ONLY FIFTEEN BRITISH SHIPS—BOAT VICTIMS

Thirteen Merchantmen Sunk Are More Than Sixteen Hundred Tons. PIRATES ARE BAFFLED Number of Vessels Lost Smallest Since Germany Began Campaign.

London, Sept. 26.—Thirteen British merchantmen of 1600 tons and over, and two vessels of less than 1000 tons were sunk by mines or submarines last week, according to the weekly admiralty statement. In the aggregate this is the smallest number of vessels sunk during any one week since Germany began her intensive submarine warfare last February.

Two fishing vessels also were sunk last week.

The text reads:
Arrivals: 2775; sailings, 2981.
British merchantmen, over 1600 tons, sunk by mine or submarine, including two previously, 13; under 1000 tons, 2.
Fishing vessels sunk, 2.
British merchantmen unsuccessfully attacked, including three previously, 10.

The smallest aggregate of vessels sunk in any previous week since the February undersea campaign was inaugurated by Germany, was 16—14 merchantmen of 1600 tons and over and two of less than 1000 tons, was during the week ending August 12.

Last week the admiralty report showed 25 merchantmen, sunk—5 of more than 1600 tons and 20 of less tonnage.

LONDON HOSPITAL ALMOST PREY OF GERMAN BOMB Prompt Action of Attendant Saves Building in Air Raid on England.

London, Sept. 26.—A hospital in a suburban suburb had a narrow escape during last night's air raid. It was only saved by the prompt action of an attendant.

An incendiary bomb fell on a stone pathway near the main premises, and the attendant threw a bucket of water on it, rendering it harmless.

Several small buildings in the same district were badly damaged.

FIX PRICE OF POTATOES IN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Maximum Price of Dollar and a Quarter Per Bag After October First Recommended—Hanna Says Hoarding Must Cease

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Hon. W. J. Hanna, Canadian food controller, has received a report from the chairman of the fruit and vegetables committee recommending that potatoes in Ontario and Quebec produced in these two provinces be sold at no higher than $1.25 per bushel after October 1.

"There must be no hoarding of potatoes this year," declared Mr. Hanna. "We must hear no more of speculators hoarding car loads of potatoes on railway sidings to freeze, so as to reduce the supply of food in the country and enhance the market value of the remaining supply. Such an action should be made a criminal offence."

Mr. Hanna went on to say that the Canadian potato crop would probably be larger than last year, and that there would probably be a surplus of about ten million bushels. The problem, he says, is not how to economize the supply of potatoes, but how to increase the consumption so that none will be wasted. An increased consumption of potatoes would help to reduce the amount of white flour, beef and bacon used in Canada.

To Summon Committee.

"In all probability," said Mr. Hanna, "a joint committee of representative men will be formed with one representative from each of the eastern provinces to consider the whole potato situation in the interests of consumers and producers alike. The question will be considered of the necessity of opening wholesale and retail storage facilities in the interest of those who may find themselves without the proper means of carrying over their crop until the spring demand."

Mr. Hanna is strongly of opinion that no undersized potatoes should be sent to the western front, made this declaration in addressing a mass meeting at Leeds tonight, under the auspices of the war aims committee. He described the German reply to the papal note as seeming with "nebulous and unctuous generalities," but giving no indication that Germany will take any practical steps to open the road to a real and lasting peace.

Was Germany ready to restore French territory and give Belgium full independence, without fetters or reservations? he asked.

A definite reply to these questions, he said, would be worth whole columns of "pious platitudes."

SEEKS IDEAL SOLDIERS IN CANADIAN FORCES

French Writers Praise Besiegers of Lens—Grenade Throwers of Finest Class—All Keep in Good Condition

By Roland Hill.

War Correspondents' Headquarters, France, Sept. 26.—French correspondents with the British troops have been lavish in their praise of the Canadians and their fighting at Lens. One of the most influential of the French provincial papers is "Le Telegramme," published at Boulogne, and in the following literal translation, with-out comment on an article of August 25, speaks for itself.

"The Canadians at the present time completely hold the light in the theatre of war. It is these picked troops that have been given the incomparable, the glorious, and the difficult task of retaking Lens—Lens where each house is a fortress and where the enemy only manages to hold by continual reinforcement."

"This Canadian army, which only raised during the war, is curious to study for several reasons. Recruited exclusively by voluntary methods, it is composed of various elements: curious cutting while you sleep for our poor trees, sacrificed in this way for the country's cause. It would take several columns of this paper to relate the splendid deeds of these adventurous and heroic men."

French of the 18th century. Some have names like 'Gros Tame,' others 'Oeil De Faucon,' and all these various elements are assimilated in the great British army, resister of the traditions of others.

"These trappers, these hunters, these woodmen, trained to stand the limit of fatigue by their hard life, are ideal soldiers. They keep themselves in condition, even when they are in rest, by their games and sports, which they practice with fury but with method. Football and baseball, which they excel in, make them grenade throwers of the finest class. They can jump in their competitions 5 ft. 6 in. and when the time comes they can do the same in combat. They have not abandoned their national game of lacrosse, where these talents are necessary."

"There is one part of the Canadian army which is made up of foresters, who are actually working in England, and France with their own machinery. They can, it is well known, cut down a forest in the twinkling of an eye. You have to admire their marvelous cutting while you sleep for our poor trees, sacrificed in this way for the country's cause. It would take several columns of this paper to relate the splendid deeds of these adventurous and heroic men."

GERMANS ADMIT LOSSES TO BRITISH

Berlin Reports Penetration of Lines to Two-Thirds of a Mile.

Berlin, via London, Sept. 26.—The British forces in their new offensive in Flanders have penetrated German positions to the depth of about two-thirds of a mile at several places, according to the German official communication issued tonight. The fighting, which is of a desperate character, is continuing. The communication follows:

"The battle in Flanders between Langemarck and Hellebeke—a front of fifteen kilometers—still continues. The enemy has succeeded in places in penetrating as far as one kilometre deep into our fighting zone, where desperate fighting is proceeding."

DESPERATE GERMAN RESISTANCE OVERCOME AT ALL POINTS OF ATTACK—ZONNEBEKE WITH STRONG POSITIONS AT TOWER HAMLETS SPEEDILY CAPTURED.

London, Sept. 26.—In an attack along a six-mile front today the British troops captured an important position around Tower Hamlets and strong German field works, according to the official report from Field Marshal Haig tonight. Powerful resistance was offered by the Germans throughout the day and they delivered many strong counter-attacks. "But," says the British commander, "our operations were entirely successful." The text of the statement reads:

"Our attack this morning was delivered on a total front of nearly six miles, from south of Tower Hamlets to east of St. Julien. Our operations were entirely successful.

"Later in the day the enemy delivered a series of heavy counter-attacks along our new front, resulting in hard fighting, which is still continuing at certain points. South of the Ypres-Menin road an attack carried out by English troops successfully completed the capture of the Tower Hamlets and gained possession of strong German field works on its eastern slopes, which formed our objectives.

"A powerful counter-attack in the direction of Gheluvelt was repulsed.

"On the right of our main attack, north of the Ypres-Menin road, our troops met obstinate resistance and heavy fighting took place in the area across which the enemy counter-attacked yesterday. After a severe struggle, lasting throughout the greater part of the day, English and Scottish battalions drove the enemy from his positions and accomplished the task allotted to them of securing the flank of our principal attack.

"In their advance our troops repulsed two companies of Irish and Sutherland Highlanders, who fought out with great gallantry during the night in a forward position in which they had been isolated by the enemy's attack yesterday morning.

"In the afternoon the enemy delivered another counter-attack in great strength in this sector, where fierce fighting is still continuing. Our troops cleared the remainder of Polygon Wood and captured a German trench system to the east of which formed their objectives for the day.

"On their left, English, Scottish and Welsh battalions penetrated the enemy's defence to a depth of considerable distance, stormed Zonnebeke and gained the line of their objectives.

"On the left of our attack, North Midland and London Territorials, attacking on both sides of the Willeje-Gravenstafel and St. Julien-Gravenstafel roads, also captured their objectives and beat off a counter-attack. The enemy's line has been advanced to a depth of half a mile across a country defended by a large number of fortified farms and concrete redoubts.

"Early in the afternoon the Germans delivered a second counter-attack with large forces and succeeded in pressing back our troops in a narrow front. Our troops, counter-attacking in turn, at once captured the greater part of the lost ground.

"Over 1000 prisoners have been taken in these operations. A very large number of German dead have been found on the ground on which the enemy's houses, both in our attacks and in his subsequent counter-attacks, have again been heavy."

Another Heavy Attack.

An early despatch from R. T. Small, staff correspondent of the Associated Press, said:

"Another heavy attack was delivered by the British at daybreak today against the German positions east of Ypres and early reports showed that the assaulting troops had pushed the enemy out of many important positions. The offensive was started along the major portion of the line that the British reached in last Thursday's battle, extending from east of St. Julien to southwest of Gheluvelt.

Along the northern half of the line of attack the British success was marked, but means have been received from the sector of Polygon Wood and south of that place. On the north an advance of from a thousand yards to twelve hundred yards was made quickly at numerous places, and it was reported that strong British troops were engaged in fierce fighting on a few hundred yards west of Zonnebeke.

The Germans are resisting desperately, and along a front of about a thousand yards, battle in the Ypres-Menin road a terrific struggle has been proceeding.

The most important points involved in the new offensive, as was the case six days ago, lay directly east of the City of Ypres between the Ypres-Roulers railway and the Ypres-Menin highway. Here are situated those measures to prevent violations of the act."

SAXONS, SICK OF WAR GIVE UP GRATUITOUSLY

Others Only Wait Similar Chance to Surrender, Prisoners Declare—Glad to Be Finished With Beastly Business.

London, Sept. 26.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Telegraphing from British headquarters in France this evening (Wednesday) Reuter's correspondent says:

"The Flanders campaign has been fought in a manner which cannot be regarded with admiration and satisfaction. Both the strategic ideas and the tactical methods show skill in which all the teachings of the war have been applied. In the early days of this great struggle we learnt much from the Germans. Today it is a simple truth to say they are learning much from us."

"On Thursday last we bit into the great Flanders ridge system to a depth of 1500 yards. Today we have gone on to a scarcely less degree."

"The great defeat which the German wireless concludes the British suffers crushed in the same terms. Doubtless we shall be anon."

"The fighting throughout today's battle has been severe and frequently of a desperate character. Some prisoners state that the attack was unexpected, but the preparations of the enemy do not bear this out."

Faithless Advance.

"In the north today's operations went ahead with almost faithless opposition, possibly due to the fact that the Saxons were much less determined than further to the south. Indeed, a number of the Saxons surrendered gratuitously to our men, desiring they were sick of the war and were glad to be finished with the beastly business, and that there were others only waiting a similar chance to surrender."

In the centre the attack also went successfully, though there was some hard fighting. The Anzacs pressed forward in their usual irresistible way, and early this morning low flying airmen reported them moving across the Polygon racecourse.

"But it was to the south of the Anzacs right that severest opposition of the day was encountered. Nevertheless progress was made, but slowly in comparison with the Anzac push."

"The Australians took 300 prisoners in dugouts in Polygon Wood in their first advance."

"Elsewhere along the front of attack we gained our objectives. This means conquest of a mile across ground of the utmost tactical value, densely scattered with camouflaged strong points held at exceptional strength in depth."

C.P.R. OPERATORS MAY QUIT WORK

Alleged Importation of United States Telegraphers Causes Unrest.

Unless the government enforces the Allen Labor Act and stops the importation of telegraph operators from the United States, which is alleged by S. Koenekamp, agent of the telegraphers' union, a general strike may be called which will involve all the telegraphers in Canada and tie up the entire telegraph service in the country. A meeting of C.P.R. telegraphers is called for tonight, when a definite decision will be arrived at.

In an interview with a reporter for The World last night District Chairman G. R. Pawson of the C.P.R. operators said that if the report that the G.N.W. were employing United States operators and bringing them to Montreal and other cities in an endeavor to continue the service proved correct, it is not probable that the C.P.R. telegraphers will decide to strike unless the government takes prompt measures to prevent violations of the act.

HUNS REPORTED READY TO GIVE UP BELGIUM

News of Pan-German Activity, However, Accompanies Report of Willingness to Cede Territory on Certain Conditions

London, Sept. 26.—While it is reported in a despatch from Bern that Germany in an official statement declares willingness to evacuate Belgium on certain conditions, a Berlin despatch emphasizes the formidable character of pan-German activities.

The Bern despatch says Germany stipulates that she must have the right to develop her economic enterprises freely in Belgium, especially Antwerp. The proposal is said to have been made in a supplementary verbal note to the Vatican setting forth that Germany would contribute a share of the compensation to be paid to Belgium for war damages. Belgium would be required, it said, to give a guarantee that any such men-ber in 1914 would in future be excluded.

Belgium must undertake to maintain administrative separation of the Flanders and Walloon districts intruded by Germany, the verbal note says, because this separation corresponds to the wishes of a majority of the Belgian people and because Germany desires such separation on account of racial sympathy.

Bitter Factional Fight.

The pan-German activities which have been launched on a big national scale are expected to find an echo in the plenary sessions of the Reichstag. The central governing board of the social democratic party has issued a plain spoken call, summoning the opponents of the reactionaries to join the action. The declaration proceeds to establish the identity of the various disguises adopted by the pan-German agencies. It asserts the combination is made up of industrialists and the landed interests, whose war aims reach the pinnacle of demand for an unlimited Flandria.

The call concludes with the declaration that the realization of the pan-German program would mean the civilization, for after such a collapse, it is pointed out, the reconstruction of Europe could not be accomplished for a century. The activities of the fatherland party are also likely to be discussed in the open sessions of the Reichstag.

Unlimited Flandria.

The pan-German organization, ostensibly founded to rejuvenate national patriotism, is gradually unfolding its true colors. The Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin is its honorary president. Its true inspiration, however, is supplied by Admiral von Tirpitz and by public individuals who would not resent being accused of harboring pronounced pan-German annexationist views. Its Berlin headquarters left no doubts of its imperial ambitions. In the last analysis it supplies but further evidence of the desperation with which the reactionaries are fighting.

Enemy Reply to Papal Note Teems With "Unctuous Generalities."

London, Sept. 26.—"Any peace worth having must be found in a cessation of active hostilities followed by a process of territorial bargaining to be embodied in protocols and pacts and still less in an arrangement imposed either by victors or vanquished which sets at defiance the historic traditions, aspirations and liberties of the people affected."

Ex-Premier Herbert H. Asquith, who has recently returned from a visit to the western front, made this declaration in addressing a mass meeting at Leeds tonight, under the auspices of the war aims committee. He described the German reply to the papal note as seeming with "nebulous and unctuous generalities," but giving no indication that Germany will take any practical steps to open the road to a real and lasting peace.

Forty-One Billion Rubles Spent by Russia on War

Petrograd, Sept. 26.—The finance minister has issued a statement of the financial position of Russia, showing that the expenses of the war up to Sept. 14 have amounted to forty-one billion rubles. The war costs are still further increasing owing to the demand for higher wages and the increased price of necessities. The minister urges the people to postpone their wage demands until the end of the war.

ROWELL CONFERS AT CALGARY ON UNION GOVERNMENT PLANS

Calgary, Sept. 26.—N. W. Rowell, leader of the Ontario Liberals, is expected in the city this afternoon and will confer with southern Alberta Liberals in regard to union government.

The Preacher: Sir Joseph, you'll ken that 'th' pair buddies of certizens 'll no be for profiters' in bacon an' shells an' cold storage stuff.

Sir Joseph: Quite so, Reverend Sir, but Mister Hanna is putting the blame on the middlemen in provisions, and I have cut down the price on the shell contractors.

The Preacher: An' hoo about 'th' farmer, Sir Joseph?

Sir Joseph: The Grain Commission has fixed the price of wheat, and the Food Controller will 'tend to the millers and the bakers. And the women who have to buy it may reach the middlemen who handle the farmers' milk.

The Preacher: Maister Hanna was just gran' in 'th' way he handed it out 'til they middlemen. When he got 'til his 'seven-tenth reason' I thocht he was fit 'til be a meenister makin' a sermon.

Sir Joseph: Yes, Reverend Sir; Mr. Rockefeller, I imagine, would admire his discourse. He has a fine style and a nicely-rounded delivery. And my good friend, and yours, our dear co-worker in the cause of Social Uplift, Josephus of The Star, he, too, is also much impressed by Mr. Hanna's expository power.

The Preacher: But what about the profiters' in bacon, Sir Joseph?

Sir Joseph: Talk it over with Josephus. He has seen the Light and knows the Way. And don't forget how necessary it is that the price of munitions be fixed so that we may win the war.

The Preacher: Ma conscience!

ary forces are exerting themselves to halt the spread of sentiment in favor of a peace by understanding and compromise, and also to block the progress of the movement toward democratization. The issue is now considered a clean-cut one. The pan-Germans dispose of unlimited funds and the desire of the German people, as reflected in that action, and subsequently in the German reply to Pope Benedict.

Von Tirpitz's Boast.
A Copenhagen despatch says: Admiral Von Tirpitz, speaking at a meeting of the new nationalist party in Berlin, declared that the submarine warfare is Germany's legal right and that Belgium now has her just deserts. Belgium, the speaker declared,

WAR SUMMARY
THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

The great British success won yesterday in Belgium further shortens the tenure of the Germans in that ravished land. Sir Douglas Haig, after his brilliant advance of six days ago, resumed it on practically the same front, and again showed the Germans their inability to stem the rising British tide against them. The brief interval between the two grand attacks shows that the British army has achieved the power of speedy organization of captured ground and of rapidly moving forward artillery. The Germans moved up large fresh forces to withstand the shock, these could do no more than fight until almost the last man, leaving the British full liberty to advance to their line of objectives.

The scene of the latest Belgian advance of the British army, which has brought in more than 1000 prisoners and captured strongly-fortified positions, lies about six miles east and southeast of Ypres and little more than six miles out of Menin. The troops began their march forward at about 5.30 yesterday morning; fighting in some places still continued last night. Their captures include the remaining spur of high ground at Tower Hamlets, south of the Menin road, and Zonnebeke Village, north of this highway and southeast of St. Julien. The troops advanced everywhere on the front of attack to a depth of one-half to one mile. The enemy resisted desperately and his losses were correspondingly great.

Details of the British success show a continuous progress at the various strong points under attack. The battle falls into five sections. The first, south of the Menin road, brought the capture of the Tower Hamlets Spur and of strong German field works on the eastern slopes. The second, north of the Menin road, the result in heavy fighting, ended in the English and Scottish battalions emerging triumphant and moving forward to their objectives. They relieved two companies of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders after an all-night siege of them by superior German numbers. The third section of the attack, further north, resulted in the clearing of Polygon Wood completely and the capture of a German trench system east of it by the Australians. The fourth section of the attack, further north, ended in English and Welsh battalions advancing to a depth of nearly a mile, storming Zonnebeke. The fifth section, east of St. Julien and on both sides of the Welletje and Grafenstafel roads, brought the troops engaged an advance of half a mile over a country dotted by a great many fortified farms and concrete redoubts.

The newest German system of defence, adopted in this fighting, failed them, like the others. It consisted mainly in the massing of troops a considerable distance back from the front line and of leaving a sprinkling of men to hold the first and second lines until the launching of an attack. German masses were then to move forward from the rear to meet the onslaught and to charge into the advancing troops. Machine guns and automatic rifles, placed in concealed positions, also gave the enemy before the battle a paper advantage. What happened was that the British troops, being better fighters and superior to the Germans in a bout, simply walked over the Germans and attained their goals. The enemy lost more men than ever in his counter-attacking scheme, for in this type of war it is really woe to the vanquished.

The German Government is beginning to realize that Germany will have to get out of Belgium or else she will be thrown out, so she is making verbal suggestions of her willingness to leave the little country on conditions. The days of her debacle are as yet remote enough in her estimation to give her time for intrigue and wire-pulling in order to get her out of the predicament into which her generals have landed her. Belgium is, from the military point of view, merely a rat trap. Field Marshal Haig has the Germans in Belgium in just as tight a corner as Wellington had the French generals in Portugal, when Sir Hugh Dalrymple superseded him, signed the convention of Cintra and allowed the French to evacuate Portugal, more than 100 years ago. The object of Wellington was to destroy the French army and not to allow it to escape him and work further mischief. The object of Field Marshal Haig is to destroy the German army and not let it get away to fight another time, either in this war or a war ten years hence.

The pan-German agitation for annexations, it may be said, is so much pretence, in order to make the German Government, by contrast, appear magnanimous in offering to quit Belgium under conditions. Field Marshal Haig knows that the Germans are not invincible and he has massed British troops at strategic points in order to turn the coming German retreat into a disastrous rout. The enemy, Haig knows, must retire, if the British keep up their terrific artillery and infantry assaults. The time of his withdrawal depends a good deal on the weather. With fair good fortune the enemy will have to march before winter. With only moderately good fortune the enemy will have to march in the spring. The Canadians, General Haig is reported as saying, can capture Lens at any time.

IRISH CONVENTION MAKES HEADWAY

Sir Horace Plunkett Says Fair Opportunity is All Needed.
HOPE SPRINGS AGAIN
Delegates Appear to Work Harmoniously, and Sinn Feiners Are Inactive.

Cork, Tuesday, Sept. 25.—"We are getting on, and all we want is a fair opportunity to perform the work for which we were appointed," said Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Irish convention, at the luncheon given the members of the convention today by the hotel where the convention is being held. The streets about the hotel where the luncheon was held were crowded with persons anxious to catch a glimpse of the distinguished delegates and there were frequent cheers as the familiar faces appeared. John Redmond and Joseph Devlin being especially sought out. At the luncheon, on either side of Sir Horace Plunkett, sat the Earl of Dunraven, the Earl of Mayo, Lord Midleton, and Baron MacDonnell. Sir Horace received a flattering ovation, the diners giving three cheers for him and singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

"The convention," said Sir Horace, in continuing his speech, "has made me live in hope that a change of heart for a new Ireland will be born. I long to hear all Irishmen say, 'My country, thy country and My God is thy God.'"

Sir Horace explained the secrecy surrounding the convention. "It has been possible," he said, "to have the frankest discussion between the delegates, which would be impossible if the reports were published." The delegates cheered again when they left the hotel for a tour of the city's industries.

strongly held elevations that still remain to the Germans out of the numerous ridges and forests which formed a vital part of their defence in this section. He pointed out that proposal C, the cumulative proposal of the report, had already received the unanimous endorsement of the council. It had been sent to the Dominion Railway Board as embracing the ideals toward which the city was working. The council had but to see that those recommendations were carried out, he asserted. It was agreed that little good could be accomplished by giving the council further endorsement and this prompted Ald. McQueen to suggest the standing committee.

Ald. McQueen, in response to a protest against excessive expenditures which must be borne by the city in the event of proposal C being worked out, claimed that the cost would be small, in comparison to what it would be if the present problems were tackled merely. He cited the estimated expense for the separation of the T. H. and B. grades and the shifting of the Grand Trunk. These two alone would run over two million dollars, he claimed, to say nothing of the elimination of grade crossings through the city. Before the city solicitor's suggestion had been made, the two clauses of the proposal A had been adopted. These provide for the sending of all thru freight traffic across a grade at the establishment of sorting yards east of Stony Creek.

TWO MORE U-BOATS SUNK OFF IRELAND

One Submarine Attacked Transport—Steamer Rammed Second.
An Atlantic Port, Sept. 26.—Passengers sailing today on the first two from a British port told of the sinking of two German submarines, one of which had attacked a transport carrying a large number of passengers and a heavy cargo. When the periscope of a submarine was sighted the steamship immediately made for the craft, ramming it as she rose to the surface, cleaving it in two. As the U-boat sank a number of sailors were seen in the water, it was said, but the work of rescuing them was left to the destroyers in the wake of the steamship.

By a Staff Reporter.
Hamilton, Sept. 26.—Believing that the recommendations of the Tye-Cauchon report could be better carried to completion by a special committee the city council, at a special meeting last evening, created what will henceforth be known as the railway committee.

This was set up at the beginning of each year with the other civic committees. Its duties will be to keep in touch with the local railway situation and formulate proposals which would harmonize with the recommendations of the engineers' report. Those who were named to act on the committee were: Ald. J. G. McQueen, chairman; Ald. J. G. McQueen, Ald. J. G. McQueen and Ald. J. G. McQueen, Controllers Wright and Tyrrell, and Ald. J. G. YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

SCARBORO FAIR IS BIG SUCCESS

Nearly Five Thousand Attend Annual Show at Agincourt.

PROSPERITY EVIDENT

Excellent Showing of Grain and Field and Garden Roots.

Never in all its long and singularly successful history extending over a period of 72 years, were the directors of the Scarborough fair favored with more ideal weather than that of yesterday. Anywhere from 4500 to 5000 people were on the grounds and an every hand were evidences of the abounding prosperity.

The show of grain of all kinds was excellent, field and garden roots fully up to the average, and in short, all the products of the farm, with the exception of apples, left nothing to be desired.

There was a great show of live stock, light and heavy horses and cattle, the Ayrshires especially being well represented. Laurie Bros. of Scarborough were the principle exhibitors in this class, capturing many firsts and seconds, while W. H. Hamill of Cedar Grove had a meritorious display.

In horses, Paterson Bros. of Agincourt, were big winners, in many lines sweeping everything before them, but there were many others, local and provincial exhibitors, who did well.

Robt. Cox and Sons, George Cox, F. Barnstable, all of Amber, Joe Watson of Don, James White and W. H. Munroe, all did well in the horse ring.

In the agricultural class H. P. Elliott of Agincourt carried off three firsts. Roadster Class. In the roaster class Richard Asto of Unionville was an easy winner with his fine animal, W. J. Boedson taking second. There was a big field in the gentlemen's turnout, R. M. Wallace of Leaside was first, and Richard Ash second. The pony races was a close one, C. Baker of Green River taking first and second and J. Kishborough third.

The principal exhibitors in flowers were Mrs. T. A. Paterson of Agincourt, Mrs. W. H. Paterson, Mrs. W. Ross, Mrs. D. A. Dunlop, Miss Emily Elliott, Mrs. Edward Mason and Mrs. John Kennedy.

"Heather Hall," the splendid new building erected thru the energy of Agincourt and Scarborough men, is admirably adapted for fair purposes. The officers of the fair, responsible for a great measure for its success are: President, David Purdie; first vice-president, William A. Paterson; second vice-president, J. M. T. Weir; directors, H. J. Dix, D. G. Thomson, H. Brumwell, T. G. Paterson, T. Shadlock, W. A. Latham, W. Doherty, R. M. Lovell, D. Crawford, J. Munroe, R. M. Paterson, P. Heron, T. A. Paterson, James Scott, T. W. Brown, Hugh K. Clark, secretary-treasurer.

MARKET FOR MOTORISTS DOES FINE BUSINESS

Still Larger Crowds Eagerly Buy Up Produce Offered at Clarkson.

Bigger crowds were yesterday on hand at the Clarkson Highway Market and Fruit Growers' Exchange, and by the many sales made the market is on a sure road to success. It was the second market to be held, and was liberally patronized by many motorists.

To illustrate how low vegetables were selling yesterday is to quote the price of tomatoes, which went for 35 cents per 11-quart basket; corn, 2 dozen for 25 cents; carrots, 55 cents a bag; potatoes, $1.25 per bag; onions, 52 per bag, and large cabbages, 5 cents a head.

Large baskets of fresh-picked apples, including snows, were sold at 40 cents, while pears went at 70 cents, and plums 65 cents.

On Saturday, no eggs or butter were shown, but yesterday there was a good supply. New laid eggs sold for 50 cents a dozen, while fresh butter was eagerly bought at 45 cents per pound.

The next market will be held on Saturday, and will be the third on the Toronto-Hamilton highway since its organization.

STRUCK BY AUTO.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Edward Bettingham, aged 6 years, 1794 Eufferin street, North Eastcourt, was knocked down by an automobile, driven by H. W. Hooker, 78 Withrow avenue, sustaining injuries to his left arm. Dr. L. B. Williams, Dufferin street, rendered first aid and the boy was conveyed to the Sick Children's Hospital.

MOTORISTS FINED.

Twenty-seven appear before Port Credit Magistrate.

Only 27 motorists were up before Magistrate G. W. Gordon in the "speedway" court at Port Credit yesterday, charged with infractions of the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act. Most of the cases were for speeding, and all but one were fined.

Motorcyclists have now got the mania for speeding, and five were assessed $5 and costs.

EARLSCOURT DEPUTATION PLEASSED WITH REPLY

Express Satisfaction With Mayor's Promise to Arrange Mass Meeting.

A special meeting of the Earlscourt Citizens' Committee executive members was held last evening at the office of the vice-president, 213 Nairn avenue, President Geo. R. Ellis presiding.

T. S. Smithbone, chairman of the deputation appointed to meet the mayor and board of control yesterday forenoon relative to holding a coal meeting and the fixing of the winter price by Fuel Controller Magrath, submitted his report. He stated that the members of the committee were pleased with the conference, the mayor promising to wire the fuel commissioner asking when he can be present at a mass meeting in Massey Hall to fix the price of coal for the citizens of Toronto.

"We shall not cease our efforts until this is done," said Chairman Ellis. "And every case of coal merchants boosting the price on the residents of Earlscourt will be carefully noted by our committee."

"I beg to differ with the opinion of the mayor that the transportation of coal is the chief difficulty in the coal situation," said J. E. Tupling. "The inertia of the federal government in fixing the price is the crux of the situation," he said.

It was arranged that the president, Geo. R. Ellis, T. S. Smithbone, John Waishe, Joseph Wines and E. E. Tilling would confer with Commissioner Chisholm regarding the matter.

WOMEN IN EARLSCOURT OBJECT TO CAMPAIGN

Say They Cannot Now Live Up to War Menus Proposed by Controller.

"We have not yet received a visit from the women canvassing for food card signatures," said the mother of a family of six small children in the Earlscourt district yesterday, whose husband is overseas. "Should they come into our neighborhood they will require to be told how to cook our food and what to eat. The trouble with us is that we cannot get sufficient food to make both ends meet, and if we were to live up to the war menus of the food controller double our present income would be sufficient."

"I wonder what the people of the Rosedale and other exclusive sections of the city would say if a deputation of Earlscourt women were to call upon them and advise them about what they should have for dinner. It is about time all this nonsense was an end to, and reasonable prices were fixed for the necessities of life by the food controller," she said.

Mimico Women Raise Money To Send Presents Overseas

From a combined bazaar and progressive euchre party held in the new Masonic Temple the women of the Union Jack Chapter, I.O.O.F., of Mimico, were able to raise $250, to be utilized for the payment of postage on the Christmas boxes to be forwarded to the Mimico men overseas. The boxes will be sent to the Mimico men overseas, and will be more generously filled than ever before.

A raffie, consisting of a basket containing a chicken dinner, was also held, and it netted $35. It was won by Dr. Forbes Godfrey, who auctioned it off, but finally purchased it himself.

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

Man Given Three Months for Obstructing C.P.R. Tracks at Agincourt.

Police Magistrate Major Brunton in the county police court yesterday sentenced H. A. Truston to three months in jail for obstructing the C.P.R. tracks at Agincourt. Truston was charged with obstructing the tracks by building a structure over the tracks. He was fined $100 and costs, but failed to pay, and was committed to jail.

B. Elsher, F. Fisher and D. Madock, three youths charged with theft, were let out on suspended sentence.

COMPLAIN OF SEWERS.

The residents of Earlscourt avenue and surrounding streets are complaining regarding the bad odor from the sewers in the section at the present time. The matter has been reported to Commissioner Wilson, street cleaning department.

GETS BENEFIT OF DOUBT.

Charles Hay, Charged With Theft of Lead, Discharged in Sessions.

Charles Hay appeared before Judge Coatsworth yesterday afternoon in the sessions to face a charge of having stolen 400 pounds of lead from the Wilson Munitions Company, Dufferin street, for whom he formerly worked. In his defence, Hay stated that he was walking along the road and picked up the lead in a sack by the side of the railway tracks and put it in his truck, where it was found by the police. His honor discharged him, saying he would give him the benefit of the doubt, altho it looked very suspicious.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

A Simpson's seven-year-old daughter died of diphtheria while isolated in her home in Belleville, and the jury awarded the father $300 damages against the board of health for contributory neglect, but the trial judge dismissed the action. The divisional court has reserved judgment on Simpson's appeal. W. C. Mikkel, K.C., for Simpson, stated that the place of isolation was an improper one, and on the last day of the child's life the board sent a bottle of tonic "to make her eat," but the board did not supply food for her to eat, and he argued that the board's alleged neglect contributed to the child's death.

CHARGED WITH SHOPLIFTING.

Two colored women, Frances Bay-Dorothy Jones, who gave the police their address as 24 Ontario Place, were arrested yesterday afternoon in a downtown store on a charge of shoplifting. They were arrested by Detectives Guthrie and Archibald.

IMMENSE CONCRETE MONOLITHS

Being Worked Into the C. P. R.'s Big New Bridge Over the North Toronto Ravines.

Good headway is now being made in building the two big concrete arch bridges on the C. P. R.'s cross-town line east of North Toronto station—a three-track wide one over Reservoir Park ravine and a two-track one over the Belt Line ravine, further east.

Work was begun in June, but the two cranes were not set up until the weather and the amount of rain had been kept moving along the existing single-track line delayed things for a time, but now a big improvement is noticed.

The structures and method of building them are new in this locality. At the Reservoir Park bridge the contractors, Messrs. Wells & Gray, are now well forward with moulding sections of this bridge in large blocks of concrete filled with steel rods of various sizes and suitably bent to require little or no reinforcement.

Many of these blocks will weigh 52 tons each, and are being cast in great big plank forms built on the ground for that purpose. Several of these monoliths are already completed a couple of hundred feet away from the side of the bridge to which they will be moved by special cranes brought here for that purpose. One crane alone is able to pick up a block weighing over 50 tons and to put it into position, but as matter of fact two cranes will be used on each block.

When they arrive at the bridge these blocks or pillars are placed on the concrete foundations already planted in the ravines and bed of the ravine; and when these are in position other cement blocks similarly constructed to carry the bed and the pier blocks are imposed upon the pier blocks so as to carry the tracks and the rest of the structure. The work is being carried on in the Simkins and the one at the Reservoir Park ravine has been dismantled and taken down and in their places large temporary trestle structures of great height have been erected in position to the north and are now carrying the traffic. The temporary trestle at the Belt Line ravine has been in use several days and when the concrete blocks of the construction tracks and the moulding ground used for making the concrete blocks.

The big concrete supports of the bridge nearest Yonge street will be placed in rows of four, there being 10 such rows.

In position the reporter who looked the work over yesterday gathered the idea that while the contractors had hoped to have the bridges in commission some time towards the end of November they would certainly be completed by the first of the year, and the track line that is to carry the traffic between the west end of the Leaside yard and the east end of the North Toronto yard, and when this is done and the new concrete bridges opened, the company will have a double track system from Agincourt to a considerable distance beyond Gough Junction, west of Streetsville Junction.

When so double-tracked and bridged the company is believed, will run quite a number more trains in and out of North Toronto station.

SHORT AUTUMN TRIP OR GLORIOUS AUTUMN JAUNT.

From October 1st to the 11th, in the Berkshire Hills and the Catskill Mountains, is about as ideal a jaunt as one can make. It is exceedingly popular and the hotels are well filled. Daily motoring is over perfect roads amid most lovely scenery with the soft autumn haze suffusing the landscape. Some members of the last year's party are taking the trip again, so charming was it. For particulars enquire Mr. W. J. Moffatt, city passenger agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, N.W. corner King and Yonge streets, Toronto, Ont.

CHARGED WITH SHOPLIFTING.

BOARD REFUSES TO DISCHARGE WILSON

Controllers Express Their Confidence in Loyalty of Street Commissioner.

ANOTHER DEPUTATION Men May Again Air Grievances at Next City Council Meeting.

Despite the fact that two strong deputations composed of industrial members of the Orange Order and the Sons of England have stormed the board of control to demand his official head and that indignant employees of his department decided by unanimous vote to go on strike if he were not removed, George B. Wilson still remains as head of the street cleaning department. And as far as could be ascertained at 5 o'clock last evening no effort has been made by the men to carry out their threat, following the refusal of the board of control to remove the commissioner.

After the mass meeting of the men in Victoria Hall Tuesday night a deputation waited on the board of control yesterday morning and with greater vigor renewed their demand that Mr. Wilson be asked to resign from his position in the department, or in the event of his failure to do so, they would be instantly discharged. They repeated their version of the flag incident, and the commissioner emphatically denied the truth of their statements, but the board refused to grant their demand. The controllers expressed their confidence in the loyalty of the employees, and would not accept the responsibility of recommending his discharge, and voted down a motion asking him to apologize. Nor did they favor a suggestion that he confer with the employees.

As it stands the position is the same as before the flag incident. There is little probability of a strike, but the men may carry their fight to the city council at the next meeting. There will be a special meeting of the controllers tomorrow to consider the sale of the municipal abattoir to the Harris Abattoir Company, and the indignant employees may air their grievances then.

Deplores Statements. Aid. Ramdeen at the conference with the board of control said he regretted that Capt. William Crawford should have introduced the name of Commissioner Wilson's wife at the meeting in Victoria Hall. He took strong exception to that. The wives of the city officials should never be brought into public meetings.

When they were present with the alderman and said that it was going too far. The whole business was going too far. He did not justify what the commissioner had done. It was bad judgment.

The mayor wanted to know why the employees on the flag incident were not responsible for the efficiency of the work, and the commissioner replied that they were absent without leave, which went to show that strict discipline was necessary in the department.

Controllers O'Neill and Cameron were called upon on the matter and refused to believe that the controller's statement was disloyal. Controller O'Neill said there was nothing wrong with the department, and he objected to any interference with discipline. It was ridiculous to give ear to every petty deputation. He would not be a party to encourage it.

"Nothing short of Mr. Wilson's dismissal is asked for," said Controller O'Neill. "Mr. Wilson can tell you the reason being well done. That is the trouble. If we go on like this the city government will be run by petty deputation."

Disabled Charges. Controller Cameron said the board of control had nothing to do with any of the work, and the alleged disrespect to the flag. It had been said that the commissioner had torn the flag from the wagon and trampled upon it. He is not prepared to believe it.

A number of letters were read from citizens condemning the action of the commissioner and stating that Germans could not have done worse. It was such men as the commissioner who helped to prolong the war, it was charged.

One of the letters defended the commissioner and stated that he had been responsible for the efficiency of the street cleaning department. It was stated that it was quite clear that there was more than the flag incident behind the matter. Before Mr. Wilson had taken over the department the employees did not perform their work with the same degree of perfection as they had since. Many of the householders could testify to the indifference and inactivity of the employees a few months ago. Mr. Wilson had introduced discipline and civility.

The commissioner repeated his version of removing the flag and strongly denied that he had shown it disrespect. His action, he said, had been interpreted for an ulterior purpose. W. D. Kennedy, one of the employees, said the men were just as good as thought that Mr. Wilson was of better value to the city than the men, it could keep him. It couldn't have the men. If all the men laid down their tools the city could not fill their places in seven years, according to Charles Mitchell, another employee.

Charles Willis, from whose truck the commissioner removed the flag, repeated his story of the incident and admitted to the mayor that he did not think Mr. Wilson intended any disrespect. Mr. Kennedy and M. Leas thought it would be no compromise. The men did not intend to let the matter pass lightly. "What would you do? Cut off his

AWL PIERCES EYE.

Accident to Returned Soldier Robs Him of Remaining Optic.

Special to The Toronto World. Kingston, Ont., Sept. 26.—Pte. G. Taylor, aged 49, Canadian Railway Construction Battalion, has been rendered blind by an accident. Pte. Taylor is a native of Milford and enlisted at Belleville for overseas service. Being minus one eye he had to sacrifice the opportunity of joining the infantry, but went into construction work. His nearness while overseas necessitated his return to Canada and he arrived at Queen's military hospital recently. Yesterday while repairing his boot an awl slipped from his hand and the point entered his remaining good eye, and he is totally blind as a result. The doctors at the hospital hold out some hopes for the return of his sight.

RETURNS FROM OTTAWA

Glyn Osler Makes Important Announcements in Connection With New Act.

Every man will be required to respond when the proclamation calling men to the colors under the Military Service Act is issued, regardless of the category to which he belongs. This is the gist of a statement made yesterday afternoon by Provincial Registrar Glyn Osler, and it will do much to correct the erroneous impression conveyed in a recent Ottawa despatch, which stated that only category "A" men would be called up when the proclamation was issued, and that men in categories "B" and "C" might not be needed.

Back from the conference of registrars, their deputies and the military service council at Ottawa, Mr. Osler has a more definite understanding of the work ahead than he had heretofore. The conference was called for the purpose of discussing the details of the Military Service Act in its relation to its constituents, and, if possible, standardizing and expediting the work of the act throughout Canada.

Appointed members of registration depots in Ontario and Quebec were present at the conference, but owing to the distance and the limited time for discussion of the manifold phases of the work before proclamation, no western members were in attendance, and George Stiff was appointed to carry the result of the meeting to the western men.

Headquarters Downtown. The headquarters for Provincial Registrar Osler will be the old Board of Trade building, corner of Front street and Yonge street, on October 6. Here a staff of six assistant registrars and 180 clerks will classify, file and distribute the papers concerning young men called to the colors under the terms of the Military Service Act of 1917.

The proclamation will not be issued until the preliminary arrangements for the establishment of tribunals have been completed, and an opposite course would greatly handicap the tribunals in dealing with applications for exemption.

When the various categories are ordered to report it is not Registrar Osler who will say which category will enrol for immediate service. His department will act as a medium between the mobilization centres and the military service council. He will submit the current complement of men in the respective categories to the military service council, and that body will take such action as it finds expedient.

Mr. Osler is making arrangements on the basis of opening his office in Toronto about October 4. When the proclamation is issued those desiring exemption must make application in the authorized way within approximately twenty-five days, or this privilege becomes null.

There will be 429 tribunals in Ontario, or an average of eight to ten in each county, exclusive of the ones established in the various towns and cities. Toronto is to have 30, Hamilton 13, Brantford 4, Kingston 3, London 7, Windsor 4, and Ottawa 12 of the total.

FOUND GUILTY OF BIGAMY.

Hazel O'Neil, found guilty, in police court yesterday of bigamy, was sentenced to serve three months in jail. Her first husband is badly wounded in England. Arthur J. Ford, a soldier in a Toronto unit, was married to Hazel O'Neil, but he proved that he did not know the woman and another husband alive, and was allowed to go by Magistrate Denison.

TWO MEN SENTENCED.

Each Go to Jail for Two Months for Stealing Motor Car. C. F. Rumble and Richard Cook, who were convicted on Tuesday of stealing a motor car, the property of W. A. Denton, were yesterday sentenced to two months in jail each by Judge Coatsworth in the session court.

CITY HALL NOTES

Ald. Ball introduced a deputation to the board of control yesterday to ask that a meeting be held in Massey Hall to discuss the coal problem. The board promised to wire the fuel controller and invite him to give his intentions on the fixing of prices before a public meeting. The finance commissioner has been asked to exercise reasonable latitude in enforcing the collection of arrears of taxes upon the property of the taxpayers who are on active service.

The board of control has approved the recommendation that the action of Fieldhouse vs. Toronto be brought to trial at once, inasmuch as Mr. Fieldhouse is not satisfied with the efforts being made to prevent inconvenience arising from the Morley avenue sewage disposal plant.

STOLE MOTOR CAR.

Stanley Shepperdson, a youth who appeared before Judge Coatsworth in the session court yesterday on a charge of stealing a motor car, the property of F. W. H. Evans, was found guilty and sentenced to one month in jail.

Surplus Stock of Vegetables To Be Sold at Guelph Market

Mrs. C. R. Crowe, a member of the women's auxiliary to the organization of resources committee, Guelph, writing to Mrs. L. A. Gurnett, secretary of the auxiliary, stated that a market would be held in Guelph every Wednesday for five weeks, at which the surplus products of potatoes and vegetables raised by amateur gardeners, would be sold. The city council was paying the expense of the sale. Mrs. Gurnett stated that the general response to the food controller's appeal to the women of the province to sign the food pledge cards was satisfactory. Certain general localities had displayed opposition to the request, out generally the women had readily signed the cards.

AT ISLAND SCHOOL.

Nearly Fifty Children in Attendance at Present Time. While the number of residents at Toronto Island grows noticeably less as this month draws to its close, the attendance at Island School has not fallen off to any great extent since opening day. First day of school this term 33 children were present out of an enrollment of over 50. On the second day 48 turned up, and yesterday there were 48 children. By the end of October the number will probably dwindle to ten or twelve pupils.

JUDGMENTS TOMORROW.

Judgment will be delivered in the second appellate divisional court at Osgoode Hall at the opening of the court at 11 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 28, in the following cases: Smith v. Merchants Bank, Maple Leaf v. Caldwell Rat Forage v. Hartz, and Hope v. Canada Foundry. A well-known motion picture actress has designed an automobile which serves her as a dressing room with almost as many conveniences as a dressing room in a theatre would provide.

"And He looked up and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the treasury. And He saw also a certain poor widow casting in thither two mites. And He said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all. —a certain poor widow casting in thither two mites.

For all that there were but two mites, the sacrifice counted high with the Recording Angel.

For all that we ask of you is but little, the Multiplication of That Little will count high in the record of Canada's War Service.

And because of the Spirit and Sacrifice of those valiant men who are defending us, we feel that a great and noble Legion of Canadian Women will respond to this appeal.

Food is scarce---not because we have not had good crops, but because of the Lack of Production in Europe. Canada must make up for this, else hunger defeat her own and the Allies' Armies.

Enough food is wasted in Canada every day, to feed the entire Canadian Overseas Army for that day.

We do not ask you to deny your family food. Merely substitute certain other foods in place of a proportion of the white bread, beef and bacon they now eat.

For example: When baking use one-third corn, oatmeal, barley or rye flour with your white flour. Or tell your baker to bring you some brown bread each day.

Substitute for beef and bacon such foods as fish, peas, lentils, potatoes, nuts, bananas.

And---this is most important---Prevent waste of food in your home.

We ask it in the name of those who are fighting for us.

The Food Service Pledge is your Dedication to War Service. The Window Card your Emblem of Honour.

Practical Housekeeping Hints

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR CANNING FRUITS WITH SUGAR.

Pack fruit compactly in jars. It will pack better if put in a strainer or piece of cheese-cloth and lowered into boiling water for about one minute. This is called "blanching". Blanch fruit in small lots, that the water may not be cooled much. Press fruit gently down in jars with spoon or small wooden spatula. Fill jars with syrup. Release any air-bubbles by slipping knife or spatula down between fruit and jar. Put on rings and cover without fastening them down. Place jars on rack in boiler. Pour warm water in boiler, enough to come about half-way up the jars. Put cover on boiler. Bring water to a boil and boil gently as long as required. Remove boiler from the stove, fasten down covers, take jars out and let them cool. If, when jars are taken from the boiler, there is more than half an inch of space between fruit and cover, the contents of one jar may be used to fill the rest before the covers are fastened down. Put jars again in boiler and boil 5 minutes more.

These directions apply to fruit bought in towns and cities. Less time is required for fruit freshly picked. Ten minutes for quart jars, five minutes for pint jar of freshly picked berries is sufficient. The shorter the time in cooking, the better the berries retain their flavor, shape and color.

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 27.

Middleman or Consumer, Mr. Hanna?

What is the most useful contribution to the food control discussion yet issued was the statement in yesterday's paper from Hon. W. J. Hanna. We say the most useful because it reduces the confusion hitherto prevailing to a straight issue, and shows that whatever Mr. Hanna may do he will not adopt a policy of price control. We were afraid when he began to talk nonsense about supply and demand that he would not face the real difficulty. Now we are sure of it.

If we ask who is it he seeks to protect by refusing to regulate prices, we are answered by a maze of cross-accounts that the majority of the public know red herrings when they see—or smell them. When Mr. Hanna states that the fixing of prices would bring ruin to our social system, he is like Mr. Norman Angell, who conclusively proved that there couldn't be any more war. If Mr. Hanna wanted to do so he could fix prices, and the result would not be ruinous like the war, but beneficial, as the fixing of the price of wheat and other commodities has been.

Mr. Hanna's references to "an effete economic condition" are timely, but he does not appreciate the fact that his refusal to fix prices is characteristic of the "effete economic condition." He is on stronger ground when he recognizes the social burden of the middlemen. "Unquestionably, as I said before," he remarks, "there are too many middlemen." But it is not his first duty "to cut prices, eliminate middlemen," and so forth. This is where the confusion arises.

He divides the middlemen into two classes, but he ignores entirely the worst middleman of all, the middleman "The World" has written several articles about lately, the middleman who is a shareholder, "who tolls not, neither does he spin," but who draws middleman's wages in the shape of dividends to an extent that would have staggered Solomon in all his glory. Mr. Hanna's middlemen are in two classes, "the greedy middleman" and "the supernumerary, unnecessary and inefficient middleman." If he will include the shareholders in the second class and say honestly that he refuses to control prices because it might affect the dividends which go to the supernumerary, unnecessary shareholder middleman, we could respect him for his frankness, but we cannot acquiesce in his general condemnation of the busy, efficient and useful distributing middleman class merely to shield those who add the real burden to the food consumer.

With all of Mr. Hanna's five other factors we are not concerned at present, the food speculator and the food waster being the other two classes besides the middlemen with which the consumer is chiefly concerned. With both of these he hopes to deal. The other factors also are being provided against. So that it is with the shareholding middlemen that the food consumer has his main quarrel. He represents watered stock in any food corporation to which he belongs. He is the unnecessary and idle man on the pay-sheet who raises cost and makes no return. Every penny of unnecessary capital in a food corporation raises the price of food just as much as would be the case if all the farmers took to sinking their capital in marble barns, gold-mounted reapers, cut-stone fences, and asphalt roads and lanes. In fact these improvements might tend to cheapen food production in some respects, but watered stock and shareholding middlemen who do nothing but draw dividends are a load for the consumer to carry.

There is another fallacy in Mr. Hanna's contention about middlemen. He suggests that if food prices were controlled all the middlemen in business would be forced out of work, and he draws a picture of blue ruin worthy of the late Sir Richard Cartwright. The fallacy is that by far the great majority of these middlemen are not in the food business at all. There is no danger of all the dry goods stores or the hundreds and one luxury stores going broke because the prices of foodstuffs were fixed. We may all be middlemen of a sort, but the closer we get to the farmer, and the more certain we are that he is getting a fair price, and that he is not losing most of what he makes to the food speculator, but is encouraged to increase his production by the fair prices fixed, the more satisfied we all shall be.

Mr. Hanna speaks of famine. We are not afraid to speak of famine. It is a worse possibility than the prolongation of the war. But when it is seen that the middleman is in control of food prices, and not Mr. Hanna, who is supposed to be, then the farmer, who gets nothing of the prices the middleman fixes for the consumer—the farmer gets discouraged. He says, "What's the use?" He plants less. Famine is nearer.

Mr. Hanna will have to make it plain whether he is acting for the middleman or for the farmer and the consumer, whose interests are joint and inseparable. If he is careful for the middleman, he is not the man to be food controller.

The American Bankers.

The 4,000 delegates to the bankers' convention at Atlantic City talk patriotism, and their words carry more weight in view of the high and disinterested service they performed in floating the liberty loan. Just at this time, too, we learn that Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip temporarily retires from the presidency of the National City Bank of New York to become an official of the United States treasury department. His first duty will be to help the government float the coming loan, but it is said he will remain in an advisory capacity in the treasury department until the war is over.

These things are as they should be, and Financial Street expresses the hope that the great service Wall street is rendering the government in this hour of trial will remove much of the popular prejudice against the big moneyed men and interests in New York.

That prejudice will disappear when the magnates understand that the country expects them to be patriotic in peace as well as in war. The era of frozen finance, the looting of railway companies, the corruption of courts and legislatures, the bedeviling of public utilities by the Morgans and Harrimans, will not soon be forgotten, and Wall street has a pretty bad record to live down.

Fortunately the power of the money trust is somewhat broken by national control of currency, banking and credits. The next thing is to place the railways beyond the power of crooked manipulators. The United States is in no humor to stand any more crimes like those committed by financial magnates in connection with the New Haven and Rock Island railways. Government ownership and operation of all the means of communication will make service, not profits, the goal to be aimed at.

Wall street has important functions to perform, and it is acting much better now than it did during the civil war. For one thing the government and not the banks now has the whip hand in the banking business. From this war the people will emerge with a clearer conception of what civilization should mean. It is the welfare of the many, not the wealth of a few, that the modern state should conserve. There can be no real democracy where wealth accumulates in a few hands and the mass of the people lead hard and narrow lives of privation, no matter what form of government may prevail.

Laughing at Them.

L'Evenement, the daily Conservative newspaper of Quebec City, has stoutly supported conscription from the first. It was not with L'Evenement a matter of politics, but of conviction, and it stood firm when angry waves of popular dissent broke savagely against it. Now that the battle is fairly won the Quebec contemporary is poking fun at the anti-conscriptionists. L'Evenement recalls that in May and June last it was everywhere stated that only Liberals would be drafted for the war, that the exemption tribunals would be composed of servile tools sent down from Ottawa, and that the abomination of desolation would descend upon the Province of Quebec. Now, it says, the people see that the tribunals are composed of judges, notaries and the most respectable men of every parish, and that half of them have been practically named by Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. The farmers realize that the law is to be administered in a moderate and sensible way, and there is no more excitement along the St. Lawrence over conscription than there is on the banks of the Saskatchewan.

"Revolutionary Ferment."

It is quite true that an influential authority like The Times should draw attention to the "revolutionary ferment" that is at work in England socially as well as in other countries. The world is always coming to an end for some people, and it is always beginning anew for others. Social worlds of various kinds came to an end in 1793, in 1832, in 1848, in 1868, and once more most notably in 1906. Then in 1914 came the catastrophe. The people who think that after the war we are going back to 1914, or anything like it, belong to another age. They might as well be troglodytes, antediluvians, as far as this age is concerned.

It should not have escaped the notice of intelligent people that the Radicals of one generation become the Conservatives of the next. "Milestones" was an artistic dramatic presentation of that fact. Joseph Chamberlain, who was regarded as a diabolical agency by the Conservatives of his early days, would be a very mild reformer by present standards. Mr. Lloyd George is not unacceptable to the peasant just now. We move in cycles historically, and there is an entirely new brand of radical always coming along until the nations are surfeited.

The moral of it all is that we must learn to take impending changes seriously. The time has gone past when men can live soft, sponge on the active and industrious, and get away with it. The men who have lived hard on the field of battle are quite ready to listen to those who have lived hard on the field of battle. They will look in each other's eyes and recognize the manhood and the intelligence. It is these that are going to control our affairs after the war if the "revolutionary ferment" means anything worth while.

There is nothing more in this "revolutionary ferment" than the abolition of privilege. It is no terrible thing to those who have never enjoyed privileges. Those who possess them now and abuse them, or are unwilling to pay for them by service to the state and their fellows, will find little favor from those who have served. The "ferment of revolution" thrives on the sentiment that there are to be no more fillets, no more shirkers. Its motto is "Get busy."

People who perceive an end of all things in such sentiments know little or nothing of life. Work is not an evil thing in itself, but a good thing. It might be a joy and a blessing. William Morris wrote a book which few people read, perhaps because he left out of account the religious principle in human nature, but in "News From Nowhere" he drew a charming picture of a national life in which everybody did his bit. That is the idea at the bottom of the "revolutionary ferment."

Nature always provides remedies for her diseases. There is only one cure for our present economic diseases. It is co-operation. It has been tried successfully in many places. It is the basis of the present prosperity agriculturally in Ireland. It has done wonders for Denmark. The principle is sound and applicable of universal application. It will probably prove to be the remedy of all the "revolutionary ferment" that does not arise from a desire to do nothing.

KEEP STILL UNTIL EXCITEMENT IS OVER.

Keep still. When trouble is brewing, keep still. Even when slander is getting on his legs, keep still. When your feelings are hurt, keep still—till you recover from your excitement at any rate. Things look differently thru an "unagitated eye."

Dr. Burton relates how once in a commotion he wrote a letter and sent it and wished he had not. "In my later years," he said, "I had another commotion and wrote a long letter, but life had rubbed a little sense into me, and I kept that letter in my pocket against the day when I could look it over without agitation and without tears. I was glad I did. Less and less it seemed necessary to send it. I was not sure it would do any hurt, but in my doubtfulness I leaned to reticence, and eventually it was destroyed." Time works wonders. Wait till you can speak calmly, and then you will not need to speak, maybe.

MANY DEAD WHO ARE ALIVE

BY TEDDIE WICK.

"If we say you're dead you're as good as dead—especially you are dead."
 —Lord High Executioner in The Mikado.

And then there was also Jeremiah Crumpler, of "recalled to life" fame in "A Tale of Two Cities," who was told: "You'd do in a blazing bad way, Jerry, if 'recalled to life' was to come into fashion."

Which harks us back to the early days of the war and that British soldier who kept nagging the war office to hand over his back pay, altho the war office had its own proof in black and blue before his very eyes that he was dead.

When a man's dead, he's dead. And there's an end of it.

And on that point the lord high executioner and war office stand arm in arm, and stand pat.

Once upon a time there was the father of a young officer who was in that thing on the beach, and who was notified by the powers that be that his son had been killed. He had been seen standing beside his machine gun in a wood and the ground had suddenly opened and he swallowed him. Later his comrades got word to the father that his son had been surrounded by Germans and killed fighting. Another had seen his son lying dead. So the family donned mourning and considered the book closed and the son's life fulfilled.

A month later the father came to a London hotel. "Two forty-three," called the page, carrying a telegram. Two hundred and forty-three was the father's room number, and the telegram was from those same powers that be informing him his son was alive.

It would be funny if it were not that it is so unspeakably not funny. "The son of the war office said, was a prisoner of war in German hands. And the father now is one of those hundreds who will tell you:

"Never believe a 'missing' man is dead—never."

"I had him buried," wrote a major about a West Bromwich artilleryman, "with others of his comrades who were killed at the same time, and above them we placed a wooden cross."

"I am quite well," the artilleryman was writing at the same time less than a mile away.

And hence arises the Red Cross, and he owes his existence to Lord Robert Cecil, under-secretary for foreign affairs. In the early days of the war Lord Robert went to France to seek news of a missing friend from the friend's comrades. When he came back, soon after the battle of the Marne, the British Red Cross Society founded its wounded and missing department, and the searcher began to find him for soiling hearts.

Nowadays the department has its quarters in a great mansion in London where daily lists of the "missing" are sent by the war office. Here the reports are tabulated and the names sent out to groups of the army and navy British base along the Hindenburg line.

Chiefly the searcher roams the hospitals, carrying his big book of missing, and enquires from each wounded man what he knows of men in his company posted as wounded and missing, or merely "missing."

Usually he hears:
 "Yes, sir, I knew him quite well, but I don't know what happened to him. I never saw him after we went over the top."

Sometimes:
 "That fellow's a prisoner, and six others with him. We were all at an outpost when it was surrounded. I got away correct. The shareholders of the bank are a small percentage—less than nine per cent.—of the total shares of the National Trust Company and never have been any greater.

National Trust Co. and C.N.R.
 (Regina Leader, Sept. 18).

Sir,—My attention has just been called to an editorial relative to the proposed purchase by the Dominion Government of Canadian Northern Railway shares, which appeared in your paper on August 25, in which the following assertion is made:

"Hence the Canadian Bank of Commerce and all its subsidiary interests, as for instance, the National Trust Company, of which Sir Thomas White was vice-president and general manager prior to being pitched forth by the Big interests into the finance portfolio in the Borden cabinet, are deeply interested in having a good round price paid by the Canadian people for this worthless stock now lying in their vaults as an asset."

I desire to inform you that the National Trust Company does not own, either directly or indirectly, nor has it ever owned directly or indirectly, a share of stock in the Canadian Northern Railway, nor has it ever advanced any money directly or indirectly upon the security of any such shares.

I further desire to inform you that your suggestion that the National Trust Company is a subsidiary organization of the Canadian Bank of Commerce is also in part incorrect. The shareholders of the bank are a small percentage—less than nine per cent.—of the total shares of the National Trust Company and never have been any greater.

Poll Tax on Recruits
 Editor World: In reading your editorial on more separation allowance in a recent issue (which we all appreciate), it struck me you might be interested in me following: British soldiers who came from the United States British recruiting offices cannot get a pass home except on proof of urgent business. If a relative comes to see you, the United States Government taxes them on return to the States $4 for a woman, and $15 for a man, alien tax. If you cross on pass you only get soldiers' rates in Canada; full fare in the United States has to be paid on the Grand Trunk or C. P. R. I would like to inquire if a soldier who came from the United States army to Canadian aviation camps gets soldiers' rates in Canada. I would also like to inquire if a soldier who joined up in United States British recruiting office will have to pay a $15 alien tax on his discharge when his home and family is in the United States and he has been a resident there for some years. A few thousand Britishers and Canadians who enlisted in the United Meanwhile, when a soldier is a prisoner in a German camp, and the report of his death is not easy to disprove with evidence that he is still living, there are no end of complications. You can find them all over England, some of them laughable, and some—not quite so laughable. A bride who informed her husband was dead, and she put on widow's dress, sent out cards, and received condolences. Six months later an old friend came to visit her and she was married to him. And the rest of it is just as you have supposed!

Her husband, a prisoner in Germany, heard of the wedding and wrote his wife, who, my informant says, "was much upset, of course, at this strange turn of events."

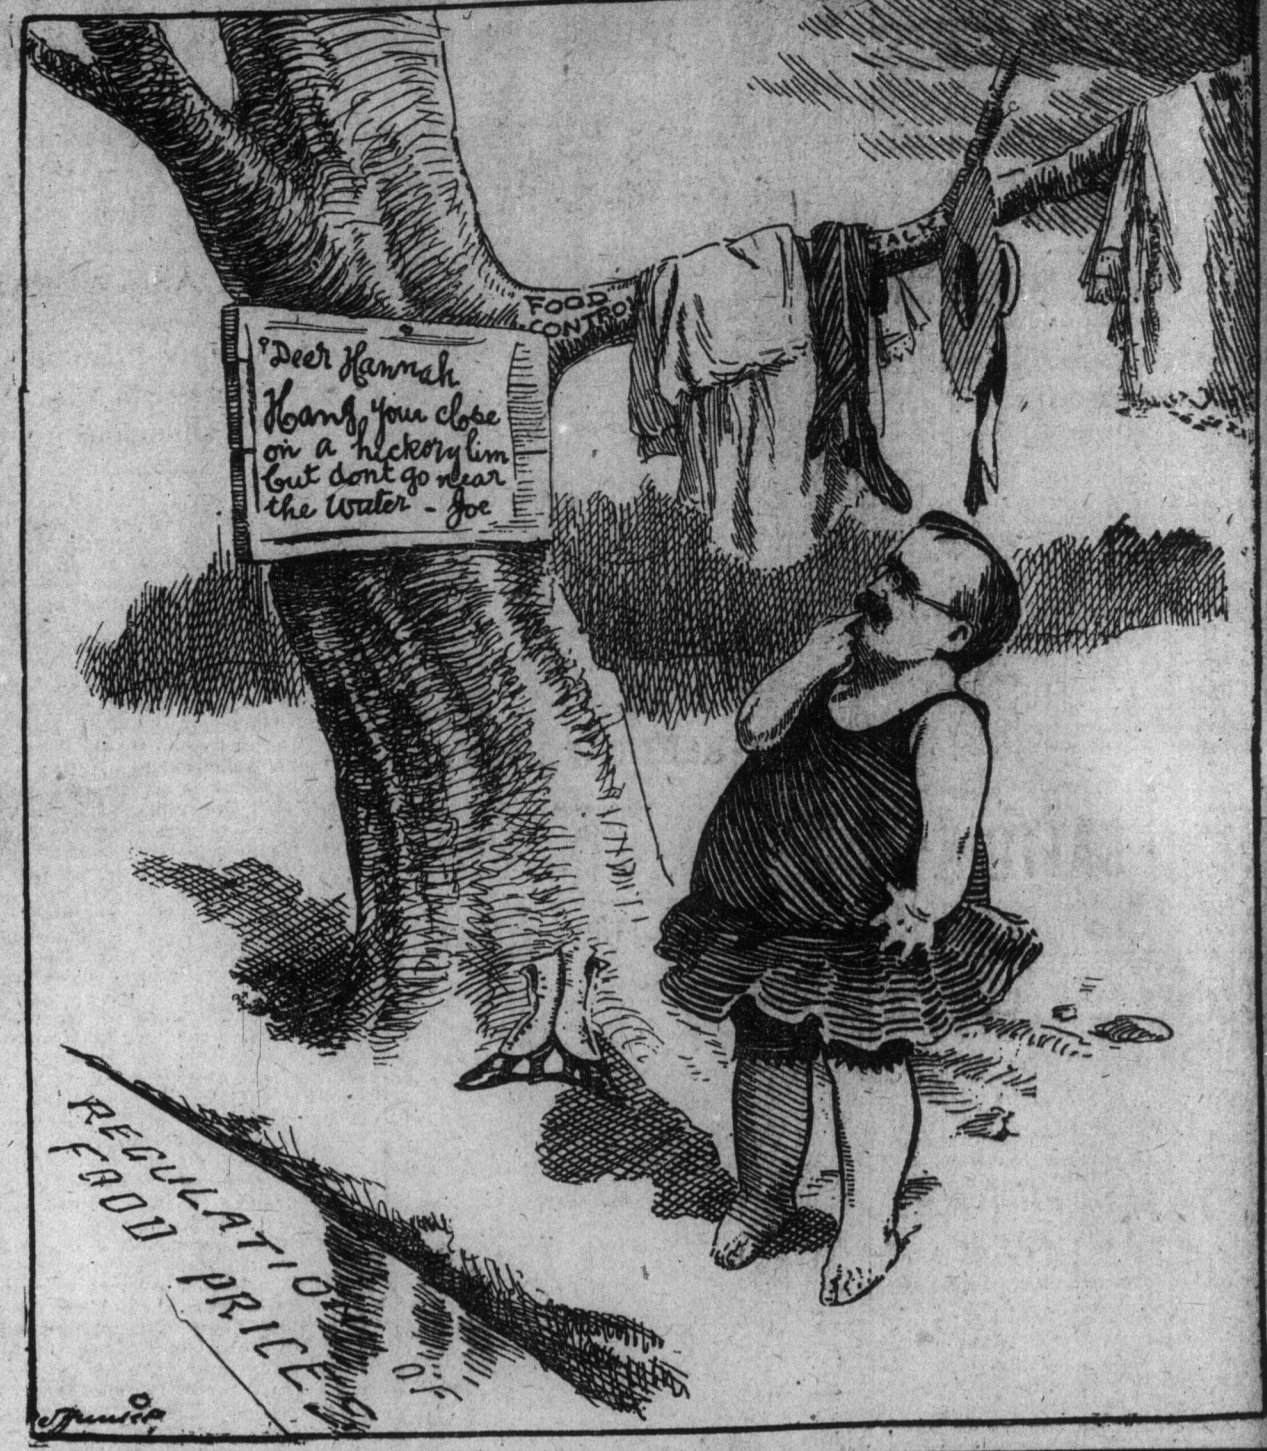

Such topsy-turvy tangles would make uproarious farces, except that in this topsy-turvy world of war they lead one too appallingly abruptly into the supernatural silences of the women who sorrow.

But, "killed in action" on scores of memorial cards has turned scores of dead men up to life in this war, and sometimes not even the local paper has troubled to make an item of it.

"STANDING WITH RELUCTANT FEET"

States would appreciate these little points straightened out, and incidentally recruiting offices in the United States would do a bigger business for the Canadian army. I give you my name, but not for publication. Justice.

Service Men and Soldiers.

Editor World: The board of control and other employers are doing nobly in providing employment for returned soldiers, but many good-thinking citizens are of the opinion that it is about time that a line was drawn between returned soldiers who have done their bit and others who have been in khaki and discharged in Canada or England thru being medically unfit or by "slinging the lead." Amongst a number of appointments recently made by the board of control appear the names of eight who were discharged in Canada, and three discharged in England. It is a well-known fact that, in the early days of recruiting, officers endeavoring to get their battalions up to strength were not particular as to who were attested, and in this they were greatly helped by the medical examiners.

Such accepted men, instead of being a help to the cause, were a detriment, on account of the expense the country was put to in every way and the labor and time entailed in their training. Now the burning question is, why should those men, some of whom have been in Canada but a short time, take precedence over citizens who have been taxpayers for years, and who did not try to bluff their way into khaki, knowing that thru age or possible physical defects they were not qualified? There are hundreds of such citizens who, from point of intelligence, business ability and activity, are, to say the least, equal to the men who have been in khaki and discharged, yet the said citizens dare not apply for a position in the city that they were born in. This is a state of affairs that should be remedied, but, of course, nothing is likely to be done until after the municipal elections, as an alderman who would dare breach such a subject now would be in fear of his political head. There is a larger size to this subject that it would be well for the Great War Veterans' Association to stop and consider. This strength now may prove their weakness later on when the government finally takes up the matter of pensions for adjustment. There is a limit to the burden that this country can carry in way of pensions, and it is only fair that those who have suffered injury in any way, and the dependents of those who have given up their lives in this just cause, should proportionately receive the benefit of whatever the country can afford to give, which will be none too much when all is done.

There should be no thought or consideration for those who up to the present have gained more than they have given. Of course, it is possible that the training these men have received may have fitted them for service with the new draft, in which case any claims that they then may have will receive proper recognition. —Observer.

GOULD UNBEATABLE ALLOWS ONE DOUBLE

Indianapolis Blanked by Leafs in Second Game of Series.

The inter-league series is now a tie. The Leafs were accorded an excellent brand of pitching by Albert Gould yesterday in the second game of the series, and a whitewash smother was put on the Indianapolis outfit. Our boys collected four runs off Dawson, of the Indians, and Gould never let the American Association player past second base.

For seven long innings the visitors never even got anything that looked like a hit. In the eighth, however, they managed to get a single and a double, and this was the only safety registered by the A.A. champions.

It was the best pitching exhibition peddled at the Island this season, and had Indianapolis believed at all times, Gould worked with a smoothness that could not be improved upon. He issued only two bases on balls, and struck out five of the visitors.

On the other hand, Dawson, the Indianapolis pitching choice, was hit with regularity and was lucky to get away with only four tallies against him. The Leafs swung their bats in the style that brought home the International League flag, and it was a perfect afternoon for the three thousand fans.

The Leafs fielded faultlessly, and always looked the better team. The third game of the series is down for decision today, and with a good brand of pitching the Leafs should leave for Indianapolis with a margin of one game in the seven-game series.

McDonald, who came over from Buffalo to help us out, made himself solid with the fans. Mac supplied the clout that made our first two runs possible. Every man on the Toronto team helped himself to one or more hits, and it was a rousing exhibition of stick work.

There is nothing to tell about Indianapolis' batting turns. They fell before Gould like the scoreboard on the days of the high winds. One hit does not need much explaining.

After the first inning we got our hits regular, and Dawson got away lucky in the second. Lajoie and Schultz supplied hits, but Blackburne popped to Kirke in an effort to bunt. McDonald rolled to third, and Larry was tagged out. Lajoie walked, but Gould could not deliver.

We got our first pair in the fourth. Lajoie batted to left and Schultz rolled to short. Terkes dropped the ball and Larry, and all hands were safe. Blackburne laid down a bunt and made first when Dawson fumbled it. McDonald replied with a beauty to centre that scored two. Lajoie was tagged out. Lajoie and Truesdale rolled out.

We had another glorious chance in the sixth, but again the tail-end of the batting order could not deliver. Our last two came in the sixth. With one down Lajoie and Gould unwrapped hits, and Truesdale sent Mickey home with a good poke. Jacobson let Gould over with another.

Indianapolis' lone hit came in the fifth. Only four men got on the paths for the visitors, and only one reached second base.

If it should rain today the teams will remain over and play on Friday. The third and last game here of the series should see another Toronto victory.

"A Clean Sweep!"

WAR! WAR! WAR!—This time it is corn brooms. Corn is high in price and poor in quality, and no relief is in sight. But there is a sunny side to the situation. We have for a long time had a fibre broom in mind that would do better sweeping and last much longer than a corn broom. It formerly cost a little more to make than the old-time corn broom. Now it is cheaper—and a better broom, mind you!

BOECKH'S "CLEAN SWEEP" BROOMS

The polished handle is set on a slant for easier sweeping (something you could not get in a corn broom). The "Clean Sweep" is without a rival for sweeping Carpets, Linoleum, and Hardwood Floors, gathering every particle of dust and dirt.

SENSATIONAL PICTURE DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

"The Public Be Damned" is Being Shown at the Strand All This Week.

The sensational and spectacular photoplay, "The Public Be Damned," is meeting with unparalleled and unprecedented success at the Strand Theatre. Seldom, if ever, has a photoplay been shown with equal "punch" and at the same time which makes an appeal to large masses of the people. The demeanor of the audiences at the Strand has been well worth noting. It has been easy to see that the public recognize in the story told upon the screen, a tale which, in many respects, is within the orbit of their own experience. Indeed, on leaving, many a householder and many a housewife who know their cost how exorbitant are the prices of food, and how largely those prices are attributable to the greed of the people who trade in food, express their sense of the truthfulness of the picture to the actual conditions of life. A propagandist play is not to be "caviare to the general." And "The Public Be Damned" is frankly a propagandist. But there can be no doubt as to its acceptability. It is acceptable because it rings true.

The conditions described in the photoplay are conditions in the United States. It may be that in that country the farmer gets a larger share of his labor and that turn indeed for his labor and that

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Registration of University Shows Effect of the War

The total registration to date in the faculties of arts, medicine, and applied science of the University of Toronto is 284. While this total is below that of normal years owing to the numerous students who have entered service from the upper years, there is a fair enrollment in arts and pre-professional courses, particularly being well up to the average. The school of science has seen greatly less drop, however, and even the freshmen year is far below normal. The following are the statistics of enrollment in the three faculties: Arts, 1st year, 373; 2nd, 263; 3rd, 244; 4th, 201; total, 1081. Medicine, 1st year, 121; 2nd, 89; 3rd, 89; 4th, 63; 5th, 54; total, 421. Applied science, 1st year, 62; 2nd, 32; 3rd, 17; 4th, 11; total, 122.
