The Reason Why.

The reason why the magnificent Retail Grocery Establishments in the Alma Block and on Lower Wyndham Street, belonging to John A. Wood, are so very popular with the intelligent public—Because the Goods are all of the best quality. Because the Prices are invariably the lowest. Because the Clerks are courteous and obliging. Because the Stock is the largest to select from. Because the goods are always clean. Because the Weights and Measures are always correct. Because, in fact, the proprietor understands his business, desires to please his customers, makes good use of his capital, and buys for cash in the best markets, and always deals liberally with those who honor his stores with their custom.—These and many other weighty reasons have contributed very largely to make the name of John A. Wood, as connected with the Grocery trade of Guelph, so well known, and his stores so very popular.

Town and County News.
The Elephant clothing store opened to-day.

There is a trip to Brantford from Guelph and Galt to see Barnum's show on Tuesday next, Galt's public holiday.

New Drawing Books.—A fine assortment of drawing books in extra nice bindings worth double the ordinary drawing books but sold at the same price at Day's Bookstore.

The Leisure Hour.—Mr. Day has just received the Leisure Hour for September. The frontispiece, entitled "The Fisherman's Child" is a pretty little incident well portrayed.

Sunday Meeting.—A temperance meeting will be held in the Good Templars' Hall next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when ministers and others will deliver short addresses. "No collection" is announced.

Broke his Waist.—As a boy named Bookingham was cleaning windows at Mr. Pierce's Block, Woolwich street, on Wednesday, 10th inst., which promises to be of a very interesting character. After the picnic there will be a quadrille party in Matthew's Hall.

The Sunday at Home and Leisure Hour for September are out, and for the month of September. The "Sunday at Home" contains a fine colored engraving of the Crown Oak, Addlestone—a fine old monarch of the woods.

Accident.—As James Laidlaw, Esq., was driving in Guelph to-day with Mrs. Laidlaw, his horse went through the bridge over the creek on London road, cutting her knees and breaking the shaft of the buggy. Mrs. Laidlaw was thrown out on the gravel, but fortunately escaped unhurt. The Road and Bridge Committee should look after that bridge.

Accident in Lutes.—On Monday of last week, a son of Mr. Thomas Graham of the township of Luther, while chopping in the bush, accidentally struck the bit of the axe into his foot. The cut is about two and a half inches in length, and is the full depth of the corner of the axe. The unfortunate young man is doing well, and will soon be about again.

St. Joseph's Hospital.—We are informed that the Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital will commence on Thursday their annual canvass of the town for money to aid that institution. They are commencing earlier than usual owing to the increased demands made upon their charity by several cases of sickness during the summer. No doubt they will meet with the accustomed liberality of the citizens of Guelph.

Sabbath Desecration.—We learn from a person who resides in the neighborhood that a number of young men, each Sabbath, are in the habit of procuring boats at the boat house and rowing up to the "Rocks" where they indulge in card-playing, boxing, gambling, and Sunday rowdiness generally. Such gross violations of the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," ought to be stopped. Perhaps our P. C.'s will see after those young men.

The Monthly Fair.—Business was exceedingly dull at the fair this morning. The number of cattle on the ground was if anything less than at the August fair, and there appeared to be scarcely any buyer's present. The proportion of working oxen offered was larger than usual, and the stock generally appeared in better condition than at the last fair. From $30 to $40 was asked for oxen, and beef may be quoted at from 2½ to 4 live weight. There were not many people in town during the morning, and things generally were not animated.

The Central Exhibition.—Less than a fortnight now remains before the opening day of our Central Exhibition. We learn from the Secretary that entries are coming in rapidly. Cattle, sheep, and pigs are of course to be well represented. There will be a large show of fruit; and poultry will also be very numerous. The poultry coops have been re-arranged and fresh battened; the horse stalls have also been battened and repaired; and the buildings generally will be in thorough good order, so as to afford every comfort and accommodation for exhibitor and exhibited, for bired and quadruped, for man and beast. They look like business in the Secretary's office—four or five penmen are hard at work with their coats off, on the abundance of papers scattered around.

Local and Other Items

At a meeting of the Hamilton Presbytery, the Rev. Mr. Hoskins was formally relieved from his charge over Knox Church congregation, Dundas, and the Rev. Mr. Leisig, formerly of Coburg, preached last Sunday morning. The congregation made Mr. Hoskins the handsome present of $351.

CREDIT VALLEY RAILWAY.—St. Mary's is anxious for the extension of the Credit Valley Railway from Woodstock to that town. Some time ago the "St. Mary's and Credit Valley Company" was organized. Little or nothing having been done, a public meeting was held last week to stir up the Provisional Directors. The meeting broke up without action of a practical nature further than taking up Stock to the extent of some $5,000 or $6,000.

He is now in prison.

The Mail is preparing the way for another step in the game of delay. In Monday's issue it says:—

"The Governor-General's promise to Parliament was, that Parliament would be called together when the report of the Commissioners had been submitted to him and to the Speakers of the two Houses. To the deputation which waited upon him, he said he hoped this event would take place within eight and ten weeks. But, if the Opposition delay the taking of the evidence, who we ask, will be responsible if Parliament be not called together in that time?"

London, Sept. 1.—The Globe this evening says the Ministry have determined to submit a statement of the Budget to Parliament early in the next Session, on the basis of an abolition of income tax, on which, if the House refuses to sustain them, they will appeal to the country.

The threatened difficulty between the English Vice-Admiral and the Carthaginians Insurgents has been prevented. Vice-Admiral Trelvort has taken the ironclads Amenca and Victoria from the harbor of Carthagena, and sent them to Gibraltar. The Insurgents made no attempt to prevent the vessels going. Paris, Sept. 2.—The cholera has made its appearance among the troops quartered at Havre, having been communicated, it is thought, by German immigrants en route for the United States. Fashionable loungers at Atronville are much alarmed, and are leaving as rapidly as possible.

New York, Sept. 2.—A number of persons interested in the subject of cheap transportation between the west and the seaboard, assembled this afternoon, to listen to a statement by Mr. Abbott, Engineer of the projected road. Mr. Abbott said that the managers of the road, after three years' labour, had obtained charters and franchises in every State through which the road will pass, on its whole length of 1,224 miles. It would result in a saving of from 20 to 50 per cent over existing freight charges. The Company already had 100 miles graded in Ohio and Indiana and had 900 miles of right of way secured. It also had $10,000,000 of local aid guaranteed, and would obtain the rest of needed capital by the sale of its stock and bonds. The cost of the road is estimated from $175,000,000 to $180,000,000.

The Tribune says the resignation of the City Treasurer, Sprague of Brooklyn, has been tendered. Two persons connected with the Trust Co. have filed affidavits charging Sprague with malfeasance in office.

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 2.—Cattle thieving on the Texas border has been resumed with usual vigour. About 200 fine heaves were driven across into Mexico by the thieves without the slightest interference on the part of the Mexican officials. These depredations are of daily occurrence, and Texas is robbed of cattle at the rate of a thousand each month.

Farmers' Meeting in Garafraza.
A large and influential meeting of farmers took place at the North Wellington Hotel, Garafraza, on Monday evening. William Gibson, Esq., was called to the chair, and Mr. J. J. Dobbin was appointed Secretary.

After some discussion a unanimous opinion was come to that the farmers should adopt some measures for their better protection. The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted:—

Moved by Mr. Harvey Gull, seconded by Mr. James Milne, That whereas most of the professions, trades, and callings in this country are protected by associations except farmers, it is therefore the opinion of this meeting that it is expedient and necessary that the farmers of this Province organize for the better protection of themselves against railroad, village, and other monopolies. Be it therefore resolved that the following persons be a Committee to correspond with the Masters of Granges or Farmers' Associations in this country, and report the method of procedure and working of the institution to our next farmers meeting. The Committee to consist of Messrs. Piper, Cull and Dobbin.

Moved by Mr. Robert Burr, seconded by Mr. Forbes Moir, That in the opinion of this meeting it is high time the farmers of this country had taken a firm stand against all oppressive and insatiable corporations and monopolies; and that we no longer give aid and support to demagogues who talk but do not toil, and who are content to live at the expense of those who fare otherwise.

Moved by Mr. Stephen Piper, seconded by Mr. David J. Black, That the members of this meeting look upon the Grouping System used by the Credit Valley Railway Company as unjust, fraudulent and tyrannical, and therefore pledge themselves to each other to use all their influence against the said scheme; and they further pledge themselves not to patronize, trade with, or support any person whomsoever or wheresoever, who shall encourage or be party to the said scheme.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Forbes Moir, That the members of this meeting do hereby pledge themselves to each other to use all their influence against the said scheme; and they further pledge themselves not to patronize, trade with, or support any person whomsoever or wheresoever, who shall encourage or be party to the said scheme.—Carried.

Moved by John Newman, seconded by Henry Hamill, That Messrs. Piper, Falker, Dobbin, Milne, Lyons, Gibson, Cull, Burr, Douglas and Oliver be a Committee to lead men in East Garafraza and other townships to the above scheme.

Moved by Mr. Wm. Fulker, seconded by Mr. Wm. Douglas, That the minute of this meeting be sent to the Guelph Mercury, Elora Observer, and Fergus News Record.

Moved by Mr. Ralph Townsend, seconded by Mr. Robert Oliver, That we meet again at this same place on the 22nd inst., at 9 o'clock, p.m., and that all farmers in this township embracing our views be invited to attend.

FANCY GOODS.—Albums, concertinas, accordions, writing desks, writing-deaks and work-boxes combined, workboxes, dressing cases, opera glasses, Scotch and fern work. A large cheap stock at Anderson's, east side Wyndham street.

TORONTO POST-OFFICE ROBBERY

DISCOVERY OF THE LETTERS
On Monday evening some children were out playing in the woods, about two miles west of the Toronto Iron Works, when they discovered a bundle of letters, named Lovell, first found some letters which they carried back with them to the house of a Mr. Duffy, who, after looking at the papers, took the children back with him to the bush, and a moment's search discovered, at the root of a tree, highly covered with leaves, a bundle containing all the letters stolen from the post-office about six weeks ago. All the envelopes, however, with the letters and drafts and cheques, were lying there, but no money. The Inspector is again at work with the new clue to follow.—Globe.

The Story of Sir John Eliot.
In Mr. Blake's London speech he introduced an historical incident, to which we made only a brief reference in our synopsis of the speech. Here is the narrative in Mr. Blake's own words:—

Well, sir, let us refer to one example in English history. One of the noblest, I will not say the noblest, for there are many noble men in English history—one of the noblest of them all was Sir John Eliot. He was the leader of the popular party in Parliament in the evil days of the first Charles. He alleged in Parliament that the council and judges had conspired to trample under foot the liberties of the subject. Parliament was dissolved, and after the dissolution information was procured by the King's secretary, upon which Sir John Eliot was called upon to answer for the charges so made by him. He pleaded to the jurisdiction and the privilege of Parliament. Let me read to you what the great historian Hallam says was the issue. Sir John Eliot pleaded that the only court which had the right to take cognizance of the words alleged to have been spoken by him was the High Court of Parliament. "This brought forward," says Hallam, "the great question of privilege, which the power of the House of Commons could, consequently, the character of the English Constitution seemed evidently to depend." The character of the English Constitution evidently depended upon the determination of the question whether a charge preferred in Parliament by a member of Parliament could be taken cognizance of by any other court or tribunal in the land. Well, the judges decided for the king. They ordered that Sir John Eliot should be confined to prison till he made his submission to the king. For years he lingered in prison. At any moment making his submission he might have been released. Had Parliament been in session he would have been freed at once. But Parliament in those evil days was not annually convened, and was sometimes also hurriedly prorogued. (Laughter.) And so unable to receive redress from the people or to obtain release from the Crown, he lingered in the goal. Let me read you some affecting words in which, in that close confinement which was wearing out his life, he describes his sufferings. "To be made poor and naked; to be imprisoned and restrained; nay, not to be at all; not to have the proper use of anything; not to have knowledge of society; not to have being or existence; his faculties confiscate; his friends debarred his presence; himself deprived of the world; I will not tell you all this is suffered in your service, for you, your children and posterity, to preserve your rights and liberties, that as your fathers, from you they might descend to your sons." (Loud cheers.)

His close confinement brought on consumption, and his physicians advised that to remain there was death, and that to be enlarged for a time was probably life. He appealed to the court. The court said he must make his submission to the king. He sent in a petition to the king stating what his physicians had advised and requesting an enlargement. The king returned answer that it was not humble enough. He sent in a second petition. It is short, let me read it:—"Sir, I am heartily sorry I have displeased your Majesty, and having so much humbly beseech you once again, to set me at liberty, that when I have recovered again I may return back to my prison, there to undergo such punishment as God hath allotted to me." He was told that this petition also was not humble enough, and he refused to petition. After his death his son humbly petitioned that he might have his body to be buried in the Cornish house. The ruthless King replied: "Let the body of Sir John Eliot be buried in the church of that parish wherewith he died." He was buried in the Tower; he was not a spot, but as his biographer says, "While freedom exists in England he will not want a monument." (Loud cheers.)

When next the necessities of the King drove him to call together Parliament, one of its first acts was to declare its opinion of all those proceedings, and to declare that judgment was illegal and a high breach of the privileges of Parliament. Shortly afterwards in the House of Lords, at the instance of one of his surviving friends, the judgment was brought there and was by them as the Court of the highest justice reversed as illegal and void. And at a later day, at the day of the present settlement of the British Constitution, an express declaration was inserted in the Bill of Rights in these words:—"That the freedom of speech and debates or proceedings in Parliament ought not to be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of Parliament." That was the solemn declaration affirmed by many former proceedings, sanctified by that martyr's blood, and it is his privilege and right that you are now called to violate or to sanction the violation of. (Cheers.) Are we worthy sons of such a sire? Have we brought to this side of the world the true notions of English liberty, or are we in these palmy days of freedom to forget what were the trials, and what was the expenditure of blood and of treasure, of time and pains, to secure those things which you are now told are trifles to be hung away? (Great cheering.)

Mr. L. Brennan, brother of Mr. H. A. Brennan, merchant, Galt, met with an accident at St. Catharines on Friday evening last. He had gone down to the new propeller, Asia, and it being dark did not observe the hatchway, and walked in, falling a distance of twelve feet. His collar bone was broken, and he sustained painful bruises.

Mr. Alex. Mackenzie passed through Clifton on Tuesday on the Pacific Express west.

Startling Discovery.

The Tory journals are finding a hard nut to crack in the criticisms of the English press on the prorogation. The London (Ont.) Herald, however, has solved the difficulty; it has made a discovery which reflects credit upon the keen scent of its editorial nose when on the track of Grit wickedness. It says that the cable telegram conveying the news was willfully garbled by those abominable Grits in order to mislead the English newspapers! No doubt of it, if the Herald says so. But that's not all. We may as well make a clean breast of it now. Information came into our possession some time ago which enables us to assert now that George Brown himself has written every one of those articles in the English press on our Prorogation! No wonder that they have so troubled all these honest truthful, logical Tory editors! Anticipating that prorogation would take place, the cunning old dodger summoned his editors around him, and together they concocted a set of editorials on the event, carefully adapted to the tone of the different leading London newspapers, and these the canny George carried out with him when he went to England. The London editors, profoundly ignorant—as the Herald remarks—of the situation, were only too glad to escape the trouble of bothering their heads with the question, and so they eagerly snapped up the gritty editorials, and printed them as their own. This was the real secret of George Brown's journey to England. With the knowledge of this awful iniquity locked up in his breast, our editor has let "Concealment, like a worm in the bud prey on his dark cheek." —though, by the way, he can't boast as much cheek as these Tory journals—until he could stand it no longer, especially when he saw the Herald had got on the scent, and would no doubt have arrived at the truth ere long. Less terrible, we thought, were the thunders of the Globe than the accusing voice of conscience. We warn Mr. George Brown not to try this sort of thing too often, for there is a limit beyond which even the revolutionary and anarchical Reform papers can't go. If he does it again we'll turn Tory straightway.

Ward Appropriation.

The representatives in the Council of the West Ward have undoubtedly made out a strong case in favor of the additional appropriation which they have endeavored unsuccessfully to obtain. The senior member has taken the trouble to compile a concise and complete statement, comparing the number of voters, the assessment, and the length of streets in each ward, and it was read at the Council in Committee of the whole on Monday. We intended to have presented it yesterday with some remarks, but were prevented by press of matter. Here it is:—

WEST WARD.—Number of names on voters' list, 492; total assessment, $681,470; length of streets to be improved by ward appropriation, 480 chains or six miles.

NORTH WARD.—Number of names on voters' list, 353; total assessment, $556,500; length of streets to be improved by ward appropriation, 280 chains.

SOUTH WARD.—Number of names on voters' list, 329; total assessment, $306,060; length of streets to be improved by ward appropriation, 915 chains.

EAST WARD.—Number of names on voters' list, 260; total assessment, $376,190; length of streets to be improved by ward appropriation, 185 chains.

The West Ward has therefore 65 chains more ward streets than the East and North Wards put together, and more than one-half more than the South Ward. If a calculation is made on the basis of the East Ward, with its 185 chains of ward streets, receiving $200 to repair those streets, in the same proportion of relative length of ward streets, the North Ward should receive $248, the South Ward $341, and the West Ward $519.

It is quite evident that the state of things shown by the foregoing figures cannot long continue without some remedy being applied, and the most thorough and satisfactory remedy would appear to be a division of the West Ward into two. The tendency of towns and cities to grow westward has often been remarked, and Guelph is no exception to the rule. Our West Ward greatly resembles the St. Patrick's Ward of Toronto, which is the largest and most westerly Ward of the city. Each of these two Wards has the largest proportionate length of new streets, has the largest number of new buildings, imperatively requires a large and ever increasing amount of money to be spent upon it, and at the same time is not so rich in comparison with the older and smaller Wards. Each, also, is the favorite locality for the industrious mechanic who desires to buy a lot and put up a house of his own. It will be noticed that although our West Ward assessment exceeds that of the others, the difference in the amount of assessment is much smaller than is the difference between the number of voters and between the length of streets. A two-thirds vote of the Council would be necessary to effect a division of the West Ward. It could not be carried out until the 15th of July next year, as the Consolidated Municipal Act of 1873 provides that any alteration of Ward arrangements must be made before the 15th of July in each year—probably with a view to prevent any derangement of the assessment machinery and voters' lists. The question should now be taken under practical consideration, and if the public opinion of the town is found to be in favour of it, no doubt the requisite two-thirds majority would be found to carry the proposal. Only two representatives could be elected for each Ward if the change were made, but the number of Councillors would remain nearly the same. The Council at present numbers sixteen, including the Mayor; would then number fourteen or fifteen, made up of two members from each Ward, the Reeve and probably five Councillors, and five or five-and-a-half deputies, and the equity and efficiency of the system of ward appropriations was clearly shown by the recent proceedings in the Council. Under it the money of the town cannot be expended to the best advantage for the benefit of the whole town; and the sectional feeling it promotes has been illustrated by the imputations cast upon the West Ward members for endeavoring to supply the pressing needs of their ward in the only way open to them. Judging from the ordinary municipal standard, it was perhaps putting too heavy a strain on the generosity of the other wards and their representatives; but this only shows the need for some change. Some undesired blame has been cast upon Mr. Howard in this matter. He believed there was a need for the extra appropriation, and he voted for it. It seems rather absurd to accuse him of sectionalism, when his vote was against the sectional jealousy which refused to allow one ward more money than another, no matter what the necessity for it.

Mr. W. G. Moncrieff, of London, who has supported the Ottawa Government since 1867, is out with a well-reasoned letter in condemnation of the prorogation of Parliament on the 15th and the issue of the Royal Commission.

The Hamilton Times says:—We understand that in honor of the peculiar victory they won on the 13th, the immediate supporters of Sir John A. Macdonald intend hereafter to call themselves pro-rogues, to distinguish themselves from Conservatives who opposed prorogation.

The late news from Spain, showing the virtual alliance existing between the Carlists and the Communists, between the men who would like to restore the Inquisition and the men who deny the Deity, ought to convince any one of the true nature of the conflict now raging in the Peninsula. The Madrid Government represents the cause of order and progress, and the sympathies of the world should be theirs. The Republicans form the only party there which even pretends to avow principles which liberal people out of Spain can tolerate.

As a specimen of the profound reasoning of some newspapers, we present the following choice morsel from the London Herald, agent of the English criticisms on the prorogation:—

"It is quite evident that the writers in all of these journals are profoundly ignorant of the situation upon which they descend. This is established by the fact that the London Globe starts upon its critique with a palpable untruth. It says 'The Canadian Government has shrunk from a public investigation of the Pacific Railway scandal.'"

How unkind and unjust of the English newspapers to make such improper insinuations! Doesn't it show their ignorance? Why, poor Sir John was in such a hurry for an investigation that he wouldn't let Parliament meet for fear they would delay the enquiry!

CHAPTER XXXVII.
BERNARD HAYES AND DICK MATTOCKS IN SE-CRET CONFERENCE, AS THEY SUPPER.
Philip's blood absolutely boiled in his veins as he gazed at the ruffian, and reflected that the pure and gentle Annabel had been given up to him, and it required all the power of restraint in his nature to prevent him from rushing upon him. He was able to resist the impulse only by further reflecting that she was now virtually delivered from him; that never again should he go near her to insult or terrify her; and that ere perhaps an hour had gone he would call him to a heavy reckoning for all the past.
With this hope before him, he crushed down his furious resentment, and remained silent and passive.

The parlour of the Blue Bear was neither crowded nor noisy that night. Two or three of the villagers were enjoying themselves in a quiet fashion over a game of dominoes, and one solitary commercial traveller was seated at a table writing off his day's orders for the post.
That was all which gave the place the appearance of other than a private house.
Outside, the same stillness prevailed,
the market square and the street beyond, being almost wholly free of loungers or pedestrians.

As the time passed Dick cast many a discontented look towards the door, as if tired of waiting for the coming of him whom he expected. Then he drew forth the letter he had received at the post office, and re-perused it.

Suddenly he started, bent his head forward, and listened. Evidently he heard something, for he quickly returned the letter to his pocket, rose, and quitted the room.

The landlord, who was with the others in the private room, heard the same noise and made a hasty signal to the rest.
" 'Tis the sound of wheels—he's coming," he whispered. "I'll put out the light; then you can stand at the window and see him arrive, while I go and receive him as I do all guests."

By the time the landlord had got to the front entrance the sound of the coming vehicle was heard as it rattled over the stones of the neighbouring street, and when it was about to enter the market place the ostler emerged from the kitchen with a brilliant light which strongly illuminated the whole front of the inn. Philip and Jim guessed that this had been done on purpose that they might obtain a clear view of the new comer, who just then made his appearance in a two-seated gig, which he pulled up sharp at the inn door.

"I hope you are well, sir," said the landlord.

"Thank you, Mr. Barstead. I thank you very much for the expression of that hope; and I am grateful to be able to add that I am at present in the enjoyment of good health, which may be considered wonderful seeing the great harassing work I have to undergo. But I know the source of that and every blessing, Mr.
Barstead, and I duly show my appreciation by attending to the appetite which a good Providence gives me. Therefore if you will have the exceeding goodness to provide me with supper, I shall partake of the same with due thankfulness."

"All right, sir. Shall we serve it in a private room, or in the commercial room?"

"I am a modest man, Mr. Barstead, and do not affect unnecessary public appearance. Therefore, if agreeable and convenient to you, I would prefer to eat in private, especially as I expect to meet with—oh, ah, yes," he added, as at this moment Dick made his appearance, "how do you do, Richard? I am glad to meet with you again. I hope you have not been waiting long?"

"Near about an hour," answered Dick.

"Dear me, so long? But do not repine on that account, Richard; for the exercise of patience is highly beneficial to body and mind, and if during the hour you have waited you have been properly engaged, my delay in coming will not have been to your disadvantage. How is that afflicted young person, your sister?"

"No better," answered Dick.

"Ah, that is sad; but we have all our trials. This phase of mortal pilgrimage, Mr. Barstead, has been fittingly designated a vale of tears."

"So I've heard, sir. But we ain't all alike, sir; some are worse nor others."

"You speak very truly, Mr. Barstead; very truly indeed."

By this time the hostler had got the horse and gig in charge, and the new arrival—proceeded by the landlord and followed by Dick Mattocks—had entered the commercial room, where Mr. Barstead asked them to remain till supper could be served in the private room. Next moment he had joined Philip and Jim in the private parlour.

"Well, gentlemen," he breathlessly whispered, "is he the man you suspected?"

"The very man," responded Jim.

REMOVAL.

W. D. Hepburn & Comp'y

Have removed their Boot and Shoe Store to the very extensive premises on the Corner of Wyndham-st. and St. George's Square.

Their old store being too small on account of the continual increase in the Wholesale Manufacturing, as well as in the Retail Departments, they have now fitted up the new and much larger place in first-class style, and would intimate to their very numerous customers and the public generally that, having increased the facilities for manufacturing they are now able to offer to the public first-rate goods in all branches, at lower prices than ever before.

Custom Work in all its Branches made

TO ORDER.

Repairing neatly and cheap as heretofore.

The public are cordially invited to visit the new store, and examine our

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Sore-ness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding
at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.
