Let's Talk About The Weather.

Expert Opinion Propheesies Poor Winter for the Coal-hauling Brigade--Green Christmas and One of the Most Open Winters Yet Recorded, with Disappointment For Lumbermen and Lovers of Winter Sports.

About this time of the year all classes of people, but more particularly the middle and poorer classes, begin to worry somewhat as to whether the ensuing winter is likely to be a severe season with much little snowfall, says the Sydney Record.

A prolonged period of keen frost and a plethora of "the beautiful" combine to make the winter months a haunting nightmare for those who through a limited income find it more or less difficult to keep the coal bin full.

FORETELLING TRULY.

About this date it has been the Record's practice to ascertain, from the many generally recognized signs, which nature provides, the probable conditions that are to feature the oncoming weeks of hear frost and snow. A year ago the prognostication given through the columns of this paper indicated a green Christmas and comparatively little snow for the remainder of the winter. That prediction proved to be absolutely correct.

THE COMING WINTER

What is the winter of 1911-1912 to provide in the shape of weather?

The prevailing winds for each half of the calendar year are unfailingly determined by the direction from which the breezes blow during the Equinox, when the sun is crossing the equator, that is about March 20 to 23rd, and the same dates in the month of September. Now, during the autumnal equinox the winds were generally westerly, varying from southwest to northwest, and this condition has since been almost constant. Seafaring men claimed that this sign presaged an open fall and their judgement has once more proved sound. The month of October and so far November have been more like spring than autumn. The moon, too, is a source of inspiration for the mariner. By its southing or northing they judge, if during the period of the rapidly shortening day fight Luna sets far to the south then mild and open weather will surely follow, if on the contrary she sets far northward the autumn days and nights will be bleak and blustery. Note the far southing of the moon at the present time.

NATURE INSTRUCTS MAN.

The woodman has many signs by which he judges the likely winter conditions and by these he lays his plans for his season's work in the depths of the forest.

ALMOST GREATER THAN HUMAN INSTINCT.

As the snowfall the most reliable indicator is that little insect the wasp to which nature seems to have given an altogether wonderful and unerring instinct. If the snow fall is to be generous and the carpet of white is to lie in some considerable depth over mother earth and to be early in its coming then these wise little creatures will build their nests high up among the tree branches and contrawise if the snowfall is to be but light and late in coming their winter homes will be found directly at the foot of the tree trunk. The latter condition obtained during the pre-winter days a twelve months ago. Today these are actually built upon the ground, so that it may be taken as an almost certainty that there will be even less snow this season than last.

ALL SIGNS IN ACCORD.

Other signs as read by the man who habitually teams through the woodlands all bespeak a very open autumn and similar winter conditions to follow. The apple leaves still cling to the branches, the dogberries have not yet begun to fall, there is practically no beechnut crop, the robins, the snipe and others of the migratory birds are still with us.

A GREEN CHRISTMAS.

The consensus of expert opinion leans to the view that 1911-1912 will record a green Christmas. This will be disappointing to those who look forward to jingle bells and sleighing parties for this greatest of all the public holidays.

WILL IT BE COLD OR NOT?

As to frost. Following a mild autumn, high or low temperatures for the winter months may best be prophesied by means of the accepted sign of all seafaring men, the southing or northing of the moon during the month of January. Thus Luna setting far away to the northward will bring cold, biting winds from the north and northwest accompanied by prolonged periods of keen frost. As the moon appears farther to the southward so in like degree will the mercury readings be higher and the season milder and more open.

DISAPPOINTMENT VS. COMFORT

Lumbermen, livermen, teamsters, lovers of sleighing, snowshoers, tobogganists and the sportive schoolboy who loves a snowball battle, will feel like punching the face of the woodcraftsman who predicts a snowless winter. Lovers of skating—either outdoor or indoor, hockeyists, horse sportsmen and the devotee of the besom and stone will anxiously and lovingly watch the antics of the lady Luna during the initial days of the new year.

All signs fail sometimes, but the poor man has today the comforting assurance that all the usually accepted indications point to a small coal bill for the coming winter season.

WHAT AN OLD TIMER SAYS.

The veteran harbor ferryman, Captain William Clements, now approaching his four score years and to be generous and the carpet of white is to lie in some considerable depth over mother earth and to be early in its coming then these wise little creatures will build their nests

Yarmouth Harbor

BORDEN GOVERNMENT WILL SEE THAT VAST IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE PROVIDED C. P. R. PUT ON LARGER STEAMERS

The people of Yarmouth—and elsewhere, will be glad to know that it is the intention of the new government to do all necessary work in Yarmouth harbor, says the Times.

During the visit to Halifax last week of the Cabinet Ministers a delegation from Yarmouth waited upon the Prime Minister, to whom they made known the claims of this port. Hon. Mr. Borden was in sympathy with them and at once sent for Hon. Mr. Monk, Minister of Public Works, who gave the delegation an hour of his valuable time. Mr. MacGregor, marine superintendent of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, was the spokesman and in plain terms pointed out to the Minister what is required to make our harbor one of the very best in Canada. He knew exactly what was wanted and went into the most minute details. He surprised Hon. Mr. Monk when he told him of the immense passenger and freight business which was done here annually and so impressed was the Minister that he sent for Mr. Dodwell, at the same time requesting that he bring with him the harbor plan. The engineer arrived with his plan and went thoroughly into the question, informing the Minister that to make a good harbor for the purpose of two million dollars. The interview then ended, Mr. Monk agreeing to do all that was required—provided the C. P. R. put on larger boats between Yarmouth and Boston.

This of course will be done, therefore our people may take it for granted that they will in the very near future have a harbor of which they may well feel proud.

Rev. A. Simpson Retires From Active Ministry

Rev. Allan Simpson, who, with his wife, says the Halifax Chronicle are so well known in Halifax, have for the last year or more, been residing in Bridgetown, in charge of the Presbyterian Church there. Mr. Simpson, some years ago, owing to ill health, had to resign the pastorate of Park Street Church, where he had preached for 25 years. He then went West, and had a thriving little congregation in a town in British Columbia. Again his health broke down, and he came back to Nova Scotia (after recuperating for a time) and settled in Bridgetown, hoping that his native air would act as a tonic and enable him to continue his labors for his beloved church. But again his health became impaired, and he has had to retire from the active ministry.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Simpson went to New Glasgow, where in a community of friends they will make their home. East or West, whatever or wherever his environment might be the Rev. Allan Simpson has always commanded the respect, admiration and affection of the entire community, irrespective of creed or class. His large liberal soul, his scholarly mind and his great Christian gentleness invariably have won for him a place in the hearts of all with whom he came in contact.

Before leaving Bridgetown members in the congregation called upon Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and presented them with substantial tokens of regard and affection in remembrance of their devoted friends in Bridgetown.

This week another Halifax clergyman, the Rev. John Duxan, will be inducted into the Presbyterian Church of Bridgetown, vacated by Rev. Mr. Simpson.

All our Nova Scotia colliers have been working full time and yet they could not supply the demand for coal, and the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company have been compelled to buy coal to supply customers in Pennsylvania.

H. B. Clark Returns to St. John For Trial

Former Bank Manager Will Have to Face Two Charges of Theft.

St. John, Nov. 13.—H. B. Clark the erstwhile manager of the Charlotte Street branch of the Bank of New Brunswick, who was discovered in New York by Pinkerton Detectives and arrested as he was about starting for Europe, a few weeks ago, arrived in this city this afternoon at five P. M. Clark, the prisoner, was brought on the train by way of Montreal. The prisoner was driven to the Central Police Station immediately on his arrival at two o'clock, and at once taken before the Police Magistrate who immediately stated the charge to him, and then ordered him to be remanded to the jail where a cell has been found and set apart for him.

Clark, after leaving the Magistrate's presence, was taken into the private office of the Chief of Police, and there had a consultation with W. B. Jones, of Sussex, who appeared in court on behalf of the prisoner. George W. Fowler, K.C., of Sussex, will defend.

Two warrants issued some time ago on the strength of which Clark was arrested, charged him with theft of $2,477.27 in cash from the Bank of New Brunswick on March 29th, and the value of 100 shares of the bank's stock which he had sold on the same date.

When the train stopped at Sussex on the way to St. John this afternoon, Clark's wife entered the train and saw her husband. She kissed him fondly and pathetically and embraced him fondly. It was a touching scene and the appearance of the young couple told mutely of the painful emotions that struggled within them.

The extradition warrant issued at Ottawa in connection with this case is a distinct souvenir, being the first signed by the new Governor General, the Duke of Connaught, who signed at the top, only his Christian name "Arthur." There is an "X" in red ink, indicative of his Royal blood. It is in printed form.

For pains in the side or chest dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Liniment and bind it on over the seat of pain. There is nothing better. For sale by all dealers.

New Auto Truck

The Halifax Chronicle 8th inst says:—The city's auto truck has arrived from the factory and was given a run yesterday by the agent, Frank Hillis. The vehicle was built by the Alden-Sampson Co., of Detroit, who make a specialty of trucks, and its capacity up hill is three tons. It has single three forward and double on the rear wheels, the tires being of solid rubber. A tip cart to fit on the truck will be built at the city workshops this winter, and a sprinkling tank will also be constructed. It is the intention to use the truck for street sprinkling through the warm and dusty weather, and also to utilize it with the box top for hauling broken stone and material and perhaps aid in the garbage collection service during the heavy season in the spring.

Italian Reverses

The jaunty spirit with which the Italians rushed into war with Turkey has been considerably toned down by recent developments, and the nation is beginning to realize the seriousness of the conflict upon which she has entered. Thus far, little has been gained beyond the almost unresisted occupation of Tripoli. The prestige of the first successful dash has been to some extent lost by subsequent repulses. Press despatches tell of an encounter in which the Italian army was beaten back by the Turks and Arabs. The invaders have been driven into narrower quarters, and there are reports of an outbreak of cholera among the troops. These repulses are no doubt only temporary but the Arabs are capable of harassing the invaders for some time.

Apples From Nova Scotia

Extract from report of Trade Commissioner E. D. Arnaud, Bristol, Oct. 11th, 1911, Contained in Weekly Report of the Department of Trade & Commerce, Canada.

The following is a copy of a letter which has reached this office from a large produce importing firm here which will be of some interest to shippers and especially to any who contemplate sending consignments to this market:—

"We have received two consignments of apples from Nova Scotia by the Royal mail steamers so far this season. The 'Royal Edward' which left Montreal on September sixth, brought for us about two thousand, five hundred barrels, consisting principally of No. 1 and No. 2 Gravensteins. The 'Royal George' arrived last week from the same port and landed for us one thousand, four hundred barrels. Here again the major portion of the consignment consisted of No. 1 and No. 2 Gravensteins. There were also small lots of Blenheim Orange Pippins, and Ribstones.

"The general out-turn of the fruit was most satisfactory. Without exaggeration we can confidently say that we have never seen fruit landed better. Out of the whole of the two parcels we only came across a about four or five sick barrels, and about half a dozen barrels that were out of condition. The Gravensteins were particularly good, but unfortunately arrived on a market already glutted with English fruit. The prices have moved on a somewhat low basis.

"The Blenheim Orange Pippins were exceptionally fine, and sold better, though not making anything like the price this fruit would under ordinary conditions. We are looking forward to a distinct improvement in the market, of which there are already unmistakable signs. We are quite convinced that consignments arriving during the next month, and therefore getting the Christmas demand, if landed in equal condition to the first lots, will make prices which are bound to be satisfactory to the senders."

The King and Queen on Way to India

AN ENTHUSIASTIC FAREWELL SEND OFF TO THEIR MAJESTIES IN LONDON

London, Nov. 11.—King George and Queen Mary left London this morning for Portsmouth to board a new liner Medina which will carry them to India for the imperial durbar to be held in Delhi next month. As this was their Majesties' last appearance in the capital for nearly three months, their departure was made with much ceremony.

Accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, and escorted by Imperial Horse Guards, they drove in an open carriage over a roundabout way to Victoria station. The streets were lined with people, who gave the king and queen an enthusiastic send-off.

There was a great gathering at the station. Those who had come to say farewell, included Queen Mother Alexandra, all the other members of royalty, the ministers, officials of the India office and diplomats.

The weather was typical for a London November morning. A gray mist prevailed. The king, in uniform of an admiral, rode in the first carriage. With him was Queen Mary in a blue dress, and furs. The Prince of Wales and Princess Mary also rode in the carriage. Cheering crowds greeted the royal procession along the route to Victoria station.

Victoria station, from which the public had been excluded, was filled with members.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all dealers.

Young Bank Clerk Fatally Shot.

G. W. Toombs, Ledger-keeper in Bank of Montreal at Lunenburg Found by Fellow Clerk Lying in Pool of Blood.--Supposed to Have Accidentally Shot Himself While Examining Revolver.

Lunenburg, Nov. 13.—A few minutes after five o'clock this afternoon the community was shocked to hear that G. W. Toombs, ledger-keeper in the Bank of Montreal had in some mysterious way fatally shot himself. He was alone at the time in the box, the accountant, H. W. Foban, being up stairs where the bank officials sleep, and on hearing the report of a firearm imagined that it was somewhere on the outside of the building, and he was not in a hurry coming down stairs. It can well be imagined that Mr. Foban received quite a shock on descending to find his fellow clerk lying in a pool of blood.

DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS

Mr. Foban at once gave the alarm. Mayor Kinley was the first on the scene and then Manager G.N.C. Hawkins, of the bank, and Drs. MacAulay, Penney, and Forbes were speedily on the scene, but too late to be of any service as death was instantaneous.

It is not certain whether deceased was examining the revolver or ordered to him.

As is known for the young man to commit suicide as Mr. Mawking reports that his accounts were straight, and all his bookkeeping in good form. The theory of accidental shooting is most plausible, but that the Coroner's Jury now in session will decide.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL

Mr. Toombs was nineteen years of age, and an accomplished singer, and was most popular with all classes in the community. He was much sought after in musical circles, and his death has cast a gloom over the whole town. He was born in Charlottetown, his father being a leading wholesale produce dealer of that place. Undertaker Sweeney took charge of the body and after the inquest will forward it to Charlottetown tomorrow morning for burial. The bank officials are very much downcast over the accident, as the deceased was a great favorite with the community, and they were all very much attached to him.

Rev. J. F. Duxan Guest at Farewell Reception

Friday evening Grove Presbyterian church, Halifax, held a farewell congregational social, in honor of Rev. J. F. Duxan, the esteemed pastor of that church, who preached yesterday for the last time in his capacity as pastor. Practically all the congregation were present, together with a large number of friends of Mr. Duxan. There were addresses by the following city ministers: Rev. R. W. Ross, Rev. Dr. Stewart, Rev. C.M. McInnes, Rev. Anderson Rogers, Rev. Professor Falconer and P. F. Moriarty, Y.M.C.A., all of whom spoke in eulogistic terms of the faithful way in which Mr. Duxan had labored in Grove church for twenty-one years, and of the esteem in which he was held by members of the different denominations. Addresses were also given by Mr. Isaac Creighton and Mr. Wickwire. Mr. W. Cameron read an address to Rev. Mr. Duxan, and presented him with a purse of gold, on behalf of the congregation. Mrs. Duxan was also remembered, receiving a handsome piece of jewelry. The church choir sang a few selections during the evening, including a number by the Grove male quartette. At the close of the addresses the ladies served tea, which was heartily enjoyed by all, and a pleasant evening was thus brought to a close.

Rev. Mr. Duxan will leave the city with the very best wishes of a host of North End friends of all classes for success in his new sphere of labor.

Golden Wedding Guests Find Aged Couple in Death

MR. AND MRS. AUBREY HAD BEEN ASPHYXIATED ON EVE OF CELEBRATION OF 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 7.—Grief today took the place of joy at the house until yesterday occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alton Aubrey. They were found dead in their bed by the guests who had gathered to assist in the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of the aged couple.

Elaborate preparations for the festivities had been made and when a party of guests, among whom was Edward Aubrey, comptroller of the town of Hammond, went to the house, they found no sign of the couple. Unable to arouse anyone within, the door was broken down and it was found both had been asphyxiated by gas.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

The Borden Banquet

Conservatives from all over the Province were in attendance at the banquet at the Mayflower Rink last Thursday evening given in honor of Hon. R. L. Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, and seven of his Cabinet Ministers. From several standpoints the banquet was the greatest affair of its kind ever attempted in Eastern Canada. Over seven hundred guests from all parts of the Province sat down to a most elaborate menu furnished by J. P. Fairbanks, proprietor of the Queen Hotel. John W. Regan, the ex-President of the Provincial Conservative Association, presided in an acceptable manner. On the chairman's right was seated the Prime Minister and on the other side were ranged the various Cabinet Ministers.

DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION TO CURE ECZEMA

The most advanced physicians of this country and Europe are now prescribing a wash of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other soothing and healing ingredients for the cure of Eczema, Proriasis and all other forms of skin trouble. This compound is known as the D. D. D. Prescription.

Dr. Holmes, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for Eczema as is quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." D.D.D. Prescription will instantly stop the burning itch, and in a short time cure the disease. It will not injure the skin, but will make it clear and soft.

You can try D.D.D. without expense if you send for a free sample bottle to the D.D.D. Laboratories, Dept. B.M., 49 Colburn St., Toronto.

MODERATION - THE SECRET

One of our masters in medicine in a recent address to a body of young men entering upon the profession said, "The watchword of success is work." Success applied to the body means health and work is just as necessary for the attainment of health as for success of any other nature. Work is one of our greatest blessings but this is the age of extremes and overwork, an arch-enemy to health, is one of the crying sins of the age.

Too many indulge in the late bed hour. The evening attacks the portals of rest with the battering ram named "favorite book" "latest novel" or "daily paper." We console ourselves by saying "The more sleep one gets the more he wants," while our friends see in our faces and in our tempers unmistakable marks due to late hours of which we make light.

Take also the question of eating. What is the effect of food on the body? Many there are who consider what a person eats a matter of indifference. But look at the evidences to the contrary on every side. Food is the brick and mortar of our physical building. Experience has shown that by food, not only is the body but the moral nature of an animal distinctly affected. Feed a dog on bread and milk and he is mild and tractable. Keep him chained and feed him on raw meat and a wild thing you will have in the kennel.

It has been observed that tribes who live on vegetable food chiefly are gentle and indolent. Others who subsist mainly on meat are savage, while those who live on a moderate mixed diet are like neither of the others. They are vigorous of body, alert of mind and open to culture. Nutrition needed by the body consists of food, drink and air. Like the animal, not only is our physical well-being largely dependent upon our food, but our moral, social, intellectual as well.

In the wise amount of food, every individual must become a law unto himself. Generally speaking, men eat more than women by about one-tenth, to make up for greater expenditure of body cells. In proportion to size, growing boys and girls need more than adults. Manual workers obviously require more food than the sedentary or the idle. In warm weather and in the tropics less food is required.

Storm Played Havoc on the Labrador Coast

Six Vessels Lost, Including Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell's Yacht.
 Boston, Nov. 1.—The severe October storm which swept Northern waters badly damaged the fishing fleet according to a letter from Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell, the missionary physician, written at Red Bay, Labrador. Dr. Grenfell writes that six vessels were totally wrecked, including his own costly auxiliary yacht Andrew McCosh, which was given to Labrador Mission by Princeton University. The other vessels lost were schooners, four of which foundered at Lewis Bay. The crews of all the vessels escaped. The McCosh was wrecked at L'Anse Amour, while on her way to take off Dr. Harrison Webster, of Boston, who is stationed at Battle Harbor, and who was visiting a patient at Forteau Lighthouse. The yacht's crew narrowly escaped with their lives. Dr. Grenfell was not on board at the time.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL IN CANADA

One hundred years of Sunday school work in Canada is a record to be proud of, as shown by the very large proportion of Canadian children who attend Sunday School. Last week the Sunday School Association of Ontario celebrated at Brockville the hundred anniversary of the establishment of Sunday schools on this continent. In 1811 the London Missionary Society sent to Brockville, then known as Elizabethtown, a Scotchman named Wm. Smart, who established there the first Sunday school on this side of the Atlantic. Who can estimate the amount of good which, in the one hundred years which have passed since then, has flown from those schools.

It was an anniversary well worth the remembering, and as the years go by this event should be celebrated wherever there is in this country a Christian church.

FREE IF IT FAILS

Your Money Back if You're Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. They cause a react on, irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons, and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. A cable despatch recently brought the news of the death at Southsea, England, of Francis Blake Crofton, for many years a resident of Nova Scotia and for nearly a quarter of a century Provincial Librarian. Mr. Crofton has been in failing health for some time, the ailment from which he suffered being neuritis. He left Halifax over a year ago to join his wife who had gone to England several months before him. Several weeks ago Mr. Crofton's condition became so serious that he was removed to a private hospital.

CURIOSITY Prompted Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR

THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.

THEY were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.

They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.

Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.

REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry-results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.

Girls Wanted to Tame Lions

(London Standard)

The test of young women applicants for the position of lion tamer at Frank Bostock's Jungle in the White City, Shepherd's Bush, on Monday evening sounded greater depths of emotion than any of the candidates cares to experience again in a lifetime. When Mr. Bostock announced that he would pay seven pounds a week during probation to any young English girl who was ambitious to become a wild animal tamer, he received over one hundred letters from applicants for the position. These included farmers' daughters, shop girls, nurses, and governesses, ranging in age from sixteen to thirty years. All laid modest claim to a certain amount of personal grace, declared that they loved animals, and that they felt possessed of the requisite courage. One of the governesses remarked that after several years' experience with the "boisterous English school-boy she was not afraid of any wild animal living.

About twenty of the more promising of these applicants were sent for by Mr. Bostock, and on Saturday the nature of the work before them and the dangers of the period of probation were explained to them. Two of the number promptly faded from view, but the rest bravely held to their resolution, though a few were white-faced and trembling when Mr. Bostock escorted them into the arena to inspect their future playmates from the jungle. The matinee was just over, and the animals had been made somewhat restless and high-strung by a hard day's work. As a consequence, they resented this unusual intrusion of femininity upon their domain and set up a clamorous roaring that shook the very rafters of the place.

It was anything but a promising introduction under the circumstances, but the girls kept their ground, apparently realising that they were still on the safe side of those strong iron bars. But when the Rocky Mountain panthers joined in the chorus of greeting with their blood-curdling staccato cry, so like the wail of a lost soul, a panic fell upon the huddling group of girls, and more than half of them broke into a frantic stampede for the outer gate, to be seen no more.

The remaining eight stalwarts were again called into Mr. Bostock's office and asked to sign a document releasing the management from all claims for damages in the event of an "accident" during the period of probation. The word "accident" proved susceptible of too many sinister interpretations for two of the already nerve-wrought applicants and they withdrew with more relief than they

RECEPTION FROM LIONESSES.

When the last of the audience had gone, and all was ready, the still eager, if nervous, quartette were conducted behind the scenes to the shadow-haunted entrance of the tunnel-like passage leading from the large performing cage to the rear of every den in the building. On reaching the first den, which was occupied by two African lionesses, the keeper threw open the small door leading into the passage.

"Here, ladies!" he said, with just a flicker of a smile, "you will find the first of your new pets—two real female lions captured in the jungle of Darkest Africa." Recognising the voice of the keeper, one of the tawny brutes poked her huge head into the doorway and gazed at the trembling girls with a purring snort that may have been meant as a friendly greeting, but sounded too much like a snarl to be comfortable. Miss McKay and Miss Smith promptly gathered their skirts and fled, shrieking for help, down the passageway. Their two companions, however, did not move—possibly they could not. At any rate, when the keeper closed the door and went on to the next den they followed dumbly, almost mechanically. The next den belonged to a little young Bengal tiger, and when the door was swung open he leaped toward it, as all caged animals are wont to do in their desire for more liberty of action. The keeper drove him back with a whip but the tiger struck out with one spreading paw to prevent the door from closing. In doing so his paws caught in a portion of Miss Will's fluttering skirts. The door was immediately slammed to, but Miss Will had fainted, and had to be carried out to the arena. Restoratives were promptly applied, but several minutes elapsed before she recovered consciousness, and then her nerves were in such a shattered state that Mr. Bostock summoned a taxicab and sent her home.

Miss Collins, the last of the score of would-be lion tamers, declared that she was still game and would make one more try. This time she was taken to the den of the young maneless lion, Leo, which allowed her to enter with the keeper and linger for a moment in excited suspense. Leo, however, did not trouble to move, and erected the intrusion with an indifferent yawn. When it was all over Miss Collins received Mr. Bostock's congratulations with a wan smile, and said that she was glad she had for once in her life been on such friendly terms with a real lion, but she did not think seven pounds a week was inducement enough to make a practice of it. Wild animal training, she confessed, was quite different from what she had anticipated. Mr. Bostock is somewhat disappointed by the result of his experiment, but says his offer holds good until the end of the season.

Joker's Corner

AT THE SHINDIG.

A prominent college professor took unto himself as wife a very charming and highly-cultured German lady who is exquisitely particular about all small matters.

One night the professor came home worn out with the troubles of commencement. As he was dressing to attend a very formal reception he remarked:

"I wish we weren't going to this shindig."

"Shindig!" repeated his wife. "What is that?"

"The sort of thing we're going to tonight," answered her husband.

At the close of a very enjoyable evening the professor heard his wife saying, "Oh, Mrs. B., I have so much enjoyed your shindig!"

HE LAUGHED.

An old Scotch minister took it into his head to marry his housekeeper. His precursor being ill on the day the banns were to be proclaimed, the minister arranged with his herdsboy to do it. "Now," he said, "you he said, 'you must call out in a loud voice, 'Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray, of this parish, and Jean Lowe, of the same'."

NA, NA.

In a country town in the south of Scotland there was a proposal to start a Pleasant Sunday Afternoon meeting, but objections were raised, and it was resolved to hold a meeting to discuss the situation. When the debate was at its height one of the clergy rose, and, hanging his fist on the table, exclaimed: "Na, na, we'll hae name o' that here; my congregation never had a pleasant Sunday afternoon, and with my will and the help of the Lord they never will have one."

TWO OF A KIND.

"I find that my husband has been having the office boy call me up every day and mumble words of endearment. That's a nice way to fool his wife. He's been going to the ball game."

"How is it that you didn't catch on to the voice?" "Well, I'm busy at bridge every day, and I've been having the cook answer the telephone."

TORTURED FOR THIRTY FIVE YEARS

I really could not live without "Fruit-a-tives"

FRANCAVALLE, Ont., Jan. 29th, 1910. "For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation. No matter what remedy or physicians I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure. About two years ago, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' and I decided to try them. I have used 'Fruit-a-tives' ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for 'Fruit-a-tives' I am satisfied that I could not live!" JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The greatest remedy in the world for all forms of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, is "Fruit-a-tives". Doctors as well as hundreds of people proclaim it. "Fruit-a-tives" cures all stomach troubles because it makes the liver active, strengthens the kidneys, purifies the blood and keeps the stomach sweet and clean. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy made of fruit juices. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Law Breakers—And Should Be Fined

Partridges are reported as being very plentiful in the Provinces this season. In a street in Fredericton, a policeman brought one down with a shot, and from the woods round about sportsmen come in with twelve and sixteen birds as a result of a few hours' shooting. A chap got on the train the other day at Point Tupper with eight partridges, which he said he shot after an hour and a half in the woods. He intended selling them to a dealer in Hawkesbury for twelve cents a piece. We have our own opinion of the man who goes out after partridges with the express idea of slaughtering as many as he can, so that he may gain a dollar or two thereby. He is a very near relation to the man who uses nets and explosives in an endeavor to secure a big catch of trout.—Stellarton Star.

The fellows who shoot more than five partridges in one day, should be prosecuted. The officers of the Game Society must be asleep when this indiscriminate slaughter of these birds is going on, and yet they do nothing to stop it. Hunters are bragging on every side of the number of birds they kill and doing so with impunity too, right under the eyes of the Game Wardens.—Truro News.

LAME BACK

To have a lame back or painful stitches means disordered kidneys, and the sooner you have the kidneys and bladder in a perfectly healthy condition the sooner you will enjoy life. As far as we know, there is only one remedy that is guaranteed to cure you, and that is FIG PILLS. If they don't make you a strong healthy person in two weeks your money will be refunded. At Warren's Drug Store, 25c. per box, or The Fig Pill Co., St. Thomas, Ont.

TALKING IT OVER WITH THE BOY.

Experiences of others in bringing up their boys have so greatly aided me in bringing up my own that perhaps a way which helped me through a trying period with one of my sons may, in its turn, be of use, said a mother recently.

Although for years I had tried to instill good manners as well as morals, there came a time when one of the boys seemed to forget everything I had been at such pains to teach. He positively ignored rights to others and developed little tricks of manner which, while not serious, were exceedingly annoying.

It is a delicate matter to keep calling attention to failings in a big boy of sixteen, and I found our good fellowship was becoming seriously strained. A simple plan suggested itself. I gave up all fault-finding except on one day of the month. On that day we had a good talk and got over it. This cleared the atmosphere, sullenness disappearing. I did not feel duty neglected, yet could stop what had become nagging, and the one serious talk proved far more effectual than constant protests.

Lumber Outlook Not Good

(The St. John Times)

The outlook presented to the lumbermen in this province for next year does not seem particularly encouraging at the present time and, unless a change for the better presents itself, it is not expected that the season of 1912 will be recorded as distinctly noteworthy for its activity. All lumbermen agree that the cut this year is to be greatly curtailed and various reasons are given for the decrease.

The strike in England some weeks ago practically paralyzed business for a time, but trade is now assuming its normal conditions. The disturbance in trade, however, caused much uneasiness. Ocean freights advanced considerably and this fact curtailed shipments during the months of September and October. It has been practically impossible to charter any tramp steamer in the ordinary way for a lumber cargo, as business for them in other ways has been much better. These reasons are attributed by authorities on the lumber trade for the slackness at the present time, but there are others as well.

Stocks of Canadian spruce are not excessive in England, it is reported, but the consumption for the last month was disappointing. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia spruce has formidable competitors in the Russian woods, which up to two years ago were not marketed in very large quantities, but since that time have become factors in the British lumbering trade.

English capitalists have gone into Russia in the manufacturing business and production has greatly increased, and is expected to still further increase. Labor in Russia is not a fraction compared to what it is in Canada, and the costs of production are considerably cheaper, while the ocean freight is only about the half what it is from maritime provinces.

Though it is an acknowledged fact that Russian wood cannot compete as to quality with that of Canada, yet the price when it is considered in the United Kingdom, is responsible for the increased demand as small quantities can be purchased at almost any time and delivered in a remarkably short period.

LOCAL CUT AND NUTS begin in the New Brunswick woods, and several lumbermen have sent crews into the woods but their work will be quite limited as compared with other years on account of the reasons given and because of the general curtailment.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should Not Be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Bridgetown, derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, tending to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives fifteen days' treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Royal Pharmacy, W. A. Warren.

"You don't make very good music with that instrument," said the innocent bystander to the man behind the bass drum as the band ceased to play. "No," admitted the drum pounder, "but I drown a heap of bad."

When He Discovers His Mistake

"In a recent talk you tell of the girl, whose engagement has been announced whose preparations for marriage have partly been made, and you say that the right thing for her to do is to break the engagement when she realizes that she would rather be free. Let us reverse the case and suppose the man has become tired of the girl. It is considered only honorable that he 'grin and bear it,' that he hide his true feelings and go ahead and marry her. Do you think this is right or not?—One who would like to 'know!'"

This is one of the questions which the morning's mail brought Ruth Cameron.

How I wish all the queries and puzzlements which come to me were so easily answered.

Being a Yankee, I think I'll have to meet that question by another.

Do you think, my friend, that there lives a girl who would be any happier to find out that her man did not love her after marriage, when there is no escape, instead of before marriage when there is?

Perhaps the man who discovers that he is in such a predicament, might fancy in a fine glow of honor and self-sacrifice, that he would never let her find out at all, but would keep his feelings a secret for life.

But, alas, fine glows of honor and self-sacrifice die down just as surely and naturally as the log in your fireplace crumbles into cold ashes, and I don't believe anyone short of an archangel could live from a woman in a lifetime of daily living with her, the fact that he did not love her.

She must know some time. It does not seem to me that there is any question when that time should be. I consider that the proper thing for a man to do who finds he has made such a tragic mistake, is first to do nothing.

Let him wait. Let him test himself in every way of which he can think. Let him be sure.

But after he is absolutely sure that he isn't making a second mistake, let him go to the girl and tell her simply and frankly that he doesn't think he cares enough for her to make her happy, and ask her to break the engagement.

In the name of human decency, in the name of kindness that kills "with a soft word," let him not try to hint about the matter. It seems to me that the most cruel thing in such a case would be for a girl to look back afterwards and remember hints which, in the folly of her love and trust, she had disregarded. So let him tell her frankly, quickly and finally.

And now, one more suggestion. When he has broken with her there are still two possible courses left him. He may allow people to guess the truth or he may do everything in his power to give the impression that the lack of love was on her side and that the engagement was broken actually as well as formally by her.

Which course he pursues will stamp him surely for what he is—either an honorable man who has made an unfortunate mistake—or a cad, pure and simple.

Farming Conditions

A writer in November Lippincott's declares that in the United States the movement away from the eastern farms to the great cities has been checked, and that hereafter farming will steadily grow more in favor. The following four reasons for the change are given:—

1—There are no longer cheap or free western lands to compete.

2—The people are learning agriculture so that farming bids fair to become the most profitable of businesses.

3—The trolley, the bicycle, the motor, the telephone, the rural free delivery are bringing the farmer into touch with the great world; his intelligence and business position are improved and improving.

4—Intensive agriculture and the high prices of farm products are making it profitable as well as pleasant for the boy to stay on the farm. Today the young man and the young man who has brains find the land the surest and best place to get a competence.

Possibly this writer's statement is still too sweeping, says an exchange, but if so it only anticipates conditions that are in process of realization. The people of eastern Canada will be slower in getting the benefits of such a change, because there will be for a considerable period the competition of free western lands and the further handicap of a far more limited market than that enjoyed by the American farmer. Free access to a larger market would have to some extent offset the western free land competition, but when it was offered to the people it was rejected.

UNIQUE LETTER BOX.

Paris Invention Delivers as Well as Receives Mail.

In the vestibules of certain of the newer apartment houses in Paris are placed as many of these letter boxes as there are tenants in the building. In general appearance there is little difference between the group of boxes and those to be seen in the vestibule of any flat house in this country. Instead, however, of retaining the letters, cards and so forth until some one descends to get them the French invention promptly delivers its contents to the person for whom they are intended.

Thus when the postman has a letter for M. Bonhomme he deposits it in the box bearing that gentleman's name. The message opens a lever at the bottom of the box, which thereupon moves upward until it comes to M. Bonhomme's apartment. There, by an ingenious mechanism, the contents of the box are emptied into a receptacle in the hall of the apartment, and a bell is rung automatically to notify the servants that a letter has come.

Its duty done, the box descends to take its place with those of the other tenants in the vestibule. And not a letter alone, but even a visiting card dropped into the box, will speed it on its upward errand, so light is the weight required to operate the mechanism.

Faucet That Measures.

Graduated Glass Jar Indicates Amount of Liquid Drawn.

A very simple device for drawing off a measured quantity of liquor from a keg is shown in the accompanying cut. A pipe which leads down from the keg is provided with a communication either between the pipe and a quart jar supported in inverted position above the valve or between the jar and a discharge spout. The jar is graduated into fractions of a quart.

MEASURING FAUCET.

and after the cock has been turned to fill the jar to the desired measure the valve may be turned to shut off the keg and let the contents of the jar flow out into any desired receptacle. In order to permit the jar to fill an air vent is provided, consisting of a tube which leads to the top of the jar. As the jar fills the air flows out through the tube, and while the jar is being emptied air enters through this tube to take the place of the liquor.

Pearls From Coconuts.

Few people know that the cocoanuts of the Malay peninsula sometimes produce pearls that are highly prized by the natives.

The stones are not unlike the pearls of the mollusks and are similar in composition to the oyster pearls, having calcium carbonate and a little organic matter. The mollusk pearl is said to come into existence by the efforts of the oyster pearl to dispose of irritating particles that have entered the shell. But the cocoonut could have no cause for producing these concretions, which, while they have great similarity to the pearl, are not pearls. These concretions form just beneath the stem, and a pure white pearl brings a high price, as it is supposed by the natives to possess some kind of a charm. Cases have been known where the cocoonut pearl has been sold as a mollusk product, but such instances are rare.

The Heat of the Sun.

It is estimated that the earth receives no more than one thousand millionth part of the total radiation of the sun's rays. If any considerable proportion of this heat were concentrated upon the earth it would not only become uninhabitable, but become speedily consumed. If the great accumulation of ice at the north pole were placed at a point on which this tremendous heat could be focused it would melt at the rate of 300,000,000 miles of solid ice per second, and the heat is estimated to generate energy at the rate of about 10,000 horsepower to every square foot of surface.

New British Metallic Lamp.

According to press reports, writes Consul Frederick I. Bright of Huddersfield, a new metallic filament electric lamp is about to be placed upon the market by an English inventor. It is claimed that it consumes less current than other lamps and that an eight-candlepower lamp will give forty hours' brilliant light for 2 cents when the current is supplied at 6 cents per unit. This puts the price of electric light far below gas, and it is stated that gas will have to be supplied at 15 cents per 1,000 cubic feet in order to compete with electric light when the current costs 7 cents per unit. Electric Beans Are a Natural Remedy for Nerve, Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Once upon a time disease was thought to be due to direct influence of evil spirit and magic was invoked to cast it out. Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits still exist. We call them "Disease Germs," and they must also be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines biliousness with its aches and pains, or in fact seventy-five per cent of the ills that affect the human race, is the result. Electric Beans are the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Their action is quick and thorough, they clear the intestines, rouse the torpid liver to new life, stimulate mucous membranes to healthy action and cleanse and invigorate the whole digestive tract. —A most promising beginning has been made on street improvement in Bridgetown. Work has begun on Queen street starting from its intersection with Granville street and has been continued as far as the Ruggles block. The street has been crowded up six or seven inches with the crushed rock, the top soil being first removed.

The Council are of the opinion that the present appropriation for permanent streets about $1,300 of which now remains on hand, together with the usual annual appropriation of six or seven hundred dollars will be amply sufficient to provide Bridgetown with permanent streets. It is expected that Queen street will be finished and a good stretch of Granville street laid in the next few months.

Marys" of the Empire presented to Queen Mary will be turned to a noble purpose by her Royal Highness. She will devote the £65,000 thus obtained to the establishment of a home for working girls. The disposal of the gift evidences her kindness of heart and her wisdom of judgement, and thus more than ever justifies our opinion that the women of the empire have formed of their queen.

Not a little cold water was thrown on the scheme which called upon "the Marys" to donate this sum of money as a coronation gift, the expectation being that the queen would expend the money for an article of personal adornment, and it must be a matter of gratification to the contributors as to her subjects in general that her Royal Highness has made so suitable and happy a disposal of the gift.

Have you considered that Profits were de-

Death of Mrs. William Crowe

(Halifax Chronicle.)

The announcement of the death of Mrs. William Crowe which occurred yesterday morning brought tidings of unfeigned sorrow to the community.
For many years Mrs. Crowe had been a resident of Halifax. Within the domestic sphere she was a woman greatly beloved and respected; but her duties went beyond the home.
She was the helpmate of her husband in his business undertakings, and a valuable aid she was to our esteemed fellow citizen from whose side
she has now been taken.

In her relations with the public
she won a high place for the capacity which she displayed for the peculiar features of the business enterprise in which, associated with her husband, she was, for so many years engaged.
Her own sex were her principal customers and with them her judgment was considered almost infallible, and her taste beyond criticism.

The community will deeply sympathize with Mr. Crowe in being called upon to part with one who so fully exemplified in her character the woman of the scriptures whose "own works praise her in the gates."

Mrs. Crowe had been ill for over a year and had been confined to her room for about six months. She was a Miss Barber, a native of Guelph, Ont., and came to this city with her husband about forty-three years ago, and has since resided here. A husband and two daughters will have the deepest sympathy of all in their bereavement.

POPULAR YOUNG AMHERST MAN TAKES TO HIMSELF A BRIDE

The Cowlitz County Advocate of
Oct. 26th, published in Castle Rock, Washington, is just to hand and contains the following:

At high noon yesterday, October 25, at the home of the bride's parents in this city, Miss Beatrice McLane was united in marriage to Mr. John Kerr Elderkin of Amherst, Nova Scotia, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Mildred McLane, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, beautifully rendered by Miss Ada Brookings of Portland.
The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and the maid of honor pink carnations. The ceremony was performed under an arch of green and white by Rev. Henry Marcotte of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Portland and of which the bride and her family are members. After congratulations a wedding breakfast was served, followed by a reception to friends, from four to six. Those serving at the breakfast were Mrs. D. J. Hille, Mrs. John Robin, Mrs. A. E. Downing, Mrs. H. N.
Peabody and Mrs. Katharine Lovering.
Mrs. G. N. Campbell received at the door during the reception, while Mrs. G.
L. Buland and Mrs. D. J. Hille, presided at the table, assisted by the Misses Marion Coffman, Etta Scott and Grace Graham. The presents were numerous and beautiful, the groom's gift to the bride being a beautiful lavallier of pearls and diamonds. The house was beautifully decorated—green and white being the prevailing colors. The happy couple left for a wedding trip on a south-bound train amid a shower of rice and good wishes of a host of friends.
They will reside in British Columbia.

Mr. Elderkin is the son of Captain and Mrs. E. B. Elderkin of Amherst and a brother of Mrs. E. A. Hicks of Bridgetown.

Balfour Resigns.

Leader of British Opposition Retires
as Chief of Party.

London, Nov. 8.—Mr. A. J. Balfour has resigned the leadership of the Opposition.

The news of Mr. Balfour's resignation caused the utmost surprise and in some quarters consternation. The Unionists do not attempt to disguise the seriousness of the loss of one who is admittedly the greatest asset of the party.

It is understood that Mr. Balfour's decision is unalterable. He advances the state of his health as the ostensible reason for his withdrawal from leadership, but there is no doubt that the bickering in the party ranks was the primary cause. He will remain in parliament representing the city of London.

The choice of Mr. Balfour's successor seems to lie between Mr. J. Austen Chamberlain and Mr. Walter Hume Long. The former is the Liberal-Unionist member for East Worcestershire, and for some time has been mentioned by the opponents of Mr.
Balfour as his possible successor. Mr.
Long represents the Strand.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR MONITOR-SENTINEL:—

What Dr. W. Nelson Cuthbert has to say on "Good Teeth and Good Digestion" in The Monitor of Nov. 1 is one of the best articles I ever saw in a newspaper on the subject of health.

Every reader of The Monitor should out this article out and paste it where it can be read daily. I am certain should every reader do as Dr. Cuthbert has advised, in less than one year all would say their health has greatly improved.

I have had forty years experience along this line and as a result, I enjoy fine health in my seventies. Since I have undertaken to teach others, I am astonished how few have any knowledge of how to run themselves.

The "stomach" is our best earthly friend; and we should study how not to abuse so useful an organ.

Being a native of Annapolis Co., I have not forgotten you. You have seen my advertisements weekly, for eighteen months. You must allow that if those testimonials which I have asked our Editor to publish are true, I must be doing a great and good work. I am sure the half has never been told, and I trust you may become interested in "Health Reform."

News paper editors should publish articles that will enlighten their readers, and help them to seek the better way, for "The life is more than meat and the body is more than raiment."
I remain yours truly,
N. H. REED, H. D.

Men's Missionary Convention

The great Men's Missionary Convention to be held at Halifax on Nov. 22nd, 23rd and 24th will be most thoroughly representative, not only in the attendance, but in its speakers of the great Commissions taking part in it.

In addition to Sir Andrew Fraser and Mr. J. Campbell White, who come as the special representatives of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, the mission boards of the Churches will be represented by many of their leading men.

The Methodist Church will be represented among the speakers by Dr. James Endicott, one of its distinguished missionaries in West China; Rev. A. C. Farrell, of the Foreign Department of its Missionary Board; J. H. Arny, Secretary of the Methodist Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The Church of England in Canada will have as its representatives Canon Gould, the General-Secretary of its Missionary Society, Archdeacon Renison, a well-known missionary among the Indians of our great North West; D. M. Ross, General-Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the Anglican Church; J. Miller McCormick, Supt. of the Cl arch Camp Mission, and L. A. Hamilton, of Lorne Park, Ontario, who has just returned from a visit to the Far East.

The Presbyterian Church will be represented by Rev. A. F. Armstrong, of Toronto, Asst. Secretary of the Foreign Mission Committee (Western Section); F. W. Anderson, General-Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the Presbyterian Church, and representatives of both the Home and Foreign Mission Committees of the Maritime Synod.

W. C. Senior, Esq., Acting-Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the Baptist Churches, will be present at all Conventions, participating in the general program and the denominational conferences. It is expected that strong representative men identified with both the Home and Foreign Departments of the Maritime Baptist Churches will be in each Convention. Mr. Senior will also have charge of the singing in the series of Conventions, and this feature promises to be a most helpful and inspiring one.

The following representative missionary workers of the Maritime Provinces have already promised to take part: Bishop Worrell, Principal McKinnon, Rev. G. R. Martell, of Windsor, E. C. James, of Charlottetown, Rev. A. B. Cohoe, of Halifax, A. M. Pell, of Halifax.

Richard Rogers, Formerly of St. John, Died in Boston

(St. John Times)

Richard Rogers, a former well-known resident of this city, but who had been living in Boston for the last eight years, died there on Sunday, aged sixty-one years. Mr. Rogers was financial man with T. R. Jones & Co., a wholesale dry goods firm of some years ago in St. John, and was also connected with the wholesale house that succeeded it, W. C. Pitfield & Co. For some years previous to his leaving St. John, he was in the life insurance business. In Boston he also followed that line. He is survived by one son and six daughters.

His son, William J. Rogers, is manager of a photograph establishment in Boston. The daughters are: Misses Mary, Nellie, Florence, Leah, Gladys and Frances. His death occurred at his home in Huntington avenue, where he had been ill for a year. The funeral was held here on Wednesday.

Day She Planned

Susy Lu knew to a second when she had become demoralized, but why remained forever a mystery to her. The time was eleven minutes to eight on a Tuesday morning in May.

"That's when my amiability—such as it is—went smash like a soap-bubble," she said to herself, ruefully. "Went just as quietly and just as completely—more completely, for it didn't even leave smudges on the carpet. It all went."

The happening certainly was queer, for things that morning had gone as they always had gone—they had been not a bit harder than usual.

True, she had had to get up very early in order to have a nice hot breakfast ready for the others when they came down, but when had she not had to do this? And "had" is the wrong word, for she liked to do it. Young as she was, she had mothered the household for as long as she could remember, and had gloried in the privileges.

True, too, she had had to climb the stairs seven times to wake her brother Robert; but that was a trifle. She often had to climb them ten times to get Robert to rise. The only task more difficult than getting Robert up in the morning was getting him to go to bed at night. No, seven trips up-stairs were a mere nothing.

True, again, the tea that she had taken up to Aunt Bessie had been declared too hot, or too cold, or too weak, or too strong, or too something, and had to be made all over again.

"That's a performance that comes as regularly as the sun, though," Susy Lu used cheerfully to declare. "If I should ever carry a cup of tea to Aunt Bessie that turned out all right, I'd get the nervous jerks and pour it all over her. Poor dear!"

Lastly, her older sister, Rose, had acquired an attack of neuralgia. There was nothing new about that, however, except the name. Some mornings she had rheumatism, some mornings a headache, some mornings sciatica, some mornings dyspepsia. The cure for them all was a cup of hot coffee with some of Susy Lu's buttered muffins.

"I'm right in a draft," Rose declared as she got down to take the cure.

"Change with me," said Susy Lu brightly, giving up her seat.

"That sun's in my eyes," announced Aunt Bessie, as her contribution to the table work.

"I'll pull down the shade," said Susy Lu. "Have a fried egg, Aunt Bessie?"

"If it isn't broken," replied Aunt Bessie, going sternly into the egg-platter at a specimen whose boundaries of white and yellow were pretty well confused.

"Here's a nice one," said Susy Lu, taking the broken one on her own plate. "Another muffin, Rose?"

"Muffin, yes; charcoal, no," was Rose's utterance, as she studied the muffin pile.

"I'll take the burned ones," said Susy Lu, tilting them then and there on top of the broken egg. "There, Rosie."

Tab-cat, a magnificent Maltess, as almond-eyed and haughty as a mandarin, here opened her mouth and let her jaws creak.

"To be sure, Tab-cat," said Susy Lu running into the kitchen and coming back with milk. By this time the clock was telling a tale that made Susy Lu race to the foot of the stairs and call:

"Robert, you'll never in this world get to school in time if you stay up there much longer!"

"Don't get excited, Susanna Louisa," came the response. "I'm hurrying. And don't forget to pour me out some coffee to cool, will you?"

"I won't forget!" sang Susy Lu, cordially.

Next there was Robert's luncheon to put up. Finally Robert himself descended, doing a jig on each landing. This was a cheerful trick of his, but hard on the gas-fixtures, and it took time. When Robert tried his coffee, the liquid was too cool.

"Have mine," said Susy Lu. "I can drink it cool."

"Talking of cool reminds me," said Robert, his mouth full of muffin. "You know Lean Lonkey?"

"Of course they knew Lean Lonkey by sight. He was a poor, foreign-looking beggar who passed the house every evening on his way to his hut-like home.

"Looks old enough to be his own grandfather, doesn't he?" asked Robert. "Well, he isn't. For he has an old mother living with him. She's bedridden. He cooks all her meals. He's a French soldier. He showed me a paper to prove it. That's where the cool comes in—his coat is so thin. Well, that paper amused me. For how do you suppose he spells his name? Leon Lenchter! And how he

Which is Your Choice?

Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs, or clean, durable Concrete?

Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather.

They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair.

The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough.

Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

Which?

The dampness which destroys lumber only intensifies the strength and hardness of Concrete.

You can impair a wooden trough with comparatively little use; but it takes a powerful explosive to put a Concrete water tank out of business.

makes Lean Lonkey out of it beats me."

"For goodness' sake," implored Susy Lu, "stop talking and hurry to school! You're late now."

"Oh, no," declared Robert, one eye on the clock. "It's only twelve minutes to eight. I've got a whole minute. And I need that for my geometry book. Susanna Louisa, my thou—"

But she was already up and after it and she put it into his hand when he reached the hall door—which was at eleven minutes to eight.

"Robert," she said, suddenly, dropping her voice so that it might not travel back into the dining-room, "why don't you go to dinner tonight at Tobby Green's house? He's often asked you."

"But never when I had car fare," said Robert.

Susy Lu handed him a coin. "Have a good time, Robert."

"Why, you're a darling!" he said, amazed into sincere speech.

"Oh, I'm not!" she cried, shrinking as if from a slap.

"Then I take it back. See you later, when she went back into the dining-room her cheeks were so red that she was glad to hide them from Rose's keen eyes by getting behind Rose's back and helping her on with her coat.

"You must get tired typewriting all day," murmured Susy Lu, following Rose to the front door in order that she might get beyond the range of Aunt Bessie's hearing.

"I do," said Rose.

"You ought to have a little pleasure once in a while."

"I ought," replied Rose.

"This is Tuesday," announced Susy Lu. "The church gives a chicken supper. It would be nice for you to go to it."

"It would. I will. It's kind of you to think of it."

"It's not!" declared Susy Lu. "It is!" repeated Rose, sternly.

So Susy Lu gave in, and waved Rose on the way.

While she was washing the dishes and tidying the house, she occasionally bestowed a thoughtful glance upon Aunt Bessie, as if Aunt Bessie were rather a problem. By noon the problem seemed solved.

"Aunt Bessie," said Susy Lu, positively, "it's a lovely day for visiting."

"Is it, deary?"

"Lovely. No mud," Aunt Bessie loathed mud.

"H'm," said Aunt Bessie, interested. "And no wind." Aunt Bessie loathed wind worse even than she loathed mud. "And warm enough for you to wear your new silk."

"You don't say!" This was really exciting.

"Do go over and take tea with Aunt Hannah."

"Child, I will."

So Susy Lu hurried her into the new silk and waved her into the street.

Aunt Bessie halted on the sidewalk to call back softly. "Good-by! You're an unselfish little thing, Susy Lu!"

"Oh," gasped Susy Lu, and she shut the door with a bang.

When the solitude of the deserted house closed round her, Susy Lu ran into the dining-room and flung herself beside the sofa where Tab-cat reclined. The girl's head sank low and her bright hair brushed against the ing strength of purpose, "here goes for some mashed potatoes, anyhow."

But she dropped the spoon, powerless to scoop into the tempting dish. "Aunt Bessie adores mashed potatoes!"

"Shoving back her chair, she stared at the supper."

"I will!" she exclaimed to herself. She drew up to the table, only to drop back again with a meek little wail, "I can't!"

Looking as far away as possible from the tempting table, she chanced to see through the window poor Lean Lonkey trudging home to get his bedridden mother some supper. His face no longer struck her as being withered and monkey-like, but rather as shining like a saint's.

"Anybody is beautiful who does something for others!" exclaimed Susy Lu, half-sobbing. The next moment she swiftly but skilfully swept the supper into a basket—best—best—dashed into the street with it.

"Here," she said, pressing the basket into Lean Lonkey's hand, "this is for your dear little mother—eat you. Please take it home with you and don't thank me. Please!"

And she hurried back into the house, leaving the astounded and delighted old man to trot happily home with his odorous prize.

"Bread and water for me," she declared. "And too good for me, too."

While she stood discomfitedly in the pantry trying to make up her mind to eat something, there came a sound of conversation from the dining-room. The whole family had evidently returned home in the same suburban car. They all had bundles, and they were all talking at once—while the lamp shone, the fire crackled and leaped, and Tab-cat stepped round very high and very happily, with her welcoming tail straight as a flag-post.

"Why, what—what?" stammered Susy Lu, as she entered the room.

"Saw these hot biscuits in a store window just as I was hiking to Tobby's," explained Robert, laying a bag down on the dining-table. "I thought of the many a time, Susanna Louisa, that you had fried up your little face for me over the kitchen stove, and I decided not to spend your money for car fare. I thought it would be more fun to trot the bikkies home—and here they are."

"And the chicken looked so delicious!" exclaimed Rose, as she unwrapped a roasted bird and placed it with its festive garnishing of parsley on a platter. "I made me think of you, Susy Lu, and of how you would probably enjoy a meal that you had not had to cook. So I bought a whole one. We'll carouse."

"And when Hannah served me some chocolate with real whipped cream on it," said Aunt Bessie, holding up a wrapped but palpable jug. "I said, 'Land, but Susy Lu, bless her unsel-fish heart, likes whipped cream better than anything!' and Hannah said, 'Into a bag with it, Bess, and take it to the child with my love.' And I haven't lost a drop."

"Oh, stop, stop," exclaimed Susy Lu. She fell into a chair and sobbed behind her hands. "You can't guess how you are punishing me!"

"Punishing?" repeated Robert. "You can punish me with hot biscuits, chicken and whipped cream eight whole days in a week, and I won't complain."

"Child, you're hysterical," said Aunt Bessie, patting her fondly. "You ought not to have gone away and left you alone. Now cheer up, angel."

"Don't say angel!" said Susy Lu, sobbing harder than ever. "I made you go away so that I could cook a lot of things that I liked. But I wasn't bad enough to eat them. I gave them to Lean Lonkey."

"I guess he thinks you're an angel!" was Robert's comment.

"I told you not to say angel!" fairly shrieked Susy Lu, sobbing on unaccounted. "I'm an—an—an animal! I'm more than an animal. I'm animals! That's what I am. I'm animals!"

"Well, be animals," Robert said, lifting her up bodily and dumping her into her seat at the table. "But leave off howling and eat!"—Marion Hill, in Youth's Companion.

THE HOME

FASHIONABLE NECKWEAR

As the mannish in neckwear has been superseded this season by the feminine, frills, collars and jabots are especially welcome Christmas gifts.

A pretty side frill is made by sewing Valenciennes insertion one inch and a half wide to a strip of fine batiste or handkerchief linen. The strip should be nine inches by twenty-seven, and it should be side-plaited. Put it into a band ten inches long make it nine inches wide at the top, and let it taper to an inch at the bottom.

A side-frill of black and white malinette is very "smart." Since the material is practically impervious to damp, any work upon it is well worth while. For a wide side frill buy three-quarters of a yard of black, and the same amount of white. Cut a strip eighteen inches wide by twenty-seven inches long of each color, and after folding them to make strips nine inches wide, have them knife-plaited. To a strip of any pretty lace long enough to reach from neck to belt, sew your two plaitings—the white one underneath. Have the frill nine inches wide at the top, tapering quickly to nothing. Cover your strip of lace with a double fold of black malinette.

This frill may be worn with any plain silk waist. To make it more elaborate, add a small butterfly bow of the plaited black and white malinette.

An old paste buckle makes a pretty neck ornament. Have the jeweller put on a pin and clasp. If it is a shoe-buckle it probably has a cross bar at the back. Through this slip a piece of velvet ribbon, two inches wide and four inches long, with the ends trimmed diagonally. Worn at the top of a jabot, this ornament is particularly becoming. This year so many colors are worn that it is useful to have something into which you may slip a bit of ribbon to match your frock.

To protect a high collar from the marks made by a dark collar of your coat, there is a much better arrangement than the rather untidy scarfs so often seen. Take a strip of cotton round-mesh net a yard and a quarter long and twenty-four inches wide; fold twice, making a strip six inches wide and slip-stitch it on the edge. At the top attach a heavy gold or silver tassel to hold it in place.

Even newer than the wide side frill are elaborate jabots edged with lace. They are for afternoon wear. Now is the time to use any handkerchief too handsome for ordinary use; for a lace-edged handkerchief can be folded to make an adorable jabot. Fold it diagonally with one end longer than the other; plait the wide part together with your fingers, and attach to a bow of bias white satin. For the bow cut two bias strips of the satin six inches long and two inches wide, and stitch the edges with white silk by machine. Bind the two strips together with a knot of black velvet. This makes a bow with four ends, which at present, is more desirable than the ordinary one with two loops and two ends.

Many cling to low collars, yet do not like to expose their necks to the dust and grime of the streets. To avoid this difficulty, make a scarf of white satin ribbon about a yard and a quarter long. Cover it for fourteen or fifteen inches in the middle with some heavy lace four inches wide. Bore the satin under the lace with five bones in casings three inches high, leaving an inch at the bottom. At the top of the lace put a bias fold of gray or taupe chiffon so that about a quarter of an inch shows above the lace. Black is not worn at the tops of collars this season. When you go out, put the scarf round your neck, cross the ends at the back and pin them down underneath your coat. If you add a bow of your favorite color, your neck will be completely covered while you are on the street. The bone stiffening gives the scarf a neat appearance, and there is the additional advantage that the scarf is easy to fold and slip into a bag.

At present there is a prejudice against gold pins for the back of collars. A pretty substitute may be made by covering inexpensive flat collar pins with heavy white linen and crocheting over it a simple stitch with rather coarse thread, which gives the effect of Irish lace. Untidy stocks with pins put in at all kinds of angles are responsible for a general reaction in favor of buttons and loops. Nevertheless a collar never looks better than when neatly fastened with pins.—The Youth's Companion.

The amount of waste in bread alone in any household is no small item in the cost of living.

If the left-over bread is not too stale, cut it up into very thin slices, and make into sandwiches with grated cheese. Dip into a mixture of egg and milk as for making French toast, and fry in butter.

Another simple dish in which cheese figures, is made by browning some butter in a saucapan, and then pouring in as many bread crumbs as this will absorb. Butter a small baking dish, and fill with alternate layers of the crumbs and grated cheese. Pour over this an egg beaten in just enough milk to cover the contents of the dish and bake half an hour.

Bread crumbs are a very good substitute in escalloped dishes for cutters, and should be utilized in dressings also.

Simple and delicious dish of creamed potatoes for the home table is made by melting some butter in a saucapan, placing in this a quantity of diced potatoes, seasoning with salt, and sprinkling over them a handful of stale bread crumbs. Pour over this some rich milk, cover tight and let simmer slowly. The crumbs will thicken the cream, and a very good dish is inexpensively made.

The left-over toast makes the foundation for an excellent pudding. Crumb and soak one cup in two cups of milk. Add a well-beaten egg, season with a pinch of salt, and sugar to taste; add a sliced orange and bake thirty minutes. This may be varied with apples, nuts or figs.

Delicious apple pudding is made by buttering crumbs as above directed, in a baking dish, in alternate layers, with sliced, tart apples. Serve with thick, sweetened cream.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The juice of tomato is said to be excellent to remove ink, wine, and fruit stains.

When mixing starch, the addition of a few drops of turpentine will give a fine gloss to collars and cuffs.

All traces of mud can easily be removed from black cloths by rubbing the spots with a raw potato cut in half.

Macaroni prepared in any of the various ways in combination with cheese, butter and tomatoes, is very nourishing.

THE PASSING.

What a silence fills the room,
When death doth enter,
Not the awful gloom
Nor the empty silence of the tomb;
But a sweet silence,
As if all were clear;
And earth were earth,
Yet Heaven so wondrous near.

AUTUMN IN THE GARDEN

When the frosty kiss of autumn in the dark
Makes its mark
On the flowers, and the misty morning grieves
Over fallen leaves;
Then my olden gardens, where the golden soil
Through the toil
Of a hundred years is mellow, rich
and deep,
Whispers in its sleep.

Mid the crumpled beds of marigold and phlox,
Where the box
Borders with its glossy green the ancient walks,
There's a voice that talks
Of the human hopes that bloomed and withered here
Year by year—
Dreams of joy that brightened all the laboring hours,
Fading as the flowers.

Yet the whispered story does not deepen grief;
But relief
For the loneliness of sorrow seems to flow
From the Long-ago,
When I think of other lives what learned like mine,
To resign,
And remember that the sadness of the fall
Comes alike to all.

What regrets, what longings for the lost were theirs!
And what prayers
For the silent strength that serves us
to endure
Things we cannot cure!

Pacing up and down the garden where they paced,
I have traced
All their well-worn paths of patience till I find Comfort in my mind.

LINGERIE NOTES.

Empire Design Favored For Night-gowns—Laces Used.

The kimono sleeve has invaded the realm of underwear, and the smartest and finest nightgowns show sleeves, shoulders, sleeves and yokes or sleeves and bodies cut in one.

The petticoats this season are free from stiffening. They are fitted as smoothly as possible over the hips and down to the top of the deep sounce, which is usually of embroidery or trimmed with rows of lace insertion edged with a Valenciennes ruffle.

Irish and Cluny laces are the varieties seen on the handsomest lingerie models, combined with hand embroidery.

A lovely set of lingerie imported from Paris for a fall bride is covered with eyelash work. All the edges are worked in fine embroidered scallops.

FROCK FOR SCHOOLGIRL.

above which appear embroidered eyelined bunches of grapes, and scattered above these are singly worked eyelashes. The vogue of the empire modes in costume has led to the introduction of the empire nightgown, a lovely confection of lace and ribbons and insertion.

Such a frock is in demand at the beginning of the school season. It is pretty, but simple and smart. The combination of plain and plaid goods is particularly attractive.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Evening Frocks With Four Trains. Children's Coats.

One of the recent novelties from Paris is the evening frock with four trains. In shape they resemble broad scarfs hemstitched at one side and at the base and upon the other edge trimmed with fine Irish, guipure and flit lace.

While the kimono sleeve is meeting with favor this fall, the set in sleeve with kimono cut is never and smarter.

In buttons the latest for trimming tailored suits are of enameled wood. Another novelty is of metal pressed in imitation of serge weave.

Rough materials will be used for children's utility coats in fancy mixtures and stripes and broken checks. Velvet coats for best will take the place of broadcloth for such use.

The two piece skirt is a favorite one. The skirt illustrated is of moderate width, and it is trimmed with buttons, and let me say in passing that buttons are going to be prominent features of the coming modes. The skirt may be finished either at the natural waist line or a trifle above it.

hung upon a chain of equal elaboration of beauty. Though the chain shows in full view around the neck, the watch is thrust beneath the corsage veiling.

Waists close at the back as usual, but in front the arrangement of revers and side bands is very misleading. One would naturally think that the waist fastened under one of these adornments.

The loose long coat is a fashionable one for many occasions. This one is made in peasant style, with sleeves and body cut in one. There are seams on the shoulders and at the center back, which provide graceful lines.

SNAPSHOTS OF THE MODE.

Victorian Frills Again a Favorite in Fashion.

Quaint frills are with us. Scalloped frills, edged with black velvet, are very smart. Frills dissembled as ruches, made of silk cut on the cross, frayed out and gathered through the middle are pretty for young girls' dresses.

and a crossover bodice is a sort of dress a young girl will find extremely useful for dances and the like.

One can hardly wear too much real and valuable lace. It figures for evening gowns on satin and rich white and gold Venetian brocades which have a flavor of the middle ages.

A delightful combination of colors is a delicate mauve, veiled with gold lace and embroidered with gold, pink and mauve, all very light and dainty.

The Russian blouse suit never loses its favor for the small boy. This one is made with a new collar which carries out the prevailing vogue for crossover effects. The suit consists of blouse and trousers.

Disastrous Tornado

Hundred Houses at Virginia Unroofed, and Business Section a Mass of Wreckage.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 11--At least seven lives were lost and scores of persons injured, some fatally, in a tornado which swept Peck County at dusk tonight. Hundreds of thousands of dollars damage was done.

Tonight dozens of families sought shelter in small structures out of the path of the storm. Measures for relief at Oxfordville, Hanover, Milton Junction and Milton have been instituted at Janesville and Beloit, but much suffering necessarily must ensue.

Tonight the town is in total darkness, and rescuing parties are groping their way with lanterns through the wreckage looking for the injured. Many persons took refuge in the Methodist church. The building was crushed and many in it were injured. Lovitt vs. The King

New Brunswick Wins in Claim for Succession Duties.

A cable message received from London announces that the Privy Council has allowed the appeal in the case of Lovitt vs. the King. This is a victory for the Province of New Brunswick in a dispute with the Province of Nova Scotia on a question of succession duties. Hon. J.D. Hazen, K.C. during his visit to England last summer had the management of the case for New Brunswick and also for the provinces of Ontario and British Columbia, which were interested and argued the matter before the Privy Council in July. Mr. George H. Lovitt, of Yarmouth, died in 1900 possessed of a large estate, a portion of which, consisting of upwards of nine ty thousand dollars, he placed during his lifetime on special deposit with the Bank of British North America in St. John. The question involved in the case was as to the right of the Province of New Brunswick to collect success on duties on this property within New Brunswick and therefore liable to duty.

The Province of Nova Scotia claimed that this amount was liable to succession duty in Nova Scotia and not in New Brunswick. A special case was stated for the opinion of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. The succession duty amounted to $3,521.56. The Supreme Court unanimously decided that the amount on deposit was liable to succession duty in that province. From this decision the executors of Mr. Lovitt applied to the Supreme Court of Canada which reversed the decision of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. The judges of the Supreme Court of Canada in favor of the appeal were: Fitzpatrick, C. J.; Groulx, Davies and Anglin, J.J.; against the appeal, Iddington and Duff, J.J. The Province of New Brunswick obtained special leave to appeal, and the highest court now upholds the decision of the court of New Brunswick. The case was argued by Mr. Hazen as Attorney-General of New Brunswick, assisted by English counsel, and by E.L. Newcombe, K.C., deputy minister of justice, Canada assisted by English counsel for the respondents.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION IN 1912

No other paper is quite like the Youth's Companion. It is taken in half a million homes, where the choice of reading is made with as much care as the choice of friends.

For years The Companion has enjoyed contributions by distinguished men and women of Great Britain and Canada. Among those already engaged to write for the 1912 volume are General Baden-Powell, who has something of interest to say about the Boy Scout Movement, Sir Harry Johnston, who recalls the last of the Great South African hunters, William Barlow, Frank T. Bullen, Rev. W. J. Dawson, Richard Whiteing, Sir Jas. Crichton-Browne, and the Duke of Argyll, former Governor-General of Canada.

The serial stories alone which will follow one another the year through, will be worth $1.50 each when published in book form. By taking The Companion the Canadian subscriber gets them all and two hundred and fifty other complete stories for $2.00, and the Articles, Miscellany, Boys' Page, Girls' Page, Household Page, etc., put in of good measure. Now is the time to subscribe, for on January 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.25.

Do not forget that the new subscriber for 1912 receives free The Companion's Calendar for 1912, lithographed in twelve colors and gold, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911 from the time the subscription is received.

The Digby Courier says referring to the death of Mrs. Richard D. McCormick, which took place last week: "The remains were conveyed to the home of her sister in Digby, on Monday, accompanied by Canon Hind and Miss Smith from Halifax, and Rev. H. A. Harley from Windsor.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon with services in Holy Trinity church and at the grave by Canon Hind, Rev. Wm. Driffield, rector at Digby, and Rev. H. A. Harley, Digby's former rector. Interment in Forest Hill Cemetery. The pall-bearers were H. E. Jones, T. E. G. Lynch, H. L. Denison and A.D. Daley. The floral tributes were beautiful, the W. A. of Halifax, of which the deceased was a member, sent a handsome mattress cross and the W. A. of Digby, beautiful cut flowers. The list of other emblems, wreaths, sprays, bouquets, etc., was certainly a long one, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her host of friends wherever she was known.

Men's Missionary Convention Notes

Sir Andrew Fraser to be Guest of Lieut.-Governor McGregor--The Denominational Rallies.

During the Convention Sir Andrew Fraser will be the guest of Lieutenant-Governor McGregor at the Government House.

The dates of the Convention are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 22nd, 23rd and 24th.

The Bishop of Nova Scotia has issued a call to the Convention which is to be read in all churches of the Diocese of Nova Scotia.

The advance programs of the Convention will be out on Monday and will be sent to any address upon application.

Applications for registration as commissioners are coming in from the country districts as well as from the town congregations of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

There are so many demands upon the time of Sir Andrew Fraser and Mr. J. C. Campbell White that it will be impossible for them to speak elsewhere in the Convention territory except at the Convention city. All therefore who wish to hear these world renowned missionary leaders of men should plan to go to Halifax for Nov. 22nd, 23rd, and 24th.

Good work is being done in getting ready the programs for the various denominational rallies. Rev. A. B. Cohoe is chairman of the Baptist program committee; A. B. Wiswell of the Anglican; Rev. G. J. Bond of the Methodist and Rev. R.W. Ross of the Presbyterian.

As E. L. Thorne will be away until after the Convention, L. A. Miles has been appointed treasurer of the Convention.

Rev. H. C. Priest, of Toronto, will attend the Convention in the interest of the Missionary Education Movement (formerly the Young People's Missionary Movement) of which he is the general secretary.

Rev. G. C. Bond has made an excellent suggestion that there should be mass meetings for boys. It is probable that this will be arranged and boys of the schools and of the boy scouts invited to attend.

The four general secretaries or the denominational committees of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Canada will be present at the Convention; D. M. Rose, of the Anglicans; W.C. Senior, of the Baptists, J. H. Anrup, of the Methodists, and F.W. Anderson, of the Presbyterians, as well as Herbert K. Caskey, the secretary of the whole movement in Canada.

Commander Chas. I. berlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

BOY SCOUT NOTES.

Last Saturday seventeen of the Bridgetown Boy Scouts were initiated into the delights of the good old fashioned English "paper chase" (hare and hounds). Scouts Bent and Camp made an excellent pair of hares and were never caught, although at one time part of the hounds with Asst. Scoutmaster Hiltz were very hot on the trail, being within twenty yards of their prey. But the hares, though almost scared out of their wits, were nevertheless cunning, and drew away to safety.

At a meeting of the Scout Council on Monday evening it was decided to make application to the Provincial Council, for the necessary badges, etc.

Upper Granville

Upper Granville, Nov. 12--Mr. and Mrs. Davison, who have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Troop have returned to their home in Queens Co.

Messrs John and Frank Bath have been enjoying their annual outing in the woods.

Farmers in general are blessed with continued fine weather and mild, which has been a boon in aiding apple gathering and the usual ingathering of a bountiful harvest.

Those interested in the continued progress of Bridgetown are pleased to know street improvement has begun, which we hope will go on to perfection and some day in the near future we may look for a "dry town."
