PROGRESSIVES AGAIN MOVE FOR CARVELL'S HEAD

CHARGES REMOVAL OF HON. F. CARVELL AS HEAD OF BOARD

C. G. Coote Charges Motherwell With Breaking Promise.

GRAHAM REPLIES

Minister of Railways Outlines Government Attitude On Question.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 28.—An alleged election promise of Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, that he would move for the removal of Hon. F. B. Carvell as chairman of the board of railway commissioners, led to warm discussion of the board in the house tonight. It was C. G. Coote, Progressive member for MacLeod, who raised the topic. He said that last year, Mr. Motherwell had promised to make the removal of Carvell a matter of government business, but had not done so. The prime minister had also said, added Mr. Coote, that the minister of agriculture had made to the government certain representations with regard to such a removal, and that the matter was under consideration.

Hon. G. Graham, minister of railways, replied that the chairman of the railway commissioners could not be removed except by vote of the house. It was not in the power of the government to remove Mr. Carvell even if it wished to do so. "So far as I am concerned, it does not wish," added Mr. Graham. "If he, Mr. Coote, wished to move in regard to the chairman of the railway board," it is his duty to do so as much as it is of any other member of the house."

Charges Evasion. Mr. Coote characterized Mr. Graham's reply as an evasion. The minister of agriculture had promised a statement in the house, but had not done so. He declared the matter was under consideration by the government. Mr. Coote said that if the minister of agriculture had not done so, he would stand by his declaration. Had the government yet reached any decision on the matter?

The government has not reached a decision to ask for the retirement of the present chairman of the board of railway commissioners," replied Mr. Graham. Mr. Coote next asked whether the representations of the Vancouver Board of Trade had been considered. Mr. Graham said he had not read the correspondence. If Mr. Coote wished he could move for the retirement of Mr. Carvell. It was a matter for parliament, not for government. "I can see that the government desires to shift responsibility," remarked Mr. Coote, "but I am sorry the minister cannot answer more definitely."

HAY ANSWERS CHARGES OF PREMIER E. C. DRURY

Liberal Leader Begins His Northern Campaign At North Bay.

Canadian Press Despatch. North Bay, May 28.—The opening gun of Wellington Hay's northern campaign as leader of the Liberals was fired here tonight, when he replied to the statements of Premier Drury at New Liskeard last week, and reiterated his Milverton charge to the effect that the prime minister is "the representative of an organization of group and is under the thumb of an organization whose headquarters is on George street, Toronto."

Recalling the premier's words at Fanelon Falls in 1919, that "between the U. F. O. and the dead, dying and discarded Liberal organization there can be neither amalgamation nor unification," the Liberal leader hurled back in the premier's teeth "with all the rebound possible," the challenge, that now "between the dead, dying and discarded U. F. O. organization and the Liberal party there can be neither amalgamation nor unification."

Any support which the Liberals gave the United Farmers in the early stages of their regime has not been repaid in kind, declared the Liberal leader, as instanced by the fact that in Nipissing as well as other places there have been candidates placed in direct opposition to the Liberal candidates. Other speakers were J. H. Marceau, M. L. A. of Nipissing; E. A. Lapierre, M. L. A. of Nipissing; Major J. C. Tolmie, M. L. A. of Windsor. Mr. Hay will speak at Sudbury tomorrow.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 28.—A policy of bonuses for triplets was suggested to the government this afternoon in the House of Commons by J. L. Brown, Progressive member for Lisgar. He read a letter from a constituent asking whether there was a bonus in cash or land, and passed the query on to the minister of the interior with the remark that if there was not such a policy he would suggest its propriety. Who says the West is not progressive? put in Hon. G. P. Graham amid much laughter. The premier remarked that the question was properly the business of the minister of the interior, and that minister, Hon. Charles Stewart, responded that he would call the matter to the attention of the government.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 28.—Unanimously nominated today in Grenville constituency as the Conservative candidate in the provincial election to be held on June 25, Hon. G. Mr. Ferguson, who was supported at the convention by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, declared that charges alleging that the Conservatives were unsympathetic to the temperance cause were without foundation.

Following closely on the heels of Premier Drury and Mr. Ferguson, Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, tonight carried his campaign into Northern Ontario, and tomorrow night will be in Ottawa. He will address meetings at many points and the tour will last several days.

Premier Drury desired into the party building, and the hon. today, and later left for a brief visit to Eastern Ontario. He will speak at Perth, Carleton Place and intermediate points on his return for his Toronto meeting on Friday.

"Up From the Death Cell" The Story of a Man Who Won a Fight Against Big Odds

BY JOHN W. KANE.

Eight Years After He Was Housed In Murderers' Row, Kane Cares For Other Men Held There

SYNOPSIS. In this life-story, Curly Kane, a wild lad, kills two street car men in a western state in 1914. A second trial changes the death sentence to life imprisonment. He decides to redeem his life, wins advancement, studies law, and is chosen for an office job. A chapel sermon leads him to decide to become a writer. An editor gives him advice. Kane buys a typewriter. After a year of failure he sells three stories for $100 in all.

CHAPTER XXXI. I'm inclined to believe that a beginning like that—which was in truth the real beginning—might have worked the wrong way upon some persons, particularly most persons who lived there along with me in the prison. But while I was simply trembling with delight and appreciation inwardly, I kept a calm exterior, and even secretly I was not forgetful of how seeming success in a beginning might be likened unto the success of a prospector who found the body of ore, but instead of its proving to be a vein, it proved to be a mere pocket. Moreover, I had been trying in thought to train against that too common a defect of allowing the eyes to be dazzled by glitter.

I managed to keep in a frame of mind which at once held gratitude and strengthened determination, yet would not cause me to run entirely away with myself. Right here mention must be made of one particular matter. The whole of that second or fifty-dollar story was built upon material furnished me by one of the officers at the prison who had formerly been an inspector for a street railway. When my little success began to make quite a bit of talk around and through the institution he was not ready with my great demonstration of joy, yet I knew that he was glad.

He casually told me something concerning his past work, and I quickly saw in it a story; and while he would never take unto himself any of the credit for whatever success I might have had and am still having, as a matter of fact I owe a great deal to him in that particular way. And at this latter date I am glad to count him, one of those who formerly stood as guard and counselor to me, among my real and best friends.

I Try Verso. The stimulating effect of those three acceptances caused me to break

Stomach Trouble "Indigestion"

Relieved by Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferer from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of all mankind.

Even the little that is eaten causes much torture, and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good. Before you can eat heartily and enjoy your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man., writes: "Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion. I could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved. I can honestly say that B. B. B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down my feeling on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."

SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont. In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

have many likable traits. I believed, and still believe, that they were worth saving. To hear from time to time the volley of rifles that told of the speeding of a human soul—situations of that kind stood truly upon the side of detriment to any creative work. There were, too, other conditions that interfered greatly with my progress. A New Danger. Inasmuch as I was, in a way, a kind of go-between in connection with the office on the one side and the prisoners on the other, I was often times between the devil and the deep blue sea. While a great many of the prisoners did not like me because of my inclination not to follow the beaten trails of convict life, they liked the guards and officials a great deal less. Because of that they would approach my desk and break my train of thought many times during the day, when, by taking four steps in another direction, they might have told their troubles to the officer on duty. Then there was one practice in that prison which was at once productive of a standing nuisance and great danger. It was the practice of permitting so-called harmless insane prisoners to run at large with other prisoners. This came near ending me. The Madman's Trap.—Chapter 32. Wednesday. Like to Taste It? Is anything easier to do than this? If you'd like to taste a really genuine Orange Pekoe Tea, composed of the little ten-day-old buds and the first leaves of the tea bush—the tenderest and choicest, full of flavor and fragrance—a tea that will greatly please you—you've but to step to your phone, ring up your grocer and ask him to send you a package of RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA. But be sure to ask for it by the full name, because many teas are called ORANGE PEKOE. He'll be glad to send you a half-pound package; or if you prefer a 10c package, that'll surprise you by the many cups of delicately flavored tea it will make. —Adv.

New City Hall Advocates Getting Work Under Way

Plan Careful Survey of Present Structure To Determine What Floor Space Will Be Needed.

Advocates of the proposal to start a new city hall in 1923 staged a preliminary workout last night, and preparations for this long-deferred undertaking are already under way. Ald. George Burdick, chairman, Ald. Peter J. Watt and Building Inspector A. M. Piper will conduct a careful survey of the present structure in an effort to determine just what floor space will be necessary for the new offices. It has yet to be decided by the council, however, to what height the new building shall be built. Both Ald. Drake and Mayor Wente maintain that a five-story edifice at least will be imperative, pointing out that more

Says Fingerprint System Is An Infallible Means Of Identifying Crooks

But Real Advantages of Methods Are Not Confined to Criminal Identification—Entire Population of America May Have Prints Taken.

Two years ago, when Sidney Murray was arrested, prints of his fingertips were taken by the police. Today they are the means of identifying him in his cell in the jail in California, where he lies after being arrested by the sheriff of Lassen county, charged with robbery.

THE FINGERPRINT SYSTEM. A Science, Infallible for Personal Identification.

It is not generally known that the use of fingerprints for identification purposes is becoming general throughout the country, probably not so rapidly in Canada as in the United States, where the people, other than "crooks and criminals," are beginning to appreciate the value of fingerprints, one instantly has a mental vision of crime and criminals due, no doubt, to the fact that up to the present time the various police authorities throughout the world, outside of police work, however, the uses for which the fingerprint system of identification are almost unlimited.

This infallible method can and, indeed, should be resorted to in any case of work of commercial or official, where the absolute identity of an individual is sought beyond any question or doubt. The great demand, still growing as it goes, for application of the fingerprint system of identification, is due directly to the successful elimination, in part at least, of the mistaken idea prevailing in the mind of the layman that fingerprints could only be used in police work.

As a consequence of the foregoing it may be assumed with accuracy that the general adoption of the method is only so far distant as the time it will require to convince the general public of the needfulness and the practicality of fingerprints in almost all walks of life.

How many lines of business could not with great saving and profit use fingerprints, not only in the case of official world such as the police department, army and navy, governments, yes, even the educational institutions. The identification of unknown dead is also frequently brought about through fingerprint identification. There are even now great corporations and business enterprises which have already adopted the system. They could remain indifferent upon perceiving and acknowledging the wonderful results obtained through its use in the commercial world.

Convinced of its reliability and simplicity and also the very reasonable expense of its introduction and maintenance, great enterprises, such as the banks, the well-established banks, insurance companies, mercantile houses, hotels, department stores and others have already with great success introduced the use of fingerprints for the prevention of the re-employment of discharged employees as well as the employment of undesirable persons charged with crimes.

Since the above have been mentioned, let us assume for a moment that one of these vast organizations had a central bureau, where were kept the records of employees, and also persons indirectly connected with the various functions of the business of the road. If this were the case, the records would be an easy matter to trace the names of those who are committed and which have most frequently as their perpetrators the employees of the road themselves.

The foregoing is only one of the many uses to which the system may be put.

The System.

For those readers who may not be acquainted with the origin and method of the system, a brief description may prove of interest. The earliest records we have of fingerprints being used, is that of the Chinese monarchs, who used the thumbprint on their documents as a sign manual, some two thousand or more years ago. Coming down to later date, we find fingerprints being used in India among the native Hindus, where identification is very difficult for a foreigner.

The adoption of the system in India was the result of much study and discussion by Sir William Herschel, of the Indian Civil Service. He, in charge of the court in the Hoogly district of Bengal, found many impersonations which were being made by the natives. He, in charge of the court in the Hoogly district of Bengal, found many impersonations which were being made by the natives. whom a certain saving account belongs. Although at first the patterns made by fingerprints appear to be very complicated and difficult to recognize, closer study will show that variations in them can be detected with comparative ease. This is accomplished by classifying the various forms of fingerprints into certain types. The first requirements for a person who uses the fingerprint system of identification is to familiarize himself with these various types of prints. Studies of the fingerprints of thousands of persons by men who are constantly working with the system have led to the establishment of two groups, the first including such patterns as loops, arches, tented arches, while the second includes whorls, twin loops, central pocket loops, lateral pocket loops, and accidentals. Now in all the millions of prints ever taken the above eight names are the only ones given to the patterns or designs formed by the ridges on the finger tip, and from these the expert is able to classify and place on file any print he may take from any person.

So complete is the system of classifying and filing the prints that the fingerprint expert, upon being given a set of prints can locate the duplicate out of thousands of sets in a very few seconds. This is of course providing a duplicate exists and is on file.

Now let us consider the advantages of the fingerprint system of identification to a police department where a bureau of identification is in operation, and the fingerprints of all persons charged with crimes, offenses, all suspicious persons who are arrested and all tramps and vagrants who may happen to pass through the hands of the department, are taken, and kept on file together with others that are reserved from outside points through the co-operation of various police departments.

It can be readily seen that it does not take a great time to collect a large number of prints for filing purposes. Assuming that the local bureau has a good collection of prints and that a burglary or robbery has taken place in the neighborhood and the perpetrator got away, the police are notified and detectives at once sent to investigate together with a fingerprint expert, who may or may not find some clue to work upon either at the place of entry or on one of the many articles that have been touched by the intruder. This

It has also been noted that in many instances even the professional guesser, however, wear gloves to avoid leaving any tell-tale marks, but it is safe to say that those who do this only amount to a very small percentage since the number of professional burglars in any city or town is considerably below the number of amateurs who are never at any time during the course of their work as cautious as their brother professional.

A Certain Clue.

Now it may be possible that among the hundreds of prints he possesses in the bureau there is a duplicate of the one found at the scene of the offense. If not, he will try the central bureau in the country, in the case of Canada at Ottawa. Should a duplicate be found, it is known that the person is that committed the offense, after which it is only a matter of time before the offender is arrested. Should no duplicate be found at any bureau, then this particular impression found at the scene of the crime is placed on a list and a keen watch is kept on all new prints arriving at the bureau, not only locally, but at the central bureau. Whenever this shows up, it may be a matter of weeks or months and even years, the expert knows the perpetrator of that particular burglary.

Of Value to All.

From the foregoing illustration, the reader is able to judge how advantageously the fingerprint system of identification could be used not only locally, but by any constable or peace officer of the small towns and villages scattered throughout the country, who would take the time and trouble to educate himself along the lines. At all times he is sure of the co-operation of the central and other bureaus, which will greatly assist him in his work. Before finishing this article, it may be well to mention a most important matter in connection with fingerprint work. Police officers, detectives and any other persons at the scene of a crime who are working must not touch any articles there, and the first duty of the expert is to instruct them so. After a robbery has occurred in a private house, you will find that everybody (and some of the worst offenders in this respect) are examining the premises in order to find out what has not been taken. They will open bureau drawers and small jewel boxes in their anxiety, and when the expert is called it often is very hard and sometimes impossible to distinguish the individual impressions which have been left. Some officers will go to the scene of a crime and unintentionally spoil every article in the house. A fingerprint expert might have use for it. It is therefore important that a great deal of publicity be given to the fingerprint identification through the press, and the best information that any newspaper printing data on such could give can be summed up in just four words, "Do not touch anything."

At the Movies Last Night

"Within the Law."

Having been such a success on the legitimate stage, it was not to be expected that "Within the Law," given anything like reasonable treatment, would be other than a success in the movies. Showing at the Allen yesterday afternoon and evening, it turned out to be a thoroughly fine picture. Joseph M. Schenck, who made it, of course, a starting vehicle for his wife, and even though Norma Talmadge is considerably better than her usual "best" she is not the whole show by a long shot. "The most popular star of the year" was the title predicted for Norma Talmadge early in the season. The excellence of her work as Mary Turner ought to give her some claim to it.

Allen Percy, the one-time ingenue, has a little surprise all his own. There could scarcely be an improvement in this direction.

For Lew Cody as Joe Garson, however, we reserve our admiration. Cuddly as a crook, he drew a greater amount of sympathy than it is customary to yield to a frequenter of the underworld. His was an admirable bit of acting.

It would have been a keen disappointment had "Within the Law" proved a failure as a movie production. It would have in all probability drawn down an undue amount of criticism of the movies. "As is," however, it is probably one of the finest pictures of the year.

"The Card."

One of the cleanest and most amusing comedies that has yet been seen in London this season is that being shown at the Grand Opera House. "The Card" based on Arnold Bennett's famous novel of the same name and featuring Laddie Cliff, the inimitable English comedian, is a story of the rise of a young lawyer's clerk in a large city of England. It is full of amusing repartee and situations, and action also enters into it as the play unfolds. There is absolutely nothing objectionable in it from the time the first scene is shown on through the two hours which the film takes in showing. Laddie Cliff has a number of scenes that are also given by the mayors and barbers two others for a dress suit and dancing lessons. After the ball he loses his position with the lawyer.

owing to some supposed impudence at the ball, where he astonishes all by dancing with the hostess, but nothing daunted starts out as a rent collector. He makes a success of this, and while collecting at a certain house comes upon a man fighting, whom he figures would make a good heavyweight boxer. He takes him under his wings, but later on disposes of the contract for the sum of £2,000. With this he purchases a model home for his mother, equipping it with all the latest appliances. To top it all he marries the young daughter of one of the councillors and becomes a member of the council.

Altogether the picture is one that is well worth seeing, it being quite out of the ordinary run of comedies. There is no slapstick or custard pie episode in the whole thing, but straight, clean laughter provoking fun.

In addition to "The Card" there is also shown a comedy, "The Steeplejack," featuring Lige Conley, and a short film dealing with the mounted police in the north of England. The Grand Opera orchestra plays the accompaniment to the films.

"The Snow Bride."

There was a splendid bill, considered all the way round, at Loew's yesterday. The one weakness to be found, (since we must criticize) was the third act of vaudeville. The flagrant and navy dodge is a few years out of date and feels somewhat antiquated. Yet the rest of the magician's performance was creditable enough.

Step-dancing was given an unusual turn in the second act. It was ingenious and proved very popular.

It is a poor picture that doesn't go over big with Alice Brady as the heroine in "The Snow Bride," a romantic title for a smashing good drama of the northwest. It is somewhat more modernized than the usual picture of this sort of thing. Also the hero is just a plain "sheriff," and not a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. You will see for yourself that this is something unusual. Maurice Flynn, as the sheriff, was our ideal of a northwestern sort of hero.

The news feature is unusually good, since it shows what must surely be the first pictures of the wedding of the Duke of York and Lady Bowes-Lyon. This is by no means the least interesting feature of the bill. We forgot that we knew the "24th of May" effect off by heart, since the rest of the bill was so excellent.

"Catch My Smoke."

The movie public are rather a fickle lot and their moods are as changeable as a Fahrenheit thermometer. They are forever longing for something new—new scenes, new faces and new tricks, but although Tom Mix has been dancing around on a sassy and throwing bad men over cliffs and such like year after year, he has never lost favor with the movie fan, and his face seems to be welcomed with the same enthusiasm in each successive picture.

"Catch My Smoke," the offering at the Patricia during the latter half of the week, was a typical Mix movie. The big, broad-shouldered cowboy smiled his way right through everything and the climax with the hero caught in a mountain shack with his sweetheart and a bunch of ruffians ran true to form.

The action is supposed to take place a year after the armistice, and in this regard it may be classed as rather out of date, but notwithstanding that fact it is interesting. The perfect understanding between Tom Mix and his horse "Tony" is always interesting when screened. Tom is an agile and pleasing star and in "Catch My Smoke" he is given every opportunity to show his speed and his stunts, some of which are really dangerous.

As Bob Stratton, Tom is coming back to his ranch after serving with the American doughboys overseas. While on the train he sees Tony pursued by a half-dozen mounted cowboys. The hunter who is pursuing that his attorney in whose care he left the ranch had mysteriously disappeared and the attorney's daughter had taken charge.

An unscrupulous gang, however, managed to monopolize the working of the ranch, and on finding out in the south pasture they try to induce the girl to sell out. Then Bob appears and after surviving a trying period in outwitting the gang, he marries the girl.

"Brownie" was clever and it took

A Business Policy for a Business Man!

THE London Life Insurance Company

Company senses a growing demand for a class of insurance that will meet the needs of business and professional men who MUST carry sufficient insurance, but yet are compelled to use every possible dollar in the conduct of their business or the pursuit of their calling.

"Low premiums" is the answer.

In the past "low premiums" have meant policies which did not share in profits; in other words, straight guaranteed contracts with no opportunity to participate in the improvement of the business or the prosperity of the Company.

The new Superselect policies of the London Life grant these low premiums without the sacrifice of the other very decided advantages.

LABOR MEN MAY NAME M'KAY AS CANDIDATE

Labor Men View Ald. McKay As the Logical Candidate In Place of Dr. Stevenson

Likely To Receive Much Support at Convention On Thursday.

DIVIDED RANKS

Ald. Colbert, Mentioned by Many, Says He Does Not Want To Run.

They're going to have a nice little time over at the Labor convention Thursday evening.

While the Beckites, and the Juddites and the Dennises struggle for supremacy in one corner of the local battlefield, the followers of Dr. Stevenson stubbornly resist the advances of their associates who have shouted, "It's time for a change; elect Colbert, the workingman's candidate."

Somebody has got to be rushed into the breach, as the developments of the past 48 hours reveal that the situation, as viewed by the "experts" and "dogmatists" is far more serious than the average person was led to believe a week or so ago.

And they say there is but one move that can be attempted with any degree of satisfaction. If a serious split is to be avoided—resort to the customary practice of selecting the most likely "compromise" candidate. To judge from the indicated reports from the Labor stadium, Ald. Frank McKay is located again—"the cynosure of all eyes" in the Labor party.

A prominent member of the Labor movement, political and otherwise, a past president of the local party and one of Labor's two representatives in the city council, Ald. McKay is being more thoughtful ones to be the most logical choice under the circumstances.

To the Advertiser today his ardent supporters contended that Ald. McKay would serve a two-fold purpose. He would off-set what has been claimed a threatened breach in the party palisades, and would romp in ahead of Sir Adam Beck, or any of his understudies who may be in the field.

Dr. Stevenson is, of course, still in the running, and has been in fact since the dissolution of the legislature. While Ald. John Colbert, president of the Street Railwaymen's Union, and regarded as one of the most consistent fighters in this city, is being boosted as the "logical union man" for the candidacy, he assured The Advertiser this afternoon that he "did not want to run."

HOUDINI PATCHES UP BREAK WITH SPIRITS

Magician Believes, However, That Expose of Fake Was in Best Interests.

Special to The Advertiser. New York, May 29.—The break between the Scientific American's committee on psychic investigation and Harry Houdini, the master magician, who caused a sensation by his premature exposure of George Valentin, has been patched up.

Houdini said today that he had affected a complete reconciliation with F. Malcolm Birge, the chairman of the committee, and that as a result he will continue to officiate as a psychic sleuth with Dr. Prince, Dr. Conington, and the others.

Asked what the effect of all the publicity given to the Valentin incident would be on the committee's ability to secure other mediums to investigate, Houdini declared that it would tend to increase their difficulty in continuing the probe, but he thought that even so, other mediums would come forward in an attempt to win the $2,500 prize offered. He refused to make any other statements regarding Thursday night's seance, other than to say that he had spoken out with the best of intentions, and that the committee now realized this.

PRESBYTERIAN CLERK DENIES NEWS REPORT

Says Members Only 'Advised' To Sign Total Abstinence Pledge.

Associated Press Despatch. Philadelphia, May 29.—Denial of newspaper reports that the Presbyterian Church in the United States took any action at the recent general assembly at Indianapolis to compel its members to sign a total abstinence pledge, was made today by Lewis S. Mudge, state clerk of the denomination.

"In view of widespread misrepresentation, the following statement is issued," said the announcement issued by Mr. Mudge. "The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in session at Indianapolis, took no action compelling members of said church to sign a total abstinence pledge. The resolution adopted states: 'It is the sense of this general assembly that our members should do so. The resolution is in no way mandatory. It is entirely advisory.'"

OUTPUT OF SILVER ORE AWAITS TRANSPORTATION

Canadian Press Despatch. Dawson, Y. T., May 29.—The winter output of silver ore will have been transported to the coast within six weeks if the present favorable high-water conditions continue on the Stewart River. The first 700 tons have started en route to the coast, and over 3,000 tons have reached the mouth of the Stewart. There are six thousand tons more to come. Ore worth $120,000 awaited this year's opening of navigation. With the Klondike's prospective gold yield this year, this will give the Yukon an output in precious metals of $3,300,000, the most favorable showing in years.

EXPECT TO OUST CONSERVATIVES IN TORONTO BLOC

Liberals and Farmers Sure To Contest the Thirteen Seats.

HAY SCORES DRURY Declares Premier Is "Under Thumb of George Street."

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 29.—Committee meetings of Liberals and Progressives being held here today to make sure of placing candidates for every one of the thirteen seats in the legislature as representing Toronto and its environs, call to mind the fact that Toronto is not as Tory as it used to be. It is expected that there will be opposition by both Liberals and United Farmer or Labor Independent to all the Conservative candidates for the Toronto and York seats as the result of today's conferences. The non-Conservative parties express great hopes of making a big hole in the "Tory Toronto bloc" at the provincial general elections on June 25.

In the elections of 1919, the score for the thirteen seats was: Conservatives 4, Liberals 4, Soldier 1. Included in the Progressive or U. F. O. Government candidates already mentioned for the Toronto are two women nominees—Mrs. W. E. Groves, England and Mrs. W. H. Becker, a prominent member of the Bank of Commerce and Mrs. W. H. Becker, a prominent member of the Bank of Commerce.

It is interesting to note that despite the expression of some doubts about his securing the nomination, Col. John A. Currie, member for South York, and former member of the House of Commons, was again given the nomination by the Conservative party convention last night.

Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, injected a new phase into the campaign argument at North Bay last night when he talked of Premier Drury being "under the thumb of George Street."

The headquarters of the United Farmers are on George street, and Mr. Hay's reference implied that the present government was purely an "occupational party." Premier Drury will probably reply to this when he hears the old party lions in their traditional den in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Friday night next.

The statement of Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Conservative leader, at Spencerville yesterday, that his party would maintain a consistent attitude in regard to prohibition and make no change till the electors demanded it, has admittedly cleared the air in regard to the position of Mr. Ferguson and his party on this much-discussed question.

KLANITES INDIGNANT OVER WALKER'S LAW

Stage Flaming Demonstrations in Protest Against Measure Forbidding Disguises.

Special to The Advertiser. Wilmington, Del., May 29.—Delaware was ablaze with fiery crosses at midnight in protests staged by the Ku Klux Klan against the Walker law in New York, forbidding disguises in public and requiring registration of secret society members. A belated demonstration was staged in the outskirts of this city, as in other instances, a cross wrapped with cloth and soaked with oil was blazing beligerently.

Crosses of various heights were set up throughout the state, and the torch applied, following in each case the explosion of two bombs. The demonstrations attracted large crowds of people.

The plans of the Klan were carefully arranged was evident from the simultaneous explosion of the bombs. Early today police were besieged with inquiries regarding the explosions. There were demonstrations at Newport, Farnhurst, Shelport Park, Eismere, Stanton, Newark, Delaware City, Newcastle and other places.

Unknown Hero Gives Life In Great Oklahoma Flood

Garbed in Bathing Suit, Young Man Is Caught by Swirling Current While Doing Rescue Work.

Associated Press Despatch. Oklahoma City, Okla., May 29.—With damage from the overflow of the North Canadian River already running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, the crisis is expected to be reached in Oklahoma City, where a two-foot rise, reported upstream yesterday, arrives here. Hundreds of houses and stores in the southern bottoms have been washed away or flooded, and more than 1,000 persons are homeless. One life is known to have been lost. An unknown hero gave his life in rescue work late last night. The man, about 25 years old, was a volunteer worker in the flooded walnut grove section. He had made repeated rescue trips.

Garbed in a bathing suit he swam out into the swirling waters to a flooded house to make sure all the occupants had escaped. He was last seen by a policeman as he was caught in the current and drawn under the walls of the building. The waters have completely cut off Packingtown, where the stock yards and packing plants are located.

EDMONTON MAN DENIES HE STOLE $50,000 IN BILLS

Former Postmaster Claims No Connection With Registered Package Theft.

SUNDAY ROBBERY Armstrong Says Parcel He Carried on Street Car Was a Folded Magazine.

Canadian Press Despatch. Edmonton, Alberta, May 29.—George S. Armstrong, former postmaster of Edmonton, stated in the criminal court yesterday that he had no connection with the theft of registered packages containing $50,000 in bills from the Edmonton postoffice on August 10, 1919, nor did he know anything about the robbery of which he is charged.

Mr. Armstrong was under cross-examination by Sydney B. Woods, counsel for the defence. The accused said when he took over the office of postmaster, he found the outer door of the vault was never closed. It was a regular custom to visit the office on Sundays, he said, and he frequently took magazines home under his arm. It was Sunday on which the money is alleged to have been removed. Cross-examined by H. P. Farley, Mr. Armstrong said that he had made a remark on Saturday afternoon, August 9, regarding "somebody making a haul" as a "magazine doubled up."

Quarrel regarding the parcel, which witnesses stated they had seen him boarding a street car with under his arm on Monday, Mr. Armstrong said he had no recollection of getting on a street car on the Monday. The parcel might have been a "magazine doubled up."

Last evening's session did not conclude the case, which will be continued before Mr. Justice Simmons and the jury this morning.

READY-TO-WEAR SUIT GIVEN TO THE PRINCE

Will Accept Gift Presented by the Industries of Leeds.

Associated Press Despatch. London, May 29.—The Prince of Wales will be given a ready-to-wear suit of clothes when he visits Leeds on Friday in connection with his tour among the Yorkshire industries, which began yesterday by a visit to Rothham. The wholesale clothing trade of Leeds has requested His Royal Highness to accept a suit made in Leeds, and he has consented to do so. The clothes will not actually be handed over to the prince, but will be sent later to St. James' Palace.

Ready-to-wear clothing is one of the staple industries of Leeds. When King George visited Leeds during the war he showed a good deal of interest in clothes, then used for standard suits, and selected a pattern which pleased him, and from which a suit was made for him and sent to Buckingham Palace.

The Prince of Wales was at Rotham yesterday his attention was directed to an ex-private, who, after having been wounded while in the York and Lancasters, was discharged and who afterwards enlisted in the Highland Light Infantry and was again wounded. For some unknown reason his pension had been stopped and the hero now was in the workhouse.

"I want you a minute," cried the prince to Admiral Halsey, his secretary. "Take this man's name and see what you can do for him." The prince told the ex-private to write to him at St. James' Palace.

SEE KITCHENER GIRL ABDUCTED ON STREET

Young Men Take Her Away in Car as Women Look On Helpless.

Canadian Press Despatch. Kitchener, May 29.—Kitchener police are mystified today by what appears to have been a case of kidnapping at the corner of Weber and Young streets shortly after 10 o'clock last night. Neighbors who were alarmed by the cries of a girl who was shouting for help notified the police, but when they arrived on the scene no trace of the motor car in which the girl was said to have been abducted could be found. None of the neighbors even knew the make of the car said to have been used in connection with the kidnapping.

Mrs. V. Weber stated she had just returned from the theatre and was about to enter her house with her daughter-in-law when she heard the girl scream for help. Her residence is only a few houses from the corner. She rushed at once to the scene, but there was no indication of trouble. Four negro women standing on the corner said a car had come along in which about four young men were riding. One young man jumped out and grabbed the girl, whom they believed to be about 15 years of age, pushed her into the car, which sped away with the girl screaming "let me out! I know you are taking me somewhere!" The colored women claim the thing was done so quickly they could do nothing to help.

WANT NO EXTINCTION OF PRESBYTERIANISM

Three Alternative Proposals Submitted Before Meeting in Ottawa.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 29.—Three alternatives that might be taken by the general assembly when it meets in June were placed before the meeting in Ottawa last night, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Association by Rev. Thomas Eakin, D.D., of the Presbyterian College, Montreal. The first was to drop the organic union proposal entirely; the second to adopt a scheme of federation that would effect all the ends of union; and the third to take a vote on the proposal to remain in the United Church or to enter the United Church. In any case there should be no extinction of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MAJOR TO TRY AGAIN FOR L. & P. S. LIST

Thinks Beck May Change His Present Attitude.

Four days from the provincial nomination—June 11 to be precise—Mayor Wenige will make his next and final application for a copy of the London & Port Stanley pay list.

At the regular session of the Port Stanley Commission, and the mayor explained today that from present indications he will essay no move until that time.

His Worship seems imbued with the idea that Sir Adam Beck, if he is in the provincial ring by that time, will adopt a new attitude and withdraw his opposition.

In the interim a general survey of the London & Port Stanley will be ordered, and the city councillors next Monday feel disposed to act upon a suggestion to this effect from Ald. Leonard Douglas, chairman of the board of works, who has voiced the opinion that "they may as well probe all civic departments while they are at it."

Frank Harley, member of the commission, states to The Advertiser that he would welcome an investigation if one is considered imperative while Sir Adam Beck, during his recent visit in London adopted a similar attitude.

"We would welcome an investigation," he declared. "Get the best auditors and experts you can and go to it," he urged.

NATIVE OF LONDON DIES IN CALIFORNIA

William Knapton Had Resided in This District Until Last November.

William Knapton, a native of London, who during his residence here was a valued and active member of First Methodist Church, passed away in Torrance, California, on May 19. Mr. Knapton moved to California in November last on account of his health and word of his death reached the city this morning. He was in his 79th year.

Deceased had lived in this district all his life and in his younger days was greatly interested in all branches of sport. He was a veteran of the Fenian Raid of '68.

For several years he had made his home at 245 Wharfedale road north, and although he was in splendid health for one of his years, physicians thought that the sunny southern climate would be better adapted for him, and he took up his residence in California.

The land of sunshine and flowers agreed with Mr. Knapton and his health steadily improved. But on May 19 he suffered a stroke of paralysis and passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. Percy Lewis in Torrance.

Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Lewis of Torrance, California; Mrs. Cochrane of Vancouver; one granddaughter, Mrs. Edmund Day of Long Beach, California; and one brother, John Knapton of Gunn street, London.

The funeral was held Monday, May 21, from the Redondo funeral parlors. Services at the parlors and grave were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Morris of the First Methodist Church, Torrance, and interment was made in Inglewood Park Cemetery, Los Angeles.

NOT SICK ONCE IN FOUR YEARS NOW

Mrs. Smith Declares Health Has Been Perfect Since Tanlac Ended Stomach Trouble.

"For ten years hardly a day passed that I didn't suffer from stomach trouble, but I took Tanlac four years ago and haven't had a sick day since," is the remarkable statement made recently by Mrs. Thamar Smith, 85 McGee street, Toronto, Ont.

"The little I managed to eat simply tortured me with pains in the pit of my stomach, and gas pressed around my heart, causing it to skip beats, until I thought it would stop altogether. I was as nervous as a wretch, and lost so much sleep that I was dark and swollen under my eyes. I was so weak and run-down I could hardly walk a block, or do my housework, and was almost in despair."

"Tanlac certainly was a god-send in restoring me to such perfect health, and I think it's the greatest medicine ever made. Nearly everybody else on McGee street seems to have used the treatment, and are praising it too."

"Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37,000,000 bottles sold.—Adv't.

SCORES ALDERMEN WHO "JIG" COUNCIL MEETINGS

Ald. Peter J. Watt aired his views last night about those members of the city council who failed to appear at the last special council session. He had heard that a certain alderman had been around the city hall a few minutes before the meeting, but had gone home.

"Aldermen who do that shouldn't be elected to hold office under any circumstances," Ald. Watt pronounced disgustedly.

FOUR AT FORT WILLIAM WILL SEEK ELECTION

Hon. Harry Mills Expected to Win—Woman Carries Liberal Standard.

Special to The Advertiser.

Fort William, Ont., May 29.—Four Fort William candidates are announced participants in the Ontario election, and only one so far faces the voters in the civic government in Giving battle to the Hon. Harry Mills, sitting member for Fort William, are Mrs. E. O. Allen, Liberal; Frank Spence, Conservative; and D. R. Byers, Independent. The three party nominees are certain to run, and Mr. Byers seems to be determined. Until this week he was regarded as a staunch Liberal, and among those whose names were presented to the Liberal convention, Mrs. Allen winning out. After voting with the Conservatives in the past, she will get a good share of the rural vote. Frank Spence, a druggist, is a very able voter, and is now being accused of having won the ward 4. Mr. Byers is a lawyer.

Harry Mills, in view of the multiplicity of his opponents, is regarded as a favorite in the field, owing to the strong railway vote. Moreover, without farmer help, he had a plurality over two opponents in the last election. There is contention in Fort Arthur. Dr. Herman Bryn, who is selected as fusion candidate by Liberals and Conservatives; but his resignation yesterday leaves only E. J. Blaker, former mayor, in the running as an Independent.

In the meantime the city solicitor is preparing the various documents necessary to complete the recent agreement between the council and the street railway authorities whereby the company proposes to undertake all work as directed by the city and pay for the same within 10 years.

EMPRESS AVE. CHURCH BURNS ITS MORTGAGE

Ceremony Last Night Marked Freeing of Church Property From Debt.

A unique experience in the history of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church was the burning of the mortgage on the church property which took place last evening at the church. Not only is the church and parsonage free of debt, but through the agency of the Sunday School a fund just how it has worked out for improving the Sunday School.

Mr. R. G. Bovey, oldest member, and only member of the original trustees board, as well as the recording steward of the church for a number of years, was requested to burn the mortgage.

Rev. G. Dray, pastor of the church, acted as chairman, and in a short address gave many reminiscences of his eight years in the pastorate.

Rev. W. E. Millson represented the Methodist Church, as a London Conference man, and gave a humorous and instructive address. The much-beloved and highly-respected William Gibson, who has been ill for some time, was present at the service, and delighted the people by speaking a few words.

An enjoyable program was also presented, including three solos by Mr. Harry Carson, and organ selections by Mr. H. T. Dickinson, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. His numbers were "Summer," and Sullivan's "In Memoriam."

At the close of the evening, the trustees board, as well as the recording steward of the church, were the Ladies' Aid of the church.

Of What Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Done For Him.

They Relieved Him of Rheumatism and Neuritis After He Had Suffered For Ten Years.

South Junction, Man., May 28.—(Special.)—"I became sick with rheumatism and neuritis about ten or twelve years ago. After six years it began to get serious, and I had to give up my work. I had special treatment for a while, without much, if any, benefit. I took different kinds of medicine both for internal and external use. I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and found them excellent. I have derived a great deal of encouragement and benefit from using them. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy to do work of this kind. I recommend them to my many friends and neighbors." This statement is made by Rev. Severin Olsen—well-known and highly respected in this place.

Dodd's Kidney Pills will relieve Kidney trouble, no matter where or in what form it is found.—Adv't.

Allowed To Kick From First And So They're Independent

Sarah and James Dressed Right Away In Clothes Built For Freedom, Welfare Supervisor Explains.

No wonder there is so much complaint nowadays about the independence of the rising generation. They are started out that way, blessed them, and naturally, having been bent in that direction, they follow after freedom of action.

No longer is the old-fashioned ceremony of "shortening the baby" religiously observed. The infant, forsooth, shortens his own self.

Not so many years ago, for the first few months of pioneering on the earth planet, their mother's were long robes in regular court-train effect, so far as utility and comfort were concerned. Mother, grand-mother, aunts, cousins, were called into conference to decide the momentous question, the proper day for "Sarah" or "James" to be "shortened."

The occasion took on the significance of a "coming out party." With an entirely new and much abbreviated outfit, Sarah and James really poked their feet out into the world for the first time, and discovered the joy of kicking. Before that their little limbs were so encased in barricades and long garments, these might just as well have been attached to mummies, for all the use the feet and legs seemed to have. With the shortening process, James and Sarah got their chance to develop muscle.

The up-to-date Sarah and James can kick to heart's content from the day of their birth now. That's the effect of clothes and fashions and the life history of man and woman.

Short Cut To Liberty.

Sarah and James of today do at first wear garments of a certain lengthly dignity, say 25 or 26 inches, all finished. The quicker they grow, the quicker they gain their freedom. One fine day, admiring elders find the little ones automatically "shortened," and no need for an entire new wardrobe at all.

"Freedom and comfort are the key-words of baby's layette today," says Miss Bertha Smith, supervisor of nurses of the London Child Welfare Association.

"And, what in thunder is a layette?" exclaimed a "mere man," who saw the word in an advertisement. He had an idea it was some form of modern, hygienic cradle.

"A layette," he was told, "is to the baby what a trousseau is to the bride, but, even more important. A layette is the wardrobe with which a little one must start out in life to be properly clothed."

"The baby's layette," continues

Miss Smith, "may be so simple and inexpensive that it is within reach of the parents of most moderate income, or it may be as exquisite as a well-filled purse can afford.

"But simplicity and comfort must be the guiding principles in choice. Frills and starch should be taboo. Luxury can be expressed in the finest quality material and the daintiest handwork. Bulkiness should be avoided at all cost. For this reason, we advise the use of small flat buttons, instead of tape for fastening, though many prefer the tapes.

"The clothes a baby wears from the very first should be loose, permitting freedom of movement.

Stockings At Night.

"Instead of the long barbotin in which the tot's feet were pinned up securely in days gone by, baby today immediately starts wearing long, soft wool stockings, which pin to the diaper, folded square.

"A little soft shirt, and a 26-inch nightgown, and he is all cozy for the night."

"Stockings at night?" asked an interested listener.

"Stockings at night, as well as in the day time," said the supervisor firmly.

Down in the headquarters of the Child Welfare Association in the London Institute of Public Health, a cupboard contains a model layette, which will be exhibited in the child welfare booth at the Rotary Club Hobby Fair in the armories next week. This includes, it is stated, all the kinds of garments a baby requires, and the minimum number of each for a "working outfit." The materials are the most inexpensive, the work supposed to be done at home.

Such a layette can be made for between ten and twelve dollars. The richest baby in the land requires exactly the same style in order to be healthy, happy and comfortable. The little rich baby's "trousseau" only differs in quality and quantity.

Here is the minimum layette suggested by the London Child Welfare Association:

Three white day slips, 4 1-4 yards material.

Three flannelette night slips, 4 1-4 yards.

Three Gertrude slips flannelette) 1-4 yards.

Twenty-four diapers, 27 inches square, 18 yards.

Two head wraps (flannelette) 2 yards.

Three straight flannel bands, 1-2 yard.

Three shirts.

Three bands.

Three pairs of stockings.

Eight crib pads, cheese cloth, 6 yards, 1 bat.

One piece rubber sheeting, 1-2 yard.

Ducks, Ships and Rubber Sponge Dolls Rob Bath of Terrors, Make It Real Joy

Taking the daily bath isn't the deadly affliction it used to be for the long-suffering baby. It's a game and a joy, with all the toys baby lovers have thought out to make this exercise of the program easier for mother and a delight for the infant.

To begin with, there's a wonderful white enamelled bath, all the baby's own, big enough to do until he's getting to be quite a brood of a boy, and cozy enough for the tiniest mite. But the most beautiful part of all is the series of pictures running all round the inside, ducks, fish, animals and birds of all kinds, not to mention little girls and boys who don't get scolded for playing in the water with their nice clothes on.

Still, you can't duck things painted on the sides of the tub in the water, and you can't throw them out to tease mother or nurse and prolong the fun. "Floating toys," which will stand any amount of drowning, meet this need. They are to be found in stately ducks of all sizes, swimming animals, baby dolls and boy and girl dolls, light as a feather.

One day somebody watched a rubber bath sponge floating and was seized with a happy idea. That has been responsible for the large and continually growing family of fascinating bath sponge dolls. Little bits of colored rubber in clever hands and in no time, "Mamma" doll appears, apron, kerchief and gay bandanna turban and all. The saucy "Flapper" doll didn't go in the way she was brought up, still, she amuses the baby. So does the Hawaiian dancing girl, the demure Priscilla, the Jack Tar and the fearsome Indian Chief.

Like certain famous brands of soap "float," and they always bob up serenely. What more could an infant ask in a "Companion of the Bath?"

This Is the Way To Be Happy and Gay Eat the Right Food, Three Times a Day

Children of school age require a "well balanced" and carefully chosen diet, if they are to be properly nourished, vigorous and mentally alert, according to the child welfare section of the Canadian Public Health Association.

They require bone-building foods if they are to have sound limbs foods which give firm flesh, pure red blood, energy and vitality.

Grown-up people may breakfast or not at will, satisfy themselves for the forenoon's work with a little fruit, a cup of tea or coffee and a slice of toast or preferred cereal. The child, sternly, really require for breakfast a cereal, milk or cocoa prepared with milk, bread and butter, an egg and fruit.

Where the cereal is concerned, unless it happens to be one of the ready prepared foods that come in packages, emphasis is laid on the point it should have long and thorough cooking—three hours the night before in double boiler or fireless cooker. Two to six tablespoons are considered sufficient, be it oatmeal, cornmeal, hominy, rice, farina.

Mike says a footnote on the suggested diet, "Give the most for the money, even when very high priced." There should be a cup of milk, or cup of cocoa, half milk and half water.

Bread and butter have a place in every meal, one to two slices for the healthy appetite.

The egg may be soft boiled, poached or scrambled with milk.

The various dried fruits are recommended—prunes, peaches, apples unless orange or grape fruit is available.

Soup, cereal or egg offer choice for the "chief dish" of the supper, along with one or two cups of milk, one or two slices of bread, and cooked fruit.

Vegetables are given prominence and with regard to the cooking of fresh and starchy vegetables, the instructions read: "Put into small amount of boiling, salted water, cook until tender, drain off the water." "And the way to be happy and gay, is to eat the right food Three times a day."

PORT STANLEY RESORT OPENS FOR SUMMER

Cottagers From London District Throng To Popular Beach.

The Port Stanley season is off with a rush, and the grand old resort is rapidly filling up with cottagers from London, St. Thomas and many other places in Western Ontario. General Manager J. E. Richards reports traffic on the London & Port Stanley Railway to be daily increasing, and despite the rather backward spring, the crowds have been fully up to the standards of a year ago.

Summer excursion rates are in effect every day, which means that the people can enjoy a ride on the finest electric railway in America at the lowest rates on the continent.

All the L. & P. S. and Casino services are now open and catering to the comforts and requirements of the pleasure seekers. Both are enjoying splendid patronage, the piping-hot food, and really cheap prices attracting many patrons for every meal.

Entries for the Grand Championship Baby Show continue to pour in. On Victoria Day the number was very large, parents realizing the importance of the generous championship prize—a $500 Northern Life Insurance Company paid-up policy, the money to be handed over to the winner when he or she attains the 20th year. Here is something worth striving for.

Port Stanley is the finest watering place on the north shore of Lake Erie, and its popularity is constantly growing. The board walk is rapidly filling up with attractions and the resort now has a real and satisfying summer atmosphere. The harbor teems with fishing craft, and quite a number of vessels are docking every day for the handling of freight, including the huge Bessemer car ferry, which is busy these days carrying coal from Pennsylvania to Port Stanley for transshipment over the L. & P. S. Railway to the big steamlines. A boat is also running to and from Cleveland three days a week, carrying both freight and passengers.

Record Crowd At New Casino

THE biggest crowd that ever attended a Port Stanley dance declared themselves delighted with the perfect dance hall May 24th. That they were sincere is proven by the fact that they were back Saturday night. Lombardo's great orchestra plays every evening at the ball-room beautiful.

"THE STRANGER" A Gripping Story of Love Triumphant Over the Plots of a Master Criminal BY JOHN GOODWIN

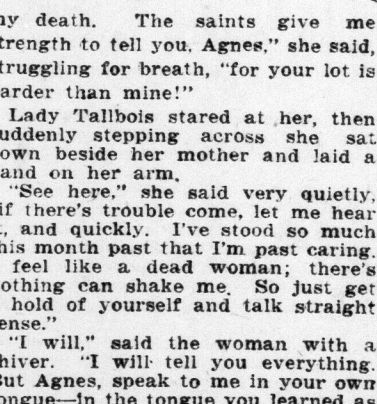

Agnes Confesses She Has Found No Happiness In Being the Great Lady Talbois of Knayth

CHAPTER CHIL. The Senora Speaks. Lady Talbois of Knayth stood gazing out of one of the many windows in her house in Grosvenor Square. Her hands were clasped behind her, her dark eyes listless and dull. "It wasn't for you, Harold," she said faintly, "I'd just wish I was dead before ever I heard the name of Talbois. What I've been through!" A little gulp rose in her throat. "It's just been awful!" she whispered. Drummond, sitting with a dejected air on the sofa, stirred uneasily. "Oh, you needn't get scared," said Agnes with a shrug, "I ain't going to fly off the handle, Harold. I've no goat left to get—they've got it all, I guess. That trial just finished things. I feel like everybody hates me. I hate myself!" "If I could only have saved you from it, Agnes," said Drummond passionately, "that devil Mottisfont! When he got you..." "Oh, Mottisfont," said Lady Talbois wearily, "I bear no grudge against Mottisfont now. Not a cent. He was fightin'—for his wife. And he fought, all out. I like a fighter. He was it! You'll find I'm not a quitter," he says to me. And he wasn't. That's a man for a woman to be proud of."

I am so glad you liked the way the bulb packages were made. I liked doing it because every package meant so much more for the fund. Lovely Bronze Tulips. Lovely bronze tulips, arranged in the nicest sort of a bouquet with red and white blooms—thanks to Aunt Margaret I was able to start the week with them on my desk. It was so thoughtful of you to bring them, Aunt Margaret. I am sorry the badge wasn't in for you, but I promise you one the minute they arrive. Flower-Pot Gardening. Dear Miss Grey—It is poor policy for me to commence to clean house at the attic because I always come on a pile of old newspapers and magazines, and get started reading and there's where the housecleaning stops. But perhaps you won't mind the two don't hang together in a very scrap-book, and you may print them one at a time if you like, or all at once if you have room. We're a top-heavy family, Miss Grey, living in an upstairs apartment with an attic, but no garden. And I have a natural bent for gardening, so you will see the two don't hang together in a very well. Still, I thought I might have some luck growing one or two of Aunt Nannie's lilies in a flower pot. Will you let me try? CREOLE. Horse-radish and cold beef. A nice zesty sort of meal for a warm day, isn't it, Creole, so am printing the horse-radish recipe first. "Gather the roots when the first green leaves appear above ground. Wash the roots, scrape off the skin, and then grate on a coarse grater. Pack the grated horse-radish into glass jars. In an enameled saucepan heat vinegar and salt in the proportion of one tea-spoon of salt to one cup of vinegar. Bring to a boil, skim with enameled-ware skimmer, and pour the vinegar over the horse-radish in the jars. Thus prepared, it will last for months. A New Variety. We have added a new variety to the Mail-Box assortment of seeds. Boxes. Aunt Kate has sent in a quantity of scabiosa. I'll be glad to forward it to anyone who will send a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

AN EXPERIENCE WILLING. By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS. Noel Gray came up the drive chanting loud and clear: "Huntsman, huntsman, blow your horn! Fox has got your goose and gone." With the last word he swept his hat in a wide flourish and the black-eyed Susan upon the portico shook her head at him, saying: "It is sinful to so pervert facts in natural history. You know as well as I that in this case it is the goose that has got the fox and gone," dimpling wickedly as she spoke. Besides the dimples and the black eyes she had red lips, rather more so than at home there—fine as flow silk, and a figure the perfection of round slender liness. Naturally young follows up and down Caney Fork pined to be seen in her company, also to eat the fat and drink the sweet abundantly provided in the home that was her background. Noel was very young and handsome, rather more so than at his legal residence, where a thrifty stepmother sold the good things Susanna's folk, the Deans, preferred to eat or give away. But child of the house that he felt himself, he never forgot his manners. Thus he was first favored with Aunt Milly, Susanna's great-aunt, a very godmother. The girl was so vivid, so whimsically charming she harmonized colors and situations that in the face of pallid personalities swore at each other. Witness the soft crimson sash with which she had girdled her dull blue gown; witness also the pair who kept her company. Curate Ayres was still so new and raw he blushed at the sound of his own voice, and Judge Jameson, case-hardened in law and politics, whose substitute for religion was enlightened selfishness. "The fox and goose problem?" Noel asked meekly, seating himself upon the steps where he had a view of Susanna in profile. "Noel went on—'I hate cats so, it would trouble me greatly to have Black-eyed Susan appear to be one.' Explosive laughter sounded. Through it the judge rumbled: "Young man, your question insults even your own limited intelligence. In fact, explanation is superfluous. Patience, my dear judge? The fox and goose problem? I mean in the first weight—and ripe for the plucking. Broker Stacy, with whom she has lodged much against his will, is a fox—all the cunning. She got the drop on him, so to speak, by learning experimentally his manner of investments—it makes highway robbery seem sincere after by contrast. So he had to choose between jail for life or matrimony. I know, because I drew up marriage settlements that made the case plain as a pikestaff. And I had just told the tale—knowing well the Stacy outfit will give Caney Fork henceforth a wide berth. "I see," Noel commented. "Any body would do a war dance on me? No? Then I'll try to live it down—'Ayres should be doing a joy dance—thanksgiving for deliverance,' the judge interrupted. "Widow Nelson had her eye on him till Stacy bove in sight—'Oh, oh—really—judge—your face glows like a cluster of young beets.' Noel made a feint of amazement, the wind blew that way. Thought you were dull, but the happy man—that's why I sang as I did. "Shut up, you puppy!" the judge roared, his countenance a brick-red that all but put the curate's out of court. Black-eyed Susan clapped her hands softly, saying with sprightly malice: "As we have set up the conventional, suppose we all turn mad enough to speak truth on ourselves? Judge, you go first, in right of age and honors. Cross your heart—why did you come here this morning?" "To get ahead of that pulpit-pert who haunts you all day," the judge boomed. "I didn't agree to tell the whole truth, but the chance is too good to lose. I'm not afraid of him; he's merely an irritating excrescence. You give him time you had better spend thinking of me. For I mean

The CHILDREN'S HOUR THE THING THAT BOXER FORGOT. By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Most often 'tis what you forget That causes you the most regret. —Mother Bear. Jealous, angry, bound to get even, Boxer, the half-grown young Bear, reached the foot of the tree in which the triplets, his little brothers and two little sisters, were playing and having such a good time. For a moment he stood still and glared up at them. Then he stood up, dug his claws into the trunk of the tree and started to climb up. The sound of those claws was the first hint the triplets had that any one was about. They leaned over and peered down curiously. They expected to see their mother down beneath them. When they discovered a strange Bear, a Bear they had never seen before, you can guess how frightened they were. There was an ugly look about the stranger. It was clear to them that he meant them no good. For a second or two they were too frightened to do anything but cling to the tree and stare down at Boxer. Then one turned and began to scramble up higher. At once the other two followed, and as they scrambled all three began to haw-

Alice Confuses Red Flags of Russia and Auctioneer

Becomes Over-Energetic In Her Efforts To Free London From the Vile Plottings of Bolshevism.

"London must be kept free from Bolshevism," Mayor Wenige had said and Alice, who always agreed with the mayor whatever he said, had never been in more perfect accord with him than she was upon this point. She resolved that in her small way she would help the mayor as much as she could to watch for sedition and keep London loyal.

The opportunity came sooner even than Alice had hoped. The very next day she was walking down Clarence street, when she happened to glance up at a house and saw, flying from its porch, the red flag of revolution. Alice, you may be sure, was terribly excited. She knew she ought to report the matter to the mayor instantly, but being an intrepid girl, she resolved that she would investigate the affair all by herself.

Alice Lingers. It was obviously no place for a member of the intelligentsia, but Alice lingered fascinated, and presently two members of the Soviet came along, one with a dozen silver-plated knives and the other with a picture of King George and one arm and a picture of Queen Mary under the other.

"Gee, Floris, I don't see what you took them for," said the lady Communist. "The King and Queen are awful passe now."

"It is impossible to describe the feelings of Alice at this revolutionary sentiment, but recognizing the danger of the situation, she kept them to herself. She even managed to check the cry of protest which rose to her lips, when a few minutes later a lady revolutionist sauntered by carrying a portrait of the Prince of Wales upside down. But you may imagine the sensations of Alice, one of the most ardent of the junior members of the Daughters of the Empire, at this surprising sight."

MEDS OF '18 GATHER FOR REUNION DINNER

French Room At Tecumseh House Is Scene of Jolly Event.

Without a thought for her own safety, Alice resolutely mounted the stairs, and followed Comrade Bill. She discovered him attempting to move a roll-top desk almost as large as Alice's, into the hall-way. Seen at close range, Comrade Bill proved to have a simple, honest face. He struck Alice at once as a person who would be guilty of murdering a prominent citizen, hiding his body in the cellar, and then attempting to disappear with the roll-top desk, only as the result of ignorance, and at the instigation of others, more crafty and powerful than himself.

Comrade Bill wiped the sweat from his brow, and leaned for a moment against the roll-top desk as Alice approached. "Don't you think?" said Alice, lowering her voice and speaking with intense earnestness. "Don't you think you would really be a great deal happier if you were doing real honest work?"

Comrade Bill blinked rapidly, and he began to turn a slow red, but Alice went on without allowing him to speak. "I know that you have been misled by others," went on Alice rapidly. "But you must think for yourself. Remember that after all there is nothing so ennobling as work. Think, too, of what London has done for you. Think of the electric light and the waterworks, think of the London public schools. Be careful. You will learn that London is not a Russian city. It cannot progress slowly, not by revolution, but by evolution."

Leaves Bill Dazed. Alice concluded by warning Comrade Bill that she was going to lay the matter before Mayor Wenige, and left him still leaning dazedly against the roll-top desk, where Comrade Ed discovered him a few minutes later. Comrade Bill was able to give only a very incoherent account of Alice's visit, but said that a lady had been in and told him to think about the waterworks, and had said that in the London public schools they were progressing slowly and were learning that London is not in Canada, but in Russia.

As for Alice, she hurried out, intending to go straight to the mayor's office. But she had not gone very far before she encountered her sporting aunt, who wanted to know where she was going. "Don't stop me," said Alice breathlessly. "I've just discovered a Bolshevist revolution up the street. They have hung out the red flag, and they're taking all the furniture and everything."

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL. Two women sat sewing in an open window on the fifth floor of a city apartment house. Both were occupants of flats in the building, and both had noisy young sons who were now conspicuous by their absence and their non-noisiness.

"I think probably the boys have gone out to the park. My Bob is crazy about tennis, which he learned to play indoors last winter, and the only courts available are out in the park. But I don't like to have him go there. He comes home using rough language—evidently there is not a very nice class of boys there. If we had a house with a yard we might fix up a court for him, but what can you do about a city apartment?"

Our Children By Angelo Patri THE EVENING ROMP. The warm spring weather evenings bring out the children for evening frolic. Sometimes it gets past bearing for the tired people resting on the porch or under the trees. Somebody gets an old tin pail and begins kicking it along the walk. Its din is shattering. The grown-ups along the street groan and murmur: "That's that awful smith child. Believe me, if that child was mine, I'd warn him so he needn't take such strenuous exercise. On a hot summer evening, too!"

Noises like that are louder and harder to bear than they are on the cool nights. If children break windows that cannot be seen clearly. On the lower corner there is a group playing with a dog. He barks curiously and chases them madly up and down the street. Screaming like wild men they hurtle across the lawns and dash around the corners. "Yow, yow," yowls the enthusiastic little hound. "E-cow-w-u!" screams the children. "One of these children is going to get hurt, dashing about the streets like that," grumble the watching porchers. "It's a wonder their parents wouldn't stop them. Telling and screaming like that! And that dog!"

From the block in back comes the wheeze of harmonicas. The small boys have gathered on the well side porch and they are giving a concert to the unwilling audience. Heads wagging, feet stamping, little girls shilly-chanting music fills the air. "Mercy mo! Don't they ever go to bed?" groans a sufferer as the wind

LONDON LOAN IS SUED FOR $10,000 IN VICTORY BONDS

Frank E. Osborne Seeks Return of Bonds Given As Collateral.

SURPRISES COUNSEL
Presiding Judge Decides Non-jury Sessions Shall Start At 8 a.m.

The first day of the non-jury session of the supreme court under Mr. Justice Mulock was devoted to hearing the evidence in the case of Osborne versus the London Loan & Savings Company, in which Frank E. Osborne, president of the Independent Theatres of Ontario Limited, with headquarters in Kitchener, is suing the London Loan & Savings Company for Victory Bonds to the value of $10,000 given by him as collateral in raising money for the theatre company or for the equivalent cash value of the bonds.

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., appeared for the defendant, and Mr. Henderson of Brantford for Mr. Osborne. The court will open this morning at 8 o'clock. Mr. Justice Mulock, who is used to summer time, had a little discussion at the close of yesterday's court on the merits of daylight saving, and the old-fashioned time. Finally he decided to begin his court at 9 o'clock, workmen's time, and that the 8 by your clock. The opposing counsel appeared a little taken aback by the unflinching energy of the justice, who is in his eighty-second year, and who listened patiently for six hours to their expositions.

Found Funds Lacking.
Frank Osborne in his evidence stated that the Independent Theatres Limited had run short of capital when they were building a theatre in Kitchener. In order to carry on the work they had been forced to raise funds on a mortgage which they had given the London Loan Company. Later on, still short of funds, they had applied to the loan company for a further accommodation for part of which he had supplied the Victory Bonds as collateral. Later on, the first mortgage had been discharged by the contractors who were putting up the building. Schultz Brothers of Brantford, who had accepted a second mortgage on the theatre.

Mr. Osborne claimed that his bonds were not subject to the claims of this second mortgage, and that he was entitled to their return or their equivalent value.

Clear of Claim.
The London Loan Company stated that they were clear of this claim because the burden of the second mortgage rested with the contractor. Divergent claims were made by Schultz Brothers to the effect that the amount of the mortgage was part of the whole mortgage, and that this absolved them from responsibility. More than twenty exhibits were put in by counsel.

EAST END CHILD BADLY BURNED STARTING FIRE

Three-Year-Old Evelyn Tazman Rushed To Hospital.

Evelyn Tazman, three-year-old daughter of David Tazman of 174 Rector street, is in Victoria Hospital suffering from serious burns on her arms and body as the result of a mishap in the backyard of her home yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

It seems the child had procured some matches in some way, and with a playmate, Jackie Rosenberg, started a fire with some pieces of paper. The flames caught on the dress of the little girl and her screams brought a girl residing next door to her assistance.

She rolled the child in the sand and succeeded in putting out the blaze before it had reached the little one's head.

Mrs. Tazman was in the house at the time, and was not aware of her child's danger until the youngster was brought into the house. The child was attended by Dr. Copeland, and then removed to the hospital.

At an early hour this morning she was sleeping quietly. Her condition was reported as slightly improved.
