MODEL MONOPOLY.

The People Preparing to Bumble the New York Central.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—The railway interests this year are actively lobbying and the people are preparing to take issue with the New York Central monopoly. The issue is no narrow one to obtain cheap or special rites in favor of this man or that one. It is a matter of principle. Vanderbilt's theory, as publicly asserted by his hired attorneys, is that this New York Central'is a private highway—its books and its income not subject to legislative control and supervision. The people take issue, and the legislature, no less than the law officer of the attack known as the attorneys general that it was for the common weal that the deputation waited on them, and not to make dictatory suggestions to the bench. THE LAW OF EVIDENCE.

Mr. Denison then pointed out the difficulty experienced by the police in getting evidence to convict. If there was no robbery in the house, if there was no row in the house, it the neighbors say they never heard any disturbance in the house, you cannot molest them. The police have been aware of this for years, and show how difficult it is to convict them. Five or six houses have been raid of late, and in two of them liquor was found, and the chief of police says he thinks he can convict them. startled with a report that Miss S. Killet was robbed of money and notes to a considerable amount. Suspicion rested on some young men of the village, especially on one very respectable young man who moved to the far west about that time. But strange to say the lost money was found in a closet among some old boots and brushes. Then suspiciou of having secreted the money fell upon a grass widow of the same village. Miss S. Killet then called two respectable men of the village as witnesses, forbidding the grass widow ever to step across her doorstep again. OTHER TOWNS.

Within three or four weeks a dozen other towns will be submitted to Toronto investors. Some are good: most are bad.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 22, 1882.

Mr. M. H. Gault. M. P., will at an early day interrogate the Dominion government if they have considered the propriety of assuming control of the telegraph system of Canada and of making it a part of the postal service as in England. It is not likely that the postmaster-general will be able to say that the subject has been seriously considered by the government. But the fact will remain that the feeling i growing among the people that the telegraph system is the complement of the pestal service and ought to be under the Ryerson was in every way worthy of a control of the government. EVEN THE PRACTICE OF ARRANGING the men in class-lists, exhibiting the degree of merit with which they passed their examinations, is dying out. The following paradiscussion, though it may be somewhat graph shows how things are going in Engpremature to urge it upon the attention of land:

The mathematical tripos at Cambridge has been abolished. On Jan. 27, there was one of the larges assemblies ever known in the senate house to see the degrees conferred. The action of the railway committee in throwing out the till to confirm the agree ment entered into some time ago between the Toronto, Grey and Bruce and the Grand Trunk, whereby the latter was to secure control of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce said as much then, and it was on his words of yesterday that the committee acted. Mr. Pardee and those who voted with him think that it is a matter for the courts to settle as to who is really entitled to control the Toronto, Grey and Bruce—whether it should remain in the hauds of the North.

TIME TORONTO, GREY AND BRUCE.

The action of the railway committee in throwing out the till to confirm the agree ment entered into some time ago between the Toronto, Grey and Bruce and the Grand Trunk, whereby the latter was to secure control of the former, was not unexpected. Indeed Mr. Pardee in his address to the deputations from the municipalities along the line of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce said as much then, and it was on his words of measurement of the trying period that will be a seen from the following statement:

Mr. Hunter asked for an extension of time to fill his contract of delivering stone and it was granted. Robert Pollock sent in a communication offering to supply stone at $15 per toise. Communication filed.
The commissioner was instructed to report the cost of extending Arthur and Hope streets.

The city commissioner or whoever has charge of the streets made a poor fist of effect that 30 per cent. of the full value of effect that 30 per cent. of the full value of effect that 30 per cent.

After the accounts were read and passed considerable discussion took place upon the exemption of streets with local improvements from a share in keeping those streets in repair, but the chairman ruled that the question was irrelevent. Ald. Turner suggested that hereafter contracts for street paving be let the fall previous to the summer the work was to be done.

The commissioner submitted his modified report, which was to the effect that objectionable signs be removed by a proper officer, with the authority and approval of the board, that hereafter no signs be put Little wonder, therefore, that the very name of the Ærsa should have become almost a synonym for strength and reliability, and that it secures so preferential a hold upon the esteem of those who wish to make sure provision for dependent ones, or for their own advancing years. Its endowment policies have yielded such favorable results to those of our dizens who have had then mature, and drawn their money, and the fall deposit of the reserve upon them at Ottawa makes their repayment so unquestionably who have had then mature, and drawn their money, and the fall deposit of the reserve upon them at the tawa makes their, repayment so unquestionably sure, that they are attracting much attention on the part of persons having money to igvest. Only yesterday one of our most active business men received the $5000 which had accumulated in his favor during the past ten years, but some time previously had doubled his investment with the company by taking another $5000 on the same sondownent plan. In a few days a bereaved family in London, Ont., will receive $400, the result of $400 invested in a ten-year endowment bond under date of Dec. 23rd last, for the contract affords life insurance as well as a first-class investment.

In giving us the information about the company which we have thus summarized, Mr. Orr, the well known chif manager of its Canadian business, mentions that it will be sixteen years, next Saturday, since he left the editorial staff of the Dally Globe, in this city, for Montreal, to take part in the Ætna's management, in which city the Eastern Branch of the Company's Dominion business is still carried on by his firm—Messrs. Orr & Christmas, At that time the premiums received scarce footed up to $10,000 a year in B. N. A., while at the present time they run close upon $400,000, with nearly $12,000,000 of insurance in force.

which caused ladies to retire from the gallery, and led to his being charged with advocating free-love. The market fees bill led to a long discussion, representatives from cities opposing it, and those from rural onstituencies favoring it. Mr. Bell made a "sarkastical" speech, speaking of farmers as "lords of the soil," but seriously charging them with dirtying the streets of Toronto, as if that were possible.

Mr. Mowat introduced a bill respecting the jurisdiction of the court of appeal.

A number of bills were read a third time

Mr. Mowat moved that the house approve of the distribution of a balance of the setate of Alex. McBain among the creditors of a relative, who had obtained possession of it, and had credit given to him on account of it, although McBain was illegitimate. He said the estate was a small one, only $706. He thought that they night thus deal with it, although the supreme court had decided against outerios elain to escheated property.

Mr. Meredith said it would be better not to deal with the estate until the privy council had decided as to Ontario's claim.

Mr. Lauder said enquiry had been made as to another large estate, the Cawthra estate, to see if it should not escheat. Such enquiry should not be made unless there was something to go upon. He was glad addifferent policy had been adopted from that in the Mercer case. A young lady in Soctland had inherited an earldom and a large estate whose parents were no more married than the parents of Andrew Mercer, because the father had said the woman was his wife. I llegitimate children should inherite where there were no legitimate ones. If he wished to find out the feeling in regard to that, let him bring in a bill providing for the descent of property in that manner.

Mr. Prasser said Mr. Lander was advocating free love in saying illegitimate children should inherit where there were no legitimate ones. If he wished to find out the feeling in regard to that, let him bring in a bill providing for the descent of property in that manner.

Mr. Oreighton said that there was any herity when there were no legitimate ones. If he wished to find out the feeling in regard to that, let him bring in a bill providing for the descent of property in that manner.

Mr. Oreighton said that the innocent children were punished for the sins of their parents, and sithough there was a monglete and the series of the sins of their parents, and sithough there was a complete injustice to deause it was a complete injustice to deause it was a complete on the vision and the had account of the complete of

Mr. Wood explained the objections which there were to this, and no change was made.

A long discussion ensued as to the place of holding exhibitions, members being of the opinion that the west was inclined to monopolize the exhibition. Jealousy of Toronto was especially shown because of its great advantages.

Mr. Young said it was the influence of Toronto since it had established the industrial exhibition, erected buildings, and the farmers as it was for buildings which were not used by them.

A number of other members spoke and the bill was read a second time.

Mr. Crooks spoke of the educational work of Dr. Ryerson, and the house adjourned to 420 p.m. tomorrow to give members a chance to attend his funeral.

sharp discussion on the right to be the only great one, which was stirring up such opposition to the association exhibition.

Mr. Merrick moved to strike out a clause which made the holding of a provincial exhibition every year optional, believing that it was the sense of the house that one should be held annually.

Mr. Wood opposed, saying the clause had been recommended by the association. The motion was lost.

Neither this bill nor the one to provide for the construction of water works, which was also under consideration, was finished. The eviderce act was reported with a alight amendment.

for the construction of water works, which was also under consideration, was finished.

The eviderce act was reported with a alight amendment.

Mr. Wood moved the second reading of the bill respecting market fees. He drew a distinction between county gravel roads charging tells, and market places in towns. The farmers paid a large proportion of the tolls, while the towns people paid little of the market fees. Towns people also enjoyed the market houses, while farmers had only outside accommodation. They had framed the bill as justly as possible, freeing some articles from tolls, and letting people make bargains and sell hay, straw, etc., without taking it to market or getting it weighed. Some considered that the cities had a vested right in market fees and these must be respected.

Mr. Meredith said the rights of the minority should be protected. It was too was passed that the pointed to the total that effect.

A Dual Marriage—Miss M. E. Rutherford and Mr. Alex. Ford—Miss Ada Rutherford and Mr. Geo. S. Crawford-A Brilliant Assem-

A double marriage is an event of no con mon occurence, and much interest attache to it when the contracting parties move in the upper pale of fashion's whirl. The dual hymenal event of yesterday caused a great stir in society and afforded a pleasing sight and lots of excitement for a large number of maids and matrons, with a fair sprinkling of young men who perhaps contemplate marriage.

THE FIRST EVENT. As early as 10 o'clock carriages began to pull up at the main entrance to St. Michael's cathedral, and out of them came handsomely dressed men and women, while Policemen Arthur Taylor and Bowers graciously kept the drizzling rain off the costly headgear of the ladies with their umbrellas. At five minutes to eleven a carriage containing four pretty young ladies drove up, and a whisper went through the crowd "the bridesmaids." A through the crowd "the bridesmaids." A few seconds afterwards came the bride, Miss Ada Rutherford, daughter of Mr. E. A. Rutherford of "Northfield," Jarvis street. The groom, Mr. Geo. S. Crawford, cashier of the bank of Montreal, was in readiness and the party moved up the centre aisle, while the organ pealed forth a wedding march. The bridal party repaired when the party repaired when t to the vestry in rear of the altar, where the ceremony was performed by Archbishop Lynch, assisted by Chancellor McCann. Lynch, assisted by Chancellor McCann.
The altar was nicely illuminated, but the crowd in the church were disappointed that the ceremony took place out of sight. They were, however, well rewarded by hearing Miss Tillie Myers render in splendid style the Ave Maria by Nicolai and O Salutaris by Bassini, with organ accompaniments by Mr. Lemaitre. When the party emerged from the vestry again the wedding march sounded out.

THE SECOND CEREMONY. THE SECOND CEREMONY.

All attention was now turned to St.

James' cathedral, where the sister of Miss Ada—beg pardon, she was Mrs. Ada then—Miss M. E. Rutherford was to be joined in wedlock with Mr. Alex. Ford, barrister. When the party arrived at the church about 11.20 a great crowd had assembled, and although it was very sloppy outside and slushy shoes the rule, it did not pre-

Scheme for Amalgamating the Toronto, Grey and Bruce and Grand Trunk railways,

The railway committee was yesterday agreement for amalgamation between th Toronto, Grey and Bruce and Grand Trunk railway companies. Nearly all the mem bers were in their places, and there were number of railway men and lawyers present for and against the bill.

The bill recites the act of last session authorizing the amalgamation of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce with any other company or companies, provided that the assent of at least two-thirds of the shareholders were obtained, and that the company of at least two-thirds of the snareholders were obtained, and that the company should not enter into such agreement with the Northern, North Western or Great Western company, unless with the consent of the lieut-governor in council, and that before such consent should be given the

Mr. Chisholm, reeve of Owen Sound, and director of the road, representing the country of Gray, said that when the county aided the road to the extent of $300,000 they were promised that it would be an independent road, and were strongly opposed to any scheme which would destroy the companity and were strongly opposed to any scheme which would destroy the companity of the company at which the agreement was at itself was not a general meeting of the company at which the agreement was ratified was not a general meeting of the company, but a meeting for a special purpose, and there was nothing in any act relating to the company from which the rights of bondholders to interfere in such an esting could be inferred. and although it was very sloppy outside and slushy shoes the rule, it did not prevent the throng from utilizing the cushionsed seats as a means of elevation to see all that was going on. When the party entered the main aisle, the bride leaning on her fathers' arm, Mendelsshon's War March came forth from the great organ overhead. The marriage ceremony here was performed by Bishop Sweetnam, assisted by Rev. O. P. Ford, brother of the groom. The first part of the service was read by Mr. Ford, and the ceremony was repeated in the case of Mr. Crawford and his bride, he of course being a Roman Catholic. Mr. Doward, the organist, had a splendid musical program arranged and consisted of the March Romaine by Gunod, the March of the Prophete by Meyerbeer, and Mendelsshon's Wedding March at the close.

The dresses and attending march at the committee would do justice to the country and the railroad.

THE BOUNDARY AWARD Likely to be Settled out of Court and Ontari

A gentleman from Ottawa, well inform ed in politics and a conservative, says Sir John has made a mistake in his attitude on the boundary question. But he says he was forced into it by the "bleus" of Quebec. The means by which Sir John will release himself is to get the boundary question in as an issue between Ontario and Manitoba and then bring pressure on Norquay, the premier of Manitoba, to give in to Ontario. By this means Ontario will get her own, Mr. Meredith and his followers will have a chance to straighten themselves before the people of the province, and Manitoba will get some "better terms," and the "bleus" will be "sold."
