GLoucester, Mass., Oct. 15--The former fishing schooner John R. Bradley, which took Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Brylun explorer to Etah, from whence he is to make a dash for the Pole, is to anchor in the harbor here. Later, Capt. Chas. Bartlett, her commander, who was with Peary in the Roosevelt says Dr. Cook accompanied John R. Bradley, the owner of the schooner, as tentatively upon a hunting trip, and until their arrival at Etah he had not announced his intention of trying for the pole. He took only one man from the Bradley, Rudolph Fratkon, a cook. His plan is to stay in Etah until December or until the ice pack becomes well hardened, then dash along the pack. When open water is met he will cross it in two canvas boats.

"THE LATE TENANT"

By GORDON HOLMES

(Continued.) "Well, God help me, then!" she murmured, half crying. "What, then, does Mr. Harcourt mean? He says in the note of this morning that he has not been able to secure the certificates, but believes that Miss Mordant's fiancé, Mr. Van Hupfeldt, may be in a position to give her some information on the subject. What does that mean when you never even heard of the certificates?" Van Hupfeldt, looking squarely now at her, said: "It means nothing at all. You may take it from me that no certificates have been found."

PEIGNOIR OF RIBBON AND LACE.

What may be accomplished with ribbons and laces in the way of a pretty negligee is illustrated in this delightful creation of pale pink satin ribbon and Valenciennes insertions. The shops ask all kinds of high prices for this peignoir, but the clever needle woman can produce one equally as pretty for a third or even a quarter of the price of the ready-made article. All that is necessary is a flat pattern of paper over which the lace and ribbon are basted and then a little patience in sewing each strip of lace and ribbon together. In this garment the cross line of ribbon and lace is broken under the arm by the panel of points outlined with a narrow heading of busy like that joining the body of the gown and the circular flounce. The ribbon is shirred over tiny featherbone cords into the lines of a Zouave jacket and this same treatment is noted in the sleeves, which are open on top of the arm and tied together with narrow ribbon and the cascades of lace. The neck is cut rounding and finished with a lace frill which follows the edges of the front to the bottom of the skirt. A dainty petticoat of fine cotton with lace or embroidery trimmings is worn with such a gown.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL

BULLISH WHEAT SUPPLY FIGURES

Slow marketing of the wheat crop and liberal exports from this country and Canada were responsible for movements out of the ordinary in this country's and Canada's visible supply during September. Thus instead of the large increases in visible stocks normally shown during September an actual decrease was recorded, and as a result the total visible supply at the close of that month was smaller than at the same date in the preceding months for the first time in several years.

SHORT-WEIGHT BUTTER

The Times has waited with patience for a statement or explanation from those who ought to protect the public from the sale of short-weight butter.

No official communication of any sort has been received at this office.

The Times is informed that in Ontario any peace officer or policeman may enter a store, ask to see butter or bread weighed, and if it is short he has power to confiscate it and compel the dealer to deliver it to some charitable institution.

As to shrinkage in weight a correspondent writes to the Times:—

"With regard to shrinkage the facts are:—Butter, to go on the English market, must not contain over 16 per cent. moisture. Ontario and Quebec butter, when tested in England showed only 10 per cent., to 12 per cent. of moisture. Not much chance of shrinkage there, when wrapped or packed in paraffine coated boxes. But at a convention of butter makers at Charlottetown, P. E. I., some two or three years ago, a leading butter maker boasted that from 100 lbs. butter fat he produced 128 lbs butter, being 12 lbs. more than allowed in England and 16 to 18 lbs. more water than in Ontario or Quebec."

It is obvious that the question now raised in New Brunswick cannot be left unsettled. Full weight in prints of butter should be enforced. The customer should not be asked to pay for that which he does not receive. Ify butter may be sold short in weight, why not bread, tea, flour, or any other of the staple necessities? If there is not sufficient legislation at present to protect the consumer, or if an adequate law is not properly enforced, the remedy must be applied.

THE DREDGING

To the average citizen of St. John there is one aspect of the Seammell-Mayes dredging controversy which must appeal with considerable force. Mr. Mayes continues to do the dredging which everybody admits ought to be done before bad weather sets in. Over and over again the city council has been prodded by the press and people to have this work done. Mr. Mayes is doing it. In his low and high water digging he is not doing now what he did not do before, as to method of filling and emptying the scoops.

ELECTION SIGNS

The Sun this morning makes the superfluous remark that the minister of public works "is expected to make some important announcements in his speech" at the Queens county Liberal convention on Thursday.

When did Dr. Pugsley ever mount a platform without some important announcement concealed about his person? There will be considerable curiosity to learn whether the early completion of the St. John Valley Railway will be among the announcements to be made.

The Sun says it is expected that Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Fielding will also be at Gagetown on Thursday. If so more announcements may fairly be expected. The people of Queens-Sunbury, like those of Kings, are to be highly honored this week by the politician, and if the political pot is not soon raised to a boiling pitch it will be because that elusive attorney general has not yet been discovered.

LOOKING TO HUDSON BAY

The Ottawa correspondent of the New York Herald is of opinion that there will soon be interesting developments with regard to the proposed Hudson Bay route. He writes:—

"The whole subject of communication between Hudson Bay and the remainder of Canada is at the present moment engaging the attention of the Laurier government. Sir Wilfrid hoped to have a definite announcement to make to parliament on the matter before the prorogation last session, but the resignation of Mr. Emmerson, minister of railways, and the colonial conference in London prevented it. A new minister of railways, Mr. Graham, late liberal leader in Ontario, has been appointed, and a statement as to the action the government intends to take is looked for early in the coming session."

CITY AND COUNTRY BOYS

The relative fitness of the city and country boy for the race of life was discussed by Prof. Locke, of the new MacDonald Agricultural College at St. Anne de Bellevue, before the Protestant Teachers' Association of Quebec province last week. He was very emphatic.

"The city boy hasn't a chance in competition with the country boy in the race of life," said Professor Locke. "When it comes to a choice between a boy educated at a city high school and one from a rural academy, the employer selects the country boy almost invariably."

The professor went on to say that it was to give the city boy a better chance with his country cousin that the Macdonald Agricultural College simulates the life of a farmer. It is a fact that as a rule the country-bred boy is better equipped for the struggle of life. He has a strong constitution, greater intensity of purpose, and greater regard for the more serious aspects of life. He has greater power of adjustment to conditions. His powers of observation have been better trained, and he has had to learn to do things. The city boy in general excels in mere scholarship, but in general aptitude the country boy is, as a rule, and by the very nature of things, superior. He sees fewer cheap shows, and is less absorbed in the more frivolous affairs of life at a time when his character is in the making. He sees daily the larger world, and his aim is to conquer it. He has ambition, he does not regard hardship, and has learned to rely upon his own powers.

CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

One leading firm of New York brokers take the following view of recent developments in the financial world in the United States:—"The publication of the details of the looting of the Metropolitan by insiders which inevitably leads to the question whether similar notness may not be hidden in other corporate affairs naturally gives confidence another bad blow. Although American railroads and industrials have as a rule been honestly managed, the outside investor will be more than ever inclined to hold his savings until the disclosures have spent their force. Closer regulation of corporations by National Government and State will to this extent be a good thing as furnishing a guarantee against such exploiting of properties as came to light in the traction investigation. Following so closely upon the disclosures of the insurance investigations and the uncovering of the ingame manipulation of the Harriman roads, the traction scandals will probably be the last straw in disgusting Europe with our securities."

A thousand miles northeast of Vancouver, says a letter to the New York Herald, in a country which has been generally considered a wilderness of rock and forest, and nine or ten months ice and snow bound, H. M. Beach, an Ottawa man, has engaged in ranching. In a letter just received from him he states that in a trip to look after his cattle he found strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and blueberries in abundance. All were ripe at the same time, and superior to any he had ever found in the settled parts of Canada, south or east. Mr. Beach is one of the pioneers in the distant region, enormous stretches of which, situated in the great Mackenzie River basin, never have been explored.

The opposition ward meetings are to be held in this city this evening. The party has need of its best men all over the province in the struggle that cannot long be delayed. The whole influence of the federal government will be thrown in the balance against it.

THE VOYAGEURS

"And so they entered the harbor, a pitiable remnant of the mighty fleet which had left France. Some died of disease, some of despair and heartbreak, some threw themselves upon their swords, some frenzied, fought until they fell. And here, among the hills, overlooking the harbor many of them were buried—Account of the Battle of Platts, 1746.

Sleep well, Voyageurs. The quiet hills enfold you. The merry days shall come to you in the quiet silence hold you. But the hill winds and the hill calms. That dwell where you are lying. Are changed as the restless sea. That drove you far and dry.

Sleep well, Voyageurs. Your merry day is over. At long last you are still. That once was free, a rover? The winds that blow no more loathe you in the gay dawns are calling. The seas you may not sail again. Mourn when the dusk is falling.

Sleep well, Voyageurs. The sleep so dreary seeming. But how can you tell what wonder ships Drift ghostlike thro' your dreaming? Ships of the air, ships of the dark. That speed beyond our hailing—And what can you do but stand free The sea you may be sailing?

A hidden sea, a solemn sea. For hearts so wild and daring! And ever one come home again To tell us of his faring. Oh, strange and far and dim the way "The Voyageurs are going!" The dream music of their dream is sweet beyond our knowing.

Who knows what friendly voices cheer? Who knows what radiant halos gleam? The shadowy ships are nearing? Dream, dream, Voyageurs. Oh, deep and long your sleeping. But the hill winds and the hill calms Shall hold you in their keeping. —Annie Campbell Huestis.

THE SEEN ABSENTEE.

The professor of English in one of our western colleges was noted for being very much-minded. It was his custom to call the roll each morning before the class. One morning, after calling a name to which there was no response, he looked up, and, peering over his spectacles, asked sharply: "Who is the absent boy in the vacant chair I see before me?"

HE WAS THE STAKE.

An English merchant was a daily customer in a well-known restaurant, and always honored the waiter in a most generous fashion, as he liked him for his attentiveness. One day, to his surprise, another waiter served him. "The other waiter is here," said the new one, "but he can't serve you." "Why not?" queried the astonished diner.

BEECHER'S WIT.

Justin McCarthy tells a reminiscent story of the late Henry Ward Beecher. Mr. Beecher, a Christian, Plymouth one Sunday and found several letters awaiting him. He opened one and found it contained the singular word "fool." Quietly and with becoming seriousness he announced to the congregation the fact in the next week.

ONE ON THE BARBER.

"There was a barber in South Bend, who, having been out late the night before, had a shaly hand the next morning and cut a patron's shock four times. After each accident the barber said, as he sponged away the blood, 'Oh, dear me, how careless!' and laughed and let it go at that.

CHILDREN'S COURTS

The proposed federal legislation to provide a special court for the trial of child delinquents, a petition in favor of which is now being circulated in Montreal, is worthy of the hearty support of the public. At present there are in a number of the provinces laws which allow the separate trial of children accused of violating the acts of those provinces. There is no legislation however, which provides similar separate trials for children who are charged with breaking the laws made by the federal parliament. These are the special circumstances which constitute the present appeal for the proposed law. It is, in other words, a policy on which the people in our provinces are largely agreed; and yet, for lack of federal action, the authorities are not able to apply this policy to children who come before the provincial courts under the federal laws.

Furthermore, the separation of children from hardened criminals in the courts as well as in prison, appeals directly to common sense and unites in its support all serious students of the criminal problem. With the tendency, prominent in some quarters, towards the elimination of the present element from our punitive system for adult offenders, we have no sympathy. We believe that its success would be limited to the best interests of society. But with children, whose habits are yet in the plastic stage, the case is different. If they are herded with hardened criminals, they are almost certain to become hardened criminals themselves. But, if kept away from criminalizing influences and surrounded by humanizing conditions, the youthful delinquent may be saved to a useful life for society.

Mail Bag Stolen Containing $3,500—No Definite Clue to Thieves as Yet.

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 14—The robbery of a mail bag containing $3,500, on Monday night last, is the principal topic of conversation here.

The facts of the case are that on Monday, a package of money containing the amount mentioned, with a label attached marked in large letters "3500," was sent by the Bank of Nova Scotia agency here for transmission to the head office at Halifax. The money was received at the post office, and about 10 o'clock Monday night, Miss McKenzie, the young lady mail clerk, whose duty it is to look after all registered letters, was engaged in the different packages, letters, etc., and placed them in their respective bags. In one of the small red striped bags, the three registered letters for Halifax besides the parcel containing the $3,500.

The work of sealing the pouches had all been attended to by Miss McKenzie except the bag containing the bank's $3,500. While the young lady was engaged in melting the wax with a match, it was extinguished. This annoyed Miss McKenzie, who let the bag drop. Mr. Ledbetter, an employe, however, then took hold of it, and finished the sealing process. What disposition was afterwards made of the money is not known, but it is believed that the money was taken to the railway station, where it was placed in the safe and Tuesday morning sent to the railway station.

The railway clerks that night failed to find the package and inquiries were instituted at once. It was thought the package might have been misrouted to Toronto, St. Pierre or Newfoundland, but enquiries at these places elicited nothing new. This gave a clue to the bag containing the small pouches was placed in the safe and Tuesday morning sent to the railway station.

It developed that the person suspected had changed a $100 bill, of which there were three in the parcel, and that he had suddenly left the city and gone to Charlottetown, where he has made extensive purchases.

Detective Bradley of Charlottetown has been telegraphed a description of the man and the agency of the Bank of N. S. here also wired the Charlottetown branch to be on the lookout. It is believed the suspect will be traced to his home and news of his arrest is hourly expected.

Moments of Gladness By WALTER WELLMAN

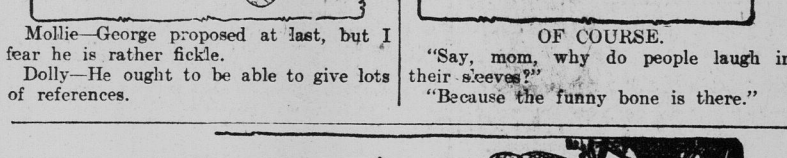

She-I am afraid you can't support me in the way I have been accustomed. He-Why-er-oh-how much alimony have you been getting?

She-Before you go, haven't you a word to say in praise of the little lunch I prepared for you with my own hands? He-Why-er-yes. The cucumbers were excellent.

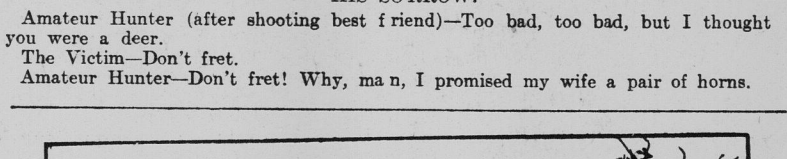

Mollie-George proposed at last, but I fear he is rather feeble. Dolly-He ought to be able to give lots of references.

"Say, mom, why do people laugh at their spouses?" "Because the funny bone is there."

Why Do Women Worry?

First Sign of Failing Health. The woman who worries has a poor appetite—she sleeps poorly. If only lasted for a day or two it might be of small consequence—but she grows limp, miserable, unhappy—worse day by day.

She needs Ferrerozine which cures worry by curing the conditions that render worry possible. For nervous, weak women, no tonic is so good; thousands it has cured just like Mrs. M. E. Etherington, of Troy, who writes: "I am quite willing to give a public testimonial for Ferrerozine, believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, felt tired, and completely worn out. No doubt it's quite a common complaint with ladies of my age, but I placed great reliance in Ferrerozine, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and in fact I have been in better health ever since. I can heartily recommend Ferrerozine."

Ferrerozine cures by making good digestion and a healthy body. This is why it gives color, clearness to the skin, buoyancy to the step, brightness to the eyes—because of good digestion and activity of the body in all its parts, and the health. Dose 30c per box at all dealers.

VICTIMS OF CONSUMPTION

Two Children Died On Same Day, Six Weeks After Father --Sad Instance of Ravages of Great White Plague.

(Toronto News.) The ravages of the dread "white plague" have been responsible for much of the sorrow that has woven itself into the warp and woof of human existence, but it is difficult to imagine a story more sad than that relating to a family which came to Toronto from England eighteen months ago.

The only survivor today of that family of four is the former wife and mother, Mrs. L. M. Peter, 28 Exley street. Her husband died six weeks ago in Weston Sanitarium, and this afternoon two little bodies were borne away to St. James' cemetery. One was that of Walter Lee, aged two years and seven months, and the other was that of Joseph Lee, who had been born only a few months ago.

Walter died at 11.30 on Tuesday evening, when his infant brother passed away at half-past two this morning. Tuberculosis was the cause of their deaths. The illness which culminated in little Walter's death developed from an attack of whooping cough about three months ago.

"He was a very healthy child," said the grief-stricken mother today, "and I had begun to think that he had completely escaped the disease which took away his father. He was very playful, and when I went out working, I used to leave him in the crèche until I could take care of him myself. Then, when he was only a few months old, he began to cough, and the poor little fellow seemed to sink from that day. We had him placed in the Sick Children's Hospital but they told us finally that they could do nothing for him there. When he came home again Dr. Webster attended him constantly, and everything possible was done."

"Though he was very weak, he liked to be up and about, and on the morning of his death he had just watched me while I washed his brother."

Mrs. Lee states that Joseph, the younger child, had never been very strong, but she had never lost hope that with the best medical aid that she could procure her infant son might become in time as robust as the others. About seven weeks ago, however — just at the time of the father's death — the little fellow's condition grew serious, and his vitality gradually grew worse.

Mr. Lee, who was only about 30 years of age, was an industrious laborer, and he had been at that time he became so weakened that he would give up entirely while at work. Bravely he fought against his illness, but it gradually overcame him, and he went to Weston Sanitarium for treatment. So advanced was the disease, however, that his condition gradually grew worse.

Many kind friends have interested themselves in the family, and their sympathy is as understood, soon to be in the form of an expression on behalf of Mrs. Lee. Foremost among those who have assisted her in her great trouble she counts Mrs. Clara McFarland, part of whose home she now occupies.

"There never was anything sadder than the scene Mrs. McFarland saw this morning with the mother, weary and heart-broken, beside the tiny coffin and gazed upon the little face which had at times been so full of hope as Mr. and Mrs. Lee were on arriving in this country. They always appeared so happy, never complaining of the cloud which seemed to threaten. I believe they had some belief that the change of climate to London would do them good."

Shortly before the family removed to Weston, Mrs. Lee died. Though on the verge of collapse from the great strain caused by the heavy hand of death in taking away her loved ones, Mrs. Lee is now in fairly good health.

PROF. BELL ALMOST READY TO SOAR

Experimental Machine to Make Its Initial Trip Next Week if All Goes Well.

HALIFAX, Oct. 14—Prof. A. Graham Bell's flying machine experiments at Baddeck, are now well advanced. It is learned from Prof. Bell that he is nearly ready to put a large machine into the air and may within the next week or so fly the machine as a kite with a sand bag, the weight of a man, attached to it. If this experiment is successful a man will be placed on the machine without a motor and allowed to glide down to the water from an elevation.

Prof. Bell doubts whether he will be able to make an experiment with a motor driven machine before the cold weather comes on, though the motor and propeller are completed. He thinks it wiser to begin by raising the man into the air with the machine flown as a kite and towed by a motor boat. He proposes allowing the aviator considerable practice in gliding before putting the motor and propeller in the machine.
