Gen. Dorward, in his report of the engagement outside Tien Tsin, Aug. 19, when the British, Americans and Japanese signally defeated a large force of Boxers, killing over 300, says, in a dispatch, dated Aug. 25: lines of communication near Tien Tsin are now free from danger. The enemy has been treating the villagers badly Several decapitated bodies were found near their camp. The villagers are now flocking to Tien Tsin at the rate of about 1,000 a day. As there is not more than a month's food supply, there is every prospect of a famine shortly.' This declaration that a famine is imminent in consequence of the inadequacy of provisions for the hordes of refugees at Tien Tsin adds a new element of peril to the situation.

THE EMPRESS. The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, wiring Aug. 19, re-asserts that the empress dowager fled eastward, and adds: "She has a bodyguard of 1,500, and as the mountainous character of the country would prevent artillery following, it is believed she will not be pursued." This correspondent reports everything quiet on the date of his dispatch, but a telegraph to the same paper from Tien Tsin, dated Aug. 24, asserts that a thousand Russians, Germans and Japanese had pushed forward from Pekin with the intention, it is assumed, of pursuing the fleeing empress dowager. Shanghai advices say that the report of the capture of Emperor Kwang Su by the Japanese was erroneous. It was a case of mistaken identity.

Washington, Aug. 26.-Russia, Germany and Japan have not declared war upon China, either separately or in concert. This statement is made upon authority of the highest character. What those nations may do within the next forty-eight hours or within the next fortnight is a question which no one in Washington is prepared to answer. The brief dispatch from Che Foo, conveying a rumor current there that Russia, Germany and Japan had joined in a de-claration of war upon China, is not taken seriously. No information of such action has reached either the departgovernments primarily interested. That fact alone is accepted in official circles as a sufficient refutation of the rumor. The understanding among Washington officials of Russia's action is that the empire has declared the three provinces on its southeastern frontier in a state of siege. This is altogether different from a declaration of war. It corresponds to a declaration of martial law by Great Britain and to a suspension of

In carrying out her second object Russia has seized New Chwang. London, Aug. 26. - Further intelligence from Pekin shows that the fanatical hatred of the Chinese populace for the native Christians was in evidence to the last, everything belonging to the latter being utterly destroyed by the mob. The Japanese have landed more bluejackets at Amoy, where order is maintained in spite of the great excitement. Toronto Horseshoers on Strike-Hamilton Bakers May Go Out-C. P. R. Machinists Agree to Arbitration. The C. P. R. machinists' committee at Winnipeg have agreed to arbitrate their differences with the company. The Toronto journeymen horseshoers, over 60 in number, representing 50

shops in the city, will go out on strike today (Monday). Nineteen men go to work as usual in nine shops that agree to the men's terms, but the other 60 men who are employed in union shops will go on strike. In all there are about 100 blacksmith shops in the city, but only about 50 are recognized by the union, which is affiliated with Journeymen Horseshoers' International Union of America.

The Hamilton bakers' union mands that the shops shall be union shops; that the foreman shall receive not less than $12 a week of 60 hours and journeymen not less than $10 a week; that there shall be one apprentice to three men; that the union label. shall be stamped on every loaf of bread, etc. Some of the bosses have signed an agreement to observe these rules, but others have not, and it is stated that a strike will take place in

MOORS ARE MASSING. London, Aug. 27 .- A serious situation has again risen, according to reports from Marseilles and Toulon, on the Franco-Moroccoan frontier, Moorish troops are said to be massing in great numbers in dangerous proximity to the Algerian hinterland and Moroccoan tribesmen, it is asserted, are raiding French territory. Instructions are said to have been received at the Mediterranean naval stations directing the French naval authorities to prepare to dispatch artillery and stores to Algeria, while orders for contingents of troops from Algeria and Tunis for the far East have been countermanded. In official circles in Paris, although it is asserted that the situation needs watching, it is thought decidedly improbable that the Moroccoan Government in- | burn's dam, Norwich. tends to conduct hostile operations against Algeria.

Mrs. Barnes gives an account of her case for publication: "I have consulted a doctor," she writes, "who sulted a doctor," she writes, "who gave me medicine that seemed to make me worse at times. I was told of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I got one box. I have used part of the box and am completely cured, and strange to say both my hearing and eyesight are now unaffected."

Tod Sloan Rides Ballyhoo Bey to Victory in the Futurity.

Jeffries Will Fight Fitzsimmons -Corbett After Fitz-Baseball News-Latest in the World of Sports. '

THE FUTURITY. New York, Aug. 25.—After a journey of three thousand miles to ride ex-Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney's colt Ballyhoo Bey, Tod Sloan, the whilom American jockey, who has done all of his riding in England for the past two years, succeeded in sending his mount first past the wire in the rich Futurity stakes at Sheepshead Bay today, and gathered in $33,830 for his employer. The favorite, Olympian, was second, and Tommy Atkins from the same stable landed in third place, with the others trailing. The winner was ridden out. The attendance at the big race was not as large as had been expected for it was thought that the track would be deep in mud, and such was the case at ten clock in the morning. Nevertheless fully 15,000 people were in and on the grand stand, down on the lawn against the rails in the inner field, and up in the "free field." When the horses were called to the post just before half-past four o'clock the crowd had been coming in steadily since noon, but there was no great rush at any time. From sunrise until the first race was called and between the races, a big gang of men were at work on the track, scraping, raking and harrowing it, turning up the wet soil to the drying heat of the sun, and it was in good condition when the race was called, to the great surprise of everybody. The big crowd waited patiently throughout the first race, and applauded wildly when the Whitney youngster, Rowdy, was set back from second place for a foul. They saw Mr. Whitney win the second with Rush, and then plunged on Jean Beraud to win the fall handicap, but Tod Sloan, who had the mount, after geting off flat-footed, rode into a pocket in the stretch, and was unplaced. Then came the big race, and the parade of the highly-bred youngsters led by the Keene three, Tommy Atkins, Cap and Bells, and Olympian, with Elkhorn and Ballyhoo Bey of the Whitney string next, and the others following. They got up to the post promptly, and in a very few minutes came the first break, which was a false one, Golden Age refusing to join his company. The second was worse, for three refused. But the starter caught them in line the third time, the red flag swished through the air, and they were off to a good start. Spencer, who had the mount on Cap and Bells, of Keene string, rushed his mount into the lead at once, but Sloan, on Ballyhoo Bey, was not caught nap-ping, and sent his horse alongside the flying filly, Elkhorn, Golden Age, and Tommy Atkins were close up, and they came down the chute like a line of cavalry. Spencer, who was p lainly out to make the running for his stable mates, sent Cap and Bells along at her best speed, but do what she could it was impossible to shake off Ballyhoo Bey, who, a neck away, was practically helping her make the pace. was crouched low over her neck, wide awake to his advantage, as he was in a position to choose his own going on a track that was dry and wet in places. At the end of the first furlong Henry had brought Olympian, another of the Keene trio, from eighth place to third, and was a length and a half behind Ballyhoo Bey, while Tommy Atkins, Elkhorn and Sweet Lavender were heads apart, a length away, the others being already far out of the race. The positions were unchanged through the next furlong. Cap and Bells and Ballyhoo Bey were running head and head in front, the latter going much the easier of the two, and Sloan looking around for danger from behind. All through the third furlong Spencer was ursing Cap and Bells. She was running gamely, and still held a slight advantage, but it was plain to all that she could not hold her speed to the The pace was beginning to tell, and Henry seeing this sent Olympian along to take issue with Ballyhoo Bey. These three rounded the bend into the stretch, neck apart, but Cap and Bells was done, and from this point gradually dropped behind, Spencer easing her up when he found she was beaten. Ballyhoo Bey was still running strong and true, and a furlong from home was a neck in front of Olympian, with Tommy .. tkins already under the whip closing strong a length back. From there home it was a hard drive. The crowd in the grand stand were shouting and cheering, the hysterical shrieks of the women rising above all. 'The favorite wins!" was the shout. "No, the favorite is beaten!' Ballyhoo Bey wins!" was then heard from the followers of the Whitney stable. Sloan was no longer crouched over the neck of his horse, but was riding desperately with whip and spur. Henry was

BASEBALL. PASTIMES WIN CITY CHAMPION-SHIP.

The Pastimes are the city champions for 1900. They demonstrated their superiority over the Knox team at Tecumseh Park on Saturday before a crowd of enthusiasts. This was the first that the two teams faced each other this season, and a keenly-contested game was looked for, both teams racticing hard for the game. Pastimes had little trouble in winning out. Much of the credit is due to their pitcher, Early, who put up a great game. He struck out 15 of the opposing batsmen, and only four hits were secured off his delivery. Bert Sheere gave satisfaction to both teams in the position of umpire. The score:

FITZ CHALLENGES JEFFRIES. New York, Aug. 25.-Bob Fitzsimmons has challenged Champion Jim Jeffries for a fight to take place Aug. 31, and has posted $2,500 as a forfeit. Fitz says that Jeffries must meet him on that date or admit he is afraid of him. Jeffries, who was at Derby, during the day, was seen there, once and think I can do it again, but I think it would be poor business policy to fight right away, for the fightallow no engagements to interfere with my championship battle, but I reserve the right to set aside time to

Thousands of Veterans Flock to Chicago-The Coliseum Dedicated.

Chicago, Aug. 27.-The National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was opened informally Saturday night by the dedication of the new Coliseum, in which all the joint camp fires, the reunions, the war song concerts for the veterans and the religious and other exercises for the public incidental to the encampment will be held. The new Coliseum stands on Wabash avenue, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, on the site of Libby Prison, and within its walls Saturday night was gathered one of the largest assemblies that has ever been seen in the city under one roof. The arrangements for the joint ceremonies of the dedication of the building and for the opening of the encampment were most elaborate, and were greatly enjoyed by the ten thousand people who crowded through the doors. A chorus of 1,000, costumed to represent a living flag, occupied an immense platform at one end of the building, and close by them was the great band of 100 pieces that will render the concerts during the coming week of the encampment.

Jules Lombard, the famous singer of war times, was there, and sang the "Star-Spangled Banner," from the original manuscript, which was loaned for the occasion by C. F. Gunther, of this city.

The dedicatory exercises proper comprised an address by F. O. Lowden, of Chicago, a response by Mayor Harrison, and addresses by other local

A Railway Strike Eclipses the War News in Interest.

[Special London Cable Letter.] London, Aug. 25 .- Forgetting the Chinese cryptogram and the unending war in South Africa and the reconstruction of that country, a strike on a little one hundred mile Welsh railroad stirs up more serious interest than anything else in England this week, because it is closely related to the coal supply and the manufacturing vitality of the kingdom.

The Taff Vale Railroad carries the and said, relative to the challenge: "I product of fifty thousand coal miners have defeated Fitzsimmons decisively into Cardiff. DEMAND FOR AMERICAN COAL. The arrival in the Thames on Thursday evening of the British steamer Queenswood, with 4,000 tons of coal, and the sailing of the British steamer Armstor from Norfolk, Virginia on Wednesday with 4,000 tons, destined for Bantry Bay, for the British navy, afford a text on which to hang abundant speculation. English writers point to America's exhaustless coal supplies, and the ultimate certainty that large exports will be made from that coun-

THE UNDERGROUND TROLLEY. Mr. Charles Stewart Smith, a member of the New York rapid transit commission, who has gone to Scotland to visit Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, has devoted considerable time to studying both the Paris and London underground electric railroads. I am prepared to make a complete report to the commission on my return to New York. The London electric railroad is certainly a great improvement over anything London has ever had. The engineering work is admirable, and the rolling stock is an improvement even on that of the New York Elevated Railway, as the cars are bet-ter lighted and better furnished."

True Comfort for the Aged and Others afflicted with Costiveness and Paralysis of the Bowels.

Persons advanced in life often suffer from indigestion, and from paralysis or inability to evacuate from the bowels; likewise from urinary difficulties. We have the evidence of a large number of aged persons from 60 to 80 years of age who had daily been compelled to resort to injections to empty the bowels, have been cured by the use of Radway's Pills. Two or three pills every night in all cases insure a natural evacuation from the bowels and the regular flow of urine. In cases where there is irritation of the bladder, Radway's Resolvent should be used with the Pills. If these organs are kept regular, life may be extended to a much longer period. By keeping the Liver, Stomach, Bowels and Kidneys in a healthy condition the blood will continue pure and dissolution checked. If Radway's Pills and Resolvent are used by the aged, life will be prolonged to the full measure of time. Another great end is secured by nourishing the body with these remedies—the faculties will remain in a healthy condition. Old World Topics-Differences Between the Powers Regarding China's Future-Frailty of the Ties Uniting the Allies-Claims To Be Settled-The Situation at Pekin-Lord Roberts' Policy Approved—The Coming British Elections -Fetes at the Paris Exposition-A New Ghost

United States towards China is watched in England with more interest than is that of any other country, for Englishmen believe somehow or other that in the troubles ahead America will be the only power with interests parallel to theirs. The Spectator, discussing the frailty of the ties connecting the powers, says: "Continental statesmen look askance at the new force, America, whose limits they do not clearly disblack troops to China, and they mutter words about the possible Anglo-Saxon understanding and would, if they could, gladly postpone all action so as to have more time for reflection and combination; only, you see, Pekin is in flames, the Chinese Semiramis is on her way to Segan, and a Russian general publicly reports that the Amur now floats through Russian territory. Japan has been helping Europe, but English observers are uncertain what her statesmen intend."

CLAIMS TO BE SETTLED. A certain amount of uneasiness is beginning to be felt at what are supposed to be indications of differences of opinion among the powers with regard to the future policy of China. It is believed that while the United States, Great Britain and Japan are anxious to limit operations to the minimum necessary to both Russia and Germany will not be China than the rest of the allies. Germany may, and probably will, consider herself entitled to exact substantial the kaiser's government required Kiao Chau in reparation for the mur-der of two missionaries, the whole province of Shan Tung might be deemed no more than an adequate price for the assassination of her minister. Russia, again, is in a different position from the other powers, since China was the aggressor, or at least so the Russian authorities maintain, on the northern frontier. The Russians, having repelled the attack on their territory, have carried the war into the enemy's country, and may be indisposed to relinquish their Muscovite methods if Russia consented to retire, leaving Manchuria intact, especially as in the course of the next few months she expects to have nearly 400,000 men in Eastern taking of Pekin, and Field Marshal Von Waldersee's appointment to the command of the allied forces in China, stands precisely in the same attitude as before. Germany, it is added, still insists on carrying out the programme which the minister of foreign affairs, Count Von Buelow, published in his circular of July 3, and which was approved here and abroad. It is also officially claimed that all the other powers interested still adhere to that programme, of which there now remain

MOST IMPORTANT PARAGRAPHS, adequate redress for Chinese crimes against international rights and the reestablishment of an orderly state of affairs, and the installation of a government, willing and able to give guarantees against the recurrence of the recent outrages. Many papers, however, continue to express distrust of the intentions of several of the powers, especially Great Britain and France, claiming they have separate plans regarding the Yang Tse Valley and the southern provinces. So far as Russia is concerned, the German press is not exercised, because it is officially admitted by Germany that Germany does not oppose any Russian plans affecting the northern provinces, as not touching Germany's political or commercial interests.

cumbered Boer, except by a fluke, is THE CHINESE SITUATION. According to the Chinese minister to Great Britain, the empress had no hostility to the legations, and was only anxious to secure their safety against the Boxers. His excellency failed to explain why in that case she and the emperor did not wait to receive the relief column. Reports of fighting beyond Tien Tsin may help to account for the silence of Pekin, though it does not dissipate the anxiety with which more definite news is awaited. The telegraph wires are still cut, and the railway is only working a little way beyond Pel Tsang. The engagement reported yesterday, in which a large force of Chinese was dispersed by Americans, British and Japanese, may or may not have opened the road. any rate transports with reinforcements are now rapidly arriving at Italy. The Rome correspondent of the Taku and troops are being pushed to the front as fast as they can be landed. INTERNATIONAL COMPLIMENTS continue to be freely exchanged by the various commanders. Gen. Gaselee's latest dispatch contained a tribute to act of the pope and its avowal as such the Japanese. Admiral Seymour has written a letter to Admiral Courrejolles, in which he speaks in the highest terms of the conduct of the French contingent, which took part in the naval expeditionary advance, and especially their gallantry in seizing the Tien Tein arsenal, and now Englishmen are particularly gratified at Capt. Mc-Calla's very handsome testimonial to the courage and ability displayed by Seymour himself. The mutual respect and esteem which the troops of the various civilized nations are beginning to entertain for one another is one of the most agreeable results of the Chinese operations.

IN SOUTH AFRICA. Lord Roberts' last proclamation, deellning to recognize the neutrality of non-combatant burghers, is generally approved, though there is an inclination to complain that it is not sufficiently drastic. Thus Punch published a cartoon in which Lord Roberts is upbraided for his excessive generosity, and a Conservative newspaper has been

London, Aug. 26 .- The policy of the | openly recommending that he should adopt Weyler's Cuban policy and carry it out more thoroughly. It is true that this suggestion is made only in the St. James' Gazette—a journal which has entirely lost the high reputation it once enjoyed, and is now edited in an irresponsible fashion, still the mere fact that such propositions can be put forward in English newspapers, which appeal to educated and well-to-do readers, is significant. Similarly the death penalty visited upon the wretched young German, Lieut. Cordua, has been received with a whose limits they do not clearly dis-shout of satisfaction, and there was cern, and which, for example, can send hardly a hint anywhere that elemency should have been extended to the rash young man. Undoubtedly Cordua, in breaking his parole and conspiring against the British authorities, rendered himself liable to the severest punishment under martial law, but it is also true that his plot against Lord Roberts was really originated by the Spanish police officer Garo, by whom the whole idea was suggested to Cor-dua. It was urged, however, that an example was really necessary to teach the Boers not to engage in secret conspiracies and violate their oaths and that Cordua's life was necessarily sacrificed with this object in view.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE. The small anti-governmental papers of Paris are still barking over the acceptance by France of Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee as commanderin-chief of the allied forces in China insure good government in future, and the sincerity of Russia's friendship is impugned as these papers say it was content to stop at this point. Both Russia that suggested Count Von Walhave a stronger technical case against dersee as commander-in-chief. M. Paul de Cassagnac, editor of L'Authorite,

"I fear the Russian alliance will lose compensation for the murder of Baron | prestige and popularity after such an von Ketteler. It is pointed out that if act. Russia sacrifices France to Germany. She needs to improve her relations with Germany, and uses us as a pledge of her sincerity." The Gaulois calls attention to the fact that at a conference presided over by Prince Bismarck outside of Paris in a discussion as to whether Paris should be taken by assault, Count Waldersee expressed the wish to "see this Baby-lon entirely destroyed."

FETES AT THE PARIS EXPOSI-TION.

The committee appointed to organize fetes at the exposition in order to galvanize the show into something like brilliancy, and thus attract visitors, announces that two great fetes will be given in addition to the Venetian fetes already announced. The first Will be a fete of flowers, held the first week Official circles in Berlin emphasize in September, and the second will be the statement that Germany, after the vintage festivities, on the 15th of September. The first will be made the occasion for a gigantic flower show and a battle of flowers. The second will comprise an exhibition of French vine products and a procession of allegorical cars. Although it has been suggested that the duration of the exposition be extended, it is officially announced that the great show will close on Nov. 5.

SIMPLE EXPLANATION. Now that all is well with the Europeans in Pekin, attention is once more turned to the operations in South Africa. People are watching with no litthe interest the clever maneuvers of Dewet, and asking how it is that, though surrounded so often, he has always managed to break through the cordons which have been reported to be so tightly drawn around him and elude capture. But listen to the talk of officers of experience and they will tell you it is not at all surprising that Dewet, although so frequently surrounded by the British generals, manages to make good his escape. Neither his slipperiness, his slimness nor the night marches, to all of which his success has been attributed, can account for it. It is simply because the Boers ride light and the British ride heavy. English horses cannot go either fast or far carrying the regulation load as it now is. To overtake the flying, unenout of the question. KING OF SPAIN'S RECEPTION. The introduction of the young King of Spain to his subjects in the northwestern seacoast provinces was attended by a degree of good feeling not before seen in Spain in generations. Even in the provinces where socialistic and dynastic discontent is always verging on insurrection, the people showed patriotic pleasure and a desire to forget the past disasters and accept the new order of things. RAISED A TURMOIL. The note issued by the Vatican authorities against the prayer of Queen Margaret, written by her majesty after the assassination of King Humbert, has set going a violent discussion in London Times says: "Its prohibition has caused indignant outburst, has evoked sympathy for the Queen, and has strengthened the young king in his inherited controversy with the church. The note was a personal was meant to rebuke those representing the pontiff as an aged man and as a tool in the hands of Cardinal Rampoli the papal secretary of state. The pope, in spite of his years, is still the soul of the Vatican, and rules his entourage with a rod of iron.

DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT. According to present arrangements, the Queen will hold a council at Osborne on Aug. 31, Henry Labouchere asserts, at which the dissolution of parliament will be sanctioned with the customary formalities, and the general election will be held early in Octo-

DECORATIONS NOT ALLOWED. English correspondents at Paris, in explaining why France, though bestowing decorations on the representatives of all the other principal countries at the exposition, omitted so to honor those of Great Britain, say that the British commissioner, when requested to designate those worthy of decoration, replied that the laws of his country did not allow him or his official associates to accept decorations. A NEW CHOST.

It is strange how trifles sometimes will rouse the Londoner from his lethargy. Credulity, mixed with curiosity, has drawn immense crowds nightly around on old house in the fashionable district of West Kensington, which for nearly a century and a half has been supposed to be haunted. It is strange what multitudes of superstitious people there are in this enlightened nineteenth or twentieth century, for nine out of every ten people you meet will solemnly affirm that this West Kensington ghost is the real thing. There are many who will tell you they have seen the historic spook. So great, in fact, are the nightly crowds that a strong force of police is necessary to keep people within bounds. It is not that they are quite anxious to see anything horrible, but they do not want to miss it - that's all. Since the historic Cock Lane Ghost affair in 1762, history records no such popular excitement over anything supernatural in London. All London aristocracy was interested in that old ghost fraud, which lasted nearly two months, and it took ail the reasoning power and oracular demonstration of the famous Dr. Johnson and other serious-minded men of his time to prove the ghost's non-existence and put a stop to the excitement which was working serious havoc upon the minds of the people of London. Whether this ghost will live so long it is hard to tell. For the present there is no lull in the interest

London, Aug. 26 .- A dispatch from Cape Town today says: "Lord Roberts arrived yesterday at Belfast, a few miles west of Machadodorp, where he met Sir Redvers Buller, Gen. French and Gen. Pole-Carew. Every thing is now in readiness for the ad-

Dewet's progress eastward seems effectually checked by Baden-Powell, who has got across the line separating him from the Lydenburg and Barberton districts. The great guerilla leader has fallen back, and is now understood to be making for the Orange Free State again, probably intending to attack Roberts' communications. According to the commander-in-chief Dewet has only 300 men with him, but this may be an underestimate.

Lord Roberts has left Pretoria for the first time in several weeks, and sends a dispatch from Wonderfontein, 112 miles east of the capital, describing the progress made by French and Pole-Carew in pressing back Louis Botha's army. The good impression produced by this information was somewhat dampened by a later message from the commander-in-chief, stating that an-other mishap had occurred to a part of Gen. Buller's force, engaged with another of Botha's commandos, on Thursday. By some mistake two companies of a British infantry regiment advanced far beyond the firing line after an engagement was supposed to have ceased, and were surrounded by the Boers, losing nearly 100 men killed, wounded and prisoners. The affair was unimportant except as showing the continued activity and alertness of the Boers in this quarter. Dewet, however, is said to be retiring across the mountain passes to the Orange River colony in a very crippled condition, and with a mere remnant of his followers. WARREN TALKS ABOUT SPION-

KOP. London, Aug. 26.-Sir Charles Warren has just arrived in London from South Africa, and is in a communicative mood. He has been speaking freely about Spion Kop, on which he has already addressed a long and detailed explanation to the war office. He does not admit responsibility for the occupation of that position which, he said, he did not approve, but on the contrary, suggested to Gen. Buller an alternative plan, which was the one eventually adopted by that general. At the same time Gen. Warren says, when ordered to seize Spion Kop he did so, and the troops could have maintained themselves there till the Boers abandoned the attack had not Col. Thorneycroft unaccountably given the order to retire during the night. For this movement Gen. Warren contends that he was himself in no way to

The Canadians

BACK TO THE BATTLEFIELD. London, Aug. 25 .- An unusual announcement was made at the war office today regarding members of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry who had been invalided to England from the battlefields of South Africa. It was to the effect that Pte. H. Andrews, formerly of the 5th Regiment of Canadian Artillery, and a member of A Company, and Pte. W. C. S. Holland, of C Company, formerly of the 77th Wentworth Battalion, had returned to the scene of conflict. Both soldiers, who have completely regained their health, sailed for Cape Town, and will proceed north to rejoin their regiment in the vicinity of Pretoria. Andrews was one of the many Canadians wounded at Paardeberg last February. INVALIDED.

The following Canadians have been invalided from South Africa to England: Canadian Mounted Rifles, 1st Battalion, 156, Pte. H. Hiam, D. Y., R. C. Hussars; 2nd Battalion, 109, Trooper C. E. Fisk, of Calgary; 307, Trooper A.

It has been reported to the war office from Norval's Pont that Pte. J. W. Duhamel, of the first Canadian contingent, died from enteric fever on June 27. He formerly belonged to the 86th, Three Rivers Battalion. ON THE TUNISIAN.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.-Following is a list of the Canadian invalided soldiers coming by the Tunisian, which sailed Thursday. There are some names in the list, as cabled by the high commissioner in London to the militia department, different from those in the Cable of Thursday:

Sergt. Gladulin (probably Gladwin). Corp. Wallace, Ptes. Mackie, Grecia, Barber, Elliott, Padmore, Martin, Gamble, Condey, Cuthbert, Rokkin. Dangerfield, O'Brien. AT HOME

The invalided Canadians, who arrived on the Lake Ontario, paraded Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to be paid and discharged. The men are all enthusiastic over the splendid treatment given them by the officials of the Elder-Dempster Line. Besides special table privileges, each man received a sovereign from the company just before the ship sailed.

The mayor and council of St. Marys have made arrangements for the reception of Pte. Peart on his arrival home from South Africa. The 28th Regiment Band will probably be present to help welcome the coming hero, and a half-holiday will likely be pro-

He Wanted a Receipt.

There was a lawyer in the Indian country who had none too good a reputation for honesty, says the Chicago

One of the aborigines employed him to do a little legal business. It was done to the client's satisfaction, the fee duly paid and a receipt for it duly demanded. "A receipt isn't necessary," the lawyer said. "But I want it," replied the red man. There was some argument and the attorney finally demanded his reason. "Since becoming a Christian I have been very careful in all my dealings that I may be ready for the judgment," answered the brave, sententiously, "and when that day comes I don't want to take time to go to the bad place to get my re-ceipt from you." The receipt was made out and promptly delivered. Of the same sort is an account of Captain Jack, the chief of the Modocs, who gave the country a bad quarter of an hour and was executed for it. clergyman waited upon the tough old chieftain to offer consolation. He ended up a long exhortation by saying: "And if you repent of your wickedness in fighting good white men the Great Spirit will permit you to go to heaven." With all the politeness in the world Captain Jack inquired: "Do you think you will go to that place?" "Certainly," said the minister. "If should die today I would be there be-fore night." Quick as a flash came the answer: "If you will take my place and be hanged tomorrow I will give you forty ponies." 'The offer was not taken, and the clergyman sought heaven by a less direct route.

FOR NINE YEARS .- Mr. Samuel Bryan, Thedford, writes: "For nine years I suffered with ulcerated sores on my leg; I expended over $100 to physicians, and tried every preparation I heard of or saw recommended for such disease, but could get no relief. I at last was recommended to give Dr. Thomas' Eelectric Oil a trial, which has resulted, after using eight bottles (using it internally and externally) in a complete cure. I believe it is the best medicine in the world, and I write this to let others know what it has done

NEW SWIMMING APPARATUS. No form of exercise brings so many muscles into use as swimming, but so dangers beset a swimmer, especially a beginner, that many athletes never indulge in that exercise enough to become expert. A device has been invented whereby one may learn to swim without an instructor and without danger. A rope is siretched on two vertical posts. The rope is supby the Boers about ten minutes after plied with a trolly wheel from which is suspended a coiled wire spring. On the lower end is a belt, which fastens round the swimmer's waist. By this means his body is held on the surface of the water, while there is nothing to interfere with the free use of the arms and legs. Rings may be attached to other coiled springs suspended from the wire, which may be used for additional support when the swimmer is resting, or for his amusement when "playing in the water."-London Cassell's.

Ald. Frank Plant Appointed to a Position in the Labor Bureau.

Mr. Plant will leave to assume his duties in about a week's time. Ald. Plant came to this city some 30 years ago, direct from London, England, and has resided here ever since. Early in life he decided to adapt himself to the calling of a printer, for which he had a liking, and apprenticed himself to The Advertiser some 23 years ago. He has been with The Advertiser continuously since that time, and has held several important positions in the office. Soon after completing his apprenticeship he became a member of Typographical Union, No. 133, and in a short time the members, recognizing his worth, appointed him financial secretary, which position he has held up to the present time. In 1893 he was elected a delegate to the typographical convention in Chicago. He has also been deputy organizer of the Typographical Union for a number of years, and did some splendid work along these lines, forming new unions, and greatly increasing the number of provisional members. Mr. Plant also represented the Typographical Union in the Trades and Labor Council for a great number of years. He remembers well the time when that body consisted of about three or four organizations. Along with other fellow-workers, they kept persistently at the work of organization, until at the present time the council is made up of some forty unions. Mr. Plant has twice been president of the Trades and Labor Council, and was always an active worker on committees, more especially on the organization and Labor Day celebration committees. He has held almost every of-fice in the gift of the Trades and Labor Council, and has been on the Western Fair board as the representative of that body for the past two years. Last year he was elected delegate to the Dominion Trades Congress at Montreal, where he was appointed a member of the Ontario executive. Some five years ago he was elected by the labor organias of the province as their repre sentative on the Ontario board of arbitration. Mr. Plant has also had a municipal career. now serving his second year in the city council, as the trades and la-

THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET New York, Aug. 27.—Henry Clews & Co., 35 Wall street, New York, says: The money market will bear watching. At present rates are very easy, but the surplus reserve is down to $20,000,000 compared with $15,000,000 this time last year. There is an abundance of money in the country, and the treasury is not likely to be the disturbing element that was feared a few months ago. The interior banks are also well supplied with funds; but as crop and trade requirements assert themselves during the next four months these will be depleted, and the demand will then fall upon New York banks.

"I would, doctor," replied the sick man, as he turned his head on the pillow—"I would, but there are a number of valuable dogs in the neighborhood."

DIPLOMACY OF INACTION. Some of the Conspicuous Characteristics of the Chinese Tsung-li-Yamen-

Queer Foreign Office. For masterly inactivity and deplorable deafness and dumbness the Chinese tsung-li-yamen leads the world. This institution is something like the foreign offices of other nations. It is a buffer between the rulers of China to sift through the tsung-li-yamen before it reaches Celestial royalty. The yamen has much dignity but no authority. It can only mutely listen to representations from the ministers and promise to call the attention of higher authorities to the matter. It cannot take positive action, though it pretends to do so. Concerning the office and its functions. Archibald R. Colquhoun, the well-known traveler and author, says in his book on 'China In Transformation:'

"The Tsung-li-yamen, or office of foreign affairs, was established by Imperial decree in January, 1861. It was the first step made by the imperial authorities to admit of diplomatic relations in the capital. was originally composed of three ministers, who were also members of other boards, but its numbers increased from time to time, and now stands at eighty-three Mantchoos and five Chinese. The new creation never acquired any authority until the pressure of external events compelled the emperor's council to make use of it, and to recognize it as an integral part of the government. It was not until 1890 that it first figured in the red book, a complete record of state departments.

The tsung.li-yamen was at first a disappointment. It fell into the condition of an ordinary government de-partment, with several vices of its own, an institution for the prevention of business. Its fatal incapacity lay in the fact that it was a body without a head, for, though they were always a nominal president, he absented himself when he chose.

The yamen, until forced into greater activity by events resulting from the Japanese war, served merely as the cold water which extinguished the hot irons thrust into it by the arder of the foreign agents. To transact business with the board was declared by Sir Harry Parkes to be a physical tour de force. Sir R. Alcock more minutely described it in The Fortnightly Review, May, 1876. "'It is beating the air,' he said,

'to talk to them of treaty rights and obligations, the claims of justice or benefits that accru to them, as to us, by a more liberal policy. The tyro in such work is at first charmed with the courtesy and patience shown in listening to what he hopes may prove convincing arguments.

'they are even met, in roply with a certain show of appreciative intelligence and a willingness to be better informed. When, however, many such interviews have exhausted the subject, perhaps at a final meeting for the purpose of settlement, when there is many there is nothing more to be said on either side, his proposal to settle terms of agreement is met by a request in the loudest accents, with a perfectly unmoved countenance, to explain what is wanted, as he is ready to hear!'

"And the modus operandi was still more minutely depicted by a correspondent of The Times in 1884, cited in the 'Life of Sir Harry Parkes,' by Stanley Lane Poole. He says:

They commence by delicate plaisanterie of offering refreshments which they know their visitors wont touch, and the attendants know the art of killing time by bringing in the repast dish by dish. The visitor sits meanwhile on a hard seat in a cheerless room. At last, when the melon seeds have been distributed in saucers all over the table on which the foreigner would have liked to spread his papers, business is supposed to commence. "And now," observes the visitor, "what is your answer about the robbery of merchandise belonging to Mr. Smith of Nam-kwei?" One of their rules is that no one shall speak at each other and keep silence until one, bolder than the rest, opens his of his comrades, who watch the reckless man in hope that he will drop something which may hereafter serve in a charge against him. What he does say is "Take some of these walnuts." Then follows a discussion on the merits of walnuts. When they do speak, they all speak at once; what they say can be neither under-

Mrs. Houghton glanced up at their approach and smiled, saying to herseif, what a handsome couple they made -he so dark and distinguished in appearance, she so fair and beautiful. A small table had been wheeled up into the window before her, and upon from a compartment a piece of sealing it there was an elegant epergne of wax, and from another a tiny wax fruit and flowers, while beside it there lay some snowy napkins, three or four plates of delicate, painted china, and some silver knives.

Arthur unfolded a napkin and spread it upon Margaret's lap, then filling a plate with some of the finest fruit in the dish he passed it to her, at the same time dropping a superb spray of fuchsias into her hands.

He then waited upon Mrs. Houghton, after which he drew up another chair and helped himself, remarking that he was sorry that Mr. Houghton was not there to share with them.

Margaret quietly took up a banana and began to peel it, gazing absently out of the window meanwhile She made a pretense of tasting it, then dropped it upon her plate and assumed a listening attitude. 'Do I hear music?" she asked. "Possibly," Arthur returned, looking at his watch, "yes," he added, "it is time for the procession, but I had no idea that it would be punctual."

Margaret set her plate upon the table, folded her napkin and faid it over the fruit; then arose and stood in

Arthur looked disappointed; he had taken great pains in purchasing and arranging his dish of fruit. Nearer and nearer the music came, rising and falling upon clear air in melodious, inspiring strains. 'They are coming, mamma," said Margaret from her post of observation, and even Mrs. Houghton put aside her

Margaret was very silent-scarcely speaking during the time, and Mrs. Houghton, seeing that she was in an unusual mood, threw herself into the gap and exerted herself to be as social and entertaining as possible with her young host.

Lunch was served as soon as the procession moved on, in a small room tall, old-fashioned, black silk hat.

"But, Margie, dear, you know you have not rested at all today, and you usually lie down for an hour or so during the afternoon," her mother argued. Mr. Houghton, watching his daughter, saw her eyes flash with a cunning, brilliant light. Well, it will not matter for once,' she said carelessly.

'Arthur, how many hights of stairs do we have to climb to reach the top of the building?" questioned Mrs. Houghton of her young host.

The lady shot a rueful glance at her daughter. Margie, you are determined to do "Very well, mamma," Margaret murmured. Then turning suddenly to Arthur, she added, "if Arthur will kindly allow me to occupy his room, I will be obedient and do as you desire.'

"Certainly," the young man cried, springing to his feet. "I will have the bed arranged in no time, and you shall rest as long as you like."
"No, no; don't do that. Just let me have a pillow, please, and I will lie down upon the lounge," she said, rising to obey her mother's wish.

Arthur, eager to perform any service for her, darted into his uncle's room, seized a pillow from the couch, and flew to deposit it upon the lounge in his room, and was back again in less than anything more that I can do?"

The two ladies retired, but after a few moments, Mrs. Houghton reappeared alone, shutting the door leading into the room where she had left her daughter to rest.

To rest? As soon as the door had closed after her mother, Margaret sprang to her feet, clasped her hands cor rulsively together, raising them high above her head.

"Come," he said gently, "I have "How have I ever borne it!" she cried something for you in the parior," and in a shuddering whisper. "I believe I "How have I ever borne it!" she cried drawing her hand within his arm, he should have gone crazy in another

> She glided swiftly to the door and noiselessly turned the key in the lock. She then walked directly to Arthur Aspinwall's desk and deliberately unlocked and opened it.

"I must have an impression of those keys before I do anything else," she She drew a chair up to the table, sat down before the desk, and took taper, which she lighted. She heated one end of the sealing wax until it melted, and dropped a small mass of it upon a piece of letter paper; then she took those keys, which she was sure she had seen twice before, and gently pressed one of them upon the still warm wax. It left a perfect impression, and she repeated the same operation with the

"Now," she whispered, "I have something to work with; but-what will be the secret that I shall unlock?—oh, what?"

A shudder ran through her frame, and for a moment she seemed to grow dizzy and faint.

With an effort she aroused herself, carefully wrapped the wax impressions in some soft paper that she had in her pocket, and concealed them in her purse.

She extinguished the taped and pocketed that also, together with the burned match with which she had lighted the taper, that there might be nothing to betray the work of that hour. She then critically examined the keys to see that no particle of wax adhered to

She replaced them just where she had found them, closed and locked the desk, arose from her chair, and returned it to the very spot from which she had taken it.

Her next move was to glide like a spirit across the floor to Arthur's closet, which she entered, and unhesitating removing his keys from the trunk, The vanguard of the procession was where they hung, tried them, one by just coming into sight at the head of one, in the lock of the other.

The last one she inserted in the lock She turned it, holding her breath as she did so. She lifted the lid, and a gasp of horror, mingled with a suppressed excla-mation of satisfaction, told that she had found what she had expected and was looking for. Inside that trunk, at one end, there lay folded a heavy overcoat of coarse, rough cloth. At the other end, thrown in carelessly and evidently hastily, there were a wig of white hair, a false beard and a 'I knew it. I knew I should find them here!" Margaret breathed, with pant-to recognize.

Without making the slightest noise, she let down the lid of the trunk, re-locked it, and replaced the bunch of keys in the other lock, where she had found them. Then she went softly out of the closet and closed the door after her. "Step by step I have traced this mystery thus far; step by step, and link by link, I will trace it to the end," whispered, looking like some beautiful, avenging spirit. "I will ferret the whole truth," she went on, "and I will do it by myself! Oh, Louis! Louis! what will that truth prove to be? Shall ever have strength to accomplish it? Yes, I will have strength-I must know the truth." For a moment she stood in the center of the room, her hands clasped upon her breast, trying to still the fierce beating of her heart,

She had accomplished the purpose for which she had come that day; she had found, as she believed, some proof on which to ground the suspicions that had been growing during the last few

Becoming more composed, she stole to the door of the room and quietly unlocked 4t; then creeping feebly to the lounge, she sank, weary and almost exhausted, upon it, so thankful that she could rest now.

She looked at the clock upon the mantel.

She had not been twenty minutes in accomplishing what she had done. "I will lie here for half an hour; then I shall be able to climb six flights of stairs if necessary," she said, as a faint smile of triumph flitted over her wan face. She closed her eyes, and in five minutes was fast asleep, her heart and mind relieved, but her body wearied out with the excitement of the day. When Margaret awoke, she was much refreshed, and found that she had been asleep nearly an hour.

After rearranging her hair, she Arthur unnoticed, and slipping her father and Arthur sprang forward to "Your appearance indicates that your rest has done you good," said Mr. Houghton, noticing at once how bright

she looked. "Yes, indeed," she replied, passing Arthur, unnoticed, ond slipping her hand within her father's arm; "I believe I did need rest and quiet; and, I assure you, I have improved every moment of my time."

Describing the Start of Pekin's Bitter Siege.

Chicago, Aug. 27 .- From letters received by friends of Rev. W. F. Walker, in the Methodist foreign missionary service at Pekin, one of those rescued by the allied armies, the following vivid description of the siege is The letters were carried to the coast by friendly Chinese couriers:

"Our presence was ignored," says Mr. Walker, "by the yellow-faced men who surged about us, saying never a word. No one who has not had such an experience can realize the awful sense of isolation that seizes a European among the countless thousands of black-haired men, who can discern the feelings of unrest beneath their calm expressions. From their mysterious means of communication you well know that one and all are conversant with the secret plans against your life, but you may strain your ears for any note of warning from the expressionless faces.

"Old observers like Sir Robert Hart warned us and advised the removal of the women and children long before the storm broke, but there had been so many alarms that none was ready to heed. Such an outbreak has for years been impending, and no one was actually surprised when the gates were found to be closed and communication with the outer world cut off. On account of its naturally strong situation and extensive grounds the British legation had long been chosen as the stronghold for the foreigners.

CHINESE POOR MARKSMEN. "The murder of Baron von Ketteler shocked the foreigners into true conception of their danger. All hurried to the legation, and Sir Claude Macdonald superintended the supplying of the legation with food for a siege. Despite the most strenuous efforts at gathering in rice and poultry, when the gates were closed the chief fare in sight was pony meat and rice. The Chinese gathered on Legation street and barricaded it. Boxers soon obtained possession of Prince Sung's palace, across the canal from the legation, and kept up a steady rifle fire. These were the most troublesome of the besiegers, for their rapid shooting never ceased except when the marksmen went to dinner, giving the inmates of the legation a welcome respite of half an hour.

"The walls of the legation are tall and thick, and so far they have stood the fire well, but aid will be needed if the Chinese obtain reinforcements. So far their attack has been but sneaking and cowardly. They could have overwhelmed the legations easily if they had made a concentrated attack at the beginning. The marines arrived just in time. As the different legations were destroyed we could mark them by the rising smoke. The American and Russian legations have been the least damaged, for they stood almost within the protection of the guns of the British legation.

AIDED BY FRIENDLY CHINESE. "We would have had a hard time but for the smuggling in of fruit and vegetables by friendly Chinese. The stable gate of the legation opens into a market, and food was smuggled through this. Many contradictory communications have been received from the Tsung Li Yamen, first exhorting all Chinese to join with the Boxers to exterminate the Christians and then turning about and commanding our protection. "The very night after this friendly communication the most vicious attack of all was made upon us. Capt. Meyer, in command of the American marines, decided to make a sortie. His plan was opposed almost unanimously, for it was the opinion that it meant the destruction of the entire force. The Americans rushed out of the gate and quicker than you can think the street was swept clear of Chinese. The Americans suffered severely, and Captain Meyer was wounded. Later the Chinese obtained a position on the top of a high wall overlooking the legation, where they could shoot down into the inclosure. Had there been any marksmen among them they could have picked us off one at a time. It was decided that the wall must be taken. The Americans again were chosen, and, with a picked force, an assault was made. The cowardly Clinese having been badly whipped once, did not stop for conclusions a second time, and fled. The position on the wall has been held, as it protects the legation and gives an outlook over the surrounding country. "The fighting has not been so fierce except in the assaults, but the constant strain of waiting and watching has worn the nerves of the strongest. The most troublesome of the Chinese fighters are the rascals of Gen. Tung Fu Siang's army from Kansun. They are the most vicious and good-fornothing vagabonds one can well ima-

"If a heavy rain does not come soon a pestilence will surely break out. The legation has ten wells, so there has been no lack of water, but the canal must be cleaned soon or the wells will become contaminated. The health during the siege has been remarkable, since it is so unhealthy in Pekin during the

"If 430 marines cooped up in a little compound can successfully resist 10,000 or 20,000 savage and fanatical Chinese, why cannot 20,000 or 30,000 of the allies make an advance on Pekin? We wait full of anxiety, but with patience. Tell our friends quickly."

Toronto, Aug. 25.—Trade at Montreal was burned Sunday last, supposedly by the past week has been of moderate incendiaries, had about $30 in cash stolen from his store Friday night, and it is supposed these two prisoners are being made by the large wholesale firms here. The outlook for trade for the balance of the season is encouraging.

HOUSES

How similar is the ancient looking house to an out of date suit. And why not, since the clothing is the house of the body? People are often judged by the appearance of their esidence, as also are men often judged by the garments they wear. Those careful dressers who will be satisfied only with the most tasty and fashionable clothing are the people who deal with us. They are used to the newest and best lines, and they get these every time at this store. The styles, patterns and shades are strictly up to date.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 27 .- The The following citizens are requested faculty of the Chattanooga Medical to act on the various entrances to the College is making experiments with the weed known as "Gall of the Earth," with which the mountaineer Vincent lately cured himself of a mad-dog bite, and by which he cured others of the effects of the venom of poisonous snakes. It seems that Vincent is not the only person that knew of the use to which the weed might be put. In some places it is known as the "rattlesnake's master.'

Quantities of the weed are being transplanted for cultivation and experiment. It is now in bloom and bears a small white flower. The horticultural department of Clemson College at Charlestown, S. C., is experimenting with it also.

Pritchard, J. L. Foot Elm during the time of their long Fitzgerald, R. R. Bland, S. Grant, Jas. The benefit of this preparative. morning when they were preparing for their long marches. This remedy is undoubtedly one of the most valuable discoveries of the age for the cure of foot troubles. It not only prevents chafing and sweating, but it eases corns and bunions, and by its antiqualities it prevents septic cracking and rotting of the shoe leather. As the merits of this remedy become better known, the sale is constantly increasing, but every good thing is imitated, and we find that a great many unscrupulous dealers are trying to induce purchasers to try o'ther remedies when Foot Elm is asked for, It is unsafe to deal with men of this kind, for if they will try to substitute something else when an article of known merit is asked for, simply for the sake of making a few extra cents profit, they will substitute in the same way any prescriptions and family recipes when a person presents them. Foot Elm has been largely advertised in these columns the last few years, and hundreds of people in every part of Canada can testify as to its value. When our readers, therefore, ask for Foot Elm, they should insist on getting what they ask for. If they cannot do so, they should send 25 cents to the manufacturers, Messrs: Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., who will send the remedy to them, post-paid. bdbw

She had $5,000 worth of diamonds in a chamois bag, which she left in the lavatory of the sleeping car while coming to the city Friday. The jewels stolen consisted of seven diamond rings, an opal heart and a necklace, each studded with diamonds.

WHERE IS THE WILL? Toronto, Aug. 27 .- Mr. John Macdonald, head of a Toronto drygoods importing house, has taken action to establish the last will of his grandfather, Samuel Alcorn, who died a few months ago, leaving no will that can now be found, although it is asserted such a will is probably in existence. Some $300,-000 is involved. Mrs. John Macdonald, the late senator's widow, was a daughter of Mr. Alcorn by his first wife, a Quebec lady. After Mrs. Alcorn's death in 1897 Mr. Alcorn married a lady who was for a time housekeeper for him, and the family did not like it. It has been sworn that a will leaving the property of Mr. Alcorn to Mrs. Macdonald and her children was in existence up till a few months after this marriage, and the suit is brought to discover what has become of it. No will having been found, the present Mrs. Alcorn comes in for a large share of
