THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION GETS NEW IDEAS

Montreal Labor Representatives Make Demand for General Democratic Convention to Deal With Grievances Requiring a Remedy.

WANT HIGH WAGES AND EASY CONDITIONS

Evidence Given Worked Around the Inevitable Circle of Reasons for and Against Higher Wages and Shorter Hours.

Montreal May 30.—A vast amount of evidence was heard today by the Industrial Commission on Industrial Relations. Both sides of the question were heard, and frequently representatives of the employers and representatives of labor unions agreed. The main point of disagreement was as to collective bargaining.

In the morning Mr. J. T. Forster, president of the local Trades and Labor Council, presented a comprehensive list of the demands of labor, ranging all the way from shorter hours, better pay and better housing to a re-organization of parliament on an industrial and agricultural basis, with a demand that a general democratic convention be called to deal with the grievances that must be remedied if trouble is to be averted.

A similar memorandum was presented by a delegation of employers representing many interests. This brought out one new point, introduced by Mr. Jos. Quintal, who said that short hours, high wages and easy conditions had made city life so attractive that the farm laborers had flocked to the city, and come in so good that they would not now return to the country, even though out of work. The result was a shortage of laborers in the country, and an overplus in the cities. This led to urban sufferings and discontent, and reduced production in the country while the labor men wanted to cure it by still higher wages and shorter hours.

Generally evidence given worked around the inevitable circle of reasons for and against higher wages and shorter hours, with various plans for reduction of the cost of living and government control of all sorts of public utilities.

The commission will continue its sessions tomorrow and wind up its work here before evening.

VICTORIA TAKING A STRIKE VOTE

President of Trade and Labor Council Claims Government's Mishandling of Winnipeg Strike is Cause of the Spread.

Victoria, B. C., May 30.—E. S. Woodward, president of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, which has called for a vote on a general strike, declared today he thought all well organized labor unions here would vote to strike.

Woodward telegraphed Premier Borden stating "the government's mishandling of the Winnipeg strike alone is responsible for the spread of the general strike to the coast cities. The situation here is most critical. Urge immediate steps to avert the ruin of Canadian industrial life."

LARGE FORCE OF BOLSHIEVIKI MOBILIZING AT JAXANKA

According to Reports They Are Preparing to Attack the Mine Guards Composed of Americans, Chinese and Japanese Troops—Men Mobilizing Declare They Are Not Bolsheviki But Are Opposed to Omsk Government.

Vladivostok, Wednesday, May 28.—(By The Associated Press)—A large force of Bolsheviki is mobilizing at Jaxanka, in the important Spuchan mining district, and according to reports received here are preparing to attack the Allied mine guards, composed of American, Chinese and Japanese troops. The men who are mobilizing deny that they are Bolsheviki, declaring that they are "Partisans" as opposed to the Kolchaki, or troops of the Omsk government.

A general strike was called in the Suchan district on May 22, and 2,000

Winnipeg Strike Near Settlement

Arbitration of Differences Between Strikers of the Metal Trades Councils and Employers is in Progress.

IDLE WORKERS ON PARADE FRIDAY

Because of the Possibility of Agreement Being Reached Municipal Authorities Made No Effort to Operate Street Cars.

Winnipeg, Man., May 30.—With arbitration of the differences between striking members of the Metal Trades Council of Winnipeg, and employers in progress today, crowds of idle workers for the first time since the general walkout May 16, paraded the business district jeering non-union workers, but offering no violence. Officials of the Railway Brotherhoods are acting as mediators.

Because of the possibility of an agreement between the metal workers and their employers, municipal authorities made no effort today to operate street cars. Members of the citizens' committee postponed their proposed clean-up of the city streets and alleys, and the dismissal of policemen, who refused to sign the anti-sympathetic strike pledge was left for decision at a later meeting of the city council. A delegation of discharged overseas soldiers, accompanied by a number of strikers, marched to the parliament buildings and demanded that the government "do something at once." They were assured that the government "was considering legislation on the subject of sympathetic strikes in the Dominion and the delegation dispersed. Leaders, however, told Premier Norris that they would march to parliament again at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Vancouver Voting.

Vancouver, B. C., May 30.—Several Vancouver unions were reported today responding to a request made by the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council last night that a vote be taken on the question of calling a general strike here on June 3rd, in sympathy with the Winnipeg strikers. Returns will be counted Sunday night.

Among the strikes demands are requests for the six hour day in all industries where unemployment is prevalent. Investigation of all cold storage plants and elevators, with a view to removing the evil of hoarding food stuffs, and recognition of the collective bargaining principle. The council named a committee to protest to the school board against teachers being allowed to cast reflections upon the work of Bolsheviki.

AUTUMN SESSION OF PARLIAMENT WILL BE CALLED

Ottawa, May 30.—Continued delay in the signing of the peace treaty will mean an autumn session of the Dominion parliament. Following its formal signatures by the various plenipotentiaries the treaty will have to be ratified by the various legislatures concerned. Should the present session of the Dominion parliament end before the treaty is signed, as now seems likely, a special session for Canadian ratification might be necessary to avoid delay in the formal proclamation of peace.

Part nine, dealing with finance, may be changed as a result of the representations of the new states. The economic classes and aerial navigation regulations are identical with those in the German treaty.

Part twelve, on ports, waterways and railways, provides for commercial outlets southward by water and rail. These details already have been covered in the report of the inter-allied ports, waterways and railways commission.

Part thirteen contains the international labor convention, and part fourteen various miscellaneous provisions of minor importance.

Paris, May 30.—(Havas)—The new taxes proposed by the government will greatly increase the cost of living, according to a statement by Raoul Perot, president of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies. The proposed fiscal duties, he said, will aggravate the problems brought forth by demobilization and cessation of the motorium.

The Journal in discussing the budget proposals, makes a comparison between the French and German budgets, which shows that each German will pay 245 francs, while each Frenchman will pay 620 francs.

THE AUSTRIAN TREATY QUITE REMARKABLE

A Summary of the Draft Submitted to the Smaller Nations is Remarkable for Its Omissions and Reservations.

NEW CLAUSES DEAL WITH FRONTIERS

Austria is Bound to Respect the Rights and Privileges of Racial Minorities in What is Left of Her Ancient Domain.

Paris, May 30.—(By The Associated Press.)—A summary of the skeleton of the Austrian treaty, submitted to the smaller nations, Thursday, for examination, is remarkable chiefly for its omissions and reservations. Subject headings after subject headings, as follows: either by a non-committal display of blank paper, resembling a colored French newspaper's "discussion of the controversial part of the day's diplomatic developments," or by the statement "this clause reserved."

"This applies, particularly, to definition of the southern frontier, the reparations clauses, and the question of Italian rights under the political clauses. The greater part of the summary, in fact, is devoted to these clauses which are practically identical with the German treaty.

The new clauses are chiefly those dealing with frontiers, finance and the internal affairs of the new states and of Austria herself. Under the latter heading come the disputed provinces for the protection of racial minorities in the new states, against which, it is understood, the representatives of the new states may address a protest to the Council of Four and also ask for revision of the financial clauses, particularly that part requiring the new states to compensate Austria for public property.

Austria, also, is bound by the treaty to respect the rights and privileges of racial minorities in what is left of her ancient domain, including the right to use their own languages, although Austria is expressly authorized to make the teaching of German obligatory.

The treaty will consist of a preamble and fourteen parts, the preamble and section nine embodying the covenant of the League of Nations, as in the treaty with Germany.

Part two deals with frontiers. That with Czechoslovakia follows practically the old Bohemian frontier, although with the reservation of a possibility of making minor changes later. Austria retains on the west her old frontier with Switzerland, the question of the union of Vorarlberg with Switzerland having apparently been dropped, despite the placidities already undertaken in that province.

Part three contains political clauses, including some of the reserved geographical provinces, and clauses establishing mixed commissions to determine them later. The sections referring to Italy are all omitted. Others deal with the future relations of Austria with Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Poland, Hungary and Russia. Here are found the stipulations for the protection of racial minorities, which, so far as the minorities in Austria are concerned, are to be embodied in a "bill of rights" as part of the Austrian constitution.

Then come parts dealing with Austria's renunciation of all rights on the side of Europe; military, naval and aerial armaments, which hereafter will entail virtually no expense for Austria, and the return of prisoners of war.

Part eight, on reparations, is blank.

Part nine, dealing with finance, may be changed as a result of the representations of the new states. The economic classes and aerial navigation regulations are identical with those in the German treaty.

Part twelve, on ports, waterways and railways, provides for commercial outlets southward by water and rail. These details already have been covered in the report of the inter-allied ports, waterways and railways commission.

Part thirteen contains the international labor convention, and part fourteen various miscellaneous provisions of minor importance.

HOLIDAY CROWDS SEEK GLIMPSE OF FORMER KAISER

Former Empress Meets Her Son, Frederick William, at Amersfoort, the First Meeting in Two Years.

Amersfoort, Thursday, May 29.—The former German empress returned to Amersfoort Castle late last evening after having met her eldest son, Frederick William, at Amersfoort for the first time in two years. The mother and son went to the meeting place by automobile from Amersfoort and Wieringen, respectively.

On the outskirts of Amersfoort the automobiles were met by General Wrangel of the Dutch army. The former empress and her son had lunch with General Wrangel, Secretary General Kan of the Dutch cabinet, Burgomaster Poreboom, of Wieringen and several others.

After the luncheon the former empress was alone with Frederick William for several hours. The inhabitants of Amersfoort were not aware of the presence of the visitors, nor did the former empress had left the castle. The day was a national holiday in Holland, it being the religious festival of Ascension Day. The former German emperor abstained from his usual

Agriculture Estimates Considered

The Minister of Agriculture Paid Many Compliments to Both Sides of the House for His Efficient Management of the Department.

THE INDUSTRY IN VERY GOOD SHAPE

The Minister Expressed the Belief That No Country During the War Had Fewer Restrictions Than Canada.

Ottawa, May 30.—The House spent almost the entire sitting today in consideration of the estimates of the Department of Agriculture. The outstanding feature was the number of compliments paid to Hon. T. A. Crerar, the minister. Barely does a minister have such an "easy journey" when coming before the House for money. Mr. P. H. Gibson, the Liberal member for Argenteau, did an unusual thing for a member of the opposition. He said he was sorry to hear the report that Mr. Crerar was to resign his position in the cabinet, and he hoped this was not true as he had been of great value to the country as minister of agriculture.

In summing up the conditions in the agricultural industry at the present time in Canada, Mr. Crerar said that, generally speaking, they were good, although there was some difficulty in securing a sufficient supply of farm labor. The minister said that the butter supply last fall was about 10 per cent below the normal level. The House by Mr. James Robb.

Mr. T. A. Crerar had believed that no country during the war had fewer restrictions than Canada, and he explained the cause of the placing of the embargo on the export of milk. In August last the British population were placed in a position to face the situation that butter could not be secured. The allowance was down to half an ounce to each person per week. The United States food administration had commandeered sixty per cent of the butter in storage in that country. No limitation, however, had been placed on the export of butter, and that they shot rapidly up. In Canada, under the regulations of the food board, limitations of the price of butter were placed, although margins of profit were. The food board was faced with the problem of securing the butter without abnormally increasing the price and after careful consideration it was thought that the best method was to commandeer during five weeks' production. The embargo was placed because if the shipping milk and cream was continued the purpose of the order would have been defeated. Those farmers who had regular customers in the United States were allowed to continue their regular supplies, he said. The dairy produce committee had rendered excellent services.

When the House was told by Mr. Thomas White's appointing a special committee of the House of Commons to study the high cost of living. The judges' act, the object of which is to increase the number of judges in British Columbia, was reported and given third reading.

CRUEL PUNISHMENT INFLICTED UPON SCHOOL BOY

Halifax Stipendiary Sends up for Trial W. A. Johns on Charge of Causing Grievous Bodily Harm.

Special to The Standard.

Halifax, N. S., May 30.—Stipendiary Magistrate W. A. Johns today sent for trial on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm. The Standard has already had some details of the punishment inflicted by the Industrial School on a boy of the name of Douglas. At the inquiry the witnesses were Mayor Hawkins, who set out in detail the facts, on representations made to him by the mother of young Douglas, he paid to the school and to the condition of the boy; also stating, under cross-examination, that he did not believe in corporal punishment and considered the punishment inflicted on the boy to have been "brutal."

Miss Hill, nurse for the Anti-Tuberculosis League, stated that she had visited the boy's home many times before his commitment to the Industrial School. She found there three members of the family tubercular, but could not say that Harry Douglas was tubercular. She would describe him as a delicate boy.

The boy who held him while the punishment was administered, of whom one was a lad of twelve years and the other one of fifteen, gave their testimony, the one who held his head stating that he held it across his knee.

Mrs. Doubleday was the last witness, saying that the boy was sickly, but that she had never notified the Industrial School authorities to that effect.

When Dr. Hawkins was asked if he would describe the effects of the flogging as having been the infliction of lasting physical injury, he replied that he could not say this without having the boy under observation.

Counsel for Johns reminded him that he could get the boy from the school on application to the Minister of Justice, and R. H. Murray, for the mother, stated that this course would be resorted to.

occupation of sawing logs and attended services in the chapel at the estate at which the Rev. Brother Voss, a Moravian clergyman of Zieftal preached. The village of Amersfoort was crowded with excursionists who desired to obtain a glimpse of the famous refugee, but although he walked in the gardens he was completely hidden by the heavy foliage.

GERMANY VERY HAUGHTY IN PROPOSALS

Willing to Agree to Stipulations Regarding Military, Aerial and Naval Forces Provided She Enters League of Nations on Equal Footing.

Berlin, Thursday, May 30.—(By The Associated Press.)—Germany is willing to agree to the proposed stipulations regarding her military, aerial and naval forces contained in the draft of the peace treaty, provided that she is permitted to enter the League of Nations on an equal footing, immediately upon the signing of peace, and particularly that she be permitted to share, in the complete equality and reciprocity of all nations in the economic domain.

This declaration is contained in the second section of the German memorandum embodying the counter-proposals to the peace terms. At the same time, it is declared, the German delegation holds to its idea of the superiority of its own draft of proposals for a League of Nations.

While the German government, in agreeing to accept the stipulations referred to, is thus ready to disarm, he adds the other powers, the memorandum, the government must, on the other hand, demand a transitional period during which it may keep the troops necessary for the maintenance of internal order. The "covering force" proposed by the Peace Conference by the German delegation says: "We came to Versailles expecting to receive a peace proposal framed according to the agreed basis. We had a firm resolve to do everything in our power to fulfill the heavy obligations assumed by us. We hoped for the peace of right which had been promised us. We were shocked when we read in that document the demands which the victorious might of our opponents had set forth. The more we studied the spirit of the treaty the more we were convinced of the impossibility of carrying it out. The demands in this treaty go beyond the strength of the German people."

PHILA YOUNG Lady Wants Air Flight

Pilot of Vimy-Vickers Receives Urgent Request from Young Lady Who Wants to Take Trans-Atlantic Trip.

St. John's, Nfld., May 30.—While the Vimy-Vickers, Handley-Page and Martinsyde entries in the London Daily Mail's $50,000 trans-Atlantic flight contest labored today to get their machines in shape for a "hop off," the aviators were startled by receipt of a request from a nineteen year old girl, Miss May Kinston, of Erldown, Penna., that she be carried overseas as a passenger in the Vimy-Vickers bomber to be piloted by Captain Jack Alcock.

While he did not commit himself, as to what would have been his answer if his machine had been larger, Alcock announced he would have to disappoint Miss Kinston, as his plane was only a two-seater.

Assembling of the Vimy-Vickers machine is progressing favorably. The crew is trying to complete the work in time to give an exhibition flight next Tuesday, King George's birthday but it is doubtful whether the plane will be ready before Wednesday or Thursday. Preparations for building a hangar for the bomber also are advancing.

Admiral Kerr, of Handley Page out came here today from Harbor Grace to remain until Monday. He said he hoped to have his machine ready for a trial flight by the end of next week, and to take off for the trans-Atlantic trip the following week.

Frederick P. Rayburn, pilot of the Martinsyde plane, is making progress in repairing the fuselage of his plane, injured when the machine crashed to earth in attempting to hop off with Harry G. Hawker's Sopwith. Rayburn said he was advised a new engine and other parts had left England by steamer yesterday.

GOVERNMENT MAKES IMPORTANT MOVE AGAINST THE SINN FEINERS

Sinn Fein Member of Parliament Was Placed Under Arrest on Charges Made in Connection With a Speech Delivered at Athlone—At the Time of His Speech-Making the Crowd Was Dispersed by Troops and Many Persons Were Wounded.

Dublin, May 30.—Laurence Ginnell, Sinn Fein member of parliament for West Meath, was arrested today on charges made in connection with a speech delivered at Athlone.

British troops broke up a forbidden meeting at Athlone on May fifth, Laurence Ginnell was attempting to address the meeting when troops appeared. Several persons were wounded. Ginnell has a stormy career. Until 1915 he sat in parliament as an Irish Nationalist, and when he retired was said to hold the record for ask-

LONDON FACES STRIKE OF ITS POLICE FORCE

Men at Liverpool Have Already Voted to go on Strike Monday—London Men Are Balloting on Question.

CONFLICT BETWEEN GOV'T AND LABOR

Force Has Been Granted Increased Pay But it Demands Recognition of Their Union

London, May 30.—A strike of policemen in London and in Liverpool, and some other provincial cities, is threatened. The metropolitan police of London are balloting on the question, while the men at Liverpool already have voted to stop work next Monday.

The result of the ballot being taken by the metropolitan police will be announced Sunday. The ballot will decide whether the strike will begin Tuesday. A majority of the metropolitan force is said to be in favor of a strike.

While the question of wages is the reason for the threatened strikes in the provinces it is not involved in London. The government has agreed to increase the wages of the metropolitan force to be retroactive to April 1. The policemen want recognition of their union, and the reinstatement of certain men who were dismissed. The government has refused these demands.

General Sir C. F. M. MacReady, commissioner of the metropolitan police force, today issued an order that any officer or man failing to report for duty will be dismissed, and under no circumstances will he be permitted to rejoin the force. The commissioner announced further that he will not accept the excuse that the men are unable to parade because of intimidation. The order concluded: "Officers and men will, if necessary, defend themselves by all legitimate means if they are interfered with."

The police trouble promises a serious conflict between the government and organized labor. The police are objecting to the police being subjected to semi-military discipline, and claim the right of the union to organize of the same basis as labor unions, to join such unions in sympathetic strikes, if it so desires, and also to strike in the event that the police are ordered to enforce laws which the police disapprove of.

This, the critics of the police say, would make the police the most powerful branch of the government.

The Home Office considers the right of the police to have an organization, but not on a trades union basis. It also claims that the police union is composed, largely of discharged policemen and professional agitators.

The police have arranged to hold a large demonstration in Hyde Park Sunday.

This organization should not be confused with the organization of the street railwaymen's union. The details of the public utilities council are yet to be worked out along with a constitution. It is stated that the union today numbered between 7,500 and 8,000, that 235 factories were closed because of the strikes and fifty garment workers' shops idle. Besides about forty building operations being seriously hampered through the strike of the carpenters.

TORONTO STRIKERS ORGANIZE THE UTILITY COUNCIL

Halifax Stipendiary Sends up for Trial W. A. Johns on Charge of Causing Grievous Bodily Harm.

Toronto, Ont., May 29.—Scarcely a ripple of excitement marked the first day of sympathetic strikes in this city. Except for more knots of idle men at certain points than usual, especially in the vicinity of the Labor Temple, the fact that a number of unions were on strike might not have been noticeable at all. However, there is a good deal of public anxiety, and one or two days of quiet strikes will not dispel it. The course of events in connection with the strikes in Winnipeg is uppermost in the minds of the people here, and the average citizen is anxious.

The chief feature of today's strikes was the organization at the labor temple of a public utilities council. The object of the formation of the public utilities council is to amalgamate the unions connected with various public services of the city, including the policemen's union, firemen's union, the union of civic employees, the Toronto street railwaymen's union, telephone operators and telegraphers. The prime mover in

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY LARGE AREA OF FREDERICTON

A Fire Starting in a Double Tenement House on Court-house Square Kept People Guessing—The Flames Fanned by a Heavy Wind from the River Carried Sparks and Burning Embers to Other Buildings—Dozen Buildings on Fire at One Time—Judge Crocket's Home Damaged.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, May 20.—Fredericton suffered a $10,000 fire late this afternoon and for a time the whole upper portion of the eastern end of the city was threatened.

The fire started in a double tenement house on Court House Square occupied by Fred H. Edgewood and occupied by Corporal Lavigne, a retired soldier, and Joseph Murdoch. Children playing with matches is believed to have been responsible for the start of the fire. The flames spread with amazing rapidity, causing tremendous volumes of dense smoke.

Capt. L. F. Tanner Gives Good Advice

Tells People Who Would Keep Young to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Novia Scotia Man Who Has Used Dodd's Kidney Pills for Pain in the Back Recommends Them to Everyone Who Suffers.

Cole Harbor, Guysboro Co., N. S., May 20.—(Special)—Capt. Leander F. Tanner, a well-known resident here, is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As a reliever of pain in the back he claims they are without an equal anywhere. He knows because he suffered severely with his back. He tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. He found in them the remedy he required. The Captain's other symptoms, showed that his trouble came from bad kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. They are a kidney remedy pure and simple.

Among the men who returned yesterday was Dr. C. W. Brown, son of C. E. Brown, High street. Dr. Brown enlisted with the 4th Siege Battery and served with that unit until the armistice was signed. Since that time he has been taking a course at a university in Glasgow, Scotland.

CONFERENCE OF METHODISTS TO BE AT SACKVILLE

President Announces the Date of June 13th for N. B. and P. E. I. Methodists to Get Together.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, N. B., May 20.—The annual N. B. and P. E. I. Methodist Conference will open at Sackville on June 13, Rev. G. M. Young, president of the Conference, announced today.

This year the delegates to the Conference will be billeted in the Mount Allison Ladies' College building, and will entertain themselves in previous years the delegates have been entertained in the homes of the Methodist people of the town where the Conference met.

The stationing committee and ministerial session will meet in Sackville for two or three days prior to the Conference. Rev. Dr. Chown, General Superintendent, and Rev. Dr. Endicott, General Ministerial Secretary, will be among those present at the Conference.

The important change in the placing of the ministers for the coming year is the transfer of Rev. Geo. W. F. Glendinning, of Truro, to Charlottetown, to succeed Rev. H. G. Fulton, who is going to Halifax. Rev. Mr. Fulton is a son of the stroke of the famous Paris crew and was formerly stationed at Woodstock and Chatham.

At the meeting of the Tourist Association held here, R. H. Simonds, secretary of the Board of Trade, was elected to represent the association at a convention of the N. B. Tourist Association at St. John on June 3rd and 4th.

The funeral of Edward Hickman, Spar Cove Road, took place yesterday afternoon. The Rev. R. P. McKim conducted the service; interment in Cedar Hill cemetery.

WINTER OF OUR DISCONTENT TO BE TURNED TO GLORIOUS SUMMER

Shaper of Destinies Proposes to Turn Arctic Current Onto Coast of Ireland and Cause Gulf Stream to Flow Into the Bay of Fundy—What Will Happen When All This is Accomplished?

Now is the winter of our discontent to be turned to glorious summer by the Sun of Canterbury street which has sunk into the Telegraph, for the said shaper of our destinies proposes to turn the Arctic current onto the coast of Ireland and settle the Irish question by making that island uninhabitable, and to cause the Gulf Stream to flow up into the Bay of Fundy, making our climate as genial as Premier Foster receiving a delegation from Andover asking for the extension of the Valley Railway, and enabling the Hon. Mr. Tweeddale to convert the Bhas Bell tract into a bank, and to make the Gulf Stream converge along the St. John River Valley. It has been suggested for some time that the provincial government has a grand scheme to make New Brunswick blossom like a rose, and provide the returned soldiers with an opportunity to settle on lands where life will be easy and pleasant, and the project announced by the Telegraph is a part of the great scheme it would appear that the premier has had in mind some purpose of some kind since he abandoned his strange programme for developing our water power. This project confuses up the perpetual summer, with all good Grits leading a life of idleness, and the returned soldier sitting in the shade of palm trees, picking off bread crumbs whenever hunger moves him to exertion, and remembering as a bad dream his days of hard tack and bully beef.

The Standard asked D. L. Hutchins, son of the Meteorological Observatory, who is in the charge of the observatory hereabout, what he thought of this great scheme. "It's a fine scheme if it works," said Mr. Hutchins. "I have heard of it before. Captain Murray of the United States Navy, first propounded the theory that the Gulf Stream had an important influence on climatic conditions. But Captain Murray has been dead a good many years, and his theory has been somewhat exploded. The widely accepted idea is that the climate of the British Isles is like the report of Mark Twain's death—rather exaggerated. The controlling agents in the climate of the British Isles are the movements of air which pass over the ocean from west to east passing over a large water surface having a high specific heat, and which does not cool rapidly like the land. "The Arctic currents no doubt have a certain effect on climate. They bring down a lot of ice, which has more effect in cooling the air than probably the current itself." As the Telegraph believes in all kinds of myths, it will probably pin its faith to the theory of the shaper of our destinies, and attempt to carry out its high enterprise to the best of its ability. Its attention, however, may be called to another programme for improving the climate which was put forward over a hundred years ago by a Nova Scotian who wrote in 1818 under the name of Agricola to the Halifax Recorder, a paper still in existence and which makes the proud claim that it is the only paper in Canada which has kept the gospel of Liberalism pure and unadulterated. Agricola's idea was that by climate these provinces could be made genial and kind by the sweat of the laborer's brow. He summed up his views as follows: "The natural basis of our civilization is the cultivation of the soil. The influence of cultivation in improving the climate of a country, by exhibiting from ancient authorities the actual coldness of Gaul, Germany, Scythia and Italy about 2,000 years ago. This appeal to history, when so clear and circumstantial, opens for the most agreeable anticipations; and proves to the satisfaction of every rational inquirer that the severity of our winters and the backwardness of our springs arise not from physical causes of a permanent and unchangeable character, but from the rude and uncultivated state of the soil. The removal of the natural obstructions, which are bound in the same icy fetters, which of old froze the Rhine and the Danube, the Poland and the Tyber, and who ourselves are chilled by the same piercing winds, in which the Roman and the Gaul, the Scythian and the Saxon shivered. If, in the old world, cultivation has converted bleak and desolate solitudes into fruitful and delightful regions; in the new, we have just grounds to expect similar results from drawing off stagnant waters, from draining fens and morasses, and from the destruction of forests. True; a long interval must elapse before these agreeable prospects can be realized. The progress of man in fertilizing and decorating the earth, which he inherits it from nature, opposes a thousand obstacles to the progress of agriculture. The construction of towns and cities, the formation of public roads and canals, the removal of the natural obstructions in the soil, are the work of time, and in fact go on, step by step, in successive generations.

TO PROMULGATE FINDINGS OF COURT MARTIAL MONDAY

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, May 20.—It is stated in militia circles here that the findings in the court martial, following the investigation into the affairs of the captain of the First Depot Battalion, New Brunswick Regiment, will be promulgated either Monday or Tuesday in St. John, provided the documents, which have yet to be signed by the governor-general, reach there in time.

General Ashton, adjutant general, this afternoon stated it was impossible to divulge the findings of the court until they were promulgated. It was rumored here today that the minister of militia has refused to give out the findings.

The proceedings have passed the council and await the signature of the governor-general.

RECONSTRUCTION

Of Lost Health-Tone and Exhausted Reserve Strength. Consequent upon the war, the dreadful epidemic, trying weather, and changing seasons, is imperative. Never before were the blood-purifying, nerve-toning, appetite-making properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla so much needed as now.

Hood's Pills are a fine family cathartic, gentle and effective, well adapted to help Hood's Sarsaparilla.

MOVED TO MONCTON FROM HALIFAX

Word was received here yesterday that the Maritime Provincial general office and clearing house of the Dominion Employment Service is being moved to Moncton from Halifax where it has been located. This is being done because it is deemed advisable that the general office should have a central location. Only three of these clearing houses have been established so far. Of the other two one is at Winnipeg and the other at Vancouver. To this central office the various employment bureaus of which there are thirteen in the Maritime Provinces, will report daily, stating what vacancies there are which they are available to fill and what applicants for positions they are unable to place. Men can thus be transferred where they are wanted, and will have the ease of railway transportation at the rate of one cent per mile.

C. N. R. SERVICES NOT AFFECTED BY STRIKE ORDER

The Toronto General Strike Order Has Not Interfered With the Operations of the Company.

Toronto, May 20.—The following statement was given out at the head office of the Canadian National Railways today:

"Officers of the Canadian National Railways explained at noon that the Toronto general strike order had not interfered with the operations of the company up to that time, and expressed confidence that all the men would remain loyal in the interests of public service. "The men of the C. N. R. express service at Toronto voted at a meeting this morning to stay by their jobs in the public interest, so that the company services are being carried on as usual. "The sleeping and dining car services out of Toronto on the Canadian National have not been affected by Toronto strike order, and the situation as brought out by the Winnipeg strike order which affected the services between Toronto and Winnipeg is being rapidly restored to normal."

MONTREAL MARKET AFFECTED BY LABOR UNREST

Montreal, May 20.—The labor situation caused a feeling of unrest at the opening, but what little stock was offered was readily taken and the market hardened as the day progressed. Scotia led the market, and it was not until late in the day that the attention was given to St. John and Canada. This stock rallied a point and it was found that the market was bare of stock. The paper issues were steady and buying on scale down was noticeable in Spanish River and Laurentides. Reports from New York are to the effect that a stronger market can be looked for in the steel stocks.

LOGGIEVILLE

Loggieville, May 27.—Monday was kept as a holiday by the clerks in the several stores in the town. The weather was of the most disagreeable kind, and interrupted the plans of many of the citizens. A storm set in on Saturday evening, when we had the first thunder and lightning of the season, and the atmosphere is still dull and unattractive for performing outdoor work.

The 25th was a day of very special services in Knox church, as on that day the congregation celebrated its 75th anniversary. The pastor was the Rev. J. F. Frost. His morning sermon was based on the text: "Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before." He made a stirring appeal to his people to go forward to better things. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir. The special choruses were "The Awakening Song," and "Forward Be Our Watchword." A suitably worded quartette was a feature of the meeting.

In the evening a Memorial Service was held for the boys of the congregation who had made the supreme sacrifice in the great war. The pastor's text was "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." The special music consisted of two choruses "He is My Guide," and the "Better Land," and the quartette "A Nation's Heroic Calm Sleep." During the service a tablet which had been placed in the building by William Tait and family to the memory of Clarence Tait, was unveiled by Will Tait. The congregational Honor Roll which was in front of the pulpit, has on it 25 names. Against five of these a golden star has been placed. The speaker made fitting reference to the men who had fallen. To the returned boys who had fallen, to the congregation, who had served overseas, moments were presented. The church was decorated with Union Jacks and Canadian Ensigns, two particularly large and beautiful flags hanging gracefully at the back of the choir loft. Potted ferns around the pulpit added greatly to the appearance of the place.

The effects obtained by the use of patriotic colors on the pulpit and platform were particularly attractive and appropriate. The service was one of gratitude for the heroism, sorrow for death, and sympathy for the family circles whose loved ones had given their lives in defence of the Empire. Thoughts of the days that are gone touched the hearts of many in the building.

Mrs. Harris Flaherty went to the Chatham hospital on Tuesday for an operation.

POLICE COURT CASES YESTERDAY

At the police court, yesterday morning, the case against Alice O'Brien, alias McDonald, charged with having aid and comfort on her premises, was held over until next Wednesday afternoon. Evidence was given by inspectors Merryfield and Daley, who searched the premises, Sheffield street, on the 24th. E. S. Ritchie appeared for the accused.

John Fitzmaurice, who proved unruly at a previous hearing, was fined $5 on the charge of drunkenness.

Fred Allan and Joseph Gouthreau, sailors, arrested a few days ago for having liquor in their possession, were remanded. They had stated previously that they secured the liquor from the vessel on which they work.

Inspector Daley said he had searched the schooner and could not find any intoxicants on board.

Matthew Priara, the young man arrested for acting suspiciously on Dock street last Saturday morning, was remanded for three days.

One drunk arrested Thursday night said he had not taken liquor, but an overdose of drugs. He was held for medical examination.

John L. Morrison appeared on the charge from the Board of Health of not having his premises connected with the sewer system. His case was postponed until next Friday.

Fairville Won From The Y. M. C. I.

Six Inning Game in St. John League Played on Queen Square Diamond Last Evening—Score 10 to 5.

The Fairville nine started out with a winning streak last night in the first inning of the game with the Y. M. C. I. team, securing a lead which was held throughout the six-inning game.

At the end of the sixth inning the score stood 10-5 in favor of Fairville. During the first half of the seventh inning the Y. M. C. I. men brought in five more runs, but as the game was called by the "umps" before the Fairville men took the field, the standing at the end of the sixth inning was accepted as the official score.

At two base hit by Keller in the fifth inning was a feature of the game. The line-up was as follows: Y. M. C. I. Pitcher. Chestnut. Yomans and Lawlor. Catcher. McKell. First Base. Gill. Second Base. Seelye. Third Base. McLeod. O'Regan. Shortstop. McGovern. Callaghan. Left Field. Snodgrass. Costello. Right Field. Corrigan. Riley.

PRESENT STYLES SHOCK SOLDIER

Looks in Vain for the Old-Fashioned Grandmother and Takes a Fall Out of the Ultra-Moderns.

A veteran of the first division, wearing the "red patch" which is emblematic of the members of the "old brigade" of the expeditionary forces, was seen standing in King Square yesterday, looking around with a puzzled expression on his face.

Asked what could be done for him, the reply came that he was all right, but what had happened to the good old grandmothers who used to be in St. John before he went away to war. "When we sailed in 1914," he declared, "I left behind me here some of the most and most modest old ladies you could ever meet; and the girls were prim propriety itself. Just take a look around the square here now. Over there is a mother walking down one of the paths with a fifty-year-old daughter; and the daughter's dresses are longer, in proportion, than those of her mother. Over here is a grandmother, I know that is not the kind of grandmother I have been used to. THE HOSPITALS WERE INSPECTED Major A. R. Sprenger, Supt. of Engineering Branch for Maritime Provinces and Quebec, Was in the City Yesterday.

The military hospitals and sanatoria of this district were inspected yesterday by Major A. R. Sprenger, superintendent of the engineering branch for the Maritime Provinces and Quebec of the Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment Commission. The major is better known to St. John as the engineer for the government during the construction of the new Reversing Falls bridge and as the maker of the model of that bridge which now is on exhibition in the Natural History rooms. While overseas with the engineers he was in charge of aerodrome construction for the district of Scotland and the eastern coast of England.

THOSE TIRED FEET! WHY DIDN'T GRANDMA HAVE THEM? Tired feet! Everybody has them nowadays. Why is it? How is it that in our grandfathers' and grandmothers' time people did not complain of such things until they were old and rheumatic? Nowadays even school children are troubled with tired feet. Special doctors to treat them are a demand.

THE SIEGE BATTERY SOLDIERS DINE Third Anniversary of 6th and 7th Siege Batteries Departure from St. John Was Celebrated Last Night With Banquet at Bond's.

Last night was the third anniversary of that on which the 6th and 7th Siege Batteries left St. John on its way to the battlefields of Europe, and the occasion was celebrated by a dinner at Bond's, at which the battles of the battery were fought over again, and plans for keeping members of the battery, scattered all over the Dominion, in touch, were talked over. Major L. T. Allen, the original officer commanding of the battery, presided at the head of the table and about seventy-five members of the battery from all parts of the province were present.

Speeches were given by Major Allen, Major T. E. Ryder, Major D. V. White and Sergt. Mawhinney, and a number of choruses were sung by all hands.

While the battery was on the Rhine an organization called the "6th Canadian Siege Fraternal" was formed, the purpose being to keep alive the memory of the battery and to keep in touch with each other the members after demobilization. All who served in the battery, some seven or eight hundred in all, are eligible for membership. The officers chosen are: Major L. T. Allen, honorary president; Sergt. Mawhinney, president; Lieut. Nichols, secretary. In addition to these a secretary has been elected for each province, Cpl. J. S. Henderson filling that position for New Brunswick.

A history of the battery from the time it was authorized until it was demobilized is now in preparation and will be issued in a short time.

Sat Up in Bed To Get Her Breath.

Prickitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired, weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restlessness, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, Chemical Road, N. B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit straight up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning. Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have hollow aching, blood poisons and sticky complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of indigestible before breakfast.

Sat Up in Bed To Get Her Breath.

Prickitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired, weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restlessness, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, Chemical Road, N. B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit straight up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning. Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have hollow aching, blood poisons and sticky complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store.

Golden Pile Remedy. Golden Pile Remedy will cure your Piles—try it! The trial is absolutely free—return by return mail.

NO NEED CUTTERING FROM PILES NOW. Golden Pile Remedy will cure your Piles—try it! The trial is absolutely free—return by return mail.

Maxwell - a car made of more brains than metal. SO much material and so much labor go into every car. And so many bookkeepers record the business done. Have you ever stopped to consider the brain power that goes into a car? Take the Maxwell, and note such men as these employed in its development: 1. The originator of quantity production in the automobile business and the master mind in the employment of machinery to produce quantity. 2. One of the two leading production men on the continent. 3. One of the two leading metallurgists on the continent. 4. One of the leading foundry engineers on the continent. 5. Probably the leading cost man on the continent. 6. A road testing engineer who has driven a car further than any living man. 7. An accountant who keeps a daily balance in a business that exceeds $50,000,000 a year. These are but seven of more than thirty men of exceptional capacity who team together in the operation of the Maxwell business. The career of any one of these men furnishes a great human story. The result is evident in the Maxwell of today—a car with a lineage of 300,000 before it. All designed and built on the original chassis program. It is a car that grows better day by day. Because more brains than metal are put into it. MAXWELL MOTOR CO. OF CANADA, Limited, WINDSOR, Ont. $1,275 (c.o.b. Windsor, Ont.) Motor Car and Equipment Co., St. John, N. B. Showrooms: Cor. The St. John Standard

Published by The Standard Limited 82 Prince William Street, St. John, N. B., Canada. H. V. M. ACKINSON, Manager and Editor.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1919.

On Feb. 10th, 1911, Mr. T. H. Bullock said to The Standard: "St. John cannot afford to pay from $12,000 to $15,000 a year to representatives, and neither is there any need for those who represent the city to give their whole time to the city's affairs."

Take the present Mayor or myself. We could not have devoted more attention to the city's affairs if we had been paid $6,000 a year. Good representative men who will give up something for the city are needed. With reference to Cedar Rapids, their tax rate is $3.95, while ours is $1.99. The Frontage Tax, as it is entitled by the citizens of Cedar Rapids, would not get here for a minute."

Mr. Bullock is now one of St. John's commissioners, and is in receipt of some thousands of dollars per year for doing the same amount of work that he formerly did for a few hundreds of dollars. This is not Mr. Bullock's fault. It is due to the fact that St. John is today paying thousands for work formerly done for hundreds, and according to Mr. Bullock's own declaration he is not devoting himself to the administration of civic affairs any more enthusiastically than in these years during which he was a member of the old Council. What is true in his case is equally true of other commissioners who have served on the Board, and if we should judge by the statement of this one man who has had long experience at City Hall, St. John is now paying from $12,000 to $15,000 per year, most of which is paid needlessly. If there had been the marked improvement in civic administration which the promoters of the commission plan led people to expect, this outlay would not be serious.

It will be noted that Mr. Bullock, as quoted above, declared that the people of St. John would not stand for a permanent tax rate of $3.95, as was then in effect in Cedar Rapids, in comparison with $1.99 in St. John. Yet the tax rate in St. John, shortly to be announced, will very nearly approach that existing in Cedar Rapids in 1911, which Mr. Bullock declared "would not get here for a minute." The past few years of Commission Government have thus been responsible for an increase in the tax rate which, in the opinion of one of our present commissioners, should be regarded as beyond all reason, and it is not apparent that St. John has benefited by this increase rate to anything like the extent we were led to expect. Of course Commission has not been wholly responsible for the regular advances, a portion of the increase being due to the higher salaries, and materials used in the various civic departments. But Commission has been responsible for its own failure to bring about those improvements in administration of which our ratepayers were induced to make the change.

CANADIAN GRAVES.

Canadians who have least relatives in France and Belgium will be deeply interested in the information given to parliament a day or two ago by Sir Edward Kemp, Minister of Overseas Forces, during the course of a statement covering the operations of his department in the past few years. Sir Kemp anticipates that as years go by there will be an increasing number of parents, wives, brothers and sisters visiting the graves of their dead, and he is pleased to be able to tell the people of Canada that all possible is being done to provide proper permanent burial for Canadian soldiers. In addition to the many cemeteries which have been provided, there are one hundred and sixty thousand isolated graves on the battlefields of France and Belgium. Practically all these graves are marked in a sufficiently definite manner to permit of accurate identification, but it is not known just how many of these contain the bodies of Canadian soldiers. In the whole war area on the western front there are buried 555,379 British soldiers, out of which total the United Kingdom accounts for 452,750, Canada 43,631, Australia 25,151, New Zealand 11,393, South Africa 4,955, Newfoundland 383, India 5,665, British West Indies 956. For some time before the armistice was signed, and continuing since that date, soldiers from Britain and all possessions represented on the firing line, have been exhuming the bodies of their men from these isolated graves and re-interring them in the regularized cemeteries. Working corps of from six hundred to seven hundred Canadians who went to Britain under the Military Service Act have been engaged in this work, but recently some of these men have been relieved and their places taken by volunteers from among the numbers who still remained in England, and who had gone across under the Military Service Act. It is anticipated that, from now on, at least one thousand such volunteers will be constantly employed in this work of caring for the bodies of their fellow Canadians, and should the undertaking not be completed by the time the term of their men comes for demobilization, they will be brought home just the same as civilian labor employed. Thus, perhaps by the time the regularized cemeteries are restored, and graves of the Canadian dead in France and Belgium will be satisfactorily arranged.

LABOR IN CANADA.

The gradual extension of labor disputes both East and West from Winnipeg is an evidence of two things—active campaigning by leaders in the movement and the existence of a deep-seated discontent. It indicates a condition which cannot readily be dealt with by any local organization, but which must be accepted as being practically a national condition calling for a nation-wide remedy. It is useless to believe that any agreement which may be reached between the striking unions of Winnipeg and the Employers' organizations of that city can result in a settlement of the difficulties apparent elsewhere. No one individual community can possibly reach a compromise which will overcome the discontented feeling among the working classes of other provinces. The solution of the problem must come from Ottawa in the form of some clearly defined policy regarding the relations between labor and capital in such a way that serious disturbances as now exist will be rendered impossible in future, not merely because they will be made unlawful, but because the conditions leading to such disturbances may no longer exist.

There is of course the freely expressed conviction that Labor has gone too far. This is the opinion of capitalists and employers. There is an equally expressed opinion that capital has been running the country for too long a time. This is the opinion of organized labor. Neither one is necessarily correct. Nor is it possible that at any time any one class shall be supreme in the affairs of the Dominion. In such a country as this, indeed in any country, no one group may carry on the government or control the administration and do it successfully. If Canada is to go ahead industrially and to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities awaiting it, all parties must co-operate for the common good for we can have no progress worth mentioning unless capital and labor go hand in hand. At the same time it should be understood that those playing the part of employers will not permit their interests to be affected by the activities of extremists, nor should organized labor in any portion of the Dominion allow itself to be influenced by the arguments of self-seeking agitators.

THE BOOTLEGGERS.

The Maritime Baptist expresses the opinion that the bootlegging business in the City of St. John is conducted under the supervision of a central organization which becomes responsible for the fines of those engaged in the traffic who happen to be caught, and which generally superintends the local distribution and sale of liquor. This is highly improbable, for while it may be true that certain among the bootlegging interests are acting in harmony, the existence of a central controlling organization is very questionable indeed. Nor is there any reason to believe that many persons formerly engaged in the liquor business in this city are involved in the illegal distribution now so common. In fact it may be accepted as true that all the more reputable dealers of former days have entirely given up the liquor business, and if any of the old group now remain and are violators of the law, these include the less reputable who carried on business under license. But it may be taken for granted that speaking generally the illegal liquor traffic is now in the hands of a new element, many of whom were not in any way previously connected with the sale of liquor, but who, realizing the opportunity for making money illegally, have during the past year or more engaged in this work. And it cannot reasonably be supposed that individuals branching out in this way for themselves have come sufficiently close together to form a united working organization along the line suggested by the Maritime Baptist. No doubt there is co-operation among certain groups whose activities cover the same districts and they may, if necessary, assist each other in the payment of fines. But this is as far as the matter goes.

Here is English as she is wrote according to Canadian Press, in its report of a murder trial at Sherbrooke, St. John papers among others published, "questioned as to his guilt of the crime, Gagan hung his head and said nothing. However, afterwards, he contradicted himself. Finally the young boy said, I killed him." All of which is very interesting, if true.

WHAT THEY SAY

Great Boon to the West. Toronto Times—Reports from the various Soldiers' Settlement administration centres in the West indicate that possibly 5,000 applications made by returned men have been approved. At 160 acres each this means the taking up of 800,000 acres of land. But the movement is only beginning to get under way. If the scheme is not too badly "knocked" by mistaken critics it is reasonable to suppose that between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 acres will, in this way, be taken up. Think of what it means to have this addition to permanent settlement in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Twenty-five thousand such settlers getting an average loan of $4,000 would mean $100,000,000 put out in three provinces.

Would Be an Outrage.

Hamilton Herald—The Montreal Journal of Commerce says it would be amazing if any considerable number of dairy farmers desire to have the ban on oleomargarine replaced. It would be far more amazing if the Dominion government were to authorize any such outrage upon the consuming public.

Moderation Called For.

Toronto Star—The question at issue is not whether the employers or the workmen shall win a victory, but whether the cities shall be governed by a few extremists on each side or by the moderate people who compose an overwhelming majority of the community. Unless the moderates assert themselves the extremists will have their way, and the people will suffer.

Will They Strike.

Vancouver Province—Calgary school girls resent the action of the school board in banning the use of powder puffs and rouge. They declare they are justified in protesting their complexions against the ravages of burning suns and tanning winds. Better come to the Coast, girls, where a beneficent climate assures the bloom of youth without resorting to chemicals.

The Liberal Press.

Calgary Herald—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux made a fool of himself when he stated that the Liberal press of Canada which supported Union government had been bought. In addition to making a fool of himself, he probably knew he was telling a falsehood at the time, because he could not possibly have had any real evidence to support his statement. The Liberal press of Canada, which came out in support of Union government at the last election, displayed an unselfish patriotism in its attitude that has seldom been equalled by any press, and there was not money enough in the whole Dominion of Canada to induce it to take the stand it took from any other reason.

Church Union.

Sydney N. S. Record—There is reason to believe that the consumption of the union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches may now be effected in the very near future. When the vote was taken on the question some years ago the circular favoring union set forth the following reasons for the action: the condition of the newer west, the weakened state of rural churches in older Canada, the social disorder of city slums, the problem of the foreigner, and the need of the heathen world. The Presbyterian communicant vote was 106,755 for and 48,278 against; the Methodist, 150,841 for and 48,788 against; and the Congregational 2,344 for and 813 against. A weakening of class distinction and a changed sense of spiritual values due to the war, as well as general appreciation of the urgency of united religious effort is now giving impetus to the movement.

A BIT OF VERSE

DANISH MARY.

(By Percy MacKay.)
Twas Danish Mary picked them up
Out of the air and sent:
A shoddy, trudging lollypop
A-trapsing stately.
The cry rang north, the cry rang south:
"The vanished—where are they?"

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE.

People is born without clothes to prove everybody is free and equal, but as soon as they get old enuff to realize it they stop appearing in public without any. The only people that don't mind looking free and equal is babies, and they even ave their pictures taken free and equal.
A fashionable way of judging people is by their clothes. Thus if you see a man with holes in his shoes and a dent in his hat and no collar and a dirty shirt, you generally dont invite him in.
Shoes are the clothes which keep the bottom of your feet from being tickled. They come in pairs and boxes, and when a pair is once took out of a box the box is only usefull for other purposes. If you put your left shoe on your rite foot, and vice versa, you will look funny, but you wont look any funnier than wat you feel. Even if your shoes are not bowdill, they are probably more bowdill than your feet.
Rubbers are wat you are reminded to put on over your shoes when it rains. Rubbers are the same relation to gum boots as wat a cat is to a tiger, being the same family only domestic. When one rubber gets stuck in the mud without being noticed, the other rubber never goes out agen.
No matter how good a persin is dressed, if they havent got a hat on in the street sumthing seems to be missing.

But Danish Mary shut her mouth
And shuffled on her way.
"Ho, Hawker!—Grieve!"—on flying scud
Called kingdoms and called kings:
But Danish Mary chewed her cud
In drowsy manderings.
Now "Lost!" cried West, and "Lost!"
cried East.
Till "Perished!" like a fall,
Turned bonfire-light and boning feast
More dark than lantern.

And toward the hollow sky rose prayer
And dirge of steeple-chime:
But what should Danish Mary care?
She takes her own sweet time.

And hawle to Lewis Butt: "It's me!
I've picked 'em up—your men."
"What!—Grieve and Hawker?" replied she Goes shambling on again.

But lightning engines flash and light
For news that roars remote,
The jacksies swarm from bay and right
And race to run her down.
And win, and bear her prize away—
While Mary turns to drowsy
Once more where she slips the dumb, salt spray
And slaps her on the jawl.

A BIT OF FUN

Job Lot.
Seeing the newly arrived twins,
Little Bess exclaimed, "Oh, mamma, was there a sale on 'em?"
Green as Grass.
"Bridget, what in the world are you sprinkling ashes on the floor for?"
"Shure, ma'am, an didn't yes say to doost the parlor?"

Revised.
In the light of the present wrangles at the peace table perhaps one of the beatitudes should be rewritten to read:
"Blessed are the peace makers; for they all want to inherit the earth."

Honest.
"Is he honest?" He told the government exactly what his income was and he doesn't tell his friends that his tax is larger than it really is."

Just as Effective.
Mother—Did you tell Tommy he musn't ask visitors for money?
Father—Yes, but I noticed he leaves his bank ostentatiously in the parlor.
—Edinburgh Scotsman.

His Heart Out of the Way.
Wounded Tommy (in hospital)—
Yes! mum. I was shot right through here (pointing to his left side).
Visitor—Oh, but that is impossible!

ONLY ROUTINE BUSINESS.
The Farm Settlement Board met at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Provincial Government rooms. Those present were: Mr. Bradl, secretary of agriculture; William Kerr, of the Soldiers' Settlement Board; F. E.
Sharpe, secretary of immigration. Routine business was transacted.

Discovered Himself.
Mrs. Diff—How's your good husband getting along?
Mrs. Biff—Fine! Gone to work again at good pay.
Mrs. Diff (astonished)—But I thought he had Saint Vitus' dance?
Mrs. Biff—He has; but he learned to play a saxophone and then got a swell job with a jazz orchestra in a cabaret.

Hiram Hornbeam
 Has a Comeback

Says a Real Hornbeam Who Starts An Argument and Gets the Worst of it Doesn't Cry Skunk.

"That kindly old rube who calls himself Hiram Hornbeam and airs his opinions to the Times' New Reporter is maybe a smart Alec in his own way," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam of Hornbeam Settlement, "but he isn't no great credit to the Hornbeam tribe. When a real, simon-pure Hornbeam starts an argument and gets the worst of it he don't cry skunk. No sir, that is only a boy's trick, or an old woman's. That kind of logic may do in the Liberal uplift circles around Canterbury street, but it does not go in Hornbeam Settlement, I reckon my namesake must be thinking of running as a candidate on the Times' ticket."

"This hick Hornbeam who says he used to run after polecats, has evidently been smothering himself in the union ever since. And the union has gone to the place where his brains ought to be, so that he thinks and feels like a little tin Kaiser in his own right. He makes war on things and people he don't like, and dirty war at that, and when he gets a dose of his own medicine he makes a write face than Kaiser Bill, and talks as if he was the innocent victim of Jesse James on the part of a wicked world. He wants to force his own particular brand of uplift Liberal culture down the throats of the people, till they are so doped they can be led like a lamb to the sacrifice."

"Are you talking about lemon-juice?" asked the reporter.

"No, I'm not," said Mr. Hornbeam. "But this rube of a Hornbeam, who goes about chewing a straw as if he hadn't enough to eat, is always talking about patriots and prohibitionists as if he was the bullwhacker of the flock. Maybe he is. But when the government which he says is the unadulterated reprobated extract of all the political virtues, took a lot of money from the people for patriotic purposes, and did not give account of a considerable portion of it, what did he say about it? Does he think Mr. Veniot can make better use of that money than the War Veterans who are asking that it be handed over to them to help the unfortunate among them? He talks a lot about the evils of bootleg booze. But when he'verous government sold over $5,000 worth of bootleg liquor for less than a dollar a bottle, to be resold to the public on a doctor's prescription at $5 or $6, what did he say? Profits like that sanctify even the booze business."

NEW BRUNSWICK'S OWN BATTALION

ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE WORLD

Large Audience at Meeting of Women's Canadian Club Yesterday Afternoon Heard Interesting Address Delivered by Lieut.-Col. W. R. Brown, D. S. O. — Officer Commanding "Fighting 26th" Tells Story of Unit's Part Taken in Great War.

The story of the 26th, a battalion of the "finest fighting corps in the world," was told by their commanding officer, Lieut.-Colonel Brown, D. S. O., before members of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon in a room at the German Street Institute. When Colonel Brown appeared this gallant officer of New Brunswick's Own Battalion was heartily applauded and his address listened to with intense interest. There were many incidents told which the audience felt were most modestly related and they would have been glad to hear more details, but all were delighted with the straightforward sincere way in which Colonel Brown praised his officers and men and gave the Canadians the credit for being such splendid fighters and such brave men.

Introduced by Mrs. Kuhring, as the commander of that battalion "whose steady service won such distinction," Colonel Brown first spoke of the noble part played by the women at home, saying that all the soldiers fully realized their unflinching, untiring interest and attention to the needs of the men and the gifts of money, socks and arrettes were deeply appreciated. "Personally," Colonel Brown said, "I think the women of Canada were wonderful and I hope, when in years to come the work of the soldiers is remembered, the work of the women will not be forgotten."

The speaker said that it was not long after the 26th went over before they were called upon to undertake a ticklish operation which resulted in the loss of very gallant men. For the success of the task which they accomplished, they were commended by the general staff and were the first battalion of the second division to be placed on the map as a fighting unit. Colonel Brown remarked that, speaking as an Englishman, he could praise the Canadians without being misunderstood and that they did not flinch at anything they were called upon to do.

After telling of the first months of trench warfare, Colonel Brown spoke of the fall of 1914 when the 26th was called upon to take part in the first big battle of the Haig offensive. He told of the long drawn out Somme battle which was really fought in the trenches. The Canadians were not understood and that they did not flinch at anything they were called upon to do.

ADVOCATES TAKING THE TARIFF OUT OF POLITICS

Howard Smith Discusses Issues of the Day Before the Montreal Branch of the Manufacturers' Association.

(By Howard Smith, Chairman Montreal Branch of M. A., at Annual Meeting Thursday Evening, May 22.)

When Charles Schwab, the great American organizing genius and business expert, who gave his services freely to his country during the war, was recently asked, "Now that the war is over, what do you advise?" He replied, "Forget it and get back to work."

We cannot, of course, "forget it" in a literal sense, nor indeed, would it be well for us to do so, but there is much to commend in the suggestion that the duty of the present moment is to devote ourselves exclusively and to the full extent of our powers to "getting back to work." To reconstruct the industries which were suspended during the war period, to build up new ones, to find employment at remunerative wages for all who want it, to contribute to the wealth and well-being of Canada as a nation.

This is a task that peculiarly appeals to members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It is up to us to bias the trend to national prosperity and national contentment. We are anxious not only to keep the old wheels moving but to start as many new ones as possible. But we can only do this if granted reasonable freedom from undue restrictions on the part of the Government, on the one hand, and are met by a fair and reasonable attitude on the part of labor on the other. Industry in this country cannot thrive if unduly oppressed, or if conditions are forced upon it beyond its power to meet.

The Tariff.

One of the most serious situations confronting the manufacturers today is the demand from the West for a radical revision of the tariff. The western grain grower, looking at the subject solely from the viewpoint of self-interest and without any regard to its national aspect, has been led to believe that in tariff reform, with an approach to free trade as he can get, is the country's only means of salvation. He is bringing strong pressure to bear at Ottawa to enforce his views.

For Revenue Purposes. It is not necessary or desirable at this time to go into an extended discussion of the merits or demerits of a protective tariff. They are too well known to all of us to require enumeration. It is pertinent, however, to observe that the present is no time to introduce measures intended to upset Canada's accepted fiscal policy for the past forty years. Quite apart from the influence of a protective tariff upon the upbuilding of Canada's industries, consider for a moment the financial situation which confronts us. Before the war Canada's national debt of $200,000,000 was looked upon with some indignation and was regarded as an undue burden for a nation of eight millions of people to carry. Today our public debt is nearing the two billion dollar mark, and will probably exceed that sum before our immediate obligations incurred in carrying on the war are provided for. This will impose carrying charges upon this country greater than our total revenues amounted to a decade or so ago. Thus we have the extraordinary obligations such as the Government at Ottawa is now assuming with more or less bitterness, a $60,000,000 annual deficit in railway operating account; a $20,000,000 appropriation to assist the provinces in building houses for their people; a $50,000,000 shipbuilding appropriation; another $10,000,000 canal undertaking; and all the other expenditures which, at present, seem to be undertaken without a great deal of concern as to where the revenue to meet them is coming from. This year's estimates for public purposes alone, according to a statement made in the House by Hon. F. B. Carroll, will exceed the estimated revenue by some $400,000,000. Where is this money to come from? True, there are new tax imposts, the business profits tax and all the other taxes, which will necessarily be subject to an increase, but with all these the Government's income will still fall far short of its requirements and will continue to do so for years to come. How can it then, be seriously proposed to abolish in large part what is and always has been the Government's chief source of reliance for its revenue—the duties collected on imported manufactures? We know, if the imposition of such duties was ever justifiable from a national standpoint, it is truly justifiable as well as absolutely necessary today.

Scientific Inquiry First.

But even if there were any virtue in the demand for a low tariff or the abolition of the tariff at the present time, or any practical way in which the demand could be accorded to without running the risk of national bankruptcy, the manufacturers would still be justified in opposing it. Before there is any attempt made to tinker with the present tariff there should be a thorough and scientific inquiry into the subject which should be studied from every angle. Tariff changes should be preceded by due and sufficient notice to all concerned, long enough in advance of their taking effect, in order that those affected may have due time to adjust their business to meet the new conditions. Stability is the first essential of successful manufacturing, and how can a business be regarded as stable that is subject to a 25 per cent. fluctuation in the market value of the commodities it produces by an overnight change in the tariff schedules?

Non-Political Subject.

The tariff should long ago have been taken out of the political arena. It is not too late to treat it as a scientific non-political problem, before any serious changes are made in existing rates, the whole subject should be turned over to a central board or commission to determine what is best alike in the interests of the country, in the interests of the manufacturer, and in the interests of the consumer. The Canadian farmer is never more prosperous than he is today. He at any rate is not suffering. If free trade is essential to his future prosperity, he at least, can afford to wait the outcome of a scientific inquiry into the facts. Sooner or later, when these facts are brought home to him, he will be convinced that in the last analysis his prosperity rests upon a prosperous and successful industrial Canada, and that manufacturing is no less essential to the country's well-being than is agriculture.

Unemployment and Labor Unrest.

Coupled intimately with the question of the tariff is that of labor. The high cost of food and other necessary commodities, due largely to a world shortage, has aggravated the situation, until we are confronted with outbreaks such as that in Winnipeg. Any attempt to force a lower tariff at the present time, would necessarily intensify unemployment and labor unrest. Industry cannot be carried on under such conditions. The present labor situation must be met by mutual conciliation and co-operation between capital and labor. Each must allow the other's right to exist. Reason must be established. In Great Britain the Whitley Industrial Councils system is being employed to good advantage in bridging the industrial difficulties encountered during these trying days of post-war reconstruction. In the United States a somewhat similar system, inaugurated under the Rockefeller Institute, is being tried with more or less success. In both of these systems the essential element is that capital and labor shall each have an equal voice in the control and management of the industry as well as in the distribution of the fruits thereof. Neither of these systems has as yet been tried out to any marked extent in Canada, so far as I am aware, although several projects not unlike them, are now in force in some of the industries in this province, and are, I am informed, having extremely beneficial results. Quebec has, in fact, outside of Montreal, we are happy in stating, been less seriously affected by labor troubles this Spring than almost any other province.

C. M. A. Will Do Part Loyal.

In this connection it will be of interest to await the report of the Royal Commission on industrial relations now making an investigation of labor conditions in Canada on behalf of the Dominion Government. It should appear from their enquiry that collective bargaining between gangs of workmen, whether organized as trade unions or otherwise, and between groups of employers is advisable, or that some other method is best applicable to the situation in Canada, there is no doubt in my mind that the manufacturers will loyally and willingly accept such a finding and do their utmost to give it effect.

Public Ownership.

Linked closely with our other war problems, and perhaps taking precedence of all of them, is that of our railways. Many citizens of the Dominion who hold their country's welfare very dear at heart, regard with feelings of the utmost misgiving the heading plunge our Government seems to be making into the wholly experimental sea of public ownership and public control of the greater part of our transportation systems. Undeterred by the experience which in the opinion of many sound thinkers in this country threatens that wealthy nation with financial embarrassment, undismayed by the almost equally unfortunate results of similar experiments in Great Britain and Europe, our Government seems bent upon forcing upon us a policy of public ownership, irrespective of its results.

Should Have Had a Vote.

Experience has proved two things beyond the shadow of a doubt; that public utilities cannot be operated as

Health and Happiness

Women of today seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. Home duties, church duties, war activities, and the hundred-and-one calls for charitable enterprises soon lead women to overdo. Nervousness, headaches, backaches and female troubles are the inevitable result.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which, added to my weak condition, kept me worrying most of the time. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness. Health and happiness. Yes, I have both now."—Mrs. J. WORTHLEIGH, 8242 North Taylor Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of women nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. Avoid them by taking in time

HUNS JUST ESCAPED WORST POISON GAS

At the educational exposition, illustrating the wartime and reconstruction activities of the department of the interior, now being held in Washington there is being shown under guard a sample of the most terrible superpoison gas known, the discovery of Prof. W. Lee Lewis, while in the employ of the bureau of mines at its American University laboratories.

This gas, formerly called Lewisite, later known as Methyl, because the latter name meant nothing to curious persons, was being manufactured by the war department at the rate of ten tons a day when the armistice came. The gas is being variously described as "the climax of the country's achievements in the lethal arts" and as "the most terrible instrument of manslaughter ever conceived." The department itself declares that it is the most deadly of all war gases, much more deadly than mustard gas, which heretofore was known by chemists as "the king of poison gases." It is said that ten airplanes loads of Methyl would have been sufficient to destroy all life in Berlin if such extreme measures had been necessary and that a single day's output would have been sufficient to snuff out the four million human lives on the island of Manhattan.

This gas was not only discovered by Prof. Lewis, but was also developed by him to a point where it was ready for production at the American University while those laboratories were still under the control of the bureau of mines, one of the organizations of the department of the interior.

"If I Could Only Get Rid of These Headaches"

"GOODNESS knows, I have tried enough treatments for it. I think I have used nearly all the tablets and wafers and powders there are at the drug store.

"And what is the result? I am getting more rundown all the time, and the headaches are worse than ever.

"Of course, they help at the time, save me a little suffering, but I have the headaches now often than ever before, and my nervous system has all gone to pieces.

"The doctor says my blood is thin, and that I do not get the nourishment from my food that is required to feed the nerve cells and keep up the vitality of the system.

"I have been reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and this letter from Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., seems to about describe my case.

"I am tired of taking medicines for temporary relief, and am going to see if Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will not build me up and make a complete cure."

This is Mrs. Simmons' letter:

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., writes:

"For about eight years I suffered from anemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. As nothing seemed to improve my condition, I went to a doctor, who told me I was anemic, and that the climate of this country did not agree with me. But as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I had heard a great deal about. After the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while, and now I feel better than I have since I came from Scotland eight years ago. I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

EIGHT-INCH MAIN HAS BEEN COMPLETED.
New Water Main in Mecklenburg Street from Wentworth to Pitt is Finished—Other Work Being Carried on.

The work of replacing the four-inch main in Mecklenburg street from Wentworth to Pitt streets, with an eight-inch main has been completed and the men of the water and sewerage department are now engaged in work in Union street between Waterloo and Brussels streets. They are making repairs to the sewer and where necessary renewing the service pipes preparatory to the public works department laying a permanent pavement in that block.

Commissioner Jones has under consideration the extension of the new water main to Spruce Lake and if that work is undertaken will recommend that a concrete forty-two inch main similar to that at Lake Fitzgerald be laid, as it is much cheaper than iron pipe and just as good for low pressure. Whether he will recommend this work this summer or not depends very largely on the attitude of the management of the pulp mill. If they are willing to cooperate he will in all probability bring the matter before the council.

ROGERS—Drowned, at Milford, May 30, Louis-Hilery, youngest son of Charles F. and Gertrude M. Rogers, in the eighth year of his age, leaving father and mother, three brothers and four sisters to mourn their sad loss.
Funeral on Sunday from his parents' residence, Milford, at 2:30, Standard time. Friends and acquaintances respectfully invited to attend.

Was Drowned At Milford

Louis Rogers, Aged Eight Years, Lost His Life Yesterday in the Randolph and Baker Mill Pond.

A gloom was cast over Milford and the neighborhood, yesterday, when it became known that Louis Hilery Rogers, the eight-year-old son of Charles F. and Gertrude Rogers, of Milford, had met his death by drowning. Young Rogers, accompanied by two other small boys, William White and William Ferguson, went to a place near the Randolph & Baker millpond for the purpose of fishing. As near as can be learned the youngsters constructed a raft of a deal and some boards for the purpose of reaching a boom some forty feet from the shore. It is said that young Rogers and White had nearly reached the boom when the raft which they were on parted and they were flung into the water. The boys were flung ashore and was saved, while his companion sank and was drowned.

The alarm was given, and a man rushed to the rescue and was able to haul young White out to safety, but there were no signs of the Rogers boy. It was somewhere in the vicinity of 5:30 o'clock when the accident happened, and the boy was about 100 feet from the shore. The first to respond to the call, and ran a distance of over a mile from his home to the scene, and was successful in recovering the body of his son.

The little fellow was bright and lovable, and the greatest sympathy is extended to his bereaved parents, brothers and sisters. Besides his father and mother, he leaves three brothers and four sisters, of which he was the youngest.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the late residence, Milford, at 2:30 o'clock, Standard time.

Pathetic Message From Doomed Ship.
Bottle Picked up Near Black's Harbor With Message from Crew of Lost Vessel Had Been Floating Around for Thirty Years.

After being adrift in the Bay of Fundy for thirty years a bottle containing a pathetic message from a doomed ship has been picked up on the shore near Black's Harbor by some boys. The message is as follows:

"May 16th, 1889: If anyone gets this it will let our friends know our fate. We have been run into by a three-masted schooner and left to our fate. Misspah. (Signed) J. Cleveland, 61 St. Patrick street, St. John.

The schooner Misspah, which was built in Freeport, N. S., in 1884, was owned by Joseph C. Gaskill of Grand Manan. She was 22 feet in length, and her port of registry was Digby, N. S. There are Cleveland on Grand Manan.

Where the bottle was set adrift is not stated on the paper found inside of it, and how far it has travelled during its journey for thirty long years will always remain a mystery. As the schooner was a small one, she was doubtless somewhere in the Bay of Fundy when the bottle was cast.

A young man from Grand Manan told The Standard yesterday that he had a hazy recollection of some vessel from Grand Manan being lost with all hands, whose end had been one of the mysteries of the sea. But stories of ships sailing away and nothing being heard of them are the heritage of all communities having to do with the sea, and he could not say whether a vessel once owned by Joseph Gaskill had been lost in such a manner.

Motor Touring Season Started

Secretary of Montreal Automobile Association Receives Many Inquiries from Tourists Coming East—Many Are Also Expected from the States.

That the coming season is going to be a record breaker in every way, and that a larger number of motorists intend touring into Eastern Canada is already proved by the out-of-town inquiries for routes and road information that are being received by the secretary of the Montreal Automobile Association. During the past week a total of forty-five inquiries have been received by mail from all parts asking for touring information.

In addition to this, the officers of the Association are making strenuous efforts to make the membership reach the total of 2,000 this season, and judging by the present rate of applications this total will be easily reached.

The secretary of the New Brunswick Automobile Association is also receiving many requests for New Brunswick guides from different points in the States and Upper Canada.

The Provincial Department of Public Works are working on new guide books and maps, and as soon as these are ready they will be delivered to applicants.

ONE OF THE BEST BUSINESS SITES.
Property on Northeast Corner of Germain and King Streets Sold to A. N. McLean and W. B. Tennant on Behalf of Themselves and Others.

The property on the north-east corner of Germain and King streets, adjoining the Oak Hall, has been sold to A. N. McLean and W. B. Tennant on behalf of themselves and others. Interests connected with Scovill Bros. Limited, are in possession of this property which is now one of the best business sites in the city. The building is now occupied by Semi-Ready Limited and W. E. Ward. While no definite announcement has yet been made as to the intention of the new owners, it is understood that this property, which has been of late years the object of negotiations by banks and other outside corporations, will remain in the hands of the purchasers, and that future development will be looked for.

DEMONSTRATION OF FREE KINDERGARTEN.
A demonstration of Free Kindergarten work was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Marjorie McKim in Miss Mabel Peters' Free Kindergarten, Marsh Bridge. The room was prettily decorated with festoons of yellow, brown and green, representing springtime. A story was told in the circle about flowers and this gave the keynote for the day's work. Songs were sung about flowers, and then the children went to the tables for their gift lesson. At one table they made flower beds of different designs with the sticks of the eighth gift, and at another they formed flowers with rings. After a light lunch of biscuits, they played games, and then came back to the tables for occupation work. Some made flowers and leaves with clay, while others painted with crayon a flower garden. About thirty children were present and a large number of visitors.

Annual Meeting Held Yesterday

Directors and Officers of Home for Aged Females Received Reports and Elected Officers for Ensuing Term.

The annual meeting of the directors and officers of the Home for Aged Females was held yesterday afternoon at the Home, W. S. Fisher presiding. Reports of the year's work were presented and officers elected for the coming year. The financial report showed that there had been a deficit on the year's operations, due to the increase in the cost of maintenance, of between $600 and $1,000. For the last two years the income has not been large enough to meet the current expenses, and unless some friends of the Home come to the rescue the deficit will have to be made good out of capital account. During the war no appeal has been made on behalf of the institution, but any gifts from friends of the Home toward the wiping out of this deficit would be gladly received. The Home is filled to capacity at present and there are quite a few names on the waiting list.

The officers elected were: W. S. Fisher, president. Hon. J. E. Armstrong, acting secretary-treasurer. Board of directors—F. P. Starr, Dr. W. W. White, H. C. Rankins, C. H. Peto.

Ladies' board—Mrs. A. H. Hanington, president; Mrs. T. H. Estabrooks, Mrs. R. Reid, Mrs. W. S. Fisher, Miss C. Armstrong, Mrs. J. Robinson, Mrs. T. E. G. Armstrong, Mrs. W. C. Allison.

LaTour Apartments Change Hands.
This Well Known Building on North Side of King Square is Transferred to the Present Stockholders.

Today LaTour Apartments, on the north side of King Square, changes hands. A few years ago this building was purchased and remodelled by a local syndicate which included R. M. Rive, A. C. Jardine, C. H. McLean, A. J. Stocker, R. A. Taylor, Mr. F. G. Spencer and others, while Mr. H. A. Powell was largely interested as a holder of bonds. The apartment building has since been operated, at one time by the company directly and later under the personal control of Mr. Powell. Through the reorganization of the original company, which took place during the present week, Mr. Powell's interest has been transferred to the present stockholders, who include several of the original company. Mrs. Cooper, who has so capably managed the apartments for the past few years, will, it is understood, continue in charge.

M. R. A.'S SUBURBAN PARCEL DELIVERY SERVICE.
Owing to the difficulty of our out-of-town clients having their parcels delivered, we take this opportunity of announcing that early in June Manchester, Robertson, Allison, Limited propose inaugurating a suburban service to meet the existing situation. Further particulars concerning this innovation will be announced to the public in a few days.

The Skirt Department has a huge variety of smart Wash Skirts. Now that warm weather has come, and summer sports are in full swing, correct apparel is a very prominent question. Wash Skirts, light and a goodly supply of them are a distinct necessity, so here's a list, mentioning in brief some of the lines: White Pique Skirts, wide belts, novelty pockets, and button trimmed, shirred waistline, $1.15 to $2.00 each. Skirts of Gabardine ranging from $2.25 to $4.95 each. Some have plain, other butterfly belts, some open down the side, others in front, pockets are quite out of the ordinary in style. Splendid Skirts at moderate cost. Third Floor, Dylemans.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED.
In connection with the convention of the All-New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League, to be held in this city Tuesday and Wednesday, of next week, the interested public is cordially invited to attend the afternoon session in Imperial Theatre starting at 2:30, when a comprehensive exhibition of New Brunswick motion pictures will be screened and lectured. Free admission tickets may be secured at the N. B. Tourist Association rooms, corner Germain and Market streets, at Imperial and at E. A. Schofield, chairman.

SEATS REMAINING FOR GRAND OPERA PREMIERE.
About eight rows on the Orchestra floor remained at the closing hour last night for Monday's opening of the Boston English Opera Company in "Il Trovatore," and five rows in the first balcony. There are still choice box locations.

Clubs of ladies and gentlemen including a church choir, have bought a block of seats upstairs. There is a High School party for Monday evening also, on the Orchestra floor.

THE MYSTERIOUS WAYS OF

THE IVORY CHESS-BOARD

It was just the close of the fifth hour when the colony of Hong Kong and Sir William Rollins, head of the great English firm of Rollins and Co., Chemists and Druggists, was sitting in the little dining-room of the Church Hospital for Chinese. He was the guest for the hour of his old friend Dr. Bradlow, the surgeon, who had come out with him to the East just twenty years ago.

"Well, Doctor," he said, "how about the opium question? Are you still struggling with it as you were five years ago when I left the Colony and went home?"

"It is just about as bad as ever, sir," replied the surgeon in a spiteful tone. "The government restrictions and regulations, they seem to smother the vile stuff in and we get it in the Hospital all the time. The police and detectives do all they can to ferret the smugglers out, but what can you do when your own countrymen are the chief offenders? It's the foreign druggists that are really to blame, Sir Rollins, and—"

"—he looked toward his guest most significantly—"you'll pardon my saying it, but Rollins and Co. are no above suspicion."

"What! Do you mean to tell me that after all my efforts of years to banish opium from this community, my own firm are supposed to be actually selling it to the natives? Impossible! Not impossible at all; the illegal traffic is going on right under your very eyes, but you are not sharp enough to catch them. Why, only a few days ago I found a patient here taking some of your new cough-lozenges for his throat, and when I examined the package carefully, I was filled with the choicest and most expensive Perla opium. What do you say to that, eh?"

"What do I say? I row by all that I hold sacred that I will probe that thing to the very bottom, and the man that did it—be he Chinaman or European—shall not only be instantly discharged, but I will hand him over to the police without any mercy."

"I sincerely hope you will, sir, and not only hope so, but also redouble the good name of your firm; for my Chinese nurses tell me that there is always some way of getting it at your establishment, if they only know the secret, or have a 'pull' as the American doctors say."

"There was a grand shake-up in the leading drug-stores of Hong Kong the following day and the police made one of the cleverest hauls of opium that the papers had ever recorded. For a moment the trusted Portuguese clerk (in charge of the native department) somehow or other got wind of it and disappeared for parts unknown. Just before the officers reached his residence. Hundreds of dollars worth of the 'golden earth,' as the Chinese euphemistically call it, were covered under various disguises. Boxes of cough-lozenges, quinine, headache powders, tonic pills and a dozen other popular articles were found to have been carefully out, filled with opium and then resealed to avoid detection. The native staff were and native staff were summoned before the firm and given a lecture, accompanied with threats of dismissal, which ought to have been effective in forever preventing a dram of the poison from being sold over their counters. Sir Rollins received a flattering compliment for this in the press and was personally congratulated as a public benefactor, by His Excellency the Governor.

"In less than three weeks from the above occurrence, an anonymous letter, postmarked Canton, was laid upon Sir Rollins's plate at breakfast. The note was neatly open and read as follows: 'You have evidently, Sir, made most conscientious efforts to rid this community of the opium curse by trying to prevent the sale of it through your clerks, but the Missionaries of this district have positive evidence through their native converts that you have been thoroughly hood-winked and that the importation and sale of the drug is still going on, though in a way that you cannot detect. Consult the man of mystery' and perhaps he will throw a little light upon the subject."

Sir William Rollins was furious. He rose and paced the floor. He crumpled the letter up and threw it into the waste-basket and then, after a few moments' thought, picked it out again, smoothed it and placed it carefully in his wallet.

"Boy," he cried, "catch my chat-chop-chop, my wanchee go city-hai!"

Arrived at the city office, he sought a private interview with the Chief Inspector and laying the letter on his desk, said: "Well, what do you see and say about that?"

"The Inspector read it over slowly and carefully and, after a few moments' humming and hawing, replied: 'I rather imagine that the 'Wily One' is the only man in the Colony that can really get at the bottom of it. And who is this 'Wily One,' as you call him?'"

"Wong Foo, the mysterious. Haven't you heard of him?"

"Do you mean the native detective that recovered the Governor's jewels?"

"The name, but he wouldn't care to be known as a native detective. He is a gentleman of means who takes a special pleasure in ferreting out criminals in the interests of what he calls the Confucian standard of justice. He won't accept any pay—just does it for the sake of the cause. What a fool—and I must say that he is the cleverest one of his kind I ever came across."

"If you know where he lives, send him and ask him to do me the honor of dining with me at the Leung this very night."

White Gull Island and the Pass to Canton, and directly below them the great city and colony of Victoria, with its teeming population of Orient, and out in the middle of the harbor, the French flag-ship radiating with its hundreds of colored lanterns in honor of the 'Day of the Bastille.' They selected a quiet seat near the parapet and Wang Foo began: 'Sir William, I know full well why you have sent for me, and, ere we proceed to business and details, I want to tell you how much I and my Chinese fellow-citizens of the better class appreciate your earnest effort to rid this country of this burned drug that is sapping vitality. In the Book of the Great Learning the Master says: 'They who govern the people well learned first to control themselves.'

"Yes, but it has all been for the interests of 'Wu-Jen,' the 'Five Virtues,' Chang."

"Ah, then, the Master's time has been well spent."

Wang Foo closed and barred the upper doors, and lighting his little lamp, sat quietly down at his table and carefully unrolled the yellow paper from his sleeve. It contained just four lines of poetry—no heading, no name. It ran as follows:

"He who thinks and thinks aught, 'I will restore your spirits and make you feel quite young again.'"

"The price—for the smallest box?"

"Two silver coins of the smallest size." But, seeing the books the old teacher carried with him, he at once added: "For the students of the great Master's words, one coin will be quite enough."

"The old man slowly unwound his girdle and, producing the money, took the box of pills and, rising from his seat, bade them all 'good-day.'"

"May you heap up the mountains of riches," he said as he passed out.

"May a little of your light ever beam upon us! May the lucky stars guide you on your way!" they all replied.

"Two days after the above occurrence Wang Foo had his second interview with the head of Rollins and Co. and among other questions he asked was this:

"Sir William, has your firm any branch establishment whatever in the Colony?"

"None whatever."

"No other drug or medicine shop, then, has the permission or the right to use the sign of 'Lo Ling' or 'Green Forest'?"

"No, Sir, a thousand times no—that sign is registered at Government House and you know how the Chinese regard the stealing of a business sign."

"Yes, it is a most serious offence and in the native courts severely punished. They sometimes take away a man's business for all the rest of his life. You are quite positive you have no 'other store'?"

"Absolutely positive, Sir."

"The police know of none, then?"

"How should they? They have the strictest orders to arrest anyone, foreign or native, using the sign of 'Lo Ling.'"

"Sir William, I am going to say something that will surprise you—but I say it on the pledge of your strictest secrecy until this case is complete—I was in your 'other store' last night!"

"Was Wang Foo telling the truth? Was he really in the branch store of Rollins and Co. the night before? Was there such a place? That Wang Foo, the famous exposé of crime had really made such a visit no mortal knew except himself—but that the old scholar who judged slowly homeward from the long had taken a roundabout way through 'Ivory Alley'; that he had carefully scrutinized the sign of every ivory-carver in that narrow passage that he had finally found one where under the bright golden characters, it said, in a fainter color visible to the careless passer-by, 'Branch of the Green Forest for the special distribution of the Golden Pills;'"

And he had entered the shop and departed with a tiny packet of pills in his sleeve—and that on his return to his home he had carefully and minutely compared the contents with that of his afternoon purchase, and smiled a smile of intense satisfaction at the result—all this was most certainly true! And so, he took out of his secret drawer the yellow paper with its poetic message, he said to himself: 'I think I will just change this prose.' And this is how it read: 'Popples bloom in the open light,' became, 'Opium is being openly sold in the Colony;'"

The good ship 'Mandalay' of the British India Steam Navigation Company was plowing her way patiently homeward against the northeast monsoon and was late in Hong Kong very early the following morning. After the captain's dinner in the evening the passengers enjoyed a farewell concert in the fore-cabin. The chief musician contributed to the Sailors' Orphan Fund, and then went below to their cabins to finish their packing—at least the little crowd of "sonal souls" who adjourned to the smoking-room for a final supper.

Chief Engineer McIntosh and Mr. Alexander, of Boston, took comfortable seats in the corner to enjoy just one more game of chess and the latter placed the button and called the boys to bring the chess-board."

"Velly volly was the Celestial's answer, 'ship chess-board go smokes and rollies you wanchee, my cap-bow Compladore. He gotties velly nice piece, all ivory.'"

"All right, bring it along."

The boy reappeared in a few moments with a large and handsome board of inlaid ivory and a box containing an exquisitely carved set of chessmen of the same material. The Chief and the passenger played until eight bells announced the midnight hour and then rang for the boy to return the chessmen to the storeroom. "Compladore go sleepie just now," was the announcement; "he takes you can puttee that board 'yar think side, he boy come hotel catchie to-morrow, can do."

Mr. Hartwell was quite agreeable to the suggestion. He took the chessmen carefully away but he kept the hotel in the morning and, sure enough, the smoking-room boy called for the board in the afternoon.

"Now all the world have been quite natural and beyond a possibility of ulterior motive if the Chief, who was talking with Mr. Hartwell, hadn't happened to remark: 'That's twenty times I've made with that boy and every day of my life.'"

"It is the greatest tonic of the age, Venerable Elder-brother," he answered; "I will restore your spirits and make you feel quite young again."

In England you say, 'The very walls have ears,' but in China it's scarcely uttered when down the Japanese screen by the pantry door and out sprawled the house-boy.

How true this is! Without self-control, how can we hope for genuine progress in any race? You and I are working together for the moral uplift of my people—we must look upon opium as our deadly foe.

"It is alas, England's national disgrace that she forces it on you. Every Christian man in the Empire realizes that now and feels the humiliation of it as he looks on."

"That is past history now, sir, and much as we regret it, we have to face the problem of the present. China is growing much of her own opium now and will grow much more if the United States market is cut off. I take more than a usual interest in tracing out this case, because of the high moral issue that is involved."

So they talked and talked, far into the night. The merchant told all he knew and Wang, gently but pointedly, piled him with questions, the answers to many of which went into the little leather note-book. The outcome of it all was simply this: a steady stream of opium was flowing into the Chinese quarter and Rollins and Co. were supposed to be the means of it. Yet the most careful scrutiny on the part of the firm and the closest watching on the part of the police and authorities failed to discover any clue to the guilty parties. They rose and started back, for the last tram-car for the night was ascending the incline. Suddenly, without a sound of warning, a smooth, round stone fell directly out of the sky and struck Sir William on the shoulder. He started with a cry—more of surprise than actual pain.

"Some mischief is attacking us. Who and what can it be at this hour of the night?" he said.

Wang stopped and his keen eyes searched the entire terrace. "There is no one here, Sir, it probably is some playful fall from the sky. I hope you are not hurt."

"No, not at all, just frightened for a moment, that is all."

The detective stooped to pick the missile up and, as he did so, noticed with his surprise that it had wrapped around it a bit of yellow paper. It had written on it: 'Before his host could see what he was doing, he slipped the paper into the sleeve of his silken jacket and tossed the stone unconcernedly away.'

It is the greatest tonic of the age, Venerable Elder-brother," he answered; "I will restore your spirits and make you feel quite young again."

"The price—for the smallest box?"

"Two silver coins of the smallest size." But, seeing the books the old teacher carried with him, he at once added: "For the students of the great Master's words, one coin will be quite enough."

"The old man slowly unwound his girdle and, producing the money, took the box of pills and, rising from his seat, bade them all 'good-day.'"

"May you heap up the mountains of riches," he said as he passed out.

lita. You are quite positive you have no 'other store'?"

"Absolutely positive, Sir."

"The police know of none, then?"

"How should they? They have the strictest orders to arrest anyone, foreign or native, using the sign of 'Lo Ling.'"

"Sir William, I am going to say something that will surprise you—but I say it on the pledge of your strictest secrecy until this case is complete—I was in your 'other store' last night!"

"Was Wang Foo telling the truth? Was he really in the branch store of Rollins and Co. the night before? Was there such a place? That Wang Foo, the famous exposé of crime had really made such a visit no mortal knew except himself—but that the old scholar who judged slowly homeward from the long had taken a roundabout way through 'Ivory Alley'; that he had carefully scrutinized the sign of every ivory-carver in that narrow passage that he had finally found one where under the bright golden characters, it said, in a fainter color visible to the careless passer-by, 'Branch of the Green Forest for the special distribution of the Golden Pills;'"

And he had entered the shop and departed with a tiny packet of pills in his sleeve—and that on his return to his home he had carefully and minutely compared the contents with that of his afternoon purchase, and smiled a smile of intense satisfaction at the result—all this was most certainly true! And so, he took out of his secret drawer the yellow paper with its poetic message, he said to himself: 'I think I will just change this prose.' And this is how it read: 'Popples bloom in the open light,' became, 'Opium is being openly sold in the Colony;'"

The good ship 'Mandalay' of the British India Steam Navigation Company was plowing her way patiently homeward against the northeast monsoon and was late in Hong Kong very early the following morning. After the captain's dinner in the evening the passengers enjoyed a farewell concert in the fore-cabin. The chief musician contributed to the Sailors' Orphan Fund, and then went below to their cabins to finish their packing—at least the little crowd of "sonal souls" who adjourned to the smoking-room for a final supper.

Chief Engineer McIntosh and Mr. Alexander, of Boston, took comfortable seats in the corner to enjoy just one more game of chess and the latter placed the button and called the boys to bring the chess-board."

"Velly volly was the Celestial's answer, 'ship chess-board go smokes and rollies you wanchee, my cap-bow Compladore. He gotties velly nice piece, all ivory.'"

"All right, bring it along."

The boy reappeared in a few moments with a large and handsome board of inlaid ivory and a box containing an exquisitely carved set of chessmen of the same material. The Chief and the passenger played until eight bells announced the midnight hour and then rang for the boy to return the chessmen to the storeroom. "Compladore go sleepie just now," was the announcement; "he takes you can puttee that board 'yar think side, he boy come hotel catchie to-morrow, can do."

Mr. Hartwell was quite agreeable to the suggestion. He took the chessmen carefully away but he kept the hotel in the morning and, sure enough, the smoking-room boy called for the board in the afternoon.

"Now all the world have been quite natural and beyond a possibility of ulterior motive if the Chief, who was talking with Mr. Hartwell, hadn't happened to remark: 'That's twenty times I've made with that boy and every day of my life.'"

"It is the greatest tonic of the age, Venerable Elder-brother," he answered; "I will restore your spirits and make you feel quite young again."

"The price—for the smallest box?"

"Two silver coins of the smallest size." But, seeing the books the old teacher carried with him, he at once added: "For the students of the great Master's words, one coin will be quite enough."

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

constipated children can find prompt relief through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are mild but powerful laxative which never fail to relieve the bowels and stomach, thus ending out constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers. Containing them Mrs. Gaspard Dalgic, in, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have been of great benefit to my little boy, who was suffering from constipation and indigestion. They quickly relieved him and now he is healthy and contented." The Tablets are available by medicine dealers or by mail in a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GAGETOWN

Gagetown, May 28.—Sergt. Alfred Ashburne, M. S. M., is another soldier from Gagetown to win distinction overseas. Over a year ago he was awarded the Meritorious Service Medal, which implies a long period of constant good work; and it has only been since his return last fall that award was made known to his friends. Sergt. Ashburne is a seasoned veteran, who has never been sick or wounded, and has never missed a day's fighting, except when on leave. He enlisted in November, 1914, with the "Old 5th Mounted," and on going to France, was sent to the 1st West-ern Ontario Battalion, with which he served until last year, when he was transferred to the 1st Divisional Salvage Company. To be a member of the 1st Battalion implies some heavy fighting and Ashburne came through some of the leading battles of the war. Sergt. Ashburne came here from his land about ten years ago, and was employed with Reid Brothers Lumber Company at the time of his enlistment. His brother, Pta. Richard Ashburne was killed in action in 1917, and on the day the Armistice was signed, his sister's husband was reported missing and has since been presumed dead. At present, Sergt. Ashburne is staying at Upper Hampton with Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKelvie.

The Women's Institute, which has been endeavoring to raise funds for various forms of town improvement, recently purchased a piano, which will be a valuable addition to entertainments and other affairs held in the town. The piano, which arrived from Fredericton last week, was used for the first time at the War Veterans' Dinner.

Weather cold enough to belong to March has prevailed during the past two or three days, and the rain fall which began on Sunday, has been very heavy. However, what has brought discouragement to the farmers, has been just the thing for the lumbermen, and many thousands of feet of lumber, which have been held up in the streams are now coming out with a rush.

Many friends here were interested to learn of the arrival at his home in Hampton of Lieut. Curtis L. Hicks, R. A. F., who was formerly on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Lieut. A. H. Seely, late of the "Aviation," John A. Olive of St. John, and Fred Bray of West St. John, were guests for a few days last week of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dunn and enjoyed a camping trip to the Otinabou.

Sergt. H. Smith of the 6th C. M. R. and Gunner R. Smith of the 8th Battery, who have recently returned to Moncton, from their service overseas, spent the week-end with Morris Scovill and Miss Scovill at Meadowlands.

Sergt. F. A. Moore returned on Monday from spending a few days in St. John.

Pta. Joseph Carruthers of the 26th Battalion, who returned last week, to Fredericton, last year from the famous Burgomaster Max, who shook hands with him and congratulated him on his athletic record. Private Carruthers received two medals for athletics while overseas.

A. B. Belyea and Gerald Hawkins of Fredericton, came down on Saturday morning to spend a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Belyea.

On Saturday evening a very enjoyable little dance was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Reid for the pleasure of the returned men and other visitors in town for the holiday.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Reid, Mrs. G. P. Rigby, Miss Marian Casswell, Miss Frances Casswell, Miss Elizabeth Scovill, Miss Annie Dickie, Miss Gladys Dickie, Miss Brown, St. John, Miss Molly O'Leary, Messrs. H. W. S. Allingham, F. H. DuVerne, E. A. Dickie, H. Smith, R. Smith, Moncton, A. B. Belyea, Gerald Hawkins, Fredericton, Chas. H. Jones, R. B. Pincorne, R. P. Scovill, William Fox, A. B. Dingee, Fraser H. Fox.

The Countess of Ashburnham, Marion Lindsay of the Military Hospital, Mrs. A. G. Robinson and Miss Florence Robinson motored from Fredericton for the holiday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Rigby.

Miss Elizabeth Scovill of the Military Hospital, St. John, spent Sunday at her home in Meadowlands.

Miss Junetta Bulyea, who has finished a very successful business course at Mount Allison, Sackville, returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. George Moore and little son of St. John, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Moore this week.

Miss Gladys Gregory, B. A., and Miss Grace Smith of the Gagetown School staff, were at their respective homes in Fredericton and Devon for the holiday.

Many friends here were interested to learn of the engagement of Miss Olive Betham Kelly, daughter of Mr. Harold W. Chase of Oak Bluffs, Mass., to Mark Hollingsworth Mayhew, also of Oak Bluffs.

Miss Eleanor Palmer returned on Saturday from Mt. Allison University to spend the summer with her aunt, the Misses Palmer.

Mrs. F. L. Robinson has returned from a week's visit to St. John. H. E. Harrison and son, C. F. Harrison, were here by motor boat from Fredericton, on Tuesday.

C. R. Syphax of Cookshire, Que., was a guest at Gray Gables last week. On Sunday morning, at St. John's Church, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. McKague, was baptised, receiving the name Edith Florence. The sponsors were her parents and Mrs. T. D. Sharpe.

R. S. John Fries of Sussex, and Daniel Mullin, K. C., of St. John, were here last week for the May session of court. The case of Frank Akerley of Wickham, which has been under consideration since last year, was dismissed.

SHEDIAC

Shediac, N. B., May 29.—The annual entertainment in connection with Empire Day took place in the Assembly Hall of the Central School and on this occasion as for some years past, the pupils, especially the smaller ones, greatly delighted all present by their excellent rendition of musical and literary selections and the information they gave concerning the vast Empire of which we have even greater reason to be proud of today, than ever before. In true patriotic adoration the hall had been made very attractive, for the day and as the young performers came before their audience they met with hearty applause and responded to a number of encores. Mr. H. B. Stoves, principal of the schools, acted as chairman, Miss D. Brea and Miss Anna Avarid presided at the piano. In his introductory remarks, Mr. Stoves made special mention of the honor roll which held a prominent place on the wall, and which contained a large number of names from all parts of Canada, boys who at some time had attended the school and who, when the call came to arms had nobly responded to it in freedom's cause and served their King and Empire. Mr. Stoves spoke the pleasure he had in seeing some of the returned boys in the audience. He referred to those who would not return, but who had fought the fight and made the supreme sacrifice. Among those the latter was Ivor Murray; one time a pupil of the school, and among the first of our boys to enlist. Mr. Stoves paid a worthy tribute to his memory. Among those present called upon to address the pupils was Rev. Mr. Tomlin. His remarks were listened to with pleasure. He spoke of good citizenship and those traits of character in individuals so necessary to the building up of a great nation, such as Canada, was destined to be. If the girls and boys nobly did their duty Dr. Sorman also spoke a few words on this occasion, highly appropriate to the occasion. He spoke of what a grand privilege we had in being citizens under the British flag. After closing with the National Anthem, Mr. Stoves invited all present to assemble on the school grounds. The happy occasion was a few appropriate remarks, the singing of Rule Britannia and the raising amid hearty cheers of the new school flag, "Long may it wave, our boast our pride."

Miss Audrey Perry of Moncton, was the week-end guest of her friend, Miss Margaret Murray.

Miss Crosby of P. E. Island, is a visitor at the home of Mrs. R. C. McAllister spent the week-end at her home in Dorchester.

Miss Ward spent Sunday at her home in Sackville.

Mrs. A. J. Webster has returned from a pleasant visit to Sackville.

Rev. Dr. Weddall was recently on P. E. Island to attend the funeral of the late Mr. C. W. Strong.

Mr. C. Langstroth, Hampton, recently visited his friend, Mr. Allan Tait.

Mr. and Mrs. Avarid White and Miss B. Wortman, motored to Moncton during the week.

Victoria Day was quietly observed. Weather conditions were ideal, and a large number of motorists came to the seaside for the holiday. A few summer cottage people came to Shediac and the Point to fix up their homes preparatory to coming to occupy them in the near future.

Mrs. Devar of Pepperell, Mrs. Oulton of Fitchburg, Mass., and Messrs. A. Copp of Minnesota and M. Copp of Pepperell, Mass., who recently came home from the States to be present at the funeral of their mother, the late Mrs. C. H. Copp of Lake Umbagog, have been guests for some days of their sister, Mrs. Woodford Avarid.

Among pupils home from Mount Allison upon their vacation are Messrs. Robert Webster and Reginald Murray and Miss Marjorie McQueen.

Mr. John Webster, son of Dr. Webster, is home from McGill for the holidays.

Mr. Ernest Dolron, late of overseas, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Dolron, has opened a law office in Chatham.

Mr. J. J. Belliveau and his brother, Louis, are one of our promising young men and his many friends here wish him every success.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Willett of Moncton, spent the week-end with their son, Lieut. Sidney Willett and daughter, Mrs. C. L. Hamilton at the latter's summer home at Shediac Cape.

Mrs. Lena Bray was in Moncton on Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will meet this week with Mrs. W. H. Weddall at the Methodist parsonage.

APOHAQUI

Apohaqui, May 29.—The delightful weather by which Victoria Day was ushered in, proved a stimulus toward outdoor pleasures. Many friends from the neighboring towns and cities motored to the village for the holiday, while a considerable number of the local residents sought pleasure elsewhere. None of the trout streams and lakes in the vicinity were alighted each having their quota of visitors. Good catches were reported from many places throughout this county of Kings, which is famed for its numerous trout lakes, that have been a "mecca" for anglers throughout streams and lakes, that have ever been.
Major H. S. Jones, with Mrs. Jones and their sons, Master Horber and Claire Jones, spent the holiday at the lake, owned by the Apohaqui Fishing Club, and succeeded in landing some beautiful specimens of the speckled species, which had been deposited in the lake in their infancy.
Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Parlee and H. Lorne Parlee, of Hampton, and Miss Catherine Robinson, of St. John, motored from the Shiretown on Victoria day and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burley S. Jones. Other holiday guests whom Mr. and Mrs. Jones had the pleasure of entertaining, were Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Burgess, Miss Kathleen Burgess and C. A. Burgess, of Moncton, accompanied by H. J. Johnson, of Sackville, which made up a party who enjoyed the journey by automobile from the railway city.
Miss Ethel Wright, Miss Joan Burgess and Mr. H. L. Wright, of Fredericton, were weekend and holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wright. The Misses Pauline Eth and Ethel Jones, who are employed as stenographers in the city, enjoyed the holiday at their homes in the village.
Masters Ward Jones and Eldon Lockhart spent the holiday at Jack's Lake, and returned the proud possessors of five dozen good sized trout.
Mr. W. E. Moore of Point Wolfe, motored here for the holiday and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Conolly. Mrs. Moore and baby Donald, who have been spending a week here with Mrs. Moore's parents, returned home with her husband, and was accompanied by her sister, Miss Greta Connelly, who will spend a few weeks at the shore.

Mrs. H. S. Jones and daughter, Marjorie, were visitors to St. John on Wednesday.
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Secord spent Sunday at Bellefleur, guest of Mrs. J. N. Secord.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING Of Your Child--MUST BEGIN AT HOME

If You Wish To Give Your Child a Square Deal and Help It To Make Success in Life. You must start early at home, from the time that your child begins to ask questions, which shows its natural desire to learn; encourage it to take an interest in everything about it, help it to understand what it wishes to know, direct its thoughts and desire for useful information. This early training will help your child to later take a greater interest in School Work, it will make learning easy and more interesting. Knowledge acquired through early home training will create in your child confidence in itself, which will help to make it a leader in Class work, this feeling of confidence will grow greater, and some years later your child of today will undertake to fill with credit some excellent responsible position.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE THE CHILDREN'S ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Has solved the great problem of Home Education—it helps parents whose own early education has been defective—it answers every question that a child will ask—it helps parents to give to their child the most reliable information about everything that it wants to know—written in language that the youngest child can understand. The Book of Knowledge has been compiled by experts who understand child life, what appeals to their imagination and the best method of imparting knowledge to them in a way that is interesting and in language easily understood. The Book of Knowledge is divided into sixteen great departments, all handled by experts from the kindergarten age up to the more advanced stage of educational interests, including studies in Nature, Science, History, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Poetry, Literature, Manual Training, Biography. When the work of compiling this vast store of information had been accomplished, there were added over 10,000 Educational Pictures, this was done for the purpose of explaining the different subjects, and so as to give the children a double chance to understand and remember, through their eyes what they had seen in the pictures.

HOW THE BRITISH NAVY IS WATCHED FROM A TABLE 1,500 MILES AWAY

You will note the Map on the table in the Admiralty Office in Whitehall, London, showing the position of the Naval Ships, and how by means of Wireless Telegraphy the Officials are able to communicate with the different ships though they are hundreds of miles away. This is only one of the thousands of educational pictures included in the Book of Knowledge. Each picture tells a story or illustrates a fact in a way that can never be forgotten. This new method of educating has appealed to the greatest men and women interested in education in every country. It furnished a long-felt want as a connecting link between the home and the school. It creates in the child a taste for good reading, and diverts the attention from trashy, unsound literature. It helps to determine the natural vocation of the child, whether for art, science, literature, trade or mechanics. The Book of Knowledge has been a huge success. It is the greatest publication of its kind. It has been awarded the Gold Medal and the Medal of Honor for its Educational Features. The universal demand is so great that it has been translated into five different languages. It is finding a sale in the remotest part of the world. It is approved of by followers of every religious thought, Catholic and Protestant alike, all are equally enthusiastic in its praise.

Thousands of sets have been installed in Colleges, Schools, Universities and Libraries. At the present time it is in use in over 600,000 homes. Every parent who loves his child, wishes to train its mind and direct its thoughts so as to put it on the right road to make a success, should have the Book of Knowledge in the home. Be guided by the opinions of those experts on education whose lives are devoted to the care and best interests of the children. You may depend that their opinions are well worth considering. You live for your child, you work for your child, you want to give your child the best means to lead it on to become educated, so as to be able to fill with credit some of the many good positions waiting for it in prosperous Canada. Mail the Coupon and we will send you free of charge one of our 80-page Booklets giving full particulars of what is contained in the different departments of the Book of Knowledge. It will explain the use and meaning of the work for the development of the mind of your child.

FREE COUPON To Mr. M. D. Dawson, Representative The Grolier Society of London. Box 234, Post Office, St. John, N. B. Please mail descriptive Booklet containing a little talk on the different departments in The Book of Knowledge explaining the use and meaning of the work for the mind of a child. Answers To Letters

Dear Kiddies:— After such a long chat last week I must try to be brief this time. I hope that every one of our members was out in the country for the 24th and I also hope that you all had some fireworks to celebrate the day in the old fashioned way. Perhaps you know that during the war not very many fireworks were made so that the last few years the holiday was just about like other holidays—without the noisy noise. Now it will be easier to get them and they do give little folks such a lot of pleasure. Of course before playing with them at all boys and girls should be taught how dangerous they can be when not properly handled, but very harmless when a few rules are obeyed. Most of the accidents occur from kiddies picking them up too soon after they go off, or perhaps when they have time enough to explode, then I have seen so many standing over them just after they have been lighted and of course that is a very bad habit. I hope you will be careful and to be always on the safe side, throw them away from you as soon as they start to catch from the match and then do not be impatient if they do not immediately explode, for some take longer than others and some will fool you by making a buzzing sound as if that was all the racket they intended to make, whereas that is usually just introduction or warning of a greater noise soon to follow. These bits of advice will be in good time for any left over or for the next public holiday.

ANNA AIRD—Your very nicely written letter was a pleasure to read. Sorry the Signs of Spring were so late appearing where you live. Indeed, fishing is real good sport, especially when you have luck, and I hope you will have lots of pleasure when water in the brooks is lower. IRENE CASSIDY, Newcastle—We give you a sincere welcome to our Club and trust you will contribute as well as receive much pleasure from it. MILNER STODDARD, Beaufort—It is really lovely to have Spring again and I am sure the country must look lovely now. What a pretty sight it must be to see the dew coming out of the woods in numbers. Are there such refined looking animals and age pretty to watch, but I always wished they would let me pat them, don't you?

GERTRUDE STODDARD—That was a nice little letter, which you sent me, and I hope you will watch and protect the robin's nest. Isn't it lovely to play out of doors after being shut in during the cold and wet weather. Always glad to hear from you. DONALD AIRD—The dot puzzle and moving pictures on our page are just for little boys and girls to enjoy and indeed some of the older members say they enjoy them too. Peanut is a funny name for a calf. THELMA C. FOUNTAIN, Cumming's Cove—You certainly have room for you in the Corner, as members are always dropping out after celebrating their sixteenth birthday. Am glad you have enjoyed our page so much. You have sent me the best garden report up to date and I hope all your flowers will mature. All members or other friends may contribute to our page such as puzzles, stories and suggestions.

MARGARET, WILHELM AND RUTH PIERCE—Your thanks for the prizes awarded in our Contest were the first to arrive and it is comforting to know you are all so appreciative. As this is the gardening time I know that it must be attended to, so will hope to hear from you when not quite so busy. GORDON AND JOHNNIE LEYDON—We all give you both a welcome to our Corner and hope you will enjoy belonging to us. Having sent all the necessary information you are now enrolled and any puzzles, stories or suggestions which you may care to send in to add to the pleasure and interest of the page will be used if worthy.

The Lonely Redbird (By Harriet Ives.) Annie May was very happy when her father bought a new home. She found many large rooms to play in, and wide spaces in which to run and skip. Lots of the old trees, and many pretty flowers were to be found on the place. A mocking bird nested in an old tree, while the blue jays chattered and many other birds were at home on the grounds.

THE OVEN BIRD. This bird is to be found in the dry woodland. He builds his nest of dead leaves on the ground, in shape of a dome. The side entrance suggests an open oven. This undoubtedly is the source from which he derived his quaint name.

NEW MEMBERS. We accept the following new friends as members of our Club and trust they will all add to the interest of our page, as well as receive much pleasure from it: Irene Cassidy, Newcastle, age 10 years. Laura Waddell, Moss Glen. Gordon Lyon, Goshen, age 14 years. Johnnie Lydon, Goshen, age 12 years. Thelma C. Fountain, Cumming's Cove, Deer Isle, age 12 years.

Good Night Stories

DAVID VISITS THE BLUEBEARD OF BIRDLAND.

There was a rattle in the tall weeds at the side of the road. Out flew a pretty gray and brown bird, who sailed to the top of a thorn tree just in front of David. "Now what kind of a bird is that I'd like to know!" exclaimed David out loud. "Looked something like a robin, only he didn't have on his red vest. I wish I could catch him."

Before David could finish his sentence a gray little laugh greeted him, and his little old friend, Happy Giggles, from Mabelville Land, hopped up beside him. "You see, all you have to do is wish, and I'm here!" he laughed merrily. "Thought Butcher Bird was Mr. Robin, did you, David? No, indeed, their habits are not at all the same, although Butcher Bird is about the same size, and at first glance they may look a little alike."

"Well, it certainly looks like it!" laughed David as he glanced around at the dead beetles, bees, spiders and two tiny birds of all sizes that he watched him eagerly as he flew from tree to tree. Sometimes he could sit in the old cedar tree near the house and give out his keen, whistling call. Annie May would often sit on the great open porch with her dolls, and sometimes the redbird would fly from the cause of folks having handled her eggs, she always knows even though a little distance away and perhaps out of sight, but she can tell whenever she returns, so be sure that you are all very careful about this and I want you to tell me in your letters just how many nests you and your friends during the summer and my help you to know the different kinds.

Quantity strikes the eye at once. It is told that a certain king ordered his treasurer to give an artist a thousand pounds for some work which his faithful minister knew would be most liberally paid for with half that sum. The treasurer therefore gave instructions to have five hundred pounds laid on a table in a room which he knew that his majesty would pass through with him.

TWO BOYS AND TWO DOGS

"John look at my rope," called Harold, running up to his friend. "It's awfully strong. We won't lose our dog this time." "That's nothing," returned John, as he began to pull a short, stout piece of rope from one of his coat pockets. "My!" exclaimed Harold. "Who gave it to you?"

"My brother," answered John, with pride. "He gives me most anything I ask him for." "Did he ask you what you wanted to do with it, but not to lose it, because he wants it back. Who gave you yours, Harold?"

"I found mine down cellar," answered Harold. "We can catch two dogs now, can't we? We'll bring them home and feed them and then they'll want to go with us. They're ours, because we found them, and one will be yours and the other will be mine. Won't it be grand?"

"I'm not going to put any rope on him. He knows he's my dog now." "My dog's licking my hand, so I'm not going to put any rope on him. He knows he's my dog now." "I guess he doesn't need a rope, either." "I'll untie it and soon caught up with Harold.

The Responses to Kindness. An Englishman in charge of fifty mules, sent to the front untrained and more or less wild, writes home: "I have never allowed a switch to be used, or a mule to be hardly treated by beating, nor have I allowed them to be put in stocks when being shod. Kindness has paid in a wonderful way. Our mules let us do what we like with them. There are still one or two timid ones, but we have no difficulty in harnessing, shoeing, or handling, and they are the most willing and sensible of beasts, except when they are up against a load which cannot move, and in that case they jib. They have no disease of any kind. Indeed, I was congratulated the other day on having the best-conditioned mules in the division, not a poor one amongst them."

A Wise Precaution. A country minister, was driving a spirited horse through a village in the winter territory through which his duties took him, when he overtook the local physician, who happened to be on foot. "Jump in, doctor!" he said, pulling up, "I got a horse here that goes pretty well."

Two Little Old Ladies. Two little old ladies, one grave, one gay, in the self-same cottage lived day by day. One could not be happy, "because," she said, "So many children were hungry for bread, and she really had not the heart to smile, when the world was so wicked all the while."

Good and Bad. Good people can be easily understood and bad people than these can understand the good. "You seem to be very fond of jazz music," "Yes, I've been through it—officer's cook for two years—wounded twice." "Tommy (tasting the soup)—"You're lucky, mate. It's a wonder they didn't kill you."—London Opinion.

Proprietor (Just demobilized)—"Yes, I've been through it—officer's cook for two years—wounded twice." "Tommy (tasting the soup)—"You're lucky, mate. It's a wonder they didn't kill you."—London Opinion.

"I intended to give ten dollars apiece reward," said the owner. "Now, do you want to keep the dogs?" "The boys answered, "Yes," without a moment's hesitation. "It's a bargain," said the man, heartily enjoying the boys' choice. "I know that you really like dogs now, and will take the best of care of them. You may be able to take better care of them than my men do, as they have about fifty of my dogs to look after. You must come to see them and bring these puppies along with you. I'm glad the puppies fell into such good hands, and I'm not going to take them away. Now, I'll have to go, but don't forget to come to see me, before long, or I may send after the dogs."

"Pat" said the excise officer, "I'll give you two shillings if you'll take me to a private still." Pat agreed, pocketed the money and off they started. For many weary miles, over mountain bog and moor they tramped, until they came into view of a bar-ack. Pointing to a soldier seated on a step inside the square, Pat said, "There he is, sir, me brother Mike; he's a sceler for the years he's a private still."

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES. 1.—Fire-crackers. 2.—Bird Riddles. Swallow, Crane, Lark, Weaver, Bunting, Kite. 3.—Enigma. Glue. 4.—Words Filled in Are: Bare bear, bear. Pair, pare, pear. Right, write, rite. Reign, rein, rain. Do, due, dew.

THE OLD WITCH. Two little children went into the woods. To search for food one day. They wandered far away from home, And soon they lost their way.

Along came Mr. Sandman. And into their eyes he threw A lot of sand, and the two little boys Fell fast asleep—wouldn't you? And when the sunbeams woke them, What do you think they spied? A fairy house, made of sugar and cake So of course the door they tried.

"Who raps at my door?" called the witch from within. And the little children replied, "The wind, the wind, the great North Wind. Your sugar and cake he has tried."

The house of sugar and cake was so good That the children ate more and more. When out glides the witch, and what do you think? She purses them right through the door. And first she kindles a great big fire. Then she rides on her broom around As she chatters and gossips, for she thinks all the time, "What a good morsel she has found."

She says to the boy, "put out your hand. I will see if you're well fed." But the little child gives him a squint. And shows her a stick instead.

And then she says to the little girl, "Do you know what I want you to do? Creep into my stove, so that you can see if my honey cakes are through?" "But you must show me how," says the girl. "In a stove I have never been. And the witch bends over to show her how. And she pushes the old witch in. And then she slams the iron door, And the old witch cannot flee. And the flames they crackle and burn and roar. As the children laugh with glee.

Soon the old stove falls to pieces. And standing in a row. Are beautiful little children. Who were caked before you know. Now they laugh, and all made merry. And the sugar house they take. And what do you think has become of the witch? She has burned into a horry cake! "Pat" said the excise officer, "I'll give you two shillings if you'll take me to a private still." Pat agreed, pocketed the money and off they started.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck.

Pimples are a sure sign that the blood is not in its proper shape. While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood. Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned. Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles, because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack. Miss E. M. Davidson, Daysland, Alta., writes:—"Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles, the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles." B. B. B. is manufactured only by The T. M. M. Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NURSES KILLED

Three American Nurses at Chateau Thierry Lost Lives in Auto Accident.

Paris, May 30.—Three nurses attached to the American expeditionary force were killed Sunday in an automobile accident at Chateau Thierry, it became known today. The nurses were Florence Graham, of New York; Elda Delta and Eliza Hagdorne, of Florida, N. Y. Miss Graham was the head nurse at Camp Hospital No. four. Attempting to avoid a bicycle, the automobile in which the nurses were riding skidded and turned over down a steep embankment. Florence Graham, of New York City, one of the three nurses killed in an automobile accident at Chateau Thierry, was engaged with the army nurse corps base hospital No. 2. Her next of kin is W. H. Graham, of 11 Waverley street, Ottawa, Ont.

"TIZ"—A JOY TO SORE, TIRED FEET

Use "TIZ" for itching, burning, puffed-up feet, and corns or callouses.

Good-bye, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, tender feet, tired feet. Good-bye, corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or crawling up your face in agony. "TIZ" is magical, acts right off. "TIZ" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. Use "TIZ" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel. Get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" now at any drugist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

Dr. Wilson's HERBINE BITTERS

This splendid blood medicine—made of old fashioned herbs—gives the system a regular "spring house-cleaning," regulates liver and bowels—cleanses the blood of all poisonous matters—tones up the nerves—and gives strength, vigor and a feeling of good cheer to the whole system. The Brayley Drug Company, Limited, At most stores, 35c a bottle; Family size, five times as large, $1. St. John, N. B.

Tightens Her Skin—Loses Her Wrinkles

"I want to tell you how easily I got rid of my wrinkles," writes Luella Marsh. "While in London, I tried many remedies for my youthful looks, gave me a formula for a 'home' remedy, which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows. The principal ingredient is powdered geraniol, which can be had at drug stores here. An ounce of geraniol, mixed with a half pint of water, gave me the result I want. I am now so much younger, and the skin is so smooth and soft. I am so glad to have found a remedy which has done so much for me. I have been similarly helped, one lady writes, whose cheeks had become quite haggard and lined."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

—The International Sunday School Lesson for June 1 is, "Faith; What It Is and What It Does."—Hebrews 11:1-9; 12:1, 2.

(By William T. Ellis) Out here in Egypt, by the pyramids and the palm-wood trees are natural. Five thousand years of recorded history peer rather cynically over a man's shoulders as he writes. The sardonic curl of the sneeze, lower lip of the Sphinx seems thrust out at him in derision. The mummies of the pharaohs out in the museum, suggestive of huge dried fish, bear witness to certain truths. In Egypt the insistent past everywhere presses upon the reshaping present. Everything illustrates the current lesson that "Faith is the victory."

A living palm has more power than a dead pyramid. These mighty and mysterious structures, up and into and around which the traveller may climb, are a permanent reminder of the futility of mere might and earthly glory. Scholars are not entirely certain who built the Great Pyramid—though it was erected to insure its builder's immortality. The pyramids are in more ways than one reminders of the dead. As sepulchres they have been failures, for long centuries ago, so far back as the Roman era, the Arabs robbed them of their mummies and their treasures. Proud pharaohs, who wasted the labor and lives of myriads of slaves upon these marvellous, though futile structures, thought that their power and magnificence were so great that they could defy even time and death.

A Baby and the Pyramids. Down near old Memphis, which is now a ruin, as Jeremiah predicted—there was born a poor man's son who grew to manhood within sight of the pyramids. He himself was saved from arbitrary death in infancy only by a stratagem of mother love. Child of a slave of a despised race, Moses nevertheless became greater than all the builders of the pyramids; and while archaeologists are still busily delving and digging to discover who was who in Egypt's illustrious line of pharaohs, this man of today is today coming to increasing power all over the earth.

An imaginative and informed preacher could build a great sermon upon the contrasted power and permanency of spiritual ideals as opposed to material might and temporal magnificence—Moses versus the pyramids. Abraham versus Babylon. Jesus versus the Roman Empire, and so forth. Although it is the most arrogant thing in the world, mere physical force is likewise the most futile. Armies and guns have never prevailed permanently against an idea.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.

Let your religion make you more considerate, more loving and attractive, more able to think of and enter into the pleasure and interests of others.—Bishop Hall. If all our wishes were gratified, most of our pleasures would be destroyed.—Arohlahop Whately. There is no friend like an old friend. Who has shared our morning days. No greetings like his welcome, No homage like his praise.—Oliver Wendell Holmes. When God calls you, be ready to go, and if you haven't courage ask God to give it to you, and he will.—D. L. Moody.

Be perfected; be comforted; be of the same mind; live in peace and the God of love and peace shall be with you.—II Cor. 13:11.

He's true to God whose true to man; wherever wrong is done, To the humblest and the weakest 'neath the all-beholding Sun.—Lowell. I do not know but that, if we were fully the Lord's, the greater part of the good we did would be that of which we were not cognizant. Service would overflow from us.—A. J. Gordon. Be on time at Moonpath Park, June 2nd, 2 p.m., Daylight time.

There are five simple ways to tell good tea.

First, by the bright copper color of the tea when steeped. Second, by the exquisite aroma. Third, by the delightful, refreshing flavor. Fourth, by the satisfying richness. Fifth, by the economical strength. Make a brewing and you will find all these qualities combined in Red Rose.

Red Rose Coffee is as generously good as Red Rose Tea

SNELL PAYS HONOR TO ONE OF ITS RETURNED HEROES

Gnr. Lyons Presented With a Signet Ring and Watch Fob as a Token of Appreciation.

Snell, N. B., May 21.—Gunner Harold H. Lyons was given a warm reception on Monday evening, when forty friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown to welcome the returned hero. A most enjoyable time was spent in games and music. During the evening Gnr. Lyons was presented with a handsome signet ring and watch fob as a slight token of appreciation for his noble services. Mr. W. I. Fenton made the presentation with a very pleasing address. Gnr. Lyons thanked the donors for their kindness. Refreshments were served and the party dispersed after singing the National Anthem. Gnr. Lyons was one of our youngest heroes. When scarcely sixteen years of age he enlisted in the 1st Stago Battery in July, 1915, and reached the firing line in November. He went through some of the greatest engagements, being at the Somme in 1916 also on the Ypres salient, Vimy Ridge, Passchendaele, etc. He was twice wounded, receiving his last wound just previous to the signing of the armistice and was sent to the hospital at Orpington, England, where he remained some weeks before returning to his homeland.

JEWS APPEAL TO THE CONFERENCE

Request the Aid of Allies in Putting an End to Cruel Programs Against Jewish Poland.

London, May 30.—The committee of deputies of British Jews and the Anglo-Jewish association have sent a telegram to the Council of Four expressing, on behalf of English Jews, "horror at the continuance of the cruel persecutions against the Jews in Poland." The message urges the Allied and Associated leaders at the conference to urge their best endeavors to put an end to the murders and outrages and punish the offenders.

THE BOLSHEVIKI COMMITTED MANY ATROCITIES AT RIGA

Before They Retired They Shot Thirty Persons in the Central Prison—Riga Captured With Slight Fighting.

Paris, May 30.—The Bolsheviks, before they retired from Riga, shot thirty persons in the central prison there, according to official reports received by the American peace delegates. The anti-Bolshevik troops captured Riga with slight fighting, surprising the Bolsheviks, who fled hastily. All the stores and homes of the well-to-do were pillaged by the Bolsheviks and most of the bourgeois were compelled to leave the city with slight. In the various prisons sixteen hundred hostages were found. The reports describe them as being in a state of unspeakable misery and starvation when they were released.

MARSHAL HAIG TO CHURCHMEN

Urges United National Church to Develop the Spirit of Brotherhood Born of the War.

London, May 30.—(Reuter's).—Field Marshal Haig and General Horne visited the Church of Scotland General Assembly. They were received by a guard of honor of chaplains. Addressing the assembly, Sir Douglas Haig urged the establishment of a general staff for the Christian churches of the empire analogous to the Imperial General Staff in the military organization of the empire, as the only means of securing general peace. He said it was to develop the spirit of brotherhood born of the war for which the active help of a vigorous national church was necessary. A beginning should be made by forming a united national church of Great Britain after which a great imperial church should be formed to maintain the determination of the people of the empire. Field Marshal Haig rejoiced in the movement for Presbyterian reunion in Scotland. What Scotland hoped to gain for herself, he said, she must help to gain for the whole empire.

NAVAL SEAPLANE N C-4 FAILED TO REACH PLYMOUTH

Was Forced to Descend Early in Its Attempt Friday—Will Try Again Today.

Washington, May 30.—The American naval seaplane N. C-4 after being forced to descend early today in the Mondego river, about one hundred miles up the coast from Lisbon, was able to resume its flight at 9.38 a.m. (Washington time), and succeeded in reaching Ferrol, a Portuguese port about 250 miles from Lisbon. This information was received late today by the Navy Department and it was presumed that N. C-4 would leave for Plymouth, England tomorrow.

HAWKER PUTS HIMSELF RIGHT

His Remarks, Taken up by the American Press, Were Not Intended as Criticising the U. S. Navy Flights.

London, May 30.—Harry G. Hawker, in an interview in the Evening Globe regarding American press comments on the speech he made at a luncheon to newspaper men, Wednesday, said: "The Americans misunderstood my point. I was not criticizing their attempt. It is impossible to compare the two flights. We did not wish to have battleships supplied by the government along the route. My remarks were intended for those who were criticizing the government for not supplying them. I wish the Americans the very best of luck. Their flights have been beautifully organized jobs from beginning to end. I am very sorry, indeed, that the American press has misunderstood me. Nothing was farther from my mind than to criticize the Americans."

MILITARY MEDAL RECEIVED. Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Allan of 36 St. Andrews street, have received the military medal won by their son, Gunner J. D. Allan, Gunner Allan enlisted with the 115th and transferred to the 3rd howitzer battery.

YALE STUDENTS MOBBED BY CROWD OF RETURNED MEN

Students Said to Have Made Some Unkind Remarks During a Parade of Soldiers and Sailors.

New Haven, Conn., May 27.—A mob of several hundred men, largely recently discharged soldiers and sailors, attempted a concerted attack on the Yale University campus tonight. Police details succeeded in preventing an early invasion of the campus but further trouble is looked for. Two students are reported as being badly beaten up near the Yale grounds. The affair grew out of slighting remarks made by some persons near the campus Saturday last during a welcome home parade of the veterans, who claim that the perpetrators were Yale men. At 9.45 it seemed almost certain that the mob would get out of control of the police. At that time augmented numbers of rioters were reported as smashing windows of Yale buildings and threatening more severe damage. Several students at that time, caught off the campus, had been mobbed. Virtually every policeman in the city had been mobilized and sent to the campus area.

THE UNITED STATES MAY BE EMBROILED

Mexican Troops Preparing to Pass Through Arizona Without U. S. Permission.

Washington, May 30.—Reports from the border that Mexican federal troops mobilizing at Epulme, Sonora, for shipment in bond through Arizona, en route to Juarez, gave officials here little concern. It was believed here the mobilization began before the Mexican government could get word to the commanding officer that the state department had withheld, for the present, permission for the troops to pass through American territory. Officials said the American government officials on the border would not permit the Mexicans to cross the line without instructions from Washington, regardless of the fact that the Acting Governor of Arizona had not withdrawn his permission for the Mexicans to pass through that state.

GENTLEMEN YOU MUST SIGN!

London, May 30.—Premier Lloyd George, in his speech to the Welsh division at Amiens last Sunday, according to the South Wales Daily News:

"We say to the Germans: 'Gentlemen, you must sign. If you don't do so at Versailles, you shall do so in Berlin. We are not going to give way.'"

RHINELAND STATUS NOT DEFINITE

Some Question as to Whether it Will be Declared an Independent Republic.

Frankfurt, Thursday, May 29 (by The A. P.).—Although a semi-official announcement was made here yesterday that the Rhineland was to be declared an independent republic advised today from Coblenz say the step has not yet been taken. The leaders of the Communist party, who were supposed to be in favor of separation, are said to be opposing it, unless the German national assembly and the Prussian Diet deliberately approve of the plan and have it incorporated in the peace treaty. ### The Compliment Paid the Hot Spot Chalmers by other Makers

SO successful has been the public response to the Hot Spot feature of the Chalmers and so readily and consistently has this device made good that imitations are now beginning to appear on other cars.

"Yes, we too have a Hot Spot device on our car," is a comment to be heard daily in other motor establishments.

There are two vital weaknesses in the imitations. First, the Hot Spot is not efficient without the Ram's-horn. Second, the Ram's-horn is not a device that can be "fitted to" any motor. (The motor must be designed to fit the Ram's-horn.)

It is the proper co-ordination of all three—the Hot Spot, the Ram's-horn and the Cylinder block—that has made Chalmers one of the few great cars of the world.

It is always a compliment to be imitated. None greater can be paid. But you will be full of compliments for the present day Chalmers after you've turned the thousand-mile mark in one.

In This Week's "Digest"

A Valuable Colored Map

— OF —

The New Germany

One of the most interesting features in the May 31st issue of The Literary Digest is a full-page colored Map showing the new Germany as it will be after the Peace Treaty is signed, and the old Germany as it was before the war. The Map clearly indicates the areas lost by the treaty, those to be awarded by plebiscite, and those to be made international territory. This map will prove invaluable as a present and future source of information and can be cut out and inserted in your encyclopedia, atlas, history, or other reference volume, where it will always be handy as a means of settling doubtful points.

There is a wide selection of authoritative, timely, and very interesting news-articles included in this week's "Digest," among which are:

A WORD ABOUT THE EDITORS OF "THE DIGEST"

The editors of most publications come into personal touch with the reading public through special articles, editorials, and so forth, in which they voice their individual views. Not so with THE LITERARY DIGEST, whose editorial policy is strictly impersonal, not a hint of the opinions of its staff on any question appearing in its columns. Nevertheless, the editors of THE DIGEST are a very real and powerful influence in the community, because they determine the subject matter of the magazine from week to week and its mode of presentation. Always their study is to be impartial and self-effacing, yet they leave their expert mark on everything that they handle, for they are all proved experts, each in his particular field, whether it be politics, art, science, religion, letters, or what not. They give you of their best, seeking for no acclaim, but constantly striving to present for your consideration all the news in all its bearings. Their quiet work gives THE DIGEST its acknowledged unique distinction.
