China and Japan May Clash. London, June 28 .- The Shanghai correspondent of the Chronicle says that in wellinformed native and foreign circles there are fears of an immediate armed conflict between China and Japan over the Corean complications.

Preferred Death to Capture.

Paris, June 28 .- An Anarchist named Granier in Monticellier was heard to prophesy Carnot's death on Sunday. The police to-day went to arrest him. As they approached he seized a large knife and stabbed himself to death. The police are now certain that the murder of President Carnot was the result of a conspiracy between Santo, Labarie, Granier and others to avenge the executions of Vaillant and

LONDON, June 28 .- Replying to a communication addressed to him by the Anti-Gambling League, protesting against horse racing, Lord Rosebery in the course of his letter says: "My position is simply this: Like Cromwell, whose official position was higher than mine, and the strictness of whose principles cannot be questioned, I possess a few race horses, and I am glad when one of these happens to be a good Paris, June 28 .- President Casimer-Perier has accepted the resignation of Premier Dupuy and other members of the Ministry, to go into effect after the funeral of M. Carnot on Sunday. London, June 28 .- The Daily News' correspondent in Constantinople says: On May 13 members of the Greek Orthodox Church attacked a house in Ordu, Asia Minor, where Greek Protestants were worshiping. The rioters bombarded the house with stones for several hours. The Turkish police were present, but refused to interfere. Finally they escorted the Protestants to their homes and canceled their permission to worship in the town, despite the rights guaranteed by irmans and treaty. Paris, June 28 .- The oak coffin in which M. Carnot's body lies had a large crack in one side this morning. As the inner lining of lead could be seen the police commissary ordered that a new and larger coffin be made at once. Workingmen are preparing President Carnot's tomb in the Pantheon. It will be beside that of his famous ancestor and organizer of victory. The florists are showing wonders of their art. Carnot wreaths are exhibited at every shop. More than 1,000,000 francs have been spent here already for flowers. Four hundred wreaths have been received at the Elvace Palace in the last 48 hours. A society of Paris women has ordered a funeral wreath costing 5,000 francs. Mlle. Chiris, who is betrothed to M. Carnot's son, will send to the palace to-morrow a superb wreath eight yards in circumference composed of Countess Chambori daisies, veiled with white tulle, over which black crape will be

James Keir-Hardie frequently interrupted the Chancellor of the Exchequer during his introduction of the motion, which he said "elevated to importance an event of every-day occurrence." When the House of Commons, representing the nation, was saked to join in such congratulations, it was not calculated to raise the dignity of the members in the eyes of the nation, and he therefore protested against the motion. It was also unworthy of the House of Commons that a Cabinet Minister, a member of the House, should be present on such occasions. The custom was a relic of the past and ought to be abandoned. It was a matter of small concern to him whether the future monarch was a genuine article or spurious. (Cries of "Order!" CHICAGO, Ill., June 28 .- The great Pullman boycott has been in effect only three days, but in that time the American Railway Union has succeeded in tying up over 20 railroads which insisted upon handling Pullman cars, and the indications are that eight or ten more will be deserted by their employes within the next 24 hours. At Chicago sixteen or eighteen roads are now tied up.

It was estimated to-day at the headquarters of the American Railway Union that fully 40,000 men are now on strike on account of the refusal of the Pullman Company to settle its differences with its employes in the shops. AFTER THIRTY-FOUR YEARS.

How a London Lady Found a Long-Lost Brother.

Left Komeka in 1860 and Was Never Heard of Again-A Veteran of the United States Civil War-A Wandering Soldier's Story.

After a separation of 34 years a London lady and her brother were reunited in a peculiar manner a couple of weeks ago. In 860 Urban Gyde, the oldest of a family of four, left the "old home down on the farm" in the village of Komoka to seek his fortune in the United States. He was accompanied by a chum and neither got any further than Detroit during that trip. That summer when the corn was ripe both young men came home to visit, and shortly afterwards left again for Detroit. Gyde corresponded regularly with his folks for six months or more, and then the letters ceased. In a short time his chum returned to the village of his youth and Mr. Gyde's relatives naturally inquired after him. The replies received were far from satisfactory and the story told one day would be contradicted by a different story on the following day. In fact, so many different stories were told by the erstwhile chum that he began to be looked on with a great deal of suspicion and many dark hints were freely circulated about what he might tell if he only wanted to. Gyde by this time had disappeared as completely as if he was dead, and as he had been a young man of a saving turn, robbery was thought to have been the object of his death. To make matters worse the young man who had returned alone was said to be in the habit of crying out in his sleep imploring imaginary captors not to arrest him. Feeling ran high and there is no telling what might have happened if the young man had not cleared out one night and left the villagers even more impressed than ever with his guilt.

Then the Gyde family mourned for their brother as dead. Seventeen years passed by and the mother died. A half-dozen years more and the father, too had found a resting place under the sod. The children now began to scatter. Emma came to London and went into the grocery business on Horton street, Edwin Gyde married and drifted into the lumber trade at Edy Mills, in Dawn, while Harriet married Mr. Samuel Whindell and also re moved to this city. Mr. Whindell is an employe of the Grand Trunk Railway and lives in a rose-covered cottage opposite Aberdeen school on the Hamilton road.

About six weeks ago a transient chopper was given some work by Edwin Gyde at Edy Mills. He was an American and a G. A. R. man, and in the course of his talk with Mr. Gyde he informed him that he fought side by side with a Corpora Gyde throughout the Civil War. Their regiment, he said, was the Twentieth Michigan Infantry and they had served in the company "D." He could not think of his comrade's first name, but remembered that they called him "Jack" because life was too short to be always trying to remember the queer name he had. This set Mr. Gyde thinking and he communicated with his sister, Mrs. Whindell. The latter is a lady of decisive and prompt action and she at once asking for information. She was told in reply that Urban Gyde had served during the war in the regiment mentioned and had been honorably discharged when the regiment mustered out in Washington at the close of the strife. She was further told Lyons, Mich., about 36 miles from Detroit, and was probably there yet.

The postmaster at South Lyons further corroborated this and a couple of weeks ago Mrs. Whindell started for South Lyons to give her brother a gentle surprise party. She inquired of the whereabouts of his house at the postoffice at South Lyons and asked if he was married.

"Oh yes," replied the girl in charge, "he is not only married but has sixteen chil-

Mrs. Whindell lost her breath and sat down. Then the young lady aforementioned modified her former declaration by assuring her that the were dead. Mr. Gyde was not at bome when Mrs. Whindell called. He was on another portion of his farm and his wife looked suspiciously at her visitor when she asked if she could sit down and wait. After awhile she told who she was and the object of her visit. Mrs. Gyde was doubtful and expressed her doubts freely about Mr. Gyde being the long lost brother. She told how a man claiming to be Mr. Gyde's brother had worked on the family stock of charity to the extent of two square meals and then disappearad. But Mrs. Whindell had family history to fall back on. Had Mr. Gyde a birthmark? "Yes," answered Mrs. Gyde.

"Where ?" asked Mrs. Whindell. "No; you tell me where," replied Mrs.

last and by the same token so was she. But they recognized each other and the meeting was indeed affecting. Mr. Gyde is 54 years old now and several times a grandfather. His war reminiscences would fill a volume. Mr. Gyde explained the reason why he did not write. After the war he was ashamed of himself at his negligence. Shame grew to apathy and apathy to indifference and the letter was never written. Mrs. Whindell returned home the other day and brought her little 10-year-old niece, Minnie, with her.

Gyde. Then Mrs. Whindell told her that her brother had a red birthmark on one side. This was too much for Mrs. Gyde and she began to think she had found a sister-in-law. Then Mr. Gyde came in. He was 34 years older than when his sister saw him last and by the same token so was she.

TAKEN OUT OF THE WHIRLPOOL.

Body of an Unknown Weman Found in the Niagara River. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 28 .- The body of a middle-aged woman was taken out of the whirlpool this evening, the only clothing on the body being a pair of black stockings and shoe, black corsets and waist. The head was void of hair and the scalp hung down over the face. The body was of a slender-built woman, and had apparently been in the water for two weeks. It is supposed to be that of a woman who stopped at the Keating House with a child a few months old for a week, and left the hotel without paying her hotel bill or the medical attendance. She and the child were both sick while at the hotel. She stated she was the daughter of an English Church minister of Montreal and her husband a lawyer of Oswego.

Kennedy, of Toronto, Ont., first vice-president; Rev. P. H. Rowan, of Evansville, Ind., supreme treasurer; M. J. Kane, Buffalo, supreme secretary, and Edward Kessing, Greenburg, Ind., supreme commander. A ladies' auxiliary to the R. C. U. K. of St. J. was suggested, but no action taken. DITH. (Toronto News, Conservative.) A survey of the field shows that the Conservative party in the Province, if such exists outside of Toronto, will be represented by only a faction. The Patrons are now almost as important as the remnant of what was once a great party. The late contest shows sadly how disorganized the Conservatives are. Mr. Meredith is an honorable and gifted man, but he is not a politician, and it is doubtful if he could carry a general election in a century. If the Conservative party does not want Ontario to go hopelessly Liberal it will have to reorganize from end to end.

Brilliant Closing Exercises of This Popular College. a Witness.

Eight Days of Artistic Treats-Graduates Acquit Themselves Splendidly -The London Symphony Orchestra Present,

In the commencement exercises of Alma College the high reputation long since won by the school has been sustained by the students of '94. After a series of examination recitals and undergraduates' programmes which were highly gratifying to all interested, showing that excellent work is being done in all grades of the different departments, the final exercises began on himself on the day Hartley went to Ham-June 18 with a music recital by Miss Blanche Risdon graduate in the violin course. Her playing was excellent in all particulars, and displayed not only fine talent but reflected great credit on her instructor, Prof. Pococke.

On June 19 Miss Bessie Merrielees, post graduate in elocution, gave a well-selected programme. Miss Merrielees is evidently possessed of a true literary temperament, which enables her to read with an understanding and feeling quite unknown to readers who are imitators of their precep-

The undergraduates' programme of June 20 was a bright and pleasing programme of a miscellaneous character, with the largest share devoted to essays, well written and interesting.

The graduates' music recital on June 21 was a class day exercise, and seldom if ever has a better or more interesting programme of classical music been presented by the students of Alma. Miss Kate Clement's playing was brilliant and spirited. Her rendering of a sonato by Beethoven was much admired, "Dancing Waves," played by Miss Colling, was one of the favorite numbers of the programme. The bright and sparkling effects belonging to the selection were well brought out by Miss Colling's light and delicate touch. In technique and musical interpretation Miss Gerolamy ranks high. The concerto in "b" sharp by Hiller was particularly well adapted to Miss Gerolamy's range of feeling, and too much cannot be said in praise of her talent and industry. Miss Robinson, the post graduate in music, rendered "Scheye" by Chopin in a style which was at once vigorous and full of fire, showing her appreciation of the style of music. Miss Van Velzer, a graduate in vocal music, possesses a rich and powerful voice which continued culture of mind and soul will in time render beautiful. In her high notes Miss Van Velzer is particularly good, her tones being true and clear. The opening of the art exhibit is invariably one of the most pleasing closing entertaiments given by Alma College, and the programme provided on the evening of June 22 by the art class of '94 was no exception to this rule. It consisted of music, essays by the graduates-Miss M. L. Beckwith and Miss M. P. Proctor-and a lecture by Prof. Seavey on "Sculpture, The ladies were present in large numbers, Ancient and Modern." At the close of the and none were more enthusiastic than they programme in McLachlin Hall, ence was invited to ascend to the studio, where the work of the students was exhibited. Miss Beckwith's water colors received marked attention. The draperies in Miss Proctor's studies were very noticeable for faithfulness of texture and clearness in coloring. The work of Miss Beattie, who has been taking a post graduate course, is especially promising, and shows, indeed, very considerable talent, particularly her industrial designs.

The elecution class day programme took place on June 23, and was an occasion of unusual interest. Miss Charlotte Springer's "June," a pastoral selection, given with scarcely a gesture, and in simplicity and general elegance, was not excelled during the evening. In the rendition of "Court-ship of Mr. Bumble and Mrs. Corney," Miss Jost showed herself a possessor of vening July 3. The Alliance Council will talent which should make for her an extended meet at 9 a.m. of that day. The convention proper will organize at 11 a.m., and was "The Boat Race," as told by Mark will meet for business at 2 p.m. On Twain. Her calls announcing the depth of water as the lead was thrown could not have been excelled by a genuine Mississippi beatman. The Baccalaureate sermon was preached by J. W. Annis, M.A., London, on Sunday, June 24, in McLachlin Hall. The text chosen by Mr. Annis was from Revelations, xxi., 5, "And behold I make all things new." Mr. Annis' elequent discourse commanded the closest attention. The religious reunion in the evening was in charge of Principal Austin, and was the occasion of much tender interest.

The annual closing concert, under the directorship of Prof. St. John Hyttenrauch, deserves the highest encomiums. It is only fair to say it was the best concert ever given in Alma College. The London Symphony Orchestra of some sixteen pieces was most enjoyable. Their music was harmonious and rhythmical, and the honors of the success must be divided evenly between nemand the "Sweet Girl Graduate Choir," hat made a lovely background to the picture on the platform. Every number was a good one, and well deserved the applause so generously given. Convocation took place on the afternoon of June 27, when certificates of standing and diplomas were awarded to the applicants. The programme was opened with music. Then followed an interesting essay, 'The Rise of Poetry in America," by Miss Deacon, graduate in the literary course, and turn tickets on starting. These tickets the valedictory by Miss Schell. Addresses will be sold for $3 more than the amount were given by a number of prominent were given by a number of prominent gentlemen present, and the exercises closed with Principal Austin's address on "Unappreciated Factors in Education." BRANTFORD, June 28 .- The trial of Mrs. Maria Hartley and Henry Ling, charged with the murder of the former's husband, was resumed to-day. Ling was discharged with the consent of the crown.

Ling was then put in the witness box ilton. Mrs. Hartley told him she had given Caleb a big dose of "Rough on Rats" in rhubarb pie. She added that she had intended to do it three years ago, and offered him (Ling) $1,000 to keep quiet. She wanted the insurance and was going to have it. Ling refused to keep the secret, and told Mrs. Hartley if he had known that he never would have worked there. Mrs. Hartley said she could have any young man of 20 around New Durham. She had been giving her husband "Rough on Rats" all along. The Saturday before Caleb Hartley died Mrs. Hartley told Ling she had given him a big dose and never expected to see him return trom Hamilton alive. Mrs. Hartley used to send Elsie Kenkwright out to watch that Hartley did not come home when Ling was

CHICAGO, June 28 .- The preliminary examination of Special Agent Maxwell, of the G. T. R., as accessory to the murder of Geo. Newcomb, a special agent of the Chicago and Western Indiana road, brought out facts relating to the plundering of the railroad companies by employes and special agents employed to detect thieves which have so far become public property that it is now known that the railroads affected have lost between $50,000 and $75,000 in merchandise and baggage intrusted to their Thestory as developed shows a remarkable system of robbery covering a period of more than six months and checked by the killing of Newcomb. His tragic death brought to the attention of the superintendents of the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad and the Grand Trunk the details of the criminal combination which worked almost under their eyes, and while this may not lead to the detection of the murderer of Newcomb it has already started a complete reorganization of the special agents' systems employed by both roads.

THE FRASER RIVER FLOOD. Statement by the C. P. R.'s Chief En gineer-Newspaper Reports Were Exaggerated.

MONTREAL, Que., June 28 .- Mr. P. A. Peterson, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to-day from the inspection of the flooded British Columbia district. Speaking of the effects of the flood Mr. Peterson said: "The damage was serious, but not at all of the character described. There has been frightful exaggeration in the papers about this matter. There was damage undoubtedly, but for a great railway it could not be said to be of great proportions.

"When I left the Fraser was subsiding. The upper Fraser had fallen 25 feet; the lower 8 feet. The situation is rapidly im-

-We understand that Mr. Thomas Gamey, who defeated Mr. Rooke, the Conservative candidate in Center Grey, is a man of thoroughly independent character. At one time he was a Conservative, but in recent years he has been decidedly opposed to the trade policy of that party, and consequently allied himself with the Patrons as a "tariff for revenue only man"-which, by the way, is a prominent plank in the Liberal principle. We expect that Mr. Gamey will, like the large majority of the Patrons elected, give Sir Oliver Mowat a last few weeks by printing anonymous

THE CONFERENCE AT OTTAWA-We wish every success to the intercolonial conference that is now in session at Ottawa on one condition, and that is that its members resolve to promote their objects on British principles. The majority of Canadians desire no extension of the "protective" idea, but they would welcome, both in Canada and throughout the other dependencies of the British Empire, a wholesome extension of British freedom to buy and to sell. Trust the people, acknowledge and too cowardly to stand wheresoever found, to make the most of their earnings. They require no governmental red-tape to guide them when they trade. Remove the barnacles, and the great English-speaking race will be the most prosperous in the world.

HOW TO NURSE A CON-STITUENCY.

A new order of things is coming into the public life of Canada. Constituencies are no longer contented with men that they elect if they merely sit and vote at Toronto or at Ottawa, as party interests demand. The member-elect, if he would keep his hold on the good graces of the electors, must see his constituents frequently. He must have the courtesy to call them together, every now and again, and give an account of his stewardship, as in Great Britain. Only by doing this can he keep in touch with the electors and retain their confidence. Several good men on both sides were defeated in the recent Ontario elections because they had degenerated into old

Representatives who keep in touch with the aspirations of the rising generation of voters rarely fail to hold their own.

The latest returns make three changes in the returns of members for the Legislature. Mr. Conmee, West Algoma, is defeated by Haldimand, Mr. Senn, Conservative Patron, is found to be a Government officer -an issuer of marriage licenses-and as he did not resign that office before he became a candidate his seat is vacant, and must remain so till the new House meets. Then Mr. A. F. Wood, who would have been a member of the new Government if the Opposition had succeeded, has been defeated in North Hastings by an Independof the Liberals. The situation may be summed up as follows:

Voting generally with Voting generally with the Liberals. the Conservatives. Liberals.....49 Conservatives......16 Patron Liberals..... 8 Patron Conserva-

Sir Oliver has held the House with much narrower majorities than this. In 1883 he began the first session of a new Legislature with a majority of only 8. But in the byeelections held during the year his following was increased to 20. So it will be after the recounts and bye-elections that are certain to follow this year. Sir Oliver's majorities will grow.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT.

It is often asserted that the price of wheat is fixed at Liverpool, and that a protective" tariff can neither raise nor depress it. A correspondent of the Chicago Times points out that this is only a half truth. A protective tariff drives away custom from every country that adopts it. Here is some pertinent evidence: "England and Holland are to-day the only countries which have not a tariff tax on our breadstuffs. But even to these countries we can ship but little in spite of the low freight (18 cents per 100 pounds on flour to Liverpool) as the English grain dealer prefers to buy his wheat in other countries like the Argentine Republic, where there is no trading in options and where he can buy wheat for December shipment as cheaply as -It is satisfactory to learn from the cash wheat, while we here are compelled to and sells short 100,000 bushels December wheat and makes us here in America actually pay storage, interest and insurance on the wheat other countries sell them. This is the main reason why there are more 'bears' than 'bulls' at our grain markets pressing down prices, and we thus aid and nurse our competing wheat growers in other countries.' He argues that free trade and the transferring of the taxes from improvement and production to the land values would remedy the evil. 'It would, 'he says, 'set our commercial wheels in motion again within 24 hours, and we would then not be compelled to pay $16,-000,000 a year royalty on coal alone to men who do absolutely nothing for the good of the American people." Why should the people not vote to get their own every time they have the opportunity?

EVILS OF ANONYMOUS LETTER-WRITING.

A number of Ontario newspapers got themselves into grievous trouble during the letters in the interest of their respective candidates for the Legislature. The newspapers who have not been threatened with libel suits because of the insinuations or statements contained in these anonymous contributions have at least found themselves in disrepute because of the ribstabbing nature of the letters.

This is natural. Every experienced editor knows that the man who writes a letter for the press, and is afraid to father it, can rarely be trusted. In ninety-nine cases out of every hundred he desires to write something which he is ashamed to up for and defend. By keeping in the dark. he throws the blame for the sentiments expressed upon the journal that accepts his writings, thereby distinctly lowering it in the estimation of every fairminded man and woman who reads it.

We have heard but of one defense for the anonymous, irresponsible letter, and a moment's reflection effectively disposes of it. The man who is dependent upon others for a living-especially the wage-earnerwould be deprived of the opportunity to bring his legitimate grievances before the world if he could not address his fellowcountrymen anonymously. Thus, necessary reforms would be delayed, and the poor unfortunate dependent would be trodden down by the press that would refuse him a hearing! That is the excuse

Not so. This is not an age of suppression. There is not a man or body of men with a legitimate grievance to-day who cannot find opportunity to place both sides of a question before the public. Some newspapers, like the ADVERTISER, are prepared to voice the reasonable demands of any man or woman in the community. If it is found, on due inquiry, which is made with alacrity, that a wrong is being done to any one, there will be no difficulty in getting the matter ventilated. The anonymous rib-stabber does not generally represent the down-trodden. He voices his own views, nine cases out of ten, and he does so anonymously because he has not courage enough to take the conse-

PARTIES IN THE LEGISLATURE. by editors, it seems to be absolutely im- I regret very much the injustice which I possible for newspapers to keep out of libel suits, or to conduct their business in an entirely creditable manner. After viewing the results we are astonished that there the narrow majority of 7, but it is possible is not a resolution, along the whole line of that a recount may give him the seat. In I newspaperdom, to get on the plank in the ADVERTISER platform that calls for "no anonymous letters."

THE TIME TO ADVERTISE:

(Albany Argus.) Especially in hard times and dull business seasons it is necessary for every man who has anything to buy or sell to advertise his wants. When times are most prosperous advertising is not so necessary. The public are not so keenly looking for bargains. Money is not so carefully ent Conservative who received the support | measured out to go as far as possible. Customers do not go over price lists and spend so much time seeking to purchase to the best advantage.

Some business men advertise most during brisk times and in all seasons make their first retrenchment by reducing the amount of their advertising space. This is just the opposite of what a sound business policy should dictate. In dull seasons the amount of advertising should be increased in order that people may know where they can get the most for their money.

The youngest member of the coming House will be Mr. McLaren, Patron Liberal M.P.P., East Hastings. He is but 24 years of age and looks younger. He is said to be a very bright young man.

The total number of votes on the roll in South Brant is 6,801, and the total number polled, 4,594.

Hon. Mr. Laurier sent the following telegram of congratulation to Sir Oliver Mowat:

"For myself and for the Liberal party, I tender you my sincere congratulations. "WILFRID LAURIER."

One story current is that Mr. Meredith s anxious to retire from political life, and in connection with this the name of Mr. Whitney, of Dundas, is mentioned for the Opposition leadership.

Principal Grant, of Queen's University, in an interview says: "Of course, I regret Mr. Harty's defeat, Since I have been in Kingston we have never had a member who devoted himself so to the best interests of the constituency, and who was so well fitted by business training and capacity to do good public service. But in every general engagement there will be losses of good men on both sides. I regret Mr. Clancy's defeat as sincerely, and drop a tear even for poor Sol. White.

J. L. Haycock, the Patron-Liberal candidate for the county of Frontenac, was elected by a majority of 145. He did not spend $50 in the campaign and conducted it personally. He was weakened by all manner of falsehoods. The Roman Catholics on Wolfe Island, Howe Island and in Bedford towship were told that he was a P. P. A., and he lost many votes by the circulation of these lies. Orangemen were told Haycocok's mother was a Roman Catholic, and temperance men were informed he was addicted to liquor drinking. His victory is the greatest in the history of Frontenac for 64 years. He is a staunch Liberal and will look after the cause of the Patrons in Parliament.

The Mowat Government returns to power with a straight Liberal majority over all other parties of at least six, and possibly 10. This would be enough in any event in a house of 94 members, but Mowat's real strength is far greater. Of the fourteen Patrons of Industry who are elected, more than half were formerly Liberals, and are still strongly Liberal in their leanings, outside of the Patron platform. Some of them, for instance, Pardo, of West Kent, and McPherson, of Glengarry, are probably more Liberal than Patron on any question. It may be taken for granted that for average government purposes, Mowat will have a majority nearer 20 than 10-too large a majority for the good of the Province from even a Liberal point of view .- Ottawa Journal (Conservative).

There will be a recount in the Kingston election. A meeting of leading Reformers has been held, and they think there is sufficient evidence to warrant the ballots being counted over. The Whig says: 'Never before in the history of this city was a Liberal candidate or a Minister o the Crown more bitterly or prejudicially opposed than Hon. Wm. Harty. Never were more campaign yarns hatched, more religious bigotry used in appeals to the people, or a more determined effort made to defeat, by foul means, a good, honest public man than were employed in the defeat of Mr. Harty, and never did Kingston surprise the Province worse than yesterday. Already Hon. W. Harty has requests from four ridings to accept an invitation to be their representative, but until after the Kingston election is settled the kindness cannot be considered. Mr. Harty has received more courtesy and thanks from strangers than from those who owe him

THE PERSONATION SLANDER.

Mr. John Stevenson's Manly Explanation.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: Seeing by the papers of yesterday that my name appears in connection with an error which I made in voting at the recent elections, I wish to make some explanation. The error in question arose from the fact that I have two given names, "Orlando" and "John." A friend had my name put on the lists for me, and I did not take the precaution to find out which name would ppear. I always receive the name "John" and never sign myself "Orlando" unless my full name is required. I reside at 434 Dufferin avenue in subdivision 1, ward 4. I went alone at noon of the 26th to pell my vote in subdivision 1. When the name John Stevenson, 380 Dufferin avenue, was read to me I explained that my name was John Stevenson, but that my addrrss was 434 instead of 380 Dufferin avenue. As no other John Stevenson in the subdivision appeared to be known by the scrutineers and deputy, and as I myself did not know of any, no objection was raised and was allowed to vote. Late in the afternoon I was informed that the name Orlando Stephenson, through some mistake. appeared in the lists of subdivision two. I immediately went to subdivision two to see if the error which I had made could be Compelled to Publish an Emphatic De nial of Its Insinuations.

The following paragraph gives another instance of the length to which our local contemporary will go in order to get a thrust at citizens whose political principles do not accord with those of the Free Press. In Thursday's issue of that journal this paragraph appeared:

"Mr. John Hoile, sen., of Askin street, died suddenly of convulsions yesterday. He had been seriously ill for some time, and was taken from bed Tuesday to vote for Mr. Hobbs, the Grit candidate, by his physician.

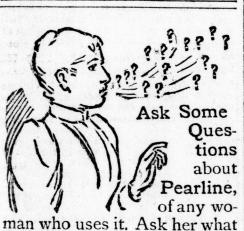

In its next issue, the Free Press had to give its malicious insinuation an emphatic denial by the publication of the appended letter:

"The Physician Exonerated.

"To the Editor of the Free Press: "Dear Sir,-Permit me to correct any mproper inference that might be drawn from your local paragraph in last night's edition referring to my father's death. The paragraph in question stated that he died suddenly in a convulsion Wednesday forenoon. The statement so far is correct. But it was further stated that my tather had been seriously ill for some time, and that he was taken from bed the day previously by his physician to vote for Mr. Hobbs, the Grit candidate. I beg to state in the first place that he was not seriously ill for some time, in proof of which I need only say that, less than a week ago, he passed a satisfactory medical examination before a military surgeon in this city. He had been confined to the house, not to his bed, for only a couple of days, and was not seen by the physician until Tuesday about 10 o'clock. So far from the medical attendant exercising any influence to have him vote that day, that gentleman declined to accede to his desire to go out to vote until the evening, ten or fifteen minutes before he voted. At that time a change in his condition relieved him of the distress from which he had been suffering since morning, and not till then did his physician inform him that he could now go out to vote if he wished. It was in compliance with my father's request then made that the doctor drove him to the polling place, three or four blocks distant. As his physician anticipated, he felt on his return from the short drive decidedly better, and continued to improve up to the time on the following day when he unexpectedly took the fatal convulsion.

"These are the circumstances of the case, which, unsolicited and of my own accord, I have thought proper to give to you for publication in justice to the attending physician, upon whom the paragraph seems to reflect, and in whose skill and judgment my deceased father had the most unbounded confidence, a confidence which is still shared by the surviving members of his family. Respectfully yours, "John Hoile, Jun.

Opening Meeting of the Delegates in the Senate Chamber.

A Large and Imposing Gathering of Prominent Men.

The Intercolonial . Representatives Welcomed by the Governor-General.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.) OTTAWA, June 28 .- On this, the anniversary of her Majesty's coronation, the delegates from the most important colonies of her Majesty's empire met in conference, and were welcomed by her Majesty's vice-roy, the Earl of Aberdeen. The function took place in the Senate Chamber, which, with its handsome red upholstering, richly decorated panels, and beautiful stained-glass windows, needed no orna-mentation to enhance its splendor. The audience was a distinguished one. The Governor-General presided and was supported by Sir John Thompson, Hon. Mac-Kenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. A. R. Angers, Hon. T. M. Daly, Sir Frank Smith, Sir Hibbert Tupper, and Hon. John Costigan. The loyal Opposition were fully signalized by cheers. The Supreme Court, clergy, diplomatic corps, militia, civil service, deputy ministers and officials were well represented, and delegates from the boards of trade of Montreal, Toronto, Kingston, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Peterboro, Stratford, Quebec, Winnipeg, and other towns were present.

Speeches were made by Lord Aberdeen, Sir John Thompson and the Earl of Jersey, the British delegate. They all eloquently expressed the hope that the result of this conference would be to strengthen the bonds of affection between the colonies and the mother country.

His Excellency on entering was received with cheers, as also the delegates who followed. The imperial delegates, the Earl of Jersey and the Hon. Mr. Bowell, occupied the chief seats at the table. His Excellency, who did not wear any regalia or uniform, coming down to the steps of the throne, addresses the delegates. He began as follows:

"The most cordial words are necessary to express the greeting which I offer you, gentlemen, on this most interesting and memorable occasion. I say welcome to Canada and welcome to Ottawa." (Loud cheers.)

His Excellency proceeded to dilate on the importance and significance of such a conference. There had been no attempt to lay down a rigid programme, but on the other hand too wide a latitude would have tended to diffuseness and want of practical results. He specially referred to Australia and Cape Colony, and said that the Imperial Government had intrusted its representation to a personal friend of his own, the Earl of Jersey, who combined the British statesman with the colonial administrator. He concluded by hoping that the conference would result for the Sir John Thompson offer behalf of the Government, of Parliament and of the people of Canada, who were filled with zeal for the strengthening of the empire and were delighted to see a similar zeal in the other colonies. Their deliberations would have relation only to peace and prosperity, and demanded their closest scrutiny and warmest loyalty. They realized that the great aim hoped to be advanced by the conference was that the ocean which divided them should become the highway of commerce. They had not met to consider separation from the mother land, but after years of self-government and progress to plight their faith anew as brethren, a faith which had never been broken by the mother land. The Premier's utterances were loudly cheered.

The first response was by the Earl of Jersey, who, after noting that there was a precedent for such a gathering, expressed his belief that it would mark an epoch and bring them to the threshold of a brighter future. He referred in complimentary terms to the visit of Mr. Bowell to Australia, and to Sir John Thompson for affording an opportunity for this meeting. Where, he asked, could there be a more appropriate meeting than in this grand Dominion of Canada? He was filled with wonder when he thought what Canada has done to draw the empire together.

Other responses were made by Hon. Nicholas Fitzgerald, Tasmania; Hon. F. B. Sulter, New South Wales; Sir Henry Devilliers, Cape of Good Hope; Hon. Thos. Playford, South Australia; A. L. Smith, New Zealand; Hon. Simon Fraser, Victor; Hon. A. J. Thynne, Queensland. They all indulged in generalities about strengthening the bonds and trade of the empire. and exchanged compliments with each

An address to the Queen congratulating her Majesty on attaining the 56th year of her coronation was adopted amid cheers, and the gathering dispersed.

The Banquet. The banquet at the Russel House this evening in honor of the delegates to the Intercolonial Conference was a grand affair. Nearly 300 persons sat down in the large dining-room of the hotel, which was handsomely decorated. There was a long table at one side running the entire length of the room, at which the chief guests were seated, and nine smaller tables branched out across the room. The chair was occupied by Hon. MacKenzie Bowell, who had in front of him the model of a ship. To the right of the chairman were: His Excellency the Governor-General, Lieut.-Governor Kirkpatrick, Sir A. P. Caron, Hon. N. Fitzgerald, Sir Charles Mills, Hon. T. Playford, Sir Henry Wrixon, Hon. A. J. Thynne, Mr. Theo-

The floral decorations of the tables were very handsome. Grace was said by Rev.

Father Dawson. The postprandial proceedings began with the toast of the "Queen," honored enthusiastically by singing the National Anthem. Lord Aberdeen, in rising to respond to the toast of "The Governor-General," was received in a most enthusiastic manner, the audience cheering heartily and long. After dwelling on the importance of maintaining connection with the British Empire, he alluded to the conference as composed of men with heart and intellect and he anticipated important results.

Lieutenant-Governor Kirkpatrick of Ontario got a right royal reception and made an appropriate speech. The toast of "The Imperial and Colonial represented, Mr. Laurier's entrance being Delegates," proposed by Mr. Bowell, was received with great cheering and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Earl Jersey made the first response. He predicted they would bring to bear on subects brought to their attention not only common sense, but intense sympathy and a strong belief that for Great Britain and her colonies there was a great future.

Col. Prior sang "The Englishman," and the audience joined in it.
Earl Jersey, it should be mentioned, though not an orator of first class, is a pleasant and prepossessing speaker. Hon. A. J. Thynne, of Queensland, in the course of his speech, said Australia wanted to sell some of their cattle to Canada. Mr. Bergeron sang "The Brigadier" in French, with a ringing chorus, which opened the eyes of the delegates.

Sir Henry Wrixon, of Victoria, dilated on the mountains of British Columbia, the fertile plains of the Northwest and the great cities of the east, which he described as a sight for the sons of men. (Cheers.) Most of all, they had noticed the people themselves and their loyalty and devotion to the mother country. They wanted to cultivate friendly relations between the 4,000,000 of Australasia and the 5,000,000 of Canada. (Cheers.) More than that, they wanted to cultivate business relations. Already trade was springing up and their hearts were set on the cable. He concluded by expressing admiration for the Canadian system of confederation.

Cook sang "The Maple Leaf." Chief Justice Sir Henry Devilliers, a representative of both French and Dutch blood in Cape Colony, referring to a remark by Mr. Bergeron that the French. in the form most acceptable and pleas-Canadians were loyal to Britain, said he ant to the taste, the refreshing and truly French were disloyal. (Cries of "No!" No!") ative; effectually cleansing the system, He told them that the Dutch of Cape Colony were loyal to Great Britain. Premier Taillion sang the song of Cartier, 'O Canada Mon Pays des Amours," which evoked loud and prolonged cheers. Hon. Thos. Playford, of South Australia, responded. Compliments to Canada were frequent and generous. Mr. Fitzgerald dwelt on the success of confederation in welding together various races in bonds of one great confederation.

The toast, "The Parliament of Canada," proposed by Mr. Fitzgerald, was responded to first by Sir John Thompsan, who was loudly cheered. He old the delegates they were as welcome as sunshine and regarded as brothers. Matters of business required cool deliberation, and sentiment must for the moment be laid aside, but the passionate loyalty of the Canadian people would await the result of the deliberations of the conference.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier was received with loud cheering, the audience rising to their feet and waving napkins and cheering vociferously. He welcomed the delegates, and hoped their deliberations in matters of trade would be guided by the policy of the mother country. He declared that the sentiment of loyalty to the empire had consummated the union of Canada, and predicted that the same sentiment would bring about union with Australia.

The proceedings were brought to a close by Lord Aberdeen proposing the health of the chairman, which was drunk enthusiastically and responded to suitably by Senator Bowell.

Jockey Bishop and Raceland Dead. NEW YORK, June 28. - Jockey Bishop, who was injured Saturday in riding San Jose in the Coney Island Grand National steeplechase, died to-day, having in the interval suffered greatly. THE question-Is a man the owner of his own teeth ?-has come before a German court at Gera. A man who had been suffering for some time from toothache made up his mind to have his tooth taken out. The stump proved a difficult one to draw, and when it was out it was of such curious shape that the dentist declared he would keep it as a curiosity. His patient, however, thought he would like to keep it himself, and claimed it; but the dentist, on the ground that a tooth, when drawn with the free consent of a patient, is owernless property as soon as it leaves the jaw, refused to give it up. The patient at once entered an action against the dentist.

You can place more confidence in a waterproof coat than in a weather prophet. The great lung healer is found in the excellent medicine sold as lickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

The Value of a Life.

Majority for Meredith, 137.

A case interesting to Londoners is being tried in Detroit. The News reports it thus: "The jury in the United States district court this morning listened to a long and complicated life insurance computation on the value of annuities, the expectancy of life and the present worth of policies. According to Mr. Saunders, an expert life actuary, a man 37 years old has an expectancy of 30 years life. In order to get an annuity of $600 or $700 or $800 a year, at year at Osgoode Hall. He also passed in an interest varying from 4 to 6 per cent, he would need to pay sums ranging from $13,-000 to about $8,000. At the end of 30 years these sums would be exhausted.

"All this learning was furnished for the instruction of the jury in the case of Louisa McGarvey, of London, Ont., against the Grand Trunk Railway Company. Mc-Garvey was a commercial traveler of Springfield, Mass., who was killed by the collision at Battle Creek last summer, and his wife is sueing the company for $10,000 damages. He was 37 years of age and was in receipt of from $600 to $800 income at the time of his death."

Mrs. McGarvey is well known in London, where she is still living on Dufferin avenue. Her husband was also known to

The lecture is once more in full swing. The lights are a little lower than before, and the vengeance in Geoffrey's breast is growing stronger. Unfortunately, the means to gratify it are in his grasp. Some misguided person had given him an orange on his way through the village, and this he now presses into the service. Under cover of the darkness he leans forward, and by che aid of a long piece of cord fastens it securely to one of the ribbons hanging at the back of his enemy's cap.

Terry, happening to glance in his direction, sees him leaning forward suspiciously close to the old lady's back. A sudden misgiving seizes her: she knows Geoffrey and his capabilities. What is he doing? A thrill of fear shoots through her: she too and sees, too, the coming destruction of his hopes. Quick as lightning he draws back, lifts his arm, and sends the orange shooting into space.

A skall in full swing. More hectic grow the lights of Jerusalem. Standing out as they do, from the surrounding gloom, they positively glow.

Max O'More, much pleased with their

The lecturer has seen nothing: he has kone on with his prosing. Miss Gabbett is muttering and snorting with wrath. "Go home, Geoffrey," says poor Terry, in a low but terrible voice; and Geoffrey, disgraced but unrepentant, moves down three yards or so on the empty bench and there aits out the remainder of the performance. Terry pretends not to see him. And now the first half of the lecture is at an end. Trefusis, rising, goes up the steps to the little platform, and Mrs. Connor, a friend of Fanny's, who has offered to accompany him, strikes the first chords of his song.

CHAPTER VII.

His singing is a revelation to Terry.

Passionately susceptible to the delights of music, her whole soul seems to thrill within her as his rich voice resounds.

The tonder the room, filling it with melody. The tender waves rise and fall; the words come to her distinctly; not one of them is lost. He had said he would sing to her; and what is it he is singing?

Oh. touch that rose bud, it will bloom,
My lady fair,
A passionate red in dim green gloom,
A joy, a splendor, a perfume,
That sleeps in air.

You touched my heart, it gave a thrill, Just like a rose
That opens at a lady's will;
Its bloom is always yours until
You bid it close.

Mortimer Collins' charming verses, set to some charming sounds! But the sounds are even more, to this girl whose heart is not awake, than the words. She is entranced. She leans forward, watching him, listening, delighted. She had not known he could sing like that. She has forgotten everything, the people, her dread of their observation, even Larry-Larry, who is standing, his back against the side of the small platform, glowering at her. You touched my heart." The girl, looking at Trefusis, finds his eyes fixed earnestly on her. This gives her a little shock, but the power of his singing is so great that draw back from that deep gaze, and even when it is over she still looks at him and smiles faintly. It is the vaguest smile, born altogether of her joy in his singing, not at all of her joy in him, and Trefusis is strong enough to acknowledge this to himself and keep away from her. Yet because of that smile there is high hope in his heart as he goes back to his

Ah me! ah me! what frugal cheer My love doth feed upon!

Miss Anson pushes her skirts aside and greets him as he returns to where she sits. She is a tall girl, very handsome, with fine shoulders, and a fine nose, too, remarkably Roman. She had heard a little of the new engagement during the day, but had chosen to disregard it as un fait accompli. She had indeed desired to engage herself to him, and was therefore unwilling to be-lieve that that little ill-dressed girl Miss O'More had spoiled her chance. But she had watched him as he sang, and, being by no means a fool, had understood the look he had bent on Terry. To make assurance doubly sure, however, she had, during the pause after the first verse, asked Fanny more directly about it, and received a full account at once.

"I must congratulate you," says she now, when Trefusis has seated himself beside her, his heart full of Terry and that last strange smile she had given him.

"You have heard!" says Trefusis, pleasantly. "Yes, you may congratulate me, indeed."

"We'l, I have done it." She pauses and looks at him. "She is very clever," says Something in her tone nettles him. "What do you mean by that?" he asks, quickly.

"That"—sweetly—"she is very clever."
"'Very charming' would describe her better. "You think," lifting her brows, "that she fsn't clever, then !" "No. Certainly not. What I think is, that she is both.'

'Ah! Perhaps so," with a shrug of her shapely shoulders-such beautiful shoulders, and so exquisitely white and rounded a trifle too rounded, perhaps, too matured, but very handsome for all that: and she is so perfectly dressed too. His eyes turn quickly to where Terry sits, in her dark plain little frock, with her slender figure, her high-bred air. How impossible to compare them! "Perhaps so," says Miss Anson, smiling doubtfully. "But certainly

"You mean something," says Trefuses.
"Well, since you will have it," laughing,
"I think you will find that the girl, who, without a penny, captures the man with many pennies, will always be called by the world-clever.

"She has not captured me, in the sense you mean," says Trefusis, warmly.
"No?" she laughs again. "You have captured her, then?"

"I object to the word altogether," says Trefusis, who has now regained his usual cool manner. "It does away with freedom -the freedom of choice.

"Ah! Freedom!" Miss Anson twirls her fan meaningly. "Is she free!"
"Free?" What does she mean? Trefusie regards her curiously: what strange suggestion would she make? He knows Terry is not in love with him, but he has her word for it that she loves no other

mar. "Oh, don't look so horrified," says Miss

Anson, iu a delightfully amused tone. She has been studying his lace, and the drawn some amusement out of it, though of a rather bitter description. "I know nothing of a rival: I was only wondering very stupidly, no doubt—whether any girl could be free, circumstanced as she is: free to choose, I mean. A girl so poor, is she not always bound and fettered, compelled, as it were, to accept any chance that Heaven-or the other place-may send her?"

"You misjudge her. Miss O'More would be a difficult person to compel," says Tre-fusis coldly. "And," with a still colder smile, "you are not very flattering to me."

"Oh you! It is good for you! You have had too much flattery all your days!" says Miss Anson, with a quick little glance that has coquetry in it. Unfortunately, the magic-lantern being once more required, the lights are at this moment abruptly lowered, so that the glance is unseen. There are few things ruder than a magic-lantern entertainment. The lecture is

Max O'More, much pleased with their florid effects, looks around for Geoffrey, and, perceiving that in his disgraced corner he can see but little of the joys spread out for the parish, even though he should crane his long young neck to the uttermost, is filled with pity and quick rage. Poor old Geoff! After all, what had he done? Only given that old cat her deserts. Well, if Geoffrey is to be punished for nothing, he will be punished too.
A fond but unfortunate desire to share Geoffrey's trouble leads him to regard with a thoughtful eye the huge board on which is written in big letters the programme for the Alas! when Max's eyes come to this, they stay there. They dwell upon it; in the darkness a broad smile widens on his youthful lips; in the darkness he creeps towards that programme. A Man Made Happy .- GENTLEMEN, -For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The City Council and the Street Railway. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

It seems to us that the action of the street railway company in refusing a percentage and mileage to the city in return for the privilege they already have, together with the use of electricity and more streets which they want, is a straightforward attempt to rob tax-producers and taxpayers alike of their property in the city streets. It is in effect saying to the people of London, "Gentlemen, we have the use of your streets as a means of making money for ourselves. It is true we got that twenty years ago when there was no thought and but little knowledge of the rights of the public in any commercial enterprise, but whether it was granted ignorantly or no is of no consequence, we mean to keep all we have and get more if we can. The private owner of the building which we rent as a stable is commonly conceded a right to interest on his investment in the land and building, to payment for any time he may spend in looking after the premises, and to the return with interest of the taxes he may pay on the property which we use; but the public owners of the streets on which our tracks are laid for the convenience of ourselves and of such as happen to be in a position to be our customers, these public owners have no right whatever to mileage or rent in any other form for the use of the city streets, and you must just take our word for it that our profits are too low to admit of any payment for wear and tear of streets or any other inconvenience. Neither do we intend to concede you any right of partnership whatever in our enterprise, either by percentage or any other division of profits. We are well aware that our tracks on your streets are often the cause of a broken wheel, slivered shafts or a bent axle: the presence of our tracks and the right of way of our cars also impels traffic to the sides of the streets, which are con sequently in proportion much more in need of repairs than if the whole of the streets could be used. We are also persuaded of the increase of this inconveniency and wear and tear of streets after the introduction of electricity, as the different shape of the rails, with the increased frequency and rapidity of car service, will prevent altogether the use of the space occupied by the track, as is the custon now. Nevertheless we are now asking a much greater mileage at your greater inconvenience and increased taxation, and we intend to refuse altogether any concession of right on your part to a share of the profits we thus make at your expense. We intend also to bribe the unemployed to our support by promises of work, that will, when completed, leave them just a little worse off than before, and our customers also by offers of cheaper fares coupled with conditions that will leave them at the end not quite so well off as at present."

There is a weapon, Mr. Editor, which might be used with this company, but is not just now at the command of the citizens, and our chances lie in the possibility of getting it for use. I refer to the refusal of their request for the use of electricity and more streets, and also to the possibility that the city may obtain permission to occupy all other convenient streets with electric lines of their own. It is not probable that we could induce the present City Council to move in the matter of building a citystreet railway, but judging of the city are organizing for general political purposes, we may hope that the personnel of the next or the following council will be men willing to work for the use of this weapon. Were such a council elected to-morrow the street railway company would next day be offering both a percentage and mileage, and there would be no question of finding materials, repairing streets or of removing snow. That is all the business of the corporation, and corporation laborers should perform the work and receive the pay. The street railway company should put down their rails, leaving the streets, with the exception of the rails, as they find them, as the gas company is doing at present. They should also pay a fair mileage for the privileges and a fair percentage for their inconvenience they cause to the general traffic and the extra work they entail on the city in street repairing.

It will easily be seen that the inconvenience to traffic and the greater taxation for more street repairs are burdens laid upon all citizens, while returns in the form of cheaper fares advantage only customers of the street railway company. The business of the City Council is not to conserve the interests of the company and its customers, but the interests of all citizens, irrespective of relation to the railway or the company. For the above reasons, Mr. Editor, we would advise that the proposition to grant the street railway company the use of electricity and more streets be tabled until a council can be elected that will, if need be, build a city railway for the use of citizens. We should not have to wait longer than Jan. 1, 1895, for such a council. Yours truly, J. M. and A. S. JOHNSTON.

The Electric Railway Franchice,

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: I am pleased to see that the mayor has called a public meeting to discuss the above subject. It will now be in order for the kicker and the stay-at-home-absorbed-inhis-own-affairs ratepayer to come out and do his kicking or learn what is going on, and encourage by his voice or vote in opinion as to whether the council should hurry or close at all a bargain that must for the next 31 years be kept by the present and next generation, and not, after it is too late or all settled, find fault with the council or give his children the chance to say what they would have done had they been here at that time. I claim every ratepayer should be there, and if the measure is a good one support its approval, or, if not considered such, to state his reasons and object to its acceptance. Otherwise interested parties may secure control of the object of the meeting and thus secure a lever in urging the council that it is all right, the public are with you, go ahead. Every mechanic in the city and every ratepayer has a direct interest in this matter and should be present. Yours truly. JOHN M. PARSONS.
