A pound package makes 200 cups. "At all prices."

"Yes, I consent it." Clarke laid a hand on Janoc's elbow, and the two walked away.

As for Antonio, in an ecstasy of excitement he cast his eyes and arms on high together, crying out, "O Do not mind me, I am being now sufficiently recovered to attend to her duties, which I have not neglected for a moment."

"Your brother is arrested!" he cried. With her clenched fists drawn back, she glared crazily at him, and her face reddened for a little while, as if she were furious at the outrage and suddenness of his news.

Then her cheeks whitened, she went faint, sank back into the shelter of the hall, and lay motionless against an inner door, her eyes closed, her lips parted.

"Oh, Pauline, be brave!" said Antonio, and he stroked her forehead.

"After a time, without opening her eyes, she asked:

"What proofs have they?"

"They have found the daggers in his trunk."

"I have the daggers!"

"No, that woman who lived here, your supposed friend, Miss March, stole the daggers from you, and Janoc secured them from her."

"There is a reason. Plump, well-formed men and women assimilate what they eat. This, araveny ones do not do. They are unable to assimilate what they eat."

"It is not a lead to jaded nerves, but a generous discovery."

"This new discovery puts on firm, solid flesh at the rate of ten to thirty pounds a month in many cases."

"Best of all, the flesh 'stays put.'"

"The treatment is furnished in concentrated tablet form. A week's supply can be carried in the vest pocket."

apparently she thought it was Janoc who had come, and with fixed, mournful eyes she gazed into the profundities of vacancy, she continued to stare at the floor. Her face and air were so pitiable that the hearts of the men smote them into dumbness.

Then, half-conscious of some new thing, she must have caught sight of two men instead of the usual one, for she looked up sharply; and another moment was she yielding to her distress, when she sobbed, trying at one instant to be herself and calm, when she laughed, and the next she put out her hand to Osborne in a last effort to be graceful and usual; then she yielded the struggle and fainted in his arms.

Furnace produced a scotch-bottle and a crushed cup, such as it was his habit to do, to present them to her nose. . . . But she did not revive, so Osborne took her in his arms and carried her, as though she were a child, up the stone steps, and up the wooden and out to the cab. Furnace allowed him to drive alone with her, himself following behind in another cab, which was a most singular proceeding on the part of a detective who had arrested a man accused of an atrocious murder. Half-way to Portchester Gardens Road, he opened her eyes and a wild, heart-rending cry came from her parched lips. (To be continued.)

New Discovery which was Awarded Gold Medal at Brussels

The Mirror shows plainer than words what a wonderful improvement may be realized by a gain of even 10 or 12 pounds.

Lean, lank, skinny, scrawny men and women should take advantage of this ten day Free offer before it expires.

Nothing is more embarrassing than extreme thinness.

It is plump, well-developed man who 'cuts the melons' and has the fun socially.

Scrawny, 'skinny' women are seldom popular. We all admire fine figures. No dressmaker can hide a bony, skinny form.

There is a reason. Plump, well-formed men and women assimilate what they eat. This, araveny ones do not do. They are unable to assimilate what they eat.

Coal From Under The Ocean

Hoisted by a Rope Over a Mile Long

Few people have any idea of the depth and magnitude of a good size coal mine. For instance, few people who are using Broad Cove coal today, realize that the coal is taken from a place fourteen hundred feet below the sea level and about a half a mile out to sea, from whence it is hoisted in miniature trains of ten cars (each car of one ton capacity) at about the rate of twenty miles an hour, by a steel wire rope which is over a mile long. While the men, sitting on the coal hundreds of feet under ground, oceans lie floating directly over their heads.

There are two characteristics of the coal from this mine which make it the most popular coal for household use in Eastern Canada. The first is that it does not put over or color when burning and the second, and probably the most pleasing characteristic, it is so free from soot that it is used in the kitchen range or small heating stove, without the least fear of any soot trouble, so common with all other soft coals. When burned in a kitchen range a small quantity of soot that is necessary to make a fire hot and that coal is used for household use.

Proprietors of this coal are justly proud of their product, and much cheaper than any other coal, it is ideal for open stoves. As everybody aptly put it, every cent is a penny, a penny is a cent. Household who have not tried this coal may obtain a sample from almost any dealer in the weekly magazines. If their dealer does not handle it, Mr. F. M. Bell, of this city, would be glad to furnish a list of the dealers in his section of New Brunswick who do. Some day you are going to use Broad Cove coal, why not today? No doubt some of your friends are using it, ask them about it. Samples for household use and slack for steam.

HARDSHIPS WERE TOO MUCH FOR ONE MAN

Passengers on Stalled Train Were Down to One Biscuit a Day

(Canadian Press)

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—One of the most thrilling tales of starvation ever recorded from a railroad accident was told here today by passengers of the Western Pacific train No. 7, which left Salt Lake City on Jan. 21 and was overtaken by landslides near Virginia, California.

The passengers made their way to this city after suffering frightful hardships. They were carried for miles upon a train made up of hand cars, after climbing over the mountain-like piles of dirt and rock which hemmed in the train.

The food supply grew so short that the passengers had to content themselves with one biscuit a day while making the hand car journey. One passenger, John Kelly of Sierraville, Cal., died.

CITY GOVERNMENT

The Standard says:—"It is no secret to those who have followed intelligently the course of events that during the past year the city's debt has been decreased, the interest charges reduced, and the expenditure of all the departments kept within the estimates. In some instances capital expenditures have been paid out of revenue and there has been continued improvement in the collection of taxes and water rates. All these results, it may surprise many of the advocates of a commission to learn have been accomplished under the present form of civic government."

Also under the present form of civic government we had during the past year, the Hassam paving investigation, the market enquiry, the board of works investigation that was promised but never made, the usual waste of money in street repairs, the continuation of a two-years wrangle over the transfer of the west side lots, the continuation of a ferry policy which now threatens an interruption of this service at the busiest season, the frequently unsatisfactory water service on both sides of the harbor, and numerous other evidences of the utter inefficiency of the present city council system.

It is but small comfort to know that less money was spent than might have been spent, when you know you did not get value for the money. The Standard speaks in high praise of the controller. So does every citizen. But the controller is not the city council, and does not control its action. The Standard makes this further observation and admission:—"The great leniency towards incompetent officials who have occupied high positions has been a weakness of past councils."

It is not true, as the Standard also states, that this leniency has been largely due to "the sympathetic attitude of many citizens," or that a mandate from the people is required to strengthen the hands of the aldermen in such cases. They have all the power that is necessary to secure the most efficient service. What is needed is such a change in the system of city government as will provide for direct responsibility and a business-like administration. That would be ensured by the adoption of the commission plan.

A FARMER'S VIEW
Mr. William E. Fawcett, of Sackville, who was one of the spokesmen of the great farmers' delegation to Ottawa, writes to the Daily Telegraph endorsing in the strongest terms the proposed trade agreement with the United States. Mr. Fawcett knows about farming in both the east and the west. The only criticism he has to offer upon the agreement is that the tariff reduction on farm implements should have been greater, and he declares that the agreement if ratified will be the most widely popular and unanimously supported measure ever brought before the Canadian people.

Mr. Fawcett advises the manufacturers to offer less gratuitous advice to the farmers, and be thankful that they have come off so well. "If," says Mr. Fawcett, "your goods will not compete, put some better method and better materials into them. If your factories will not yield the profit desired, squeeze one-half the water out of your merger stock—and your dividend will be doubled. Improve your time, and make the most of the large measure of protection still retained; for the farmers and people generally are growing very tired of nursing such persistent and costly pests as our 'infant industries' have proved to be."

THE LAND TAX
The campaign in favor of placing taxes upon land values and exempting improvements grows more widespread. It is stated that those western cities which have adopted the principle of taxing land values and exempting improvements are thoroughly satisfied with the results that have been obtained, and show no inclination to restore the older methods of raising revenue. The Rev. Charles Anderson South, of Cambridge, England, in a letter to the Manchester Guardian, says of the conditions in Vancouver, B. C.:—"If one were to ask some of the leaders of local politics what were the further causes of its prosperity, they would at once refer to the 'single tax' and the principle of taxing unearned increment on land. The benefit to the city is seen in

THE LAST LEAF
(By Oliver Wendell Holmes.)
I saw him on the porch,
Ere the pruning-knife of Time
And again
The pavements rustled round,
As he totters o'er the ground
With his cane.
They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning-knife of Time
Cut him down
Not a better man was found
By the Crier on his round
Through the town.
But now he walks the streets
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and weary,
And he shakes his feeble head,
That it seems as if he said,
"They are gone."
The mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he has pressed
In their bloom,
And the names he loved to hear
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb.
My grandmamma has said—
Poor old lady, she is dead
Long ago—
But she had a Roman nose,
And his cheek was like a rose
In the snow.
But now his nose is thin,
And it rests upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a croak is in his back,
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh.
I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!
And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old foreman laugh
Where I cling.

THE JOKE COLUMN

"What does the plain honest Christian citizen think of it all?"
Gentle reader, the above query put by the St. John Standard, does not refer to the condition of the roads in the province of New Brunswick. It merely relates to the "utterly shameful" conduct of the Laurier government, its abandonment of all "pretensions to decency" its "questionable acts and shady transactions," its "damnable science," its "partners and pals," its "easy virtue," the "cynical brazenness of the political prostitute," the "notorious perverter of public morals," the "one family, shared with the same trash and wearied by the same predatory hunting garb." And the Standard audly wails:—"What do the honest men of Canada think of it all, the preachers who preach, the Christian men who believe in private morality and the multitude that still preserves a love of public honor and honest standards in public life?"

Without presuming to speak for everybody, the Times is disposed to believe that most people think the Standard has been driven by political hunger to the verge of hysteria.

What the people think is of course a matter of importance. What the Standard thinks is no importance to anybody. Its appeal to the public on religious grounds will perhaps pass muster as a joke. The Standard itself is a joke.

The Standard once more produces the portrait of Mr. Crockett, M.P. Why this slight put on Dr. Daniel? There are two tory members for New Brunswick. If the Ludlow should be laid off to be overhauled, and a tugboat service provided, this would clearly be an argument against the adoption of a different plan of city government in St. John. Would it?

Carleton county fruit growers have organized to advance the interests of the industry in that part of the province. This is another evidence of the development of a new spirit of enterprise in New Brunswick.

A Montreal mother went to a moving picture show, leaving two little children alone at home. In her absence they were burned to death. A mother who would so leave her children must have been heartless in the extreme.

The Standard says in glaring headlines that "London views reciprocity with alarm." In the article, however, Hon. Mr. Birrell said he rejoiced and wished Canada well in her enterprise. It is only the party that seeks to get into power on the tariff issue that betrays any alarm. The like is true in Canada.

The address on the commission plan of city government to be delivered at the opera house next Tuesday evening by Mr. Ernest A. Sherman of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, should be heard by a crowded house. Mr. Sherman was a member of the city council of Cedar Rapids before it adopted the commission plan, and was one of the first commissioners under the new plan. He is therefore able to compare the two systems, with a personal knowledge of the working of both of them.

QUEER
Reuben—Josh says that city feller give him a hundred an' some odd dollars for that house o' his.
Silas—You ain't heard the hull of it. When he took them dollars to the bank he found they was all odd—The Catholic Standard and Times.

A LECTURE
(Utica Globe.)
"I can't praise temperance more effectively," says Booker T. Washington, "than in the words of old Uncle Calhoun Webster, of Nola Chucky."
"When I see a man a-goin' home wid a gallon o' whiskey an' a half pound o' meat, dat's temperance lecture enough for me—an' I sees it every day. An' I knows dat eberything in dat man's house an on de same scale—a gallon o' misery to ebery half pound o' comfort."
THE RABBI'S REPLY.
(Newark N. J. Star.)
It happened in a crowded street car that Rabbi Hirsch had arisen to give his seat to a young woman, but before she could take it a burly young fellow laid into it.
The Rabbi looked very meaningfully at him and, after an uncomfortable silence, the young fellow finally blurted out: "Well, what are you glarin' at me for? Want to get me?"
"No," calmly replied the Rabbi, "I am forbidden to eat you—I am a Jew!"
A LAPSE OF MEMORY.
(Saturday Evening Post.)
When land allotments were being made to the Indians in the old Indian territory by the Dawes Commission those allotments were based on the shades of blood in the Indians and the time of birth of their children—that is, full bloods got so much, half bloods so much, and children born before and after a certain time so much. It was very complicated and writes press were called to establish these points.
A negro woman who had married an Indian was on the stand. She had testified that a child whose birth was in question had been born in '83.
"Eighty-three," repeated the counsel.
"Was it 1783, 1883, or 1983?"
"Deed, mistuh," she said, "I don't know!"
CARRYING HIS OWN FLX PAPER.
A seat near the radiator was the only one vacant in the waiting room when an old man came in carrying several packages. He laid all his bundles beside the seat, then he picked up one, a long square package, and looked about in perplexity.
"I don't dare get this near those steam pipes," he explained to the conductor, "I got it to take with me to Mexico. I won't sure I could get with any there, an' I wanted to be prepared. Fies bother me, and I like to swallow my share of them."

FREE KINDERGARTEN

Although the enrollment of children during January was large the average attendance was small on account of the very cold weather, and the sickness which still prevails in the form of whooping-cough and chicken-pox.

After reviewing the Christmas thought the New Year was taken up—the topic. The months, the days and the division of days into hours came first, leading up to time as told by the clock. Each day, as their calendar was marked by a piece of bright paper for a fine day or a grey piece for a day with no sunshine, the little people counted to find out how old the New Year was. They realize from the study of the time-keeper, the clock, punctuality, neatness and order. The voice of the time-keeper must be obeyed, because if we disobey, everything goes wrong, it listened to these:

“Time for work and time for fun,
“Time for rest when day is done.”
Ways of telling time before clocks were invented were of special interest and the face, hands, number places, pendulum, etc. of our every day clock were studied. Calendars showing division of a month and clocks with strikes and rings and clay work were some of the occupations of the month.

“Without entering on abstract argument for or against State ownership and working of telegraphs, the balance of advantage in this case appears to us to lie with the public ownership and operators of the cables in the British West Indies, and possibly of the whole system northward to Halifax.”

“We would hope that this might be arranged by the Imperial Government (on its own behalf, or with view to subsequent transfer to the West Indian colonies) in conference with the Canadian Government.”

“The single cables now connecting Halifax with Bermuda and Bermuda with Jamaica ought either to be duplicated or supplemented by wireless. A cable should be laid between Bermuda and Barbados with a branch to Trinidad, and perhaps another to British Guiana, sometimes single and sometimes duplicate, are in many cases very old. The bed of this part of the Caribbean being trying for cables, we believe it would be found advantageous in most cases not to renew them, but to replace them by wireless installations. If these were well arranged they might form a satisfactory connection between the eastern islands and Jamaica, and unnecessary duplication of the suggested Bermuda-Barbados cable. While it is desirable to connect British Honduras with Jamaica, we consider that the probable volume of traffic would not warrant the cost of a cable. We therefore recommend the employment of wireless for the purpose. Small installations should also be supplied to the outlying Leeward and Banana Islands.”

FALLING HAIR

Mr. Jas. Harris, of Wappella, Sask., says:—“I have found Parman Sage to be the best scalp and hair tonic and dressing I have ever used. My hair had been coming out in comb full and was very dry and brittle, and the scalp was always itching and full of dandruff. I have used two bottles of Parman Sage and it has made my hair fine and soft and I would not be without this fine hair tonic for many times the price. For women, men, or children Parman Sage is without any doubt the best preparation for the hair, and it is free from grease, and it might be used to relieve every member of the family could use it daily. Last month I bought 50 cents at all druggists or from the proprietors, The Groux Mfg. Co., Port Erie, Ont., postpaid. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Sold and guaranteed by E. J. Mahoney and A. Chinn Smith & Co., also sold and guaranteed in Fairville by Allen's Fairville Drug Co.”

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

“P ASSAIC, N. J.—The diamond engagement ring as a symbol of plighted faith is a symbol of inferiority,” according to Dr. M. O. Kershet, a physician, whose engagement to Miss Gertrude Risker has just been announced.

“At the reception where the announcement was made Dr. Kershet surprised the guests by giving Miss Risker a set of elegantly bound books by Victor Hugo, Balzac, George Bernard Shaw, Ibsen, Tolstoy, Zangwill and others, instead of an engagement ring.”

“So announces a newspaper item.

“A most interesting and intellectual departure, surely, but it seems to me that the very reason Dr. Kershet urged this innovation is the reason that will make it unlikely to become a custom—

“This is his argument—

“In times long ago a man either captured his female partner or purchased her from her parents with presents. When she was his, he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was worn as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear in the light of personal property. Miss Risker will not be my chattel, but my equal, my companion and helpmeet.”

“I am afraid that Dr. Kershet is reckoning without feminine instincts in his desire to dispense of the ring because it is the mark of possession.

“For whether she admit it or not, the average woman, however the most, however intellectual, however superior to her masculine acquaintances she may be, WANTS TO BE POSSESSED.

“I was reading in some biography the other day—I can't seem to think just what it was—of a woman to whom her fiancé offered a diamond locket with their pictures in it, and the conventional ‘I love you’ ‘The idea of the locket is the best,’ says the biographer, ‘because it would be different, but she finally chose the ring because it seemed to mark her as more particularly his.’

“For the very reason, you see, for which Dr. Kershet would condemn it. Woman wants to be pursued.

“She wants to be captured.

“There's no use blinking it. There's no use trying to theorize it away. Whether it's the best way for her to be won, that's the way she does for.

“The woman who is lonely without her drunken husband to beat her has plenty of ‘sisters under the skin’ in all ranks of society.

“No, Dr. Kershet, you may be right in your ideal, but you are miles, or rather centuries, away from actual conditions.

“We may be capable of being companions and helpmeets, but I am afraid we are likely to love best the lovers who have enough of the caveman left in them to want us to be property, too.”

Daily Hints for the Cook

POTATO SOUP.
Shred a large onion in three pints of milk, add two stalks of celery, cut fine, in a double boiler and let it come to a boil. In the meantime pare and boil six or seven medium sized potatoes; when done, mash thoroughly, beat light and add to the boiling milk, put in a lump of butter equal to two tablespoonsful, when melted, season with salt and pepper, and put through a sieve and serve at once.

SCRAMBLED MUTTON.
Take three cupfuls of cold mutton chopped fine, three tablespoonsful of hot water, and a piece of butter the size of an egg; place on stove, and when hot, break in three eggs, and constantly stir until the eggs are cooked, enough to make gravy, and let simmer a few moments. This makes an old or tough chicken almost equal to a fried spring chicken.

STEWED CHICKEN FRIED.
Take a nice plump chicken, joint and place in a kettle with sufficient water, season to taste, and cook until tender. Then remove the meat, and fry in butter and fry a delicate brown in fat, with small quantity of butter or lard, then add some of the broth, enough to make gravy, and let simmer a few moments. This makes an old or tough chicken almost equal to a fried spring chicken.

RISsoles.
Make a nice paste and roll out thin; have some meat chopped very fine, and sprinkle on half of the paste; cover with the other half, and roll up, and with the rolling pin; cut in squares, of you can use a biscuit cutter, and fry in hot lard to a light brown.

INDEPENDENT CONSERVATIVE VIEW OF THE TARIFF AGREEMENT

Ottawa Journal Sees More to Commend the Trade Compact Than Can Be Argued Against It—Considered From Several View Points

(Ottawa Journal, Independent Conservative)

Something like definite currents of opinion in this country on the merits of the reciprocity proposition with the United States are beginning to be evident. Most people seem now inclined to admit that the general effect upon Canadian business and prosperity must be stimulating. Some interests may be hit hard, but these sections say they will lose very little. They ought to know. Of course this can only be by their own carelessness and neglect of their own business. The fruit-growing business of Central and Western Canada—of the Niagara peninsula and British Columbia. The fruit growers of these sections say they will lose very little. They ought to know. Of course this can only be by their own carelessness and neglect of their own business.

“The single cables now connecting Halifax with Bermuda and Bermuda with Jamaica ought either to be duplicated or supplemented by wireless. A cable should be laid between Bermuda and Barbados with a branch to Trinidad, and perhaps another to British Guiana, sometimes single and sometimes duplicate, are in many cases very old. The bed of this part of the Caribbean being trying for cables, we believe it would be found advantageous in most cases not to renew them, but to replace them by wireless installations. If these were well arranged they might form a satisfactory connection between the eastern islands and Jamaica, and unnecessary duplication of the suggested Bermuda-Barbados cable. While it is desirable to connect British Honduras with Jamaica, we consider that the probable volume of traffic would not warrant the cost of a cable. We therefore recommend the employment of wireless for the purpose. Small installations should also be supplied to the outlying Leeward and Banana Islands.”

No Effective Argument
So far then as Canadian business on the whole is concerned, the idea seems to be proving that the reciprocity proposition can hardly be effectively argued against. On the other hand, a feeling is undoubtedly strong that the proposition is something of a menace in a political sense—a menace both to British connection and Canadian independence. The argument is plain: our trade with the United States will increase at the expense of our trade with Great Britain; our business and social relations with the people of the United States will correspondingly increase and become more intimate. As the British market becomes less important and the British people less in contact with us the United States market will grow more important, and the American people in better and friendlier touch with our own. Diversion of transportation into north and south channels instead of east and west will also tend to change in each section of Canada some of the Canadian concentration upon Canadian and British political ideas into local interest in domestic affairs south of the line. All this might not inspire any idea of cutting loose unnecessarily from British connections; but the argument can not be ignored that it may so weaken our British sentiment that we will lose any disposition to remain actively interested in the Empire or to make any sacrifices or take any chances for it.

A great immigration is come upon us, two-thirds of this is non-British, most of it goes upon the soil; and so long as our chief agricultural market was England, with our transportation running mostly east and west, and our home trade fostered in that direction, so long were great silent forces at work to fuse the immigration into a Canadian-British frame of mind. The reciprocity proposition must weaken these forces; and when we remember that the non-British element of our immigration, half is from the United States, and will be retaining much more live connection, there than heretofore, he would be silly who, entertaining any pride in or affection for British connection, does not consider the pro-commercially; and even if not actually entering into political union, becomes increasingly dependent in a trade sense upon the vast nation to the south that all real independence of action, whether financial or political, will become impossible. The Journal sees force in all this, though not so much of force as some say. We have an idea that people who are prosperous are likely to be contented with their political conditions—the more prosperous, the more contented. If reciprocity should not happen to promote the prosperity and wealth of Canada, it will be because the expected more advantageous trade with the States fails to develop from it, in which case there will certainly be no injury to British connection. If, on the contrary, reciprocity were to be followed by notable commercial advantage to Canada, why would our prosperous conditions tend at all to make us discontented with the Imperial affiliations under which the prosperity was present?

The Mother Country
But another thing is to be said. In customs matters, this country has dealt pretty fairly with the mother country, since 1888. And Canada has given the mother country ample opportunity to do still better. For fourteen years our customs duties have conceded a preference to England. If England had cared to respond, we would have done still more; and with mutual preference established, there would never have been talk of reciprocity with the United States. The present proposition, to be plain spoken, is the outcome of English indifference to business with us. A good many people in England, and some in this country, for years past whenever inter-imperial trade preferences have been spoken of have been blithering about the madness of the idea of “buying” loyalty by commercial arrangements.

Commercial arrangements have no bearing upon national affiliations, then no dread need be entertained as to the effect of the present reciprocity proposition upon our “loyalty.” But if commercial arrangements do have an effect upon national affiliations, then a lot of British-Englishers should have their heads in sackcloth and ashes now. For fourteen years Canada commercially has had open arms out to England, but without avail so far as responsive trade preference is concerned. How much longer should this country repulse others?

A CLOCK OF 1700
(From the Westminster Gazette)
An interesting specimen of a long clock made in 1700, is owned by a gentleman at Lutetworth. It has an oval face, a hand which points to the days of the week, completing the round in seven days, and which shows the true dead beat, and another which points to the chimes and quarters.

On the upper part of the clock is a small orchestra, which includes a flute, a cello and two violins, and a boy and girl in addition to three singers. The hours and the quarters are struck, and every three hours a tune is played “three times over” on the bells alone, the lyrics on both together; while the three figures beat time and the boy and girl dance to the music.

OPPIUM JOINT IN NEW YORK WHERE CLUE TO THE MURDER OF ELSIE SIGEL MAY HAVE BEEN FOUND

Chinese criminals and police officials in New York, Feb. 4—Disclosures of a sensational nature were made here in a raid this and other cities. These revelations have started an investigation which federal and city officials agree will be one of the most far reaching and searching in the history of New York.

By Henry A. Wise, United States District Attorney, the seized documents are looked upon as so important that he will not surrender any of them to the New York police unless the treasury department in Washington decides upon this course.

The New York police are anxious to get at the records which show how the murderer of Elsie Sigel escaped and the sum of money that have been paid by Chinese criminals to police officials in this city and elsewhere. So conservative an official as Deputy Commissioner Fynn says that, in view of the revelations made in these records, one of the greatest shake-ups in the history of the New York Police department is inevitable.

The picture in the lower right hand corner is that of Wm. Lean, the Chinese charged with the murder of the Sigel girl.

HAPPIEST OLD SALT IN THE WORLD

Steamship Commander's Heroic Work Earns Annual Pension of $5,800

GOSSIP OF GOTHAM

The Strange Case of the Woman Who Loved Two Men — One Day of New York Rush Enough for Prussian

(Times' Special Correspondence)

New York, Feb. 4.—The happiest salt in all the world has just been found. By order of the King of Italy, he will receive an annual pension of $5,800, as long as he lives as an evidence of the appreciation of his heroism at the time of the Messina earthquake. He is Captain John Adolf Nilsson, native of Sweden, but British subject, who arrived on the Dutch steamer Surinam from Trinidad yesterday. The pension will go to his widow at his death during her life. He rescued 113 lives at the Messina earthquake in December, 1908.

Captain Nilsson was then chief officer of the Anglo-American Oil Company's steamer Chesapeake which was in the harbor of Messina at the time. Captain Nilsson will now retire from the sea to enjoy his pension, the largest that Italy has bestowed in 113 years, with his wife and four children in Constantinople. He has been made a chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy. The King presented him with the decorations of the Order of the Crown of Italy.

A Strange Romance

Through the application of Wallace Miller, a well-to-do merchant, for an absolute divorce, interest in the strange romance of his wife and her gifted sweetheart, Charles Smith, now of Denver, has been revived. As a young man, Smith was an unwelcome visitor at the home of the woman's parents. He went west to make his fortune, promising to send for the girl when he had prospered. His letters were intercepted, however, and his sweet heart was led to believe that he had died. Subsequently she met and married Miller, by whom she has had three children, two of whom are now grown up and married. Four years ago Smith came east on a visit and met Mrs. Miller. He told her that he still loved her as in the old days and that he had been writing to her regularly. Soon after his return west the woman confessed to her husband that she loved Smith and desired to join him in Denver. With a sense of self-interest and chivalry that is rare, the started husband furnished her with her fare and sent her on her way.

Apparently Smith did not relish this unexpected development in the domestic relations of the woman for she telegraphed back to her husband advising him that she had made a mistake and asking him to forward her money and return to Denver. Miller forgave her and took her back into his home as if nothing had transpired to shake his confidence in her. A year later she again expressed a determination to go to Smith. Miller provided her with her railroad tickets once more, adding, however, that he would not take her back the second time. She is supposed to be with Smith in Denver at this time, although nothing has been heard from her since she left home. The case is one of the oddest of his new opera attractions that have for many years.

There was a suggestion of the case of Alberto Mascagni, composer of Cavalleria Rusticana, in the more or less pathetic appeal of Julius Levenson, a well-to-do Russian farmer, who after being whined up town in the subway, given a glimpse of the city from the top of the Metropolitan Tower, forty-six stories above the sidewalk, treated to a walk up Gay White Way with its throngs of twinkling lights and allowed to dodge automobiles on Fifth avenue, begged to go home.

Twenty-four hours of the siddy, nervous, exhilarating life of the city, the dazzling pictures he saw as representative of the restless spirit of the whole country, conceived it no place for a simple minded, quiet, Teuton agriculturist. He had intended going west, to buy a large farm but the ceaseless activity of the city, the mad rush of its people and the display of nervous energy that confronted him on every side induced him to track back to the Fatherland on the first outgoing ship.

Those who remember the flight Maxxi got when he came over here five or six years ago to direct one of his new opera, could not help recalling the anxiety between the two cases. The profound impression made on the composer on that occasion by the swift life here is generally believed to be responsible for his failure to fulfill his contract with the Zellers to come here this winter to direct the production of his new opera, "Evebel," which was to have had its premiere with Bessie Abbott in the title role at the New Theatre, last month.

Would Be Free of Alimony Charles A. Henderson, first husband of Mrs. F. Augustus Henne, known to the stage as Bernice Golden, thinks it unfair that he should be compelled to continue paying alimony to the one time Copper King's wife and has asked the supreme court to vacate the order allowing her $100 a month. It is hardly believed that his former wife will oppose the granting of the application as she is now in line to make a similar application against Henne, from whom she separated a few weeks ago, after six months of wedded bliss.

Henne, who is said to have married her because Helen French, a beautiful woman belonging the minds of court and jury, was the English procedure or defeat the ends of justice. No cloud of high-priced expert witnesses is tolerated. No needless cumulative evidence is permitted. Brief, terse, direct are the statements and arguments of counsel. The court's summing up and charge is likewise short and to the point. It is a rare case indeed with whom he was once enamored charmed.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT AND BIG QUESTIONS SOON TO BE DEALT WITH

Home Rule Comes The House of Lords veto will become law, and so make a radical change for all time in its programme, especially in those questions which decided the issue at the general election. All parties regard the session to begin in three weeks as the most fatal in our modern history.

Radical School Change is Suggested by English Union of Teachers — Canada's Ready Made Farms in Empire Building

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Jan. 19.—Although the opening of the new parliament is still in the future, its approach is so near that it has already become a public interest in its programme, especially in those questions which decided the issue at the general election. All parties regard the session to begin in three weeks as the most fatal in our modern history.

Home Rule in Sight

One of the most notable changes in the session of the new parliament is the election of the House of Commons. His personal character and moderation and his loyalty to the empire, are becoming better understood by Unionists and Conservatives, but now he has created the greatest political sensation of the day by his proposal to support a new bill in which he is in Great Britain at least, going to come to friendly terms with the House of Commons.

This is how he felt when he found himself at the end of his task, which, it must be said, had been done quite creditably.

English Justice Impartial But Swiftness is Salutory For Criminals LAWYERS' COMPARISONS London and New York Placed in Parallel Columns and English Administration of Law is Shown to Be Far the Better

In "A Comparison of English and American Criminal Procedure," Cassily Cook, of the New York bar, discloses some interesting facts. The author, through the courtesy of Whitelaw Reid, American Ambassador at London, and Sir Charles W. Matthews, England's public prosecutor, witnessed the trials of Dr. Crippen and Ethel Levene. In addition, Mr. Cook made a study of British criminal trials generally.

The great deterrent to the criminally disposed in England," says Dr. Cook, "is the swiftness of the trial, the promptness of the sentence, and the certainty of the punishment. No dilatory methods clog the process. The trial is prompt, and the sentence is prompt. The trial is prompt, and the sentence is prompt. The trial is prompt, and the sentence is prompt.

Mr. Cook pronounces the English penal reformatory institutions the models for the world. Every effort is made for the moral improvement of the convict. The illiterate are given careful rudimentary education. Industrial trades are thoroughly taught in the prison. Strict yet humane, the British prison system, devoid of any degrading and leads to a better life and good citizenship than our present American prisons.

INSURANCE FOR UNEMPLOYED

Scheme in Germany is Declared Better Than Any—Form Known as the "Ghent System" Berlin, Feb. 4.—The large Berlin municipality of Schoenberg has sanctioned a scheme of unemployment insurance which goes considerably farther than anything of the kind hitherto existing in Germany. The form adopted is that known as the "Ghent system," under which the municipal treasury pays to all unemployed a supplement to the unemployment pay which they draw from their trade unions. This system has been adopted in Strasbourg and elsewhere, but it has the defect of excluding those who are not members of a trade union.

TELEPHONE AS SUBSTITUTE FOR TELEGRAPH WIRE IN RAILWAY WORK

As announced in the Times recently, the C. P. R. is installing a telephone dispatching system between St. John and Vancouver, and men are now engaged in stringing the wires. It is expected that the system will be put in operation in the early spring and that it will be a marked improvement over the present system of telegraph dispatching. While the telephone is used in many parts of the U. S. and western Canada, for train dispatching, this will be the first section of railroad in this part of the dominion to be so equipped.

The extreme adaptability and satisfactory service of the telephone has induced its introduction into this most exacting department of railway service. So gradually and so quietly has the telephone entered the railway field, that few are aware to what extent it has been adopted as a means of communication in this important industry, and that it bids fair to become a dominant factor in the handling of traffic. It is claimed that it is superior to the telegraph as a medium for dispatching trains, both as a factor of safety and a saving of time.

It is only a matter of a few years when the telephone will entirely replace the telegraph for the dispatching of trains as well as for the transaction of all local commercial message and routine business. The telegraph is used by the train dispatcher in the intricate operation of his communication with the operators scattered along the stretch of railroad. Long used for the purpose of telegraphing, the telegraph operator is a man of few words, and his communication with the men with whom he must communicate, and thus avail himself of the rapidity of action, the definiteness and security that would follow.

TELEPHONE AS SUBSTITUTE FOR TELEGRAPH WIRE IN RAILWAY WORK

It is not busy, call his station name. The dispatcher, instantly replies by saying, "dispatcher," the report is then given, usually in the fractional part of a minute. The advantages of telephone train dispatching are numerous; it is possible for the dispatcher to call a way station at any point along the line, ringing the bell at the way station with one motion of his hand, and keeping the bell ringing for as long as he pleases. The dispatcher is connected with the circuit at all times, and when a way station operator wishes to talk with his chief, it is only necessary for him to take down the receiver at the station and press the button. The grade of service rendered is improved by the fact that the dispatcher knows at once if the bell he intends to ring at the way station is in operation. The way station agent cannot say that the bell did not ring if it did, for the dispatcher knows that the bell did ring, and he simply received a message over the tickler.

The telephone is also more easily answered than is the telegraph, without the need of the "power of spoken word" has brought great changes, introducing the element of personal acquaintance and even friendship, between chief dispatcher and his subordinates.

Probably the time saved in calling stations is greater than in the sending of orders, or reporting of trains. The dispatcher is relieved of the aggravating operation of repeating a station call over and over again, by sending the telegraphic letters used for this purpose. With the operator provided for against error, the telephone system of train dispatching is a more reliable than the telegraph.

WIDESPREAD AGITATION FOR RADICAL REFORMS IN SYSTEM OF TAXATION

Victoria Follows Vancouver in Abolishing Taxes on Improvements—Rapid Growth of Change Throughout the West—Ontario Municipalities Clamoring for a Change in The Provincial Assessment Law—Gross Inequalities Must be Overcome and Modern System Adopted

(Ottawa Citizen).

Victoria, B. C., has followed the example of her sister city, Vancouver, in the matter of tax reform, and by a vote of virtually five to one, has decided to abolish all taxation on improvements and raise the necessary revenue on a general land assessment. The decided nature of Victoria's change from the old method of taxation to a general land assessment is perhaps more significant than appears on the surface when it is recalled that the voters have had ample opportunity to see the reform in actual operation in Vancouver and that the growth and prosperity of the latter city have been such as to cause the adoption of its tax system by its next door neighbor. Victoria's move is not an experiment, but the result of Vancouver's experience.

Throughout the west the growth of the tax reform movement has been steady and the wisdom of the change has been justified in the improved class of buildings erected, in the occupation of long kept from use for speculative purposes, and in the general growth and progress of the community following equal assessment.

While the west has led the rest of Canada in the tax reform advance, it is only fair to point out that in the east, in many sections, including Ontario, it has been impossible hitherto to adopt the principle of land taxation because of the provincial assessment act, which makes it obligatory on municipalities to assess property at the same rate as land values.

But the desire to exercise local option in taxation is widespread in Ontario. Already some 217 municipalities have petitioned for the right to exercise the desired tax system, while only nineteen have opposed the granting of such privilege by the provincial legislature. The growth of the movement is indicated by the fact that last year seventy-five municipalities were organized to petition for the right to exercise local option in taxation.

In addition to municipal bodies, labor unions and associations to the number of 118 have joined in the request to the local legislature, while no fewer than 149 influential newspapers have petitioned for and practically all of them have editorially endorsed the movement in favor of the exercise of local option in taxation.

Ontario Aroused (Toronto Star). In the coming session of the legislature there is likely to be a good deal of discussion over the assessment law. There is a growing sentiment in favor of reducing the income and business taxes, and placing a larger share of the burden on land—not on improvements made by the owner, but on the value which is added to the labor and enterprise of the community. The Ottawa Citizen, the Windsor Record and the Canadian Manufacturer, and other journals have been conducting a vigorous campaign along these lines.

If the legislature is not willing to make this reform itself, it might at least give power to the various municipalities to modify their systems of taxation if they desire. The objection to various modes of assessment has very little to do with the purchaser of land would naturally make inquiries as to the amount and methods of taxation and it would be a very simple matter to discover the burden which each municipality imposes on land.

Taxation Reform (Windsor Record). With the opening of the legislature, the members of that body should bear in mind the question of the assessment law. While you continue to turn a deaf ear to the universal appeal for reform of an antiquated and unjust system, the people of Ontario will continue to demand a more equitable and just system of taxation. The business and income taxes of the present assessment act are especially objectionable and should be abolished.

Under the income tax the salaries of the officers of incorporated municipalities are taxed, while the income of the same persons under a partnership would be free. Thus the income tax is in many cases a penalty on the particular form of business organization.

The business tax, since it is based on the value of the premises occupied, is really a double tax on buildings and improvements, and penalizes the building of large, attractive and commodious premises to the detriment of the employees of the building trades and of the general public.

On the other hand a moderate increase in the tax on the value of all land which is used or unimproved, inclines the owners to meet the offers of those who desire to develop it, and when coupled with reduction of the building and business tax results in an increase of all productive enterprises.

So far from being a new radical or revolutionary measure, the plan of allowing municipalities to reduce taxes on buildings, business assessments and incomes has been tried for years in New Zealand, New South Wales, and New Jersey, and in British Columbia, with satisfactory results.

This measure is eminently conservative since it recognizes that conditions differ in different municipalities and provides that each municipality may alter its system only after due consideration, and a favorable vote of the ratepayers.

Men in business more especially have reason to consider this proposal in relation to their interests and support the demand for local option in the incidence of taxation, as they are among the worst sufferers from a freak law.

Land Values and Improvements (Toronto World). Those western cities that have adopted the principle of taxing land values are exempting improvements are thoroughly satisfied with the results that have been obtained and show no inclination to restore the older methods of raising revenue. SCIATICA AND CONSTIPATION CURED 6 YEARS AGO.—S. LILL, CURED. Central Kingsport, N. Y. Dear Sir—When I purchased the Electric Belt from you about six years ago, I was suffering very much with sciatica in the hip. When I began to wear the Belt it acted like a charm. The sciatica left me, and today I am an entirely free man. I also suffered from constipation, and for some time was taking medicine to keep my bowels right. Since wearing the Belt, I shall never again take any medicine for that cause, and I can confidently say that I am cured.

What all you? Write and tell me, no matter where you are, I think I can give you the address of someone in your town that I have cured. I have cured thousands, and everyone of them is a willing advertisement for my Belt. Those who have used it recommend it because it is honest. It does great work, and those whom I have cured are the more grateful because the cure costs so little. Write today for my Free Illustrated Book and full information. HAPPIEST OLD SALT IN THE WORLD

(Continued from page 7). The determination is interesting in view of the testimony given by Alfred W. Doble to the national administration of the Ship Subsidy Investigating Committee of Congress last week that he was of the opinion that a representative of the Lessees if he would recommend the purchase of Uncle Sam through the columns of his paper.

It is in fact to establish beyond any question of doubt its claim, and to lead to the national administration had made a large amount of money out of the transaction, the West is said to have expended an immense sum of money, resulting in the accumulation of a surplus of more or less than $1,000,000.

SESSION IN LONDON FATEFUL (Continued from page 7). Our board schools, which are the only free schools, do not advance scholars beyond a very elementary standard, and as the age of fourteen are free to go out and in many cases to enter the ranks of the untrained and unemployable.

The school clinic has been strongly advocated by progressives and liberals on the county council, on the ground that medical men in charge of the health of school children can best see sanitation and stamp out minor diseases which the big hospitals do not touch. London's school children are at the mercy of a short sighted public policy which counts the immediate cost and ignores the loss to the nation by juveniles' health being neglected.

It has been shown by experiments in a working class L. C. C. school that treatment in hospital costs the ratepayers 4 shillings per annum for each child, whereas clinic attention to young children strengthens and improves the race and costs only 2 shillings 0 pence per annum per head. The old-fashioned Tory idea is that all such expenditure on the masses is "socialism" and as that is against the political creed of the well-to-do classes, they oppose it. It is likely to be a burning question soon—this of the medical treatment of the children.

The Ready Made Farm (Canada and Empire) Building was the thrilling subject discussed this week by London city men with results that must rouse the citizens' business-like interest.

HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE

I desire to submit the following plan of conserving the peace between the two nations: Inasmuch as this is largely bound up in questions between the United States and Canada, my suggestion is that a sufficient fund be raised to provide for a permanent interchange of lectures in American and Canadian universities, after the manner of those for instance, which are at present given by Americans at the University of Berlin.

Terrible Suffering

I suffered terribly for about five years from rheumatism. Doctors gave me up. Finally told me to try this medicine and I was cured. I had never seen the medicine before. I was troubled with rheumatism and I began to feel better. I am now perfectly cured and I return many thanks to the maker of this medicine. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla, 44 Richmond St., Montreal, Que.

POKER PLAYING BY MACHINERY (Chicago Tribune)

Application for a peculiar patent recently has been recorded. It is no less a device than a poker playing machine. It deals the cards, discards for you and draws to your hand. Beyond the fact that the machine is a drum-like cylinder upon the head of which the cards are arranged little is known of the mechanism.

Athletic Shrub Breaks Records.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press)—At the Fifth Regiment armory tonight Alford Shrub, of London, broke two professional running records. He made ten miles in 52 minutes 45 seconds, beating the professional indoor record by 20 seconds. His time for the fifteen miles was one hour, 10 minutes, one second. The professional outdoor record was announced as one hour 29 minutes 4.8 seconds.

Shrub ran against St. Yves of France and John J. Hayes of New York. He finished 312 laps on the eight laps track, ahead of the former, who was second.

Moncton Defeats Halifax.

Halifax, Feb. 3.—(Special)—Five thousand and hockey enthusiasts from all parts of the maritime provinces packed the Arena rink tonight and witnessed the Moncton Victorias decisively defeat the Halifax professionals 8 to 3 and tie with the local team in the struggle for the professional championship of the maritime provinces.

The result of the second half was the greatest surprise ever springing in hockey circles in the maritime provinces and there is only one sane explanation, and that is that the Halifax team was completely outclassed by seven of the greatest hockey players that could be secured for money between Halifax and Port William. Moncton was determined to win the game and money was no object and they put a team on the ice last night that without doubt is the best in the province.

AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

NICKEL.

The Nickel has a fine bill which will conclude the week. In the first place, it should be remembered that the Chronophone will be heard for the last time in this theatre today and the children in particular—who have been deterred on account of school and bad weather—should be allowed to hear the wonderful entertaining apparatus ere it leaves the city. There will be five special numbers by Chronophone today. The pictorial bill, too, is excellent, including a historical story of white men and Indians in old Quebec, and a western comedy, The Greenhorn and The Girl, as well as a rich skit on Chanticleer.

On Monday the Nickel, it is announced, will inaugurate its new and improved service of motion pictures. This will mean that instead of six new reels every week, or two at each change of programme, there will be three new reels every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, an increase in film value of fifty per cent. This, it is said, will be the largest and most expensive service in eastern Canada, and the public will no doubt appreciate it fully. The opening bill of this new service is to include the Biograph drama, His Trust, a story of war, and the Vitagraph comedy, Crazy Apples, a wholesome bit of delicious fun. Then there will be the weekly bulletin of news pictures of world's great events, Bernice Humphrey and Roscoe Buzzelle.

THE OPERA HOUSE.

Written primarily with a strong love story of human interest in view, "The Time, The Place and The Girl," which will be at the Opera House Feb. 9, 10, 11, proved that this, when embellished by fanciful songs and pretty girls in dances, is the most successful play that that prolific trio, Will M. Hough, Frank H. Adams and Joseph E. Howard have turned out. This play looks all records in Chicago, running there 462 consecutive times and has created equally notable records wherever it has appeared.

The scene is laid at a sanitarium in Virginia, where Johnny Hicks and Tom Cunningham have fled to escape arrest.

SAYING THE RIGHT THING (Cleveland Plain Dealer)
"I don't seem to be able to say the right thing to women," a beautiful young man confided to us the other day, "and that's why I don't shine in society. I'll tell you an instance of it. Not long ago I met a woman I hadn't seen for years and I could see that she was trying to keep young. So I thought I'd say a graceful thing to her."
"You carry your age remarkably well," says I.
"Well, the minute I said it I could see that I was in wrong. She was looking chilly and getting red, so I said:
"Don't mind my little jokes—I never mean what I say. As a matter of fact you don't carry your age a bit well."
"And then she killed me with a laughly look and sailed away without saying good-by. Say, how should I have put it?"

Empress of Ireland Brings Word of Great Rush of Immigrants to St. John for Rest of Season—Big Liner in Today

After a rough trip and with one of the largest passenger lists of the season, the C. P. R. steamship Empress of Ireland, Captain J. V. Fowler, N. B., arrived in port this morning. She made a fast run around from Halifax, her time being fourteen hours. From Liverpool out, the voyage was a succession of gales with a big sea.

With a total of 107 passengers it can be said with safety that the Ireland has inaugurated the immigrant rush. In fact all the second and third class passages on all the C. P. R. steamers has been booked up to May, so that from now on the flow of immigration through this port will be heavy.

Of the number on the Ireland, there were ninety-one saloon, 28 second cabin, and 598 steerage. Eighteen saloon, fourteen second cabin and thirteen steerage, landed at Halifax. Among the saloon passengers were: Rev. Dr. Barclay, known Presbyterian of Montreal, and Mrs. Barclay, R. Kirkley of Glace Bay, was also a passenger.

The big steamer arrived off the island about 2 o'clock this morning and came right up to her dock Nos. 2 and 3 berths Sand Point.

Coming to St. John from Halifax the run was an enjoyable one, the weather being fine with little or no sea. The saloon passengers were:—

WILL HEAR ADDRESS ON COMMISSION

Something of Mr. Sherman, at the Opera House on Tuesday Evening Next Who Will Tell of Plan of City Government

Citizens who are interested in the elective commission plan of city government, on which a plebiscite will be held in April, will have an opportunity of hearing the workings of the plan explained by a man who has thoroughly versed with the subject, at a public meeting to be held in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock. The speaker will be Ernest A. Sherman, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where the commission plan of government has been in operation for some time.

This meeting will be the first of a series, which the citizens' committee are planning to hold here at which the workings of the commission plan will be explained. The meetings will be open to the public and every person interested in the well fare of the city should attend.

Mr. Sherman, the speaker, on Tuesday night, is editor and proprietor of the Cedar Rapids Daily Record. For nearly twenty years he has been a leading advocate of the commission plan of city government, having addressed public meetings in a great many of the cities that have adopted this plan during that time.

He has been in the newspaper business for more than twenty years. He was a member of the old-style ward-chosen city council to be elected to the commission plan council on the inauguration of the plan in that city.

During January he spoke in twelve cities in Illinois and is now engaged on a lecturing tour through the Eastern States. It is because of this latter fact that the committee has been able to secure his services.

Since December 1, he has delivered addresses in fifteen cities, on the commission plan of government, and he has been referred to as having been a great aid in their campaigns, and of having saved the day for the new plan in several cases. He is said to be a very pleasing and convincing speaker, and has a thorough grasp of the subject.

Mr. Sherman will probably arrive in the city on Monday and it is planned to have him address the committee of one hundred, at a luncheon to be held in White's restaurant at Tuesday noon. At this luncheon Mr. Sherman will give a half hour's talk on the working of the commission plan from a business standpoint, explaining how the work of the departments is carried out.

EVIDENCE ALL IN; DECISION MONDAY

Hearing in Police Court in Reference to Emerson & Fisher Break.

In the preliminary hearing of the case against Joseph Stanton and Harry Stone this morning in the police court the last of the witnesses for the prosecution gave evidence, and adjournment was made until Monday to permit Judge Ritchie to review the evidence as to whether the defendants should or should not be committed for trial. His Honor intimated that there was sufficient evidence to send up Stone, but he would not say definitely as yet concerning Stanton.

Before the sentence of Detective Killen, Mr. Logan, counsel for Stone, commented upon the action of the police in taking the men, handcuffed, through the streets, to be photographed, and said that if the police did not investigate the matter, he would lay it before the attorney-general. His Honor replied that so far as he knew there was no law to prevent the action.

Detective Killen and Deputy Chief Jenkin told of the arrest. Deputy Jenkin had a statement made by Stone in Madeline Lane house in the old street, which was allowed in evidence subject to the objection of E. S. Ritchie, counsel for Stanton. Stone accused Stanton of having given him knives, razors, and a revolver, but Stanton denied the allegation. Stone declared that the other man had supplied him with 2 cents and some knives to get liquor, but he had been warned not to give Stanton a bottle which he purchased as he was an interdict, and therefore did not do so. Stanton said he knew nothing of the razors or knives and could not have given them to Stone, as he had none to give.

His Honor said he would like until Monday to decide as to the dual commitment. Certainly, he said, it was a desperate act of the robbers in the case of Emerson & Fisher to load the magazines of the rifles which they found in the store. They prepared to defend themselves, and it might be taken they determined to commit murder if they were in danger of being caught.

VISIT TO COURT COSTS
PETER ARSENAULT $16

Gets Into Officials' Hands on Charge of Interfering With Police

Peter Arsenault was a greatly surprised man this morning when he came to the police court with the intention of giving evidence in reference to the arrest of John Halpin, aged 70, when both he and the prisoner were fined $16 each. Halpin, who is a grey haired and stooped, was placed in the rear of a Buick street last night by Policeman McCollum on a charge of drunkenness and profanity, but while the arrest was being made, Arsenault interfered and was struck by McCollum.

Last evening Arsenault went to the central station with the intention of laying information against McCollum, but changed his mind, and this morning he was told that he had acted wrongly in interfering in the arrest, and a fine of $16 imposed. His Honor saying he would like to make it greater, because he believed citizens should not interfere when a policeman was making an arrest.
