JOHN REDMOND'S DECLARATION

He Says the Irish Problem Is Dangerous to the Empire-T. W. Russell Predicts War.

Dublin, July 24 .- A new Irish land trust, which is called the Irish Land Trust of 1902, has been formed by the landlords as a defensive organization to resist the attempts of the tenants to force the landlords to sell their land. Another object of the trust is to obtain the cultivation of lands from which tenants have been evicted. The Nationalist party is determined to fight the landlords' combine, which has been admittedly formed with the object of crushing the United Irish League. John Redmond and his sup- rates for money are easy, and that porters are satisfied that the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Waterford, Col. Saunderson, Smith and Barry, unwisely, which action, it says, might and the other landlords who comprise the combine, are engaged in proceedings which bring them within the law of conspiracy. It is stated that the Nationalist Leaguers have decided to take legal proceedings against the landowners' trust.

IN THE COMMONS.

The House of Commons last night entered upon a series of Irish debates. When the estimates for Ireland came up for discussion, John Redmond, chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, moved the reduction of the salary of the chief secretary, Geo. Wynd-Mr. Redmond maintained that Mr. Wyndham had done nothing for the country, and that the Irish problem was more dangerous to the empire today than it has been for a at last accounts had not succeeded.

Russell (Liberal Unionist) member for South Tyrone, palliated disorder during the Defreyne evictions, brought about a heated denial from Mr. Russell, and lengthy exchanges between himself and Mr. Wyndham. Mr. Russell declared that only a man who had sold himself body and soul to the landlords would dare make such a said it would provoke a war, the end which no man could foresee.

THE MATTER OF NEGRO MIGRATION

Subject of an Interesting Debate in Chicago.

Bishop Grant Tells Colored People That They Have Won the Right to Stay Here.

Chicago, July 24 .- "I'll tell you when the American negro will go back to Africa-when the old oak, that has brav- that can never be improved. Coming ed the storms of a hundred years, goes from a land that gave up its wealth for back to the acorn! Ah, talk about leaving a country like this, where, to view her splendid achievements, one must climb to the dizziest heights, above all the world, and where will be spread before his feet the proudest deeds of all the ages! Tell me this is not my country! I and my people helped to build these 200,000 miles of railroads, we brought forth the corn, the cotton and the rice. By the sweat of our face we have earn-Cuiston, ed the right to sing, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' "

A vast audience gathered at Quinn Chapel to hear a debate on the following resolution: "Resolved, that for his future good, the American negro should migrate to Africa or some other undeveloped country." There were four speakers, country." and Bishop Abraham Grant, who presided, closed the debate in the above words. MR. WOODS' VIEWS.

"We are here to discuss a subject that has baffled the best minds for the past thirty, years," began the first speaker, J. T. F. Woods, who had the affirmative side of the debate. "It still baffles the profoundest thinkers of the age. It is not a question of what the negro wants to do. It is not a question of what the Anglo-Saxon wants the negro to do. The question is, what he had best do for his own good.

A TRUST CONFERENCE.

Replying to a question, the premier, A. J. Balfour, said that the Imperial Government was still considering its replied to Russia's suggestion regarding an international trust conference, but it was impossible as yet to announce Great Britain's attitude on the subject. As announced in a dispatch July 18, Baron De Stael, Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, about ten days previously presented to the British Government a note from W. Witte, Russian minister of finance, which was sent to all the other powers which signed the Russian sugar convention, proposing that these powers should st. consider in common means to protect international commerce against the artificial depression of prices, not only by government measures, but also by Fenwick. BOXERS STILL BUSY. As a result of the attempt of the government to collect a tax with which to pay the Boxer indemnity, according to a report by Rev. F. M. Chapin, of the American Board's North China Mission, an uprising has taken place to the west of Lin-Ching. Mr. Chapin says that thousands of troops have been sent to suppress the uprising, but Mr. Chapin adds that in one district Boxers are still carrying arms and oppressing Christians, and robberies and

Mrs. George at Last Succumbs Shot Dead While Making an to Starvation.

Cancer of the Stomach Was the Cause Five-Year-Old Child Made Drunk by -Most Pitiful Case.

Chesterfield, Ind., July 24.—After a fight with death for sixty-two days, during which no morsel of food passed her lips, Mrs. Amanda M. George on Monday succumbed to starvation. At the age of seventy-eight, with a vitality which was a puzzle to doctors and laity alike, she had for three months apparently set the grim destroyer at defiance.

Mrs. George's fast was neither for sensation nor on prescription of her doctors. It was compulsory, and the absolutely decline of her appetite till finally no liquid but water could be swallowed was, according to her physicians, caused by a cancer that gradu-

Mrs. George was a spiritualistic medium and regarded as one of the best in the state. For years at her home on Massachusetts avenue, Indianapolis, she had gone into trances and revealed secrets, past, present and future, for visitors. An intense believer in the return of those from the other world, she had passed each summer in the Spiritualist Comp. and this secson had Spiritualist Camp, and this season had again been invited by the Indiana Association of Spiritualists.

Mrs. George came to her cottage in May and was shortly joined by her daughter, Mrs. Ella Phipps, of Chicago. Mrs. George complained of suf-fering severely from stomach trouble, and refrained from food for a few days, hoping thereby to correct it. Instead of recovering, every attempt to take food caused the same agony, and the old lady tried soft diet, only to find that this, too, seemed beyond the possibility of her digestion. When consulted the doctor she was told that cancer of the stomach was her trouble, and she bravely resigned herself to slow death by starvation.

It was expected that she would not long survive, but as day after day

WELL OFF FOR PAPERS. The new owner says there ilwl be no radical changes in the appearance or policy of the Public Ledger. Mr. Ochs, who is the principal owner of the New York Times, Philadelphia Times and Chattanooga Times, when asked if the Philadelphia Times, which is now being successfully conducted by his brother George W. Ochs, is to be consolidated with the Public Ledger, replied: "Not at present, perhaps not at all." The Philadelphia Public Ledger is one of the oldest and most prosperous newspapers in America. It was established in 1836; from 1864 to 1890 was conducted by George W. Childs. It passed to the ownership of the A. J. Drexel estate when Mr. Childs died, and has been conducted up to the day of sale by George W. Childs Drexel, one of the trustees of the estate. Mr. Ochs' newspapers are all inde pendent in politics. The Public Ledger was notably so conducted by George W. Childs and his successor and his godson, George W. Childs Drexel, consequently the changes made in the style and character of the Philadelphia Times when its ownership changed a year ago are not necessary to the Public Ledger. L. Clarke Davis will continue as editor and John Norris, of the New York Times, will for the present act as business manager.

This loathsome disease is caused by germs that invade the air passages of the head, throat and lungs, and can be cured only by inhalation of medicated air. Stemach medicines, atomizers, snuffs are ineffectual, because they fail to reach the cause of the trouble. Catarrhozone is successful because it is inhaled to every part of the breathing organs, and has power to kill the germ, heals the inflamed tissues and prevents droppings in the throat. sides of the line. The prosperity of the United States always depends in large part upon the foreign market for our great cereal products, of which wheat is king. Its price is regulated in the markets of Liverpool, and, as that figure goes up, prosperity smiles on the great Northwest, and when it goes down plaint deepens in the hearts of the peo-

The low prices of a decade ago, which gave birth to the Farmers' Alliance and People's party movements, culminating in their capture of the Democratic party in 1896, were in no small degree due to the sudden prominence attained by Russia and the Argentine Republic in the food markets of the world. There had come to be an over supply of cereals which reacted unfavorably upon the United States. Since that time the consuming power of the world has been steadily increasing, and new markets, especially in Asia, have been opened for our cereals.

NEW CONSUMERS FOULD. New races have learned to wheat, the most aristocratic of grains, prosperity. But they, without being alarmists, may properly ask where this new Canadian wheat is going to, and what will be its effect upon the world's market in case present predictions are fulfilled. The United States is today exporting about 80,000,000 bushels in the kernel, and as much more in the form of flour. Mr. Knappn's 250,000,-000 bushels of Western Canadian production within a decade would thus be nearly double the present export of the United States. WHAT IT MEANS FOR CANADA.

The suggestion that the existence of such a food supply on British territory, Ledger estate, comprising about half with the cattle-raising possibilities of Australasia, would make the long-discussed British Imperial federation been acquired by James M. Beck, of differential tariff in favor of the colonies, as to the return to any general protective policy. But to American wheat raiser of the Northwest the consummation of the Imperial customs union scheme is not necessary in order to make the new opening of Western Canada a serious development. On a basis of only equal opportunity in Liverpool, as today, the Canadians would still get as much for their wheat as our own farmers, and their cost of transporting it there would

RESOURCES NOT UNDERSTOOD.

The world has very much misunderstood, and so failed to appreciate Western Canada, and an awakening frim this mistake seems to be coming suddenly. The isotherm of 60 de grees, which in July lies just north of Western Canada will be pro- Quebec at its eastern end, touches the mouth of the McKenzie about the Arctic Circle at the western extremity of the continent. Climatic conditions thus give Western Canada a distinct advantage over the eastern part, with Knappn, of Minneapolis, made in an which the world is familiar. HOW BOOMERS WORKED. Such is the present boom in Canadian land that 20,000 acres are said to be selling daily in St. Paul Minneapolis. This is an outgrowth to be sure, of the extraordinary boom in the high prices of their product and the resulting funds available for investment in the pockets of the farmers. Twelve years ago the ative mania r town lots. of the west was mostly Dazzled by the fortunes which had been made in Chicago through growth, within the lifetime of men then living, from a frontier post to world, the inhabitants of other western towns pictured a similar advance for themselves. Duluth was going to be a Chicago, so was Kansas City and Omaha, and Sioux City and Fargo, and a dozen other towns that might be mentioned. Land speculators did everything to develop the craze, they established street car lines purely for advertising purposes, which they soon had to abandon; they erected pretenand one which only the richer people tious municipal buildings, padded the have been accustomed to afford. High census and took every other means prosperity in the American home known to hypnotize the inspectors, market, the most important of all, has whether a native or a tenderfoot. It supported this upward movement of was a town lot boom throughout the Zealand, two from Natal, one from prices occasioned by increased demand the world over, until our western farmers are now in a state of unprecedented west ten years ago, and a town lot the West Indes, one from India and three from Rhodesia left to compete summer of 1893.

ALL AFTER FARM LANDS

present boom, almost as marked as which is being shot this week. that of ten years ago, is in farm lands Pte. Bennett is one of the lots, and yet the price at which the world market for our great cereals. Our own agricultural lands are pretty well taken up, although Uncle Sam still ewns millions of acres, amounting to 60 per cent. of the area of seventeen states-with slight exceptions, land on which no one could support himself in agriculture, except by smiting the rock of national irrigation. Accordingly, as the land boom waxes strong with that advance of which has created an anti-beef trust agitation among the consumers of the east, the western beneficiaries of this of the Canadians were as follows, at same upward movement are reaching 200 and 600 yards: Bennett, 34, 26: out for more land. The natural increases of population, of course, emphasizes the call, and Canada has just been discovered. Americans have found out that they can raise wheat there for the British market just as profitable as they can here, and they are pouring across the line.

AMERICANS COMING IN. In 1898 fewer than 10,000 Americans crossed the border, while this year it is estimated by J. Obed Smith, Dominion immigration commissioner at Winnipeg, that out of a total immigration into Western Canada of 50,000, the United States contributes 30,000 It has been predicted that we shall soon be pouring Americans into Can-ada at the rate of 200,000 a year, as we have so long been pouring them into our Northwest under a similar economic stimulation. A notable illustration of the way the plans of men askew is that when Sir John Macdonald built the Canadian Pacific Railroad, partly to prevent the Americanization of Western Canada, he the road a land grant of about 25,000, 000 acres. This is the very land through the company or its assignees, the American settlers are now buying; and they will bring about the Americanization of Canada, with greater rapidity than was ever before thought of.

CAPACITY OF CANADIAN FIELDS.

Last year Manitoba raised as much three territories of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Assiniboia, produced 62,000 .-000 bushels. The same section will other known grain food. ready made arrangements to receive | mends it. and grind Assinibola wheat, in bond. and is planning to build a great mill for the exclusive grinding of Canadian returns, has a population of 2,650,000 wheat for the export trade. Manitoba persons, of whom over 1,200,000 are alone has 2,500 miles of railway and other spur tracks are building. The Canadian Pacific is active, and the Canadian Northern, the new transcontinental, whose eastern terminus is at Port Arthur, is already pushing out from Erwood, 800 miles northwest to Prince Albert and Edmonton, and through the Yellow Head Pass, the lowest of mountain pathways, and down to the Pacific. It is also estimated that within three years the whistle of the locomotive will be heard on the shores of Hudson Bay. Our Northwest wants reciprocity with this adjoining Canadian country. It wants the removal of duty of cents a bushel on wheat, which senseless, since both countries sell in the same market, and with this, all avoided. TO BALANCE THE SCALES. In return, the Northwest would expect a larger Canadian market for its agricultural machinery and other products. A number of the harvesting machine concerns have already established factories in Canada, but this may be due to requirements of the patent law quite as much as to the tariff itself. Our Northwestern boundary line is purely an artificial barrier: it does not separate races, or inrier; it does not separate races, or institutions, or civilizations to any noticeable degree. For years Canadians like James J. Hill and S. R. Callaway, have been coming south of the line to grow up with us, while Americans are now going north of it to become subjects of King Edward. Since conditions of labor in this new wheat belt will not differ materially from those in the United States, it is easy to see how a vigorous agitation within the Republi-can party for Canadian reciprocity is bound to be heard in the near future. It will become a political question of erican wheat, or it might be exported the first importance, and if the North-through Port Arthur, on the northern west rally awakens to an economic adverse the strength of th shore of Lake Superior. The Canadian vantage, the tradition of leaving the tariff alone will probably have to give way. Meanwhile, Americans will be having a weather eye out for an opportunity to carry out an almost for-gotton plank of the Republican national platform of 1896, which read: "We hopefully look forward to the eventful withdrawal of the European powers from this hemisphere, and to the ultimate union of all of the English-speaking part of the continent by the free consent of its inhabitants."

CANADIANS SCORE WELL

Ten in Second Stage of King's Prize Competition.

Creditable Figures Made by the Team in Several Matches.

Bisley Camp, July 28.-Today the principal matches, in which the Canadians participated at the ranges, were the Alexandra and the Martin's challenge cup. The Martin cup is a rapidscoring competition. There is only one range-that at 200 yards-and each contestant, in firing his seven shots, has either to sit or kneel on a time American farm lands occasioned , by limit of one minute, and magazines must be used. The Canadians made the following scores in this match: Bennett 18, Bayles 17, Carruthers 22, Davidson 28, Jones 21, King 20, Lance-Corp. Mortimer 27, Moscrop 22, Sergt. Mortimore 26, Margetts 24, Mitchell 28, MacDougall 17, Peddie 26, Perry 18, Richardson 24, Rennie 19, Smith 26, Scott 29, Skedden 20, Spearing 26. Mortimer, who has been shooting splendidly, got his shots vithin the center circle of the target very time in the Handsworth competition, which opened on Monday. The distance is 800 yards, with ten shots. Mortimer's marksmanship yesterday at the several ranges in Kolapore cup competition was all the talk in the Canadian hut. His big score, the highest individual tally in the contest, pleased his fellow-count-trymen immensely.

There are ten men from Canada, eleven from Australia, six from New prize competition, which takes place on Friday. The investing public learned some-thing from such an experience, and so range, Sergt. Skedden, of Hamilton, not to be wondered at that the made 45 points in the Kynoch match, Pte. His score was 39, and at 600 yards 36, out of a possible 40 grain fields can be profitably held and at each range. Sergt. Bayles, in the cultivated must depend much on the Ladies' match, 600 yards, with eight shots, made a score of 39 out of possible 40.

The MacKinnon cup competition, over which differences occurred last week on account of an over-time allowance to Scotland, will take place on Monday next.

In the Ely revolver competition, with stationary targets, at about 20 yards, Capt. Margetts made 40 points. At the vanishing target his score was 37, and at right and left 70: In the Alexandra match the scores Bayles, 81, 25; Carruthers, 33, 28; Davidson, 33, 25; Jones, 31, 27; King, 33, 33; Lance-Corp. Will It End in Trade War?

Undismayed by the failure of the Peace Conference, the Czar has invited the nations to another council, the ob-Ject being to consider the trust movement and ways and means of protecting industry and commerce from this modern piracy. The American press sees a menace to the United States in the Czar's proposal. Among the nations of Continental Europe there is undoubtedly a strong feeling of alarm over the American "invasion," and a erystallizing of this sentiment, which may take the form of an economic alliance against the United States. A prominent official of the treasury department at Washington says the United States would do well to anticipate events by accepting the commercial treaties with European nations now pending in the Senate. It is not thought that any conflict will be waged on American breadstuffs, as that would only increase the price of the necessaries of life, but the prevailing view at Washington is that the Czar's proposal means nothing less than an attempt by Europe to put a discriminat- dollars a year. A Toronto paper says ing tariff on American manufactures. The method of procedure would be an agreement among the powers to impose a tax on all trust-made goods; which would, of course, strike princi-

the trusts. Mr. Balfour, in reply to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said that the British Government was still considering its reply to the Czar's to terminate. This is highly creditable suggestion, but it was impossible as to these gentlemen, and sympathy will yet to announce Britain's attitude. The hesitancy of Great Britain is easily understood. It is the cardinal principle of her foreign policy to maintain Dr. Langtry, the well-known Anglican friendly relations with the United divine, who is administrator of the States, and she would be no party to a trade war against that country, unit served to modify the attitude of our big neighbor in his international commercial classes of other countries are incensed when they find Americans States by the highest tariff wall in the economic truth that a nation cannot forever sell without buying.

Newfoundland and Canada.

The public affairs of Newfoundland should have an increasing interest for Canadians, now that the question of union has come to the front again and promises to become one of practical politics in the very near future. The population of the colony is 220,000. The public debt amounts to $19,640,000, or $89 per head, as compared with a per capita debt of $59 in Canada. Two-thirds of this debt, however, is represented by the railway across the island, which belongs to the government and which the Canadian Gov- jorities get the benefit of it. ernment would have had to build if the island had entered confederation in 1869. The Newfoundland correspondent of the London Times makes a strong hall, and will convert it into the appeal for union and advances some cogent arguments. He points out that the United States has secured from Newfoundland fishing rights along one-third the coast line of Newfoundland, under the treaty of 1818, and the tripartite status of Newfoundland. Canada and the United States with regard to the Atlantic fisheries, defers Canada is a constant sufferer. The from $30,800,000 to $50,700,000. Island holds the key to the situation by its possession of unlimited supplies of bait fishes to which the Canadians and Americans have to seek access. The Americans who want this bait to prosecute their deep sea fisheries off Grand Banks, can disregard Canada's endeavors to make the question the basis of a reciprocity treaty, because they can obtain from Newfoundland the concessions they need without consulting Canada. "If Canada," says the Times correspondent, "obtained nothing else as a result of absorbing Newfoundland but the right to an undivided administration of the inshore fisheries of the North Atlantic centered at Ottawa and with Newfoundland's present independent authority abrogated, the advantages-direct and indirect-would more than compensate her for any sacrifices she might have in Europe and Asia. to make in order to consummate the union and 'round off' the Dominion."

The question has also a strategic on the north and Cabot Strait on the south of the island. The great bulk of Canada's water-borne commerce is carried on via the St. Lawrence, and operating from it as a base, not only in the community.

would Canada be at its mercy, but it would not be safe for a cargo-carrier to cross the Atlantic. Cape Rice is the great landfall for all ocean shipping, and the main searoad is across the Grand Banks. St. John's dominates the whole Atlantic area away to midocean, and it is difficult to conceive of any more disastrous contingency for the Empire than that of an enemy's acquiring control of this, the oldest Another advantage of union, says the Times correspondent, would be the improvement of the St. Lawrence route. The sea trade of the Dominion moves past the Newfoundland coast, and many a disaster occurs there. The obvious remedy is to increase the number and efficiency of the coastwise-safeguards-lighthouses, fog alarms, etc. Newfoundland clearly cannot be expected to do this-first because she cannot afford it, and, secondly, because she is not obliged to protect Canada's shipping. At the present time she spends sixty thousand dollars on her lighthouse service, which is fully adequate to the needs of her own mariners; and therefore, her mere duty is done. But she also takes a trust conference is regarded as a larger view of the matter, and assists as far as in her lies in improving the greater lights, though this involves serious obligations. Canada, if she is to retain her St. Lawrence trade, must speedily safeguard the front door of the Dominion, and no means will enable her to do this so effectively as would confederation.

Banking and Marriage.

One of the great Canadian banks recently raised the salary limit upon which clerks are permitted to marry from a thousand to fifteen hundred that five clerks in one branch there resigned their positions in consequence. The inference is that they had contracted tender engagements which, pally at the United States, the land of under the new rule, they could not fulfill they remained in the ploy, and which they had no desire go out to them and to the other parties to the nuptial contracts. Rev. diocese of Toronto in Bishop Sweatletter to the Mail and Empire, conwould not prove fruitless, however, if demning the action of the bank. In part he says:

"What does it mean? Electing that trade relations. This attitude has four-fifths of the bank clerks can never invited reprisals. It is no wonder the marry at all. No one below an accountant ever gets $1,500 a year. And there is only one accountant to at least five other employes. And what does encroaching on their own markets that mean? Hundreds of young men while they are confronted in the United doomed to celibacy, not from any religious motive or choice of their own, the world. Apart from this the United their superiors. Married men on a States, in self-interest, should grasp thousand dollars a year might ask for an increase of pay, or might be tempted to steal. But why don't the managers and assistants see to it that the capable, skilled, faithful men who are serving them get sufficient salaries to enable them to live without trampling under foot the laws of nature and of life? And, again, who are most likely to steal the bank funds, married men, who are struggling on to keep themselves and their families on a scanty income, or men who fall into the dissolute ways to which life-long, constrained celibacy is almost sure to

Evening Song. [Sidney Lanier.]

Sidney Lanier. Sidney Lanier was born at Macon, Ga., 1842. On account of fil-health he went to Baltimore, where for a while he played the flute in the famous Peabody concerts—he was passionately fond of music, and brought marvelous harmonies out of his flute. In 1879 he became lecturer in English literature at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. He died at Lynn, N. C., in 1881. He wrote a novel, "Tiger Lilies," "Centennial Ode," "Science of English Verse," "The English Novel and Its Development," and a volume of poems.

Two Roads to Wealth.

[Toronto Telegram.] The man in the city believes that there is a fortune waiting for him if he could only get to the country and keep hens. The man in the country believes that wealth would reward him if no could only get to the city and keep boarders. These theories may point the way to affluence for some people, but it was not by keeping hens or keeping boarders that J. Pierpont Morgan made his first million.

When Ethel Pongs. [New York Herald.] Lithe, gesticulated grace And creamy waves of filmy lace; And creamy waves of nimy lace, Attitudes the Grecians knew,
The lovely dreams of poets, too,
Such fancies in the picture trace.
Flushing roses bring to view,
In moisture bathed, as with the dew,
The rare expression of her face,
When Ethel pings.

Each triumph adds a deeper hue; She sweetly ekes to score a few.
But, missing just within an ace,
There swift ensues a different case.
The world is sad and glum and blue,
When Ethel pongs.

The Sting in the South. [Baltimore Sun.]

If the north after conquering the south had treated it as the British now promise to treat the conquered South African Republic the bitterness of heart which lingered for years after the war would have healed almost as soon as the actual wounds. But instead of permitting the southern people, after they had laid down their arms, to return to heir homes and build up their shattered fortunes, they were subjected to a persecution of ingenious malignity, lasting through ten years, incomparably more bitter to a high-spirited and selfrespecting people than conquest on the field of battle. It is the memory of the cruel reconstruction period which yet lingers in the minds of the older peopl of the south that causes many of them to dissent from Gen. Alexander when he said that it is better for the south that it did not succeed.

CANNOT RETURN TO SOUTH AFRICA

Foreigners Who Fought the British Barred.

AGENT LEYDS IS INCLUDED

A Royal Commission Will Inquire Into Sentence Imposed by Military Courts.

London, July 24.-Denying a rumor that Dr. Leyds, who was the European agent of the Transvaal was returning to South Africa, Mr. Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, made the important announcement today that all those not of African birth who had fought against the British would not be allowed to return to South Africa.

A ROYAL COMMISSION. Lord Alverstone, the lord chief justice of England; Sir J. Bingham, judge of the King's bench division of the high court of justice, and Major-General Sir John Ardagh, recently agent of the government on the South African claims commission, have been appointroyal commission to proceed to South Africa, Aug. 9, and inquire into the sentences imposed by the military courts, with a view to ascertaining whether it is expedient that such fines and sentences be remitted or reduced.

NO BOER EMIGRATION. London, July 23.-In South Africa the Boer leaders are doing everything in their power to discourage the burghers from accepting the tempting offers for emigrants received from various parts of North and South America. In a recent speech at Cape Town, Judge Hertzog, ex-official of the extinct Orange Free State, declared that all the prominent leaders in the war had determined to remain in South Africa, and that they were anxious that their associates should join them in rehabilitating the fortunes of their native

TRADITIONS REMAIN. Cape Town, July 23.-Generals Botha and Delarey arrived here at noon to-They declined to be interviewed. Both start for England on July 80. Mr. Stayller, in a non-political speech, General Delarey said: have buried our Mausers and our flag, but not our traditions. So long as we everything.

A SOURCE OF GREAT DANGER. News from South Africa draws attention to the dangerous mission in Natal.

The organization in question is the "American Ethiopian Misso-called sion," and though it has only been in operation for twelve months, its work has been proved to be of a dangerously subversive character, inasmuch as it practically aims at promoting the predominance of the black race in Natal.

In his survey of the industrial and agricultural possibilities of Natal, Reuter's correspondent refers to the black danger, believing that the awful effects we have witnessed, resulting from the cry, "Africa for the Afri-kanders," are repeating themselves to an extent little dreamed of by residents in the towns, who know little or nothing of the workings of the native mind, and who are unprepared for what may happen in this case as they were for Kruger's ultimatum.

The ramifications of the new mission are already ubiquitous among the natives, and its significant effects are only too apparent already to farmers and to those who know the natives in-timately. The lightning had struck the massive tower on the First Methodist Church, and it was blazing fiercely right in the apex, where the strong wind fanned it

The alarm was given practically simultaneously from three quarters. Watchman Larkin, of the G. T. McDonald, who was in the neighborhood at the time, was the first to give the alarm, and the firemen responded immediately. When they got to the church they found that they were face to face with one of the most trying situations that they have ever The fire was raging at the very pinnacle of the tower, 155 feet above them, at the point to which a few years ago the venerable Samuel McBride climbed to place the weather vane in position. The firemen had brought only the common truck with them, the hope that it would help them to get at the blaze, but it was no better than the other. They decided to get at the

and sent back for the new truck in fire from the interior-a difficult and very dangerous undertaking. One line of hose was taken into the church. Inside it was dark as the proverbial stack of black cats, except at the intervals when the vivid lightning shone through the windows. They pulled the hose up one steep flight after another until they got to the landing, 120 feet from the ground, where their upward progress was delayed by the absence of any further stairways. It was necessary then to go back again to the road and carry up a couple of ladders with which to reach the top. The firemen had to criss-cross these and then were able to tackle the fire. ivew York, July 24 .- The proposed a vote of 56 to 10. The action of the board was in accordance with the re-port of the committee on railroads, which raised the objection to the proposed contract between the railroad company and the rapid transit commissioner, because it does not provide for pipe galleries in the tunnel for the use of the city; because no time limit is fixed on the construction; and because there is no provision for the employment of union labor at the prevailing rate of wages.

They Are Foolish.

Every citizen of London who has passed along Dundas street, between Wellington and Waterloo streets, lately has been impressed with the truly remarkable good sense and high public spirit of the city authorities who have permitted the signs that are there to be put there in the first place, and to remain there now that it is possible to see how silly they look. Granted that the roadway is in bad condition, and that the bickerings of the ratepayers prevent the construction of a new pavement, is that any reasonable excuse for those foolish signs? They say that the city will not be responsible for accidents which may occur there, and acknowledge at the same that the roadway is dangerous. But even in the midst of this self-deluding vision, she was jealous of him. That was the most ridiculous thing of all. Though she had resolved never so much as to speak with him again, to abjure part or parcel in his present, his future, everything but his past—she could not quite give that up; though she had clearly resolved she had no right ever even to think of him now, she could not help a pang of jealousy at his visible attentions to another. She should not have minded Lady Gertrude, she thought, so much; but who was this dark-haired, dashing dame, in whose opera box he seemed so completely at home? How she wished she had a right to counsel him, to plead with him, to implore him, for his own and his wife's happiness, to alter his ways! How she would have liked to write him a kind, persuasive letter, full of good advice and pure sisterly interest, which perhaps he would answer or would ask for an interview to have explained, and then—the card castle tumbled to pieces, as the chill consciousmuch as to speak with him again, to tumbled to pieces, as the chill conscious-ness came back that they could have nothing in common—nothing! that be-tween them there was a great gulf, none the less impassable that it was imagin-

The pink-tinged glasses were useless to The pink-tinged glasses were useless to eyes dimmed with tears. She laid them down, and turned wearily back to the mock sufferings on the stage.

well as great vocal powers, to fin to her own satisfaction.

The opera was perhaps more remarkable for dramatic incident than lucidity of plot. Everybody was atlached to the wrong everybody else, and neither the dagger nor the bowl were spared, in order that Bravoura might have the stage to herself for certain scenes, in which her contraits would prove most effective. How high she went up, how low she came, down, how spasmodically she twisted the turns of her variations, how when strained her massive throat, and grappled with her deep bosom, in shouts of triumph or shrieks of woe, never out of time or tune, it is impossible for a non-professional to describe. Sufficient to say, that Bravoura outdid herself, that Holyhead thought he never saw her look so ugly, and that Mrs. Montrellies, resumed her cross-examination. her look so ugly, and that Mrs. Mont-pellier resumed her cross-evamination that Holyhead thought he never saw her look so ugly, and that Mrs. Montpellier resumed her cross-examination of Gilbert under cover of the noise.

"Mr. Orme," she said, looking kindly and pityingly in his face. "I am a good deal older than you. Dear me, I might be your mother almost—at least, in India. I should call you Gilbert if there was anyone else in the box. Tell me what it is that makes you so unlike yourself? It's no use laughing and shaking your head and calling me 'your dear Mrs. Montpellier.' Of course I'm your dear Mrs. Montpellier. I've always stood up for you, and fought your battles and preferred you to most people. That is why I never wished you to make love to me; and, to do you justice. I don't think you ever tried. I like you all the better for I don't want to lose you as a is why I never wished you to make love to me; and, to do you justice. I don't think you ever tried. I like you all the better, for I don't want to lose you as a friend, and indeed I have not too many as times go. Now, you're a boy compared to me. No, I don't dye my hair, though I'm much obliged to you for looking at it so suspiciously; but I'm nearly forty, all the same. Listen to me. I've seen far more than you have. You know the world as prosperous people know it, just as you know this house all lit up at midnight; but you haven't seen it cold and comfortless at eleven o'clock in the day, and you don't know yet what a real world is any more than a child. Will I teach it you? I wish I could! You'll have to learn some harder lessons than I would set you. That is why I'm schooling you now, you innocent dunce. I'm no cleverer than my neighbors; but you don't suppose a woman goes through such a life as mine, is married twice, and loses all I have lost' (here the kind voice trembled). "O, Mr. Orme, for Heaven's sake, be wise! I have seen it so often, and I never knew it answer. Go out of town; go abroad—go to India even—anything rather than that." Her obvious earnestness gave him con-

So, with many breaks and stoppages, and much hesitation, out it all came;
how he had met the siren, and heard her seductive strains, and fallen a victim to the charm of the ear and the lust of the eye, and, above all, the longing of the heart; how he had watched for her, and worshiped her rather as an angel than a woman; and how her very station was his greatest impediment, not because it was inferior to his own, but lest she should dream for an instant that he presumed on such inferiority. that he presumed on such inferiority for indeed with all her softness and at tractions, she had the bearing of a queen Whereat Mrs. Montpellier smiled, recall ing the while certain similar rhapsodie ing the while certain similar rhapsodies that had once been whispered in her own eat. There was that in his glowing, earnest countenance and the accent of his voice, which spoke of faith and sincerity, and depth of feeling for which, prejudiced as she was in his favor, she would scarcely have given him credit. Could this be the careless, good-humored dandy who was proverbial for his utter insouciance and hardness of heart? She began to experience a certain curiosity gan to experience a certain curiosity as to the "somebody" who could have captive this champion among th Philistines, and longed to see the weapon that could thus pierce an armor of proof hitherto deemed impenetrable. Many motives combined to interest her in the progress of an attachment which partook of the nature both of tragedy and ant to the actors immediately concerned; for she could not but conceive that the "somebody" must be as devoted to Gil-bert as he obviously was to her. So she pondered for a minute or so be-fore she spoke, and Bravoura's roulades made the chandellers jingle again the Bowling proved the club's salvation during the years when rowing was impossible on the river, and interest in aquatic sport declined. Both departments are now in a healthy condition.

The Chatham rink is one which deserves credit for its efforts to promote the sport of bowling. It is a pioneer in the game, it having been started by J. S. Black in 1865. The membership has increased steadily from a small beginning, and now numbers over 60. Dr. Bray, one of the skips, was one of the original members of the club, and his delight in the game is as fresh as it ever was. He has been an ardent patron of and participant in all manly sports, devoting himself especially to bowling, curling and cricket. He is also partial to a good rubber at whist. R. G. Fleming, another veteran who has been playing since the club's organization, has made an efficient secretary for three years. To him is due much of the success of the club's Dominion Day tournament, when 26 rinks took part. The club's greens are in Tecumseh Park, Chatham's beautiful recreation grounds, situated on the historic spot at the junction of the Thames and McGregor's Creek, where old Chief Tecumseh made his first stand against the American invader before retiring farther up the river where the battle of Moravianthey cured me when doctors and other medicines failed. For fifteen years I suffered untold misery. When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines, I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I could not lie down to sleep, and everything I ate would almost cramp me to death. Was very nervous and could hardly

Of the trinity of celebratthe reign of William IV. the colors of perpetuate her fame as one of an English monarch were borne in a greatest of equine matrons, the palm, race. Great triumphs for his majesty both for excellence and money earned, as an owner only followed after small beginnings. So casual and unambitious indeed were his early essays that he may almost be said to have drifted involuntarily into ownership on a large Florizel II. was the first of the trio scale. His majesty's first race of any and the least distinguished of them on description was a modest effort at securing the regimental trophy of the Tenth (Prince of Wales' Own Royal) Hussars, a challenge cup run for at nerstheir steeplechase meeting near Hayes, Mr. Leopold Rothschild's Doricles, rein the Windsor district, on March 31, spectively.

Strive as he might after being remounted, too, and the records credit him with making gallant efforts to repair his fault, he had ultimately to put up with second place. Lord Valentia's Wellington was the winner. and Captain Wood his pilot. Six years elapsed before the royal colors were again on view.

It was at Newmarket on the occasion of a sporting match between a Syrian horse of invincible prowess in his naive land which his majesty had purhased at Cairo on his way home from dia, and a humble specimen of the English thoroughbred called Avowal, and owned by Lord Strathnairn. So that she might witness this equine struggle between the east and west, he present Queen paid her first visit Newmarket. It proved a sadly unexciting affair, Alep being hopelessly Leonidas II. and Capt. Wentworth

Hope-Johnstone were the principal actors in his majesty's first racing success, which was achieved in the Aldershot cup one dripping afternoon at the military headquarters in April, 1880. Both the King and Queen were present, also other royalties and a crowd of fashionables.

Of course, everybody is familiar with the careers of the two brothers; what a grand horse Persimmon was, and what a funny one Diamond Jubilee, and his savage fits, and his intolerance of certain jockeys, but not many know anything about Leonidas II. He had a checkered history from all accounts. Like Jeames' birth his early life seem to have been "wrop in mystery," but it is known that some little while before passing into royal ownership he was being alternately schooled to carry fifteen stones to hounds and driven in a cart.

It was the misfortune of a comrade in arms that gave Captain "Wenty" Johnston the mount on Leonidas II. The late Major Dalbiac had been asked to ride him, but a broken collarupset the arrangement, Poor 'Treasure," as his intimates called Dalbiac, if he lost this opportunity to distinguish himself, he found a nobler in the service of his sovereign and his ountry, for he is one of many brave soldier sportsmen whose bones lie unier the veldt. A diamond and emerald horseshoe pin, the gift of the prince, is Capt. Hope-Johnstone's treasured souvenir of this interesting occasion. 'What a wet afternoon it was," writes. "I had got drenched to the skin riding in the race before, and as rubbed my hands with a mixture sand and mud." Concerning a similarly interesting event under Jockey Club rules Sir George Chetwynd, in his gossipy reminiscences, says:

A very pleasant meeting took place at Sandown between Epsom and Ascot, 1886, and the Prince of Wales scored his first victory in flat racing. It was only a maiden plate, and his royal highness' representative Counterpane had odds of 7 to 4 laid on her, the opposition being very weak. When Arche was seen to be winning very easily in the royal colors a mighty shout war raised from stands and rings. The prince was extremely pleased, and John Porter's honest face beamed.

There was a tag appended to this mention of the Kingsclere trainer, which must have rankled at the time, though in after years it could not fail to give him infinite amusemen'. "Why," Sir George asks, "does not Poster buy his royal highness, some Porter buy his royal highness some better brood mares? At present they appear a sorry lot and selected for no ascertainable reason." It was after, althis exhortation, that Porter for a few hundred pounds purchased Per-dita II., and in this mare we have the founder of his majesty's racing fortunes. Except for it there would have been no Florizel II., no Persimmon, no efternoon at 2 o'clock sharp on the Diamond Jubilee, consequently no Der- Hung.

About £25,000 a year is now being earned by the brothers. Persimmen's share of this is nearly half. It has the late Duke of Westminster's Flying Fox, for whom M. E. Blanc paid 37,500 guineas out of his income from the thusiast, fresh from seeing Persimmon at Sandringham. "Why, he is worth £100,000." Actually, not all the wealth of the Indies would buy him away from his proud owner. Altogether his majesty has been racing in what may be called earnest now for a dozen years. Many enthusiasts less fortunate have doubled and trebled that expenditure of time in unavailing efforts to capture one Derby, but in it his majesty won the great Epsom race twice, lso two St. Leger's, the One and Two Thousand Guineas, Ascot's muchcoveted gold cup, the Eclipse stakes of c10 000 twice, the Manchester cup, the Grand National steeplechase, and a host of minor prizes, the whole exceeding in value £100,000. The most successful year was 1900, when his majesty won £29.333. It is customary to speak of Persimmon's Derby as the "prince's year." Really, however, 1900, better merits the distinction. It is true there may not have been over Diamond Jubilee the same delirious enthusiasm, the same utter abandonment to the emotions of the moment on the part of the crowd, but it deserves none the less to go down to posterity as the"prince's year." It was so both on and off the turf. It marked the epoch of his greatest splendor in racing, because Dia-mond Jubilee not only went one bether than his distinguished brother in securing the "triple crown," that is the Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby and St. Leger, but Ambush II. bore off the Grand National, which is to steep echasing what the Derby is to flat racing, and no other owner has ever won the two "blue ribbons" in one year. Nor has the Queen been without share in this pleasure. Indeed, Diamond Jubilee, upon whom this name was bestowed by the then Princess of Wales, in commemoration of his being foaled in jubilee year, is said to have been petted and pampered in his young days to a quite extraordinary extent by the ladies of Sandringham. Cer-tainly the princess always manifested the liveliest interest in the races. Once she was especially desirous he should win-the Princess of Wales' stakes at Newmarket-and she journeyed down expressly for the day in order him run, and as it was hoped, win. To the disappointment of the royal party, Mr. Hall Walker's Merry Gal trounced him severely.

"I am happy," his majesty once wrote in a confessional album, "when go to a race meeting without it being thronicled in the papers next day that his Royal Highness Wales has taken to gambling very seriously, and yesterday lost more money than ever he can afford to

There is no doubt as to his majesty's enjoyment of the national sport. He is an ardent lover of it, relishing it perhaps when he attends it in least state. A July meeting hard by shady plantation at Newmarket, with sensible hot-weather clothes and headgear to match, no doubt appeals much strongly to his sense of enjoyment than all the glories of the stateceremonied Ascot.

BAND CONCERT. Weather permitting, the 7th Regiment Band, by permission of Col. Little and officers, will give a concert in Victoria Park this evening.

An important exchange of real estate took place yesterday (Wednesday). Mr. G. W. Armstrong has purchased "Westwood," No. 64 Elmwood avenue, the residence of Mr. H. A. Stringer, part of the consideration being the house and lot No. 423 Dufferin avenue, owned by Mr. Armstrong. The grounds surrounding "Westwool" are spacious and contain some very fine native trees. Mr. Armstrong enters into possession next month, and there is a probability of Mr. Stringer removing with his family to Chatham, where he has an offer to go into business with Mr. George Stephens, M. P., of Chatham. The city loses a good citizen in Mr. Stringer and his many friends here will wish him all success in his new venture. DIED AT TILSONBURG. The death of Mr. Jonas A. Graves The death of Mr. Jonas A. year-old steers averaged $45, and twelve three-year-old streets averaged $60. Horses brought good prices, one brood mare selling for $160. There was a good attendance considering the busy time, and bidding was brisk. The whole sale amounted to $5,014, and was completed in four hours and a half. WELCOMED THEIR PASTOR.

A very hearty reception was tendered the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Moffat, of Chalmers' Church, last evening on their return from a well-earned holiday. The regular prayer meeting was in charge of the Westminster Guild of the church, and after devotional exercises the meeting evolved itself into a social gathering of the congregation to welcome the pastor and his wife. During the evening a very appreciative address of welcome was read by Miss N. MaLachlan, Mr. T. Robinson then in name of the choir presented them with a very pretty plant, and Miss Jessie Duguid and Master Nelson presented Mrs. Moffat with two beautiful bouquets of flowers. Mr. Moffat, on behalf of Mrs. Moffat and himself, thanked the congregation, choir and friends present for their kind address of welcome and for the very handsome plant. The following program was carried out: Piano selection. Mr. Bert Land and Miss Irene Whitticker; solos by Mr. Carson, Mr. W. Thompson, Mr. T. Robinson, Mr. A. Wicks. Miss McArthur and Mr. Thomas gave a duet and the choir, under the leadership of Mr. Bert Weir, sang one or two selections. Miss Batzner read the scripture lesson. Mrs. McLachlan led of London, of the disappearance of in prayer and Mrs. Pirrie presided over George B. Walker, aged, 13, on May a very enthusiastic gathering.

Many Blame Finance Minister De Witte for the Depression-The Changes in the Dreibund.

London, July 24.-The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times, dealing with the commission appointed to inquire into the depression of the agricultural population, says:

A. E. Munro has telegraphed saying that they will be here tomorrow, but a reply to a telegram which Mr. Charles "The government regards the question with the keenest anxiety, and there are indications that the leading be here this afternoon. When they do come, they will, if possible, be met by the 7th Regiment, and the committee will engage the 7th Band. Acting Mayor Winnett will deliver the address ministers are prepared to consent to sweeping changes in the fiscal policy and even in the internal organization of the country, if it be proved that such changes are necessary to obviate the condition of starvation among the peasants.

"Russian opinion is divided as to the causes of the depression. Many fix a large share of the responsibility upon M. De Witte, Minister of Finance, who, they maintain, artificially stimulates and encourages the industries and starves the agricultural interests, which are and must remain the mainstay of the country. critics point to the paltriness of the sums devoted, from the enormous budget, to agriculture and education. All the witnesses examined agreed that the initiative must come from above and be accompanied by the extension of peasant education.

PHILIPPINE WAR STATISTICS. Washington, July 24.-Major James Parker, of the adjutant-general's office, has compiled some interesting statements regarding the insurrection in the Philippines. There were 2,561 engagements with the enemy, more or less serious, between Feb. 4, 1899, the date of the battle of Manila, and 1902, fixed as the virtual fall of the insurrection. The larger proportion of these fights were attacks from ambush on the American troops or skirmishes in which only

It is to be called the central headquarters of universal Methodism. The price paid was £530,000. The ground comprises 2½ acres, and on it also stands Mrs. Langtry's Imperial Theater. It is possible that some arrangement will be made by which the Imperial Theater will remain where it is, though it may be transformed into an annex of the church house, the building of which, it is expected, will begin early in 1903. Since it was opened in 1876 the Aquarium has been a famous place of amusement for Londoners. The twentieth century fund of one million guineas, which the British Wesleyan Methodists begin collecting three years ago for educational, religious and philanthropic purposes, closed Dec. 29, 1901, with a final collection in the 7,270 chapels throughout the United Kingdom. The result of the day's collections reached about £75,000.
