guthrie has asked the Herald to express his thanks to the residents of Boston for the way in which they have treated him, his officers and his bandsmen.

"I had always supposed that a British military organization would be unpopular in Boston," he said, "but never in my life have I encountered more warm-hearted people than I have here. Governor McCall, Mayor Curley, Police Commissioner O'Meara and every state and city official has done everything possible to facilitate our work and make our stay in Boston pleasant. Some of the most delightful men we have met are the Spanish War veterans, who, by request of Mayor Curley, have been helping us induce British subjects to enlist, and if they are all city employes, and I understand that they are, I congratulate the Mayor on having such a fine body of men under his direction.

"Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, chairman of the Boston Public Safety Committee, has aided us wonderfully. In fact, every man, woman and child in Boston has been with us, and I can assure them that the Boston boys who have joined our battalion will be given every opportunity to give a good account of themselves. And I know that they will. I pray to God that we will be able to bring them all back to their loved ones, proud in the knowledge that they have helped democracy crush Prussianism and its evils."

The Kilties were invited to Bangor by the Mayor and the various commercial bodies of the city and have been assured that when they leave for New Brunswick they will have at least one hundred Maine boys in their ranks. The Kilties expect to be in France within the next three months.

KILTIES AT BANGOR

(Daily News)

Bangor has seen the Kilties Band and heard eloquent, earnest, stirring speeches by talented Canadian officers, who seem to be as capable in the line of platform oratory as on the field of battle, and the city gave the visitors a royal welcome. Twenty-one recruits were secured here and in Old Town for the Canadian regiment, six joining in Old Town.

Crowds filled the streets all day to witness the parades and listen to the speeches delivered from the recruiting stand at the committee on public safety headquarters in West Market Square.

Arriving in the morning, the Kilties and party had breakfast; then there was a parade and later another to the 10.15 with the recruits, who left for Portland, twenty-three in number. Talks were given from the stand at West Market Square by Mayor Woodman, who welcomed the visitors to Bangor; Col. P. A. Guthrie of the 236th Battalion, Lieut. J. D. Lane of the United States Navy, Lieut. Commander W. R. A. Rooney, also of the Navy, Col. F. H. Parkhurst, chairman of the county committee on public safety, Capt. J. D. Black of the 236th Battalion, Capt. D. I. Gould of Co. G National Guard of Bangor, and Capt. T. H. Rand McNally of Fredericton. Their remarks were most stirring and caused much enthusiasm.

The escort of recruits to the Union Station then took place, Co. K joining forces with the visitors and officers in automobiles.

Later special trolley cars were boarded for a trip to Old Town for recruiting purposes and the Kiltie band and officers made a decided sensation there as well as in Bangor. Six men volunteered. A stop was made at Orono and the return was made to Bangor, the band proceeding to City Hall just in season to open the Red Cross meeting for 3.30 o'clock. The men marched into and around the auditorium, then departing for their headquarters' tent in West Market Square, which had been erected during the day for them.

Following the Kilties' return from Old Town at 3.45 p. m., there was a Red Cross meeting in City Hall, at which music was furnished by the band. As the band was a little behind on its schedule at this point the scheduled concert was omitted.

There was an attendance of between 500 and 600 at the meeting, addressed on behalf of the Red Cross war fund by Colonel Guthrie and Mrs. Godenrath, wife of Capt. Percy F. Godenrath of the 236th Battalion.

Owing to lack of time the members did not make any extended remarks but contented themselves with urging that the work of raising the $100,000,000 Red Cross war fund be successful. Colonel Guthrie, who was invalided home from France, made an earnest and touching appeal for the support of the Red Cross and the wonderful work it was doing on the western front.

Mrs. Godenrath, who was a nurse in the base hospitals in France, gave a very interesting talk and a strong appeal for Americans to wake up and realize they were in a war. She said that the people did not realize it because the war had not been brought home to them in the way it had been to the citizens of other nations who had left their sons on the awful battlefields of France and Flanders. In her opinion, there was much work yet to be done and every effort should be made to meet the requirements of the hour. It was simply a case of united and concerted effort.

It was the strong, direct and forcible manner in which this woman who had done her work in the hospitals in France urged loyalty and co-operation that made the matter so impressive. During the meeting the Kilties furnished music and afterwards paraded through many of the streets before the joint recruiting meeting which was held at 5 o'clock.

At 5 o'clock a recruiting meeting was held in West Market Square, following a short parade through Franklin, Harlow, State and Main streets by the Kilties' band, Co. K, and several automobiles.

Ringed speeches were made by Col. F. H. Parkhurst, Captain Godenrath, Colonel Hume, Lieut. Com. Rooney, Sergt. Lennard of the 236th, Lieut. J. D. Lane of the U. S. Navy, Col. P. A. Guthrie, Capt. E. E. Bennett, and Capt. J. D. Black.

Several men entered the stand to enlist, and there was much cheering and enthusiasm. A huge crowd filled the square and the streets around.

At 8 o'clock at night a great meeting was opened at City Hall, Mayor J. F. Woodman presiding. While the people were gathering the Bangor Band gave a fine program of patriotic selections. When the Kilties' band and Canadian officers appeared there was a great outburst of applause as they took their seats on the stage.

At that time the auditorium was packed with humanity, every seat being taken and hundreds upon hundreds crowding upon the floor, standing. It was estimated that fully 3,500 people were in attendance. The full supply of seats had not been used on the floor, consequently more people were able to crowd in by standing than would have been the case with seats. At the close of the speaking program the hall was still crowded, testifying to the interest of the people in proceedings.

FIRST HONORARY MEMBER

To be the first honorary member of The New York Scottish, Gotham's crack Highland regiment, has fallen to the lot of our own O. C., Lieut. Col. Percy A. Guthrie. As this issue of the regimental journal goes to press, word was received in Boston of the presentation to the Chief of a handsome solid gold medal and badge, beautiful in workmanship and with enameled flags of the United States and Scotland, with the eagle on top and the thistle below. On the bar is engraved "Honorary Member," and on the reverse of the medal, "Lieut. Col. Percy A. Guthrie, 1917." It was presented by the New York Scottish and delivered in person by Second Lieut. James Bain, who has since joined the Maclean Kilties of America as a private.

CLAN NAMES

(The Scottish American)

The following gives the meaning of the names of the principal Highland clans in Scotland:

McIntosh, the son of the First; McDonald, the son of Brown Eyes; McDugall, the son of Black Eyes; McOnnechy or Duncan, the son of Brown Head; McGregor, the son of a Great Man; McCuithbert, the son of the Arch Druid; McKay, the son of the Prophet; McTaggart, the son of the Priest; McCleod, the son of the Wounder; McLean, the son of the Lion; McKenzie, the son of the Friendly One; McIntyre, the son of the Carpenter; Campbell, Crooked Mouth; Cameron, Crooked Nose; Stewart, High Stay or Support.

THESE KILTIES FROM THE NEW ENGLAND STATES HAVE OFFERED THEIR LIVES FOR DEMOCRACY.
WHO WILL FURNISH THEM WITH KILTS IN WHICH TO FIGHT?

THE APPEAL

This issue of THE BREATH O' THE HEATHER reproduces pictures of young men from the New England States in kilts and not in kilts. People will, perhaps, wonder why they are not all kilted. Let us explain:

The Maclean Kilties of America are an International Unit, as two companies are composed of men from every Province in Canada and two companies of men from nearly every State in the Union—men of British birth who volunteered in the Kilties after the recruiting campaign was begun in the land of Uncle Sam. Friends of the Battalion in Canada have whacked up enough money to put kilts on the Canadian boys. It is well understood that the Canadian Government does not supply kilts to Highland Units. They only supply the doublet and balmoral and are not agreeable to going to the expense of fitting out men with complete Highland uniform when others of the same rank wear the ordinary soldier's gear.

The Scots of Canada, in common with Scots everywhere, are a proud and sentimental race. They are always willing to give freely of their lives when liberty is at stake. They are never backward in getting into a fight when there is a cause, and once in it they never get out of it until they win. The Scot is always desirous of fighting in his own costume, the costume of his fathers.—the dress in which the "Heilanman" through many centuries fought and beat back every invader of his shores. The Scottish eye delights in the flirting of the kilt, the swinging of the sporrán, the fluttering of the flashes and the glint of the skean dhu. The Scottish ear quickly catches from out the distance the thrilling, wailing skirl of the pipes, and the blood immediately pulses quicker stirred by the sound of that music, to which so many men have marched in daring deeds to death and glory. The Scots fight better when garbed in their own fashion and stirred by their own music. If this has been true of Scots in the past why should it not be true of Scots today—why should every son of Scotland not be kilted?

The laddies from New England unkilted on Valcartier plain envy the laddies from Canada whose friends have been good to them. They feel that their friends of the blood in these States should rally to their support and see they are supplied with the uniform so dear to their heart. There are many wealthy Scots in Uncle Sam's Dominions who could easily afford to subscribe generously so that the whole Battalion may be able to go over seas in the garb of the Ancient Gael. On behalf of these young men we, as the treasurers of the Kilt Fund, appeal to such Scotsmen to come to the aid of these brave laddies. Many cannot go and fight for the liberties which we cherish, but can well afford to pay. The Kiltie from New England is willing to give his life for these things. He can fight harder in his native outfit—will you help him?

THE JORDAN MARSH COMPANY OUTFITTED THE FIRST SIX BOSTON MEN TO JOIN THE MACLEAN KILTIES OF AMERICA

(THE BOSTON GLOBE)

Jordan Marsh Company has the honor of furnishing the first six Boston men to enlist in the Maclean Kilties of America with their kilts, sporrans, bonnets and all the rest of the equipment not furnished by the Canadian Government.

These six men enlisted almost the very moment the first Kiltie officers landed in Boston. They were straight-way sent to the Kiltie depot at Fred-erickton, where they looked the depot over, and then returned to Boston to persuade some of their fellows to join what they claim is the "best outfit in the Canadian Overseas forces."

Because of the fact that a Canadian regiment which chooses to don the kilt must bear the expense of the greater part of the uniform, Jordan Marsh Company took it upon itself to equip the first six men. The expense of equipping each man is about $50, and it is therefore quite an item to provide a whole battalion with kilts and the other equipment that goes with them.

Many of the Boston men to join the Kilties are already equipped, but there are others who are not so fortunate, and the Maclean Kilties of America hope that Boston folk are going to do still more to dress their boys in the snappy uniform worn by the regiment.

THE RESULTS OF THE CAMPAIGN

During the two weeks in which the "Maclean Kilties of America" recruited in the New England States over thirteen hundred men were enlisted for the different branches of the Canadian and British Armies, besides several hundred for the United States forces. Send Your Soldier Lad a Pair of Palmer-McLellan Army Boots to Save His Feet in the Trenches.

The cold fall rains will soon commence causing muddy, wet trenches. Real foot protection is given by PALMER-McLELLAN Knee High Waterproof Army Boots.

Oil-tanned and permeated with oil, these waterproof, shoepack style ARMY BOOTS do for the soldiers what they have been doing for Lumbermen and Woodsmen for years—they keep the feet dry and warm everywhere.

Write Dept. 7 for Booklet describing different styles
