WOLFVILLE, PAST AND PRESENT.

FROM A LITTLE HAMLET TO A THRIVING TOWN.—THE HISTORY OF OUR MERCANTILE HOUSES.

Wolfville has at last woken up. The town is going ahead. Never in its history has there been such advancement as in the last few years. From a little hamlet it has grown into a thriving town. New streets are being opened to give room to those who are making homes among us. A half a hundred houses have been erected during the past year or so, with the expectation of a larger number during the coming year. Strangers visiting our town are delighted with its appearance, and in many cases come to stay. Wolfville is on the eve of good times. On our next page we give a history of our town, of the University for which it is so widely known, of some of the leading business and professional men. On this page we give a short history of the business houses of our town, commencing with the dry goods establishments, arranging them in alphabetical order. Never were the merchants better prepared to meet the wants of their customers. Multitudes are flocking into our town daily to see the beautiful display of Christmas goods. Indeed they are worth coming to see. The prospects are of a brisk Christmas trade.

C. H. Borden & Co.

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, and Gents' Furnishings Emporium.

Somewhere about ten years ago the above business was started in Wolfville by Mr. C. H. Borden, and it has steadily grown until it now is probably the most complete establishment of the kind in the county. They carry an immense stock of everything in the line of gents' furnishings and clothing, and their goods are of the best and most fashionable character. Nothing is allowed to remain on their shelves or counters after it has become "out of style." At the time Mr. Borden started business in Wolfville this branch of trade was done by the general stores as a side line, and consequently did not receive the attention that it now enjoys. This firm gives its whole attention to these lines, and is thus able to keep thoroughly posted in the wants of customers, and are thus enabled to supply their every need. It would indeed be a fastidious person who could not be suited in their extensive range of goods. Those who are looking for Christmas presents for gentlemen cannot do better than call and inspect, as they are sure to find something to suit.

J. W. Caldwell.

Importer and Dealer in Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, etc.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Caldwell came to Wolfville and entered the establishment of John Rouseff as clerk. In this capacity he remained for a few years, gaining a knowledge of mercantile life. He then entered into a partnership with John L. Brown on the premises where he now carries on business. Subsequently he went into a partnership with Mr. A. S. Murray, which lasted until Mr. Murray withdrew from the business to enter the firm of Burns & Murray, of Halifax. After Mr. Murray left this establishment, Mr. Caldwell took into partnership his senior clerk, Mr. J. D. Chambers, and continued the business under the firm name of Caldwell, Chambers & Co. Under this name the business was conducted until last spring when Mr. Chambers sold out his interests to Mr. Caldwell, since which time Mr. Caldwell has conducted the business alone. The transactions of this house have ever been conducted in an honorable and upright manner, and it merits the success that it has ever achieved. The store is a commodious one, and its shelves are well filled with all the fine grades of dress goods, silks, satins, laces, plushes, woollens, trimmings, as well as ladies' and gents' furnishings goods, hosiery, gloves, caps, hats and fancy articles of all kinds. Boots and shoes and rubber goods always in stock. In addition to the above a large variety of furniture in ash, walnut, etc., is kept on hand and offered for sale at reasonable prices.

Rockwell & Co.

Booksellers, Stationers & Newsdealers.

The Wolfville Bookstore, under the management of Mr. P. P. Rockwell, has been established in Wolfville for a number of years, and has always given entire satisfaction to the public demand. Here you can always find a complete assortment of books and magazines of every description, stationery, room paper, blank books, school supplies and all other goods usually found in a first class establishment of the kind. The Bookstore at this season is especially attractive, and Mr. Rockwell is well prepared for the Christmas trade. Santa Claus makes his headquarters here, and it is naturally a favorite resort of the young people. And really it does present a most tempting appearance. Mr. Rockwell has a large stock of goods such as would be suitable for presents for young or old. We advise all the readers of the ACADIAN who possibly can to call and inspect his pretty stock in making their Christmas purchases. Mr. Rockwell also carries a large variety

O. D. Harris.

General Dry Goods, Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Mr. O. D. Harris, of the Glasgow House, began business in Wolfville in October, '86, in the store now occupied by Miss Hamilton, buying out Mr. J. S. Dodd, who established a dry goods business here a short time before. He is a native of Wolfville and has been engaged since a boy in mercantile life, at Halifax, St. John, N. S., and in the West. Meeting with a large measure of success, he returned to his old home and embarked in the dry goods business as above. He soon found his business increasing so as to necessitate more accommodation, and in a short time began the erection of the commodious building which he now occupies. The new store, which is one of the finest in the valley and an ornament to the town, he keeps constantly filled with an immense stock of General Dry Goods, embracing everything usually found in a first-class establishment. He buys in the best markets and gets the advantage of cash prices, and his prices are consequently the lowest. The Glasgow House is noted for attentive clerks, and customers can always count on being used right. His Christmas stock will be found as usual up to the mark and no one should fail to give him a call in making their holiday purchases.

S. A. Hamiltou.

Millinery and Fancy Goods.

From Avon's ancient river to Aylesford's sandy plain, they call me to make bonnets on every shape and frame. What though the old one pleases, it did well for a while, but now the new one teases—the old one's out of style. In vain with lavish kindness, are flowers on it strown, but it is simply mad, to wear the old alone. Shall I, whose store is stocked with bonnets just from town, stand up behind my counter and let them beam me down? Oh, no! my price I'll have it, and bonnets I'll proclaim 'till earth's remotest nation has learned the maker's name. Waft, waft ye winds the story and you, ye waters, roll, till like a sea of glory I fit out every poll. Then from my dandy showcase they come and take them down, S. A. Hamiltou's the maker—the best there is in town.

Burpee Witter.

Dry Goods, Millinery, Ready-made Clothing, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

Mr. Witter commenced business Oct. 1st, 1874, in a part of the Borden Block dealing only in dry goods and gents' furnishings. On the 18th March, 1880, the Borden building was destroyed by fire. Mr. Witter sustained no loss by the fire as it occurred at six o'clock in the evening, a time when help could be quickly summoned. His stock was all removed before the fire reached the store occupied by him. Mr. Witter has since occupied the large and commodious building known as Witter's Block, where his business has grown to its present proportions, embracing dry goods, millinery, ready-made clothing, boots and shoes and gents' furnishings. In referring to Mr. Witter's advertisement in this issue it will be seen that his stock of goods for the Christmas trade is large, attractive, and embraces a great variety of goods suitable for the holiday trade.

G. H. Wallace.

Dealer in Choice Family Groceries.

The trade in groceries everywhere ranks as one of prime importance, including as it does nearly all the actual requirements of our daily subsistence. Amongst the popular and reliable grocery establishments of Wolfville, that of Mr. Wallace, opposite the Baptist Church, is worthy of mention. This business was established in 1869, since which time the trade has been steadily increasing. This establishment is well stocked with a fine assortment of choice family groceries, general provisions, and canned goods of every description, the best brands of pure and unadulterated spices, teas and coffees, sugar, molasses and the usual grocers' sundries. A department is devoted to crockery and glassware, in which will be found all kinds of useful articles. Mr. Wallace is a native of Wolfville and has through all these years made it his special study to supply his customers with the very best goods the market afforded, and at reasonable prices. He has gained a reputation for square dealing and customers are never disappointed in not getting what they bargain for.

G. F. Hamiltou.

Groceries and Canned Goods.

Mr. Hamiltou has the newest grocery store, and is himself the youngest proprietor in the town. He commenced business in the J. G. Eagles shop, but a few weeks ago, with a full assortment of general groceries, and has already succeeded in obtaining a fair share of patronage of the trade, encouraging quick sales, by small profits. During the Christmas season he offers for cash, good fresh raisins at eight cents per pound, currants at same price, four

Jas. S. Morse.

Flour, Meal, Feed, Groceries, etc.

One of the oldest and most reliable houses in Wolfville. In 1853 Mr. Morse opened a Grocery Store in Wolfville and by close attention to business soon merited and obtained a liberal share of the patronage of the township, which he has recently had ever since. He is one of the most popular of our business men and his word is as good as his bond. He deals in flour, meal, salt, leather, paraffine oil, and general groceries of the best quality, and purchasers may rely on getting what they bargain for every time.

F. J. Porter.

Groceries, Glassware, Crockeryware, Flour and Feed.

Mr. Porter came to Wolfville in May, 1887, and opened a small Grocery Store on Main street. By close attention to business and catering to the wants of the public his business increased to such an extent as to oblige him to seek for enlarged premises which resulted in his having a fine store built expressly for his trade, into which he moved in June last. This is said to be the finest grocery store in the County. It is well stocked with general groceries, farmers' produce, fish, salt, flour, meal, &c. He also keeps constantly on hand oats, bran, shorts, middlings, &c., all of which he disposes of at lowest market prices. Farmers will find this a good place to exchange their produce for such groceries as are kept here.

J. W. Vaughn.

Bakery, Restaurant and Grocery.

There is no single branch of trade so much important as that of the grocer. He it is who supplies the necessities sufficient to sustain life, and the baker exercises his skill in compounding and preparing them for food. About two years ago Mr. Vaughn commenced the Bakery business here, and has met with such success as to encourage him to extend his business on a much larger scale. He has built a fine building, the lower part of which is occupied for a Bakery, Restaurant, and Grocery. His assortment of groceries, although not so extensive as that of some others in the town, is equal in quality with those of the best. In the Restaurant lunches may be had at any hour of the day and at reasonable charges. His Bakery supplies bread, pie, cakes, &c., a stock of which is kept on hand and always fresh.

S. R. Sleep & Son.

Stoves, Ranges, Furnaces, Tinware General Hardware.

Among the old and reliable houses in this business may be numbered that of S. R. Sleep & Son. Mr. Sleep commenced business in Wolfville upwards of fifty years ago, and by strict attention to business built up a large and constantly increasing trade. The articles here displayed are such as are usually found in first class stores of this kind, consisting of stoves, ranges, hollow ware, paints, oils, nails, glass, and shelf hardware. In this large stock will be found stoves and ranges (adapted for wood or coal) of the best grades. Mr. Sleep is also prepared with competent workman to do any description of house plumbing, water piping, and fixtures kept constantly on hand and supplied and fitted at reasonable prices. Here also can be found stove-pipe and kitchen goods generally, and are offered at prices which cannot fail to please customers.

T. A. Munro.

Merchant Tailoring Establishment.

The world judges largely by outward appearance, and the art of the tailor is one of primary significance. Mr. Munro is one of our best representatives in this line, and his efforts to please have

Mrs. Weston.

Confectionery, Toys and Fancy China.

This is one of the neatest shops in the town, everything inside is arranged with the nicest precision. Upon the counter are the most tempting confections and enticing syrups. To go inside is to partake of some of the delicacies therein displayed, as the palate is sure to sympathize with the eye; and to sample something so temptingly arranged before one, becomes inevitable. Not only the interior but the exterior attracts the attention, as the most beautiful plants and flowers adorn the shop windows which are kept in bright foliage and beautiful blown throughout the entire year, and for sale. Toys in variety are also to be had here.

Franklin & Fuller.

Hardware, Paints, Oils, Lumber, etc.

The trade of the hardware man is second to none in the community, and his range of customers is as varied as any other. He furnishes the blacksmith with iron, the mechanic with tool, the farmer with farming implements, the builder with builders' hardware, the housekeeper with table cutlery, the hallow ware and a great variety of useful and elegant articles needed in the dwelling. The small boy is also provided for with sharp jackknives, &c., that go to make him happy. The Messrs. Franklin and Fuller, having purchased the business and good will of the late firm of Walter Brown, are now in a position to supply the trade with everything to be desired in their line. A fine assortment of skates for the holiday season have been procured in plain steel, nickel, silver and gold. In silver-ware they have a fine display of cake baskets, berry and fruit dishes, breakfast, table and pickle castors, butter knives, tea, table and desert spoons, all of which will be sold low as they intend closing this department of their business. House furnishings, illuminating and lubricating oils always in stock. Also, dry pine shingles and timber.

W. S. Wallace.

Fashionable Custom Tailor.

Dress is a fine art, in which nothing is so conspicuous as the absence of taste. A great many people simply exhibit the ability to purchase without the taste to select, not giving due attention to the choosing of material which harmonizes in color to suit the complexion or the style of garments becoming to the size. It is by close attention to such details that Mr. Wallace is meeting with such good success. He has on his counter and to arrive a fine assortment of cloths and suitings including English, Scotch and Canadian tweeds, which will be made up in the latest styles and fashion. None but experienced and thoroughly practical hands are employed and perfect fits are in all cases guaranteed.

German Syrup

We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

Ed. L. Willets, of Mrs. Jas. W. Kirk, Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when Harrodsburg, Ky. I troubled with Croup have depended upon preparation and find it in attacks of Croup. It is simply marvelous with my little daughter. Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Bosche's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs.

THE ACADIAN WOLFVILLE, N. S., DECEMBER 18, 1891.

THE HISTORY OF FIFTY YEARS—WHAT IT WAS THEN AND WHAT IT IS NOW.

Wolfville sixty years ago was but a small hamlet of about fifteen or twenty families. It was generally known as "The Road," on account of its location, being on the principal road in the county the "Post Road," over which His Majesty's mails were conveyed once a week from Halifax to Annapolis.

THE ONLY HOTEL of any note in Horton side of the "Royal Oaks" at Kentville. This building is now standing and yet occupied as a house of entertainment for man and beast, although it lacks one of the essentials of the past, that of intoxicants.

THE PARADE, as it was called, where the active militia which included every male person of sound health and no infirmity, between the ages of sixteen and sixty, were notified to meet at least one day in every year and play soldier, was just west of the Graham House, and occupied the plot of ground now known as the Cricket Ground.

THE STORE, the one other attraction of the place, was well stocked with all the necessaries of the day, and was never without a generous supply of the "Oh Joyful" in the shape of a hoghead of spirits, which was at that time considered as necessary to the furnishing of a grocery store as was the chest of tea or box of tobacco.

THE SHIPPING, was close to the road at what is now known as "Mud Bridge," where schooners of from fifty to one hundred tons burden were safely moored to some one of the wharves and received and discharged cargo for, and from, Boston, where the most of our produce went and whence supplies came.

POST OFFICE, in the extreme western end of the settlement, was the only one between Kentville and Windsor, and served the whole of Horton east of the Kentville division. Mails were received and dispatched but once a week, the postage being invariably collected on delivery, and was all the way from fourpence to several shillings for each letter, regulated by the distance carried and its weight. Newspapers were but seldom received as they were too expensive a luxury for the common people.

WOLFVILLE TODAY. Contrasting the Wolfville of sixty years ago with that of to-day much progress is noticeable. It then had but one street through it and one leading into it; it now has twenty. It then had but one church, now five. It then had one store, now sixteen. It then had one hotel; now five, besides several boarding houses. Acadia College was then in its progenitor, now with its affiliated establishments, Horton Academy and Acadia Seminary,—it is one of the most flourishing and popular institutions of learning in the Lower Provinces. Within the past few years the progress and advancement of Wolfville has been most encouraging. New dwellings have been added year by year in largely increasing numbers, the present

BUILDING ANY PREVIOUS one. A number of very fine dwellings have been erected within the present year and three large stores with plate glass fronts have been completed. A new Railway Station house equal to any on the line of the W. & A. R. has been built. A large addition to Acadia Seminary is under way. The construction of a large and commodious four story building to be completed in January next, has been let, which will be used as a laboratory for the preparation of patent medicines. The construction of an ELECTRIC LIGHT SERVICE for the town is also now under way. Wolfville is making greater progress at present than any other town of equal size in the Province, taking into consideration the fact, that it has no manufacturing enterprises, railroad terminus or headquarters, or any other of the fluctuating operations of the day, to draw people here.

BEAUTIFUL SITUATION, beautiful locality and educational advantages are its chief attractions. Within the past two years the town has been supplied with one of the best WATER SERVICES in the Dominion, its fountain-head being living springs of water on the mountain top three miles distant. In connection with the water supply a very efficient FIRE COMPANY has been organized and fully equipped with hose, axes, ladders and all other necessary accoutrements for the service.

DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS. Among those who have recently come here we might especially mention Mr. Lewis Duncanson, who, though not to be classed as one of our business men, yet we may consider him as one of our most enterprising. He came to Wolfville about two years ago and purchased one of the most valuable properties in the town, consisting of twenty acres of superior diked marsh adjoining the railway, opposite the centre of the village, and a considerable tract of upland, bounded on the north by Main street, extending south across Keen street and nearly to Pleasant street. He at once began to make improvements on his purchase and prepare the same for sale in suitable lots for intending purchasers.

THE SHIPMENT, was close to the road at what is now known as "Mud Bridge," where schooners of from fifty to one hundred tons burden were safely moored to some one of the wharves and received and discharged cargo for, and from, Boston, where the most of our produce went and whence supplies came.

POST OFFICE, in the extreme western end of the settlement, was the only one between Kentville and Windsor, and served the whole of Horton east of the Kentville division. Mails were received and dispatched but once a week, the postage being invariably collected on delivery, and was all the way from fourpence to several shillings for each letter, regulated by the distance carried and its weight. Newspapers were but seldom received as they were too expensive a luxury for the common people.

Politics, Selfishness, Patriotism, Which?

A rumor accidentally reached me this morning to the effect that some persons in this vicinity think my motives in preparing and reading my paper on "The Canadian Northwest" are not disinterested. The rumor, if correctly conveyed to me, appeared to embody three points, viz.: that the paper in substance and design is political; that the Dominion Government or somebody pays me for my services in this connection; that I have political aspirations and that by reading my paper I wish to gain favor and secure a nomination. Such was the report that came to me.

The paper was never intended to be political. Gentlemen of both parties have heard it, and affirm that it is not political. I leave the case to the judgment of a fair minded community.

As to my reward. Neither the Dominion Government nor any individual has given me anything, nor promised me anything, in the way of money, office or otherwise. I am not working for pay, the labor is self-imposed.

In regard to my political aspirations, I beg to say I have no liking for such things. Public life has no attractions for me. On no condition would I abandon my present congenial employment and enter the political arena. If anybody has used my name in this connection he has taken an unwarranted liberty. Gentlemen of this community, of whatever political faith, please do not accuse me of seeking notoriety in this way. I am not a politician.

Now for a word of explanation in regard to my Western trip. I conceived the idea of crossing the continent through Canadian territory some two or three years ago. The summer of 1890 was fixed upon for the journey. The state of my health was such that summer, that my medical advisers would not permit me to travel far. Reluctantly I abandoned my purpose for that season. In July last my health was sufficiently firm to permit me to make the desired trip. Unexpectably, and wholly unsolicited on my part, I received concessions from the railway authorities over some parts of the journey, such as newspaper men are accustomed to receive, I am told. This is the sum total of my reward and the obligations it pressed upon me for the above favor were discharged before a line of my paper on the Northwest was written.

During my journey I observed carefully, sought information diligently and took notes from day to day and often from hour to hour. What I saw west of Lake Superior was a revelation to me; it was a continuous surprise. After my return I began expanding my notes and extending my researches, in such publications as I could obtain, making a study in the current geography and the social and economic history of Western Canada. This I intended, at first, simply for my own private benefit, and for my children to read. But while writing, it occurred to me that our people, our young people especially, should study the history and geography of their own country more than they are doing; and it seemed to me that if I should prepare one or two papers on our great West, embodying the results of my observations and inquiries, and read them wherever people might wish me to read, it might be a means of stimulating our young people to greater interest in such studies. I believe that such studies could not fail to increase their patriotism and inspire love of country. Our people are behind those of their own lands in regard to their knowledge of their own country. It is the duty of our teachers and educationists to correct this evil. Being a teacher myself why should not I move in this direction? The idea originated with myself. I prepared one paper and said I would read it in my place free of charge. I had no selfish motive in the matter. I always shrink from appearing before an audience in public, however small the gathering be. In my paper on the Northwest I aim to give some idea of what is going on in a distant part of Canada hoping thereby to stimulate our people to further research, and to follow from day to day the progress that is being made in developing our native land. Such studies and researches, I believe, could not fail to intensify their patriotism, and make them proud of their country. My paper is patriotic from beginning to end. I fully intended it to be that. I could not conscientiously and truthfully make it otherwise. This, then, is my explanation for my paper. I am not writing for money, for emolument, for anything of the kind. I am working simply to give a little information to our people, and beg a desire in them to seek for more. If this is a crime or blameworthy in Canada to-day, it was not always thus. It would not be regarded as selfish or criminal in any other civilized country, not even in Spain and Russia. Certainly it cannot be the encouraging information and the patriotic sentiment in the paper which offends, if offence be given. If it is, it becomes us all to clothe ourselves in sack-cloth, and heap ashes on our heads and have a day of profound humiliation and confession, and pray to be forgiven for past offences, to be delivered from such debasing sentiment, and beseech to have that manly and loyal spirit restored to us in all its fulness and power that for 2,000 years has characterized the Anglo-Saxon race, that proud race to which we belong.

The destiny of Canada lies in her people's hands. They can make her great or they can humble her in the dust. As they will she can stand erect, or she can crouch before the nations of the earth. The patriotism of her citizens will exalt her, the lack of it will cause her humiliation. Let us study her history, examine her institutions, investigate her resources and rejoice in her prosperity, so manifest on every hand. As true sons of Albion let us rise above party politics, and on a higher plain unite in maintaining the honor of our great country, both at home and abroad. J. F. TURK. December 12th, 1891.

Kentville News. Kentville has at last found it necessary to adopt electric lighting, and a company has been formed who have already got an engine house built and engine placed. Posts are now being put up and it is intended to have the lights in operation by Christmas.

The Windsor & Annapolis railway are about completing a car shed for the purpose of storing their new rolling stock, which is not to be in use this winter. The shed is about 200 feet long and will contain room for six cars.

All the merchants are bracing up for Christmas and stores look very attractive. Among some of them we might mention the establishment of Mr. A. C. Moore, where confectioners of the best quality in made fresh every day. This is a new departure in the candy line here and is deserving of liberal patronage.

The store of Mr. I. C. Swain, photographer and jeweller, is looking very fine and he has a choice lot of Christmas goods to select from.

Mr. W. Newcomb, of the W. & A. railway, has been confined to the house for the past two weeks with measles, we are glad to see him around again.

Dr. J. N. Cadieux, temperance lecturer, of Toronto, has been present with us lately and delivered some very interesting lectures on Temperance.

Hugo, son of Mr. H. Glasgow, jeweller, met with a serious accident on Sunday last. It seems the lad was fooling with a revolver which exploded, the ball entering his breast near the heart. He is at present in a very precarious state and not much hopes are entertained for his recovery.

R. BRYCE GEMMEL, Esq., F. C. S. late analyst, "Surgeon's Hall," Edinburgh, writes:—"I have analysed a sample of K. D. C. manufactured by the K. D. C. Company of New Glasgow, N. S., and have been unable to detect any ingredient of an objectionable or injurious nature. The ingredients used in its preparation are pure and simple and the compound is so prepared that it will give ready relief to sufferers from indigestion."

From now until the end of the year I will have my annual CLEARANCE SALE OF MILLINERY, comprising: Hats! Bonnets! Ribbons! Velvets! Feathers! Laces! &c., &c., &c. M. A. Hamilton. Wolfville, Dec. 11th, 1891.

ETNA ACADIAN.—I notice in the "Witness" of the Acadia Athleteum of this month that Conductor Joe has got the suspension. Perhaps the parties that were troubled about Joe do not know that a man has to go into training and receive his fish to witness the consumption of that for which he has labored himself, and not have his poor old father and mother, who think they are not blessed with the talent he has, work their fingers off to give the chosen one an education to make fun of those who had the chance when young to get college training. Thanking you for space, yours respectfully, ROBERT JOE.

Have you seen those fine Carving Sets and Brass Vases at the Wolfville Bookstore.
