A SHANTYMAN KILLED.—A short time ago a man named Jules Boivin, in the employ of Messrs. G. B. Hall & Co. of Quebec, was killed by the fall of a tree while making saw-logs on the Gadsden, some distance above the Victoria Depot. The unfortunate man left a widow and a small family unprovided for, a fact which coming under the notice of his fellow workmen, they at once, with commendable generosity, opened a subscription for his benefit, and in a short time the handsome sum of $190 of their hard earnings was contributed, all the employees of the establishment responding to the call. Underneath the rough exterior of the back woodsman it is to be found a warm heart and a true sympathy for the poor and distressed that would do honour to higher classes of society.

A CORTLY CHAIR STUMP.—Four three-story and two four-story houses, comprising the block at the southeast and corner of Market street, Jersey City, were burned to the ground at noon on Saturday. The fire originated in a barn in the rear of Mr. Hugh Sutherland's house, the first in the row. Some boys were playing in this barn, and it is supposed that they were taking rudimentary lessons in smoking, as some months ago the hay was fired by them in lighting a cigar stump. In less than an hour the whole block was in ashes. The tenants had barely time to escape, so rapidly did the flames leap from house to house. Ten families were rendered homeless by the fire. The husband of one of the sufferers afforded all possible aid in providing for their wants and in offering them shelter. Loss $178,000.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT have issued a circular to the collectors of customs, informing them that as the season for fishing on the coast of the British American possessions is approaching, it is considered important that fishermen of the United States should be made thoroughly acquainted with the laws and regulations to which persons fishing in Canadian waters must submit. The collectors are therefore directed to notify the fisherman that the provisions of the treaty with Great Britain, proclaimed July 4th, 1857, relating to the fisheries, will not go into effect until the laws required to carry them into operation have been passed by Congress, the Parliaments of Great Britain and Canada, and the legislature of Prince Edward Island, and to warn them that their business must be carried on, subject to the restrictions existing at the time of the ratification of the treaty.

The reply of Secretary Fish to Earl Granville's note has at last been announced to the British House of Commons. According to the telegraphic report, the reply of Mr. Fish was "firm but friendly and unyielding. It calls upon England to submit to the Geneva Tribunal of Arbitration the question whether claims for consequential damages shall be submitted to, and discussed by that board." Thus the matter has taken definite shape. It now remains for the British government to say what steps it will take. The only course open, so far as we can see, are to allow the Treaty to go to the tribunal, leaving it for them to decide what claims are covered by its enactments, or to withdraw preemptorily and at once from the Conference.

On Pacific coast province of British Columbia is advancing both in wealth and prosperity. In being united with the eastern provinces of Canada by the Act of Confederation, the future progress of British Columbia was at once guaranteed. And in this connection we note that its first legislature under responsible government has recently been called to order, and addressed in an opening speech by the Lieutenant Governor—His Honor spoke hopefully of "the future. Our anticipations" he said "are bright and confident; and the Canadian Pacific Railway is already a reality, and soon will be an accomplished work."

The duty of introducing measures for the proper administration of the affairs of the province, will begin at once. They will include bills to repeal the Civil List Act, with a view of placing in the hands of the House of the power of determining the amount of salary to be attached to each office in the public service. Attention will be given to the establishment of a system of non-sectarian free schools, and a sound and liberal policy for the encouragement of immigration.

The War Office scheme for reorganizing the British army on the Prussian system is discussed at much length by the English press, the influential journals almost unanimously holding the opinion that the introduction of the plan is restored confidence in the administration of the army. It possesses the great merit of being suited to the condition of society. The future army will be composed of local brigades, in which the regular infantry constitutes the nucleus, and the militia and volunteers the lighter surroundings.

COMMON SCHOOL BOOKS.—We often read of great complaints relative to the frequent change of text-books in our common schools. Few heads of families, who have sent their children regularly to those schools, do not find themselves in the possession of whole shelves of class-books that are now useless. It is certainly very vexatious and needlessly expensive. We are not disposed to find fault with the Educational Department, but we must say that these changes are perplexing, discouraging, and vexatiously expensive.

The principle set up by the United States Government, imputing liability to Great Britain for injuries inflicted by the Alabama on vessels of that class, is being brought to bear against the Washington authorities by the Government of Nicaragua. There are claims now pending against that country arising from the disorders occasioned by filibustering invasion, and these claims the Nicaraguan Minister of Foreign Relations proposes to effect by demand for damages from the United States for permitting Walker to fit out his expedition.

We have received the prospectus of The Mail, a daily newspaper to be published in Toronto, by the Mail Printing and Publishing Company. It is proposed to commence the issue of the new journal about the 1st of April. The prospectus makes liberal promises of a first class journal in every department.

Odessa, March 14.—Yesterday evening, at 7 o'clock, Mr. John Tooley, farmer, was found dead in or near the woods, where he had been chopping. Mr. Tooley left his house in the morning apparently well and hearty; he started for the woods to chop. Not coming home at dark, Mr. Tooley became anxious, and sent her son in search of him, who found him a few rods from where he had been chopping, lying on his back dead. The dog, his only faithful companion, was sitting on the body. The origin of his death is supposed to be disease of the heart.

San Francisco, March 12.—Arizona dispatches say that William McFarland was shot and murdered and horribly mangled. The American residents were informed that the Mexican who was reported to have shot McFarland's life, and having found him, shot him. His Mexican friend retaliated by killing one of the shooting party, on which the Americans made a general raid on the Mexicans, and killed four. A fifth entrenched himself in a house, on which the attacking party blew up the house, and shot him also. All the business houses in San Francisco and Florence are closed, in apprehension of an attack from the Mexicans, who are most numerous and greatly encouraged.

TAMWORTH, March 13. On Monday morning last John Hodge, who keeps a tavern on the Nottingham road, about two miles north of Tamworth, started to go further back for a load of lumber. His team came home alone last night about midnight, the load being in good order. Mr. Hodge's son immediately went in search of his father, whose dead body he found on the Nottingham road, about three miles south of home.

We observe that the Mississippi Hotel is now completed in first class style and ready for the accommodation of the travelling public. The well known proprietor, Napoleon Lavalles, has spared neither pains nor expense in finishing and furnishing his house in the most comfortable and elegant manner, and gives full promise that his guests will be pleased with the entertainment they will receive. Situated as his house is, about two hundred yards from the Junction of the B. & O. and the C. C. Railways, it will be a great convenience to travellers and others who may require rest and refreshment.

We would direct the attention of our readers to the extensive sale of village lots to take place here on the next fair day. We frequently hear people from a distance enquiring, if there are any lots for sale in Carleton Place. Now is the time for them to invest in property which will be every day increasing in value. The lots Mr. Murphy advertises are situated near the Junction, on the line of the C. C. Railroad.

Since the above was written we observe that Mr. Neelin also advertises a number of building lots in a thriving part of the village.

We understand that the contractor for the building and finishing of the Dew Hall and Lock Up in this village has the whole of the material now on the spot, and intends to commence operations as soon as the frost is out of the ground. The whole building is to be fully completed on the 1st of September.

BUTTER.—James Ellis, Esq., of Pakenham, has sold this year 3000 lbs. of butter, @ 25 cts. per lb., all of his own manufacture, realizing the handsome sum of $630. Mr. Ellis's butter took the first prize at the Pakenham and Fitzroy Agricultural Exhibitions for the last two years.

FUNERAL.—The late wife of Wm. Allan, Esq., proprietor of the Aylmer, Times, was buried yesterday. The funeral was very largely attended, many persons from Ottawa being present. A very impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Freeland.—Ottawa Times.

CANADA CENTRAL RAILWAY.—Owing to favourable rates and quick dispatch given to merchants for freight over the Brockville and Ottawa and Canada Central Railways, the spring traffic on these roads, has increased so much that new arrangements are being made at present. H. J. Killaly, a gentleman of large experience in the management of navigable waters, is Chairman of the Commission. Mr. Mather, of Chelsea, represents the interests of the mill owners, and Captain Sheppard, of Montreal, acts on behalf of the navigators' interests.

Another terrible horror has turned up. A box shipped on the Ohio and Baltimore Railroad, from Cincinnati to Thornton, West Virginia, was accidentally broken open in transferring at a depot, and disclosed a mutilated human body, the head, legs, arms, etc., were completely severed from the body. This kind of thing is becoming too common to be pleasant to people having weak nerves.

The snow which has so seriously interfered with the running arrangements of the Pacific Railways must in the order of things very soon disappear; but by the time it has melted, the enormous quantities of it in the mountainous regions, under the influence of the spring rains, will cause much damage. Several "avalanches" are already reported as resulting from this cause.

A London journal, the Financialist, says the American Government is determined to present its counter case to the General Tribunal on the 15th April, even if the British arbitrators should not be present, and to insist upon proceeding to arbitrate on the merits of the protests and withdrawal of Great Britain.

All the stories about the Pope applying to England for an asylum appear to be false. The English Government disclaim any knowledge of his intention to leave Rome, and deny having had any application from him for a home in the British Dominions.

The first set of the Looshai year's day, just closed, as news has come in of the submission of the Kholoh men. On the 30th ultimo General Boucher, with 150 men of the 42nd N.I., started at 9 a.m. for the burnt village, accompanied by a survey party under Captain Badgley. This move was intended more as a demonstration to show the savages that the return of the force to the camp on the Towee Boom was not the result of any opposition on their part to our onward progress, but that we were both ready and able to move in any direction we pleased. The enemy had been hovering about the camp, stalking our sentries and annoying the force, and one man had been wounded. About three miles from the camp, a Looshai, clad in a red cloth and with a tall bunch of feathers on his head, appeared in the path, evidently anxious for a parley. He turned out to be one of Poybo's emissaries, and came on the part of his chief and the Kholoh men to sue for peace. On understanding that he would not be molested, he ascended a tree, and waving a red cloth yelled in a most awfully menacing manner to his brethren in the jungle to cease firing and come in. Gradually from behind bush and tree, skulking along ridge to ridge, savage after savage dropped in, till a goodly number were collected, including one woman and child; the first we had seen. Where they all came from was a mystery, as they rose out of the ground from all sides. The firing ceased at once. The Kholoh stated that they had lost severely both in men and property, and that the destruction of their granaries would utterly ruin them, as they depended entirely on their grain for subsistence. Whether this was absolutely true or merely a ruse to gain time and bury their remaining stacks of corn is of course not known. They were informed that our terms would be stated to them hereafter. In the meanwhile a truce or armistice was concluded. When questioned about the number of men killed, he lodged a loss of five men killed, but would give no information about the number wounded. The pious zeal which these people display in removing their killed and wounded comrades is really astonishing; as notwithstanding the noisy incessant firing of the last few days only one soldier's corpse has been brought in, greatly to the disappointment of one at least of our medical officers, who is anxious to get some Looshai skulls to decorate an ethnological museum at home. The Looshais cut off our heads as warlike trophies whilst we decapitate them in the interests of the human race. Having treated the enemy to the fortiori in re, the auctore in modo has been tried with those who have come in, and firewater has been lavished on them, in the hope of getting some pilots and scouts to assist in ferreting out those of their brethren who are not yet returned to their native haunts. Enfield and rifle guns.—It is hoped that we shall succeed in getting guides. These men ought to prove of great assistance, as our weak point up to the present has been the difficulty in obtaining trustworthy scouts. Had the intelligence department been properly managed, we should have had almost notice at Tipi Mukh of the intended raid of the 26th ultimo, and should not have to deplore the death of some of our unhounds and the loss of two elephants. I am happy to be able to state that two more of the runaways have been captured, and a very long trail of two or three ranges of hills. There are now only two elephants still unaccounted for.

WE COPY THE FOLLOWING FROM THE NEW YORK TEMPERANCE ORACLE, AT THE SAME TIME cordially endorsing the writer's sentiments as to liquor traffic:—

The Irish Americans of last week contain the following introductory and temperance paragraph, which is a fair and just right in his "holy horror" of the rum trade, and we hope to see all the Catholic Church, and Father Matthew Temperance Societies come right speedily up to his standpoint. This (our) Temperance Society is already for its position in view of the fact that it is a fair and just right in his "holy horror" of the rum trade, and we hope to see all the Catholic Church, and Father Matthew Temperance Societies come right speedily up to his standpoint.
