Then a great happiness and At the mouth of the valley of Shea singular sense of responsibility enterchem, two slight breaks are visible in the midst of the vast plain of corn-one a white Mussulman chapel; the other a few iragments of stone. The first of these covers the alleged tomb of Joseph, buried thus in the "parcel of ground" which his father bequeathed especially to him, his favorite son. The second marks the undisputed site of the it by saying, well, now neglected, and choked up by the every claim to be considered the original well, sunk deep into the rocky grounds, by "our father Jacob," who had retained enough of the customs of the earlier fa-milies of Abraham and Isaac, to mark his first possession by digging a well, "to drink water thereof, to himself, his children, and his cattle." This, at least, was the tradition of the place, in the last days of the Jewish people, and its position adds probability to the conclusion, indicating, as has been well observed, that it was there dug by one who could not trust to the fresh springs so near in the adjacent vale, which still belonged to the hostile or strange Canaanites. If this be so, we have here an actually existing monument of the prudential character of the old patriarch, as though we saw him administering the mess of pottage, or compassing his ends with labor, or guarding against the sudden attack of Esau ; fearful lest he, "being few in number, the inhabitants of the land should gather themselves together pressive memorial of the earliest dawn of Jewish history became the memorial no less authentic and expressive of its sacred close. According to the above teaching, Confucius is now regarded by the Chinese as equal with beaven and earth - the three form a trinity. His words are therefore sacred, and to challenge them is to challenge heaven. We oppose reason,  $\epsilon$ xperience, facts to his teaching, but in vain. All men and books may be wrong but Confuciushe is infallible more than the pope. The authority words of Christ have no higher with us, than have the sayings of Confucius with his countrymen. Mahomet was never held in greater veneration than Budha. The classics are the Bible of China, and Confucius the god of the classics.

MR. EDITOR,-It will rejoice the hearts God's people, and will be especially pleas-ing to those honored servants of God, both old and young, who have labored in former years on Liverpool Circuit to learn that during the past few months several places in the country part of this Circuit have been visited with a gracious revival of re-

When the present junior preacher was appointed by the President to this Circuit to supply the place of Mr. Harris who much to the regret of our people here, was called away to occupy the position left va-cant by the sudden and lamentable death of Mr. Chesley, he was conscious that owing to the great extent of the field of labor, and the many inconveniences of travelling, such as bad roads, poor ferries, &c., neither himself nor others had been able to work it with satisfaction to themselves, or with the amount of profit to the public that could be desired. You will not be surprised then, that with a physical frame not the most robust, the prospect of a long and try-ing winter, and the known difficulty of working the Circuit satisfactorily, his heart almost sank within him. Accustomed, however, to preach the doctrine, " As thy days so shall thy strength be," and endeavoring to feel that the appointment was providential, in the name and fear of the Lord he addressed himself to his work, de termined, as often before, so now, to test the aforesaid doctrine. And with humble gratitude to Almighty God, he would now say that his faith was not disappointed, but that in spite of rain, and snow, and cold, and sometimes with feet wet day after day. bodily strength increased, and publicly, and from house to house, he has been enable almost daily to teach " repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesu Christ," and God has graciously owned and blessed the labor in the conversion of pre

Died at Sable River, on the 30th ult. GEORGE CRAIG, aged 42 years. Mr. Craig was the son of Methodist parents, by whom he was early taught the fear of the Lord He remained however, a stranger to vital godliness until nearly the close of the last year, at which time his earnest and long continued applications to the throne of grace were answered in the deliverance of his soul from the bondage of corruption, and its translation into the glorious liberty of God's dear children. During the months succeeding this blesed change, he manifested, in pain and weakness, often extreme, entire resignation o God's will, and looked forward with heerful hope to the time when his spirit should be summoned to the realms of light. He was enabled to give up to the tender care of his Heavenly Father his sorrowing wife and their five children, assured that He who had dealt so graciously with him would also provide for them.

His end was eminently peaceful, for h was able to adopt the confident language of David, and say, "Though I walk through the valley and shadow of death I will fear no evil: for thou art with me."

The universal respect entertained for the eparted, was testified by the assembling for miles around of very many people who fol-lowed his remains to their last resting place. Our excellent Bro. Lord was working in the hearts of the people. Old professors became more alive to the interests of their souls, backsliders weary of wandering from their God, returned and entered into new covenant engagements with him, and some others penitently sought and found the pardon of their sins. These were as early as possible met in class and placed upon their probation, and I am happy to say that to this present they are walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost. At the last visitation of the class we had the pleasure o giving to the Society in this place, increased by the addition of several members from the Ragged Islands, forty-eight tickets. At Sable River, and Port Le Bear, two places visited on the same Sabbath that we preach in Little Harbor, we were prevented by successive severe storms from holding the protracted services we anticipated ; ne / vertheless, good has been done, and in each of these places we have a cause that if well cared for will repay the effort by a harvest of both temporal and spiritual fruits.

On Saturday evening, April the 18th after much prayerful anxiety, meeting were commenced at Port Jollie, a place formerly the scene of glorious revivals, but one in which for many years past there have been no religious meetings held except when a preacher was present. Here the Lord visited the people in mercy, and the fruit of labors, prayers and tears, is now seen in the commencement and conducting among themselves of public and social means of grace, and in the happy enjoyment of the favor and love of God by some twenty-eight of the people, including aged, middle aged, and young persons, both men and women

The meetings at Port Jollie having been closed on the 28th ult., a series was begun on the following evening in our neat and comfortable Church at Port Mutton. Here, too, God heard and answered prayer, and fame of England in the present day that she gave such displays of his saving power as should permit the unhallowed traffic in opium some of our oldest friends there say they never before witnessed in that place. At the close of these services on the 13th inst., as the result of them, there were received on trial for membersLip with our Church some tifteen young men and women, children of our own people, while some from other places, and others who have not united with us, have professed to receive the blessings of pardon and regeneration.

Various circumstances combined to pre-vent the fulfillment of our desire to hold a few extra services at Hunt's Point, where from the signs of the times, we judge that such services might be productive of most gracious results.

I cannot close this communication without here gratefully referring to the valuable aid both in council and effort, rendered by our worthy Brother Houston, who kindly, and at the expense of personal inconvenience and pecuniary loss, aided me during a por-tion of the time, first at Little Harbor where for many years he has occasionally, and with great acceptance, preached the Gospel of Christ ; and second, at Port Jollie where in former years he was associated with other ministers on this Circuit in bless ed revivals, where, too, since, he has frequently preached the word, sometimes walking from his own house on the Sabbath morning a distance of fourteen miles to do so, and then back again the same or following day, and where at this time he has had the happiness of seeing that he happiness of seeing that his labor has not been in vain in the Lord .-That upon him, his kind family, and the many dear people of this Circuit, who are navaryingly kind to God's Ministers, may ever reat the Christian blessings of the Head of the Church is my earnest prayer. Wesleyan Mission to China.

WHILE Cabinets have their attention drawn to China by national questions which occasion them no slight degree of perplex ity, that vast and wonderful empire presses itself upon the consideration of Christians in an aspect of the grandest and gravest concern. It is a foul blot on the otherwise fair to be carried on under the protection of that flag whose folds should never shelter crime, -should never float protectingly over the perpetration of wrong. This is indeed a sad disgrace. But if such be Britain's of missions in that land. There is the shame, it is her glory that she has a bright | hoary antiquity of its institutions-the unarray of true spirits, who not only denounce appreciable vastness of, its populationthe unlawful introduction among the Chinese of a vile soul and body-withering drug, clusiveness of the natives. The Weslevan Mission to China, around which at its institution so much doubt and hesitation hung, seems now to be firmly they are at this moment. It is a melanchoestablished in favor, and cheers the hearts of its contributors with the anticipation of ed; and when we contrast the progress of the glorious results which must ultimately accrue to the cause of Christianity from their well-directed zeal. Just now a cloud hangs over the work at Canton; but who can doubt that when the transient storm has at the present surpassing them in everypassed away the sun will shine out brighter thing? than before, and a clearer, more propitious day hail back to the vineyard the temporarily dispersed laborers for the Lord? The Report of this Mission read at the late Public Breakfast Meeting in London by the Rev. Dr. HOOLE is of deep interest.

ing on hooks is now no more ; it is gathered to its fathers-it is now historical, and belongs to the past, the Indian Government having at last summoned the courage to suppress it. There is something impressive and significant in the use of the past tense for the first time, even in the case of such a wretched piece of low superstition as this even in having to say the Hindus used to swing in hooks, instead of referring to it as a present religious custom. This has been one of the few pieces of universal knowledge among us; everybody knew that the Hindu fanation swung in hooks; it he knew nothing else about India on her religion, he knew that. Every illustrated book of geography had a cut representing the suspended devotee. Little boys and girls were required to express due astonishment at the fact. This old appendage of Hindoo religion is done away with, and now that it is done away with we ask almost with surprise, and have some right to do so, why it was not done away

On the 23rd of February, 1857, I witnessed in the far-famed city of Mysore, the " swinging festival" in all its atrocity, and have witnessed the same for three years past. Having read the the late Government order had produced any effect as to the preliminaries or the actual carrying out of the feast. I took with me several hundreds of tracts for distribution, all of which had come from a distance to witness the revolt-led into the temple, with his back already pierc-went and saw the hooks fastened into the man's north corner of Mysore. The same ceremony was going on at the same time in the square before the palace, where the Rajah was a delighted spectator. Last year, quite unexpectedly, I and my wife were brought into the closest contact with the car in the Fort ; and our convey-

Losses. BY FRANCES BROWN

Upon the white sea sand There sat a pilgrim band, Telling the losses that their lives had known, While evening waned away From breezy cliff and bay, And the strong tide went out with weary moan,

One spake with quivering lip. Of a fair freighted ship, But one had wilder woe, For a fair face, long ago Lost in the darker depths of a great town.

There were those who mourned their you With a most loving truth. For its brave hopes and memories ever green And the one upon the West Turned an eye that could not rest For tar-off hills whereon its joys had been.

Some talked of vanished gold, Some of proud honors told, Some spake of friends that were their trust n And one of a green grave Beside a foreign wave, That made him sit so lonely on the shore.

But when their tales were done, There spake among them one, A stranger, seeming from all sorrow free-" Sad losses have ve met. But mine is heavier yet.

For a believing heart is gone from nie."

" Alas !" these pilgrims said, " For the living and the dead, For fortune's cruelty, for love's sure cross, For the wrecks of land and sea, But, however it came to thee, Thine, stranger, is life's last and heaviest loss -London Atheneum.
