ONLY SEVEN. . [A Pastoral Story, after Wordsworth.] I marvel'd why a simple child, That lightly draws its breath, Should utter groans so very wild, And look as pale as death.

Adopting a parental tone,
I ask'd her why she cried.
The damsel answered, with a groan,
"I've got a pain inside! "I thought it would have sent me mad, Last night, about eleven." Said I, "What is it makes you bad? How many apples have you had?" She answered, "Only seven!" "And are you sure you took no more, My little maid?" quoth I. "Oh, please sir, mother save me four, But they were in a pie!"

"If that's the case," I stammer'd out,
"Of course you've had eleven."
The maiden answer'd with a pout,
"I ain't had more nor seven!" I wondered hugely what she meant,
... I ad said, "I'm bud at riddles,
But I know where little girls are sent
For telling tarardidles."

"Now if you don't reform," said I,
"You'll never go to heaven!"
But all in vain; each time I try
The little sidot makes reply,
"I ain't had more nor seven!" POSTSCRIPT.
To borrow Wordsworth's name was wrong, Or slightly misapplied; And so I'd better call my song, "Lines after Ache-inside."

Mr. Abiel Lawson. Sir,—In May, 1872. I was so severely afflicted with acute Rheumatism as to be unable to use my right leg. Being advised to use your Liniment, I procured a bottle, and made one application, which had the effect of removing all pain and soreness in one night. I have not since been troubled with Rheumatism, and I consider your medicine superior to anything extant for cases of this kind.

Truly yours.

St. John, N. B., June 9th, 1874.

Mr. Abiel Lawson: Dear Sir,—Having gust recovered from a most severe attack of Rheumatism, (from which I suffered for four weeks), I feel bound to testify to the very gratifying effect of your Liniment, which has had the effect of removing the datress altogether. I may, therefore, say, that I fully believe your mixture the best remedy in use for similar cases.

I am, dear Sir, John, N. B., June 9, 73.
