The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

—OR—
"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XXIX.

"That is a sacrifice of friendship I to thank you for what you have done thoroughly appreciate," Lloyd said, for me to-day, I would do so; but I with a little laugh. "Travelling in have now," answered Stephen, lightly.

It was snowing heavily as he left the train and stood for a few minutes on the little platform of the station at Ling, watching the train as it disappeared; then, glancing at his watch, he found that he had, as Milner had warned him, three-quarters of an hour to wait before the down train passed on its way to Ashford, stopping at Ling to take up passengers when signalled to do so.

It was not a very cheerful prospect, for there was neither refreshment-room nor bookstall at the little roadside station. The station-master's house, a pretty gabled cottage, stood near, and a little low erection contained the booking-office and the only waiting-room which the station boasted.

The wintery dusk was creeping over the landscape; the station lamps gleamed redly through the falling snow, and from the waiting-room window a stream of ruddy light poured on to the platform, already covered with a pure untrodden shroud.

"There is a fire in the waiting-room, sir," said the solitary porter, touching his cap to Stephen, whom he knew by sight. "There's only one lady there."

Stephen nodded, with a word of thanks, and went toward the waiting-room.

It was a plain, bare, shabby little apartment, but it looked cheerful now with the bright fire blazing in the grate and the gas lighted. A lady was sitting there, crouching over the fire, holding out her hands to its warmth—a slight figure wrapped in costly dark furs.

"I hope I shall not be in your way," Stephen said, courteously, lifting his hat as he entered the little room; and a cry broke from her as she turned toward him a deathly pale face with great feverish dark eyes.

Stephen almost echoed her cry as his eyes fell upon her. The lady in the waiting-room was his wife.

CHAPTER XXXI.

For a few moments husband and wife looked at each other in silence, and without moving. Stephen Daunt stood just within the waiting-room door, where he had paused on entering, looking down at his wife with wonder and amazement in his dark eyes; Sidney crouched still by the fire, her face turned toward him over her shoulder, white as death itself in her surprise and terror. Then she rose slowly, and as it were mechanically, and stood before him, her head drooping on her breast, her hands hanging loosely by her sides, a strange resigned hopelessness in her attitude.

"You have found me," she said, faintly—"you have found me! How did you know that I was here?"

"I did not know that you were here," he answered, gravely, closing the door and advancing toward her. "I came here by accident. I am waiting for the down train, Sidney," he went on, as she shrunk away from him.

"What is the meaning of this? What are you doing here?"

"I am going away," she said, simply, leaning against the wall for support, and trembling in every limb.

"Going away?" he repeated, in a puzzled tone. "Where are you going?"

"I do not know," she answered, despairingly. "I do not know."

"You do not know?" he exclaimed, his bewilderment and distress increasing momentarily. "Had you no fixed intention when you left home?"

"Yes."

"Then what was it?" he asked.

"To go away," she answered, faintly.

"Do you mean to leave your home?" he asked, gravely.

"Yes."

He was silent for a moment, and she went on, feverishly:

"Ah, I am telling you the truth now! I was going away, not to distress and trouble you any more, not to shock you any longer by my deceit and my falsehoods."

"You must have strange notions as to what will distress and trouble me," he said, speaking with grave gentleness, for he saw that she was in no condition for remonstrance. "You thought that my wife would leave my home without doing so? Were you going to write to me?"

"No."

"Did any of the household know your intentions? Did you made them acquainted with the fact that you were leaving home?"

"No."

"And we were, then, to be kept in entire ignorance of your whereabouts, Sidney?"

"Yes."

The monosyllables fell from her lips slowly and faintly, as if it needed an effort to utter even these; she was pale as paper, and her face looked ghastly pale. It seemed to her husband, as he watched her, that she was keeping herself from swooning only by a strong effort of will.

"You can have but little consideration for others," he said, gravely, "if you could condemn us to such anxiety and suspense."

"Anxiety and suspense!" she repeated, with a dreary laugh. "Would you have felt this at my departure? Would you not have rejoiced to be free from my deceptions and falsehoods? Ah, I am not speaking falsely now," she went on pitifully; "I am speaking the truth!"

"Do you want to punish me for my harsh words of last night?" he asked her gently. "You need not, Sidney; the recollection of them has been sufficient punishment, I think; and you can hardly feel more angry with me for their utterance than I am with myself for having spoken them to you. Will you try to forgive them, dear, remembering that they were spoken under great disappointment?"

The extreme gentleness of his manner touched her as no harsh words could have done. The marble calmness of her face broken up and melted, and two great tears rose in her dark eyes and rolled slowly down her cheeks. He looked so good and noble and kindly, as he stood looking at her so kindly that she had no thought of the horrible accusation which had been made against him. For a brief moment it was forgotten. His next words recalled it.

"Where you so angry with me that you were going away?" he said, with a little smile. "Was that your only reason, Sidney?"

"No," she answered steadily; and, as she looked at him gravely and fixedly for some moments, the tears were dried in her eyes, as if some inward fire had scorched them.

"Then why was it?"

"Need you ask?" she said, losing her self-control as she remembered the terrible reason which had induced her to make the desperate resolve of leaving her husband's home. "Need you ask? Ah, let me go—let me go! I could not stay any longer—it seemed to break my heart to leave, but I could not stay; that would have killed me!"

She was moving toward the door with tottering steps, when he advanced hurriedly and placed himself between her and it.

Chinese Conference to Settle Future of Asia

GENERAL WU PE FU OBJECTS TO SETTLEMENT.

"The international tariff conference which meets in Peking to-day may have as important a bearing on the peace and stability of China as the Locarno conference had on that of Europe, or it may wholly fail of achieving any substantial result at the present time due to the military movements in China," said Hon. N. W. Rowell in his address at the Canadian Club to-day.

"We have been busy discussing the question of tariff affecting nine millions of people. The discussions in Peking to-day are to determine a tariff for 456 millions of people."

"The present conference is being held pursuant to one of the treaties concluded at the Washington conference. Under this treaty the conference was to be held within three months of the ratification of the treaty, but France did not ratify the treaty until August of the present year. In the meantime conditions have developed in China so that the people of China are not satisfied with the simple execution of the Washington conference treaty, but are demanding more fundamental changes. The present movement in China is aimed against the special privileges enjoyed by foreign nations in China, particularly in three respects—first, in relation to foreign settlements; second, the control of the Chinese tariff by the foreign powers; and third, foreign jurisdiction or extra-territoriality."

Seven Foreign Settlements.

Dealing with the question of foreign settlements in China, Mr. Rowell pointed out that in addition to Hong Kong, which is a British possession, there are seven foreign settlements in China—namely, Canton, Amoy, Shanghai, Chin Kiang, Kien Kiang, Hankow, and Tientsin.

"The largest and most important is at Shanghai and it was at Shanghai on May 30 last that the incident occurred which has stirred China more profoundly than any event of recent years. The facts are briefly as follows: There are a large number of Japanese and British cotton factories in China, and the principal ones are located at Shanghai. There was a strike in one of the Japanese cotton factories in connection with the strike of Chinese workmen who were killed by a Japanese foreman. This led to an anti-Japanese demonstration in which students of Shanghai had largely participated and in connection with which they held public meetings to protest against the conditions in the Japanese factory and the privileges of foreigners under which a Chinese workman was shot

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the Montreal Standard and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."

—Mrs. M. W. ROSE, 580 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said An Operation

Proved, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a happy baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."

Striking Against a Strike Leader

We may be treated, it seems, to the not unpleasant spectacle of a strike leader being struck against, just like any wicked Capitalist. Mr. John Bromley, the "loco" men's secretary, and one of the reddest of trade union leaders, is threatened with a strike of his own office staff.

The story is that when Bromley's union moved its headquarters from Leeds to London, it continued to pay the same salaries it had done in Yorkshire. The staff protested that it cost more to live in London, and that this was a favourite argument of trade union leaders when they wanted increased salaries for themselves. The executive, however, flatly refused. Now, however, the Staffs Guild, a branch of the National Union of Clerks, has taken up the case and demanded in addition $5 a week for the men. The executive are still as hard-hearted as any railway company, and they may now be given a taste of their own medicine.

The Motor Show Proves What British Industry Can Do

The Motor Show at Olympia is the most cheerful trade sign of the week, and has been termed "A Beam in Darkness."

There is much talk just now about the apathy of British traders, their lack of enterprise and failure to take full advantage of market openings abroad. British workmen are constantly criticised for their unwillingness to put their utmost into a concerted attack on trade depression. To these structures the British motor industry, at least, may confidently plead "Not guilty," says the Yorkshire Post.

A fortnight ago the motor-cycle show proved that during the last few years Great Britain has easily outdistanced all her arrivals in the motor-cycle market all over the world. In the motor-car market competition is much more severe, but the motor show at Olympia affords ample evidence that Great Britain can not only still make the best cars in the world, but that her manufacturers are now able to offer such sheer value for money that export trade prospects are brighter than ever before, and are still steadily improving.

This success has been achieved in face of formidable obstacles—high foreign tariffs, depreciated exchanges, and a horse-power tax which has not encouraged the production of a type of car most suited to export markets. Hitherto the large American car, with its slower running engine and high ground clearance, has been most favoured abroad, particularly in hot climates.

But British manufacturers, by dint of the sterling workmanship and last qualities of their products, are gradually making openings for themselves in many parts of the world, both with the superlatively good cars no other country can quite equal, and with the moderate-priced light cars, cheap and easy to house and to run, whose efficiency the horse-power tax has developed to such an extraordinary degree.

The only show of its kind that ever hit the city. A screed all the way through. A side-splitting uproarious comedy. Repeated to-night. Tickets at Hutton's to-day.—nov5.11

No Sign of Early Anthracite Peace

Operators' Chairman Lays Down Two Essential Conditions For Settlement.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference, told Major-General Charles W. Berry, chairman of the New York state coal commission, here to-day that there was not the slightest indication of early settlement of the anthracite strike which began September 12.

On the contrary, according to Mr. Warriner, the operators were prepared to insist upon at least two demands as conditions to any settlement at all. One was for lowering of production cost, which while not phrased as wage reduction, was defined as reduction of "labor cost per ton." The other, he said, was for a pledge from the men that there would be no further industrial disturbance whenever subsequent wage contracts came up by negotiation. Naming these terms as virtually the operators' price of peace, Mr. Warriner further revealed that, no wa strike was on, the operators felt this would be as good a year as any to press these claims to a finality.

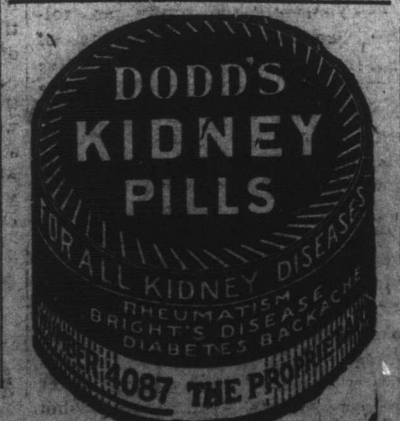

Mr. Warriner told General Berry that it was his best judgment that the New York coal commission proceed with all diligence in its plan to introduce fuel substitutes on a wholesale scale to avert any emergency through shortage of anthracite. General Berry at once cancelled a trip to Scranton, where he had intended to make a personal survey of the anthracite situation, and returned on the next train to New York.

Dempsey Refuses $500,000 Purse

According to Gossips Champion Turned Down Big Money to Fight Gene Tunney.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Since cutting loose from Jack Kearns, who steered him into the heavyweight championship of the world and, incidentally, made him rich, Jack Dempsey has surprised the boxing world with several strange moves. Instead of signing articles to meet Harry Wills under the auspices of his old friend, Tex Rickard, in a fifteen round bout to a decision at the Yankee Stadium next year, Dempsey recently agreed to fight the negro ten rounds with no decision in promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons's Michigan City arena. Although no forfeits were posted by anybody involved in the alleged match, Wills received $25,000 for "training expenses," with the understanding that the principals would enter the ring in September, 1926.

On the face of it, the Dempsey-

Forty-Six Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram

Applying Science to the Grain Industry

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 3.—Construction work on the new Federal laboratory to be established in Winnipeg for cereal research, will be rushed with a view of completing the undertaking before Christmas. It is understood that the Federal Department of Agriculture, has urged acceleration of construction operations in order that test specimens from the 1925 crop may be analysed.

During the last session of the house of commons an appropriation of $5,000 was voted toward the establishment of the laboratory. Of this sum it is estimated that $30,000 will be devoted to the erection of the laboratory and greenhouses, and $20,000 toward stalling and equipment. Provision will be made for further necessary appropriations until the objective—authentic information of the many species of wheat rust—has been attained.

In the interval, research work is being carried out in a modified degree, in the universities of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and at the central experimental station, Ottawa.

Two factors entered into the decision to establish the laboratory at Winnipeg, rather than at some more central point in the wheat producing area of the West. It was desired to enlist the assistance of scientists in Manitoba and other northwestern states in the work. These men have been devoting their attentions for some years, to the problem of cereal rust. The secondary factor has been that Manitoba, up to the present time, has been confronted with the rust problem in a greater degree than the other Prairie provinces. This condition is attributed to the invasion of rust from the South.

Trade Optimism in Britain Grows

EMPLOYMENT BETTER, COAL EXPORT UP AND ORDERS INCREASE.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Optimism regarding trade conditions in Britain is increasing slowly but steadily. Since October 12th, there has been a reduction of 77,000 in the number of unemployed. Orders for coal exports show a good increase, and a large number of important orders have been placed for high grade machinery as well as contracts for bridges and other structural steel work.

In addition, the cotton industry is beginning to cheer up with the expectation of lower prices for raw materials. A changed atmosphere is noticeable in almost every direction, though there still is plenty of grumbling and steady criticism against the pressure of high taxation and the burden of the war debt.

Fascists Dismissals

Rome.—In consequence of the disturbances in Florence and other minor incidents in other parts of Italy, both the Government and the Fascist authorities have taken energetic steps to re-establish absolute discipline.

The Prefect and the Chief of Police at Florence have been placed on the retired list. The Fascist Directorate in Florence and the Fascist Directorate in Rome have been discharged and several members have been expelled from the Fascist Party. Some Fascist squadrons have been dissolved, and an example will be made of the Fascist arrested during the recent outbreaks of violence. The most severe penalties will be imposed.

More important, however, is the changed tone of the Fascist Press and of the chief Fascist leaders, who all issue warnings that violence must cease and that the transgressors must be treated mercilessly.

Italians Immigrate to France

Europe is gradually re-adjusting itself to new economic conditions, but there are still movements in progress or in contemplation which may have far reaching consequences. The diminishing population of the South West of France is causing whole stretches of fertile land to be acquired and colonized by more prolific Italians. On the other hand, pressure of taxation and the difficulty of finding labor at home is causing many manufacturers to think of transferring their works to other countries. A group of owners of textile factories in the Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing districts, who are seriously considering a plan for moving at least part of their organization to Italy, to the neighborhood of Milan, and of doing hands with an Italian industrial group.

Time and Space

Annihilated by Radio

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 3.—Three hundred miles north of Edmonton, there stretches a vast inland empire, running nearly 1,700 miles north until it reaches the Arctic. It is a lone, wild country, with few inhabitants, a land of great lakes, wide rivers, and silent expanses of rolling terrain, with an outpost here and there, housing the personnel of a police or trading post and scattered camps of wandering Indians and Eskimos. Thousands of square miles of territory, and only a few years ago it meant months of slow, hazardous travel to establish contact with civilization.

To-day, science, through the medium of radio, has annihilated time and space with the result that the inhabitants of this northern clime can now enjoy the current news, while the solitude of the northern night has been materially changed with the leading performers filling in endless procession on the ethereal stage, providing entertainments for an invisible audience numbered in the millions.

By the erection of a wireless station recently at Aklavik, the northern metropolis of the Arctic has been linked directly with the outside. Commercial messages may now be sent via the telegraph and Edmonton government radio station, clear through to the Mackenzie delta at Aklavik. Lieut. Checking Up Smuggling

WINNIPEG, Man.—Smuggling dutiable goods from the United States into Manitoba is no longer a profitable nor attractive occupation, states A. Code, customs inspector for the district of Manitoba, who recently returned from a visit to the customs stations along the international border.

Within the past two months the customs force at the boundary has been materially strengthened. Approximately 200 secret service men have been recruited by the federal authorities to assist in combatting smuggling. A number of them have been assigned to the prairie province patrols.

All told, about 36 customs officers are now on duty along the Manitoba border, along which are strung 12 customs stations. The men stationed at these points constitute "the first line of defence, which aims to check the activities of the smugglers from the United States."

"The fact that smuggling has been greatly reduced is proved by the tremendous increase in customs revenue at border points, since preventive efforts were intensified," said Mr. Code. "The work of the force," he added, "has been tremendously facilitated by the co-operation of Canadian and United States customs officials, following the ratification of the Treaty of Washington for the suppression of smuggling, and made still easier by the severe penalties provided for smuggling at the last session of the federal parliament."

"Anyone who now smuggles into Canada goods to the value of $200 or more is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years and not less than one year, on conviction for a first offence. The court has no option in the matter," Mr. Code explained.

The loss to the government and merchants, through the operations of smuggling, has been variously estimated between $5,000,000 and $50,000,000. Any worthwhile estimate, however, would have to be based on a knowledge of the goods actually smuggled, and estimates of losses are merely a guess," Mr. Code declared.

Declares Open Shop Prevails in America

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 27.—(A.P.)—Open shop has gained until it prevails generally in United States industry, with the exception of a few key industries, it was reported at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers here last night. It was estimated only 10 per cent. of United States labor now is enrolled in closed shops.

The open shop committee, however, reported a gain for the closed shop in the anthracite coal and garment industries.

The report also cited the fact that workmen's strikes in 1924, cost the United States public $613,000,000.

The Sachem left Liverpool at noon the 4th inst., for St. John's. Capt. J. W. W. and crew of the schooner Nalley Lee are on board.

Another Bumper House at the Casino

A MOST SUCCESSFUL REPERCUSSION OF LOCAL PLAY.

The third performance of the local production "Mrs. Malone Takes in The Circus," was played at the Casino last night to another capacity house. The players were in good form, and the show ran very smoothly from the rise to fall of curtain. It can truthfully be said there is a laugh a minute in this extremely funny piece.

Misses O'Shea and Ryan again excelled themselves in the outstanding roles. Miss Larkin did her share well in bringing forth the laughs. Miss Mollie Clinton and Miss Mildred Fleming were all at home in their respective roles. John Burke is a comedian par excellence and his acting called for rounds of enthusiastic applause. Faithful interpretations were given the other roles which were played by Patrick Smith, Graham Reid and Tom Murphy. Specialties between the acts were rendered by Little Dolly Delmar, Frank Neville, Wm. Myler, Dan Delmar, Jack Lee, and Martin Day. Each item was loudly applauded and several encores were demanded.

The committee under management of Mr. J. J. Lacey who undertook to produce this play are deserving much credit, for their interest in the welfare of The Belvedere Orphans for whom the net proceeds are devoted. We hope they will again be greeted by another large audience to-night when the bill will be repeated.

Meeting on Birth Control Failure

Scanty Attendance Results When British Catholics Oppose Campaign.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 22.—The initial trumpeting of propaganda to extend birth control throughout England could not be heard above the rattle of street traffic Wednesday when the birth control congress began with scanty attendance at Philharmonic Hall.

Popular opposition to birth control in this city, which is largely made up of members of the Roman Catholic Church, was apparent as soon as the delegates arrived, led by Dr. Marie Stopes. Petitions were circulated among the inhabitants inviting them to protest against the use of the Philharmonic Hall for birth control meetings.

Archbishop Keating, head of the Roman Catholic diocese, which includes Liverpool, condemned the congress in a letter which said "Dr. Stopes' treatment of the subject of birth control has been criticised in unmincing terms by the judges of the highest court of appeal. She and her committee should be made to understand that her visit and her views are repudiated with loathing by the moral sense of this city."

Catholic opposition and jibes to the effect that she and her supporters had come to Liverpool uninvited and unwanted kept the attendance to a minimum when the first formal session took place.

"There would be few empty seats but for the underhand treachery of the Catholics," Dr. Stopes said in a speech. "It is absolutely low down."

Continuing with her prepared address, Dr. Stopes advocated sex instruction for children of eleven or more years of age.

The birth control propagandists planned their meeting as the beginning of a National campaign to make birth control available to all married women at Government or municipal expense.

Gripping Mystery in Compson Film

"RAMSHACKLE HOUSE" FULL OF SURPRISING PUNCHES AND AMAZING TWISTS.

"It is said that the dyed-in-the-wool movie fan, who prides himself upon always being at least two reels ahead of the projection machine, when a feature picture is being shown and can forecast every twist, punch and angle of the story, is in for a big surprise when he views Betty Compson's latest starring vehicle, "Ramshackle House," which comes to the Nickel Theatre to-day.

"Never a dull moment" is the motto of the producers of "Ramshackle House," and the vivid pictorialisation of Hubert Footner's popular novel more than makes good the boast. It is a murder mystery, but not of the conventional type which depicts the crime in the first reel and leads the audience through a maze of confusing details until the guilt is finally fastened upon someone quite above suspicion. This is a powerful human interest picture with a mystery background; the story of a young girl who finds that the man she loves is being hunted down for the foul murder of his business partner, hides him in the forest to save him from being lynched by an overrighteous mob, fights single-handed the overwhelming forces of Law, Money, Public Opinion and one of the greatest villains ever portrayed on the screen.

And—look what's coming Monday—Lon Chaney, the greatest of all character actors in his great triumph, "The Monster." Here's where you get the thrills—here's where you'll see a story far out of the ordinary run of screen plots. See it if it's the last thing you do.

British Fascisti Arrested by Police

FOUR MEMBERS CHARGED WITH STEALING 8,000 COPIES OF LABOUR PAPER.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In connection with a recent seizure in Fleet Street early in the morning of a motor van containing copies of the labor paper the Daily Herald, four young men were charged in the Mansion House Justice-Room today with stealing and receiving a motor car containing 8,000 copies of the Herald.

Three of the defendants had surrendered themselves to the authorities voluntarily. Two of these described themselves as battalion commanders and the third accused man said he was warrant officer in the national Fascisti. They all wore black shirts. One of them was distinguished by wearing a monocle.

The fourth accused man, only 17 years of age, previous to his arrest had bragged about his exploit at the Fascisti headquarters, and the police told the magistrate that he owed his arrest to his own foolishness. He was discharged from custody.

The Optimist and the Pessimist

Since the war, despite our industrial troubles, the general standard of living has improved. Many work-people have their own business. Still more have money in the savings banks. Were it not for the deplorable extent of unemployment, which, after all, could be reduced by determined effort, there is no single grievance which would justify any agglomeration of men in possession of their senses in following the counsels and practice of despair.—The Optimist and the Pessimist.

Canada and Protection

With but one seat doubtful, the results of the General Election in Canada according to a message received to-day are as follows:—Liberals, 101; Conservatives, 117; Progressives, 23; Labour, 2; and Independent, 1. Total, 245.

At the dissolution of Parliament the standing of all parties was as follows:—Liberals, 147; Conservatives, 49; Progressives, 61; Labour, 2; Independent, 1; vacant, 4. Total, 235. The increase in the membership of the new House by ten is due to the redistribution of seats, whereby Nova Scotia has two members less and the Western provinces twelve more than they had formerly. The message further states that Premier King intends to meet Parliament.

With a considerably reduced following and without the support of several of his former Ministers, Premier King, who must find for himself a sure seat, will not be in a very enviable position, as the retention of power by the Liberal Party will only be just possible by an alliance with the Progressives, a party which has been reduced in strength by forty-six seats. As it is not improbable that approaches will also be made to the latter from the Conservative benches, the situation when the House assembles will be most uncertain, and the only satisfactory solution would seem to be another election at an early date.

In spite of the deadlock which has resulted, for it is practically that, the change from Liberalism to Conservatism, or in other words, the swing towards protection has been most remarkable, and in some respects recalls what occurred in the last British elections. There the imposition of import duties on certain materials such as silk raised loud protests immediately, but a recent announcement is to the effect that as a result of this measure of protection the industry has embarked upon a period of great prosperity. Not only is there no unemployment among the silk workers, but the revenue on imports for the year is estimated at $50,000,000.

A writer in the October number of the "Nineteenth Century and After," in referring to this policy remarks:—

"It seems to me that here we have the real solution of our troubles. If we were to impose more of these revenue duties with a protective favor, we should be able to reduce our income tax, which is unquestionably the real burden which is depressing trade. There is after all nothing new in such duties. The taxes on sugar and tobacco imposed by Mr. Gladstone are on the same lines. It is worthy of comment that our tobacco manufacturers, jam manufacturers, and biscuit manufacturers, all of whom have benefited from the protective favor of these duties, are among the most prosperous in our land even during this time of depression."

Canada's future depends to a very great extent upon the development of her manufacturing industries, which are, however, at a disadvantage owing to enormous importations of American goods. The Dominion possesses the raw material and all the conditions necessary for the prosecution of such industries, which, if once established, would be able to compete both in the home and foreign market with those of her neighbor. Further, requiring an increased population, she views with concern the exodus of her people across the border to work in factories, many of which are supplied with Canadian raw material. At the same time her own products are shut out of the great Republic by the high tariff wall by which it is surrounded.

A Neglected Corner

A matter to which we have seen no reference as yet by any of the candidates for election in the municipal contest is the condition of affairs existing in the neglected quarter of the city known as the Battery, and certainly there is much to be done to make it even possibly habitable. Overlooked year after year by the Council in power, conditions have been allowed to become desperate, and the wonder is that people can manage to live there. What excuse can be offered? On the hill immediately above is a plentiful supply of water and immediately in front is the harbour, but in spite of the natural facilities no steps have been taken to make the place sanitary. This is one of the most historically interesting localities in the city, and in spite of the drawbacks, it is a favourite walk for many people. With little expense the surroundings could be made ideal, and roads which would be a delight to all could be built around the cliffs.

We trust that among those elected some will be found to act as parent to this neglected offspring of St. John's.

Annual Vegetable Sale at St. Joseph's

The annual vegetable sale in aid of St. Joseph's Parish, opened yesterday afternoon with a large number of people present. A splendid display of local vegetables of all kinds found many purchasers, and the proceeds were most satisfactory. Tea was also served and the sum realized from this source was considerable. Those desiring to obtain a supply of vegetables for the winter should avail of this opportunity by attending the sale this afternoon or night.

Knowing Athletic Club

An informal dance was held by the Knowing Athletic Club in their rooms last night, the occasion being to welcome the return of Mr. F. H. Knowlton from abroad. After several dances had been gone through and supper served, a very happy presentation took place when Mr. Knowlton was made the recipient of a case of pipes, together with a supply of tobacco. The presentation was made by Mr. J. B. Dempster. Mr. Knowlton made a most suitable reply, in which he thanked the members for their splendid gift. Dancing was resumed to the music of the K. A. C. Orchestra, and was kept until the early hours of the morning. The elimination dance was won by Mr. A. Andrews and Miss Tibbs.

S. P. A. Sale at Canon Wood Hall

The annual sale in aid of the Society for Protection of Animals, which was opened yesterday at 3.30 p.m. in Canon Wood Hall by Dr. F. P. Burke, President of the Society, proved very successful. The goods offered for sale included fancy work, etc., novelties suitable for Christmas gifts, poultry requisites, home-made candy, etc., and all who purchased were pleased with what they had received. Afternoon tea was also served to a large number.

Inspection Required

If there is such an official as Inspector of Public Buildings it might be suggested on requisition his services be made available for inspection of a principal city building, but an examination revealed that it was not necessary. Faulty construction but caused simply through the continued unprincipled ignorance of a packed audience to the "Fire" Malone at the Casino. It's on again tonight.

LETTER PICKED UP—The owner of a letter signed "Betty," picked up in the Canon Wood Hall yesterday afternoon, can have same by calling at this office.

Bourlamaque Gold Mine

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I do not know what your decision will be, and in any case I have undertaken to abide by it. But there is no harm in my saying in my opinion Mr. Francis J. Hunter, in yesterday's Telegram, does not satisfactorily reply to my questions. The "prominent and popular Newfoundland" who has joined the directors of Mr. Hunter's Company, and whose appointment was to inspire the Bourlamaque shareholders with such confidence, "does not wish his name to be made known yet." Then why, may I ask, was his appointment announced? It is surely small comfort to the shareholders to be told that their interests are to be safeguarded by a gentleman who prefers to remain incognito.

The rumour that Maloney, Allerton & Co., unloaded here a large block of shares of Mr. Hunter's Company, allotted to them as promoters, is not, specially denied. Mr. Hunter says that shares were paid for by Maloney, Allerton & Co., but he omits to state "in cash." What we would like to know is, were these shares issued to Maloney, Allerton & Co., for consideration other than cash? The point is important as it may turn out that the validity of our shares depends upon the validity of the agreement between Maloney, Allerton & Co., and the Hunter Company.

"We say" that the Bourlamaque property, the excellence of which was vaunted so highly that people here were induced to invest in it, has never had very little money spent on it, and that apparently no work has yet been mined. This after nearly a year. Our money if, as Mr. Hunter states, it did not go to Maloney, Allerton & Co., was evidently put to some other use.

"We say" that the Bourlamaque property, of which we had previously heard nothing. The figure given by Mr. Hunter deal only with the Union mine.

"We say" that the Bourlamaque property was never used by me in regard to Bourlamaque, nor did I insinuate that Mr. Hunter was "mentally and physically unfit for business." On the contrary I made due acknowledgment of his banking experience and his previous reputation for integrity.

The padding in Mr. Hunter's letter is of interest, but it is only padding. I was glad to read "Stockholder's" letter in the same issue of your paper, but his statements will meet the same fate as my own.

Our thanks are due to you, Mr. Editor, for permitting us to ventilate this matter in the press.

Yours truly,
ST. JOHN'S, NOV. 5.

Rosalind Arrives in Port

S.S. Rosalind, Capt. James, arrived from New York via Halifax, at 12.45 to-day. The ship from Halifax to this port, occupied forty-six hours, which is very good considering that the ship ran into a N.N.E. gale with heavy seas and snow squalls. The passenger list for the Rosalind brought from New York is as follows: From New York—Dr. John T. W. Rowe, Mary Ellis, Mary Dismick, Charles Shougen, Patrick Lunn, and Miss Lunn. From Halifax—Mrs. Douglas Thomas, Alice McRae, Hector Ross, Henry Davis, Henry Barton, Wm. Byrne, Ronald Kennedy, Sheila Conroy, Capt. J. Harrison, Eric Bowring, Baele Kilgall, and Miss Kilgall.

A False Alarm

At 11.35 a.m. an alarm of fire from box 41 brought the Central and West End Fire Apparatus to the scene. There was no sign of fire and apparently no cause for the alarm. The police have information that will probably lead to arrest and prosecution for sending in a false alarm.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Nfld. Highlanders Association are holding a sale of work at the Presbyterian Hall this afternoon, which should attract a large gathering. Drug Store Changes Hands

We understand that Mr. Oscar Howell, has taken over the Central Drug Store, Carbonara, formerly owned and operated by Mr. W. R. Butt, now of the Department of Education, this city. Mr. Howell has been connected with this store for a number of years, and his ability as a druggist is well known to the people of the place. We wish him every success in his enterprise.

Charged With Fraud

Two residents of Conception Bay responsible to the Highlands Commission stand charged with making fraudulent entries on the time sheets and thus obtaining money to which they were not entitled. One of the accused, a resident of Colliers appeared in court this morning and was remanded for 8 days. The other man, resident of Clarke's Beach, will be brought to trial in a day or two.

Councillor Outerbridge Again in the Field

As will be seen by Mr. P. E. Outerbridge's announcement in this issue, he is again entering the Municipal contest. It is not yet known definitely how many of the other members intend to seek election, but report has it that most of them intend to stand again. Interest is shown as to the possible candidates for the office of Mayor. So far only the Hon. Tasker Cook is mentioned definitely.

Appeal to Privy Council Withdrawn

We understand that counsel for the Minister of Finance, Mr. R. Gamm, has been notified that the appeal of Sir Edgar Bowring before the Privy Council has been withdrawn. The judgement for which the appeal was taken was on the question of liability for assessment for income from any source whatever. The Full Bench decided that Sir Edgar was liable. The amount involved amounts to about $145,000.

The Second Time of Appearance

I do not believe a candidate for re-election to Municipal honors should ask for votes. This does not mean that I do not appreciate your vote. Quite the reverse! If the citizens of St. John's see fit to return me again as a member of the Municipal Council, I appreciate that it amounts to a "vote of confidence" which is a high honor and one which I shall value highly.

The point is that, after four years of service as a City Councillor, the citizens and the citizens alone are the ones to judge whether one's services as Councillor are acceptable or otherwise. Believing firmly, "Vox populi Vox Dei," or in other words the opinion of the citizens as a whole is right, I am absolutely content to abide by the decision of the citizens.

"IF YOU WANT ME THERE, YOU'LL PUT ME THERE, IF YOU DON'T WANT ME THERE, I SHOULD NOT BE THERE!"

Paying Our Debts

Said Mother Earth, "Tis surely meet that I my gratitude should show for sunshine warm and thrilling glow, for all the winds that softly blow, for rain that cools me of my heat. Seemly is gratitude and sweet, and I my thanks would now bestow."

So Mother Earth brought forth in turn, the swinging blossoms tender, fair, the drenched with dew, the Springtime air. Then Summer's flowers smiled everywhere, while her maternal breast did yearn to proffer fruit for all to share. Thus did she make a rich return for sun and rain and wind's good care.

Said Soul of man, "Tis surely right that I to Him my just dues pay for blossoms strewn along the way, for mercy shown me day by day, for beautiful dawn and starry night, for all His gifts that give the delight. I must repay His only right, like Mother Earth I'll strive to be a garden, flowering, fragrant."

A Correction

Editor Evening Telegram—May I unite use agents of your columns to correct a typographical error which occurred in my letter in to-day's issue of the Telegram and which gives an entirely false conception of the aim of the letter? The phrase "from higher, authoritative sources" should have read "from HIGHLY authoritative sources." Mr. Scott has written another interesting letter in to-day's issue, and I hope he will continue to give the public such valuable information which should be welcomed by all those desiring a more thorough knowledge of the "why" and "wherefore" of radio.

Yours faithfully,

BOUND HERE MISSING

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 5. In a long distance telephone call from New York to a local newspaper office this morning, W. Siegel of that city asked for news of the fifty foot auxiliary schooner Dolphin which he said left Brooklyn on Oct. 13 for Newfoundland with a party of six sportsmen including a hotel agent on a deep sea fishing expedition. As no word had been received from the craft some apprehension for its safety had been felt. Mr. Siegel said, in view of the disastrous tempests that had raged over the North Atlantic since it sailed.

The Dolphin was wrecked off Scatarie on October 24th. The men were picked up by a fishing schooner and landed at Louisburg the following day.

A Slight Blaze

At 7.45 this morning a slight alarm called the Central and East End fire companies to the Gazette Building on Duckworth Street, where a slight blaze was found to progress in the furnace room. The firemen fought the blaze with the use of hand extinguishers, and the all out sounded about 10 minutes later. The fire was caused by hot cinders from the furnace igniting some waste paper alongside.

The fireman answered another call this morning to a chimney blaze opposite Bennett's Brewery, Water St. West. This was easily extinguished without any damage being done.

A Shameless Confession

"English as she is Japped" is the term given by Anglo-Saxons in the Orient to the weird effect sometimes produced by the Japanese in their effect sometimes produced by the Japanese in their efforts to employ English in their shop signs. This Oriental capacity for using our mother tongue

with strange twists of unconscious
humor is perhaps no better exemplified than in this wording of a sign on a Japanese baker's shop: "A Kashin-
uru. Biggest Loaf in Tokyo."—

EXCITING RACES FEATURE PROM- ENADE BAND CONCERT.

The Prince's Rink last night was the scene of a Promenade Band Concert by the United Bands of the C.L.B. and C.C.C. Bands, and some very exciting races. The sports side of the programme was the attraction for many,
and those present followed the events
with increasing interest. The first event on the programme was the 3-mile Race, in which three competitors took part, viz. W. Linegar, Gover Stone and Clifford Stone. At the start C. Stone took the lead, with brother Gover second, followed closely by Linegar. The pace was hot from the outset and much excitement was evinced. At the one mile mark C.
Stone, in the lead, crossed over in 5.28.
Running into the 24th lap Linegar
put on a spurt and went to the front,
but the Stone brothers were not to be denied and quickly passed out to the front with C. Stone again in the lead. A merry chase then followed between the brothers for the honors,
and it was not until the 42nd lap did Gover Stone take the lead. The remaining six laps of the course were covered in quick time, Gover Stone
increasing his speed in the final lap,
winning out over his brother by eight yards in the time of 16 min. 23.4-5 seconds. Linegar finished a good third. The 1-Mile Walk was won by Grant Burnett in the splendid time of 7 min. 57.2-8 seconds. Ted Piercey, the local indoor champion was unable to compete, much to the regret of the gathering. Mr. W. Case substituted for him and made a very good showing for his first race. The Relay Race, between T.A. Holy Cross and
Mr. Cashel, of the Junior Football League, proved to be a very exciting event, but there was general disappointment when the winning T.A.
team were ruled out by the Judges,
claiming one of the runners had committed a foul on the north corner.
Holy Cross took the lead, closely followed by the T.A. until the last lap,
when Nikosey, for the latter team,
forced ahead and won out by 10 feet.
Following the races the prizes were presented by Hon. Tasker Cook, who gave each competitor a hearty hand-shake and congratulated them on their powers. The musical side of the pro-programme was then taken up, and a very enjoyable time was spent by the gathering in dancing until 11 p.m.,

when the evening's entertainment concluded.

GUARDS HOCKEYISTS ELECT OFFICERS.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Guards Hockey Club took place in their rooms last night, with H. J.
Wright, President of the Association,
in the chair. The meeting was called for the purpose of making arrangements for the approaching season's games, and a large number of players turned out and again signified their intentions of competing. The annual election of officers took place and resulted as follows:—

Manager—Geo. Marshall.
Captain—W. J. Clouston.
Vice-Captain—H. Coultas.
Secretary—A. H. Thomas.
Votes of thanks were passed Mr.
Gus Herder and Mr. Stan Lumsden, retiring Manager and Secretary respectively, for their yeoman services in the past. The Guards will have practically the same line-up as last season and, with the addition of some new blood, they feel confident of placing a strong team in the hockey arena. The players will begin preliminary training in a few days.

M. C. WINS INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

The inter-collegiate football championship for the season of 1925, was decided on St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, when the Collegians
won the honors for a second successive season, by holding the St. Bon's team, runners-up, to a draw, no goals
being scored. Great interest was centered in the clash, and a large attendance of rooters from the various colleges were present. The afternoon was by no means suitable for the playing of football. A northerly wind swept across the field, making it impossible for the players to control the ball, and very rarely did either side
get the leather within shooting distance of goal. Time and again the ball was swept to the southern side of the field, and the exhibition, which was expected to be a good one, was marred in this respect. The game really resolved itself into a game of throwing the ball into play from the touch line. Both teams were at full strength, and under the conditions,
they did exceptionally well. The Collegians had the best of the game
throughout, and they are richly deserving of the championship.

To Captain Max Whelan and his team, the congratulations of the other colleges and the many fans who witnessed the games, are being extended,
and they are deserving of them.
Throughout the entire series, they have played a splendid brand of football, and showed the result of hard and persistent training. The following is the personnel of the winning team:—

Goal. H. Dwyer; backs, J. Rabbitts, G. Whiteley; halves, J. Forbes, M. Whelan (Capt.), K. Marshall; forwards, A. Johnston, J. Butt, F. King, J. Barbour, H. Puddister. Mr. H. Coultas
refereed.

Life in Russia

HAFORD, Sask., Oct. 30.—Despite
the eight-year-old rule of the Soviets,
conditions in Russia are very unsettled to-day, according to M. Voloshin, a newcomer from Soviet Ukraine and a graduate of one of the Soviet high schools.

Personal property, he says, is still rather insecure on account of depredations of bandits and thieves,
while the government is almost entirely under the control of the Communist, the vast number of whom,
according to Mr. Voloshin, are youths.
The village life, he said, is entirely different to what it used to be. Instead of a "Starost" or overseer, the village now is ruled by a society. In the community there are various political organizations, chiefly pro-Communist and which exercises a powerful influence over the populace.
There is the committee of small land owners and the "pioneers" both bodies operating as a kind of elementary school of training. To become a full-fledged Communist, a youth must have served his apprenticeship in either of these junior parties.

These two political organizations,
Mr. Voloshin asserted, are all-powerful in the villages and cities and although they are independent of the government, exercise a strong influence there.
Instruction in the schools is now
given in both Ukrainian and Russian.
These languages are used for extensive Communist propaganda. Punishment of pupils in or out of school is prohibited by law, but the teacher or parent can be punished upon the child's own complaint.

A good crop this year and a recent edict bringing about a drastic tax reduction, Mr. Voloshin said, has greatly strengthened the morals of the peasants generally, but farming methods in Russia, he intimated were very antiquated when compared with those

he had already observed in Canada.

Mr. Pethick Lawrence, M.P., on Debts

"The case between France, Britain
and America is somewhat different.
Both France and America are highly prosperous, though the former,
through disinclination to being taxed
and continued military expenditure,
has a difficulty in bringing about a balance in her Budget," writes Mr.
Pethick Lawrence, M.P., in Foreign Affairs, dealing with international debts.

"Broadly speaking, America stands on the letter of her bond, though she is willing to be generous about details; France, though she does not repudiate the debts, lets it be known that she would regard it as the decent thing to cancel them.

"Britain is in the unfortunate position that whatever we do is suspect,
even when it takes the form of sacrifices on our part. When we agree ourselves to pay America in full the French say we are giving away the principle which they believe in.
When we agree to forgo part of our debt from France, the Americans say
we are queering their pitch.

"A perfect solution is therefore impossible, and it is in line with traditional British policy to fall back on a compromise which will not make any attempt at settling the original debts, will not solve the economic difficulties, and will satisfy no one.
And yet what else are we to do?
There are occasions, as John Morley
once said, when no really good course
is possible, the only thing to be done
is to select the least unsatisfactory
of a choice of bad ones."

Enforced Voyage of Montreal Pilot

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 27.—George Larochelle, the pilot who was guiding the Regina down the river during the severe storm of last week-end and has been forced to remain on board and is now taking an involuntary trip across the Atlantic. The pilot tender Jalobert could not approach near enough to the river to allow Larochelle to board him.

The Royal Marriage Market

"SHORT LIST" OF ELIGIBLE PARTIES-DIFFICULTIES DUE TO WAR AND RELIGION-PRINCESS JULIANA OF HOLLAND.

(BY ANTHONY CLYNE, in Liverpool Weekly Post).

The nation is always wondering whom and when the Prince of Wales will marry, and interest in royal matchmaking is heightened by the rumours that an "interesting announcement" concerning Prince Henry may be made at any moment. A third member of our Royal Family—Prince Henry—may choose to wed outside a royal house, but the tradition of royal marriage remains hardly affected in other countries, though the princes and princesses of the deposed dynasties of Russia, Germany and Austria are no longer eligible partners as they were before the war for the unmarried members of reigning houses. The three great families—the Romanovs, the Hohenzollerns, and Hapsburgs—have been for long the principal sources of supply, so to speak, of the royal marriage market, and without them the choice is restricted to the point of anxious embarrassment.

Especially so, for example, is the case of Princess Juliana of Holland. She belongs to a Protestant house, and of old Germany provided an ample selection of mates for Protestant princes and princesses, as Austria for Catholic. Now, apart from Britain, only Denmark, Sweden, and Norway can furnish suitable candidates—Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark and his brother, Prince Knud, the Princesses Marina and Astrid of Sweden, niece of King Gustavus, and Crown Prince Olaf of Norway; not yet of an age for marriage. The case of Princess Juliana, a properly plump and plaid Dutch girl, is indeed a hard one. True, there are attractions apart from Juliana's charms. The House of Orange-Nassau is an ancient one, with a glorious past, one to which the most exalted family would feel proud to be allied. Holland, too, is a prosperous, happy country, secure from political currents likely to disturb the court. But the fair Juliana will one day reign as monarch in her own right, and the post of Prince Consort is apt to be a thankless, trying, uncomfortable one. Yet to elevate one of her own subjects to a place beside her would produce grave difficulties and possibly dangers.

Thrown Tradition To The Winds.
Two Danish princes, Erik and Viggo, have boldly thrown tradition to the winds, and not long ago married respectively Miss Booth of Ottawa, and Miss Green of New York. Neither of these was a morganatic marriage, for the consent of the sovereign had been obtained. A morganatic marriage is perfectly legal and binding and does not, contrary to the popular notion, involve social disgrace or moral dishonour. It merely implies a recognition of the difference in rank between the two contracting parties, together with the provision that the offspring of the union do not inherit the higher social status. The marriage of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Imperial throne of Austria-Hungary, to Sophie Chotek, in 1900, was morganatic.

The countess was a clever woman, but she never achieved her ambition of being recognized as the future Empress. A daughter of a younger branch of one of the most illustrious noble families of Bohemia, she was left an orphan at an early age and with practically no means or prospects of a dowry to attract suitors. She became a maid of honour to the Archduchess Isabella of Austria, and in that household Francis Ferdinand, then a bachelor of thirty-eight, met her and fell in love. For long his uncle, the Emperor, sternly forbade the marriage, but the representations of Frau Schratz, formerly an obscure actress at a little theatre in Vienna, who had acquired enormous influence over the aged and stubborn ruler, were added to the prayers of Francis Ferdinand and won a reluctant consent. The Emperor, however, insisted that the marriage must be considered as morganatic, the archduke renouncing for his posterity the right of succession to the throne.

That Equal Status.
After the marriage the wise Sophie, instead of asserting herself or seeming to work for that equal status with her husband which was her ambition, adopted the tactics of silence and reserve, effacing herself, remaining absent from Court functions, never in the limelight. She was created Duchess of Hohenberg, but continued to avoid all prominence. Her first triumph was when the Kaiser received her as the consort of the Austrian heir. Eventually even the proud old Emperor, who hated the marriage intensely, went so far as to accord her precedence immediately after the archduchess of the Imperial family.

But when the pair were assassinated at Sarajevo the Emperor did not pretend to feel much personal grief. The heir to the throne and his morganatic wife were not allowed a Hapsburg funeral, nor were their remains deposited in the vaults of the Capuchin Church, among the Hapsburg tombs. Only with difficulty was the Emperor persuaded to allow a service to be held over the two coffins in the Augustine Chapel of the Hofburg. Then they were removed at night to one of the Archduke's estates, and hurriedly buried without ceremony. The children of the murdered couple were not allowed to go to Vienna for the service, but only to watch the interment on the estate from a distance.

Amusing Match-Making.
From this sad tragedy one turns with relief to the amusing match-making of Queen Marie of Rumania. She has succeeded in placing two of her daughters on thrones, though one of them, Queen Elizabeth of Greece, has since lost hers. The other, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, is firmly established and manifestly happy with the very serious, almost melancholy monarch of post-war Greater Serbia. Now, pretty sixteen-year-old Princess Ileana is left to be provided with a royal mate and her mother is credited with placing her hopes very high indeed.

However, if she is disappointed, there remains King Boris of Bulgaria, a handsome as a story-book prince, thirty-one years old, accomplished, and with no vices. A certain lingering romantic glamour surrounds a Balkan throne still, though offset by the reports of the French troops with committing excesses at Damascus. After the bombardment had ceased two armoured cars had passed through the principal streets firing at the shops on either side. French officers and soldiers are alleged to have broken into a jeweller's shop and removed the contents, asserting that the proprietor was a Moslem whom they wished to punish.

The house of one of the leading Moslems adjoining the French bank of Syria was blown up with dynamite after the bank's valuables had been safely removed.

The refugees report that the bombardment wrecked the jail, killing 1200 prisoners.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—(A.P.)—Friedrich August, former King of Saxony, needs money. He has commissioned one of the largest German art dealers to send a representative to the United States to sell five tapestries from Lechewitz Castle, near Dresden. One of these is classified as among the finest specimens of Islamic art, having been taken from the Turks during the siege of Vienna in 1683. The other four are Gobelins of enormous size, made for August the Strong. They depict scenes from the Spanish War of Succession, according to designs by the noted painter Van Der Meulen.

Railway Safety Device Success

RADIO-CONTROLLED DANGER SIGNAL TRIED OUT AND BELIEVED TO BE PRACTICABLE.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 29.—A radio-operated safety device, which checks speeding locomotives automatically when danger looms ahead, was given a successful demonstration over a 10-mile stretch of Pere Marquette Railroad tracks yesterday. The test was in the presence of officials of the Pere Marquette, the Michigan Central and Thomas E. Clark of Detroit, inventor of the device.

Following the demonstrations, railroad officials said they believed the invention, if generally adopted, would result in the saving of thousands of lives by preventing railroad accidents and millions of dollars in equipment destroyed in wrecks.

By means of a system of radio-controlled signal lights installed in the engine cab, it was demonstrated that the engineer can be forewarned of impending disaster, making it possible for him to know many minutes in advance if danger is ahead. Should the engineer be disabled or dead, the system of control checks the engine's speed and brings it to a halt at any danger point, at any time.

POOR JUDGMENT.

Long, long ago a man slipped about the streets of London town; he had a bulky manuscript, and publishers all turned it down. He climbed a thousand miles of stairs, he walked a thousand miles of paves, and publishers, as sore as bears, exclaimed, "Cogs you're! Aroint thee, knave!"

At last a publisher was found who listened to the sad man's tale, and read his pages, pound by pound, and found in them some hope of kale. The book was printed, 'twas a go, through all the years its sales increase; the weary gent was Dan Defoe, the book his Crusoe masterpiece. Now think of those poor publishers, who met him with rebuff and frown, who handed him cheap jeers and slurs, and turned his priceless story down. At every book stall in the land men clamored for the Crusoe tale; there never had been such demand for any book in this sad vale. And Daniel, in his laurel wreath, was prancing gaily to and fro; the publishers they gnashed their teeth and tore their whiskers in their woe. A less determined gent than Dan might well have burned that deathless tome, when publishers refused to scan the shining product of his dome. Discouraged, tired, he might have said, "I'll try this writing graft no more; I'll strive to earn my daily bread by selling codfish in a store." But this man Daniel never knew when he was whipped, still, still he'd mount. He won at last—and so may you, if you refuse to take the count.

Tobacco Magnate's Former Wife

DIES IN PENURY IN STUDIO.
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(A.P.)—Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, who was divorced 20 years ago by the late tobacco magnate, James B. Duke, died Saturday night in her music studio on West 88th Street. She had been unconscious since Oct. 22 when she suffered two cerebral hemorrhages.

Since the death of her former husband on Oct. 10, Mrs. Duke had been greatly depressed, according to her attorney, Miss Lillian Pugh, said Mrs. Duke's disease was undoubtedly complicated by lack of food. She had refused to accept loans from her friends. The tobacco man's first wife died in penury, although 20 years ago she was mistress over a fortune estimated at $100,000,000.

At one time Mrs. Duke presided over her husband's mansions in New York

SPEAKING OF LOSSES.

Speaking of losses, look at these, Which I have suffered through the years. Observe how swiftly fortune flees— However gradual it appears; Time was that I was rich and proud And feared no shadow that could fall. I was with priceless gifts endowed, But somehow I have lost them all.

I've lost my appetite for pie, I've lost the strength I once possessed. I've lost the baseball-batting eye With which my days of sport were blessed.

I've lost that old-time hunger which Made every meal a rare delight. Time was that I was very rich, For I slept soundly every night.

Through many a fortune I have run, I've lost the charms in little things. Now winter's cold or summer's sun, No more I mock at warning's grave Or laugh at hurts which may befall. Then I had strength and I was brave, But somehow I have lost it all.

I've lost the care-free way I had When cares I thought would never come. Instead of being always glad There now are times when I am dumb.

But still in spite of all I've lost, And all that was and is no more. And all that withered 'neath the frost Life still has charms at forty-four.

Motorist Kills Family of Three

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR ESCAPES WHILE WITNESSES STOOD AGHAST.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(A.P.)—A family of three was wiped out by a "hit and run" motorist, who struck them and fled, leaving them dead in the street late last night.

The victims were Isador Herman, 38, his wife and nine-year-old daughter Madeline. Their bodies were terribly mangled.

A city-wide hunt by the police was under way to-day for the car. Garages have been searched for a blood-stained automobile with broken fenders or headlights, and hand-chasing cars have been ordered to cover West

Philadelphia, in an effort to find the death car. Herman was escorting his wife and daughter to their home when he was struck down. Herman was hurled to one side of the street while his wife and daughter were thrown to the other. There was no warning of any kind, witnesses said. All three were dead when picked up.

After veering about for a moment, owing to the force of the impact, the death car, witnesses said, picked up speed and disappeared. It was several minutes before another machine could be commandeered to take up the pursuit.

Hospital physicians said all three victims had died instantly.

Preachers and Their Texts

From the London Advertiser.

Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott, in his inaugural address as Principal of Knox College, took occasion to set out his views on sermons in general, and more particularly on the place to find the texts.

The Principal of Knox has seen much of life and his four-score years probably entitle him to speak with some degree of authority on sermons. His views are:

"The preacher may interpret with the things about him, even as Christ interpreted in the fowls of the air and the fish of the sea, but for his message he must go to the Book provided by God Himself."

"The man who uses his pulpit as a platform from which to discuss politics or the latest railway strike is not doing his duty. As a private citizen, he may have his own views, but his pulpit is no place into which to introduce them. If he could see the Christ of the pierced hands and the wounded side waiting for him to tell the people how those wounds were received, it would do much to raise the ordinary sermon to a higher level."

It is not possible to set down any hard and fast rules by which a sermon shall be prepared or delivered. Real sermons are an inspiration, and the inspiration comes when the person delivering them is gripped by the fact that he has a message which the people must have. In spite of all the inroads of those who seek to make the gospel an easy and soothing message to deliver, the pulpit remains holy ground to the man who has been divinely called to occupy it. It must have a message for the people that they cannot get elsewhere. It cannot compete with the world in the matter of entertainment, for it is not equipped for that purpose, and it was never intended that it should be so.

There will be general agreement with Dr. Scott's conviction that the Old Book itself is the storehouse from which the preacher must draw; he has the assurance of the Master that "My word shall not return unto Me void." The preacher is quite within his rights when he discusses the problems of to-day and to their solution brings the eternal word of the eternal God, and it is a wise pulpiteer who knows the proper balance and senses the strength of his application of the divine cure to the worldly ail.

The preacher of to-day has problems of his own. He feels the tug that calls him to make his deliverances attractive, so that people will be interested. He also knows it is his sacred duty to declare very old truths, because he has to preach the same story that Paul delivered to the Philippian jailer; the only difference is that he has to apply it to the lives of people who live in 1925. He can go ahead with his task, though, with the positive assurance that the world to-day needs Jesus Christ, and if he keeps that one great central truth in his mind the method of interpretation can safely be left to the individual.

The Average Child

INQUIRY TO FIND OUT THE NORMAL TYPE.

Lord Eustace Percy's Department, the Board of Education, in conjunction with the Ministry of Health, is attempting to determine what constitutes an average English child, and for the task a body, with the title of Anthropometric Committee has been set up, the secretary being a medical officer of the Board of Education.

The investigation is to be carried out as part of the routine medical inspection at the elementary schools all over the country, with a view to obtaining information on certain factors governing the growth of healthy children.

The school medical officers are to collect the following particulars of every child under their care:— Name, address, date of birth, nationality, country of birth, occupation of father and mother, the number of other brothers and sisters dead and alive, height, weight, chest measurement, colour of eyes and hair, dimensions of the head, and a record of any abnormality.

When all these particulars have been collected and tabulated, an attempt will be made to strike an average, which will represent the normal boy and girl of all ages.

No such inquiry, it is understood, has ever been made on national lines before.

The details collected will show what advantages in physique, if any, the country child possesses over the town child, and whether the town-bred child is actually mentally superior to the country-bred child, as is often asserted.

What it is all going to cost is not stated.

MY IRRITATED FRIEND.

"You're always writing about people's faults and weaknesses. I suppose you think you're perfect, don't you?" This is the question I get from my irritated friend.

I don't blame her at all. I think it's a perfectly natural question.

In fact I'm rather glad she came right out in meeting with it because I've often had visions, or perhaps I should say "auditions" of my readers finishing up some Chat—especially one that got under the skin—with that irritated comment.

I Must Make Them Furious.

And I am especially conscious that my combination reader-and-personal friends, who know me all too well, must be thoroughly irritated at times. Now to try and answer that question.

I'm quite willing to say myself that I have in greater or less degree, ac-

was the product of looking backward and seeing what faults I had been trying to dissect and hold up for inspection in the last few months.

The point is that generally when I'm trying to interpret you to yourself or your neighbor to you I'm trying to interpret myself to me at the same time.

But I Have To Dig Down.

Neighbors, and friends, and casual acquaintances, and the people on our Street and people I see on the trolley all give me a lot of material, but I get as much by mining as any other way.

Of course the fact that I have the floor most of the time—though goodness knows I wish you'd answer back more often than you do—must make me seem sometimes like a pig sitting in judgment. But will you believe that I don't think I'm perfect.

To be sure if you said that and followed it up by trying to pin some particular fault on me, I'd rise up and defend myself very energetically and perhaps get good and mad at you. But that's the way human beings are made and doubtless, like most of our instincts, serves some good purpose.

Can You Use $2500.00?

If so purchase your tickets now for the sweetestake on the Masonic-B.J.S. Billiard Tournament. Games start in October. Tickets only 10c. each—10 tickets for $1.00, sent post prepaid. sept.24.1925.1f

C. E. B. Cadets

This week all ranks are busy preparing to celebrate the Brigade's 34th Birthday—St. Martin's Day, Wednesday, November 11th and Armistice Day. The Lieut.-Colonel has a fine programme in preparation. First the Officers and lads will parade next Sunday morning at 8 o'clock to early Communion to offer their thanks to Almighty God for mercies vouchsafed during the year that have gone and to pray for blessings on the C.E.B. for the years that are to come. Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. the Regiment will parade for afternoon service at the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist. Full decorations are ordered to be worn. The Officers' Committee have arranged to give the lads their annual tea and entertainment in the Synod Hall on Tuesday, 17th November. Capt. S. S. Horsley, we hope, with his splendid artists of Queen's College will likely look after the programme. This annual social event promises to be very jolly. The Officer Commanding is again depending on the lads' friends of the Brigade to supply tea tables.

The Officers are arranging for their annual Bridge to be held early in December. All ranks at Brigade Headquarters wish to officially place on record their appreciation of the glorious work done by Corporal Stone and Pte. Ralph in the great Marathon Race at Halifax recently. Our C.E.B. lads are on the active list and we are all immensely pleased at their getting seventh and twelfth places against the cream of the track runners of the Maritime Provinces. We hear the Halifax folk commented most favourably on their work. The members of the C.E.B. Athletic Association are proud of them.

The Pelidians Athletic Association have hired the Armory for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7.35 to 9 p.m., and the Terra Novas for Tuesday and Thursdays after weekly parades and on Saturdays for the training of their hockey teams. Carry on lads, carry on.

The annual boxing and wrestling show of the C.E.B. Athletic Association will be held in the Armory on Thursday, the 12th November, under the auspices of the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association. All ranks regret that ex-Corporal Arthur Rendell, son of Mr. Frank Rendell, Cathedral Church Warden, is on the casualty list in the General Hospital. He is steadily improving, we are glad to say, but has been seriously ill. Old Comrade Harvey Thomas is in the General Hospital also, having had an operation for appendicitis. He is reported to be daily getting better.

Old Comrade Sam Gardner, Secretary, has also been laid off with an accident to his hand. We hope to see him at Headquarters soon. The Old Comrades annual meeting will be held middle of November, and President Crane will present his annual report. The report will be very interesting. This year as the Old Comrades are in good financial shape.

The C.E.B. and C.C.C. Bands held a combined dance and athletic programme last night, Wednesday, in the Prince's Rink. His Honor Mayor Cook donated a Silver Cup as a prize for the three mile race, and an ex-C.E.B. officer donated a Gold Medal for 2nd place. For the One Mile Walk, the Joint Bands donated a Gold Medal whilst for the Junior Football Relay Race the London, New York and Paris Ass'n of Fashion Cup has been given as a prize. The dancing commenced at 8 p.m. and the races at 9 o'clock sharp. Capt. Len Stick has been appointed Radio Officer and all enquiries regarding Broadcasting of the C.E.B. Band are requested to be addressed to him direct.

We congratulate the Ladies' Auxiliary of the C.E.B., of which Mrs. Tasker Cook is President, on the surprising financial results of their sale of work last week, netting over seven hundred dollars. While there were few patrons those that went spent their money like princes with the above result. The ladies thank all those who loyally supported them in their enterprise.

We are glad to hear of the recent visit paid to Wana and St. John's by one of the Brigade's best Chaplains, Rev. John Stead, formerly Rector of Bell Island, now residing in England. He was accompanied by his wife, Llewellyn, and came via Rotterdam to Bell Island direct. The Masonic Fraternity tendered him a reception as well as the Tennis Club. Rev. John Stead had a wonderful reception everywhere he went. He also paid a visit to his brother and sisters in St. John's.

Captain Lewis, Brigade Savings Bank Chairman, reports for September that there is $1187.18 on deposit in the Bank. He wants every lad to open a Savings Account. Interest paid is at the rate of 4 p.c. All lads are thus encouraged to save up for a rainy day. Rev. W. E. Godfrey, of St. Thomas's, is duty Chaplain for November and was on duty this week. Corporal Whitten, Orderly in the Adjutant's Department, has resigned after many years of faithful service.

"I can't afford life assurance," you say.

That is the very reason why you can't afford to do without it. How would your family get along without any of your income, if from it you can't spare a small portion for life assurance protection?

Suppose you should learn that from now on your income would be reduced $5.00 per month! Would it trouble you much? Well, that amount will maintain an Imperial policy for about $2,000.

Change of Policy in Indian Affairs

POLITICAL CIRCLES IN ENGLAND
STIRRED BY RETIREMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The retirement of the Earl of Reading from the viceroyalty and governor-generalship of India, might be interpreted as forecasting a change of policy in the administration of the Indian Empire. The Earl of Birmenshead, Secretary of State for India, in a speech last July in the House of Lords, declared: "Great Britain no longer talks of holding the gorgeous east in fee, but asks India to march side by side with us in fruitful, harmonious partnership which might create the greatest and proudest days of Indian history."

The government, however, failed to make known decision regarding the revision of the Act of 1919 for the government of India, and which brought about the coming to England on leave of absence—a most unusual procedure—of the Viceroy of India.

Political circles in Britain were deeply stirred by the news of the return on leave of the Earl of Reading last month, and it was said that he would discuss the proposed constitutional reforms in India. The Viceroy at that time was quoted as saying:

"The time for the revision of the constitution of India has not yet arrived."

Little further was heard about Britain's intentions as regards Indian reforms until the present announcement of the retirement of the Earl of Reading, who is one of Britain's most distinguished statesmen, having served the Crown previously as solicitor general, attorney general, Lord Chief Justice of England, President of the Anglo-French Loan Mission to the United States, High Commissioner and special ambassador to the United States. The first attorney general to become member of the cabinet in 1912. His rise to legal fame was meteoric. As Rufus Daniel Isaacs, the son of a Jewish merchant of London, he studied law at University College and in Brussels and Hanover. He became a member of the middle temple in 1904, and attorney general in 1910. He was created Viscount in 1916 and elevated to the Earl of Reading in 1917. Previously to his being made a Peer he represented Reading as a Liberal member of Parliament.

The Right Hon. Frederick Lindley Wood, the new Viceroy of India, a Conservative, is only 44 years of age, but has been in the political arena since 1910, beginning with his election to the House of Commons. He was appointed parliamentary under-secretary for the colonies in 1921, president of the Board of Education in 1922 and has held the post of minister of agriculture since last November. His wife is Lady Dorothy, daughter of the Earl of Onslow. He is the only surviving son and heir of the Viscount of Halifax.

Strongest Man Dead

GERMAN WHO COULD BREAK CHAINS WITH HIS FINGERS.

Death, according to a message from Berlin, has claimed "the strongest man in the world," Siegmund Breitbart. For many years he entertained audiences all over Europe by his astounding feats of strength. He could drive a 10 in. nail into a block of wood with his fist, or break a horseshoe as an ordinary man breaks a pencil. From a piece of cold iron he could make a horseshoe, using nothing but his fingers. One of his favorite tricks was performed with an iron bar, which a dozen people could not bend. He took it in his right hand and bent it double by hitting it against his left arm. He rent strong chains as though they were paper, or bit through them with his teeth. Great slabs of stone could be broken by throwing them against his head, and a motor-car with six people in it could run over him without hurting him.

Damascus Ruins Hide Many Bodies

British Consul Orders His Nationals To Leave City.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 29.—Enormous numbers of bodies are believed still to be buried beneath the ruins of Damascus. Jamal Rachid, secretary of the Palestine Arab Congress stated Wednesday, but he said there was no means of establishing how many had been killed during the rioting and French bombardment of the city.

"The situation is critical," he said. "The British Consul has ordered his nationals to leave Damascus."

"Winter is setting in and the conditions of the homeless inhabitants is most pitiful. The French are forcing back fugitives who endeavour to leave the city."

Fortune Found Sewn Up

IN SEAMS OF TWO OLD SKIRTS OF AN ONTARIO WOMAN.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Oct. 28.—In this instance it was not the case of the old arm chair which held its fortune in ancient banknotes. It was two old skirts, one black, the other green, in which the owner, the late Mrs. Isabella Tehan, of St. Catharines, had sewn up $4,874, presumably the bulk of the accumulated pay envelopes of her husband for thirty-five or forty years.

These interesting facts came to light this afternoon in an action in the Supreme Court, in which Mr. Justice Mowatt was asked to declare that the money so curiously hoarded was the sole possession of Mrs. Tehan, and did not belong to her husband, Timothy Tehan, who died a year ago. His wife, who had been taken to the asylum, followed her husband in death six weeks later.

It was generally believed Mrs. Tehan had a hoard of money, but where she had hidden it was the mystery. A neighbor woman one day, however, obtained a clew when Mrs. Tehan, on offering to pay her for some service, reached down and took a five-dollar bill from her stocking. "Not an unusual place to carry money, I am told," remarked Mr. Justice Mowatt dryly.

"At any rate, that gave me the idea she was hiding that money in her clothing," went on the witness, "especially as, whenever she spoke of being taken anywhere, she always insisted that, wherever she went, her trunk upstairs would have to go with her." Finally, a search was made, and the fortune was found sewn up in the two skirts, all of it in small rolls in the bottom seam and at the waist.

R. B. Johnston brought suit on behalf of a nephew, claiming he was the only relative of either the husband or wife. After considerable evidence had been heard, His Lordship suggested a settlement of the case, and it was finally agreed that the amount be divided equally between the estate of Timothy Tehan and his wife, the latter half to go to her nephew, Irwin.

Blame Weather Man

FOR PLANE'S WRECK.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The Weather Bureau to-day was unofficially blamed by Navy officers for the wreck of 17 Navy planes on Chesapeake Bay, near Baltimore, yesterday.

Officials said the bureau's storm warnings issued Saturday night were for strong south and southwest winds Saturday night and Sunday morning, shifting to the northwest Sunday afternoon.

According to unofficial reports reaching the department, which has not yet had any official word of the accident, the destructive gales blew from the southwest Sunday afternoon. Precautions had been taken for winds from the opposite direction.

Neglected Coughs

Often lead to serious trouble—Are quickly relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limes and Turpentine.

Many people regard a cold as a simple incident. But Coughs and Colds when neglected lead to pneumonia and consumption—the most dreaded diseases common to this Northern Hemisphere. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limes and Turpentine is well-known as a most effective treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup and asthma. For many years it has held its place in the homes of Canada as absolutely dependable and was never so popular as it is today.

Composed of simple and yet powerfully effective ingredients it is suitable for children and adults alike and is found constantly in most homes for use in case of emergency. Prompt treatment is half the battle when fighting colds.

Abolish Knife in Minor Surgery, is Aim of Movement

CAMPAIGN FOR MORE UNIVERSAL USE OF GERMICIDES DECIDED UPON.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—A movement that may result in the abolition of the use of the knife in all minor and some major operations was started in a session of the fifteenth annual congress of the American College of the American College of Surgeons.

The board of regents of the college decided to inaugurate at the continental of the birth of Lord Lister, originator of antiseptic and germicidal surgery, next April, a campaign of research and propaganda for the development and more universal use of those germicides which attacked diseased cells in the body without destroying healthy tissues.

The board resolved that the use of such germicides instead of the knife had already been amply justified, and also that the profession should know more about the new technique.

If a man had an external abscess, speakers said, the only treatment had been the knife. It was pointed out that germicide had been discovered which would destroy the abscess cells and leave the living tissue unharmed.

German Cabinet Makes Decision to Stay in Office

CRISIS OVER LOCARNO.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press Despatch)—Chancellor Luther's cabinet at a meeting to-day decided to remain in office, notwithstanding the resignation yesterday of the three Nationalist ministers, whose party has declared its dissatisfaction with the security agreement negotiated at Locarno.

Three Ministers Resign.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press Despatch)—The expectation prevailed in Berlin to-day that Chancellor Luther would fill the gap made in his cabinet by the resignation of three Nationalist members, Herr Schiele, minister of the interior; Dr. Von Schillehen, minister of finance; and Dr. Albert Neuhaus, minister of economics, and then go before the Reichstag and request ratification by that body of the Locarno security pact and arbitration treaties.

The resignation of the ministers was not unexpected, for on Friday the governing board of the Nationalist party declared the Locarno agreements unsatisfactory.

Notwithstanding the adverse feeling among the Nationalists, it is asserted to be the intention of Chancellor Luther, who is backed by Foreign Minister Stresemann, to proceed along the peace lines laid down at Locarno. The chancellor is asserted to believe that when the question of the Locarno agreements comes up in the Reichstag he will be given a strong majority through the aid of the middle parties and the Socialists.

Too Late For Dissolution.

A suggestion that President von Hindenburg might dissolve the Reichstag and call for new elections is thought to be impracticable, as the time for the signing of the agreements, December 1, is too near.

The opposition of the Nationalists to the Locarno pact is in great measure based on the belief that the allied promises regarding Germany's demands for concessions in the Rhine-land have not been fulfilled.

Relics of Rum Running

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 3.—Riddled with bullets, two powerful touring cars, relics of the rum-running days of Regina, under the prohibition regime, were the focus of interest at a sheriff's sale here.

The sale was made under a judgment given Alfred Rubin, of Montreal, against the Prairie Drug Co., Regina, in the Court of King's Bench, recently. The sale realized $16,000.

Besides the two old cars, there were 1,200 cases of empty bottles, a still, 220 oak barrels, 19 hogsheads, 185 steel drums, 23 small kegs and 14 crates of pint flasks, the full paraphernalia for the liquor manufacturing firm of several years ago.

Listed for sale were 199 drums of pure alcohol, containing a total of 23,000 gallons, but these were not sold. The Liquor Board refused the sheriff permission to dispose of the spirits, which were under bond.

Practically all of the material was bought by Mr. Rubin, who originally started the action in connection with some liquor deals made several years ago. If some means of selling the alcohol can be found, it is expected that the balance of the judgment will be realized.

Preserving the Buffalo

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 3.—Professor W. H. Rowan, of the University of Alberta, with his assistant, W. McDonald, has returned from the Wood Buffalo reserve at Fort Smith, following a successful expedition into the Northland, for museum specimens of wood buffalo.

He brought with him the skulls, hides and requisite skeletal remains of two buffalo bulls, and also a number of old skins found on the preserve.

The Alberta professor stamps as incorrect the stories to the effect that the buffalo were trekking south. Rangers who have made careful observations of the plains buffalo, according to Professor Rowan, found that the animals were settling down well and were mixing amicably with the larger woods buffalo. Most of the plains animals, the rangers declared, were drifting to the southern end of the preserve, bordering on the Slave and Peace rivers.

The party left by wagon for the preserve, accompanied by rangers and guides, but most of the actual hunting was done on foot, with occasional trips on horseback.

The expedition left Edmonton on September 1. Permission had been secured to take three bulls and a cow, but animals were found to be scarce and difficult to catch. The park's superintendent, Mr. McDougall, has undertaken to secure the specimen purposes, the largest bull on the range, during the coming winter, as the ranger knows the particular haunts of this animal and can get him when a favorable opportunity presents itself.

Photographs of the woods buffalo were difficult to get, and light conditions were unsatisfactory when photographing the specimens shot by the expedition.

Rangers estimate that of the three herds of plains buffalo moved to the woods buffalo reserve this summer, about 37 have crossed the Peace River to the wooded lands to the south. These animals are being watched as carefully as possible and every effort will be made to protect them even though they wander outside of the preserve.

A Travelling Grocery in the North

WINNIPEG, Alta., Nov. 3.—The old order of things is gradually being changed for the inhabitants of the far North. One of the primary and generally most exacting tasks of the backwoodsman in the past, has been that of transporting his camp supplies to the distant outposts.

If the idea set forth by Alex. Hamilton, of Lac La Biche, is capitalized and extended to the North generally, this problem has now been solved.

Mr. Hamilton, who recently reached Edmonton from the North country, told of taking the groceries idea into the Arctic. His power boat, he explained, had been fitted out with a varied assortment of provisions, displayed on shelves and counters just like in the city stores. His plan was that a novel trading ship, going into the north directly in the wake of the treaty-paying parties, would receive a good reception at the hands of the Indians. According to his story, his most optimistic hopes were fully realized.

A boat owned by a lumber merchant at Lac La Biche was purchased and shipped by rail over the railway to the end of steel. Here it was fitted with regular store fixtures and a stock of approximately seventeen tons of dry goods, groceries and other wares taken aboard for the long trip north.

Seventeen other traders, all fired with the same ambition, organized a similar expedition and succeeded, in getting out of Waterways ahead of the newcomers. The "grocery" boat left three days after the enterprising traders, but rapidly gained on his rivals and overhauled them in Lake Athabasca. He reached Fort Fitzgerald well ahead of his competitors. Here the storehouse was greeted with great interest and a thriving business soon developed.

Word of the approach of the first "grocery" has spread down the river ahead of the trader, and everywhere a large crowd of Indians and traders were waiting the arrival of the novel store. By the time Akilavik, on the Arctic, was reached, the floating "grocery" was completely cleaned-out and the return trip to Lac La Biche started. More than 4,000 miles were covered. Mr. Hamilton promises to make similar trips again.

Baroness Orczy and Her Work

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 22.—The two novels with Canadian settings which Baroness Orczy intends to write of Quebec and life on the Prairies when she returns to her villa at Monte Carlo, will be written in the same romantic style which has characterized her other work; there will be none of the "six" problems, which she declares seems inevitable in much of the modern literature.

According to the Baroness, when she was in Winnipeg, it is the duty of a woman to bring beauty into the life of the reader and take him out of the everyday surroundings, "so often filled with monotony and sordidness."

"It is not refreshing to read about the sorrows of others, but only in one's own," she said. "Modern people," she added, "have a very bad habit of introspection. They analyze their reactions too much and demand the same thing in their reading. Why not forget themselves in the life of a romance?"

When asked if she thought it possible for a woman to combine marriage and a career, the Baroness replied with a very expressive shrug of the shoulder, "I have done it, why not others?"

The Baroness feels that many of the books which have an uncomplimentary angle to married women in professions, are written by men who still have the old-fashioned idea of marriage.

Baroness Orczy gives definite hours to the supervision of her household either in London or at her charming home on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is only during the hours in the "studio" that she draws herself apart. This is a large room commanding a superb view of the sea, which she shares with her artist husband, Mr. Montague Barstow, who does a great deal of work in water color.

Victoria and Vancouver, in the belief of the Baroness, are more like parts of England than any other spot in Canada. "In the Eastern province I feel miles away, but there it seems to me that a few hours of riding will bring me into London."

The Most Influential Man in the Government

"If I were asked to name the most influential member of the Government I should not select the Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, drifts amiably about from all points of the compass according to any breath of wind that blows upon him or any turn of the tide that overfakes him," writes "A. G. O." in the Daily News.

"Nor should I choose Mr. Churchill, in spite of his restless energy and his intrepidity in debate, for Mr. Churchill is an adventurer without any philosophy of life or affairs except the philosophy of action: I should name the most dour, the most drab, the least popularly attractive figure in the Cabinet."

"To the public Mr. Leopold Charles Maurice Stott Amery is a name and nothing more. In private relations he is a man of attractive parts and manners. But in public life no man has reached the front rank with so few of the arts of popular appeal or with so little success in impressing his personality on the public mind."

Let me see, and let me ponder.

Didn't we end the last story at a very dangerous point? Guess we did, Little Reader for just as I began this one, the old wolf beat on Peter Pig's kitchen door with such force that the knob dropped to the kitchen floor. "Bang!" it went, frightening a little mouse in the pantry.

"If Mr. Wicked Wolf once breaks in the door, we are lost," cried poor Mrs. Pig, tiptoeing into the hall to peek through the little side window. All of a sudden she spied in the distance, although it was quite dark, Little Jack Rabbit, hopping along in his khaki suit, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw.

Opening the door very gently, Mrs. Pig screamed at the top of her voice, "Mr. Wicked Wolf is beating in the kitchen door. Please get the kind Policeman Dog!" The next minute around from the back of the house came Mr. Wicked Wolf, but just too late, for, with a bang, Mrs. Pig had bolted the door.

"Botheration!" exclaimed that wicked beast, and then, Oh dear me, he spied the little rabbit. Off went the old wolf, forgetting all about the pig family. And away hopped the bunny boy just as fast as he could go.

Mr. Wicked Wolf had long, fast legs, and by and by, and all too soon, he came close to the little rabbit.

"Ha, ha!" snarled the old wolf, his hot breath almost burning the bunny boy's little tail. "I may have lost a fat pig, but I'll get a plump little rabbit instead. Ha, ha!"

"Foot, foot, hokey, foot, foot! Little Jack Rabbit, now you must scoot!"

"I know it, oh I know it," cried the poor little breathless bunny. "I'm doing the best I can."

"You'll have to do better," answered the old wolf, who had just poken in again. He didn't want the old wolf to catch the little rabbit. He'd rather catch him.

Just then, and wasn't it lucky? Well, I can't think at the moment of anything more so, the bunny boy spied a light ahead. "Father, don't lose her darling boy," he whispered to a light ahead. "Other shan't lose not if I can help it," and with a big jump and two little hops, he landed right before the front of the Circus Elephant's Leg Cabin. At the very same instant, the big kind animal opened the door. He had meant to look up at the stars, but he didn't. No fire, instead, he picked up the little, breathless bunny with his big, strong trunk just as Mr. Wicked Wolf went Bang! against the old elephant's right front leg.

Court Witness Kicks Examiner

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Leon Daudet, the Royalist leader, who is being sued by M. Bajor, the chauffeur, in whose taxi-cab M. Daudet's fourteen year old son, Philippe, was found in a dying condition from a revolver shot two years ago, was kicked by one of the witnesses at today's session of the Assises Court, and the judge had to suspend the sitting until the excitement subsided.

The witness was M. Le Flaouter, a reformed anarchist, in whose small bookshop M. Daudet has charged that Philippe was assassinated by the police. M. Daudet has charged in his newspaper L'Action Française that Bajor was an accomplice.

When Le Flaouter took the stand M. Daudet, although nominally in the role of accused, began to "cross-examine" the witness in the best approved style of the French courts. In his excitement the Royalist leader advanced close to the little "rail constituting the witness box, pointing an accusing finger at the witness. The latter kicked M. Daudet and Jacques Allard, Daudet's brother-in-law put his hand to his hip pocket to draw a revolver. He was surrounded by guards who compelled him to surrender the revolver to the Judge.

Compass Points in Different Directions

COMPASS INVENTOR UNKNOWN.

The invention of the compass is lost in the dawn of history. It is first found mentioned in a quaint Chinese legend which relates that the Emperor Ho-ang-ti in 2634 B.C. led forth his army and attacked the rebel Khlang on the plains of Tchoulou. But Khlang, getting the worst of the conflict, called the wizards, magicians and sorcerers to his aid who raised a great fog to hide Khlang, and his army. Then the Emperor, not to be outdone, in his turn used the greater magic of the compass, which led his army through the great fog so that he was able to overcome Khlang and capture him.

The compass appears to have been brought to Europe in the twelfth century, most probably by the Arabians, as it is known that the Arabian and Chinese traders met in the Persian Gulf, and on account of its very great practical value as a guide in all weathers, it rapidly came into general use and enabled Christopher Columbus to sail straight west from Spain by day and by night, through fair and stormy weather, to the discovery of the New World.

But contrary to story book report, the compass does not point north, but more or less to the east or west at different places. Scientists state that this is because the magnetic poles of the earth are not situated at the geographical poles as shown on our maps of the world; that in fact the north magnetic pole is near Boothia Felix on the Arctic coast of Canada, and the south magnetic pole is in South Victoria Land south from New Zealand.

It might be thought that the compass would be satisfied to call it a day's work after pointing in a different direction at each place, but such is not the case, for it is all the time changing its direction and never stays put. It marches to the west for many years, then turns back and marches to the east, then reverses again and marches to the west, and in fact changes its mind more often than any maiden fair, and carries on in a different way in each place. Whether this fickleness is caused by a wandering of the earth's magnetic poles, or by something happening inside the earth, or by the sun or planets, scientists have not yet been able to find out.

Importance of the March of the Compass.

It is very important to know this march of the compass, especially in Eastern Canada, because all the old land surveys in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were made by Early Investigation in Canada.

Compass information is particularly valuable in such a large new country as Canada, and it is interesting to note that Champlain measured its direction at Halifax about 1604, John Davis in Davis Strait, 1585, and Capt. Baffin in Baffin Land, 1616. Capt. Middleton at Churchill, at York Factory, 1725; while Capt. Cook in 1778 and Capt. Vancouver in 1792 measured it along the Pacific coast. Later Sir John Franklin, 1819-26, and Sir John Lefroy, 1843-46, made some measurements, but comparatively little was done in Canada before 1880.

Since 1880, however, the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, has carried on a most extensive magnetic survey in this country in conjunction with its other work, at practically no expense, because the compass direction can be measured in a few minutes when the survey parties are already on the ground; until it now possesses more than 20,000 measurements, and regularly publishes magnetic maps which picture all this information for compass users.

More Widely Employed Than Ever.

In spite of the fact that the compass has been known for so long, it is to-day more widely employed than ever before. It is the sure-fire pathfinder, the cloud by day and the pillar by night to the sailor adrift on the heaving main; the airman above the hiding clouds; the miner far underground in the deepest shaft; and explorers, surveyors, hunters, trappers, prospectors, pioneers and travellers penetrating the trackless forest, the jumbled mountains, the virgin wilderness and the Far North.

But the compass still has hidden secrets. Elusive earth currents and stubborn static still act the part of highwaymen and hold up our friends the telegraph and wireless and radio.

We know these highway men are in the nature of first cousins to the dancing northern lights and magnetic storms that torture the compass, and black cyclonic sunspots that try to rob us of our light and heat, but all these things are still seen through a glass, darkly, and scientists believe they never probably can be forced to take the stand and lay bare their inmost secrets until the direction of pointing of the compass has been properly mapped all over the world.

The Beautiful Woman

takes the greatest care to protect and nourish her skin and not to give the fatal wrinkles a chance to form. After cleansing her face she rubs in with an upward and outward motion a generous amount of Three Flowers skin and Tissue Cream. The pure oils it contains are quickly absorbed by the tissues. The lady whose skin is inclined to be dry finds in this splendid cosmetic the means to replace the natural oil her skin lacks, while the woman whose skin is inclined to be too oily finds that a thorough cleansing with Three Flowers Skin and Tissue Cream opens the overloaded pores and helps them throw off the excessive oils. Thus does this beautiful cream benefit every woman's skin.—oct22.th.m.t.f

British Immigration Scheme

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 30.—Prospects of the 3,000-family scheme for next year are exceedingly bright and had been located during 1925 in the West out of the 400 families which had come to Canada under the scheme. Manitoba had taken 75, Saskatchewan 90, Alberta, 135 and British Columbia, 65, he said.

"I think," Major Gyles continued, "that as a whole the scheme has proved most satisfactory. The majority of the families have during the past summer, written letters home to their near relatives and friends of 6,000 or 7,000 Britshers on farm lands," Major Gyles said.

Up to the present time, he declared, treated. In most cases the letters that between 200 and 300 families, state they have received more than had been approved for next season, they anticipated. A large number of

Empire Food Supplies

Two years ago our cheap loaf was produced at the expense of the Canadian farmers. Last year, though the loaf became dear, Canada was unable to profit as producers on account of her light crop. This year the price of wheat is still relatively high, and Canada stands to gain as the possessor of one of the largest available exportable surpluses of wheat. Already it is estimated that from the greater yield of field crops in the Dominion every Canadian farm on the average will earn $500 more than a year ago.—Empire Food Supplies.

Some came to criticize last night but went away with sore sides from laughing at Dave Delaney and Jim Malone. Another performance at the Casino to-night with changed specialties. Tickets at Huttons.—nov6.11

Enjoyable Variety Concert at Synod Hall

Variety concerts are not always the easiest to catch an audience nor to hold its undivided attention, but if the number of the encores demanded is any criterion, the performance at the Cathedral W.H.M. Auxiliary Concert at the Synod Hall last night must have completely pleased. The audience was large and the amount realized was greater than had been expected.

Miss Howlett opened the programme with a favourite English
song, "I passed by your window," giving as an encore "Casey the Fiddler."
Perhaps the piece de resistance of the evening was the Dutch dance of three little girls, Misses Butler and Watson
(2). Harold Godfrey's youthful rendition of "Play up and play the game"
brought him unstinted applause, and he was followed by Mr. Bevan, whose limericks set to music, were received with much laughter. The cello solo by Mr. Alex Mews gave absolute delight to the audience, who demanded his return, and would have had him back
a third time had he been willing. Mrs.
Pike's recitation of the suffragettes'
meeting, which ended in an unfor-seen manner, was so popular that she was compelled to answer with an encore. The musical monologues by Mr.
Horsley which followed were also encored, and a male quartet by the Cathedral Choir, quartet, unaccompanied, also encored, was followed by Mr. Swales with "I wish my people go,"
and another folk song. The evening closed with mandolin-banjo solo by
Mr. Parnall, accompanied by Mr.
McLeod.

Rev. Canon Jeeves acted as announcer and Mr. Bevan did most of the accompanying. Candy and cake were sold during the evening and at the close of the concert.

George St. Sale of Work

A successful sale of work was held by the Mission Circle of George St.
Church in the basement of the Church yesterday afternoon. The sale opened at 4 o'clock, and a large gathering of members and friends of the Church
and from then on until after tea hour
sales were very brisk. The stalls were well supplied with plain and fancy work, and pantry requirements,
all of which found ready purchasers.
The fair-pond was the chief centre of attraction, particularly for the young folk. At 6 p.m. high teas were served.
Concert At Night.

At 8 p.m. a concert took place, with Rev. C. H. Johnson, the Pastor, in the chair. The programme consisted of a male quartette by Messrs. Cornick, Somerville, Bastow and Dewling, of
the Cathedral Choir; Reading, by Miss Murray; Solo, Mr. Wyle; Violin Sel-lection by Miss Power, and Solos by Mrs. C. E. Goad, Miss Jean Taylor
and Miss Ruth Calvert. The ladies in charge of the sale are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

GENERAL MOTORS

Producing at Record Rate—September
Exceeded All Previous Month.
General Motors sales in September established a new high record, exceeding any previous month in the corporation's history, according to Alfred

P. Sloan, Jr., president of the corporation, who also stated his belief that operations would continue at high levels through October.

"A survey of the retail demand,"
said Mr. Sloan, "shows that, notwithstanding the high levels of production, our cars are moving directly from factory to consumer. Sales by dealers to consumers last month closely approximated the corporation's sales to dealers, leaving practically no excess in the hands of dealers. While it is to be expected that demand will taper off during the winter, orders for our products justify continuation of present output schedules, at least through October."

"The prosperity of the motor industry undoubtedly comes as a result of a general effort by principal companies to furnish automobile transportation to consumers at the lowest possible cost. The public has again responded to greater values which we are furnishing."

"This is also true with regard to time financing methods. In some sections of the country, long terms, small down payments and uncertain risks
are being accepted merely for the purpose of selling cars. So far as General Motors is concerned, we have adopted a policy through our subsidiary,
General Motors Acceptance Corporation, which definitely places us on record as opposing unsound practices in this regard. Realizing that the ultimate cost of financing the sale of cars on time payments must be borne by the purchaser, we have adopted
standard rates for handling this business which insures the purchaser against excessive charges. Advantage of a lower list price may be offset by a high finance charge. Time purchasers are fast becoming familiar with credit costs. The net delivered cost of the automobile, including finance charge, is rapidly becoming a sales factor. The longer the terms generally, the more capital is needed

by the industry and thus the credit cost per car becomes greater. When the automobile dealer does not give due consideration to that factor and follows the line of least resistance he adds an unnecessary cost to the product. It should be the aim of the motor industry to regard the economics of the situation and see that cars are placed in the hands of the consumer
at the lowest ultimate price—thereby
not only selling them, but keeping them sold."

Asked concerning prospects of General Motors introducing a small car
similar to those in use in Europe, Mr.
Sloan said:
"General Motors is constantly experimenting with various types of cars, but at present the management
does not believe that the small car
with narrow tread and high speed engine has any place either in the American market or to any great extent in overseas countries. I believe that on account of congestion of traffic, the modern car should be designed for rapid acceleration in traffic and convenient handling. For this purpose, shorter wheel-bases are desirable.
There may develop a trend in that direction."

Mr. Sloan also stated that the used car situation was sounder than for some time in the past. There has been a good demand for used cars, he said, and dealers are handling trades
with a better knowledge of the merchandising aspects of the situation.

Silk Industry in Britain Finds Life in New Duties

NEW FACTORIES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—As a result of duties imposed in the last Budget on imported silk goods, the British silk industry has embarked on a period of great prosperity, foreign manufacturers are erecting new factories which will employ British labor and the Treasury is getting new revenue to the tune of £10,000,000 a year, says John R. Hunter, M.P., in an interesting article in the October issue of the "Nineteenth Century and After," of which the following is an extract:—
"Mr. Churchill's Silk Duties have a very distinct protective flavor. My own calculation is that there is an absolute saving to the home producer of approximately 20 per cent. These duties are already having a most advantageous effect in my own constituency. Whereas before the imposition of the Silk Duties there was considerable unemployment among the silk workers and almost despair among the silk manufacturers, what do we find to-day?

"There is practically no unemployment among the silk workers and every manufacturer is full of orders
for several months ahead, several large extensions of existing silk mills
are in process of erection, and six large foreign manufacturers are today building factories in this country
to manufacture with British labor
goods which were previously made abroad with foreign labor. Such are the results of the protective favor of Mr. Churchill's Silk Duties."

Voting Contest

Gives Popularity Contest Meets With Approval

Headquarters of the G. W. V. A. circus popularity committee have been busy ever since the first announcement of their unique popularity contest, answering letters and telephone calls from interested candidates and voters everywhere. The popular contest has caught on and received public endorsement and support quicker than even the most optimistic of the G. W. V. A. active committee ever expected. Already many of Newfoundland's best known ladies have entered the contest and received many votes. Interest will increase from day to day as the standing of contestants appears in the columns of this paper. The winner or most popular lady will receive a handsome diamond ring and the runner up or the lady to receive the next highest vote will receive a beautiful gold wrist watch and $20.00 in gold will go to the third highest. Besides the prizes mentioned for the three leading candidates there will be many other worth while prizes offered and awarded to the leading ladies on different days during the contest.

Voters who are wise will see to it that they have all their votes credited early so that their candidate may share in the many commendable offerings from time to time. Ladies from all over Newfoundland are eligible to enter this contest and their names can be placed on the voting list by friends of either sex or even by other members of their own family.

The following well known ladies have been nominated by friends who are anxious to help them secure votes and win the contest or one of the many big prizes:—

Bebe Daniels
at the Majestic

"LITTLE MISS BLUEBEARD" WINS THE CROWN

Bebe Daniels in her second starring picture of Paramount's Justly-Famous Porty, "Miss Bluebeard," an adaptation of Avery Hopwood's Broadway stage success, "Little Miss Bluebeard," is supported by an ideal cast of players—a case true-to-type in every sense of the word.

The picture, which opened last night at the Majestic Theatre, was directed by Frank Tuttle. Townsend Martin wrote the screen play.

Raymond Griffith (remember him in "Changing Husbands") has a comedy role as the Hon. Bertie Bird who does his best to straighten things out for the star and other principals in this merry little marriage mix-up only to mess the things up all the more.

Robert Frazer is leading man opposite Miss Daniels. He has the role of a woman-hating young composer. He has met Colette (Bebe) only once in his life—and the second time she is introduced to him as his wife. What's it all about? That's where the laughs come in in "Miss Bluebeard."

Kenneth MacKenna, prominent stage actor, makes his screen debut in this production. He plays Larry's (Frazer) friend who is stranded with Colette in a small town railroad station and, posing as Larry, marries her. That's how the mix-up starts.

The picture also introduces Martha Madison to movie audiences. Miss Madison, a petite blonde, is cast as Lulu, one of Larry's most ardent admirers. Diana Kane, who started her career as the protegee of Bebe Daniels in "Sinners in Heaven" and "Dangerous Money," is also well cast.

Others include Lawrence D'Orazio, Florence Billings and Ivan Simpson. In a comedy butler characterization, "Miss Bluebeard" is a pleasing love comedy with Miss Daniels in a prominent role.

You'll really enjoy this one. To-night it will be repeated when other special attractions will be offered and Mrs. Baxter will again be already foretold in the Majestic advertisement.

Elinor Glyn never minces words—she always calls a spade a spade. She doesn't care a snap of her fingers what small-minded people think, and it is just this admirable quality in her writing—this fearless frankness, with candour and resolute daring—which make her writings the most absorbing work ever written.
