Capture of Westhoek Village Completed by British; Raiding Parties are Very Active

Paris, Aug. 10.—French forces last night made further progress against the German positions on the Belgian front. The Frenchmen broke into the German lines, occupied several farms to the east of Bixchoote and west of Langwarck, and captured a number of machine guns, according to the official statement given out today by the French war department.

New York, Aug. 10.—A special cable to The New York Times from Rome, dated yesterday, says: "That the point of view of the Vatican regarding the war has been seriously changed—greatly changed—during recent months is the gist of an article in The Giornale d'Italia.

(By Stewart Lyon, special correspondent of the Canadian Press) Canadian Army Headquarters in France, Aug. 10.—Under the protection of a heavy barrage shortly after four o'clock Thursday morning, raiding parties on a front of over two thousand yards penetrated the enemy's positions in the Cite du Moulin and St. Laurent sectors returning with several prisoners.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—The anti-conspirationists have answered the question whether they are prepared to use force. They gave it during the night when they attempted to blow up the summer residence of Lord Atholstan at Cartierville and succeeded in breaking twenty-two windows, damaging the walls and causing considerable havoc within the house.

London, August 10.—The French forces on the left flank of the British lines in Belgium made further progress to the east and north of Bixchoote last night, according to the official report made at the War Office today by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig.

Further German attacks, notably south of Allies, on the Aisne front, and in the wood, in the Verdun region, and northwest of Flibry, in the Woivre, were checked by the French. The Germans leaving prisoners in the hands of the French.

Evacuating Armentieres. Paris, Aug. 10.—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Hazebruck says it is learned there that the whole population of Armentieres will be evacuated. No details are given.

Boches Are Brief Berlin, Aug. 9.—via London.—The supplementary communication issued by the German War Office tonight reads: "On the west there is nothing of importance to report. "In the east there were successful engagements in Bukowina and Moldava."

Murder Intended Cartierville is now part of the city, but until a few months ago was a suburb on the back river. It is about 8 miles or so from the heart.

German Official Berlin, Aug. 9, via London.—(British admiralty per Wireless Press)—The text of the German official statement issued to-day reads: "Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht: Unfavorable fighting conditions hindered the development of lively fighting activity the afternoon."

Vienna, Aug. 9, via London.—(British admiralty per Wireless Press)—The official communication issued by the Austro-Hungarian war office reads as follows: "Army of Baron von Rohr, fighting on Hungarian eastern frontier: There developed yesterday in all sectors favorable engagements in the course of which we achieved gain of terrain. Vigorous enemy attacks were sanguinarily repulsed.

Notwithstanding that to-day's conference ostensibly is called to decide the question, it seems doubtful if a decision will be reached, or even if a vote is taken. It is expected that the real decision will be to wait the Allied Labor conference at the end of August although to-day's proceedings are likely to a great extent to dictate the ultimate course to be adopted.

Polish Question The question of Poland should be settled in accordance with the wishes of the Poles, and in all cases, including Luxembourg, where independence has been temporarily destroyed, each must be allowed to settle its own destiny declaring that the victory of Germany would be the defeat and destruction of democratic liberty. It disavows the desire to crush Germany politically and economically, and declares that while it is resolved to fight until victory, it is equally resolved to resist any attempt to transform the war into a war of conquest.

African Colonies As regards the African colonies and the Sahara, it is declared that those ought not to form the booty for any nations or be exploited by capitalists, but as it is impossible to leave the inhabitants settling their own destinies the "interests of humanity would best be served by a full and frank abandonment by all belligerents of any dreams of an African empire, the transfer of all present colonies in tropical Africa together with the nominally independent republic of Liberia, to the Scarlet Fever at Dover It is reported that there are four cases of scarlet fever among the cottagers in the vicinity of the park at Port Dover, and the inmates are quarantined till Sept. 22nd. There is said to be no great concern among the cottagers, however, and the district is well isolated from the general haunts of visitors to the beach. Dr. Grasset informs us that there has not been a single quarantine card up in Simcoe during the present year, and that he is very anxious that the spell shall not be broken for some time yet.

No Economic War The memorandum deals lengthily with such subjects as food supplies after the war and the prevention of anarchy against projects of an economic war after peace. It makes suggestions as regards the restoring of areas devastated by war, calls for a full inquiry into alleged acts of cruelty and violence during the war and calls attention particularly to the destruction of lives and property by the "inhuman and ruthless" substitution of a court of claims to investigate such cases.

Mrs. Wellington Will Always Thank Friend Who Told Her About Tanlac

"My friends who persuaded me to take Tanlac couldn't have done me a greater kindness for now I'm feeling like a different woman and sincerely hope my statement will be the cause of others finding relief," said Mrs. Alice Wellington, who resides at 142 James street, Hamilton a few days ago. "I was in a general run-down condition, nervous weak and dizzy," continued Mrs. Wellington. "I suffered with something like gastric indigestion had frequent pain in my stomach, and what I would eat seemed to do me no good. My head ached terribly and I had such awful pains through my temples that one day I thought I would go distracted. My blood became so thin that my skin was all covered with some kind of a blotchy eruption one day and night. I was as nervous as a cat couldn't stand any kind of noise, and even if I heard a dog bark it would upset me so I would almost have to go to bed. I would roll about all night never getting much rest, and would get up in the mornings all tired out. I never felt like doing my work and every time I stooped over I would turn so blind and dizzy I would almost fall. I had a dry, scratchy feeling and yet I could hardly sleep at night at all. I suffered this way so long and tried so many different kinds of medicines without getting any relief that I was getting discouraged and out of heart. I took twelve bottles of one kind of medicine and it did me no more good than that much water. A lady friend told me one day about Tanlac doing her so much good that I decided to try it, and there's where the long lane turned. I bought me a bottle of Tanlac and I have been on the road to recovery ever since. I wake up in the mornings now feeling rested and refreshed and I get a pleasure to me to do my household work. I sleep better now, have in a long time and all that tired, lazy feeling is gone. My appetite has come back and I've gained weight and my nerves are strong and steady and all my pains and aches have disappeared. The rash that worried me so is so nearly gone that I hardly notice it any more, I have gained a few pounds in weight and as I said before I'm feeling like a different woman. A medicine that will do so much for suffering people is worth recommending to the public and it's a pleasure for me to make this statement."

AFTERMATH

(Continued from page 1) of the city. There is not the slightest doubt that the perpetrators intended to kill. The explosion went off just about 4 o'clock and were it not for the fact that the stuff had not been properly placed death would have resulted. The explosive had been packed into a hole made in a corner of the house beneath their sleeping quarters but fortunately had not been packed hard enough to produce full results.

HARD OR SOFT OR ANY KIND OF CORN

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers. It is a sticky substance which dries the moment it is applied and is said to simply shrivel the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus. You are further warned that cutting a corn is a suicidal habit.

POTATO PROBLEM ENDED—CITY HAS BALANCE IN PLACE OF SHORTAGE

Ald. MacBride's Report, Submitted to Council Last Night, Refutes Rumors of Deficit—Food and Fuel Bylaw Again Up.

The long expected report upon the city's plunge into the potato market was submitted to the council last evening, in a manner which more than exonerated MacBride from any suspicion in connection with the transactions. A total credit balance, after the payment of all accounts, according to Ald. MacBride's statement, of $4.85 will remain in the city's hands. Passage at arms were frequent during the evening, several members of the board finding ample room for criticism in the report submitted, but in the face of all Ald. MacBride came off with flying colors. The delay in collecting accounts he attributed to direct disregard of his instructions by A McAuley, market clerk, in allowing potatoes to be taken away without first being paid for, submitting evidence to prove this charge. Ald. MacBride also hotly resented a statement that R. J. Welsh, a local grocer and ex-member of the council, had any hand in the potato deal, characterizing such a claim by Mr. Welsh as an absolute falsehood and a contemptible piece of business. Ald. Wiley and Harp corroborated the fact that Welsh had made such a statement, although admitting that Ald. MacBride had no knowledge of his connection with the transaction.

Ald. MacBride's report in full, read as follows:—

To The Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Brantford, Gentlemen.—In presenting this report, I regret exceedingly the necessity of referring even briefly to the campaign of vilification and falsehood which has been conducted throughout our city, in connection with the purchase and sale of potatoes by the Municipality.

So far as the false insinuations which have been made against myself personally are concerned, I propose to pay no attention to them whatever. The matter was not a personal one in any sense, but was rather an honest effort to fulfill the duties of my position as an Alderman and to do something tangible in the interests of the people. The remarks have been aimed at me personally, but the object, in my opinion, was to discourage any future effort of this nature, by the Municipality. As to whether it has been successful in its purpose is a matter the people will have to settle for themselves. Certainly, if we are sincere in our desire to reduce the cost of living, something further along this line will have to be considered by the Council, as the opportunity arises.

Before proceeding further, it may be well to refer to a reply made by Ald. Bragg at the last Council meeting, wherein I stated that "if there was a shortage, Mr. McAuley's office would show that shortage." I took particular pains at that time to also state that I had the "honesty" of Mr. Bragg's office. When the question came up in Council so unexpectedly, I was at somewhat of a disadvantage, as I had not had an opportunity to check over the records, and being a new man at the Council Board, I was not aware that the Council proposed an adjournment for two months, else I would have

News of the Exchanges.—In discussing the recent break in Bethlehem Steel "B" a good Wall Street authority stated yesterday that the strength shown in the market during the last two weeks had been largely brought about by short covering, and was of the opinion that this break will shake out a lot of small holders and that stock should be a buy now.

Friday, Aug. 10th, 1917.

THE SITUATION

Kerensky is making a vigorous effort to straighten out the Russian tangle but the dual task of restoring order at home and at the same time getting the troops into some sort of shape at the front is a herculean job which at the very best must take a long time, even if it is ever accomplished.

OVERSEAS MEN WILL VOTE UPON CONSCRIPTION

A prominent Swiss manufacturer, whose position enables him to have first hand knowledge of affairs in Germany, makes the statement that the Fatherland has reached the last quarter, and that victory is within the grasp of the Entente nations, if they persevere.

THE DOCTRINE OF DYNAMITE

The dynamiting of the residence of Baron Athelstan, proprietor of the Montreal Star, affords cogent evidence of the extent to which traitors in Quebec are prepared to go in their devilish design to intimidate those who believe that there should be conscription in order to maintain the Canadian contingent at the front.

THE LIBERAL WESTERN SITUATION

When the Liberals of the West decided to get together in convention it was undoubtedly the expectation that they would "do things". It was in particular stated that they intended to take a clear stand with reference to immediate aid for the boys at the front, and to intimate to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that they would only support him as leader in so far as he was prepared to implement that decision.

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"
HATTIE WARREN
Port Robinson, Ont., July 8th, 1915.
"We have used 'Fruit-a-lives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine.

NOT DESTROY REORGANIZATION

The outcome of the convention will probably stiffen the resolution of conscriptionist Liberals throughout the country to support the Government which has enunciated that policy. It may diminish the chances of the organization of a Union Government such as was previously contemplated. It will not, however, it is said, destroy the possibility of a reorganization which will give representation to elements outside the Conservative party which are in favor of compulsory military service and Canadian participation in the war until victory is attained.

THE LIBERAL WESTERN SITUATION

Nothing thing happened. It is true that a resolution was passed declaring that "all necessary steps" must be taken to secure reinforcements, but when one of the delegates wanted to add the words "by compulsion, if necessary" the proposal was promptly ignored.

As far as the "white plumed knight" was concerned, a resolution was adopted to continue under his leadership as the "greatest of all Canadians," without any reference of a course to the fact that he opposed Confederation, loaded that white elephant, the Grand Trunk Pacific on the nation, and a few other things too numerous to mention.

The truth of the matter is that the convention which started out to do such big and independent things was manipulated in a slick way by Oliver and some others of like ilk. That the rank and file of the Western Liberals are not satisfied may be taken for granted, and the Winnipeg Free Press, the leading Liberal newspaper out West, after reviewing Sir Wilfrid's attitude towards conscription, makes the emphatic statement that the proposal to follow him will be regarded by most Western Liberals as "an un-speakable infamy".

KILLED IN ACTION. E. Richards of Hagersville, and W. A. Simpson of Caledonia are reported in this afternoon's official casualty list as killed in action.

RETURN MATCH. A team representing the Brantford Golf Club, will play a return match with the Lakeview Golf and Country Club, Toronto, on Saturday, leaving by the 10:29 G.T.R. which will stop at the Lakeview station for the convenience of the local players.

A DOUBLE BLOW. Mrs. T. Stuart, 181 Sheridan street, received notice to-day that a nephew had been killed in action and another seriously wounded.

EMMA HARVEY. Messrs. J. S. Hamilton and Co. have advised that a shipment for them from Pelee Island has been delayed because the "Steamer Pelee" had to be loaded with wheat of this year's harvest. This is explained by the fact that Pelee Island is Canada's most southern point and is a couple of weeks ahead of the crop on the main land.

TO COLLECT SUBSCRIPTIONS. As repeated requests that the balance of the subscriptions to the Brant County Patriotic and War Relief Association for the year 1916 be paid, have been ignored and there is now about $4,000 of the $158,000 originally subscribed, that has not been paid, a general meeting of the members of the Association was held in the Public Library last evening when a strongly worded resolution was passed authorizing the executive to place the particulars of all unpaid subscribers in the hands of a solicitor who is to write a final letter to the delinquents, and those who do not respond, will be compelled to explain their reasons for non-payment in the division court.

BASEBALL. The Homedale Cubs of the City Baseball League have been reorganized and with the assistance of some new players will meet the Motor Trucks in the second game at Agricultural Park on Saturday afternoon. A battle royal is promised in the opening contest when the Cordage and the Dominion Steel Products conflict. The former aggregation has been greatly strengthened lately and have supplanted the Motor Trucks in second place, and are now evidently bent on giving the league leaders a scramble for the first position at the head of the column.

Y. M. DIRECTORATE. A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Monday night when important business will be considered, and the policy for the coming season determined upon.

OFFICES RENOVATED. The offices of County Clerk A. E. Waits and County Court Clerk W. A. Hollnake, have been renovated and now present a much improved appearance. The improvements were authorized at the last meeting of the County Council.

CAREFUL WITH THE COPS. Since the silent policemen have been taken on the strength of the local police force, several of them have been the sufferers through automobile accidents. Chief Slemis this morning stated that drivers of all kinds of vehicles should exercise more care, and slow down before making the turn at the corners, where these traffic signs are on duty.

DECORATED GRAVES. In the early part of this week the Chinese colony of the city marched to the cemeteries and decorated the graves of their fellow countrymen.

BOWLING OVERSEAS. An interesting letter has been received by Mr. F. S. Blain, from Captain George H. Sager, of the 125th Brant Battalion, in which the writer gives an account of a bowling match with the Milford Surrey Club. The rink consisted of Cliff Barker, of Paris, who was a well-known bowler of that place before going overseas, Capt. Sager and Lieut. Charles M. Sheppard, who were both former presidents of the Pastime Bowling Club of this city, and Capt. Van Someren formerly of the Dufferin Bowling Club. The local men administered quite a defeat to their opponents, the final score being 33 to 15.

A VOLUNTEER. Trumpet Major Taylor has had two applications for enlistment at the tent on the market this week, both of them being however from men over the age limit. One volunteer was sixty years of age, and had a son in the trenches, but was still anxious to enlist himself, offering to serve six months even without pay. "When a man of his age comes forward," says Trumpet Major Taylor, "don't you think it a disgrace for young men to hang back like slackers?"

BACK IN TRENCHES. Through a letter just received, Mr. George Macdonald, of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, has learned that his son, Lieut. Norman Macdonald has recovered from the wound which he sustained in the knee some time ago, and is now back with his unit, the 4th Battalion, in the trenches. He was reported wounded with shrapnel, in the casualty list some time ago, but the wound was not of a serious nature, he recovered quickly and is now back on the firing line, in the coal district of France.

POLICE COURT. Peter Kravcov, a foreigner employed at the Dominion Steel Products munition factory was the complainant at the police court this morning in a case of non-payment of wages. He had been working on a bonus system and within a few days of the time when the bonus would have been earned, he was taken ill and was unable to work. As the required amount of work had not been accomplished the factory refused to give him the bonus. Magistrate Livingston thought that the foreigner should have some consideration, and ordered that he be paid $20.00, the amount of his claim. The foreign element of the city is neither so discreet nor discriminating in the use of language when they enter into controversies with each other, judging from the number of charges that have been preferred recently, insulting, threatening and abusive language. This morning Catharine Sitrotzki paid costs amounting to $4.35 to remind her to select more lady-like words from her vocabulary in addressing Mike Zartzki.

Sub Campaign Can Never Starve Britain

Statistics on Results of U-Boat Warfare Show Futility of Effort; Great Bar to Destruction of Subs Is Difficulty of Locating Them

London, Aug. 10.—Another named merchantman has sunk a submarine, but, because of the fate of Captain Charles Fryatt of the British steamer Brussels, who was executed in July, 1916, by the Germans, for attempting to ram a submarine, the names of the captain and crew of the steamer and particulars concerning their achievements cannot be published.

The captain and crew of the vessel, however, have been presented with $2,500 by Sir William J. Tatem, chairman of the Tatem Steam Navigation Co. for their deed.

London, Aug. 10.—The Times naval correspondent writes: "The loss of the Brussels, the first week of August are not very different from those sustained during the four weeks of July. When the necessary corrections are made it is found that British vessels over 1,000 tons sunk numbered 19, one more than the previous week. Compared with the average for July the losses are slightly higher. A phase of the U-boat war outside of any figures is that indicated by the Admiralty announcement of the loss of the Belgian Prince. The cruel circumstances under which her seamen were murdered is remarkable even in the grim record of submarine outrages. The popular appeal for the figures of tonnage destroyed shows no falling off, but the officials still refuse to supply such information. There is one comparison which the present method of issuing figures admits, namely, between the number of vessels attacked and the number which escaped. Adding together the losses of both ships over and under 1,000 tons and those unsuccessfully attacked. In the four weeks of March out of 151 attacks the escapes numbered 58, or 38 per cent.; in April 36 per cent.; in May and June respectively 41 and 44. In July the proportion went back to 39. In other words well over half of the vessels attacked get sunk. The ratio of escapes remains about the same, notwithstanding the increase in the number of armed vessels.

"These figures make it more interesting to note that while in this country the official view of the submarine menace appears to have taken on more sanguine coloring there is manifest in the German press a perceptible cooling of the expectations which were encouraged earlier in the year. The reason is probably to be found in both fears or hope around the big toll taken in April may have proved illusory. This is far from saying the danger has passed. It is fair to draw the conclusion after two years of preparation for a short glorified campaign. Germany again failed to execute her plans. The result is admitted in Berlin, and is shown by the change in the attack on merchant shipping in bulk. She has abandoned for specialized attacks on selected vessels. Less torpedoes are wasted and larger cargoes sunk. How the campaign on these lines progresses the figures in the official tables shed no light.

"It may also be assumed that if the campaign is no more successful the next six months than the last, this country ought to be able to survive it. To make this certain there must be progressive effectiveness in an offensive war. The increasing value of aircraft in this war has already been pointed out. The great bar to the destruction of the submarine is the difficulty experienced in locating it under water. Inventors of all the allied nations should concentrate in an endeavor to discover an instrument which will surmount this difficulty.

may say that no grocer or wholesaler in this city had anything to do with the purchase of the potatoes, whole that I consulted Ryerson Bros., wholesaler with regard to the best quality to purchase, and took over a carload on the way to them, accepting the bill of lading at a cost of $3.75. As for what Ald. Mellen has said to the people of Brantford the best judges of the market price of potatoes.

Ald. Wiley enquired whether it was not true that R. J. Welsh, an ex-councilman, had not sold out his load of potatoes to Ald. MacBride. This, he stated, Mr. Welsh had told him he had done. Ald. Harp corroborated Ald. Wiley as to Mr. Welsh's statement.

"Such a statement," declared Ald. MacBride, "is absolutely false, and if Mr. Welsh declares that he sold potatoes to me, I shall proceed to take action against him at once. I have not exchanged five words with Mr. Welsh in a year, and it is the first time I have heard his name mentioned in the matter. Whether I purchased the potatoes at the market price or not, I shall leave to the grocers upon this board. ('Yes' from Ald. Harp). If R. J. Welsh has made the statement that he had any hand in the potato deal, I regard it as a contemptible piece of business, and an attempt to cast insinuations upon me.

Ald. Wiley inquired whether there was money in the treasury at the present time to pay the accounts as recommended in the report. Ald. MacBride replied in the affirmative. One account which he queried was that submitted by Mrs. McAuley of fourteen days' services at $2.25 per day. He, he stated, had not been responsible for the hiring of Mrs. McAuley, and he hardly believed she could have put in a full two weeks' work on the job.

Mr. McAuley here testified to the council that Ald. MacBride had hired Mrs. McAuley, in his presence, at $2.25 per day.

"Now," declared Ald. MacBride, "we may as well have the whole truth. I tried to spare Mr. McAuley, but he has forced my hand. The reason it has taken this length of time to complete my report is that I have been compelled to collect the sum of $242.74, for potatoes which were delivered without first being paid for in direct disobedience of my implicit instructions to Mr. McAuley. Ald. Bragg himself was the first man to take home a bag of potatoes without first paying for them." Ald. MacBride added an affidavit sworn to by C. S. Vansickle, to the effect that he had heard Ald. MacBride's instructions to Mr. McAuley, and had seen them disobeyed by the latter. "And if it comes to a pinch," declared Ald. MacBride, "I am prepared to repudiate Mrs. McAuley's bill entirely. I try to reach an amicable arrangement with that lady, whom I am ready to see reasonably recompensed for her services."

Ald. Kelly protested against such a course of action, urging that the bill be paid, and that the motion of Ald. Wiley and Harp, this was done. Ald. English expressed the opinion that the aldermen had erred in purchasing any of the civic potatoes. In consequence of I believe that this council, and all fair-minded people, will agree that the above financial statement effectively disposes of the mythical shortage we have all heard so much about, and I sincerely hope that, should this council, or any future council, undertake any measure so much in the interests of all the people, as this one undoubtedly was, those responsible will at least be accorded an opportunity for a fair hearing and a reasonable time in which to make out a statement before the serpent of suspicion is turned loose in this good city of which we are all glad to be citizens.

There have been many mischievous rumors throughout the city. Those affecting myself, as before stated, I propose to ignore. My reply is now before you in cold facts and figures. There is one item, however, which I cannot pass over. It has been asserted that Mr. Hutton had broken into the car on the railway siding and had taken a load away. The facts are that Mr. Hutton was given type-written lists for three loads. Two of these he delivered in one afternoon. The following morning went down early, and finding no one about, loaded up his third load, and reported back at 9:30 for further instructions. The Hutton boys have lived in Brantford all their lives, and are honest, industrious men. I most emphatically resent this insinuation.

I wish to place on record my appreciation of the assistance given by Mr. Unger, Mr. Sutch and Mr. Eason, not only in the evening, but on the holiday, when they all turned in and helped in many ways. Also to Miss Rand of the Clerk's office, Miss Chrysler, of the Engineer's office, and Miss Smalley of Mr. Frank's office, for kind assistance in making out triplicate lists of orders. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The committee investigating the board of works reported progress. The board of works reported as follows:—

1.—That the City purchase from J. T. Wallace Lots 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17, part of 17 on the East side of Elizabeth having a frontage of 89 feet on Elizabeth street and 103 feet and 7 inches in depth for the sum of $2,700, and that they purchase from Frederick Gett Lots 11 and 12 on the East side of Elizabeth street being House No. 34 having a frontage of 85 feet and 10 inches on Elizabeth street and a depth of 103 feet and 7 inches for the sum of $2,425 and that the City Treasurer be authorized to pay these amounts on the deeds of said properties being satisfactory to the City Solicitors.

An appeal from W. H. Littlefield regarding the reduction in the assessment of the Kirby block was referred to the finance committee, and also a petition from residents of Eagle avenue asking protection from the tall buildings to the Board of Works.

W. T. Henderson, city solicitor, introduced the matter of the by-law which the council some time ago gave in reading, authorizing the municipality to enter the food and fuel business. The Ontario Railway and Municipal board, before approving of such a by-law, insisted that

FIGHTING FOR HAPPINESS

When you get into a frame of mind that makes life seem one tiresome duty after another, with no pleasure in it, when ill-health seems to take all the joy out of life and you worry over things that are really not worth worrying about, then your nerves are becoming exhausted, and you are on the way to a general breakdown in health. In this condition your health and happiness is worth fighting for and good rich, red blood is what your system needs. It is a hopeless task to try to restore your health while your blood is deficient either in quantity or quality. And remember that no medicine can be of any use to you that does not build up your weak, watery blood.

To build up the blood and strengthen the nerves there is one remedy that has been a household word for more than a generation—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is the actual mission of these pills to make new, rich, red blood, which restores the nerves and tones the entire system. They give you a new appetite, make sleep refreshing, put color in the lips and cheeks, and drive away that unnatural tired feeling that oppresses so many people. If you want to experience new health and happiness give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

a fixed sum be named as the maximum which the city would invest in the business. The council went accordingly into committee as a whole, fixing the sum at $50,000.00, and making other amendments to the by-law.

On behalf of the council, Ald. Dowling welcomed Mr. Henderson home from the front once more, the captain replying appropriately. Ald. Dowling together with Mr. Henderson were appointed to confer with G. A. Ward, chairman of the high cost of living committee to prepare a resolution to be passed by the council, calling upon the firm of F. H. Walsh and son to give testimony as to the prices charged by them last winter for coal.

In the absence of H. F. Leonard, city clerk, his duties were discharged by F. W. Frank of the water commissioners.

St. Johns, N.L., Aug. 9.—The Newfoundland legislature was prorogued yesterday, but the government announced that a new session would be opened next week. At that time the present vacancies in the legislative council will be filled and the government will again introduce the business profits tax which was defeated at the session just closed.

Claim Against Pittsburg and Los Angeles Upheld by National Com.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Though Federal League, which competes with the National League, may be dead and the player who have them may flounder, iron-clad contract is an iron-clad contract, according to the National Commission, and can not be repudiated. This is reaffirmed in its decision in the claim of Joe Schultz against Pittsburg and Los Angeles Clubs.

Player J. C. Schultz submits a copy of his 1915-1916-1917 contract with the Brooklyn Club calling for a salary of $3,500 a season, with the lease clause stricken out, and requests its enforcement for this season against the Pittsburg and Los Angeles Clubs.

This player was transferred from the Brooklyn club to the Chicago National League Club, and later the Pittsburg Club, which in August 1916, released him to the Los Angeles Club, with which he remained until May 19, 1917, when that club notified the Pittsburg Club that he had been returned to the latter.

SCHULTZ WINS BASEBALL CASE

Claim Against Pittsburgh And Los Angeles Upheld By National Com.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Though the Federal League, which compelled them, may be dead and the players who have them may flatter, an iron-clad contract is an iron-clad contract, according to the National Commission, and can not be repudiated. This is reaffirmed in its decision in the claim of Joe Schultz, detailed below, along with a number of other interesting findings by the court of baseball, as well as a notice of interest to all National Agreement clubs and some conclusions reached by the National board.

Player J. C. Schultz submits a copy of his 1915-1916-1917 contract with the Brooklyn Club calling for a salary of $3,500 a season, with the release clause stricken out, and requests its enforcement for this season against the Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Clubs.

This player was transferred by the Brooklyn club to the Chicago National League Club, and later to the Pittsburgh Club, which in August 1916, released him to the Los Angeles Club, with which he remained until May 19, 1917, when that club notified the Pittsburgh Club that he had been returned to the latter.

The commission on receipt of the player's notification that he was not accepted by the Pittsburgh Club, authorized him to secure employment without prejudice to his interests, wherever he could find it, pending a decision in his case.

On June 13 the player joined the Toronto Club at a salary of $250 a month for the balance of the International League's season, and is still with that club.

The acceptance of this player by the Los Angeles Club was under an arrangement by which that club agreed to pay him $2,400 of salary stipulated in his major league contract, which expires in 1917. The player's retention throughout 1916 and until May 19, 1917, proves that his work was satisfactory to the Los Angeles Club and this long service is considered by the commission to preclude that club from asserting that it had a verbal agreement conferring on it the right to return the player, which his playing was not acceptable to it. That club can not therefore, evade its salary responsibility to the player until the close of its 1917 season.

The commission rules that the player's three-year contract, which expires this year, entitles him to a salary of $3,500 for 1917, payment of which must be made as follows: One thousand one hundred dollars by the Pittsburgh Club and $2,400 by the Los Angeles Club, under its agreement with the Pittsburgh Club. The salary received by the player from the Toronto Club in 1917 shall be credited on the amount due him from the Los Angeles Club.

A settlement for the amounts overdue shall be made at once through the office of the secretary of the commission by the Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Clubs and subsequent payments made twice a month in the same manner.

ALGONQUIN PARK. This attractive Ontario Government reserve of nearly 2,000,000 acres is one of the popular resorts this year. Splendid fishing has been experienced and the weather is all that can be desired, 2,000 feet above the sea and swept by pine-scented winds, assures the visitor of pleasant days and cool evenings. The Highland Inn, situated on Cache Lake, is the social centre of this great reserve, and the log cabin camps built on picturesque lakes some miles distant from the hotel have become most popular. All are of one accord that there is not a summer resort in America that surpasses this beautiful territory. Free illustrated literature telling you all about it, from Grand Trunk Railway Agents. The year before last, at the Ontario Agricultural College there was an attendance of 5,000 and last year on Mr. R. J. Fleming's farm, near Toronto the crowd during the three days totalled 20,000. Speaking as a sportsman, Mr. Lockie Wilson expressed the belief that there would also be an equal number here. He explained that the crowds latterly were reaching such large proportions because of so many farmers owning automobiles, that fact enabling them to come from a wide radius.

The Women's Institutes of the entire county of Brant will undertake to help feed those in attendance and it is expected also that the accommodation of the Brantford and Paris hotels will be taxed to the utmost.

Deputation Pays Visit To Bailey's Farm To Make Arrangements For Matches Of Provincial Plow Association

Thousands Expected And Henry Ford Will Be Among Them

The annual Provincial matches of the Plowman's Association and traction demonstration, to take place in Brant County, on October 24th, 25th and 26th will be a very big affair.

The scene of the event will be Mr. Bailey's farm (the old Milloy farm) situated between Brantford and Paris, and close to the Grand Valley and Lake Erie and Northern lines.

A deputation of gentlemen to make arrangements was in the city yesterday, consisting of Mr. Lockie Wilson, Ontario Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, Mr. J. McLean of Richmond Hill, and Messrs. T. A. Paterson and F. Weir of Agincourt. They were joined at the farm by Warden Rose and Mrs. G. T. Wood, President of the North Brant Women's Institute, and Mrs. Rose, Vice President.

The fields were selected for the various events and other arrangements made. It is expected that between 75 and 100 plowmen will compete in the various classes and that there will be thirty tractor machines at work in connection with plows, harrows and cultivators. Mr. Henry Ford, the well known head of the Ford Motor Company, will be among the exhibitors in the last named respect, and has announced that he will be present.

LEAFS UP SECOND; GRAYS DROPPED

Toronto Made It Three Straight In Series With Providence Team

Providence, Aug. 9.—Nap. Lajoie's batters left town to-night with a clean-up in the series, the third and final game going into the Toronto kit on a tally of 1 to 0. No bats were shed over the departure of the club that wrecked the fans' hopes of a pennant, temporarily at least. By handing the Grays their third defeat this afternoon Egan's men dropped out of the leading berth, Newark moving in again as the result of a decision over Montreal.

The contest was fast and away the prettiest of the series one of the best staged here this season in fact, with a top line pitching duel between Jack Warhop and Ed. Reulbach as the banner feature. Not until the ninth did the defence crack and then the Leafs slipped through the tally that killed the Providence hopes.

Reulbach Cracked in Ninth. Scoreless when the ninth was ushered in, Lajoie's men pressed the attack, and Jacobson made the run that was partly due to aggressive ball playing and partly to a wobbling defence. The former Colonial Leaguer opened the round with a fine one-base slam to right. Whitman wanted to take a crack at the pill with a cellar swing, but the play called for a sacrifice, and the veteran had that in his kick, his out, Tutweller to Massey, sending Jacobson to second. Reulbach passed Lajoie purposely. Then it was that Reulbach cracked, a wild pitch sending Jacobson to third. Allen recovered the ball and made a frantic effort to head off the runner, but the peg carried past Thomas into left field, and Jacobson's kick, his out, ney home. Thomas sent the ball hurling back to the plate, and Lajoie tried to advance to third, but was nailed, Allen to Thomas. The Grays could not get the lead off of the field in their half of the ninth, but three men facing Warhop. The Grays made but four hits off Warhop's delivery while the Leafs got to Reulbach's slants for but the one.

Brilliant fielding stunts featured the game, which was played in 80 minutes with Truesdale, Schultz, Ouellet, Tomblay and Thomas carrying off the honors.

to all the other New York players in run getting. He had crossed the plate sixty-nine times when the latest averages were compiled. Walter Pipp is far ahead of all other Yankees in this department, with sixty runs to his credit. Stengel has been the busiest run getter for Brooklyn, with a total of forty-three.

Sporting Comment

KAUFF LEADS GIANTS. A new batting leader has stepped to the front of New York's ball toilers during the past week. Last week Frank Baker of the Yankees was showing the way among the stickers of the three local clubs, but the Trappe mauler has slumped since that time and Benny Kauff has done some climbing. To-day the stocky little fly chaser of the Giants holds first place among the regulars with a batting mark of .309.

Kauff for the past few weeks has been waving the willow as he waded it, when opening the Federal league. He reached the century mark in base hits during the week and superseded George Burns as the batting leader of the Giants. Burns has dropped dangerously close to the .300 mark, and unless he braces up he may be fourth on the Giants' list, as Wilhoit and Heinie Zimmerman are at .300 and .290 respectively. A few days' spurt would carry Bill Rariden over the line, too.

Five in the .300 Class. Five players of New York's three clubs are listed in the select set, according to the latest unofficial averages. They are Kauff, Burns and Wilhoit of the Giants, Russell is the nominal leader with a mark of .313, but as he has taken part in comparatively few games the crown belongs to Kauff. Russell took quite a drop during the past week and Baker also fell off a few points. Both must do better this week if they are to remain in the select society. Baker, Burns, Zimmerman and Kauff have reached the century mark in base hits, going over the line in the order named.

The Robbings are without a .300 hitter. Zach Wheat, who has been out of the game for some time, lead off of the past week with a mark of .296. Duibert and Olson should deliver their century hit this week and Stengel also has a chance to get there. None of the Robbings has yet reached the mark.

George Burns is showing the way

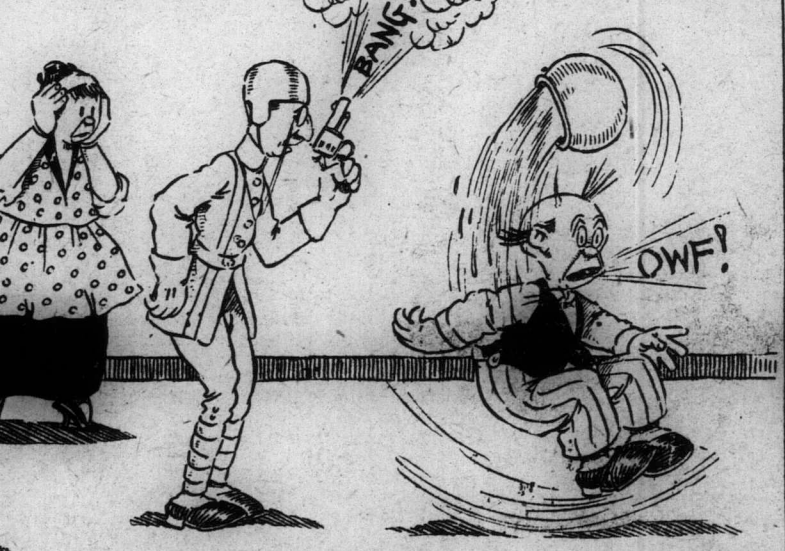

Where You Cannot Prophecy — PREPARE! NOT even the best-informed man in government or business circles dares to attempt a prophecy of conditions after the war. # NEW WOMEN ONE RESULT OF WAR TIME CONDITIONS

Men's Places in Every Branch of Work Filled by Women in Old Land, Often to Better Effect Than by Original Workers

(London Weekly Despatch)

"Well, the women were not a tall, gaunt Canadian as the procession of fourteen thousand women workers passed through London yesterday.

He was periously poised on the top of a taxicab and those standing near cheered him and his sentiments. That was the attitude everywhere yesterday afternoon. Everyone was on the best of terms with everyone else, and most of all with the women workers, hundreds of them, marching proudly with floating banners. It was Women's Day in London, and the greatest enthusiasm came from the men in khaki, and those in the familiar faded blue hospital garb.

Women began to gather on the Victoria embankment soon after two o'clock. They came in groups of five or ten first taking their places in their appointed sections and prepared for a long wait, as the procession was booked to start at 3.30. There were women in simple white gowns, women in nursing garb, in the overalls of the munitioners, and the khaki of the Women's Reserve Ambulance. There were sad and worn elderly women with husbands or sons in German prisons.

No section came in for so much notice and cheer as that of the railway engine cleaners, rigged up in dark blue dungaree trousers and smock to match. Many of the women had hastened down from their morning shift, without having had a moment to spare for a brush up.

One young girl had come along without her working gear. New dungarees were found in the wagon next by, but the lassie found something wrong and could not get into the overall. A gallant Jack-tar came to the rescue and with general amusement his help overcame the difficulty.

The trousers indeed aroused much good-natured handiwork. The wearers were aged from eighteen to a gray-haired woman of two and fifty. "Hullo Ma" said a working man to her, "Got the trousers on?" "It ain't the first time you've worn them brooks, I'll bet." "Nah they'll want the vote."

The Spectacular Touch

Women were taking their grand children to see the procession. One little baby girl was much excited in the search for mother. At last grand-ma espied her. "But why has she got daddy's trousers on?" was the tremendous question.

No W. S. P. U. procession would be complete without the spectacular touch, so there were floats and tableaux and flower-decked lorries filled with small, white-clothed boys and girls, children of W.S.P.U. members and there were countless banners extolling Hughes. "We want Hughes," "Pro-Germans," "Bring Back Hughes," etc. But it was the groups of women workers which roused the enthusiasm of the great crowds lining the streets. St. Michael's Miss Olive Terry in shining armour, Joan of Arc (Miss Farmer-Bringshurst) mounted on a staid old horse, Queen Elizabeth in all her glory, the sister nations, France and England, grasping each other fitfully on a high wagon. Serbian peasants picturesquely garbed, all these were applauded; but it was the women who were doing the real work who were cheered to the echo.

There were over 300 women from munition factories in gray, khaki color, blue or brown overalls and caps. Most of them were on night shifts and had no sleep, but were in high spirits all the same. "Our manager didn't want us to come," said one of them. He told us it was a suffragette procession, but we came all right. It's for Old Glory all the same, we say." Most of the munition women were tall, straight and young, but here and there one found an old and worn face and stooping figure.

The "Danger Section"

The crowd shrieked as if hoarse when the shell fillers who work in the "Danger Section" went by, marching like young Amazons, some wearing respirators, others wearing white veils and all with hands stained a deep yellow, and sometimes with yellow spotted faces. As this group passed a lorry filled with wounded soldiers, the men waved crutches and stumps of arms as a great strapping girl held up her yellow hands and shouted, "We've got our scars too, good for old England!" and a woman here and there in the crowd wiped her eyes even as she smiled. It was English youth showing its spirit; it was Britain at her best.

There was none of London's strange reserve in the women's greetings to wounded soldiers in passing conveyances. Never before have Londoners seen so clearly the intense, underlying affection between the firing line and the munitioners at home.

The women in the Women's Reserve Ambulance Corps marched exceedingly well, and wore their khaki in the manner born. They were like a group of trained soldiers among recruits. While the procession was lining up a woman brigadier passing in a motor car, called to a section commander: "Captain, captain," she cried aloud six times. Then a stern "Lizzie" secured Miss "Captains' attention" She had unaccustomed to rank, forgotten the lettering upon her shoulder sash!

Ten women gardeners wore loose blue coats and wide trousers, their women grocers were in neat blue cotton frocks with veils round their heads; they were volunteer workers who send packages of food to Belgian depots in London. The ladies who serve at canteens were in coats and skirts, and the chauffeurs, in tan coats and caps, ran their cars slowly and carefully through the crowds.

"Seems like old times," said a policeman as the last glimpse of purple white and green left the Embankment. "Only a bigger crowd than the Suffragette procession brought out, and there goes the mascot of all these shows," and he pointed to Miss Billingham, the cripple, in her wheeled chair, who has been in every

PROMINENT IN CANADIAN AFFAIRS

A group of persons prominent in Canadian affairs were here pictured at an exhibition of Canadian War Pictures. Lady Byng, is the wife of the former Canadian Commander; Sir R. E. H. Turner is head of the Canadian army in England, and Lord Beaverbrook is the Canadian wonder.

W.S.P.U. procession for years. At the War Office where the greatest crowd had gathered, Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Samuel stood on the first balcony above the main entrance. Bareheaded they found the sun too strong and went inside for hats, and were immediately afterwards joined by Mr. Winston Churchill, who stood in the center with the new War Minister on his left hand.

Mr. Lloyd George was loudly cheered by all the sections as they passed by, and he again and again acknowledged the cheers and beamed upon his new-found helpers who had trailed around his munition banner.

Among all these brave women were numbers of "munition casualties"—the wounded women Tommies of the work-shops. Their hands and faces were yellow as the long lost sovereign. Marching bravely in the procession, London yesterday had an object lesson from these women—"canaries"—the munition towns call them—that can never be forgotten.

Here was an object lesson of what women are doing in the war—daily risking their health, undermining their constitution, voluntarily suffering unsightly disfigurement. Wages could not buy that heroic, self-sacrificing devotion to the men in the trenches.

"These yellow women were the soul of the procession. None of the hundreds of thousands who saw them would again doubt whether it is the women's war, too.

In the absence of Mrs. Pankhurst in America, Miss Annie Kenney told a representative of the Weekly Despatch of the changed attitude of London towards women.

"No one," she said, "even in the wildest flights of fancy gave women credit for the wonderful changes war could bring out.

"Could any woman, or man, have seen those disfigured women shell-workers without rising a lump in the throat? I have seen hundreds of such women. The girls can only work in those T.N.T. sheds for a short span. But there is never a lack of more to fill their places—though they, too, will come out disfigured as their predecessors.

"There is no suffrage question today. And until a full and lasting victory is achieved, women will have no political axe to grind."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

FILMETS.

William Russell's one feminine trait is a great love for ice-cream. Ann Murdock is threatening to have her roadster upholstered in red, white and blue.

Jackie Saunders is a crack shot with a revolver and can put a hole through a dime at twenty-five feet. Marjorie Rameau, of the Powell Company says she doesn't care what nickname people give her, but she detests being called "Ramie."

Marin Sais, the star of "The American Girl" films of Western adventure, has so far ridden 9,000 film miles in that group of dramas alone. Charlie Chaplin has a pet goat named Billie who hates every one in the face of the earth except the comedian.

The high cost of living is being felt at the Universal City restaurant. The caterer declares that there must be some "beanless" days at the cafe. The succulent baked vegetable is the most popular dish served to the hard-working actors, but it has soared in price so that it is impossible to make it a part of each day's menu.

William Russell and Charlotte Burton are married. They tried hard to keep it quiet but of course the news leaked out.

Wilfred Lucas, of Triangle, had a real party, the day that the ballroom scene of "Her Excellency the Governor" was staged out at the Yonkers studio, for half the extras in the scene had played for him out in California and crowded around him like long-lost brothers. Lucas shook them and said more nice things that day than any real governor ever thought of.

Following violent rumors from Bear Mountain concerning the tons of trout that were being extracted from the mountain streams by William C. DeMille, Jesse L. Lasky decided to investigate. The vice-president of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation had just motored across the continent and determined to go fishing for a few days' rest. After five days of ceaseless baiting of hooks he gave up in disgust, not having received a single bite with the exception of those which were donated to a few frisky mosquitoes. The remarks which Mr. Lasky made concerning the veracity of one Mr. Mille would not look well even upon a scrap of paper.

THE REX

A one act musical comedy, "The Waiter and the Cook," having all the attractive features of a three or four act comedy, was produced at the Rex Theatre last evening by the Broadway Belles, who presented an entire change of programme from the early part of the week. The catchy music, the ludicrous situations that developed, the clever work of the comedians and the singing of the chorus were all of first class calibre, and were certainly appreciated by the audience.

There is a great variety in the pictures that are being shown for the last half of the week, a four part Triangle feature being the headliner, while the 10th episode of "Pearl of the Army," a Triangle comedy, and "Collie Market" another of the Vitagraph Country Life series for the children are the other numbers on an excellent and well balanced bill.

THE GRAND.

"What shall I tell my daughter?" To that query of so many mothers, an answer is not farred in "Virtue's Blindness," presented at the Grand Opera House for the last of this week by the Edward Keane Dramatic Players. Tell the truth, in the words of the ancient adage, and shame—the prudes and puritarians, "Virtue's Blindness," though a present play, is not farred with the same brush as so many of the present day stage productions, sex dramas with no moral and less of morals.

"Virtue's Blindness," in a word, is a lesson alike to mothers and daughters; a lesson teaching all to keep innocence in the home by driving out ignorance, and to safeguard true modesty by dealing a life blow at false. Presented carefully and capably, "Virtue's Blindness" is a play which can offend none, but affect all, and it's presentation by the Edward Keane players is in every way a notable one. Mr. Keane is cast in the role of the young student for a time the storm centre of the story, while Miss Rbma Reade gives an admirable exposition of Essie Pemberton, the girl endangered by the very blindness of her own virtue. The other members of the company are appropriately cast, a notable success being scored by Mr. Stanley Price in the latest acquisition to the company, in the role of the Rev. Mr. Pemberton. Miss Yvette Paul, the child actress, is also seen to advantage in another of the juvenile roles in which she has won the hearts of so many theatre-goers in the city.

THE BRANT.

New, novel and original; a saga of antediluvian ages, an epic of the twentieth century life, a pulsating presentation of a psychological problem. Such is "Heir of the Ages," Paramount production, heading the week-end bill at the Brant theatre and starring House Peters, hero of countless successful pictures in the past, yet in none achieving so great a triumph as in his in this latest production. Not his alone, for the supporting cast is of unusual strength, and the power and theme of the screen story itself so tense and absorbing that in its development one loses sight of all save the personalities of those artists of the silver-sheet who portray such a vivid page from human life.

In direct contrast to such a picture, comes Harold Lloyd, alias Lonesome Luke, meandering thru super comic adventures in "Tin Can Alley," with his usual elongated and melancholy individuality and inimitable spirit. In two reels of film he succeeds in condensing more genuine, unadulterated laughter, than a yielded by the proverbial barrel of monkeys.

Ruth Roland stars to good advantage in the latest episode of the Pathe serial "The Neglected Wife," while unusually timely and topical showing in the Pathe Gazette concludes an unusually strong bill of motion pictures. Wilson, Rogers and Wilson, "The Irish Strollers," present a refined and pleasing vaudeville offering of original nature and infinite variety.

DOCTORS AND DENTISTS SUFFER FROM AN ATTACK OF ETHICSITIS

Time Coming When Physician Who Does Not Advertise Will be Looked Upon as Having Nothing Worthy to Sell

The Dental Act has been amended by the British Columbia legislature so that dentists of that province can advertise without being stigmatized as unethical. The act of the lawmakers concluded a struggle that has been going on for several months between two factions of the dental profession, the campaign for the amendment of the act being marked by frequent and forceful use of newspaper space by the "advertising" party to drive home their point.

One of the greatest stumbling blocks encountered by the business development department of a daily newspaper is the doctor or dentist with a code of ethics as long as a winter's night.

Broadly speaking there have been two things which blocked progress, stilled initiative and smothered genius: One is ethics and the other is precedent, says Publicity.

Joachim Miller once remarked that books were unable to think for people who were unable to think for themselves. This might be paraphrased by saying that ethics is intended only for folks who do not know how to behave themselves without looking in a book and reading the rules. Only a few men are big enough to defy precedent and these are the men who make history and carve their names high.

Doctors and dentists have decried advertising from time immemorial. In all but two provinces in this Dominion, for a doctor in medicine or dental surgery to advertise is sufficient to relegate him in the class known as "irregular," to bar him from medical societies and to otherwise visit him with a wet blanket in the aspirations he may have to climb the ladder that carries him to medical fame.

Periodical commotion occurs in the medical societies, a tremendous fuss is kicked up and plenty of hair-raising encounters because one of their members has dared to break away from precedent and has used the advertising columns of the newspaper to increase his clientele.

The Montreal Dental College has had two attacks of ethicsitis in the last few months. The first attack was when it prosecuted a dentist for using as a sign a large gilt tooth, the emblem from time immemorial of the dental profession, and the second was when it took proceedings against the Franco-American Dental Institute for advertising sets of false teeth and other dental supplies that were considerably lower than those asked for similar supplies by the profession.

The first case was decided against the dentist and he was disciplined by the non-advertising members of the profession for his "breach of professional ethics," the second case is still pending before the courts and, so far, the advertising dentists seem to have the best of the argument.

Let us hope that the Franco-American Institute, which has strong financial backing and can carry the case to the highest courts in the land, will win out and sweep away the barriers blocking the avenues of approach between those practicing dentistry and the public.

Many dentists consider that the rules prohibiting them from advertising are unduly harsh and they would advertise if they did not fear that some grouchy member of the dental association to which they belong would formulate a charge of breach of professional ethics against them, which, owing to the wide publicity usually given to such news items by unthinking publishers, would result in their being classified as "quacks" or charlatans, whilst in reality they may be as well qualified, if not better, than any other member of their profession.

It is this feeling alone which prevents a great many dentists from advertising, for every thinking practitioner knows that the restriction from advertising works a twofold hardship: First, in keeping them from making their business known in a legitimate way; and, second, in withholding from the people a convenient, easily read and intelligible presentation of information concerning the needs of the teeth.

LADIES' DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.

One fits many occasions when a simple but smart dress is a very desirable addition to the wardrobe. The design shown in No. 8561 has a number of the latest style features, the most prominent one being the fitted waist which gives a suggestion of the popular blouse effect. The sides of the waist are fitted into the figure and the deep points over the hips give a graceful silhouette. The right front crosses well over on the left side in simple effect, and the front is gathered at the waistline with just enough fullness to make it becoming. A pretty piece of ribbon may be used to form the crushed girdle which only shows at the front and is emphasized by rows of tiny buttons on the side sections. The sleeves are perhaps the most interesting part of the whole dress, for they are quite unique and very graceful. They are cut in deep points at front and back, and they button onto a tight-fitting under sleeve. The two-gored skirt is gathered at the regulation waist line.

The pattern is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. The 36 inch size requires 4 1/2 yards 36 inch material, 3/4 yard 30 inch contrasting goods.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

BLESSED BE BUDGETS.

"Now I've got that nice wicker furniture that old couch spoils the looks of the room so I've just ordered a wicker davenport. I didn't mean to get it quite yet but it seems foolish to spoil the room that way. John thinks it is rather extravagant but I say it would be extravagant not to because it would mean that I had practically thrown away all the money I've spent so far."

So one of my neighbors justifies to herself the expenditure of more money than she can really afford. (She doesn't exactly say she can't afford it but I know she can't by the uneasy fervor of that justification.)

Was ever anything easier to justify than spending more money than one can afford?

He Felt He Ought to Buy a More Expensive Car

I heard a man give a most ingenious justification for buying a more expensive car than he had intended the other day—the cheaper make he had meant to buy was so common that it was more easily sold than he didn't think he ought to run that risk. And he said it so earnestly too. There was no doubt that he had quite convinced himself.

But my neighbor's justification was the one I say. They speak about because it is the commonest type.

What's the use of an extra nice suit if you haven't an equally good looking hat to go with it. And Then Your Bag Looks Shabby. And then when you have strained a point and bought an extra expensive new hat instead of making your last year's one do (as you promised yourself that it would be all right to buy that expensive suit) your bag looks shabby. And of course you'd spoil the whole effect if you didn't have silk stockings.

It's a good argument, a perfectly good argument. But there's one funny thing about it. And that is that people seldom if ever bring it to bear when they are buying the first expensive thing, instead of afterwards. Why Don't They Sometimes? Forethoughts?

Why don't they sometimes say, "I had better not buy too expensive a suit. It won't go with the rest of my clothes"? Why indeed? Because we are all weak human beings with a passionate, foolish, ineradicable craving for more and costlier possessions than our neighbors?

There's just one way I know to bring oneself into line with it. To have a certain amount for each department and to know that if you get a too expensive suit you can't get other things to match.

Blessed be budgets, I say. They are the best financial sheet anchor I know of. Only, of course you've got to have for a cable the strength of mind to stick to them.

Good Night N' Stories

HOW THE BLUSH ROSE GOT HER NAME.

Once upon a time, long, long ago, there bloomed in a lovely garden, a pure white rose. She drooped her head when the sun peeped over the hilltops, for she was ashamed to tell him each day that her petal home was still vacant.

This made White Rose very sad, for all the flowers of the garden had rented their places out to little fairy folk. But White Rose bloomed in a far corner of the garden, in a spot where the sun never stopped, and was neglected by the fairy folk as well as by the birds and bees. When the old Emmerson passerby was only a slight glance that he gave her. She was nothing but a plain White Rose with no color to attract the passer's attention, and White Rose drooped on her stem listlessly.

"Now it happened one day that a blue-bird heard White Rose crying softly as he flew by, and he asked her the cause of her grief.

"Because I am just a plain white flower no one wants to live in my petal home. The birds and butterflies don't even know that I'm alive, and I'm so very unhappy," cried White Rose.

"That's queer. I think you're beautiful. Perhaps it's because the fairy folk don't know you're here," answered Bluebird.

"You see, unless a blossom is inhabited by a fairy it has no special beauty for the insects, and perhaps it's so with the gardeners, too. After you share your home with a fairy things may change for you," said Bluebird, and he promised to tell a fairy friend of his who was searching for a new home.

Spreading his blue wings he flew away, soon returning with a tiny fairy on his back. The fairy hopped off in front of White Rose and buried her face in the white petals, breathing in their fragrance.

"Oh, you beautiful rose! I never knew there was a flower in the garden so fragrant as you!" cried the fairy, and she pressed her lips to White Rose's petals.

For the first time in her blossom life White Rose blushed to the tips of her petals.

"Now you are far the prettiest flower in the world with that wonderful blush on your cheeks. I'm sure you and I will make the best of companions," said the fairy, and she began at once to dust the petals home.

When Bluebird fluttered by on his way home that evening White Rose smiled up at him. Bluebird stopped and kissed her pale face and the color dyed her cheeks.

Next morning when the sun peeped over the hilltops, instead of a pale white rose blooming in the corner he spied a beautiful rose whose blossom was touched with pink, and he wondered.

Soon the old gardener came along. White Rose, her face flushed with happiness, nodded good-morning to him.

"Pon my soul, a blushing rose!" cried the gardener. "I didn't know there was so lovely a flower in all the garden."

Before White Rose knew what was happening she was taken up and tenderly placed in the choicest spot in the garden, where the golden sunlight stooped to caress her each day as he passed.

White Rose was so happy that she never lost her delicate blush that had made her the most beautiful flower in the garden, and she soon forgot her old lonely life in the far corner of the garden, when, as a pale white rose, she and the butterflies never visited her.

"Blushed was right—one has to share one's life to be absolutely happy," said the fairy.

White Rose blushed to the tips of her soft white petals. Then it was that the gardener's little daughter named her Blush Rose.

SACRILEGIOUS HUN INDUSTRY

How Germany Extracts Fat From Bodies of Her Dead Soldiers

A copy of the Huddersfield, Eng., Examiner contains the subjoined description of the method used by the Germans to abstract fat from their dead soldiers. The article was translated from the French Journal "La Belgique" by Prof. A. Ludwig, French Master at Technical College of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, Eng. He is a noted scholar and his standing is full assurance of the authenticity of the translation. The Editor of the Examiner says in introducing the article: "The details of the subjoined article are gruesome to a painful degree. We give it, however, as an illustration of the pitch of scientific cannibalism to which 'Kultur' reduces its victims." It certainly is a gruesome story, but as revealing the character of the enemy the free world is fighting, it makes significant reading. The article follows:

We have known for a long time that the Germans strip their dead behind the firing line, roll up the corpses in bundles of three or four tightly fastened together with iron wire, and then convey the dismal packages towards the rear for incineration. Until now the trains loaded with soldiers killed on the French front never went beyond the Liege district. They were sent to the blast furnaces in Cockerill's works at Seraing, and towards the north of Brussels, where the corporation had installed furnaces for burning refuse.

These trains, consisting of wagons—a kind of lime truck with doors opening upward—left a fearful odor behind them. Great was the surprise when it was lately discovered that this traffic took the circuitous Cambral-Tournai-Ghent route doubtless in order to avoid the transports of troops and then proceeded towards Malines, Louvain, and thence to Gerolstein. This attracted attention, as the Eifel tour is without a crematory plant or blast furnace. Moreover, it was noticed that every wagon was marked in chalk, D.A.V.G. (which letters stand for "Deutsche Abfallverwertung Gesellschaft," i.e., German Society for the Utilization of Refuse); and as the traffic was rather heavy during last week, people wondered whether the new Viel-Salin-Saint With line had not been built for the purpose of shortening the track at present followed by these numerous transportations.

After constituting official organizations for the recovery and extraction of fat from flesh and residual waters, "German Science" has taken a new step towards the industrial recovery of by-products, and this time the human body has been made a particular object of human study. Such a scientific and lugubrious idea could germinate in none but a German brain. The results led to the formation of the D. A. V. G., a limited liability company with a capital of five million marks, whose first works were erected within one kilometre of the railroad connecting St. With and Gerolstein. These works are especially intended for the western front, and if the results justify the expectations entertained of them, a second establishment will soon be set up on the Eastern front.

The buildings stand in wooded grounds, in the midst of a large forest of timber trees, which renders them invisible to the rare travellers using this unfrequented line. Electric wires surround the quarters of the working staff—simple dwellings near the main railway line to within 800 metres of the works, where an immense double row of wire netting completely isolates the establishment, which is of rectangular shape, about 210 metres long by 100 wide. The railroad runs around it, and is utilized on the east and north sides for bringing up fuel and corpses.

The trucks are loaded in the north-western corner of the grounds. They arrive chockfull of naked corpses, which are removed by workmen muffled up in what looks like oilcloth, and wearing masks with mica plates. These men, armed with long, hooked rods, push the human parcels towards an endless chain that drags the corpses along by means of enormous cramp irons fixed within half a yard of one another. The bodies enter by a kind of drum into a long, narrow chamber, where, during their passage, they are plunged into a bath that both scours and disinfects them into a drying room, which is likewise long and narrow. Here the bodies are subjected to a current of dry, hot air, from which—owing to evaporation—they emerge considerably reduced in weight. Finally the chain introduces them into the autoclave, where a huge metallic receptacle into which the bodies are automatically thrown by an ingenious contrivance that unhooks them. Inside the autoclave, a kneading and shaking apparatus stirs the mass at the right moment. Three contiguous buildings—bath, drying room and vat—occupy about two-thirds of the grounds on the north side, while the out-buildings take up the other third and the southern part of the grounds.

We may mention, by the way, that the disinfection of the bodies takes place immediately after the unloading by means of formal vaporizations followed by superheated jets of steam.

The real utilization and transformation of the corpses into valuable by-products begins only after their arrival in the autoclave. After six or eight hours boiling in steam, the flesh separates from the bones, forming only a pulp somewhat similar in appearance to meat extracts, but at

Take Off Your Coat and Give the Farmer a Hand!

When, three months ago, we called upon Ontario's farmers for mighty efforts to avert the threatened Famine and World-Hunger, they responded splendidly.

Aided by Providential weather, Ontario's Crop is one of the biggest in her history.

The farmer has done his part.

We Town and City men must do our part.

The crop is on the ground—the farmer can't possibly take it off unaided.

To lose a sheaf of it for want of harvest-help would be an unthinkable crime.

We call upon the Men of Ontario to rouse themselves. To co-operate, employee with employer, in this patriotic service. Many employers have agreed to make it financially possible for their employees to do this work, and the Ontario Government will pay railway fare both ways of all men who go.

Help us, so that we may send word to Ontario's Sons in the trenches — that Ontario's Second Line of Defence stands fast, — that here, as well as there, we "Carry On."

W. H. Hearst,
Prime Minister of Ontario.

S. R. Parsons,
Pres. Canadian Manufacturers' Assoc.

Secretary of Committee.

most black. When the mass has stood a while, the bones fall to the bottom, and the pulp is sent by pumps into the installation specially designed for the extraction of fatty matters by the benzene process.

On the other hand the bones and the residues from the extraction of oils are poured into an oven near the boilers and cremated. The extracted fats are pumped into another building, where the stearic elements are separated from the oleic. The stearine is sold just as it is, but the oils emit such an offensive smell that it is necessary to subject them to a refining process.

This operation is simply performed by mixing the oily mass with sodium carbonate. The neutralized oil is then sent to the deodorizing room, where it is distilled, whilst the by-products of the neutralization are utilized. It is believed by the soap manufacturers, who can no longer find the fatty acids necessary for their industry. The neutralized and partly deodorized oil is sent to the tank reserved for "finished products," whence it is despatched in barrels resembling petroleum casks. Up to now it has not been possible to ascertain precisely what use is made of these oils which had been partly refined. At the ordinary temperature they are liquid, yellowish brown, and nearly odorless. The oil and refinery works occupy the south-eastern corner of the grounds, and the despatch of the oil is effected by the railroad east of the building.

It is interesting to record a few technical details in connection with this enterprise. The heat produced by the boilers serves successively to generate the motive power, to heat the cremator for burning bones and refuse, to supply the necessary steam for the autoclave, the oil works, the bath, and the drying apparatus. The chimney of the works is of only moderate height, and the rising of the smoke and the regulation of the draught is effected by electric ventilators. A single group of boilers produces all the heat necessary for the whole installation, over which it is proportionately distributed. The endless chain does away with unpleasant manipulations, and the working staff is reduced to a minimum, owing to the unsparring use of mechanical processes. The smells arising in the various parts of the works are ultimately sucked up by electric ventilators, condensed in the huge serpentine worm of a still, in the northeastern corner of the grounds, and discharged into the sewer along with the residual waters.

There is a laboratory attached to the works. The staff consists of a director, a councillor of commerce, a chief chemist with two assistants, and 78 workmen. The whole staff is militarized and victualled by the 8th Army Corps. There is also an infirmary near the camp of huts, and on no account is an operative allowed to leave the premises.

It has always been held that necessity is the mother of invention, and it is indeed curious to note, not only the novelty of the idea, but the ingenious character of the installation. And such is the sepulture reserved by the scientific savages from beyond the Rhine for the soldiers that are defending their "Kultur."

Mothers, wives or sisters that are weeping over a beloved victim fallen on the field of honor, in the service of your criminal Kaiser, such is the fate in store for your heroes! Industrial fat!

HARRY LAUDER IN THE TRENCHES

In Characteristically Humorous Vein, Noted Scotch Comedian Writes of His Visit to The Firing Line; Visit To Son's Grave

Harry Lauder is no "piker." Recently some of the Scottish soldiers in France expressed a desire to have the famous comedian visit them just to give them the cheer he knows so well how to impart. Dr. George Adam, the British Minister of Munitions, asked Harry to give up a work that meant the loss of many thousands of dollars to go out to the boys. "The request seemed to stagger him, and for a minute I felt I was to fall," wrote Dr. Adam, afterwards, "but it was the good fortune to receive such a request that took his breath away. 'Give me a week's notice and I will go with you and glad to go.'" I replied, "I give you notice now." Whereupon he called to his manager, "Tom, I quit in a week," and he did, and off to the war zone he went.

Lauder has been persuaded to tell his own story of this memorable visit and to read it is as good as listening to one of his songs. Here it is:

As I dropped off my car one day at the front a number of officers met me—every other one with a wee bit ribbon on his left breast. Then I suddenly discovered I was with Scottish heroes who had won the Military Cross on that memorable 9th of April.

The Scottish Headquarters were quite snugly situated. Everything was quiet for a tense second as we stumbled across the shell-shriven ground. Here, there, and everywhere were the tartans of a Highland regiment; gradually I made out the dialects of many a clachan an' mony a glen.

Suddenly—from the other side of a kno— the pipes skirled a real Scottish welcome; my heart kept time to the beatin' o' the drums! "Whaur hae ye been a' the day? skirled the pipes, and I faltered a wee on the top o' the brae. Beneath me I saw them—what a sight for a Scotsman! The lads who are fighting and winning! Scotia's sons, wi' the good red bluid o' generations o' heroes rinnin' like liquid fire through their veins. And, oh, so cheery—God bless them!

It did not take me long, I tell you, to get to the trenches, singing to the boys and they to me, but I wasn't allowed to go on without interruption. Maybe a German aviator spotted us, but I had scarcely started when the Huns commenced to furiously bombard our bit o' earth. I was nerve-racking, fearful, terrifying. Imagine you can hear the very worst thunder storm ever you can mind of; multiply it a hundred times; think of the ground shaking, being lifted up and scooped up and pitched away in ton loads, and you'll maybe have a slight idea of what it felt like. Man feels but an atom here. Death is at your elbow.

The Germans sent over 200 shells—Whistling Percys" the boys called them—but I didn't like the tune they whistled. I did not! It was not harmonious to the ear, and far too close to be pleasant. I had to laugh at one Glasgow fellow. What a glorious picture he made. He was killed and bareheaded; his tunic lay in the trench beside his steel helmet. His shirt was open at the breast, and his chest, like his face, was tanned brick red. Jock had one foot resting on a stone—in his mouth was a hardy old briar pipe. He was smoking away at it, and when another shell burst quite near he pulled it out.

"Dinna be feart, Harry," he said. "It's quite a' right. These bouders couldna hit Scotland!" A Whistling Percy struck a corner not 50 yards away from where I was standing and the officer in command said, "I think it's getting too warm."

I was sure o' it. Not half a doz-and a' Scotland seemed to be hooch in' outside. I could nae mair sit quiet than the rest o' the party, so I bl' out a w'he hoochs' massel'—the ease by feelin's an' applaud the musicians. Braw, braw lads, every mother's son.

Before I left the Colonel called quiet three cheers for Harry Lauder, and the lusty lungs of 12,000 Scot-ties rent the air. I felt overpowered, aye, an' proud, proud to be among the lads o' ma ain' dear coun-try. Then a young Argyll and Suth-erland private came over. "The boys want the 'Hoose 'Mang the Heather' again, Harry," he said. "Afore ye gang awa'."

And never while life lasts will I forget the chorus, taken up in every part of the neighborhood. Thou-sands of men, each with a big Scot-tish heart, a big English, Welsh, or Irish heart, poured forth such a vol-ume, such a song from their inmost souls, with their faces turned to-wards the homelands across the sea. What a message to the auld folk! It was not a song they sang—it was a hymn! Such will I always con-sider the simpler verses—ah! could you only have heard your loved sons, husbands, and sweethearts—they were singing to you!

There's a wee lassie in that wee heather, There's a wee hoose o'er the sea, There's a wee lassie in that wee heather, Waitin' patiently for me, She's the picture o' perfection, Oh, I wadna tell a lee; If you saw her you would love her, Just the same as me.

And we sung it again, aye, an' yet another time! "Come on now, boys," I said and the lads stood out in the West. "Here, Harry, eyes, a look that made one big, sturdy Highlander grab me by the arm and pull me into his little dug-out in the West. Here, Harry, says he, clapping a steel helmet on my head, "Keep that on. It'll maybe save you a wee bit."

"I'm a' blawn awa' bit ma held the rest o' me 'll no' be worth takin' hame ta' Scotland," I said. "Hae ye naethin' in the shape o' steel trousers?" Still the bombardment went on. The boys didn't seem to mind. They carried on as if they were at camp in peace times. I sat and watched and marvelled. There seemed to be earthquakes all around us. The hot air was thick and heavy with the smoke, the dust, and the smell of burning powder. The first line was getting it hot—the stretcher-bearers were busy.

A Seaforth came over to me dur-ing a particularly heavy fusillade. "It's a right, Harry," he said. "They're gettin' tired now. They'll be knockin' off in a minute!" Sure enough the Germans did knock off. "Whistling Percys" slackened—what I like about the Scottish lads is, they never get tired!

Another day on crossing over the battlefield of Arras I picked up a few souvenirs from the men. From one a German sniper's overall, and a Dundee man gave me a beautiful gold-plated revolver, really a most expensive article, heavily chased and artistically inscribed. "How did you get it?" I asked curiously. "Found it lyin' on the grun'," says he. "Where about?" I questioned again, wishing to obtain all the in-formation possible about the trophy.

"Beside a German officer." "You see," explained the sergeant. "I was on outpost duty one night, an' I met the German officer comin' out a shell hole wi' the revolver in his hand. He wanted to speak to me, but didna get time! I found the revolver on the grun' beside him, an' a gold watch in his waistcoat pocket. It's a champion timekeeper Harry!"

A Greenock chap gave me two souvenirs. "They're no' up to much," he apologized. "Just a Ger-man field cap an' a two-bladed knife. It's all he was worth when I wis feenished wi' him!" I got a German water bottle from a K. O. S. B. warrior whom I met in my travels. "The night I done this fellow in was the best I spent since I felt Auld Reekie," he said; "absolutely the best. I wis dry an' I wis thirlin' for a drink. The bot-tle wis full o' beer an' I never wash-ed my moustache for three days!"

At the headquarters of a Scottish Brigade one evening I gave a con-cert to over 12,000 men—gallant Highlanders and Lowlanders—and after the program concluded I had tea with the General in command. But I couldn't settle myself to eat "me usual." All the pipers were skirlin' outside the windows seren-ading me. "The Drunken Piper" was the tune I kept drinkin' my feet to.

Now, when a Motherwell man makes a strange request like that an' I pull back the veil of time a me in a century an' you never expectin' it—well, it makes you think, an' whiles a makes you talk. We talked.

Now, I am coming to Albert—and my thoughts were busy. What might have been; the bright dreams o' a brighter future. "We get off here," said the officer quietly, and I bent why. As we bit off the Ba-paume road I saw rows an' rows o' white crosses. I followed the offi-cer.

By an' by I stood at the spot where my boy lies sleeping. Ever-thing was quiet there—only the trees whispered. There were hun-dreds o' mounds among the long green grass in that peaceful French cemetery. I knelt down and wished for the impossible. If I could only hear one word—get one last look from the eyes I could feel but not see.

And then I thought o' a' the sons lyin' quiet an' still beside me. I wished that a' the fathers o' the sleepin' heroes were there to mou-nt wi' me—to weep wi' me, aye, an' tae comfort me. That's a'!

YET POSSIBLE TO SAVE RUSSIA State of Army Warrants Grave Anxiety, But Not Despair KERENSKY IN POWER Strong Man of Russia To Shape Future of The Nation Petrograd, Aug. 10—Premier Kerensky has succeeded in constructing his Cabinet. It is perhaps as circum-stances could be expected in the circumstances, when differences of opinion on questions of principle had to be sacrificed to obtain an outward semblance of unity. Kerensky has now a clean slate whereon he can write the future of Russia. The task is one of immense difficulty in the face of the lack of discipline and party for the army, and the financial and economic transport and food crisis. The work requires a Colossus, for not only has the work to be done, but the imple-ments wherewith to do it have to be forged.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—The close of the great Liberal convention here today found Sir Wilfrid Laurier supreme in the official Liberal party, but it is a question of dispute as to how far that fact represents the hostility to his leadership by refusing to support the resolution endorsing his record. The resolution endorsing his record to date, but only expressing a hope that it may be satisfactory in the future. It was the addresses of the Provincial Premiers more than the resolution of confidence that stamped Sir Wilfrid as the leader of the Liberal party in the West.
