A MOTOR RUNS AMUCK.

A Street Car Leaves the Rails in Rosedale From a Peculiar Cause—The Motor Run Amuck.

A motor car on the Church-street and Rosedale line ran amuck in Rosedale yesterday, and was completely wrecked.
The accident was due to defective appliances in connection with the motor of the car.
The car had just turned off South-drive, into the Y in Hill-street and was moving at a good rate, when the motorman attempted to stop the power. The wheels of the motor of the car, which was in position, and the car shot forward with increased momentum.

The motorman endeavored to replace the handle of the motor, but it refused to perform the motions expected of it, and the car reached the end of the line at a high rate of speed. The pole leaving the wire closest of the current, but the momentum attained by the motor was sufficient to send it plowing across the street, and the car was hurled into a fence, 25 yards distant from the spot where the wheels left the rails.
How the accident occurred is not clear, but it is believed that the motor was positioned again was the question which seemed difficult to solve.

Word was sent to the repair shops in Yorkville-avenue, and a motor and trailer were sent over with several long and strong chains. The trailer was run on the rails and placed midway between the runway and the motor, which was then slipped away by rail. The huge chains ran from the trailer to the pole and from the trailer to the motor, and the current was turned on with all force, and the first attempt drove the car and trailer from the runway. The second pull was more successful, and hitch after hitch resulted in the wrecked car being replaced on the rails.

The general opinion among the im-they have taken, except on conditions that German veterinarians be employed to inspect the live cattle and dressed beef before loading for transit to Ger-

JAPANESE FUNERAL RITES.

Mr. Frederic Villiers describes how these were celebrated after the death of a young man.

Many of the sick and wounded who die are cremated, their ashes are collected, placed in small square boxes, interred for a time in the family cemetery.

Curious Ceremonies. Arrived at the cemetery, the procession halted before an altar, on which were placed bottles of sake, fruits, eggs, and birds of various kinds.

He then handed one of the bunches of foliage to this gentleman and retired. The mourner proceeded to lay the branch on a small table in front of the altar.

SWORE TO LOVE IN LIFE'S WINTER.

John Van Malle Takes His Fourth Bride. He Marries Third Wife.

Lyons, N.Y., Dec. 25.—Rev. J. Maxwell, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Fairville, united John Van Malle, aged 77, in matrimony to Mrs. Phoebe Baker, aged 67. This is the groom's fourth matrimonial venture, and this is the third time the bride has been led to the matrimonial altar.

It is a strange thing with thousands of people in Britain to send to friends abroad a tin and a half of plum puddings at Christmas time.

It is a humorous record in the annals of one great steamship company that in the case of a wreck on the coast of Norway the inhabitants of the stricken vessel for months on plum puddings washed ashore in tin boxes.

Many of the sick and wounded who die are cremated, their ashes are collected, placed in small square boxes, interred for a time in the family cemetery.

Curious Ceremonies. Arrived at the cemetery, the procession halted before an altar, on which were placed bottles of sake, fruits, eggs, and birds of various kinds.
