S. H. Parsons & Sons, Photographers,

Corner of Water and Prescott Streets,

Submit to the Artistic loving public a new line of Xmas Cards suitable for the coming season. They are called "The Picturesque," and comprise 8 local views in box with envelopes complete ready for mailing. We recommend placing orders early, as the supply is limited.

We are also showing a new line of Calendars suitable for Xmas gifts.

All the above are the very latest from London, and only needs seeing to be admired.

We cannot conceive a more delightful gift for Xmas than a photograph from our Studio. A photograph is truly the "Gift of Kings."

A possession of great charm is a portrait in the "Natural colours of Life." Briefly—these portraits are produced on a Special Sepia paper, just a convincing likeness, with the colour of the hair, the eyes, the face, suggested delicately in water colour.

The Cosway is another new Style of Portrait we are showing; suitably framed it makes a charming present at any time. Ask to see them.

A choice display of some of our latest work can now be seen in the Vestibule, Water Street entrance.

Our Xmas trade has now begun, and it is imperative that orders should be placed as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.—nov2,s,m,w,s

A Terrible Tangle.

CHAPTER II.

In His Power.

The wedding was over, the guests were scattered, and all the relations had gone back to their respective homes. Even Mrs. Griffin had been obliged to leave Elizabeth, but perhaps, with that tact which was hidden so deeply beneath her gruff manner, she felt that it was a kindness to let the girl face these first hours of separation from her sister alone.

Lord Ottershaw had taken Mrs. Griffin to the station. They were very old friends, and Ellen Griffin was fond of venting some of her cynical humor upon him. She imagined, indeed, that he would have accompanied her to London, but he made some excuse—he really hardly knew what—and the train went without him.

His mother had left the neighborhood early in the afternoon. It was evening now. Ottershaw kept his room at the hotel in Warminster. A curious kind of dream had fallen upon him; his mind was haunted by a vision of a woman—of Elizabeth, in fact—as she had looked that morning in the church when she had given her sister away. She had garbed herself almost as though she had been Lil's mother; her dress had been of softest gray, with priceless old lace, and she had covered her beautiful hair with a small bonnet tied with white strings.

She had looked very white herself, but though she had carried herself proudly and with dignity, she had never looked so young.

Ottershaw's attention had been riveted on her. He had noticed that, though she had been swept away by a very whirlwind of emotion, she had kept a good grip of herself. He liked a woman who had plenty of self-control. Perhaps he alone—for he watched her keenly—had seen the hungry way in which Elizabeth had put her arms about Lil when the pretty bride had gone around to be

Reduced in Flesh Sleepless Nights

Kidney Disease and Cravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. W. Smith.

That disease of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and when acute or grave is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance.

The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain in smarting when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health.

Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on me I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well, and feel better than I have for twenty years."

kissed by everybody. At any rate, he had been quick to see that, as Lilian and her husband had gone away, Elizabeth's courage had faltered for one moment, and if he had not put out his hand to support her, she would have fallen. He could feel the soft touch of her hand now. He ordered his dinner to be served very late, and then, yielding to an almost irresistible temptation, he drove out to the farm. Some instinct seemed to lead him to the garden, and he found Elizabeth sitting lost in thought under the trees which she loved so well.

"Send me away if I am a nuisance," he said. But Beth did not send him away; she gave him a welcome instead, and made his heart thrill with an extraordinary sense of happiness; indeed, Elizabeth was glad to see him. He had been so helpful all through the long, busy day just ended—so amusing, so resourceful, so full of tact, and she felt that it had her good to be aroused.

What they talked about she hardly knew, but she realized when she arose to go that this evening, that should have been fraught with so much sorrow, had unexpectedly brought to her tender pleasure such as she had never experienced before.

It cost Ottershaw an enormous effort to leave her.

"I must be mad," he said to himself, as he drove back to Warminster. "I know I am in love with her, but why should I imagine that this gives me the right to speak to her? And yet," was his next thought, "I believe she would not misunderstand me. To her the fact that we have known one another only a single day would not count. She is a woman made for love, not a pretty pink-and-white doll such as poor Henry has married, but a living creature, who could endure all things for love. I must go back to-morrow."

Elizabeth tended her aunt and pretended to eat some dinner, still in the same, dreamlike way. The sound of a certain voice haunted her ear, the grip of a man's hand thrilled her in imagination.

When she had helped Aunt Willy upstairs to her room, Elizabeth turned from her own bed; tired as she was, she could not face the prospect of sleep for many hours yet.

She went out into the garden again, and slowly she paced away from the house, down through the orchard with that same confused sense of consolation upon her. The twilight was about her, there was no moon, but away in the distance the sky was clear and beautiful with night effects.

"It will be another lovely day to-morrow," said Elizabeth, and somehow the word "to-morrow" made her pulses beat, for it brought with it the promise of seeing Ottershaw again. And then, all at once she started violently, and gave a little cry of fear, for a figure had passed from behind some trees, and stood immediately in front of her, looking at her in a strange and almost menacing way.

Dim as the light was, Elizabeth recognized him. It was David Barostan, the man she had been discussing with Mrs. Griffin the night before.

Elizabeth's heart beat so fiercely that she could feel the throb in her throat; the loneliness of her position oppressed her, and the man's attitude alarmed her. She found her voice at last, but even as a question trembled on her lips, the man before her made a movement forward and imprisoned both her hands in his.

Elizabeth was no coward, but this sudden attack made her heart quail.

If her life had depended on it, she could not have spoken or have cried aloud; her fear was so acute it made her dumb.

It was Barostan who spoke. "So we meet at last, face to face, Elizabeth Forsyth," he said, and there was uncontrolled passion in his voice. "How I have waited for this moment! How I have prayed to have you in my power! And now my prayers are answered."

Elizabeth dragged herself back from him, but he clung to her hands, and words broke from her in a hoarse whisper.

"By what—right—do—you come here? How—dare you touch me? Let me go! let me go!"

Barostan only tightened his grip on her wrists.

"I am here," he answered, "because I have the right to be here. Perhaps they may not have told you what has passed with me this day. My brother—the only creature left to me in the world—is dead. He died by his own hand, shot through the heart, and this is your doing, Elizabeth Forsyth. His blood lies on your soul!"

A cry that was half a moan escaped from Beth's lips. "You are mad!" she almost gasped; "what have I to do with your brother? Let me go! You—you are a coward to hurt a woman! Loose me—I will be free!"

He released her so suddenly that she almost staggered and fell. "Coward?" he repeated. "I am no coward—I am a judge—your judge—Elizabeth Forsyth, I am here to shame you—to demand justice—it shall be a life for a life—your life for his! No—I'm not going to kill you," he laughed hoarsely; "there are better ways of getting vengeance than by dealing out death. I mean you to live—and suffer. For the blow you struck at my poor lad you shall be given back a hundredfold. You found him too poor and mean a creature, even to look at your fine lady sister. You shall be taught to know the proper place of a Barostan, and I will be your master! You should have remembered me when you dipped your pen in gall and wrote the word that sent him to his death. I have suffered your contempt too long not to be ready to hate you with a cruel, a merciless hate and now"—his voice rose and he stretched out his hand to ward her—"you are in my power, and by God! I will show you no pity!"

Elizabeth had retreated a yard or two, and with her hand clasped to her heart, trembling in every limb, she listened to his words, spoken deliberately, not wildly. A sudden and awful anguish had fallen on her hearing, a sudden conviction that this man was not mad, but only too terribly sane.

The poison of an almost incredulous doubt crept into her veins. As he ceased speaking she gave a low cry and covered her face with her hands.

CHAPTER III.

A Shocking Revelation.

Words came to Elizabeth at last. She lifted her face from her hands, and, overwhelmed as she was with the most cruel mental suffering, she rallied herself. "I do not understand anything of what you are saying," she said, promptly. "Justice—" wrong—what does this mean to me? What have I to do with your brother? To my knowledge, I have not even passed him in the road these last two or three years. And yet, strangers as you are to me," she added, with a catch in her voice, "the news you give me shocks me—and—I offer you my heartfelt sympathy."

David Barostan laughed. "You are a liar!" he said, emphatically.

She started as if he had struck her, and the whole wealth of her anger, or her offended dignity, swelled into a passion that swept aside all remaining weakness.

"Leave me," she said. "How dare you speak to me in such a manner? By what right are you in this place at all? Here I am mistress, and I command you to leave me—"

But he laughed again.

"No, I will not go. I meant to have shamed you to-day in the face of all your grand friends. I meant to have gone to the church and have shouted aloud your sin—but then I reflected: I said to myself, 'She will be protected—they will drive me away, and she may escape—so I decided to wait, and let the wedding proceed. I watched you holding yourself proudly, and looking like a saint, and I waited—I knew you would be alone to-night—it is not for the first time.' Barostan added, "that I have watched you walking to and fro in the garden at this hour. I chose my time well, and now—you cannot escape me, nor your just punishment!"

Elizabeth drew back till her hand rested on the nearest tree. She steadied herself, grateful for that support, and she looked at him in the eyes. She looked very tall, and slim, and graceful in the mist of the night.

"That Never Hurts Me."

BY RUTH CAMERON.
When a child fools its nurse and escapes taking some disagreeable but much needed medicine, he thinks he is lucky. When a grown-up apparently fools nurse nature, and apparently escapes the medicinal consequences of some health defying act, he thinks he is lucky. And one is just as mistaken as the other.
I heard a young man declaring the other day that his idea that you shouldn't go in bathing right after eating is all nonsense. "I do it often," he said, "and it never hurts me."
He is a man of fine physique and unusual endurance, and by reason of these things he is able to break the laws of health without any apparent punishment. But I haven't a doubt that that foolish trick is injuring him in some way or other, and that some day he will be asked to pay this debt, he is running up—and with compound interest.
"That doesn't hurt me." How often I have heard one or another making that foolish boast about some infringement of the laws of health! Of course, in all the cases I have not had a chance to watch and see if the boast was justified, but in a great many I have seen that it was not.
"I can eat anything at any time and it never hurts me." a woman I know

Now she also is paying the debt of many years' contraction. Consequences are costly things. When we suffer immediately for some infringement of the laws of health we think we are unlucky. In reality we are very lucky. "It never hurts me" is a dangerous thing to think.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.
The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.
Mrs. G. H. Williams, of Lynchburg, Va., wrote: "It is six years since my health gave way. I had female trouble and all the doctors I employed tried to cure me. I was not able to do my work, and I had to give up all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle until I found it had done me good. I took, in all, five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework, and have gained fourteen pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It's the only medicine on earth."

Fashions and Fads.

Skirts of some of the new gowns are arranged to effect the second Empire polonaise, modernized to a lengthened drapery and cut up over the foot.
The newest hat shape of the moment is the Queen Victoria, a small sort of oblong shape with a round low crown.
Small peckpieces are made of tulle, or fur, or feathers, and are fastened in the back with loops or velvet ribbons or satin finished with fringe or tassels.
The plush or velvet gown will be found in the wardrobe of every well-dressed woman this coming winter season, just as she has her velvet or plush hat.
Some of the very smartest tailored suits are of velvet souple and broche velours in blue, and trimmed with sable or finished with white fox box and muff.

Coats for little folks are made of heavy cloth, such as ratine, zibeline, wool velour, heavy chevits, boucles, chinchilla, broadcloth and fancy rough-surfaced materials.
Combinations of black and white are very fashionable in blouses. One pretty model has a corsage of black chiffon mounted on white and a plastron of white chiffon.
The sterling silver chains are worn as a means of carrying the lorgnette. Some charming effects are made with the links interspersed with pearls or rock crystals.
The newest ornaments for the corsage are fruits and vegetables: strawberries, holly berries, tomatoes, peaches and apples are used.
A feature of the new tea-gown is the white plush kerchief folded round the shoulders just as a peasant folds her gaily colored handkerchiefs around the bodice of her dress.
Black hats are the height of smartness. They are made of velvet and moire silk, both materials are selected respectively or trim another according to requirements.
A very stunning little hat for a child is made of white beaver, with an upturned brim. The crown and edge are bound with black velvet. At the side is a buckle of dull silver.
Some of the new bags are of Ottoman shot silk, in many different shapes. They have monograms of dull gold or brilliants, which are sold separately to be pinned upon the bag.
Fans are now a necessary adjunct to a woman's toilet. They are in all sizes, from tiny ones at the end of a chain to the immense ostrich feathers.
Consider the details of neckwear this fall, it is a very important accessory. Any one who is not planning this part of her outfit is neglecting a very necessary factor in the costume.
Suits made of the combination of broadcloth and velvet are very effective. Three-piece costumes are made of charmeuse and velvet, the latter being used for the coat and the dress trimming.
Every fond father should remember that the acid test of his wonderful child is its ability to make a living after it grows up.

"Dynamite Conspiracy" Progresses.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 28—John Golden, President of the United Textile Workers of America, testified at the "Dynamite Conspiracy" trial today that he had corresponded with the Iron Workers' Union headquarters at Indianapolis about an explosion. He said in April, 1908, he had written to Frank M. Ryan, President of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, enclosing a clipping headed "Dynamite explosion" and saying "Enclosed please find newspaper clipping which will be self explanatory." The clipping referred to an explosion on April 26, 1908, at Fall River, Mass., when two spans of the Slades Ferry Bridge, across the Taunton River, were blown up. The work was being done for Bristol County by a contractor against whom the Iron Workers had called a strike. It was one of the "jobs" which Ortie E. McManigal confessed to have travelled from Indianapolis to blow up on instructions from J. J. McNamara. Mr. Golden identified a copy of a reply sent to him by Ryan. In the reply Ryan referred to an editorial in the Union Magazine commenting on the finding of dynamite on a "job" in Cleveland, which a non-union workman said he had placed in order that he might discover the explosive and be promoted. Mr. Ryan's reply to Golden was that the Fall River explosion might be classed with the finding of the dynamite.
Evidence Adduced.
Testimony that President Ryan had talked for two hours in a room to which the door was closed, was given by B. J. Cook, a former stenographer for McNamara. Cook was asked whether he had seen revolvers of explosives about the union headquarters, he replied he never had but once when he was required to take stenographic notes of magazine guns which he turned over to McNamara. "How long were Ryan and McManigal in the room?" asked Senator J. W. Kern, counsel for the defense, on cross-examination.
"McManigal came to the office and asked for McNamara," replied Cook. "I told him McNamara was out, but that Ryan was there, then he went in to see Ryan about three o'clock on the afternoon and when I left the office they were still there."
Two days before McManigal confessed, he caused an explosion at Kansas City, Missouri.
Three automatic magazine guns, one shot gun and cartridges were presented before the jury as having been the property of J. J. McNamara, James B. McNamara, and McManigal. They were identified by Frank P. Baker, prosecuting attorney of Marion County, as part of property taken from the Iron Workers after McNamara's arrest.

IN THE YEAR 1932

how much will you have accumulated at your present rate of saving? Most men will have little or nothing saved if conditions are at all similar to those of to-day.
Every provident young man appreciates the wisdom of accumulating for his own benefit at least, and looks forward to an old age of comfort and enjoyment relieved from want and worry. And every thoughtful man endowed with manhood feels that a duty rests upon him to make some provision for others dependent upon him.
The safest, simplest and most profitable way to accomplish all this, and to be sure of a snug competency by the year 1932, is by investing in a Canada Life Endowment Policy for $5,000 or $10,000, according to your means and requirements. The policy can be bought on easy instalments and facilities are provided to assist in carrying and enjoying the insurance.
Send in your name and age and let us submit to you a good proposition.

Special Evening Telegram.
Mr. Editor.—Would you find a short space in your most valuable paper for a few facts I intend to speak about. I am asking the Longshoremen's Union do they think it right to give a certain party of men work every day and let another poor fellow hang around all day looking for work. Because I am not an old hand there is no work for me. How in the name of great goodness am I going to keep up the Union if those wharf foremen don't give me work? I am supporting the Union as well as the men they give work to and am entitled to my share of work when there is any. Every morning when 7 o'clock comes around here comes the head man picking and choosing his men, and if there is any man there that he don't know, he will ask him his name, and if his name suits him he will give him work. Do you call this a square shake. I have a family to support and I want my share of the work, me again. Yours truly,
ONE THAT CAN SAY MORE.

At St. Patrick's.

At Last Mass in St. Patrick's Church yesterday Rev. Fr. Kelly, the celebrant, referred to the repairs on the Church, informing the congregation that $16,000 had been collected the past two years for the purpose. The new heating apparatus and other repairs necessary would cost at least $3,000 more, and this he felt sure the people with their accustomed generosity would finish. A bazaar will be held in aid of the Church on the 26th inst., and no doubt will be liberally patronized.

Here and There.

REACHED SYDNEY.—The schooner Dorothy Baird, keeping has arrived at Sydney, all well, from Pernambuco. She is loading coal for this port.

STORMY WEATHER.—On Saturday the weather conditions were very unfavourable at Bonne Bay. The sea was very rough and fishermen were unable to get to their herring nets. A similar report was received from Seal Cove.

ENGINEER RETURNS.—Mr. Thos. Lumsden, chief engineer of the S. S. Bellaventure, who contracted typhoid fever while the ship was in the southern fruit trade and who was put in Hospital at Sydney, arrived by the express yesterday.

PIER BADLY DAMAGED.—Owing to the high sea which ran last week the new pier at Kelligrews, to which ships from Bell Island run, was almost totally destroyed. It is not unlikely that the ships will have to make their runs to Holyrood to connect with the trains.

IN DANGEROUS POSITION.—At 9:30 Saturday night a man was found in a stupor from alcohol and lying on the Waterford Road. He was in danger of being killed should a horse or auto come along, and the police who were apprised by phone to the place and took the unfortunate to the station.

ORE SHIPMENTS.—Recent statistics show that up to last month approximately 785,000 tons of ore had been shipped this year by the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. of Bell Island. There is still over another month to continue shipping and it is estimated that the total output for the season will exceed 1,000,000 tons.

15 CENTS FOR FIFTEEN CENTS.—You can have your pants pressed every week, with a good crease that will last almost the full week, with ordinary care; or the full week, with special care, and have your trousers look like new every Sunday. SPURRELL BROS., 365 Water Street, next door to Parker & Monroes. DAMAGED VESSEL HERE.—The tug Ingraham which left here at 10:30 a.m. Saturday for Old Perlican, arrived here yesterday at 10 a.m. with the damaged schooner Progress in tow, and left her in the stream off Baird's wharf. The tug arrived at Old Perlican at 5 p.m. Saturday and had to remain there all night owing to a gale of southerly wind prevailing.

TAKING MACHINERY TO NEWFOUNDLAND.—The Black Diamond Line steamer Louisiana arrived yesterday from Port-au-Prince, Newfoundland, under ballast. The Louisiana is loading a cargo of supplies and machinery and will return to Newfoundland in a few days.—Sydney Record, Oct. 30.

CHATHAM, Nov. 3.
Great excitement was caused here to-day by the receipt of urgent Admiralty telegrams, recalling the officers and men to their ships. Messengers on bicycles were despatched in all directions. The authorities are reticent, but it is believed that the orders relate to the battleships Russell and Duncan, now on the Medway.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.
The New York American says that betting on the election is brisk. A Wall Street commissioner placed $100 against $250 that Roosevelt will get twice as many electors' votes as Taft; $100 to $400 that Roosevelt gets three times the electoral vote of Taft; $100 to $600 that he gets four times as many. Wilson is still 4 to 1; some got 5 to 1. It is even betting that Hedges will beat Straus; 3 to 1 on Sulzer; $1,000 even that Roosevelt beats Taft; $1,000 even that Sulzer gets 10,000 plurality in King's; one bet of $550 to $500 that Roosevelt gets more popular votes than Taft.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.
W. C. Douglas, Director of the St. Louis Trust Company, and identified with several other corporations, was burned to death, and more than 20 persons injured, three probably fatally, and 150 occupants of the Berlin Hotel, an exclusive family hotel in the center of the residential district, in their night clothes when fire destroyed the hotel. Several other guests are missing. Firemen are searching the ruins for bodies. The loss is $250,000. The guests are believed to have lost $100,000 in jewellery. The hose carriage on the way to the fire struck a street car and three of the reel-car crew were fatally injured.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.
It is believed that 16 were drowned when the S.S. Cecelia, plying between Montreal and Valley-field, was wrecked during a hurricane yesterday. She went to the bottom off Isle Perrot, in Lake St. Louis. Details are meagre, but it is believed that 20 aboard only were saved. Capt. Le Duc is among the drowned. Those who escaped did so by clinging for four hours to a frail and hastily-constructed raft, amid the buffeting of tremendous waves. Two were blown ashore at Chateaugay, landing on the beach, utterly exhausted by their long struggle. The Cecelia was built last year, of 115 tons. Several women and children were among the passengers.

Something Special.

S. H. PARSONS & SONS, Photographers, corner of Water and Prescott Streets, call attention to their advertisement on the first page of this issue.

They specially draw attention to the necessity of placing orders early, particularly for portraits in water colors, miniatures, enlargements and framing. A good line of miniature rims and frames to suit the most critical are kept in stock.

The latest addition to their outfit is a new Electric Lamp, specially made for portrait work. They can now guarantee photographs taken in the night equal in every respect to those taken in daylight, whether groups or single figures.

Good Price Paid for Fish.

We are informed that a city merchant bought a cargo of fish, which came from St. Mary's, on Saturday and paid $7.20 a quintal for it. The quantity of fish purchased was eight hundred quintals and the quality No. 1 large merchantable. This is certainly a good price for fish and the belief expressed is that the buyer is making a big 'spec'.

Deaconess Sunday.

At Gover Street Methodist Church last night a large congregation attended the service and Rev. Charles Lench, of Grand Bank, President of the Conference, delivered an eloquent and impressive sermon from Zachariah 2: 1: "A man with a measuring line in his hand." The beautiful discourse was listened to with wrapt attention, and at its close Mrs. King sang a solo. In the morning, Rev. J. W. Bartlett, though feeling unwell, preached a very eloquent sermon. Substantial sums were collected at the services in aid of the Deaconess movement.

Another Dramatic Company.

The Klark-Urban Co. presented "Capt. Clay of Missouri" to a large audience as a farewell performance Saturday night. The piece received an excellent portrayal, and just before the close the leading lady, Maisie Cecil was presented with a handsome bouquet. After the last act the whole company sang "Auld Lang Syne" and were given an ovation by the audience. Mr. Klark announced that the Young-Adams Co., a fine aggregation, would play here for a season, opening at Christmas.

A Valuable Industry.

Mr. Thomas Curran, who arrived from P. E. I. on Wednesday by the express, says that almost any money can be procured there for black foxes. Foxes are worth $5,000, and the industry of fox farming is fast becoming a most important one. Mr. Curran believes that the Island will supply most of this kind of fur to the world in another decade of years.

TIERNY-FENNESSEY.

Paul F. Tierney of this district and Miss Bridie M. Fennessey, of St. John's, N. F., were married Saturday evening at the rectory of S. S. Peter and Paul's Church by Rev. T. J. O'Connell. The bride wore a handsome gown of white messaline and shadow lace, with spray of lilies of the valley, which held the veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white bridal roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ahearn, wore pink crepe de chine and pink roses. The best man was Henry F. Stober. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. P. Ahearn, after which the happy couple started on their wedding trip. The groom is employed in the office of Waldo Brothers.

The above was clipped from the South Boston Gazette, of October 9th, and the bride, Miss Bridie Fennessey, is well known and much esteemed in the West End. She is a daughter of Mr. John Fennessey, cooper, and sister of Mr. Patrick Fennessey, supervisor of Buine Johnstone & Co's., and Mesdames J. J. Barron and P. Brown, of this city. The Telegram extends congratulations.

On October 31st the marriage of Mr. Francis James, of St. John's, to Miss Josephine Wilson, of Merasheen, took place, the Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche performing the ceremony. After the ceremony the happy couple proceeded to their future home, on Cabot Street, where they with their guests sat down to a sumptuous supper, and after arriving later in the evening dancing was indulged in. After tendering congratulations and good wishes the guests took their leave. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents.

Celebrated Singer at the Nickel.

J. W. Myers, the world famous baritone, opens an engagement at the Nickel this afternoon and there is a rare treat in store for all lovers of good songs. Mr. Myers has a rich baritone voice and has had the advantage of many long years of experience. He has chosen for his opening number, "The White Squall," a song of the sea. Mr. Myers is the celebrated singer who has made so many phonograph records and a rare opportunity is now being offered to hear Mr. Myers himself for the first time in St. John's.

The Grand Falls sailed Friday for Oporto.

Luncheon to Dr. Parkin.

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Council of Higher Education gave a luncheon at Waterford Hall in honour of Dr. Parkin of the Rhodes Trust. The other guests were His Excellency the Governor, the Prime Minister, the Colonial Secretary, the Department of Education, Mr. H. Winter (a Rhodes Scholar), the Governor's Private Secretary, and the editor of the daily papers. Vice-President, Dr. Curtis presided. After the luncheon a short toast list was taken up. The healths of His Majesty the King and the Governor were drunk. To the latter His Excellency responded. He said he had known Cecil Rhodes in South Africa, and intimated he was giving the experiences of his own career in a book that would be published shortly.

Supt. Burke proposed the health of Dr. Parkin, the guest of the evening. He spoke of the big part played by the schoolmaster in the public life of to-day. Governor Wilson, the favorite of to-morrow's Presidential Election, the Canadian Prime Minister and the Prime Minister of Newfoundland had all like Dr. Parkin been schoolmasters. It was somewhat curious that while Cecil Rhodes, in South Africa, an Imperial dreamer, was amassing wealth to consecrate to the carrying out of his dream, Dr. Parkin, an ardent Imperialist, was fitting himself in Canada to become the exponent and artificer of the Trust to bring the dream to fruition.

Dr. Parkin, in responding, said he looked upon the function as an expression of confidence in the Trust. Referring to Mr. Burke's parallel of himself and Rhodes, he said that he had found out some months ago that Rhodes and himself matriculated at Oxford University on the same day, and must have been in the same hall, unknown to one another. In view of his present association with the Rhodes Trust, it was undoubtedly a remarkable coincidence. The Rhodes Trust was one of the greatest trusts in the world, and the Trustees felt the responsibility of the undertaking, and the need of justifying the existence of the scheme, that other rich men might feel themselves called upon to contribute their wealth for the good of mankind. The Trust had done the best to keep themselves in touch with the local circumstances of the States provinces and other places, from which scholars were sent up to Oxford. In working out the scheme he (Dr. Parkin) had travelled 100,000 miles during the past ten years to consult and discuss matters with educational authorities and in a few weeks his experience, what had been done in various places, and why it had been done would be given to the world in a book which he has written.

Mr. Rhodes had a great idea of benefiting the British Empire by sending up a large number of able young men to Oxford, but his ideas were vague as he was not a practical educationalist. He therefore gave a free hand to the Trustees to exercise the widest discretion in making the scheme as effective as possible. They were given power to add to the number of scholarships to suppress scholarships, to alter the conditions of selection, the difficulties of the Trustees fell into two classes. One class related to the selection of suitable scholars, and the other to the admission of the scholars to the different colleges. It was not easy to gain admission to an Oxford college. The number to be admitted were usually filled up nine months before the date of admission. The College authorities sought to know the character, powers and scholarship of the men seeking admission, and particularly so in regard to scholars. They expected much from Rhodes Scholars, as the value of a Rhodes Scholarship was three times as great as that of the usual Oxford Scholarship. It was essential to secure a high type of man to meet these requirements. In one State they found the scholarship alternating between Protestants and Catholics. In another they found the Committee of Selection settled by politics. In both cases the Trustees had taken the election out of local hands and now make the selection themselves. They were seeking for the best men, men of power, and they had found it necessary to insist on the standing of candidates being equal to those who had taken at least a two years' course at a Colonial University. From the States of the Union, from the Dominions, candidates were generally graduates, and these men found it all they could do to compete satisfactorily with the scholarship holders from the big Public Schools of England. Newfoundland was at the only country from which Rhodes Scholars were taken from secondary schools. The Trustees were determined to bring Newfoundland scholars into line and in order to do this put forward three suggestions: (1) The establishment of some affiliation with some University, and the providing of teachers to undertake the work; (2) the establishment of scholarships which would enable selected Rhodes scholars to take up a two years course at a University before proceeding to Oxford; and (3) the diversion of the funds of one of the three scholarships by the Trustees to provide the preliminary training in No. 2. The last suggestion was his own and had not yet been placed before the Trustees. In any case, he was prepared to suggest to the Trustees that the new arrangement should not be insisted upon until 1915, and not in 1913 as had been originally intended.

The next toast was the C. H. E. which was proposed by the Prime Minister and responded to by Supt. Blackall. Following this, the Colonial Secretary proposed the Rhodes Scholars, to which Mr. H. Winter responded in a speech which created a most favourable impression. After the health of the Chairman had been proposed by Dr. Parkin and duly honored, the assembly broke up and the guest of the evening was wished God Speed in the great work in which he is engaged.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY. This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature's secrets are unlocked by the scientist and the common happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides during the past century, and among these the most important discovery in medicine comes that of THERAPION.

This preparation is unquestionably one of the most potent and reliable Patent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by M. Roussin, J. Ober, Velpain, Massonneuve, the well-known Chassagnac and indeed by all who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Lallemand and Roux, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it warrants the attention of those who require such a remedy we think there is no doubt. Such a remedy is a downward step towards the removal of these diseases, and like the famous philosopher's stone, the object of each of some of the most generous minds, and far beyond the mere power of such could ever have been discovered—of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy for the most terrible and fatal diseases of the human race. The discovery of this medicine is a most important one, and in the other so effectively, speedily and safely to expel from the system with the aid, or even the knowledge, of a second party, the poisons of acquired or inherited disease in all their protean forms as to leave no trace behind. Such is THERAPION.

THERAPION which may certainly rank with, if not take precedence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which so little ostentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine, never introduced appears to prove that it is destined to take its place in the list of the most valuable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. Therapion may be obtained of the principal chemists and merchants throughout the world. —Dunsmuir's Irish Advertiser, Kingston, N.S. Therapion may now also be obtained in Orange (Australia)

"Pape's Diapepsin" settles upset Stomachs and ends indigestion in five minutes.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach—digests just what is in your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

LONDON, Nov. 3.
Only two lines of forts, both known as Tchatalja, one to the N. W. of the fortress of Adrianople and the other stretching across the Peninsula outside Constantinople now stand between Turkey and the total obliteration of her power in Europe. On neither of these lines of forts can much reliance be placed in view of what has happened in other places which were supposed to be strongly fortified. So confident are the Bulgarians of their ability to overcome the shattered Army of Nazim Pasha that part of their Army is being sent back to Adrianople. It will there complete the investment of that fortress, and carry on the siege; if the place is not carried by storm, it will be starved into submission. There seems to be no escape for the Turks. The Bulgarians are following up their successes with a dash that surprises the world. They are endeavouring, and perhaps have succeeded in doing so, to force troops from Serai between the routed Turkish Army and the Tchatalja line. This move would put an end to all Turkish resistance and stop the defeated and maddened Ottomans from reaching Constantinople, where their arrival is much feared by the population. If the Bulgarians succeed in cutting the flying Turks off from Tchatalja, they are likely to go on to Constantinople, where they will dictate terms of peace? They are not likely, however, to stay in Constantinople, as there is a Bulgarian legend which says that any nation occupying that city is certain to be in perpetual trouble with its neighbours. What the Bulgarians have always aimed at is the occupation of the province of Adrianople, which runs down to the line between the Black Sea and the Sea of Marmora, near the base of the peninsula. The Turkish troops might have found a way of retreat towards Port Redesto, on the Sea of Marmora, but this is now occupied by Bulgarians. The thorough knowledge of the country, which enabled the Bulgarians to advance so rapidly, has also been used to block every avenue of escape for Turkey. There is still some fighting spirit left in the Turks at Adrianople, and from Bulgarian sources some accounts of desperate sorties made by the garrison. In fact, the Bulgarians have had the hardest kind of fighting to contend against.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 3.
Unusual activity in the Portsmouth dockyards is reported in a special edition of the Evening News, which says that preparations are being made to prepare the sixth destroyer flotilla for sea. An official explanation, says the News, is that this is being done for the quarterly mobilizations, on Monday, but we understand that the preparations are of a much more warlike nature. Active service ratings have been recalled by notice and special messages, since 2 p.m., and the men have been directed to proceed aboard their ships, by 8.15 this evening. The News adds it is rumored that the flotilla will sail to-night under sealed orders. Notices have been posted, ordering all submarine men to return to their boats at once. Men on leave have been called by wire to other naval ports.

LONDON, Nov. 3.
From all the capitals of Europe comes reports of the efforts of the Powers to reach an agreement in regard to the form of intervention, by nothing has been definitely decided beyond a general approval of the French proposals. In the meantime war vessels of the Powers are hurrying to protect the Christians among the Turkish population, whose danger according to most correspondents, is very real.

DEVONPORT, Nov. 3.
The officers and men attached to the seventh destroyer flotilla were ordered to return to their ships by Saturday night at the latest. With the parent ships and submarines together 35 vessels are affected. These will be ready to sail on Sunday and other on Monday, it is believed for the East.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 3.
All the officers and men of the war craft here were ordered to board their ships at 7 a.m. Sunday. Later, an Admiralty despatch ordered those of the fifth destroyer flotilla aboard their ships at 11 p.m. on Saturday at the latest.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 3.
The British cruiser Dartmouth passed here to-day bound for the Levant. The third battle squadron will arrive from England to-morrow morning, and proceed eastward after a stop of one hour.

SOFIA, Nov. 3.
The official newspaper, Miri, states that before evacuating Bunarhisar, the Turks shut up 200 Bulgarians in the barracks and set fire thereto. All perished in the flames.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, Const. Tucker and Crocker, who were doing night duty found a female, who is well known to the police, acting disorderly near the King's Wharf. She was drunk and incapable and liable to go overboard if not carefully watched. The officers, in consequence, arrested her. Last evening two blue-jackets visited the police station and wanted to pay a fine for the release of the prisoner. They were ordered out and but that they fled quickly would have been held in custody themselves.

Pomeranian Arrives.

SHIP RECLASSIFIED.
The R. M. S. Pomeranian, Captain Braith, arrived at 11 a.m. yesterday from Liverpool, which port she left 8 days previous. The usual head winds experienced at this season of the year coming over the North Atlantic were encountered. She brought 850 tons of cargo, 50 packages of mail and as passengers in saloon—Rev. McDermott, wife and child and four in steerage. Since the ship was here last she was reclassified and refitted. She was on the stocks at Glasgow, received a thorough overhauling, and some extensive alterations were made. Special attention was given the dining room of the ship. In this respect the Pomeranian is now not inferior to any other Allan boat running to St. John's. Provision has been made for the accommodation of fifty-eight persons in the saloon which formerly could only take twenty. The state rooms are well furnished, lighted and ventilated. The ship's engines have also been overhauled. The Pomeranian will only make the one trip on the St. John's route after which she will take up a service between London, Havre and St. John, N.B.

More Light.

Our new 40 candle power lamp can supply more light at less cost than any other system of Artificial Lighting. This lamp is especially designed for use with our new ten-cent Slot Meter. The Nascopie Chartered.

The S. S. Nascopie was chartered by the Reid Newfoundland Company on Saturday, and left the same night for Sydney in charge of Captain Drake. At present there is a large amount of freight at North Sydney station awaiting shipment to St. John's and the charter of the Nascopie was deemed necessary to relieve the congestion. On her return the Nascopie will likely be dry docked to have a few plates, which were loosened by contact with ice in the northern regions, tightened.

Marine Notes.

The Waterwitch sailed to-day for Pernambuco, laden with 3,985 qtls. fish, shipped by Goodridge & Sons.
The motor sloop A. F. Goodridge, left here Saturday morning for Renewals to load fish for here. She is laden with provisions, and Mr. F. Goodridge and Capt. Joffie went along in her.
The S. S. Earl of Devon left here Friday for Fogo with a load of provisions.
The Fogota left Newtown at 3 a.m. Saturday bound north.
The schr. Freedom from Pernambuco passed Cape Race at 10.30 a.m. Thursday.
The brigtn. Olinda arrived at Gibraltar Friday after a good run from Black Tickle, Labrador.

Engine Derailed.

The Bruce express which arrived here last night at 9 o'clock met with an accident near Grand Lake when the engine, owing to a "greasy" rail, went off the track Saturday night. The couplings broke and the engine left the rails but none of the cars of the train went with it. The telegrapher cut in and wired headquarters and a special engine was sent forward from Bishop's Falls and took the express here. A delay of nine hours was caused as a result of the accident. A gang of men got the derailed engine on the track.

RECEIVED HANDSOME PRESENT.—Mr. M. F. Wadden who was recently married, was waited on yesterday by the members of the Coca Cola Club and presented with a handsome case of Westenholmes Cutlery. Mr. P. F. Collins made the presentation in a happy speech, and Mr. Wadden, who was taken completely by surprise, heartily thanked the generous donors.
