Why Not Get Rid of That DYSPEPSIA?

Probably you have tried hard enough, with doctors, drugs and dieting. The only trouble is that you have not yet tried Father Morrissy's "No. 11" Tablets. If you had you would be cured. It is very doubtful if any better remedy has ever been devised for indigestion, dyspepsia, and all forms of stomach trouble, than these tablets prescribed by the late Father Morrissy. He studied out the prescription carefully, with all his wonderful skill, because so many of his people needed a remedy of this kind. During his lifetime thousands were cured by the "No. 11" Tablets, and the good work still goes on.

Don't give up hope, thinking there is no cure for you, until you have tried these tablets. Each tablet will digest 1 1/2 pounds of food, so that no matter how weak your stomach may be, a good meal can be digested, and you can get the strength from it. Father Morrissy's "No. 11" will give you a new grip on life. See at your dealer's, or from Father Morrissy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N. B.

About Prominent People

DOESN'T REFUSE ENCORE

Signor Mascagni, the famous composer, relates in his autobiography how he once obtained employment as a substitute leader of orchestra in an operetta company for five francs a day, which was not paid regularly. While leading "Satanstoe" at Naples a song was encored, but he refused to have it repeated. The audience shouted and howled; still Mascagni refused to repeat the song. Suddenly he was struck in the back by a heavy object and thrown off his chair. It was a cushion hurled from the gallery. Mascagni says, "I immediately repeated the song, and have never refused an encore since."

TOO OLD AT SIXTY

Brothers I am sixty-one, And my work on earth is done; Peace should follow after storm, Reach me down the chloroform.

This is a facetious undergraduate when Dr. Osler, the brilliant Regius Professor of Medicine, expressed the playful opinion some years ago that all professors and public teachers should be chloroformed at sixty. Naturally, now that he has reached his sixty-first year people are slyly suggesting that he should "reach down the chloroform." The country, however, could ill afford to lose a man of Dr. Osler's brilliant attainments, for he is a savant of European reputation.

RECIPE FOR LONGEVITY

Having celebrated his seventieth birthday, the Standard Oil King apparently feels himself competent to discourse on aids to longevity. "Men should occupy their minds with other things than business," he says, "for those other things which gave a keen relish to life. The vacation season should be spent by living simply, by spending more time out of doors. Business men to-day are living too rapidly. They would be in better health and live longer if they followed my example." As a diversion for old age Mr. Rockefeller recommends the study of humor. He now devotes hours to reading the output of American funny men, and indulges in the curious hobby of collecting all the caricatures of himself which have appeared in American and foreign newspapers.

INVENTOR OF RAILWAY SIGNALING

A few days ago a man whose name was once on everybody's lips celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday. He is Mr. John Saxby, who invented the interlocking system of railway signaling, which has proved as valuable to the railway world as the Westinghouse brake. Mr. Saxby is now one of the heads of the great firm of Saxby & Farmer, the English railway signal makers, and has made a fortune out of his invention. There was a time, however, when he was working as a carpenter's apprentice at 3s a week.

MARRIAGE OR MAIDENHOOD?

Once at a dinner which the well-known historian and instructor of the Upper Ten Thousand on things platonic, Dr. Emil Reich, was present, the conversation turned on marriage. "That was a wise saying of the old Greek philosopher, said someone.

"Whether you marry or not you will regret it," "Yes," answered Dr. Reich, "It reminds me of a certain old maid who once said something almost as good as that. 'Auntie, said her little niece to her. What would you do if you had your life to live over again?' To which the lonely spinster quickly replied, 'Get married, my child, before I had sense enough to decide to be an old maid.' "AND A GOOD JUDGE TOO."

Field-Marshal Prince Oyama, the famous Japanese soldier, has been described by one of his countrymen as "The most European man in the whole nation." He received his early education in France, and returned to Japan imbued with the reformer's spirit. The Prince, who has seen a good deal of active service, was once present at a ball in Tokio, to which a number of Europeans had been invited. He was standing, speaking to a friend near one of the exits when a French lady of unusual beauty passed him. Turning to his companion, Oyama involuntarily ejaculated "What a lovely woman!" The subject of his potent admiration heard him, turned quickly round, recognized her famous critic, and said: "What an excellent judge!"

A POCKET-KNIFE SURGEON

There have been some exciting incidents in the career of the Marquis of Tullbarine, who has gone to Dunblod House, his Scottish seat, for the season. He has had a distinguished military career, his most daring exploit being a dash through the Dervishes in an attempt to save two wounded troopers. After the battle he and Mr. Winston Churchill went to the aid of the wounded. The Marquis carried a large water bottle, from which he supplied a welcome draught to many parched lips. To one wounded Dervish, who was shot in the leg, he acted as surgeon by extracting the bullet with a button-hook he had in his pocket knife. He was acting as one of the guard of honor to the Prince and Princess of Wales at their wedding when his horse stumbled and threw him heavily his helmet probably saving his life. He was badly hurt by the fall, and the animal also trampled on him.

PRINCE'S COLD BATH

Last month was rich in the birthdays of notable people, and among those who celebrated their natal day was Prince Henry of Prussia. The younger brother of the Kaiser is entirely void of formality or affectation, and a story is told illustrative of this fact. One day, while on a visit to America, he wished to write a note to the Kaiser at a certain public function. He was unable to find a table handy, so called a member of his suite, and, spreading a sheet of notepaper on the latter's back, wrote his letter as calmly as possible. The Prince is also a very popular figure in the German navy, and, although a strict disciplinarian, he never issues an order that he would not willingly undertake himself. On one occasion while his ship was lying in Northern waters, he gave orders for all hands to bathe. The captain hinted to the Prince that his command was a little too severe, as the weather was extremely cold at the time. Thereupon Prince Henry, without any hesitation, dived into the briny, swam about for a while, climbed on board again, then approached the captain, who was by this time feeling rather ashamed of himself. "Do you still think it too cold?" inquired the Prince, smilingly, but the captain gave his orders immediately, while the royal sailor, instead of changing his clothes then, stood calmly by, and watched the men obeying the command.

ROSEBERRY IN RED WIG

Not long after Earl Rosebery succeeded to the title he took the part of Douglas in an amateur performance of "Roy Roy" at Dunfermline. According to Sir Walter Scott—or to his lines as spoken by Hallie Nicol Jarvis—Douglas is a "red-headed Highland devil," consequently his lordship had to don a tawny wig of the fiercest hue. In the well-known rough-and-tumble scene of the play he managed to let his drop from his head, and the incident evoked much laughter among the audience. Douglas grinned, too, but when he pecked up his wig and placed it on the wrong way the "house" simply roared. Sitting next to the person who told the story were a dour old pair—a farmer and his wife. The lady's criticism was very severe. "That Douglas's a gowk," she said. "Whatever he is, he's done his best to turn a gran' play like 'Roy Roy' into a pantomime."

CROUP stopped in 20 minutes pure with Dr. Sheep's Croup Remedy. One test will surely prove. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—See Druggists.

More Cures Attributed to Rev. William J. Stewart

Boston, Sept. 9.—After lying helpless for thirteen weeks on account of varicose veins in her legs, Mrs. James Robertson, wife of a wealthy leather manufacturer of Woburn, declares herself a perfectly well woman as the result of treatment by Rev. William J. Stewart, who was called to the Robertson home after several doctors had failed to give Mrs. Robertson relief.

By the simple laying on of hands Mrs. Robertson asserts, the aged minister succeeded, by his "divine power," in a cure.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart cannot explain the cure, but says that for years he has had a "divine call" to give up the pulpit and go about healing the sick.

Although he has held small pastorates in and about Boston for years, Mr. Stewart first came into prominence by the cure by bloodless surgery of Mrs. Mary Zief, who has been a sufferer from paralysis since the Chelsea fire. In company with Dr. William B. Hidden of Boston, Mr. Stewart treated Mrs. Zief by the laying on of hands. To the surprise of numerous specialists who had previously declared the case hopeless, the woman's paralytic limbs were straightened, her sufferings ceased and she is now able to walk for the first time in fourteen months.

FIRST CALLED A DOCTOR

For several years Mrs. Robertson has been troubled with varicose veins. She consulted several doctors, but gained no relief. Finally she summoned Dr. Vernon Stewart, who is said finally to have effected the cure. The physician admitted that he could not cure Mrs. Robertson and directed her to remain in bed. Her sufferings became intense, so much so that she could not bear the touch of a bed covering on the afflicted parts.

The young doctor told of his father's strange success in the case of Mrs. Zief. Mrs. Robertson to a Sunday American reporter. "I had doctored so much that I began to think there was no cure for me. I have a fine family of eight children and it was torture to be obliged to remain in bed week after week, unable to look after my family and the home.

Young Dr. Stewart did as well by me as any physician could, but I did not improve. When he told me of the cure his father had effected in the case of Mrs. Zief I immediately begged him to have his father come to me.

RELIEF AT FIRST TOUCH

"On Tuesday night about three weeks ago the old gentleman called for the first time. My leg was in such a condition that I could not bear him to touch it. Once he had laid his hands upon me, however, I felt instant relief. He came several times afterward. Each time the pain was lessened until finally the inflammation and swelling disappeared. I was taking no medicine at the time.

"The Rev. Mr. Stewart ceased his calls upon my statement that I was fully cured. I have been on my feet all day working about the house and have not felt the slightest inconvenience.

"I haven't attempted to explain why I was cured or how, it is the most unusual thing, I had no faith in the man when he first called because I thought nothing could be done for me. Mental suggestion on my part had nothing to do with it. The man seems to be gifted with some unusual power.

ANOTHER CURE

"Not only has he cured Mrs. Zief and myself, but he has restored to health a young man whom the doctors had given up on account of complicated stomach trouble. Several other cases have also been brought to my attention.

"Although I am adverse to appearing in a newspaper story, I feel that it is my duty to let other sufferers know that a cure is possible. Of course I do not know that Rev. Mr. Stewart can cure all cases or just what diseases he can help, but since I owe my present good health to his powers, I want other people to have the same opportunity I had."

As before told, Rev. Mr. Stewart was formerly pastor of Brussels street Baptist and other churches here.

Hundreds of Thousands of Bottles of Nerviline Used Every Year for Curing Cramps, Diarrhoea, and Stomach Disorders.

Deadly cramps—the symptoms are not to be mistaken. Suddenly and without warning the patient experiences such agony in the stomach as to comfort the countenance and cause him to cry aloud for help.

Then it is that the wonderful power of Nerviline can make itself felt—it cures so quickly you would think it was made to cure cramps only.

"Last summer I was stricken with a frightful attack of cramps. I feared the pain in my stomach would kill me. My eyes bulged out and the veins in my forehead stood out like whipcords. My cries attracted a neighbor, who came to my assistance, and in a moment or two handed me half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in some sweetened water. "It seemed as if an angel had channeled away the pain. In ten seconds I was well. Nerviline has a wonderful name in this locality and is considered best for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, stomach and bowel disorders. I urge all my friends to use Nerviline."

MANLEY M. LECARDE,

The Example Of Parents

A good parent's first cure is to be virtuous himself, his second to make his virtues as easy and engaging to them about him as their nature will admit. Virtue itself offends when coupled with forbidding manners; and some virtues may be urged to such success, or brought forward so unseasonably as to discourage and repel those who observe those who are acted upon them instead of exciting an inclination to imitate and adopt them.

"Just Going To"

He meant to insure his house, but it was burnt out before he found the time to do it.

He was just going to help a neighbor when the man died.

He was just going to send flowers to a sick friend when it proved too late.

He was just going to stop drinking and dissipating, when his health became wrecked.

He was just going to provide protection for his wife and family, when his fortune was swept away from him.

He was just going to introduce a better system into his business, when it went smash.

He was just going to call on a customer, when he found his competitor had preceded him and secured the order.

He was just going to leave work a while and take a holiday, when nervous prostration came.

He was just going to provide his wife with more help, when she took to her bed and required a nurse, a doctor and a maid.

Colonial Navies

Will the British Empire be weakened or strengthened by the new scheme of Colonial navies? Will the Dominions in the future be more or less than allies? It seems that the existence of small Colonial squadrons add nothing to and takes nothing from the power of the British navy.—Le Temps, Paris.

It's a pity when sick ones drug the stomach or stimulate the heart and kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak stomach means weak stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the heart and kidneys. The weak nerves are instead crying out for help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. The Restorative reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments—the falling "inside nerves". Anyway test the Restorative 48 hours. It won't cure so soon as that, but you will surely know that help is coming. Sold by all Dealers.

The First Newspaper

It was from China that the first newspaper was ever issued. This was away back in the year 713, and it appeared without a break up to the present year. Many copies of the old number are still preserved in the museums of the larger cities of Europe, and in some of these earlier copies are accounts of the discovery of America by Columbus. The first English newspaper which was called the "London Gazette," dates back to November 1665. In 1690 the first newspaper in the United States was published in Boston. The title was "Public Occurrences." In 1729, Benjamin Franklin sent out to the public from Philadelphia the first number of the "Pennsylvania Gazette."

The Able Man's Age

We are told times without number, and in a manner most oracular, that this is a young man's age. We are cited the young men in business and the professions as evidence of the tendency to regulate the grey heads the background, and the subject is good for an indefinite number of pathetic preachments.

As a matter of demonstrable fact, this is no more exclusively a young man's age than any previous era in history.

At all times and in all periods the call has been for ability, for strength and experience to bear the world's burdens, to fight the battles of peace and of war.

And in the response to the call, the man of elderly years has been relatively as prevalent as the youngster. Ability and endurance and experience have a market value at whatever age. A calling of the roll, moreover, of the men instrumental to-day of the men in American Finance and industry and politics would disclose the posts of greatest responsibility held by men ranging well up toward the scriptural limitations.

OPPORTUNITIES IN THE EAST

Amherst News.—In conversation with a young lawyer recently he informed us that he was thinking of locating in the West, probably in Calgary, as that city seemed to have a bright future. His remark led us to look up a hand book recently issued by the Calgary Board of Trade, giving items of information pertaining to that city. A police census was taken on June 19th of the current year and it was then ascertained that the population was less than 30,000. The professions were well represented, there being fourteen architects, thirty-three clergymen, fourteen dentists, forty doctors, twenty-four druggists, nine civil engineers, forty lawyers, five surveyors and six veterinary surgeons. We presume that what is true of Calgary is largely true of the whole West. There seems to be as wide a field for success in the West as in the West for men in profession life.

In the domain of adventure nothing has proved more fascinating than the "race for the Pole." The lure has been compelling. The silence of the far north has been invaded by intrepid men who left their bones to bleach amid the inaccessible ice-packs. The more that tragedy was added to the thrill of daring, the more eagerly was the quest pursued. Modern life is largely sustained on thrills; but one thrill succeeds another so rapidly that only overwhelming bulk in the sensation can now hope to command the regard.

In a calmer day, the announcement that two men, operating different routes had discovered the North Pole, which so many had sought in vain, and perished in the pursuit of, would have astounded the world.

There was something thrilling in the enigmatical story of Dr. Cook, all the more haunting for the meagreness, and at the same time, the elusiveness which marked it, but the record of Peary loses its edge through repetition. A neurotic population demands that the thrill shall be disked up fresh and piquant. When Dr. Quincey began to use opium in the form of Indian gum, he could only take a few drops of it, but the day came when he needed and drank cupsful of it.

No matter how entrancing the second story, we have neither time nor inclination for diluted raptures; and demand the event which shall be absolutely new and unexampled.

The extraordinary daring of Dr. Cook, the intrepid dash he made, by unaccustomed routes, and virtually alone—all give an air of romance, which a feverish public hang upon, even though plain veracity may seem to suffer in the telling.

CHARLOTTE COUNTY EXHIBITION

We print in this issue an extended notice of the Agricultural and Industrial Fair to be held at St. Stephen, Sept. 28, 29 and 30th.

With the large premium list and special attractions offered, the event will be one of the largest and most interesting ever held in the county. While there are many special features, the affair principally belongs to the farmers, who are the real producers of national wealth, and they will undoubtedly be present in force when the agricultural and stock possibilities of the county will be demonstrated.

A large number will probably attend from this section of the county and assist in the revival of interest in agriculture, and also take advantage of the opportunity to meet old friends and enjoy these days of recreation that will emphasize the importance of the farmers of Charlotte County.

THE RINK

The open air rink, conducted last year under adverse conditions, was, in spite of this fact, a source of much pleasure and amusement to all lovers of the exhilarating sport of skating. To avoid the trouble and labor of last year we understand that work on the rink will commence early this fall, and improvements made that will insure skating most of the time. Those in charge of the affair will soon make an announcement concerning the plans in view, and it is hoped that the citizens will give every assistance and help out this form of amusement which will help to pass the winter pleasantly.

BY THE WAY

Shoot!

"That man Cook."

Boom at the North Pole. No building regulations.

In the game business a minority plus the Surveyor General makes a majority.

No man need be without work in this town. There is work and good wages for good men.

Buy your goods at your own store, get satisfaction that department stores cannot give you.

Your own interpretation of the game law is dangerous. The question is as to what game warden is right.

Typhoid fever is reported from many places. It is no respecter of wealth or other conditions. It generally goes where it is invited.

While a considerable number of moose and deer have been brought to town, we apparently have some mighty poor shots among the returning hunters.

A number of the United States newspapers are dealing editorially with the Montreal municipal scandals, and are trying to look aginst.—Calgary News.

Mother—You were a long time in the conservatory with Mr. Willing last night my child. What was going on?

Daughter—Did you ever sit in the conservatory with papa before you married him?

M.—I suppose I did.

D.—Well, mamma, it's the same old world.

—At an evening party the guests were asked to take part in a game in which everybody was to make a face, the one who made the worst face to win the prize. It seemed as if all did their worst. Then the judge went up to one woman who was sitting off in one corner.

"Madam," said he, "I think you have won the prize. Allow me to—"

"Excuse me," she said haughtily, "I wasn't playing!"

The election of county councillors seems to arouse very little interest around town. Doubtless the reason for this can be found in the legislation relating to incorporated towns in municipal elections. In case of this parish it would appear to be wise legislation, as the council sends a representative to the municipal board, and it is only fair that the outlying districts have an opportunity to send representatives without interference from the town.

There appears to be no reason for the scepticism that is being shown in some quarters over the discovery of the Pole by Dr. Cook. The explorer is not a green horn at the business; and there is nothing in his past life to suggest that he would attempt a fake of these gigantic proportions. Dr. Cook has spent most of his manhood in exploring the Arctic and Antarctic regions and has long been known as a man of intrepid courage—just the type of man likely to achieve the feat he has now accomplished.

One rejoice to hear that the fashionable hat for men to wear with lounge suits is blue. It can be blue of any shade, Cambridge or Oxford, navy or peacock, but the point is that it strikes a pleasing note of color in masculine attire. The vivid sock, the brilliant tie, have been overdone, in no time of course the blue hat will be hopelessly vulgarized, and when it is men must exercise their ingenuity and think of some other way of brightening up their attire. Why shouldn't they wear frock and morning coats of black and grey only? In browns and greens and dark blues they would look very smart.

Horray!
They say
The pole is found!
O'er frozen bay, and straight and sound.
Where ice thins roll
That long sought goal
Is pinched,
And cinched.
And run to ground!
A wealth of praise
Great Cook!
By hook and crook
The way he took,
Mid ice and snows
O'er bergs and flows,
Until at last he proudly stood
Up where there is no latitude!
Hoorry for Cook!
In the great book
Of fame
His name
In ink of gold shall it be writ:
"He trilled the pole and cornered it!
Where hosts have failed he found the spot—
That's what!"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

On account of a car of granite leaving the rails, near the station, the regular train was delayed an hour on Thursday.

According to a statement of a Winnipeg grain merchant weather conditions are excellent all previous seasons.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. George J. Prescott of the Church of the Good Shepherd, and was followed by an informal reception, at which only members of the immediate family were present.

A new branch of the sardine industry has been taken up by the Seacoast Canning Co. in packing a brand of smoked sardines at the old Parker and Pike factory. The sardines which are of oil size, are prepared by salting and steaming as usual, and are afterward slightly smoked over a hard wood fire, making a close competitor of the Norway brands.—Lancet Herald.

At a meeting of the directors of the Grand Manan Steamship Company, held last week, it was resolved to offer the Aurora and all the company's property for sale together with the good will of the company in the route. Some differences in the company led up to this action. It is possible that those difficulties will be removed and the route continued.—Beacon.

Work at the factories has fallen off somewhat during the past week or two on account of the scarcity of suitable canning fish, the sudden death said to be due to the large schools of squid and silver hake now swarming the waters the coveted herring are wont to frequent, driving them out from the weir localities into deeper water, causing much loss alike to weir owners and manufacturers.—Sentinel.

What was probably the largest seizure of liquor ever made in New Brunswick took place at St. Croix on Saturday last when Constable Rogerson acting for Scott Act Inspector McFarlane visited the place of James Tague and seized $4,000 worth of liquor. The stock consisted of kegs, barrels and bottles and when put in the team the horses had all they could do to haul it. The liquor was taken to the York county jail, Fredericton, where it filled one of the large cells.

The speedy motor boat "Arrow" has been purchased from Cecil Chaffee, her builder, by James Bogue. The owners of "fast ones" will have to look to their laurels, as "The Arrow" has an established reputation among the sailing craft.

Master Roland Lee was painfully injured one day last week, while starting his motor boat. The end of his foot went through a board and was caught by the set screws on the rapidly revolving shaft and badly mangled, the big toe being taken off and the others bruised and jammed. The boy was carried to Dr. Taylor's office where the doctor did everything possible for him. Roland, with two young friends, intended winding up his vacation with a trip along the coast to St. John in the boat.

Mr. Wadsworth Harris, the well-known actor and reader, will hold an entertainment in Coates Hall on Friday night, Oct. 1st. The proceeds are for school purposes in the St. George school. To those who know Mr. Harris, merely to say his name is a sufficient guarantee of an excellent evening. To those who do not it may be mentioned that his reading before the Universities of Washington and Montana as well as Wellesley College have received the highest commendations in the U. S. press. Mr. Harris has read before audiences under the patronage of Lord and Lady Aberdeen. His programme will consist of selections from Shakespeare, and miscellaneous comedy. From the character and excellence of the entertainment, and from the very worthy purpose to which the funds are to be applied, it is confidently expected that a large house will greet Mr. Harris.

Greetings for 25 cents till January 1st 1910.

The Viking met with a serious disaster while peacefully moored at her wharf in St. Stephen Tuesday night.

Her boiler had been officially inspected that day and she had been permitted to run ten days longer, when she was to be hauled off for a general overhauling.

The captain and crew were in their bunks, when about four o'clock Wednesday morning, the captain was awakened by the sound of water running in, apparently through the pipe to her pumps. Jumping out of bed, he found that his quarters were flooded, and he lost no time in arousing the others on board.

Water then was flowing in very freely, though through just what opening it came could not be ascertained.

Some freight was removed and some of the fittings of the boat, before the craft listed towards the wharf and settled on the bottom.

At high tide yesterday all that was visible above water was a section of the smokestack and of the mast.

In the freight destroyed is included twenty barrels of sugar shipped by E. E. Rose to G. K. Greenlaw, St. Andrews.

There is a marine insurance on the boat amounting to $5000 but the freight is unprotected.

It was intended to have the Wesley A. Gove pump the vessel out at low tide yesterday and tow her to the marine railway in Colby for repairs.

When the tide flowed over the vessel the life boats filled with water, an incident that illustrates how little chances passengers would have had if the accident had occurred out in the bay.—Courier.

Rheumatism
 I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will strengthen the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pains of this deplorable disease.
 In Germany with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I have found a cure for all curable cases of this heretofore most dreaded of diseases. These acid-like wastes, found in Rheumatic blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual cause to suffer longer with this pain. We sell, and in confidence recommend.

Married First Man She Met

Curious details have just come to light of an occurrence fourteen years ago in which within one hour were packed the wooing, the marriage, the recovery of $3,500 worth of property and a separation, and in which record transaction Miss Lucinda Bush of Chicago, and a Kaukauna man figured as principals.
 Upon the application of Miss Bush Judge Goodland, of Appleton Wis., the other day annulled her marriage to John Russell, which name the bridegroom assumed at the time of the marriage. The couple separated immediately after the marriage, and neither had since seen the other until they met in the courtroom.
 According to the story related in court Miss Bush, in order to receive $3,500 worth of property which she promised as soon as she became a bride, stopped the man on a street in Appleton and asked him to marry her. He did, but under the assumed name of John Russell.

What Dreams Mean

Love.—To dream that you are in love means that you will soon have a new and true friend.
 Mantle.—If you dream that you are putting on a mantle is a sign that you are to obtain some situation; if you dream you take off one it means disappointment.
 Lamp.—To dream that you light a lamp is a sign of much good fortune.
 Family.—To dream that you have a large family is a sign of thrift and great riches.
 Bathing.—To dream you are bathing in clear water denotes prosperity, but if the water appears muddy it is significant of sorrow.
 Singing.—To dream of singing denotes that you will shortly go on a long journey, and will return safely.

The Way to Happiness

To look fearlessly on life; to accept the laws of nature, not with meek resignation, but as her sons, who dare to search and question; to have peace and confidence within our souls—these are the beliefs that make for happiness.—Maeterlinck.
Life and Licensed Anarchy
 In all things below the range of genius, it is foolish to talk in universal terms. Whim is just enough good for the small matters of every day; and life has large areas of licensed anarchy where truth cannot reach as far as your next door neighbor.—Frank Moore Colby.
Encouragement
 "I have a splitting headache," sighs the beautiful young thing.
 "Have you ever tried magnetic healing?" asks the obliging young man.
 "No. What is it?"
 "You rest your head thus, on my shoulder, and I pass my hand about your waist in this manner. Now be perfectly calm and see if this does not relieve you."
 The position is maintained for five or ten minutes, and then the obliging young man asks:
 "Does your head ache any more?"
 "Ye-es-s-s."
 "Well, I'm sorry I don't seem able to relieve you."
 He is about to remove his arm when she looks at him chidingly and says:
 "It seems to me that if you have any confidence in your method you would be willing to keep on trying.—Chevvy Mews.

Law of the Household

Would we codify the laws that should reign in households, and whose daily transgression annoys and mortifies us, and degrades our household life—we must learn to a darn every day with sacrifices. Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices. Temperance, courage, love, are made up of the same jewels. Listen to every prompting of honor.—R. W. Emerson.

Getting the Most out of Life

Make yourselves nests of pleasant thoughts. None of us yet know, for none of us have been taught in early youth, what fairer places we may build of beautiful—proof against all adversity. Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure houses of precious and restful thoughts, which care cannot disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands, for our souls to live in.—John Ruskin.

Where the Rub Comes In

It is no great matter to associate with the good and gentle, for this is naturally pleasing to all, and everyone willingly enjoyeth peace, and loveth those best that agree with him. But to be able to live peaceably with hard and perverse persons, or with the disorderly, or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace and a most commendable and manly thing.—Thomas a Kempis.

Man's Power

Let it not be in any man's power to say truly of thee that thou art not simple, or that thou art not good; but let him be a liar whoever shall think anything of this kind about thee; and this is altogether in thy power. For who is he that shall thee from being good and simple?—Marcus Antoninus.

A Lesson From Nature

I saw a delicate flower had grown up two feet high, between the horses' path and the wheel-track. An inch more to right or left had sealed its fate, or an inch higher; and yet it lived to flourish as much as if it had a thousand acres of untrodden space around it, and never knew the danger it incurred. It did not borrow trouble, nor invite an evil fate by apprehending it.

THE NEW BOY AND THE BULLY

It was in Commutersville. The new small boy in the neighborhood swung on the front gate, numbing to himself.

He was a nice if somewhat way-looking boy with hair chopped off at the back like a Russian mujik's and peachy cheeks and blue eyes like moss agates and pretty manners and his mother saw to it that he brushed his teeth every morning and evening, and she used a nail file on his finger nails, too, and he wore those queer, outdoor playing suits with the floppy hanging belts, and all like that way. But for all these things he looked like a nice little boy.

He was finding it pretty hard to get acquainted with the other boys in the neighborhood. It is difficult, for that matter, for any boy whose hair was cut short, and those of them that didn't go about all the time in their regular clothes wore those suits of playing dungarees that give youngsters a chance to move around in the dirt without doing any particular damage when they muss.

The other boys in the neighborhood played football on the vacant lot quite a good deal, and duck on the rock and follow my leader.

They weren't addicted to the habit of swinging on their front gates. Several of them could spit through their teeth and two or three of them could whistle shrilly with their fingers in their mouths. These facts are mentioned to show how different they were from the new boy in the neighborhood, that it may be better understood how lonesome he was.

Not only did the other boys seem to hold aloof from the new boy, but two or three of them actually evinced an inclination to pick on him.

For example, when they passed by with their football gear on, on their way to the vacant lot, they'd catch sight of the new little boy in the neighborhood swinging lonesomely on his front gate, and they'd stick their fingers to their noses at him—and then the real rough, rowdy boys in the gang would call out to him: "Hey, there, Winnie, why haint you choshayin', hey?" or "Say, Edith, why don't you get some jacks and play with 'em?" and address him in terms of similar disparagement.

For several days the new boy in the neighborhood stood for this, but at length it began to get him on the raw.

He couldn't help it, he argued to himself—yes, small boys argue these things out with themselves—he couldn't help it if his mother insisted against his father's wish that his hair be cut in that fool way, and it wasn't his fault, either, that his mother made him wear those white stockingettes that made him show his sort o' chilly bluish legs to everybody, and had to wear those floppy suits like the pictures his mother cut out from the Ladies Hearthstone, with the sagging belt hanging all around it.

None of these things, he argued to himself was his fault. He himself was not only willing but eager to be like the rest of the boys in the neighborhood, but he couldn't get away with it.

But, at that, still arguing to himself, he wasn't going to stand for many more of the fancy cracks of those other boys. He sure was not. No'm.

He was going to show 'em that he resented it the very next time.

And so when on the following day the bully boy of the neighborhood swung by and made faces at the nice little boy who again was swinging on the front gate and humming to himself, the new little boy in the neighborhood summoned himself to meet the situation.

"Say, I don't want you to do that to me," he said, just like that.

"Oh y' dont hey?" said the bully boy, with another grimace and approaching closer. "Say, how'd j' like to have me hand you a spank on the ankle, hey?"

"I wouldn't let you," was the prompt and spunky reply of the manly little fellow swinging on the front gate. "Indeed I would not," he added, the sense of wrong swelling up within him.

Pays for itself in fuel saved

Don't allow a few extra dollars to prevent you from taking the perfect-cooking, sure-baking, easily-regulated Pandora in place of a cheaper stove. In a season or two Pandora will pay the difference in the fuel it will save—and it will keep on saving until it has paid for itself.

Pandora special fire construction makes fuel do double duty. Wide fire box is another fuel-economizer. The steel oven heats quicker than a cast oven, thus saving still more fuel. Further economizing features will be explained by the McClary Agent.

"Aw, g'wan, y' reed bird," said the bully boy, obviously meaning by that to refer to the somewhat pipestemmy legs of the new little boy. "Go bag y'r head," and he continued to approach.

"Don't you come any closer to me, earnestly warned the little new boy in the neighborhood. "This is my gate and I've got a right to swing on it all I choose, I dont wish to have you bother me."

"Oh-ho, y' dont hey?" said the bully boy, whose face was freckled and tanned. "Say fr two cents I'd leave a shoe in your ear, do you know that, Ethel? and he kept right on getting closer, in a menacing way, to the nice little boy.

"You leave me alone or I shall fight you, was the out-and-out challenge that the new boy uncoiled right then and there.

Suiting the action to the word he climbed down from the gate, stepped outside the gate, closed the gate with the determination of somebody burning his bridges behind him, and stood awaiting the onslaught of the bully boy, who, with a confident grin walked up and—

However, the place for the pause has now arrived. Right here. This isn't one of those comic supplement things.

If it were it would show how the new little boy in the neighborhood walked into the bully boy and biffed him all over the sidewalk and rolled him in the ditch and tossed tar from the near-by paving gangs tar pot into his eyes and pushed him through a line of sewer pipe about to be laid and kicked him up and down the street for a block or so and finally landed on to of him, pinning him to the ground and asking him if he had enough.

However, it did not come off that way not at all.

The new little boy in the neighborhood with the mujik hair and things had no sooner advanced boldly upon the bully boy of the neighborhood than he caught a clip on the starboard side of his peach chart that sent him to the count, and while he bellowed at the top of his voice and kicked on the pavement, the bully boy walked up the street whistling cheerfully.

And then the mother of the nice little boy came a-rushing out of the house and picked him up and asked him what it was and who had hit him on the starboard jowl, and later on in the day she went over to the house of the bully boy and complained to the latter's mother, and the bully boy's mother said that, yes, indeed, she'd see to it, while she was secretly tickled to death that she had an offspring that could wallop any kid on the block, and when the bully boy got home his mother told him that he really ought to be more careful, 'deed he had; and so on and so on and so on.

Hateful business, this thing of having to scarpel these comic supplement pipes. But facts is fact just the same as eggs is aigs.—Sun.

How Monarchs Dine

When the Shah of Persia was in power he used to sit down to meals in a truly imposed manner. His dinner services were incrustated with precious ones, and the kitchen appointments at the palace were valued at over five million dollars. Constructed entirely of marble, with pillars of onyx, they had the appearance of a huge banquet hall rather than of a place where food was prepared. Everything from the massive stove to the smallest kettle was made of silver.

Mutton broth has a peculiar fascination for King George of Greece. His Majesty is a hearty eater, and it is said, only loses his temper when any dish does not come up to the usual standard. He is also fond of Oriental soup meats, special consignments of which reach the palace every day throughout the year.

King Leopold of Belgium, on the other hand is the most frugal of all monarchs, inclining to the simple life. Out of bed at 6, he works till 9, when a light breakfast of bread and butter with a little jelly or marmalade and a cup of tea is served. It often happens that he takes no luncheon at all, while his dinner is of the plainest possible description.

In the matter of food the German Emperor is distinctly patriotic. His favorite dish is sauerkraut, served with sausages and bacon. He also has a tender corner in his heart for garlic. The royal cooks, however, are strictly limited of regards table expenses, and are never allowed over a certain sum per person per meal, unless, of course, the event happens to be a state banquet, when the House of Hohenzollern rises to the occasion with the best in the world.

Germany has the last naval power to adopt the submarine.
