HOT SHOT FOR SIR CHARLES

North Simcoe Independents in Convention.

Leighton McCarthy, M.P., Resents the Attacks Made Upon Him by the Conservative Leader - Vigorous Speeches by Col. O'Brien, ex-M.P., and Wm. Stubbs, Member for Cardwell.

At Stayner, on Tuesday, the McCarthy Club unanimously nominated Mr. Leighton McCarthy, M. P., to again contest North Simcoe as an independent in the coming election. The convention could not have been more representative, harmonious or enthusiastic. Mr. McCarthy was escorted through the streets by two brass bands, the trains from all points brought in contingents of ardent delegates, while others drove from the remote portions of the riding, partly out of love for the principles of their party, but in not a few cases to show their disapprobation of the attacks recently made on their popular young member. Mr. McCarthy spoke vigorously for an hour, explaining frankly his course during the two sessions he has been in parliament, and the reasons which prompted his votes on the issues that arose, sometimes with the government, sometimes with the opposition, sometimes with both, sometimes with neither, according to his judgment in the light of the McCarthy platform. He strongly resented the personal attacks made on him by Sir Charles Tupper in his Barrie speech. Lieut.-Col. W. E. O'Brien, ex-M.P. for Muskoka and Mr. Wm. Stubbs, M. P. for Cardwell, also delivered forcible addresses. The audience were unusually responsive and cheered with great vigor.

Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Stubbs, on arriving from the south, were met at the station by a large number of the delegates, who had come in on the northern trains or had driven from remote parts of the riding. The Collingwood delegates had brought with them the Boys' Brigade Bugle Band, and the candidate was escorted to his hotel by the buglers and by the Stayner Brass Band, amid the hearty cheers of delegates and townspeople. The convention was held in St. Charles's Hall, which the ladies of Stayner had decorated with flags and portraits of the Queen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Charles Tupper. Fully 400 delegates were present.

INDEPENDENTS NOT DEAD.

Mr. John Nettleton, Collingwood, president of the association, in opening the meeting, said that the large attendance was a sufficient answer to those who said that the independents were dead. They were very much alive, and the remnants of the third party would be found very much in evidence when the ballots were counted.

A letter was read from Mr. James L. Burton, Barrie, vice-president of the McCarthy Association, regretting his inability to be present owing to an injury he had suffered, and expressing the hope that the association would again give their support to Mr. Leighton McCarthy, on whose shoulders the mantle of their lamented leader had so worthily fallen.

A MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE

Suffered Terribly With a Violent Form of Itching, Protruding Piles - Escaped a Dangerous and Painful Operation, and Was Thoroughly Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

While scores of thousands of people in all the walks of life are afflicted with the misery and discomforts of itching piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment, comparatively few are so considerate of the welfare of others as to help to make known this wonderful preparation. The following letter from a Methodist minister, who is held in high esteem in Central Ontario, where he is well-known, represents the experience of very many ministers and others, who recognize in Dr. Chase's Ointment the only actual cure for piles and itching skin diseases.

Rev. S. A. Dupran, Methodist minister, Concession, Fribourg Edward county, Ont., states: "I was troubled with itching and bleeding piles for years, and they ultimately attained to a very violent form. Large lumps or abscesses formed, so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stool. At this severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but I had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies before and to no purpose. "Now, imagine how great and joyous was my surprise to find that just the one box cured me, so that the lumps disappeared, and also the external swelling. I feel like a different man today, and have not the least doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment saved me from a very dangerous and painful operation and many years of suffering. It is with the greatest pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing what Dr. Chase's Ointment has done for me. You are at perfect liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

No physician or druggist would think for a moment of recommending any other preparation than Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for piles. It is the only remedy which has never yet been known to fail to cure piles of any form. 50 cents a box, at all dealers or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

membered that in insulting the man whom the majority of the electors had returned to parliament, he insulted the people themselves. Nobody ever expected from the mouth of Sir Charles Tupper either truth, honesty, justice or fair play.

Col. O'Brien resented Sir Charles's charge that independent voters went to the polls only for their own ends, dwelling on the sacrifices made by Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, himself and others for the sake of independence. It would certainly seem an extraordinary principle that no elector should exercise independence of thought and action in any matter, but must always obey the dictates of the party whip. They could not, however, eliminate the fact that there was a government in power appealing for re-election and an opposition appealing for the defeat of that government. They must take facts as they found them. However anxious they might be to carry out their own platform, they must consider how it would affect the future of the country. This led him to a consideration of the administration, judging it by the McCarthy platform. The main charges against them were that they had failed to fulfill their pledges. He was not concerned as to whether or not they had fulfilled their pledges; they were not made to the McCarthy association. What they were concerned about was whether the administration had been in general as would warrant them in believing that it was in the interest of the country and in accordance with the principles which they as supporters of D'Alton McCarthy cherished. (Hear, hear.)

THE TARIFF SATISFACTORY.

First, dealing with the tariff, Col. O'Brien said that when he as a farmer found that many of the articles he used had been placed on the free list and the duty on others had been considerably reduced, he was not concerned about any ingenious calculation to show that there had been a reduction of only fourteen one-hundredths of one per cent. He was satisfied that there was a material reduction on the lines of the principles of D'Alton McCarthy.

Col. O'Brien mentioned Sir Charles Tupper's boast that in 45 years of public life no charge had been brought against him. How an English statesman would be laughed at if he made such a statement. They did not accuse Sir Charles Tupper of petty larceny or theft or forgery, but if they should measure Sir Charles by the measure he attempted to apply to other people it might be different.

APPLYING SIR CHARLES' OWN ARGUMENT.

Mr. Sifton had bought a house in Ottawa and immediately it was stated that he was corrupt. Sir Charles was the only man in public life that he knew of who had come out rich, and, therefore, he must be corrupt. That would not be fair, perhaps, but it would be as fair as the charge against Mr. Sifton. He did charge that Sir Charles had deliberately misrepresented the position of the tariff. (Applause.) He said this because he believed it was of Mr. D'Alton McCarthy's suggestion that the Laurier government adopted the principle of the preferential tariff. For that reason they should defend the present government with regard to the preferential tariff. As to Sir Charles's policy of a preference from England, they might as well expect a slice of the cheese of which the moon is made as to expect that the English consumer under present conditions was going to grant anything of the kind.

THE STING.

The sting that galled Sir Charles and his followers lay in the fact that the disloyal Grits in four years had done more to cement the unity of the empire and to bring about a right understanding of the British people than the Conservatives did in eighteen years. As a Conservative member, he knew that for years they tried to secure the denunciation of the Belgian and German treaties.

A REAL PREFERENCE.

The colonel enlarged upon the loyalty of the premier in granting a preference for which we had already obtained returns in the reduction of ocean freights owing to increased imports, the purchase of $2,000,000 worth of war supplies in Canada, and the preference voluntarily given to Canadian products by the British consumer.

The principle of county boundaries in redistribution and the promise of a railway commission were also cited as instances in which the government had been influenced by Mr. McCarthy in the adoption of their policy. In speaking of the Manitoba school question, Col. O'Brien said that Sir Charles Tupper had declared that in bringing in the remedial bill he was bound by the constitution. If that was so he was as much bound now as he was then, and some of his followers in Quebec were even asking that the question be reopened.

Sir Charles might boast that no crime had been charged against him, but the crime of corrupting the people of this country and lowering the standard of political morality would be laid to his charge, and the judgment of the country would be against him. (Cheers.)

MR. WM. STUBBS.

Mr. Wm. Stubbs, M.P. for Cardwell, who spoke very briefly, assured the electors that as Mr. McCarthy's estimate he could give an excellent account of Mr. McCarthy's conduct, but he would leave that to the candidate himself. He had himself been maligned and abused, and had been charged with being an out-and-out Grit. He had had to produce at his own expense the votes and proceedings to vindicate his conduct. Mr. McCarthy was the most independent member in the house, and had voted against nearly every measure introduced by the premier himself. The two questions that most concerned the people were the charges of broken pledges and extravagance. The tariff had not been very greatly lowered, and had it not been for the preferential tariff he would say there was some foundation for the charge that the government had stolen the clothes of the opposition. If they had promised to lower the duties on American goods in the face of the high American tariff, he was glad they had broken such a pledge. He was satisfied with the government on that ground. He himself did not approve of the great expenditure of the government, and had voted against some items of it, but it did not become men who had sat by like stoutheart-bottles and challenged only $36,000 out of $46,000,000 to talk about extravagance. (Applause.)

THE CANDIDATE.

Mr. McCarthy was received with tremendous cheers when he arose to speak. He said that they were met there as representing the McCarthy Association, which was formed to perpetuate the principles and platform of the late D'Alton McCarthy, who was read out of the Conservative party by the party leaders. Mr. McCarthy went to the country in 1896 on that platform and those principles. He, himself, appeared at them in 1898 on that platform, and on both occasions they were successful. They all knew of the position of the Conservative party in 1898. It was discredited owing to the desire of the old man now its leader to be Premier. To accomplish that Sir Mackenzie had said of his colleagues: "I thought I was living among friendly colleagues, but I found myself living among a nest of traitors."

THE PRESIDENTIAL TARIFF.

Mr. McCarthy quoted from speeches of his illustrious uncle to show that the platform adopted in 1896 was not a new one, but that in March, '93, their late leader had brought in a resolution favoring a revenue tariff. That platform of 1893 was the platform of the present government today. Sir Richard Cartwright himself had said, "We have adopted the trade policy of the member for North Simcoe" and Dr. Sproule last year criticised the government on the ground that they had stolen the preferential tariff from Mr. McCarthy, as they had stolen from him the settlement of the Manitoba school question. Mr. McCarthy asked if they were to forsake that platform because it had been taken up by another man. He said that platform, he cried, "was formulated originally in the brain of a patriot for the country he loved well, and when he gave it to the country it was for the best interests of the country, and I pray to God the country will make the best use of it, whether it be in the hands of a Liberal or a Tory. (Cheers.) If instead of Liberals or Conservatives we could be all Canadians, striving for the good of our country, we would be in a better position."

The Manitoba school question had been settled to the satisfaction of Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, Mr. Robertson and others who were fighting the government on it. The principle of the Manitoba distribution bill was also borrowed from Mr. McCarthy. A gerrymander by Sir Oliver Mowat in Ontario was as bad as any that Sir John Macdonald at Ottawa; therefore it was necessary to have some principle to go on. The principle adopted by the present government was the principle advocated by Mr. McCarthy, only the government went farther and proposed a judicial commission for divisions within the county boundaries. That seemed to him fair, and he had supported it. In the last election he had received much sympathy on account of the name he bore. He asked for no sympathy today, but simply to be judged on his own merits and record.

QUESTION OF SHOES AND CLOTHES.

He had been taunted by Conservatives with trying to fill the shoes of D'Alton McCarthy. He cast that back and repudiated it. He knew the shoes and the clothes of D'Alton McCarthy were too large for him, and it would have been a good thing for Hugh John Macdonald if he had recognized that the clothes and shoes of his father were too big for him. (Applause.) He had not a word to say against Hugh John; he liked him, but Hugh John had shown himself wanting in the best of things, a man when he was willing to stand up against a host of traitors, whom we would suppose he would have held in reverence, and on that must be unveiled have the audience shout. "He looks more like his dad every day."

In speaking of the sending of the contingent to South Africa, Mr. McCarthy pointed out, in answer to a charge that the government was dilatory in sending the men, that Kruger's ultimatum was issued on Oct. 9, and recruiting commenced on Oct. 13, and on Oct. 20 the men were on the ocean. He appealed of the course of the government in deliberating before they took action on a matter. He had been blamed for not speaking on Mr. Bourassa's motion in the house, but he was at that time laid up in Toronto as the result of a railway accident. Mr. McCarthy pointed out the material benefits that have already resulted in Canada from the preferential tariff. He asked if any man would question the loyalty of his family, and read the headings of pamphlet No. 6, circulated by Sir Charles's supporters in Quebec.

DID NOT SHRINK.

In discussing the emergency ration vote, which Sir Charles had accused him of shrinking, Mr. McCarthy said that had he been in the house when the vote was taken he would not have voted for either report, as he believed that Hutch and Devlin had hatched a scheme to induce the government to adopt an emergency food, and that a fraud was perpetrated in the Kingston test.

GOOD MEASURES.

Among the good measures of the government were the reduction of the tariff, the increased preference and the denunciation of the treaties, abolition of sweating, cold storage, placing Canadian securities on trustee list, penny advance on the surplus, the increase of exports and imports. Unless they were heedbound Tories they must see and feel all these things.

In conclusion, Mr. McCarthy resented Sir Charles's attitude in his affairs in his criticism. He must have

PEOPLE RECOVERING

It is well known that after any serious illness the heart and nerves are extremely weak and the blood greatly impoverished. For these conditions there is no remedy equals Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. It restores all the vital forces of the body which disease has impaired and weakened.

Mr. T. Barnicot, Aylmer, Ont., says:—"About a year ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, and got up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed."

"I had no energy and was in a miserable state of health."

"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store here, changed me from a condition of misery to good health. They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored brisk action of my blood, and made a new man of me."

"I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe, or any other severe illness."

been hard pressed for something to say. The truth was that D'Alton McCarthy was a bitter sting to Sir Charles, and it was the name of McCarthy that he was after. He left the result with the men of North Simcoe. (Great cheerings.)

Mr. McCarthy's nomination was carried by a standing in fact, a yealing vote. A resolution of confidence and congratulation was also tendered him, and he briefly acknowledged these honors.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of the present incumbents, and the meeting closed with cheers for the Queen and Mr. McCarthy.

FALSE STATEMENT REFUTED

Letter From Organizer Leaders of the Garment Workers.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have been informed that at a recent meeting held by Socialists in your city, on the Market Square, a man named Appleton made statements to the effect that the clothing made by Grafton & Co. was made in tenement houses in Hamilton, also that they were made in sweat shops, and the union label was put on at Grafton & Co.'s factory instead of at the shop where they were made.

When this statement reached the ears of Mr. Hickey, manager of Grafton & Co.'s branch in London, he interviewed Mr. Appleton, who defiantly declared he could prove his statement, as he was informed by a member of the Garment Workers' of Hamilton. Mr. Appleton also declared that Grafton & Co. received union labels before their shop was organized. As organizer for Ontario, and handling every label that comes into the province, I must state that this statement can be classed with the others of Fakir Appleton.

I have my books before me, from which I am copying the following: "Grafton & Co., Dundas, organized Jan. 22, 1900."

"Electro cuts sent for advertising, Feb. 6, 1900."

"Ten thousand labels sent Grafton & Co., March 9, 1900."

So it can readily be seen that it was nearly two months before a label was sent to Grafton & Co. I cannot understand how it is that this class of people have so much time to spare in running down trades unionists, when they have a doctrine which is the whole tip.

I think this statement is due your local firm. Thanking you for your space, I remain, sincerely yours, SAM LANDERS, Provincial Organizer United Garment Workers of America.

JEALOUS RIVALS cannot turn back the tide. The demand for Dr. Agnew's Little Pills is a marvel. Cheap to buy, but diamonds in quality—banish nausea, coated tongue, water brash, pain after eating, sick headache, never grippe operate pleasantly. 10 cents. For sale by C. McCallum & Co.—37.

A LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson, Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by the physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on his advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half bottle cured me. I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Honest Use of

Paine's Celery Compound
Will Permanently Banish
Your Troubles.

THE GREAT COMPOUND
GUARANTEES A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

It is pitiable to see the half-hearted and almost useless attempts made by many people to get rid of poor health. More determined effort and greater energy would be put forth to achieve victory in any other undertaking.

Too many are believers in "fatalism"; others make use of almost anything that is recommended by neighbors, while many are quite satisfied if temporary relief is afforded. If Paine's Celery Compound is used to cleanse the blood, to regulate and tone the nerves, to banish rheumatism, neuralgia, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, then be assured the good work is fully and permanently accomplished.

It is positively criminal and foolish for young or old to mope around in a half-cured condition, and their eyes the grand blessings offered by Paine's Celery Compound. The world knows of no other medicine as good for fortifying and building up the system to battle against the trying and varying weather of autumn.

Go to your druggist at once and procure a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and see how soon the "blues" will vanish; your nervous depression, headache, backache, rheumatism and neuralgia will go, and permanent health, activity and happiness will be yours.

The First Canadian Regiment Still at Pretoria—Col. Steele's Report.

London, Oct. 1.—Under date of Pretoria, Sept. 28, Lord Roberts reports that the Boers suffered more severely in the action at Pienaar's River station than he had previously thought. The explosion of a mine, of the existence of which they were ignorant, killed several."

Magee, did excellent work and killed four of the enemy. Two others were killed by rifle fire, and four prisoners taken. Lieut. Pooley's troop drove out a party of Boers who had taken shelter in a donga. RADWAY'S PILLS

SECURE PERFECT DIGESTION

By their ANTI-BILIOUS properties they stimulate the liver in the secretion of the bile and its discharge through the biliary ducts. These Pills in doses of from two to four will quickly regulate the action of the liver and free the patient from these disorders. One of two Radway's Pills taken daily by those subject to bilious pains and torpidity of the liver will keep the system regular and secure healthy digestion.

"I am 120 miles from the nearest drug store, and want you to send me a dozen boxes of your Pills. I have muscular rheumatism, and for nine months have been at Hot Springs. My liver and kidneys are affected. I find that your Pills do me more good than all the medicine I have taken since the Springs combined."

Respectfully,
W. JAMES.
Marqua Hala, Yuma County, Arizona.
"Your Radway's Pills have worked wonderfully in my family. My children, when sick, have received instantaneous and complete relief by their use. Sudden colds, sore throat, I find quickly cured by the use of your Ready Relief and Pills. They should not be wanting in any well-kept home. That doubly serves what helps you once, helps you truly."

JR. H. E. SCHNEIDER,
80 Hudson street, Hoboken, N. J., and Times Building, New York.

"For years I have been troubled with rheumatism and dyspepsia, and came to the conclusion to try your Pills. I immediately found great relief from their use. I feel like a new man since I commenced taking them and would not now be without them. The drowsy, sleepy feeling I used to have has entirely disappeared. The dyspepsia has left me and my rheumatism is gone entirely. I am satisfied if any one so afflicted will give Radway's Pills a trial they will surely cure them, for I believe it all comes from the system being out of order—the liver not doing its work."

The Plot Thickens.

The Chinese muddle does not seem to grow any less muddled, but rather more so. The bewildering reports as to diplomacy equal the previous bewildering reports of riots and battles. One week the United States propose something that the powers cannot receive; then Russia does the same; then Germany plays this role; the next day these proposals are withdrawn or modified; but in the meantime they have been made the text for solemn articles and mutual newspaper recriminations. Lord Salisbury up to date had been credited with proposing very little. He was pictured as buried in gloomy thought, pondering the weighty questions, and barely snatching time to issue an election manifesto. Now he is credited with supporting the United States in its latest diplomatic absurdity; but this seems to be conjecture, so the question is, where are we? The Americans and English are anxious to get down to business, for are they not both a nation of shopkeepers? But as long as this muddle lasts business gets worse; but the question is how to straighten the muddle and restore commerce to its normal conditions without, in your attempt, making matters worse.

This is the problem, and the greater the delay the greater the paralysis of Chinese government, and the danger of the partition of the Celestial Empire, which is to be deplored if not avoided. In the meantime Russia has got a firm grip of part of Northern China, and Germany would like to seize some strong positions under the pretext of being at war with China, but the Kaiser will need to step warily in this new venture. In the meantime Li Hung Chang is professing friendship for everybody, and the ministers are solemnly investigating his credentials, and the real ring-leaders are determined to escape, and are not particular who is the scape-goat so long as they save their precious necks. And all the time the people who suffer most are the poor people who are not to blame, and who cannot get out of the way. Altogether, the word we chose at the beginning is the appropriate one. This Chinese business is a muddle, and when it will be un-muddled no one knows. The "Hearchen Chinese" may be blameworthy, but he is certainly to be pitied that he laid himself open to the kind attentions of the powers.

United States Elections.

The United States presidential election takes place five weeks from this Tuesday. The probabilities are that President McKinley will be re-elected. This is a good year for governments, whether at home or abroad, for times are prosperous, and the people do not care to risk a change that may injure their prospects. It is calculated that McKinley will have the support of eighteen states, with 190 electoral votes, and Bryan the support of nineteen states, with 161 electoral votes. So far comparatively little interest has been taken in the contest, but the fray is expected to live up during the ensuing month, when the big guns go on the stump.

Northwest Evidences.

The homestead entries recorded in Manitoba and the Northwest during the first eight months of the years from 1897 to 1900 inclusive number as follows:

Eight months of 1897.....	1,707
Eight months of 1898.....	3,065
Eight months of 1899.....	4,894
Eight months of 1900.....	5,674

The taking up of homesteads in Newer Ontario and Newer Quebec, for which no returns are yet available, has been equally marked. Canada's waste lands are being brought under cultivation, for the benefit of settlers generally.

Canada is well satisfied with Laurier.

The Montreal Gazette says that Sir Charles Tupper is accused of being fond of ancient history, but that Mr. Mills is just as bad, that his address at Dresden was almost wholly historical. Sir Charles is criticized, not because he talks history, but because he talks autobiography. Mr. Mills did not preach a sermon on the text "I did it all," but gave a very interesting sketch of the political history of the country. Of that sort of history we have not too much, but too little. Liberals, for instance, are in some danger of forgetting the splendid chapter in our history which treats of the establishment of responsible government. The more history the better.—Toronto Globe.

And our Toronto contemporary might have added that the address by Mr. Mills was eminently appropriate to the occasion of its delivery. He was formally withdrawing from the House of Commons constituency after 39 years' service, and was addressing his old constituents. The various questions he discussed were questions in the settlement of which he had taken part. It was appropriate that he should review these issues, and, as it were, render an account of his House of Commons stewardship. It would have been inappropriate for him not to have done so.

Beware of Over-Confidence.

As the weeks go by and the interval before election day grows shorter, the prospects of a splendid triumph for the Government increase and brighten. Never in the history of Canada has a government had more excellent ground for absolute confidence in the result of an appeal to the people, and in that very fact lies the greatest danger. There is one thing, and one thing only, that can possibly qualify the certainty of an overwhelming triumph at the polls, and that one thing is over-confidence. It is not sufficient to rely upon a splendid record and a just cause. The Opposition are very fond of quoting and wilfully misconstruing Mr. Tarte's practical observation that "elections are not won by prayers." Good solid hard work, the most thorough organization, untiring attention to the smallest detail, and unflinching energy until the last vote is polled, will win elections, and this must be the line pursued by every man who desires to see a continuance of the splendid prosperity, progress and development of the last four years. Many seats are held in every Parliament by infinitesimal majorities. Nicholas Flood Davin, for instance, would not have been inflicted upon a long suffering country last election if one more vote had been polled for his opponent. East York would have been represented by a worthy successor to Alex. MacKenzie had four more Liberal electors exercised their franchise. Many others held their seats by majorities which would have been the other way had one vote been added to their opponent's total in each sub-division; and it is not too much to say that in a country where the political parties are so evenly divided, even a strong Government, with as substantial a backing as Sir Wilfrid Laurier's has at the present moment, can be seriously shaken by a moderate relaxing of energy during the critical period immediately preceding the voting. This is a matter for the practical attention of every earnest Liberal. It is the individual effort which tells.

One Good Effect.

We wanted a great deal for Canada. This is a great agricultural country, a producing country. We wanted to encourage the importation of British goods because we knew that we would thereby encourage the exporting of our own goods to England. And we were right. Our exports have doubled under the new tariff.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the benefits of Canada's preferential tariff in favor of Great Britain.

Mr. Blair All Right.

Oppositionists are hard pushed indeed for ammunition when they resur-rect the old charges that Mr. Blair, as Minister of Railways, sent business out of the country by ordering locomotives for the Intercolonial from American manufacturers. The fact is well known, and these gentlemen would not dare to deny it, that before Mr. Blair placed orders outside of Canada, he offered the work to every foundry in the Dominion that had the facilities for carrying it out. In each case the order had to be declined for the gratifying reason that the various firms had enough work on hand to keep them employed for two years ahead, and Government contracts then in hand were months overdue. The necessities of the Intercolonial made it imperative that the new engines should be turned out with as little delay as possible, and consequently the orders were placed outside of Canada. All this is or should be well known to any man presuming to write or speak upon the question.

The Exodus Turned.

The following is the number of immigrants from the United States who settled in Canada in the last three and a half years:

In 1897.....	712
In 1898, over.....	9,000
In 1899, over.....	12,000
In 1900, first half of year.....	8,000

Many of these are Canadians, who went over the border to make a living, in consequence of the dullness that prevailed in the Dominion prior to the establishment of the new order of things in 1896.

A Great Manufacturer Speaks.

Mr. W. E. H. Massey has declined, because of pressure of business affairs, to contest West Toronto in the Liberal interest, but he has taken pains to let it be known that he is heartily in accord with the present Government. He says:

"As is generally known, politics are not in my line. I am, however, an independent supporter of the present Government. While not subscribing to their policy in its entirety, I believe the Laurier Government have rendered the country magnificent service, and should undoubtedly be returned; and I have confidence that, with the experience gained during the present term, they will be prepared to administer the affairs of state in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. I shall therefore support the Government."

The manufacturers know how to appreciate a party that has brought prosperity to the country.

Laurier and Canadian unity.

Men cannot be too careful how they make their wills. They should always get the aid of a good lawyer and avoid all ambiguities in details. Through not making his desires clear in the will which he left, a Lobo man, after he died, gave employment to eight lawyers, employed by his beneficiaries to defend, in each case, what they believed to be his wishes. This was good for the lawyers, but costly for the beneficiaries.

Unsanitary.

Judge Rose took occasion at the last assizes to take exception to the sanitary condition of the London court house and jail. Whenever judges find court houses in an unhealthy condition it is their duty to point it out. We had not regarded the court house as unhealthy, and it is not an old building, as the judge supposes. The original court house was an old building, but the present one was rebuilt about twenty years ago. The front half of the court-room is new, and it was then practically a new building. We do not take exception to the remarks of Judge Rose or to his opinion that the city and county should join together and erect a new court house and municipal buildings. Some day it will likely come to that, whether the present buildings are healthy or unhealthy. Strangers judge a place by its public buildings, and buildings are educators. A new court house and municipal buildings would add much to the appearance of London, and could be erected on the most approved plan, having reference both to health and appearance. New buildings would be a good thing.

We are inclined to think that the faults Judge Rose noticed are not in the construction of the building itself. The court room and the judges' room in themselves can have nothing unhealthy, but the sewerage may be, and most likely is, at fault, and the airing of the rooms and cleaning, if not attended to properly, may contribute to the smells Judge Rose noticed. There are other unsanitary conditions in London that would cost little to remedy, and are most likely doing sickness and death among the children and others who come in contact with them. We refer particularly to outside closets at public schools, and to improperly constructed sewers, and to old bones collected and stored within the city limits. If Judge Rose was justified in condemning the court house, there is no language sufficiently strong to condemn whoever is responsible for continuing the public nuisances referred to—namely, outside closets connected with public schools, the collection and storage of old bones and improperly constructed sewers. Whoever is responsible should wake up and remedy the evil.

Exports to Great Britain.

Canadian exports to Great Britain, 1893-98 (Conservative rule), $239,910,167.
Canadian exports to Great Britain, 1897-1900 (Liberal rule), $345,166,142.
"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is too British for me."—Sir Charles Tupper.

The Two Stories.

Imports from the United States are taxed 33 1/2 per cent higher on being brought into Canada than are imports from Great Britain, but the Ontario Opposition professes to believe that even that tax is not high enough, and that the tax should be high enough to keep Canadians from buying in the United States. This is the view held by the Kingston News, which holds with Mr. Foster, ex-Finance Minister, and Hugh John Macdonald, that the high tax platform of 1878 should be revived.

How silly these people in Manitoba must feel when they seriously attempt to get the farmers to vote against the present Administration on the ground that the reduction in taxation by the present Government is not radical enough. They know the argument is all in favor of increased taxation and the abolition of the preference to Great Britain when the Opposition leaders talk here.

Sir Charles Tupper says that he could tomorrow get half a million dollars for election funds in New York if he would take up a certain line of policy. How does he know? Has he been negotiating for a purchase? The Opposition leader sometimes lets slip in a heated address that which his friends expected him to keep dark.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is too British for me." So says Sir Charles Tupper.

"Protection and increased taxes" is the war cry of the Canadian Opposition. The friends of the Government let them talk. It makes it all the easier for them to convince the electorate that a return to the conditions that prevailed in 1896 would be a costly mistake to the great mass of the people of Canada.

WORTH PRESERVING.

Boroughs—Sorry to have kept you waiting so long, for that five I owe you, but I'll send you a check tomorrow.

Markley—For goodness sake, don't! Boroughs—Why not?
Markley—Because I'd be tempted to blow in another five for a frame for it.—Times and Standard.

THE MARKETS

Local Market.

London, Tuesday, Oct. 2.

The market was well attended today both by farmers and buyers and business was fairly active. Attended as it was by most delightful weather, the task of marketing was a very delightful one.

The offerings of dairy produce, while not lavish, were sufficient for the needs of the market. Butter was plentiful and was in fair demand. Prices in this line, as in others, had resumed the normal from which they had dropped with Saturday's rain. No changes were noted today. This might also be said of eggs, which were supplied in adequate quantities to meet all immediate needs.

Fruits were not a very prominent factor on the square this morning. They have fallen far from the high estate in which they were some weeks ago. A similar statement concerning their prices would be inaccurate, for they have maintained their position remarkably well. No plums were offered today, and very few pears, but peaches were very much in evidence. They retailed at prices that varied to an inconsiderable degree from those previously quoted. The health officer's action in commanding a certain quantity of poor peaches on Saturday doubtless had the effect of ridding the square of all the 25c stuff.

Trade in poultry was slow, indeed, and prices varied but little. The offerings were fair and of generally good quality.

The monthly changes in the prices of skins, etc., were put in operation today. No change was made in the price of hides. The rather extended range of quotations in the prices of lamb-skins is necessitated by the present absence of pelts. The lowest price formerly quoted for pelts and the extreme price for lambskins is the present range.

Annual Meeting of the London Branch
—Able Addresses by Field Secretary
Rev. J. G. Shearer and Rev. W. J. Clark.

The London branch of the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance held its annual meeting last night in Dundas Center Methodist Church. The clergymen of the city were well represented, and there were also present a number of those interested in the important work being carried on by the alliance.

The proceedings throughout were of the most interesting character. The chair was occupied by Rev. Dr. Saunders, pastor of the church; while, associated with him on the platform, were Rev. J. G. Shearer, the energetic and eloquent field secretary of the alliance; Rev. W. J. Clark, Rev. J. G. Stuart, Rev. A. J. MacGillivray, and Mr. G. W. Armstrong, treasurer of the local branch in the city.

Very Rev. Dean Innes, Rev. C. C. Owen, Rev. J. W. Holmes, Rev. W. M. Walker, Rev. Dr. Johnston and Mr. J. G. Wright, secretary of the local branch.

After the usual devotional exercises and the rendition of an anthem by the choir, the chairman made his introductory remarks. The aims of the Lord's Day Alliance, he said, were such as to commend themselves to every true Christian. By securing the enactment of good legislation, and the enforcing of the same, it would be possible to secure to all the blessings of the Sabbath, and that it is the duty of every Christian to support the work of the alliance.

Mr. Wright's report showed that there were 130 members of the local branch and that there had been five meetings of the executive held since the last annual meeting. The efforts of the branch to deter and discourage the non-observance of the Lord's Day had been not without good results, and co-operation and support of all who valued the retaining of the sacred character of the Sabbath was needed.

The report placed on record the appreciation of the branch of the manner in which the former president, Rev. Walter Moffatt, had performed his duties.

Mr. G. W. Armstrong, before presenting his financial statement, read the following letter from Mr. Moffatt: "I must express my regret at not being able to be present with you tonight. I can assure you that I am in hearty sympathy with anything that tends to the carrying out of the grand old commandment that says 'Six days shall thou labor and do all thy work.' Apart from the religious side of the question, I know of no commandment that is so conducive to the health of the human race than this one, and the man or woman who works more than six days of the week not only breaks the Divine command, but he or she breaks the law of nature. "I have never even thought of it," she answered.

"My beautiful love, you are fresh and fair as the morning, your eyes beam with the clear light of youth and innocence, your lips have the bright smile of happy girlhood! It was hardly likely you would think of it. Still I have loved you so! I am not young, Dolores; but many a man of half my years has a heart twice as old. My eyes have sought no face save yours, my heart no love but yours—you have filled my life. I have wanted to tell you this for months past, but I have lacked courage. It is your father's trouble that forces it from me now."

"I come of a race that knows no fear; but I tremble for the word which has to fall from your lips, and which will mean either life or death for me!"

"Once more he paused, unable to speak. The Squire looked up at the beautiful colorless face."

"What do you say, Dolores?" he asked.

"I do not know what to say, papa; I am bewildered," she answered.

"I have been too abrupt!" cried Lord Rhysworth. "Dolores, wish I could pray to you; my prayers should be so eloquent that you could never refuse them. I will make you so happy, and will live only for you. No younger man could give you the love, the care, the tenderness, the devotion that I shall lavish on you. Dolores, you will truly be happy with me, I am sure, if you will but risk the trial."

"You are very good," she answered. "But he saw that her lips were pale, and that the words came with difficulty."

"I meant to be kind," he said, regretfully; "but I fear I have been cruel. I must think the matter over. I will take no answer yet—neither 'Yes' nor 'No.' Think over it, Squire, will you do the same? And then, after a few days, you will write to me, Dolores. I do not wish to press my suit unduly, my dear; but always remember that your words will bring me either life or death."

"Whatever happens, Lord Rhysworth," observed the Squire, "I shall never forget your goodness to me."

"Never forget my love for your daughter," was the reply. "Use my influence for me, Squire, and you shall be the happiest man in the world. Dolores, if your heart says one word in my favor, listen to it. I must go now; and when you think of me, answer for me perhaps you will write."

"Yes," she returned faintly. "I will. He took her white, cold hand in his, raised it to his lips, and kissed it with passionate tenderness. Then he whispered a few words to the Squire and retired."

"Father and daughter sat for some minutes after his departure as though they were turned to stone. Then, drawing her to him gently, the old man said:

"What do you think of his lordship's proposal, Dolores. Is it a favor from heaven?"

"I cannot tell," she replied.

"He is very good, very noble; and, oh, child, how my heart I dread poverty and the workhouse! He is so generous and wealthy. He said I should be a rich man. What will you do, Dolores? Can you give me some idea, something to rest my heart upon, something to think of and hope for?"

"I will consider the proposal, papa," she answered. "I cannot decide at once. I must have time."

"You would be mistress of Deeping Hurst—a place the like of which is not in England—Lady Rhysworth of Deeping Hurst; and I should be a rich man. You love me, do you not, Dolores?" he asked, with almost childish eagerness.

She kissed his forehead tenderly.

"I love you so well," she replied, "that I would give my life for you, papa."

"And you will weigh his lordship's offer? I shall try to be satisfied with those words, Dolores. I feel better now. Get me a bottle of the Burgundy with the yellow seal—there is enough

ARE AFTER THE TRUST

A Resolution Introduced in Council to Abolish It.

The People Will Probably Decide the Matter.

Mayor Rumball Scores on Aid. Jolly Who Makes Several Insinuations—Council to Arrange a Reception for "A" Company—Other Business Transacted at the Regular Session.

Last night's meeting of the city council saw the beginning of what may possibly be the end of the hospital trust. From the general trend of aldermanic criticism of the trust, it has long been apparent that there has been a deep-rooted belief that the members of the hospital board are not wise with the wisdom of aldermen. The long-existing dissatisfaction came to a focus last night, whether caused by the Mayor's embroilment or not, and was presented in concrete form by Aid. Brenner.

The proposal is to submit a by-law, first to the council and then to the people, to give to the former the powers that are now invested in the trust. The aldermen are so sincerely of the opinion that they are more capable of conducting hospital affairs than the members of the trust, that the by-law will most likely meet with their approval, so that it will rest with the people to determine the future status of the trust. Other matters considered were of a relatively unimportant nature, but the irksome sameness was relieved by the game of shuttlecock and battledore, in which words were the shuttlecocks, and Mayor Rumball and Aid. Jolly the players.

Before proceeding with the usual business, Mayor Rumball, who presided, took the opportunity to thank the council, and the public generally for the kindness that had been extended to him during the past two weeks.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Three petitions for remission of taxes were referred to the committee.

The following communications were referred to No. 2 committee: Frank Kallan, for use of the farmer's pavilion at the fair grounds; Joseph Leath's request for permission to connect his premises with the sewer on Dundas street east of Egerton; Thos. Evans and others for a cement walk on the east side of William street, between Grey and Hill.

No. 3 committee will consider John A. Foster's and A. McMurphy's application for a position as fireman, and T. McCormick's request for an electric light on Grand avenue.

In Mr. McMurphy's application he stated: "I have lately returned from South Africa, where I have been a member of B Company, first contingent. I was at the battle of Paardeberg, capture of Bloemfontein, and a number of smaller engagements. I lost my situation when I volunteered to marry."

The council was notified of the commencement of a suit, brought by C. E. Wright against the city, to recover $120 damages for loss sustained through an alleged defect in the thoroughfare. The action will be defended.

The council was invited by the London tobacco factory to visit the latter's works. The invitation was accepted.

COMMITTEES.

No. 2 committee recommended that three men's agreement be entered into with the butchers who use the butchers' pavilion on the market square. It has heretofore been difficult to collect the $12 yearly fee that is at present charged them. Carried.

No. 3 committee reported that it had examined the fireman's uniforms and recommended that they be accepted, and the accounts for same and for firemen's caps, $472.87, passed for payment.

The council proposed that one-half the cost of road repairs be paid by the city, and the other half by the property owners. The recommendation was adopted.

NO. 2 COMMITTEE.

In No. 2 committee's report was a clause empowering the city engineer and Chairman Winnett to visit Stratford and Berlin to inspect the filtration beds. The former is ill at present, so the matter was referred back.

A recommendation in the same report to grant Mrs. Hilda A. Shane $50 without prejudice for injuries caused by a fall on a defective sidewalk. Immediate action will prevent a lawsuit.

The question of a pavement on Dundas street, between Wellington and Waterloo streets, was referred to next year's council.

NO. 1 COMMITTEE.

The finance committee's recommendation to charge to the debtors' account an item of $202.50, the difference between the cost of a 6-inch and a 12-inch tile for the Canadian Packing Company's drain was adopted. The city engineer objected to the money being charged to the sewer appropriation for the year, as he needs the amount for other improvements. An item for brick gully-holes, etc., was charged against the appropriation.

Ald. Pritchard asked why no action was being taken in the matter of the street railway on South street, and the Horatio Wigle request for assistance in the establishment of a tobacco factory.

In regard to the former, Aid. Jolly said that it had been impossible to obtain Manager Carr's attendance at the committee's meetings. In conversation, Mr. Carr had said that as no rails could be procured before Christmas, the matter might as well be laid over for the time being.

The hospital building committee recommended that a non-resident heating expert be called in to overlook the Victoria Hospital heating plant. This recommendation was made so that reliable advice might be obtained before further expense is incurred. It might be possible to use one of the old boilers, and thus save the cost of a new one.

This suggestion gave an excuse for a display of aldermanic eloquence that has become the monotonous consort of all references to the hospital. There was a prodigious display of opinions advanced about the mistakes, real and imaginary, that have been made during the construction of the hospital.

THAT SETTLEMENT.

As provisional chairman of the hospital building committee, Aid. Brenner refused to move the adoption of the report that the suit between Architect McBride and the city had been settled for $500 and part costs. Its adoption was moved by Aid. Gerry.

Aid. Jolly said that in doing this the committee had overstepped the mark, as they had been given no power to settle the suit. He moved in amendment that Mr. McBride be offered $500, less the amount of the costs incurred by the city by reason of the suit brought by him; less, also, the cost of a certain iron stairway. In speaking to his amendment, Aid. Jolly said that he had found a good deal of underhand work in connection with this suit. He charged the architect with being negligent in the building of the hospital, and that he had been glad enough to arrive at a settlement of the suit, when he knew that the city was in possession of evidence for a contra-claim of $5,000. Information had been carried by members of the council from the city solicitor's office to Mr. McBride's solicitors. He had found it necessary, as chairman, to instruct the city treasurer and chairman not to give information from the city's books to Mr. McBride's solicitors. The only member of the council who had obtained a statement with this information was his worship the mayor. It was conducted very unbecomingly of the mayor to give information to the opposite side, which was fighting the city.

The mayor asked Aid. Jolly if he was aware that Mr. McBride had a judgment against the city.

"I am not aware of it," was the reply. "If so, it was obtained fraudulently."

Aid. Wray ventured to suggest that as judgment in the case was recorded they were only wasting time.

"Aid. Wray can't home," volunteered Aid. Jolly. "The council are not keeping you."

Mayor Rumball—Aid. Jolly, you are not the only one representing the people of this city. Don't let that impression get abroad.

Aid. Jolly—I don't want any sarcastic remarks from your worship. I want you to understand I am just as good a man as you are.

The mayor insisted that that was not the subject of discussion.

"Well, you are trying to call me down for nothing," said the irate second warder.

Mayor Rumball said that Mr. McBride got no information from him that he was not entitled to, and nothing that any other man wouldn't get. He would do exactly the same again. He had taken no part in the settlement of the case.

The mayor was entitled to his own opinion, said Aid. Jolly, but where a man was suing the city he was not entitled to information to help to win his case.

The mayor replied: "If I can't win a case fair and square," he said, "without hiding things up, I don't wish to win it at all."

Aid. Jolly attempted to continue the discussion, but the mayor told him it was settled, and the order of business was resumed.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

The committee reported progress in the matter of a reception for the returning members of B Company.

It was moved in amendment that a committee of the whole council, with the military and citizens, be appointed to make suitable arrangements, but as it was not yet known how many are coming back, it was decided to call the council together at an early date.

It was moved by Aid. Winnett that before the Port Stanley Railway directors take any action regarding the lease of the road, they submit the agreement proposed to the city council.

Mayor Rumball explained that the board was independent of the council.

Aid. Jolly was not content to let the matter be passed over so pacifically. Aid. Winnett's motion, he said, was a slur upon the railway committee.

Aid. Winnett would have replied had not the mayor interposed with: "I stood it; surely you can."

The motion was adopted.

TO ABOLISH THE TRUST.

Aid. Brenner gave notice of motion to have a bylaw prepared and submitted at the next ensuing session of the

THEORIES ABOUT CATARRH.

Peculiar Ideas Regarding a Common Disease.

Mark Twain's cure for a cold in the head was simple, but he claims very effective in his own case; his plan was to eat nothing whatever for twenty-four hours, or, presumably until the trouble had disappeared.

Although not able to speak from personal experience as to the effectiveness of this treatment, it certainly has the merit of extreme economy, but it is a case of nasal catarrh might be attended with difficulties.

Catarrh, as everyone knows, is a chronic cold in the head and Mr. Twain's treatment, if it should become a fad, would make of us a nation of fasters; an army, emulating the example of the immortal Tanner, who achieved world-wide fame by fasting forty days.

Catarrh is certainly becoming a national disease, and there is little doubt but that errors in diet, particularly over-eating, is a very common cause.

Most people, however, are more interested in the cure of the trouble than in the cause, and modern medical science has produced more effective and less heroic remedies than Mr. Twain's.

Guaiacon is a new remedy, very effective in some forms of catarrh. Eucalyptol is another, which on account of its antiseptic properties, is very valuable, while many severe cases of chronic catarrh have been entirely cured by the sanguinaria, or extract of blood root, alone.

Within a year an enterprising chemist has combined all of these remedies in tablet form, palatable and convenient, and the superiority of this tablet over other catarrh remedies is so apparent that all druggists now carry them in stock to supply the popular demand.

They are called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and it is doubtful if any medicine has achieved a national popularity in so short a time as this.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are used by thousands of traveling men, because they can be carried in the pocket and used any time and in any quantity, being free from Cocaine, opiate or any poisonous drug.

They clear the head and throat from the disgusting secretions of catarrh, very often in a few hours' time.

For nasal catarrh they are far superior to any wash, lotion or ointment, the use of which is often as inconvenient and annoying as the disease itself.

For coughs, colds, bronchial catarrh and all ailments of the stomach these tablets give immediate relief and a permanent cure where lotions, douches and inhalers make no impression whatever.

This preparation is a boon to catarrh sufferers, and the suggestion will tell you that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a remedy that has come to stay.

Off the Track

This means disaster and death when applied to a fast express train. It is equally serious when it refers to people whose blood is disordered, and who subsequently have pimples and sores, bad stomachs, deranged kidneys, weak nerves and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla puts the wheels back on the track by making pure, rich blood and curing these troubles.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills. 25 cents.

On the big steamer Oceanic there is no seat at table marked No. 13, nor any cabin bearing that number. This is a concession to superstition.

A short story is like a bottle of horse; the tail is not continued.

TO PREVENT IT IS BETTER THAN TO REPAIR IT—A little medicine in the shape of the wonderful pills which are known as Parnelee's Vegetable Pills, administered at the proper time and with the directions adhered to, often prevent a serious attack of sickness and save money which would go to the doctor. In all irregularities of the digestive organs they are an invaluable corrective and by cleansing the blood they cleanse the skin of imperfections.

B.B.B. Cures Hives.

Children suffer from hives as a result of derangement of the digestive system and impure blood.

Mothers know that there is nothing better than Burdock Blood Bitters to correct stomach disorders, to purify the blood and cure all rashes and eruptions.

Mrs. J. Hannon, Badjeros, Grey Co., Ont., writes: "My little boy was troubled with impure blood and hives came out on him. After using doctors' medicine and not getting any relief I decided to buy Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using one bottle the little fellow was completely cured of the hives and his health greatly improved."

HONORED BANDMASTER HAWSTRAWER.

The Chicago British-American of Saturday contains the following paragraph: A committee representing the London Old Boys' Association of Chicago attended a concert given by the Pullman Band in the Pullman Theater on Wednesday evening last in aid of the Galveston sufferers. The principal reason of the committee's trip to Pullman was for the purpose of presenting to Mr. J. F. Hawstrawer, the leader of the famous band, a beautifully-framed address from the people of London, Ont., in which they expressed their pleasure at having the band visit the city of London, and the hope that it would do so hereafter. The address was signed by F. G. Rumball, mayor; P. McPhillips, president; P. Love and B. C. McCann, vice-presidents, and James S. Bell, secretary. The presentation on behalf of the citizens of London was made by Mr. W. A. Small, secretary of the Chicago London Old Boys' Association, who, in a neat and pleasing speech, spoke of the excellence of the band and the popularity of its leader, Mr. Hawstrawer. The address was read by Mr. W. A. Small, and the London Old Boys, and referred also to the unbounded hospitality which the citizens of London had shown to himself and his men while they sojourned in the Forest City. Those who were present at the concert were: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Small, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Strong, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Macpherson, and Mr. T. Weston, president of the London Old Boys.

JUDGMENT FOR THE DEFENDANT

In the Milligan vs. Macdonald Case—An Important Decision in Favor of a London Lady.

Chancellor Boyd on Saturday delivered an important judgment as to the respective rights of the creditors and a widow to the life insurance of a debtor even in cases where the latter expresses a desire that his debts shall be paid from the policies. The case was that of Milligan vs. Macdonald, and was tried at St. Thomas some time ago to ascertain the right to $25,000, proceeds of certain insurance policies on the life of Norman Macdonald, deceased. The plaintiffs are the creditors, and the defendant is the widow (now a resident of London), of deceased. Held, that the policies being effected under the Ontario insurance act, the proceeds must go to the widow as beneficiary, under section 159, the parol declarations of deceased not being sufficient to change the statutory trust, nor can the letter written by him and received by his wife after his death be enforced by the court. All the money is the property of the widow. Before making regard to the expressed will of the deceased that the creditors shall be paid, there will be no costs. Judgment for defendant.
