

ASQUITH HAS CLEARED THE DECK FOR THE BIG BILLS IN AUTUMN

Great Liberal Whip Before Retiring Leaves Everything in Shape for Smooth Passage of Measure—Conservatives See Defeat of Home Rule in Manchester Election.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser by T. P. O'Connor, M.P.]
London, Aug. 10.—With a wild whoop, the Unionist papers proclaimed a big victory in the Manchester election. They shout that this is the beginning of the end, demand that the Unionist opposition force dissolution of Parliament and declare the home rule bill is dead.

This exultation is rather overdone, as the seat has been nearly always Conservative, and was only won in recent years by Winston Churchill's commanding personality and the dread of all the cotton lords, Liberal or Conservative, of their industry being ruined by protection.

The Conservative candidate was so conscious that the protection idea was an impossible barrier to victory that he denied protection as an issue, and the Conservative free traders who supported him, begged him to say as little as possible on the subject.

ANTICIPATED BY LIBERALS.

The defeat of the Liberals was anticipated from the beginning for several reasons. The first one was that the cotton lords resent Lloyd George's heavy taxation on the capitalists and the landlords, and secondly, the insurance act still is unpopular, especially among the small employers of labor, and with certain sections of the workmen who object to the compulsory thrift, and who have been stuffed with gigantic lies by the Conservative speakers.

It is thought possible that Manchester will return to its allegiance to free trade at the general election. Anyhow the Liberals take the defeat quite calmly.

RESULT AT HANLEY.

The other elections reveal no steady current against the Government. Hanley was won in spite of a three-cornered fight by a splendid majority, and though Creve was lost by a triangular fight, the votes for the Liberal and Labor candidates, professing identical the same principles, were a majority, and the Conservative member represents a minority constituency.

There is no relaxation whatever in the determination of the Government to push forward the home rule bill to final success. The Liberals are really more distressed over the resignation of the Master of Elibank than the Manchester defeat, his winning personality, tact, energy and shrewdness being invaluable to his party. His resignation was entirely due to the necessity of providing for the members of his family who have no fortune except a somewhat small and embarrassed estate. The tempting offer of a big salary from the great contracting firm of Pearson's could not be allowed to pass by, but the Master of Elibank did not retire until he had made the way smooth for the remaining stages of the home rule bill, and helped the Government over the last few weeks.

DECKS CLEARED.

He got all the finance and all the small measures finally disposed of before the end of this session, and thus the progress of the home rule bill cannot be interrupted in the autumn sittings. One of the last acts of the great whip was to fix the timetable and the other terms of the drastic closure. These will be proposed within a few days of the meeting of Parliament, and it is anticipated that the Conservatives will make a tremendous scene of stage-managed disorder when these proposals are made.

Rumors are current that the Conservatives plan some great coup in Ulster during the month of September, though nobody can guess what they intend to do. They will attempt to show that home rule is impossible, but they miscalculate the English opinion. The rowdism in Belfast turned England, and especially the working classes, decisively and finally against them, and persecutions of English Liberals and Irish Nationalist workers in the shipyards still add to the general disgust.

GRAND TRUNK SHIPS BRIDES BUT WON'T DO COURTING

Big System Will Not Act as National Cupid for the Dominion.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Aug. 10.—Grand Trunk officials today denied that the activities of A. E. Duff, the company's passenger agent in Toronto, in shipping prospective brides to Western Canada, meant that the company intended to blossom out as the national cupid of the Dominion.

LONDON TO HAVE NEW HOTEL WHERE LIQUOR WON'T BE SOLD

London is to have a new licenseless hotel, equipped on modern lines, if a rumor is true in connection with the transfer of an important piece of property on Richmond street.

DORCHESTER DAIRY CENSUS WILL BE TAKEN BY THE GOVT.

Expert Will Begin Work in Northern Township Next Week.

A dairy census of the Township of North Dorchester will be taken next week in order to obtain information for the department of agriculture at Toronto.

An expert will arrive at Dorchester on Monday from Toronto, and will at once commence work. Another will work through one of the townships of Oxford county, while another will take a township in the eastern portion of the province.

Mr. I. B. White, agricultural expert of the provincial department of agriculture for the County of Middlesex, has been informed of the census, and will accompany the expert for some days.

A Complete Census.
It is the intention to take a complete census of the dairy industry in North Dorchester. Every farmer will be interviewed, a long list of questions having been prepared.

our hands," said one official, "without pretentiously hampering ourselves with a lot of matrimonial engagements."
"We are not going to promise to provide any girl with a husband," said the Grand Trunk officials above referred to. "All we do is to give these parties of girls cheap rates and careful supervision for the journey west. When they get there they can enter domestic service, and there is little doubt that most of them will soon draw a prize in the matrimonial market. But they must do their own courtesies—the Grand Trunk is no cupid, believe me."
According to officials here, Mr. Duff is under orders to sidestep the courtesies still add to the general disgust.

through the Western Canada Realty Company from Mr. George Rowntree, the three-story building next to the Grigg House.
The consideration cannot be learned, but it is said that a figure was obtained that shows London real estate to be on the upward trend.
It is said that Mr. Ryan will practically rebuild the structure so as to accommodate the travelling public, and will give London something new in hotels.
No liquor will be sold.

Among them the dairyman will have to answer as to the number of acres in his farm, the nature of the crops grown and the quantity, the number of dairy cattle, their breeding, the amount of milk produced from each cow, if possible, the method of feeding, the care of the cattle, stabling facilities, how the milk is cared for, and other questions of a similar nature. The answers will provide the department with the best kind of information.

Three Townships.
This year the department is obtaining information from three townships, of which North Dorchester is one," said Mr. I. B. White to The Advertiser.
"The expert will arrive on Monday, and he will visit every farm in North Dorchester, and get every possible form of information regarding the dairy industry. This will be tabulated, and used in discussions at the institute meeting this winter. It will place the department in a position to give definite information on the best breeds of cattle for the dairyman, and the best methods of feeding. I think the census will be productive of much good."

THREE ALDERMEN HAVE CONFESSED

Detroit City Fathers, Under Arrest, Tell All to Prosecuting Attorney.

MORE ARRESTS LIKELY

Sensational Developments Promised in Aldermanic Graft Scandal at City of the Straits.

[Canadian Press.]
Detroit, Aug. 10.—It was admitted today that Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Shepperd has in his possession the confessions of three of the eighteen city officials now under arrest in connection with recent developments in the local aldermanic graft scandal. Two of the confessions are said to have been made by aldermen, and the third is accredited to Edward Schreiter, secretary of common council committees, and also national secretary of the American League of Municipalities.

Schreiter was not included in the sixteen arrests made yesterday, but he was arrested a few weeks ago on evidence obtained by Detective William J. Burns, charging him with conspiracy to secure bribe money for city officials in granting the Wabash Railroad certain street property. Schreiter's confession is said to have been in detail and the most comprehensive of the three. He has been acting in a confidential capacity with the common council for fifteen years, and it is alleged that his statement covers aldermanic history for several years, and takes up 52 typewritten pages.
Prosecutor Shepperd said today that more arrests are likely to be made today. He said that he has uncovered matters of such importance within the last few days that he has sent for Detective Burns to appear here personally for a conference.
Operatives have been in the city ever since the investigation was begun several months ago.

ISAAC FORD BURIED.
London, Aug. 10.—The funeral service for the late Isaac N. Ford, formerly correspondent of the New York Tribune in London, who died on Aug. 7, was held today at St. Barnabas' Church, Kensington. A large gathering of journalists and representatives of the publishing world were present. The body was afterwards cremated at Golders Green Cemetery.

IS HON. ADAM BECK TO LEAVE LONDON AND GO TO TORONTO?

Rumor Says He Is About to Sell His Residence Here—Proposed Extension of Box Factory Will Not Be Gone On With—Lives More in the Queen City Than in London Now.

HON. ADAM BECK.

It is rumored that Hon. Adam Beck, for many years a resident of London, would shortly leave here to reside near Toronto. Mr. Beck at the regular meeting of the London Health Association Friday afternoon intimated that he would be a resident of Toronto within a short time.

His statement was brought about, when the gentlemen present were discussing the probable removal of City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, K. C., to Toronto.

"Mr. Meredith will not be there much before I will," he declared, significantly. Some of those present urged for an explanation, but Mr. Beck declined to further discuss the matter.

It has been learned, however, that a well-known gentleman has been negotiating for the purchase of Mr. Beck's home "Headley," on Richmond street. The deal is practically closed, according to The Advertiser's informant, and it is expected that the transfer will be made very soon, it is said.

In the meantime, the contemplated extension of Mr. Beck's factory here has been held up, and there is a possibility that a portion of it will be removed to Toronto.

Another Rumor.

Coincident with the reported removal of Mr. Beck from London, is the rumor that the hydro-electric commission would be removed from Government control, and made an independent commission. Mr. Beck is to be named its head, with a salary of $15,000 per annum. His colleagues on the commission would also be paid, and they would have the full control of the business of the commission.

Representatives from the municipalities would be chosen to form an advisory committee, in order to keep in close touch with the progress of the proposition.

It was announced some time ago that this change would take place, but opposition developed within the Whitney cabinet, some of the ministers urging that it be made a part of the Government, giving Mr. Beck a portfolio. Mr. Beck was opposed, and refused absolutely to agree to such a proposition. As a result the hydro-electric commission was left as it was and Mr. Beck was deprived of a salary. Things have changed since then. It is rumored, and now Sir James Whitney is willing to agree with Mr. Beck, and form an independent commission.

Anxious for a Change.

Mrs. Beck is also anxious for the change, rumor says. The business of the hydro-electric commission keeps Mr. Beck out of the city at least four days a week, and often more than that. He travels a great deal, and is home very seldom. If his headquarters are in Toronto, he could be home practically all the time, and would be in a position to do better work.

Mr. Beck will purchase a country home, probably in the vicinity of Oakville, the story goes on to say. A stock farm would be run in connection with the home, and the member for London could develop his hobby for horses as he saw fit.

If the new commission is formed Mr. Beck will resign as member for London. A by-election would be necessary to fill the vacancy.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Foster, of Hamilton, who was arrested on a charge of shop-lifting at Eaton's yesterday, was this morning committed for trial at the police court. She was allowed out on $400 bail.

MAYOR DENIES HE WAS BEHIND REMOVAL OF INSPECTOR RYMILL

Declares He Did Not Know Change Had Been Made Until He Read It in the Papers—Labor Men Will Carry the Case Further.

Ald. Rose.

The removal of Inspector Rymill from his position on the Dundas and Richmond streets walks, continues to excite criticism, and will probably furnish the theme for a strenuous discussion at the meeting of the city council to be held next Wednesday afternoon. At this session, the report of the special committee named to go into the matter will be read, and Ald. Rose and Ald. Bennett will offer objections to it. They will insist that the council go into the matter thoroughly, to discover why Mr. Rymill was dismissed.

The Mayor Disclaims.

"The removal of Inspector Rymill cannot be laid at my doors," said Mayor Graham. "I have not the power to do so, nor did I try to usurp such power. I knew nothing whatever of the change until I saw the story in the paper shortly before the council meeting, when this matter was first brought up. Mr. Wright had reported to me a few days previously that he had had trouble with Rymill, owing to the latter's differences with Antheistic's men, and I advised against Rymill's removal. However, Mr. Wright did make the change, without my knowledge. I got Mr. Wright's explanation, and I accepted it as perfectly legitimate and proper. My only criticism was that he should have had Rymill come to his office and explain to him the reasons for the change. That would have been better. I know the story is being circulated that I am responsible. I am not worrying about the tale, because it is not true. Interested parties are telling it for a certain purpose, with which I am perfectly conversant."

Accepts Responsibility.

"I am wholly responsible for the change," said City Engineer Wright. "I removed Mr. Rymill for reasons which appeared to me then, and still appear to me, to be right and proper. I am responsible for the department, and I took what action I deemed best. I am not afraid to have the question investigated, and feel perfectly confident that I will be cleared of all blame in the matter."

However, these explanations do not satisfy the Trades and Labor Council, and they are going to insist on an investigation. It is understood that a number of them will be at the meeting of the council to air their views next week.

COL. HODGINS THANKS Y.M.C.A.

Mr. E. R. Wilson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., received a letter from Col. Hodgins, in which the latter expresses his thanks for the able assistance which the Y. M. C. A. rendered the officers in the cadet camp two weeks ago. The "Y." always is a willing worker when it comes to military meets or camps, and on the recent occasion, officers, cadets and visitors had nothing but good things to say about the institution. The following is the letter from Col. Hodgins:

31st July, 1912.
Dear Mr. Wilson,—Now that the Cadet Camp is over, I wish to thank you very much indeed for all the help and assistance which you very kindly gave me. The presence of the Y. M. C. A. in camp did a great deal for its success, and the facilities which it offered to the boys were very much appreciated. I do not know what I should have done but for the Y. M. C. A.

The evening entertainments, with the addresses given to the boys, were excellent, and they served to keep the boys in camp, and therefore under control, and the influence was good. I desire also to thank the quartette of singers who so very kindly volunteered their services, and gave us a very pleasant evening.

Believe me, dear Mr. Wilson, yours very truly,
W. E. HODGINS, Camp Commandant.

ALLEGED THAT LITTLE GIRL WAS HORRIBLY NEGLECTED

Inquest Ordered as Nine-Year-Old Child Is Alleged to Have Died From Starvation and Without Medical Attention at Mandaumin.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 10.—A funeral, which was being held at the home of a farmer named Parks, a mile out of Mandaumin, was rudely interrupted this afternoon, when the police, acting under instructions from the crown attorney and coroner, seized the body and are holding it pending an inquest which will start before Coroner Logie at 8 o'clock this evening.

From information in the hands of the crown attorney it is alleged that the little girl, who was 9 years old, died from terrible neglect. She is alleged to have died from starvation, and also without having had any medical attendance.

HIGH PRICE OF GASOLINE CAUSES LESS MOTOR RIDING

Twenty-Five Cents a Gallon Frightens People Who Have the Craze.

Because of the high price to which gasoline has been raised, the operation of motor cars by private owners is being seriously affected.

A year ago gasoline could be purchased for 14½ to 16 cents a gallon, while the ruling price at the garages was 18 cents. Despite the fact that the weather was very much against heavy driving this season, and comparatively small mileages were run up by the majority of owners, the different refining companies claimed that they were unable to meet the demand, and promptly raised the price until 20 and 22 cents were quoted. Now 25 cents a gallon, a new record, has been reached, and 30 cents is promised.

A Big Profit.
Some owners, who made contracts with the wholesale oil companies early in the season, are paying 15 cents a gallon, while it is said to be a fact that some garages that are serving their customers at 25 cents a gallon, are buying under contracts made last winter at 12½ cents, thus reaping the tremendous profit of 100 per cent.

Many car owners are refusing to submit to the "hold-up" prices, and are merely riding less to make their monthly bills accord with those of other seasons.

Never since automobiles came into general use has the weather been so much against motoring, and while there are very many more cars this season, it is doubtful if the amount of gasoline consumed was increased sufficient to warrant such an abnormal increase in price.

Owners who in other seasons had driven 4,000 to 5,000 miles by Aug. 1, have now about half that amount on their speedometers, because of continued wet and cold weather, and consequent bad roads.

A Golden Tank.

The difference in the cost of operating a car may be seen when it is shown that the filling of a gasoline tank is no longer a small matter.

For instance, Superintendent Glau-bitz's roadster carries a 30-gallon tank, and when this is filled $7.50 is shoved across the board. The mileages of cars vary according to the horsepower, from 8 to the gallon to 20 or 22.

CONSCRIPTION FOR CANADA?

If a British cabinet minister were to suddenly advocate conscription he would be compelled to resign, unless the cabinet had resolved on a policy of conscription.

Col. Hughes, Canadian minister of militia, has declared for conscription in a public address. The other members of the cabinet are compromised. They cannot disavow Col. Hughes' remarks without disavowing Col. Hughes himself. Unless they agree with him, they cannot permit him to remain a member of the cabinet. If they have any regard for the British principle of cabinet solidarity. The case of the late Mr. Tarte is a precedent if any be needed. When he undertook to publicly advocate high protection, he was promptly asked to leave the Government.

If a British cabinet minister were to talk about Germany as Col. Hughes talked about Germany at Vancouver, there would be an instantaneous crisis. Germany would register a formal protest; the diplomatic relations of the two countries would be broken, or strained nearly to the breaking point, and war preparations would begin, unless the British Government tendered an apology or dismissed the offending minister.

A Canadian cabinet minister should have a sense of the imperial obligations of his position, and comport himself as carefully as a British minister must do. Speeches like those of Col. Hughes are embarrassing to British diplomacy, which is now eagerly seeking a ground of understanding with the German Government.

DODGING THE CANAL TREATY.

The United States Senate has voted to give the free use of the Panama Canal to American ships, the owners of which are willing to sell them to the nation in time of war.

Of course every United States shipping firm would agree to this condition. War is a remote possibility, and if it came the shipowner would probably rather sell his ships than risk them on the high seas.

The toll-free stipulation of the Senate is merely a dodge to circumvent the treaty with Great Britain by which the United States pledged itself to put all nations on an equality in the use of the Panama Canal. The Senate majority contends that the phrase, "all nations" implied all nations other than the United States, but this was not the understanding of the British negotiators of the treaty; and it is not the interpretation of many public men and leading journals of the United States.

The approaching election will probably drive the President into assenting to the Senate bill against his own judgment. In that event the British Government may ask for a reference to the Hague Tribunal. The request could not be refused unless the Government of the United States took the ground that considerations of national honor and good faith were less important than the material advantages which could be snatched from the ownership of the canal.

EUGENICS AND HUMANITY.

The Eugenists have started an attack on the British Insurance Act. Their theory is that no encouragement or prop should be afforded the unfit, the weak, those of bad heredity. They should not be kept alive and cheerful by the charitable contributions of the fit.

It is quite true that the Insurance Act does provide for the support in some measure of the weak by the strong. While ordinary insurance discriminates against those whose antecedents show a bad record, entirely ruling out many on this score, the Insurance Act not only lets whosoever will come in, but even forces all the poorer people capable of earning a wage to enroll, pay and be paid for.

But is this wrong? Trades unions have proceeded on the assumption that wages should be evened up, the strong thus earning something for the weak. Friendly associations have accustomed men to the benevolent form of insurance. Our Christian religion has inculcated for 2,000 years the hearing of each other's burdens. Is some iron law of "let the able die" to supersede the ethics of Christianity?

The Eugenists go out of their way to attack the Insurance Act. Their business is to prevent the birth of the unfit into the world. The wage-earners affected by the Insurance Act are already born. If the argument be that the weakest of them should be excluded from insurance and let die, in order to prevent their continuing to reproduce their kind, such an argument will not hold water. Insurance is designed to lessen the wholesale charities, the mean shifts, scarcely less degrading, to which starving men and women are forced, to keep body and soul together the crime that comes of misery. The degenerates don't die. Propagation of the unfit which goes on at a frightful rate through more desperation, as Professor Goldwin Smith once pointed out, will certainly be checked by a reasonable aid such as the Insurance Act affords. The weak will be taught self-respect.

Some of the Eugenists who would make a brutal application of so-called biological principle, forget that the question of heredity itself is after all still a great mystery. It may be very clear that certain diseases are communicable from one generation to another, and the marriage of persons affected with such diseases should be prohibited. But in general, biologists themselves seem to be of the opinion at present that environmental counts for much more with the individual than the traits inherited from his immediate parents. If even marriage and birth are not to be too dogmatically legislated about, it is absurd for Eugenists to exclaim against the humanity of an act which authorizes the strong to protect the weak.

THE BRITISH LIBERAL CLEAVAGE.

The fissure in the British Liberal party must be real when the most commanding journalist in its ranks, Mr. Massingham, editor of the Nation, calls for the creation of an independent Radical party. In the London Daily News and Leader, he angrily attacks the First Lord of the Admiralty, accusing him of falsifying the figures of naval construction so as to make it appear that Great Britain would have only 33 battleships in 1914, against Germany's 29. He points to the similar misstatement of Mr. McKenna, the First Lord of the Admiralty, three years ago, that Germany would have 17 Dreadnoughts in 1912, and adds:

"The falsehood of 33 British ships in 1914 against 29 German has in fact been qualified within 24 hours of its affirmation. But it has done its work. The Churchill speech stands and will do its work. The policy and habit of regarding the entire relationship of two great countries as if it were based purely on force, stands as a blot on Liberal statesmanship."

In Mr. Massingham's language is something more than a momentary exasperation. Rebellion has arisen. He says that Radical Liberals "can under no circumstances give any further support to the criminal design of a European war." Calling for a new party, he suggests Mr. Ponsonby, the member for Stirling, as leader. Forces are evidently working towards a cleavage in the Liberal party, and Mr. Massingham means business.

Women are becoming scarcer in Canada in proportion to the whole population.—St. John Telegraph.

And therefore dearer.

Mr. Neely's eagerness for the East Middlesex nomination is matched by the eagerness of many Conservatives to keep it out of his reach.

Against the advice of experts, the mayor of Toronto went to London to try to float a loan on a congested market. He now blames his failure on Lloyd George. Probably a duke gave him an invitation to dinner.

The Canadian west wants a big crop, and a big crop cannot be wholly marketed. The wheat that gets to market will bring from 8 to 15 cents less than wheat across the line. The west can be forgiven for feeling it has not been given a fair show.

There are not many Conservatives who answer Col. Hughes' military test of loyalty, and all Liberals are, of course, disloyal, because they supported reciprocity. As Col. Hughes glances over the ranks of the truly loyal, he must sadly exclaim, "There are only a few of us left."

Woodrow Wilson tells the American people that an American merchant marine will be built up by making it possible to build ships economically, and not by any juggling of Panama canal tolls. The cost of shipbuilding materials in the United States is prohibitive because of the tariff-buttressed steel trust. Great Britain builds most of the ships of the world because it has no tax to pay on the materials that go into a ship.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY.

[Victoria Times.]

The following stanza of a poem by Charles Wesley McCrossan, a Canadian poet, contains more truth than poetry:

"Tis not the German Emperor that England needs to fear;

But foes within like caste and greed, and poverty, and beer.

These caused the revolution that once soaked poor France in blood.

They're rampant now in England like a surging, seething flood."

DEGRADING REAL LOYALTY.

[St. Thomas Journal.]

This wearisome reiteration of Canada's loyalty by the first minister of the country seems to a good many people to be sadly out of place. If it has any effect it will be to convince those in the Old Country that there is a tendency toward separatism in Canada which Mr. Borden is trying to overcome.

It is no more necessary to eternally proclaim the loyalty of Canadians than to assert that the people of England or of Scotland have no intention of casting in their allegiance with Germany or France. Canada is an integral part of the Empire, and is loyal to the Empire when she is loyal to herself. Mr. Borden is insulting the feelings of Canadians and the intelligence of his hearers when, in season and out, but principally out, he insists upon harping upon the loyalty string.

BERTHA COULD RETIRE.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

In three years Bertha Krupp's fortune has increased $45,000,000.

She would probably be able to get along now even if the nations were to agree upon a plan of disarmament.

COASTGUARDS.

Listen Well If You Would Be Popular

[BY BILLIE BURKE.]

Were you ever at a party where you noticed that some other girl, not dressed nearly as prettily as yourself and who could not boast of nearly as much good looks, seemed to have cornered all the eligible men in the room?

Perhaps when you went home at night you took stock of the other girl's endowments and you came to the conclusion that you were quite as good looking and had more brains than she.

What, then, is her appeal? I think I can tell you: "She is a good listener." A girl if she would be popular with the other sex must early learn that deep down in their hearts all men, especially young ones, consider themselves the lords of creation and the clever woman, no matter how brainy she is, will quickly become interested when a man talks about himself and his own accomplishments, usually his favorite topic of conversation.

TO BE A GOOD LISTENER ONE MUST REALLY BE SYMPATHETIC AND INTERESTED. You have got to let the man see that you understand what he is talking about and occasionally you must put in a sentence which will tactfully flatter him.

I know this is telling tales out of school, but to listen well is one of the greatest accomplishments of the popular woman. You have got to let the man see that you understand what he is talking about and occasionally you must put in a sentence which will tactfully flatter him.

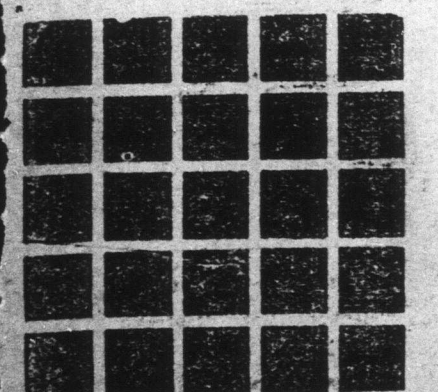

Just one last word—If you wish to have the reputation of a good conversationalist, let the other fellow do the talking.

For the Needlewoman

For cushion tops there is a new kind of raised embroidery done with very heavy silk thread. The flowers, which look as if they might be very complicated and difficult to make, are in reality almost absurdly simple. They are not embroidered at all, but are made of a new silk braid, called "table braid," sewed around in circles. The result looks like petals of large French knots.

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

Reads the "Elsie" Books.

Dear Miss Grey—Would you please answer these questions as soon as possible?

1. What would be a nice birthday present for a baby boy of one year old?
2. I am 18 years old, and not very tall; will I grow any more?
3. Would you please tell me the name of the author of the Elsie books? Hoping I haven't troubled you with too many questions, yours, ELEANOR.

A.—1. A "baby" spoon or plate, dainty bib or bonnet.
2. I don't know, Eleanor. Some girls grow an inch or more after they are 18. There's no telling whether you will or not.
3. Martha Finley (Farquharson). The latter name is the surname of the writer before her marriage.

To Remove Ink Stains.

Dear Miss Grey—Please tell me in your corner the best way to remove ink stains from clothing?

JENNIE W.

A.—If the fabric be white, chlorinated soda, salts of lemon, lemon juice and salt, cream of tartar, sour milk—any one of these combined with faithful sunning and moistened hourly for a day or so—will remove the most obstinate ink stain.

Colored stuffs are a different proposition. Starch, wet into a paste with household ammonia and left upon the spot for several days, sometimes extracts the ink—sometimes not!

Don't Be Foolish.

Dear Miss Grey—I am deeply in love with a young man 22 years old. He often takes me to his door and talks to me in such a way that it shows he loves me. He asked me to go out with him. I refused, and he said to me: "Ain't I good enough to walk with you?" Let me know if I should ask him whether he cares to go with me for good, or just like a friend.

HEARTBROKEN S. P.

A.—If you are fond of each other, and he is an honorable young man, I hope you will accept his attentions without question as to his intentions. What they may be will develop in time, and you will only lose what you desire in pressing him. Perhaps he doesn't know himself, and upon your attitude will depend his decision.

Care of Currant Bushes.

Dear Miss Grey—Please tell me how to take care of currant bushes. They are trailing all over the ground.

SUBSCRIBER.

A.—Every year or two the older, weaker branches should be trimmed out of currant bushes. The younger, vigorous branches will not trail and bushes properly cared for should be erect and trim.

What They Say

Scraps of Feminine Conversation Picked Up on Dundas St. This Morning.

"Pickles? Yes, 300 cucumbers and 9 quarts of onions."

"I told Mary she'd simply have to cut out the slang."

"Oh, they're rather queer. Seem to prefer each other's society to any one else's."

"Paid 25c for corn and 16c for a box of raspberries. Those market gardeners are really robbers."

"Seems too early to buy winter underwear yet."

"I just adore Arnold Bennett's 'Clayhanger.'"

"No, Johnnie, positively, not another ice cream cone today."

"Spend their vacation at Komoka, but you'd think it was Muskoka to hear 'em talk."

"Oh, look at that funny outfit. Must be Mrs. Noah."

"Come in and have a soda. Shopping is so fatiguing."

An Adaptable Waist

This waist can be used to accompany a silk, cloth or lace skirt. The cream white satin gives a rich effect, combined with the deep ecru of the lace plastron and sleeve bands.

The girle, of bright green velvet, has a single end at the side back, finished with a shaped piece of the lace. Around the neck is an inset piece of white net hand embroidered. The back is like the front, except for the gathers on the upper part.

"LITTLE DARLING" "LITTLE DAISY" HOSIERY FOR INFANTS AND CHILDREN

Guard Against Chills

Much as we appreciate a cool evening after a day of blazing sunshine it carries a menace to baby and the children.

Unless your children are well prepared for the change in temperature with warmer clothing and stockings they may take a chill.

"Little Darling" and "Little Daisy" hosiery will afford ample protection to the little legs. The pure Australian lamb's wool is warm, but not heating, because hygienically knitted so that fresh, clean air ventilates through.

"LITTLE DARLING"—Has silken heel and toe. All sizes for infants up to seven years.

"LITTLE DAISY"—Reinforced heel and toe. All sizes for children under twelve. COLORS—Pink, Sky Blue, Cardinal, Black, Tan and Cream. Your dealer can supply you. Cost no more than inferior knits. Look for the "Sunshine" Trade Mark on the ticket.

London Women Succeed in Poultry-Raising

A Practical Account of One Lady's Methods.

In these days, when the high cost of living has become more or less of a problem to every city dweller, the housewife often seeks some means of adding a few dollars to the family income. There is, perhaps, no field of work which a woman can enter which brings more speedy or encouraging returns than the keeping of poultry. Now, don't raise your hands in protest, and say, as some people do, that "hens don't pay in the city where one has to buy all the food. The writer has in mind at least three women in London whose experience proves otherwise, and who are building up a very satisfactory little trade by the selling of eggs and chickens.

Miss X, who resides in West London, has a very practical poultry-yard, and is quite enthusiastic over her work. It is only on a small scale, but she bestows all her fittings to eat up the profits, but the fowl are well housed, and their comfort in cold weather thoroughly looked after. The henhouse, feeding boxes and nests are home-made, being fashioned by the man of the house out of odd lumber and boxes obtained at the grocery store.

Several years' experience with various breeds of poultry have convinced Miss X that the White Leghorn is about the best bred for both marketing and laying purposes. Her little flock of twenty hens are all of pure strain, and amply repay her for the care and attention she bestows upon them. For, of course, in the keeping of poultry, as in any other business, one must devote to it considerable time and labor in order to reap the profits.

How She Does It. The henhouse and yard should be kept clean, and the former well ventilated; fresh water and "grits" should always be placed before the fowl and their food regulated. Miss X feeds her flock cracked corn and wheat, corn being especially good for the chickens and young fowl that are designated for table use. Besides the grain they are fed a certain quantity of vegetable food every day. Green cabbage leaves are a favorite dish, and Miss X grows quite a number of cabbage in order to supply them during the winter. She also feeds them green oats in the cold months, raising these in boxes beside the kitchen fire. Ground meat scraps, purchased at the meat-shop, also forms part of their diet.

Pleasing Profits. And the returns? This year especially they have been most gratifying. During the winter the hens laid continuously, and for several months Miss X received prices ranging from 40 to 50 cents per dozen. From her profits in the previous twelve months she purchased an incubator and brooder and chased a large number of chickens raised this spring. In a few months these sold readily to a local dealer for $1.25 a pair. No wonder the lady is enthusiastic over her poultry! Eggs for hatching sold at 5 cents apiece, in the spring, and thus a few dollars more were entered in the cash column of the poultry lady's account book.

Of course, it's not all smooth sailing, even in Miss X's case, but then, every business has its dull seasons and failures. And as she herself says, "With a little work and care, and the exercise of what common sense one has, I don't see why any woman couldn't make a success of the poultry trade."

COLD DESSERTS

Lemon Jelly. One-half box gelatine or two tablespoons granulated gelatine, one-half cup cold water, two one-half cups boiling water, one cup sugar, one-half cup lemon juice.

Soak gelatine twenty minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, strain, and add to sugar and lemon juice. Turn into mold and chill.

Prune Charlotte. Stew a dozen and a half large prunes. When cold, remove the stones and chop fine. Whip a pint of cream very stiff with three tablespoonsful of sugar. Then whip the minced prunes into this. Line a glass dish with lady-fingers or thin slices of sponge cake, and fill the centre with the prune cream. Set in the ice-box until time to serve.

Chilled Peach Relish. Cut nice, ripe peaches in halves and set away to chill thoroughly. Have ready some peach gelatine, chop it quite fine and arrange on the serving dish. Place the peaches on this, and fill each half with whipped cream.

Peebles Pudding. Use about two pounds of mixed fruit of any kind you have—half a pound of sugar and some stale bread. Put fruit in saucepan with sugar and stew carefully. Line a plain mold of pud-

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

Some domestic unpleasantness threatens you. It is well to ignore it as much as possible, and not allow your attention to be drawn from things more important to you. Some advancement or good fortune awaits your careful attention.

Those born today will be fond of pleasure, and although willing to work may lack the strength to advance, unless they deny themselves favorite amusements. Self-denial will develop latent strength of character and a wonderful improvement is possible.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Be careful lest an accident happen to you. If possible avoid travelling, and do not engage in strife or dangerous undertakings. Some good fortune in material things will come to you if striven for.

Those born today will have a venturesome, fearless disposition, and be fond of travel and change. Combined with these qualities will be thrift and a little selfishness.

Baking Powder

"My wife says your Baking Powder is the best she ever used," remarked a frequent caller at one of our stores. And why shouldn't it be? If careful selection of ingredients counts for anything—honest work in weighing and mixing—then it should be the best you ever used—and it is.

is a group of small woolen or silk crocheted flowers. One such belt had three flowers, and another, whose ends were pointed, was finished with only one flower, but this belt was decorated also with a little tracery of the floral design over the belt itself. The most attractive of these belts, which were among the small novelties recently imported from Paris, was in deep blue and deep pink shades of silk. The colors were the quaint old shades which one sees in old samplers that are not too much faded. The belt was of pink edged with blue, and the flowers of the three small roses which finished the belt at one end were in both shades. Another belt was of deep purple, wool with a black, green and purple rose at one end. A tracery of the black wool was used on the end of the belt in an outline design of rose and leaves for an added decoration.

These belts are intended to be worn with linen, ratine and crash frocks or with those of serge, especially the white serge frocks. The silk crocheted bands are also used for small bands.

Nose-Breathing Best for Baby

[By a Physician.]

A mother should begin to train the baby to breathe through its nose at once. This advice seems threadbare with repeating. But there are new babies and new mothers in the world every day. The habit, once formed, is likely to continue through an individual's life. To try and train a good-sized child, or worse still, a grown person to breathe through the nose is a problem. The nose is a better filtering plant than man has been able to invent. It not only filters the air, but it also warms and moistens it, preparing it for contact with the lungs. Pure air is just as necessary to the lungs as pure water is to the stomach. Therefore breathe only through the nose.

If you find trouble in breathing this way, or the child seems unable to breathe through the nose while sleeping, adenoids or some other obstruction may be causing the trouble. Such a difficulty should always be a warning to the mother to have the child's nose and throat carefully examined at once.

SIDE LIGHTS ON
MANY SPORTSDENEAU'S DUBS ACTUALLY WON
A BALL GAME AT LEGUMSEH PARK"Kid" Bradshaw, Backed by Errorless Support, Held Indians to Four Hits and Two Runs—Reitzman Pitched Good Ball But Was Hit in Timely Moments.

[BY JUNE 1.] Rampant Rube Deneau and his Dutch gents will hereafter consider themselves members of the high-brow section of Jimmy Fitzgerald's collection of relics. They achieved a mighty ambition in the local grass cage across the river yesterday afternoon when they "hommawogged" the local hopes by the considerable measurement of 4 to 2. ("Hommawogged" is high-brow German for "wetting" on the beehive.)

It required nearly a whole term for Mr. Deneau and his daring dubs to accomplish this cruel purpose, and now they will tell you that it "last such a tough proposition after all." Mr. Deneau gave his youngest piece of pitching property a chance to cover himself with glory, and the "kid" delivered the merchandise. This to the infantile Mr. Bradshaw that Mr. Deneau should point when referring to the pastime, and say, "He done it."

SUCCESS AT LAST.
The said Rube has tried out about fifteen different methods of winning a ball game in London, but previous to his effort yesterday he was a punk failure. His visit to this fair hamlet on past occasions seemed to call forth a bunch of horsehoes, rabbit's feet, and other blacksmith-shop equipment in behalf of the home folks, and the Dutchmen could never break the combination. As Mr. Bradshaw was chucking up some puzzlers himself, the home collection of sun-burned pill punchers were let down gently with a measly quartette of safe slaps and a brief aggregation of two markers. From which it is gathered that this Bradshaw person, who hales from the wind-swept reaches of Chicago, is some fooler when it comes to handing out the slings.

Ono in Field.
The first confusion passed off quickly, it is true, but the Bees gave the natives in the stands something to remember it by when they tallied the first run of the encounter. It was Mr. Reitzman's third start this week, and it looked as though one of those grand finals which put him in the line of succession at the beginning of the week were going to creep out again. Mr. Burns was easily disposed of, but Mr. Reidy walked. Bullock was an easy out, but Nickels' leaded on one in Mr. Reidy's direction and Reidy came home in a walk.

London Takes Lead.
In the London half there was nothing motioning in the way of a run, and it was not until the fifth that either team scored again. In this session the Barrett crowd got two runs and jumped into the lead for the first time. Dineau opened with three healthy swats at the bat without results, but Gilgobley was made the beneficiary of four of Mr. Bradshaw's wide ones. Bierbauer singled to center, and then Coesh hit a slow one over Orcutt's lofty knob, both Gilgobley and Bierbauer scoring. These were the first and only counts the locals got during the contest, and they broke a long line of twenty-two straight innings without a run.

Bees Tie It Up.
But the jury was short-lived. In the

SARGENT LEADING FOR GOLF HONORS

American Player, Looks Like the Next Champion of Canada.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Aug. 9.—George Sargent, of the Chevy Chase Golf Club, Washington, looks like the Canadian champion. This morning in the third round over the Rosedale links, he turned in a score of 75 for the 18 holes. J. M. Barnes, of Tacoma, did one stroke better, but on the three rounds Sargent's

Association Stars, Candidates for Major Leagues

A Wonderful Southpaw, a Great Infielder and the "Fastest Man in Baseball"

It won't be long before the major league clubs begin buying phenoms found in every bush and fast minor leaguers in the country.

In the American Association a half-dozen fast youngsters are picked by the dopsters to get trials in the big leagues.

In Kansas City, Charles Carr believes he has one of the best, in Third Baseman Johnny Corriden, who kicked himself out of the American League a couple of years ago by letting Napoleon Lajoie beat out something like seven or eight bunts one afternoon when Harry and Cobb were fighting for batting honors.

Corriden has lost his timidity. He is strong on hard hit balls or bunts. He is one of the greatest ground-covering infielders in the American Association, and goes after everything. He has lost eight of his own averages in the effort to help his club. A pair of good hands, a splendid arm, and fleet-footed, few balls get by him.

Corriden graduated from the Western League to St. Louis, and after the Lajoie episode went to Pittsburgh, where Kansas City secured him. He is now one of the stars of the American Association.

Given a job until another player's finger recovered usefulness, and becoming the most-talked-about player in the league, is the fate of Kemper Shelton, Columbus fielder, declared the fastest man in baseball. Sheldon didn't have a look-in until an accident put him in an exhibition game. He hit like a fiend, cut off several sure hits, and nailed his job. Pittsburgh tried out Shelton in the infield when he graduated from the University of West Virginia. At a speed proved a handicap, and he did not last long. He went to Mayville, Ky., played the outfield, and Bob Quinn, Columbus scout, saw him one day as he stretched an arm on a pile into a triple, and on top of that, steal home.

Quinn signed him, and now, although hitting less than .300, Shelton leads the association in runs scored, is fourth among the base-stealers, and is the most sensational fielder in the league.

Shelton is considered faster than Cobb or Jackson. He bats right-handed, but has been timed to first in 32.5

STRATFORD BEAT
WOODSTOCK, 3 TO 1

Are Now Senior W. F. A. Soccer Champions, Winning on Round By Four-Goal Margin.

Woodstock, Aug. 9.—By defeating the Woodstock soccer team here tonight by a score of 3 to 1 Stratford won the senior W. F. A. championship, having a margin of four goals on the round. Tonight's exhibition was an exciting one from start to finish, both teams playing excellent football. Stratford, however, played in a superior manner to the locals and earned the victory. Harry Brown, of Berlin, refereed.

Michigan and Patricia Will Sail First of Series of Races for $5,000 Cup.

[Canadian Press.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—First heats in the 20 and 26 foot class for motor boats, and the first of a series of races between the sloop Michigan, flying the Chicago Yacht Club, and the Patricia, representing Canada, was the program of Chicago's water carnival and naval review, which opened today. The two yachts will race for a $5,000 trophy donated by Commodore S. O. Richardson, of Toledo, and three races will have to be won by the yacht carrying off the cup. It will be the first opportunity for Chicagoans to witness an international race since 1901, when the Canadians took the cup home by defeating the Cadillac with the Invader.

The British speed boat Debutante will appear for the first time in American waters today, when she starts in the 26-foot class for motor boats.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

LONDON MARKET
CROWDED TODAY

Produce of All Sorts Was Plentiful on the Local Square.

LARGE SUPPLY OF APPLES

Peaches Down in Price—Last of the Berries Are Now Being Offered—The Quotations.

The local market this morning was the largest for the past month. Instead of the tented carnival occupying the space, the market square was a mass of people and vegetable produce. All the available space in the square was taken up, and many of the market gardeners were forced to locate their stands on the adjoining streets.

Enough vegetables were on hand to supply an army for a month, or keep a city three times the size of London from starvation. Many found it impossible to find a sale for all their produce owing to the quantity offered. There was a large supply of apples, which were being sold from 35 to 50 cents a bushel. The last of the berries and cherries are being offered this morning at prices ranging from 12 to 14 cents a box for cherries, and 75 cents to $1 a basket for cherries.

Peaches are lower. Peaches are down in price considerably, and are now selling at 65 to 70 cents a basket. Plums are offered at 50 cents to $1 a basket. Gooseberries are selling at 8 to 10 cents a quart, and red currants at 6 to 8 cents a box.

Very little hay and oats are being sold, although the demand is keen. Hay is priced at $11 to $13 per ton, and oats, $1.55 to $1.65 per cwt. New wheat finds a sale at 90 cents a bushel, and old wheat for an additional ten-cent piece. Buyers are predicting a drop in the price of hay for next week, but the harvest may prevent many loads from coming in.

Butter seems to be better and the price firm, selling at 25 to 26 cents for crocks, and 26 to 27 cents for pound rolls. Dairy hall prices were 2 to 3 cents higher than on the square. Eggs retail at 22 to 23 cents, while dairy hall prices for these are 25 cents.

START CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER EDUCATION

Non-Sectarian and Non-Political Movement Launched in Province of Quebec.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Aug. 10.—Active preparations are being made for a week's educational campaign to be undertaken throughout the English-speaking sections of Quebec under the auspices of the Protestant committee of the council of public education. This movement is non-sectarian and non-political, and it is being joined in by the various religious leaders, the political leaders, and the educational authorities of each district, where meetings will be held, and in this way it is hoped that the campaign will prove of real and lasting benefit in bringing home to the people of the various counties the need for a better educational system, and especially the necessity of spending more money so as to secure a better qualified class of teachers.

ANNECLINO BAILED
BY THE MAGISTRATE

Man Who Raised a Row on Fullarton St. Given His Liberty.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Transactions on the stock exchange up to 11:30 o'clock today were quiet. The steel tonnage statement was somewhat better than expected, and the bank statement is satisfactory. We still believe that a further upturn in the stock market, led by the grangers, and followed by steel, union Pacific, the coalers, and the equipment stocks, is probable, and especially if the outside response meets expectations. The character of the trading today, and the action of prices will doubtless tend to attract to the market those who have patiently awaited the coming of some indications of security, prices showing a disposition to enter new grounds.

COBALT STOCKS.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—The mining market was again extremely quiet, the majority of buyers being in the Porcupine stocks. The Rose sold at 3.12 1/2 to 3.15, and Jupiter sold at 26 to 26 1/2. Hollinger opened at 12 1/2 and sold up to 12 3/4. Later on and closing at 12.30, Vipond was the most active of the mining stocks and sold from 23 to 24. However, it did not show as much strength as on the previous day, and so few transactions took place that it would be almost impossible to express an opinion on the market. Reports from the mines, however, seem to be good generally, and there should be a revival of interest after the holiday season.

SNAKE ISLANDERS ARE HOME AGAIN

Party From London Spent Jolly Vacation.

The Snake Island fishing party arrived home last night and report a most enjoyable outing in the north country. The weather was not favorable at all times, but they enjoyed many pleasant days. The fishing during the first week was excellent. Those who went on the trip were: Messrs. Thomas Gillean, Wm. Ward, Rochester, Wm. Treble, Colin Currie, Charles E. Keene, Wm. Skinner, and others.

ESTEEMED LADY HAS PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Peter McVean Died in Victoria Hospital on Friday.

Mrs. Rebecca McVean, widow of the late Peter McVean, died yesterday at Victoria Hospital, after an illness extending over a period of several days. She was born in this city, and had resided here all her life. Her husband predeceased her four years ago. She was also well known in London, and for many years was connected with the firm of C. S. Hyman & Co.

General McVean had been in the family residence, 586 Colborne street, on Sunday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery, and will be buried there.

Mr. Robert McVean, her son, was formerly connected with the staff of the advertiser, and is now in charge of the division of the C. P. R. with headquarters at North Bay.

WINDER--ANDERSON

A Popular Couple Made One by Rev. W. R. McIntosh, B.D.

Today at 12:30, at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, Police Sergeant McDonald, 480 Colborne street, London, Miss Jean Anderson, fifth daughter of the late John Anderson, of Stanley Township, Huron County, was married to William Winder, son of Henry Winder, of London, and who is a well-known express messenger on the Pere Marquette Railway, running between London and Windsor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. McIntosh, B.D., of King Street Presbyterian Church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The bride was unattended, and after the ceremony and lunch the popular young couple left by the 1:40 p.m. train on a trip to the Western States.

GIVEN AN EASY CHAIR

Mr. Wm. Hambly, 581 Pall Mall Street, Surprised by His Friends.

Mr. Wm. Hambly, 581 Pall Mall Street, who has retired from his employment in the stores department of the Grand Trunk, on a pension, was agreeably surprised Friday night, when some of his former comrades in the department called at his home, and presented him with a handsome easy chair, accompanied by an address. The address was read by Mr. A. Torry and the presentation made by Mr. W. Walker.

Mr. Hambly has been in the employ of the Grand Trunk for over twenty-five years and was recently retired from active service, and now enjoys a pension from the company. His friends took this way of showing the esteem in which he is held by them.

ENGLISH CAPITALIST
ARRESTED AT BOSTON

Charged With Conspiracy to Violate the U.S. Contract Labor Law.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Boston, Aug. 10.—Bonds in $7,000 were furnished by a surety company of New York today for Francis Vernon Willey, of Bradford, England, who was arrested yesterday on charges of conspiracy to bring English operatives into the United States in violation of the contract labor law. Willey is a son of Francis Willey, formerly lord mayor of Bradford, and is the treasurer of the Barre Wool Combining Company, of Barre, Mass. The hearing was set for Aug. 16, on which date Arthur T. Saville, of Bradford, with whom Willey is charged with conspiracy, will be resumed. The Willeys are members of the wool firm of Francis Willey & Co., of Bradford and Boston.

TOOK TRACTION ENGINE
FOR A JOY RIDE

Boys Burnt Out the Boiler and Had Narrow Escape From Death.

Summons have been issued for six young East Londoners, who will appear before Squire Chittick within a few days to answer a charge of having taken a traction engine belonging to James Scott on a joy-ride a couple of nights ago.

According to the story Mr. Scott left the machine on a lake and avenue, near Laura street in London Junction, and after his departure, one of the boys, who knew something about the operation of the engine, secured half a dozen companions and proceeded to start the engine. When the engine started, neglecting to fill the boiler with water, by some good fortune they were not blown into oblivion as more responsible engineers have been, but the plugs were burnt out, causing very serious damage. They then left the machine disabled.

DRAYS MAY STAND
ON BATHURST STREET

G. T. R. Willing to Allow the Land To Be Used For the Purpose.

The dray stand will be removed from York street to Bathurst street at the next meeting of the council. For the time being the council have been endeavoring to get the consent of the Grand Trunk Railway to allow the drays to stand on Bathurst street on their own land. Today the council met and the Grand Trunk was asked to allow the city to use their land.

As a majority of the aldermen are in favor of the change it is practically certain that the men will be removed at the next session.

The question will come up at the next meeting of the council Wednesday afternoon.

PEOPLE WILL PROTEST AGAINST ASSESSMENTS

Next Session of Court of Revision Will Be a Lively One.

The next session of the court of revision will be a strenuous affair, as the board will deal with the assessment of No. 3 ward. The property-owners in that section, particularly the manufacturers, are very displeased with the increase in the assessment, and will protest. A number of the representatives of industries will attend the session, and a decision from the real estate owners will be on hand.

The assessment of the ward amounts to $7,500,000 roughly. The increase this year amounts to $300,000, or 4 per cent. This percentage does not look very large, but the increases in some instances was much greater than 4 per cent, running as high as 20 per cent.

The London and Bathurst, and other companies, Messrs. Eckert, and other managers considered right, and as a result, they will file protests. The real estate owners declare that a tax on improvements, and not on the value of the property, is an interesting session is expected.

DR. MELDRUM IN
ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Cleveland Pastor Will Preach at Services Tomorrow.

Rev. Dr. Meldrum, of Cleveland, O., will preach the second of a series of sermons in St. Andrew's Church tomorrow. Dr. Meldrum is one of the most noted and brilliant speakers of the Presbyterian pulpit today, and his presence in the city is sure to be a magnet for large audiences. Last Sunday Dr. Meldrum preached, morning and evening to large congregations and tomorrow will see even larger crowds at St. Andrew's Church.

TYPERS IN CONVENTION

Delegates From United States and Canada Gathering at Cleveland.

[Canadian Press.]
Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 10.—Hundreds of delegates to the annual convention of the International Typographical Union arrived within the past two or three days, and were supplemented today by large delegations that came as bodies.

A notable delegation came from Nashville, where the 1912 convention, held at the Hotel Hamilton, will be held. The Nashville and the Pacific coast were due today, and arrivals even from Hawaii and the Philippines were expected. The laws committee, with President James M. Lynch and the other officers, have been several days preparing for the convention, which will last all next week.

WINGHAM YOUTHS HELD
FOR RECKLESS SHOOTING

Revolvers Were Taken Away by Police Chief and Case Will Be Heard.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Wingham, Aug. 10.—A group of Cranston, George Collett, Frank Gillespie, and George Moffatt will appear in court shortly in connection with discharging firearms recklessly. Yesterday afternoon as Police Officer Lewis was out in his garden he was attracted by the noise of shooting on the river. He investigated and found the young fellows and the revolvers were at once taken away and summonses will be issued. It is alleged that there was serious danger of some person being shot. John Armstrong, a resident of Belgrave, appeared before Magistrate Morton yesterday on a charge of breaking the liquor laws by hanging around a hotel while being on the Indian lands. Armstrong pleaded guilty and it cost him $14.50.

The Moore vs. Carrick case, which was held over from last week, was disposed of yesterday. Mrs. Moore, of Whitechurch, had a number of valuable chickens, and alleged that a dog of Constable Carrick was in the habit of killing some of them. When she went over to complain about the matter she alleged that he used very abusive language, and finally a charge of assault was also laid.

The magistrate gave Constable Carrick a very severe lecture, pointing out that a man in his position should set a better example and not keep the peace in order of causing a trouble. Mr. Carrick was fined $1 and ordered to pay $5.00 costs for being abusive and the assault case was withdrawn. After the case Carrick tried to allege that Mrs. Carrick tried to cause some trouble, and had a close call for being arrested again.

LONDON AND DISTRICT

PORT STANLEY SUBSCRIBERS.

Mr. V. T. Mooney will look after The Advertiser's interests at Port Stanley this season, and the same satisfactory delivery of papers that has been in force for the past four years is assured for this season. Londoners attending their holidays at Port can secure their favorite paper by writing the Circulation Department, telephoning 3670, or notifying V. T. Mooney, Port Stanley.

Mr. C. G. Anderson, of Montreal, has been appointed general foreman of the Grand Trunk, succeeding Mr. J. MacDowell, who was transferred to Ottawa a short time ago.

Won Special Prize.
Sergeant Dunlevy, of Wolseley Barracks, won a special prize donated by Mayor Graham for the Irish jig at the Moose Club on Tuesday night.

A Busy Minister.
Rev. T. T. Shields, Jarvis Street Church, Toronto, formerly of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, London, is announced to preach in Olivet Church, Montreal, Aug. 11, and in Moody Church, Chicago, Aug. 18 and 25, his Chicago tour this year being one of change.

Death of Mrs. Jack.
After a prolonged illness, the death of Mrs. Caroline, son-in-law, O. M. Pirie, 870 Blee street, on Friday, Aug. 9. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Scott, of Melbourne; Mrs. William Pirie, of London; Mrs. John Pirie, of London; and Mrs. John Pirie, of London.

Dog Murderer Busy.
A dog poisoner is at work in South London. A valuable bloodhound belonging to a resident of the Wortley is the latest victim of the poisoner. Several other animals have had close calls. An effort is being made to locate the poisoner, and if he is found prosecution will follow.

Body of Denis McIlhargay.
The body of Denis McIlhargay, who died in St. Joseph's Hospital here yesterday morning, after a prolonged illness, was forwarded to his home at 10, St. George's street, on Monday.

Lucas Crossing by Griffith & Willis.
Yesterday afternoon, the funeral was held in the morning. Rev. Father Arnold said the mass and interment was made at St. Patrick's Cemetery.

At the last regular meeting of Doris Lodge, No. 283, A. F. and M. Lodge, the retiring master, Bro. J. D. Dewar, was presented with a past master's jewel. The meeting was honored with the presence of five deputy masters, namely, Bros. Argo, Essery, Wilson, Walker, and J. Tancock. After the business of the evening was attended to a splendid banquet was enjoyed.

A Busy Week.
Next week will be rather a busy time for the aldermen. On Monday at noon a committee will meet to discuss the construction of the public comfort station on the market, and in the afternoon the finance committee will hold a session. On Tuesday evening the board of works will meet. The council will meet on Wednesday afternoon to receive the reports of the various committees.

A Pretty Wedding.
Rev. F. Anderson officiated at a pretty wedding in Memorial Methodist Church at 12:30 o'clock today, when Margaret Jane Platt, of this city, became the bride of Isaac Newton Melles, of London Junction. They were attended by Percival Hall Platt and Miss Isabelle Platt. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for a wedding tour to visiting relatives on their return they will take up residence in London Junction.

Now If Ever Is Buying Time

In periods of weakness, such as now exist, the mining market presents the most attractive opportunities to the investor. It is the time when stock possessing great intrinsic merit and splendid possibilities should be bought.

We make the suggestion that in order to reap the benefit of the prosperity of the two great Canadian camps, one Cobalt dividend-paying issue, and one of the good Porcupine stocks be bought together, such as

BEAVER CONSOLIDATED AND PORCUPINE GOLD.
In making a commitment of this kind you will reap the benefit of better than 25 per cent. annually on the Cobalt investment, and at the same time be in line for any spectacular rise in the Porcupine issues, of which the above should be the leader.

PROF. HILL STRONGLY IN FAVOR OF COMPULSORY VACCINATION

Head of Preventive Medicine College Approves of the Health Act.

Professor Hill, head of the London College of Preventive Medicine, heartily approves of the new public health act, which he considers quite equal to the most advanced legislation on this continent. This is particularly in regard to the treatment of tuberculosis.

"It is equal to the legislation recently enacted in New Jersey, which is considered the best yet conceived by the United States," said Professor Hill to The Advertiser. "The New Jersey act has received the heartiest indorsement of the public health men on the other side. In Minnesota, the medical men have been striving for years to obtain a similar law, but without avail. I think the law is far-sighted and will be very beneficial."

"It maintains compulsory vaccination, a good step in my judgment. Until we have got rid of smallpox entirely, it will be necessary to vaccinate. I have confidence that in the not distant future, this disease will be wiped out, but the time has not yet arrived. It will be got rid of by careful and minute supervision of the public health. Vaccination will then be unnecessary. In the meantime, it is the duty of all parents and guardians to see that children are vaccinated."

LONDON AFTER CHAPUT,
THE CRACK PITCHER

Was With Berlin Team Last Season and Is Now in the South.

Although the London Club have been making an effort to secure "Frenchy" Chaput, the pitcher who was with Berlin last season, it is doubtful if he will appear this season. Chaput, who will be remembered in the league last season, and he was drafted by the Philadelphia Nationals. He was farmed out to the Birmingham London manager, and was in the Southern League, and was club in the Southern League, and was sent to the South Eastern League. As this organization completed its season a few days ago, he is now free for the year. The London manager wants him to sign a year's contract, but he objects and wants to come to this city to play without a contract. It is doubtful whether he will come at all, however. The local management are casting about for some good payers for next season, and will likely sign up a couple of pitchers for next season.

PLAYGROUNDS LEAGUE
SAW GOOD GAMES

Pitching of Keys, for St. George's, Was Features of One Session.

The Playgrounds League had its opening at St. George's playing grounds, when St. George's played Keyes, with the former having every thing their own way. The features of the game was the pitching of Keys, who did not allow a hit, and the fielding of the home team.

News From Western Ontario

SUPPOSED MAD DOG IS UNDER QUARANTINE

Animal Which Created Stir at Dorchester Belongs to Oxford Farmer.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Aug. 9.—The supposed mad dog, which created so much excitement in Dorchester and along the road leading to this town on Tuesday, was today traced to his owner's premises in North Oxford, where it is now under quarantine.

The animal belongs to Mr. Robert Johnston, of concession 2, lots 19 and 20, where it was located by Chief of Police Fish and Veterinary Inspector M. B. Ferdue, of Toronto.

From the information elicited, it is not thought much damage was occasioned in this vicinity by the animal should it prove to be rabid. The animal has been securely tied up, and developments are awaited. If it has the rabies its death is expected shortly, and the head will then be forwarded to Toronto for analysis.

The fact has been learned that the dog only left home the night before it caused so much excitement, and that previous to that time nothing unusual was noticed about its actions. When the dog was chased towards Ingersoll, it was undoubtedly endeavoring to return home.

The distance from its owner's premises to Dorchester, where it was first discovered, is not great, probably seven miles. Thus far the fact has not been established that the dog bit any cattle. Two or three dogs that came in contact with it have already been destroyed.

There were some sensational reports in connection with the chase, the dog apparently being confused with the Seattle dog of Belmont, which caused considerable trouble, but which was killed several days ago.

Going to Halifax. Ensign and Mrs. Richardson, of the local corps of the Salvation Army, who came to Ingersoll several months ago, will leave next week for Halifax.

Ensign Richardson has been notified that he is to be transferred to the maritime province, where he will have charge of the social work in Halifax.

He will farewells on Sunday, and will leave Ingersoll on Thursday. Since leaving Ingersoll Ensign Richardson has rendered faithful work on behalf of the army, and has won many friends among citizens generally, who will wish him continued success in his new sphere.

Mrs. Bradbury and daughters and Mrs. O'Neill have returned home after holidaying at Port Stanley.

Mrs. Brown's Funeral. The funeral of Mrs. H. W. D. Brown took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Buchanan, corner of Francis and Earl streets, to the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery.

The deceased was held in high esteem by the large number of friends who attended, and the wealth of floral tributes, Rev. R. J. M. Perkins, rector of St. James' Church officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Knowles, of Galt. The pallbearers were: Messrs. H. C. Wilson, G. C. Ellis, W. H. Beattie, D. Hutt, Cameron Brown, and Arthur Spotton.

Many Big Deals. Deals are being put through every day of which the public hears nothing, but it won't be long now before the air, which things are in the making, will change Sarnia from a little provincial town into a bustling city. Rumors from Montreal are beginning to be heard whose importance only a few on the inside appreciate, and from another quarter comes a story which isn't fiction, but is not yet ready for publication, a story that when actualized will create a tremendous future in financial circles. For back of this sudden steady upgrowth of the town is something deeper, and as yet intangible, the forecasting shadow of great enterprises to come.

WATERWORKS DELAY. ANNOYS RATEPAYERS. Division of Aldermen May Put New System off Another Year.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Aug. 10.—Sarnia citizens are beginning to wonder just when the new waterworks will begin to materialize. The matter was far from being settled at the last council meeting, contrary to expectations, and this month will be nearly over before the question may be brought up again.

After going to no small expense to secure the advice of experts relative to the best system to install here, and having secured a written report thereon in preference to steam, the council is divided up on the proposition, some favoring electricity and others the steam.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Aug. 10.—Sarnia citizens are beginning to wonder just when the new waterworks will begin to materialize. The matter was far from being settled at the last council meeting, contrary to expectations, and this month will be nearly over before the question may be brought up again.

After going to no small expense to secure the advice of experts relative to the best system to install here, and having secured a written report thereon in preference to steam, the council is divided up on the proposition, some favoring electricity and others the steam.

One member of the council who is willing to endorse the use of hydro-electric, states that the fact that the Hon. Mr. Hanna is interested in the present gas and electric company here

Many Big Deals. Deals are being put through every day of which the public hears nothing, but it won't be long now before the air, which things are in the making, will change Sarnia from a little provincial town into a bustling city. Rumors from Montreal are beginning to be heard whose importance only a few on the inside appreciate, and from another quarter comes a story which isn't fiction, but is not yet ready for publication, a story that when actualized will create a tremendous future in financial circles. For back of this sudden steady upgrowth of the town is something deeper, and as yet intangible, the forecasting shadow of great enterprises to come.

LOCAL OPTION VOTE TO BE TAKEN SOON

Temperance People Reported To Be Planning Already for Next Election.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Aug. 10.—It is rumored that a local option campaign will take place in Sarnia next election.

Nothing definite can be learned, and the average citizen apparently knows little of it. One influential businessman, who claims to have inside information, states, however, that there is considerable truth in the rumor, and in the course of a couple of months interesting developments will take place.

Sanitary Inspector Alex. Crosbie has returned to his duties, after a two-weeks' vacation.

Very few London people are registered at the beach hotels this week, the majority of guests being from various points in the States, particularly from Detroit and Ohio.

A number of the Londoners arrive here on a Saturday night, and stay over Sunday, and it is an assured fact that if an electric line operated between Sarnia and London, the resorts would do an increased week-end business.

One of the popular weekly dances was held at Stag Island last evening. The ferry boat Conger carried the people from Port Huron and Sarnia. Old Jupiter Pius and several of his climatic friends appear to have a deep-seated grudge against Sarnia. During the last two or three weeks it has rained off and on with monotonous regularity, and when it isn't a shower, it is something else disagreeable.

REWARD OF $25. Court Reporter Has Lost His Book of Notes.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Aug. 10.—An offer of $25 reward for the recovery of three stenographers' notebooks has been posted in the police station here. The missing books belong to John Buskard, court reporter in Brantford. It is not known whether the notes were lost or stolen, but they are of no value to anyone but the owner, according to the communication.

ST. MARYS FACTORY SOLD TO AMERICANS. Plant Will Be Greatly Enlarged and Will Employ Many More Men.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Marys, Aug. 10.—The water, light and heat commission held a session last evening. Chairman Weir said that the object of calling the meeting together was to consider the purchase of the outfit of the hydro-electric commission's exhibition display, lamps and fixtures, that have been placed on the streets, and which were for the purpose of giving an electric illumination display during the firemen's demonstration held here this week.

The board discussed the matter and agreed to have the secretary write to the Ontario hydro-electric commission, Toronto, to ascertain the cost of the same, and if a favorable reply is received, a member of the board will go to Toronto and interview the commission.

The chairman presented the matter of Mrs. Wm. Thomas regarding her husband's death. The board agreed to have the secretary write the town council in the matter, asking the council what it proposes to do.

Chairman Weir said that he had given permission to the Ontario House to use water to flush the cellar drain.

The secretary was instructed to order a case of coal.

Mr. W. G. Eggleton, mechanical expert of the National Pin Company, Water street north, was heard by the board. He made a request for 20 horsepower of electric energy, and stated that the pin company had sold out its factory to the Long Hook and Eye Company of Philadelphia, which intends to increase the plant and install considerable additional machinery, and would also enlarge the building, and soon would require the electric power increased to 50 or more horsepower, and would then have a payroll of $2,000 per month.

Supt. Miller was instructed to get a transformer at once of the 25-cycle type to have power ready for the company by Thursday.

Commissioner Currie it was voted that warrants be issued in favor of the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario for electric power supplied during the months of February, March, April, May and June, amounting to $4,114.17.

SOME MORE PRIZES. The following prizes in connection with the reunion were given for the best decorated business block, also for the best decorated residence, and also the most artistically decorated automobile.

The judges were chosen from the members of the provincial firemen's convention, which was in session here. All of the judges were not residents of this district, the object being to have the decorations judged impartially.

The following were winners for the best decorated business block: First prize, F. W. Hutton; second, D. Maxwell & Sons; third, A. H. Loft & Co.; all on Queen street.

Best decorated residence—First prize, A. B. Creighton, corner Elgin and King streets; second, Ben. Bennett, Queen street, east end; third, L. H. Reesor, King street, south of Queen street.

Outside of the prize list for residences, the following residences were beautifully illuminated: T. Ben. Bennett, St. Andrew street, east end; Mayor E. G. Sanderson, Jones street, and N. M. Currie, Queen street, west ward.

For the best decorated automobile the following were winners: First prize, Fred Richardson; second, A. Loft & Co.

Mostly all the street decorations have been left intact and the electric illuminations were on last night, and were much admired by incoming visitors.

Moir's Chocolates have an individuality that is unmistakable. We select the cocoa beans—roast, husk and clean them—add the cocoa butter and cane sugar—add flavor with vanilla beans. The WHOLE is then put through a grinding process for hours, which refines every particle and renders our chocolate coating absolutely smooth, giving it that individual delicious flavor. The chocolate is then applied to the many varieties of centers—packed in attractive boxes and offered to you as the finest chocolates on the market.

Judge Monet Says the Monnoir College Trouble Will Be Settled at Rome.

BOYCOTT IS SUGGESTED

Citizens of St. John New Talk of Refusing to Attend Church Services.

[Canadian Press].
Montreal, Aug. 10.—The citizens of St. John have again been aroused in a state of indignation by the announcement in an evening paper that the opponents of the institution, that because the paper had not been completely submitted themselves to the discipline of the church authorities they were to be excommunicated. This attempt to inflict this punishment had arrived from Rome. This ban, it was said, was to be pronounced in the churches of Rome. Some of the members of the college of St. John have suggested boycotting the church until the matter had been settled; to their colleagues among the alumni of the college, who has declined to submit to the ecclesiastical ruling, denounced the suggestion as a public opinion on the subject." He continued: "It is just a little trick of certain interested persons, who seek to influence people, having the innuendo is thrown out that Rome has given her final word on the subject and with this they are satisfied."

Carry Fight to Rome. Monnet's proceeding, Mr. Justice Monnet explained that it was quite possible that a compromise might have been received from Rome, but this could be not other than a ruling confirming the findings of the papal delegates. In fact, since time ago, similar matters had taken a new shape. But a few weeks ago both Archbishop Ruchel and the mandarin had raised the college question. These movements marked an absolutely new stage in the developments.

Judge Monnet insisted that the fight was to be taken to Rome and settled there.

Canon Lemeux, the superior of the Monroir college, admitted that attempts were being made to effect a compromise and that the priests had expressed a willingness to submit to the ruling of the authorities.

"Will the college be closed," in September, the canon was asked,

"I can't say," he said.

"It is stated that, whether or not, the priests must submit their resignation in charge of a Catholic college, and that their occupation is there taken away," pressed the questioner.

"All I desire to say is that negotiations are pending, and that all the phrases of the question are being thus disposed of."

The opinion prevailing in Montreal is that the priests will abandon colleges altogether, and open up a new institution in some other part of the country.

ASKS TIME TO CONSIDER BUT LIKELY TO ACCEPT

Mr. T. G. Meredith Has Not Yet Consented to Go to Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The city council has today rejected the selection of Mr. T. G. Meredith, K. C., as the next mayor of the city, in favour of Mr. Harry L. Drayton, K. C.

poration counsel for this city does not signify that Mr. Meredith will be Toronto's next mayor. He has not yet accepted the offer, and as far as can be learned officially he has not intimated that he would assume the position beyond his brief telegram to the Acting Mayor. Chances are that he would not accept less than $15,000.

Privately, though, several members of the council seem to have been assured that Mr. Meredith is inclined favorably to accept the offer.

After receiving a telegraphic notification of the council's unexpected decision of Thursday night, Mr. Meredith telegraphed to the Acting Mayor yesterday: "Hope you did not misunderstand my telegram. Must have time to consider the offer. Many interests to be considered."

Acting Mayor McNamee replied to this the Acting Mayor replied as follows:

"Dear Mr. Meredith,—I have your telegram of this morning.—The council at its meeting of Thursday night was practically unanimous in selecting you counsel, and our offer is $15,000 per annum. It is only natural that you should require a reasonable amount of time to consider the offer, and we do not object to giving you ample time, in view of your many engagements and the state of your professional work in London. We will meet you on your return here, which I understand will be at the first of the week, when we can take the whole matter up and discuss the same thoroughly. Important legal applications, coming on about Sept. 15, will have no doubt that matters can be satisfactorily adjusted so that you can have ample time to consider the offer. You are, of course, at liberty to arrange your other matters, as you have, as you say, many interests to be considered."

In this city it is said that Mr. Meredith will likely accept. City hall circles profess to be surprised, but those who know Mr. T. G. Meredith best say that he cannot afford to overlook the offer of $20,000 in exchange for the city of 400,000, and will very soon have over half a million population. To be elected offered the city solicitorship of such a municipality is a tribute that any man would envy, but to be able to accept the position and go up with the city's prosperity and advancement is better. It is felt here that as soon as Mr. Meredith is able to consult with the many influential season. The prices as well as quantity exists. Beets, celery, onions, carrots, cabbages, potatoes and parsnips have all filled out remarkably well. This is undoubtedly due to the uniform rains which have been received in this district, and these are interspersed with warm weather, making ideal conditions to bring the vegetable crop to maturity.

Prices for this produce are exceptionally high. Perhaps too high for the consumer, whose idea is that when there is plenty prices should lower. This season the principle is not coming true. However, these buyers, who are the growers, are generally getting prices above.

Mr. I. B. Whale, B. S. A. for Middlesex County, visited the vegetable growers of London district and with the prospects of the vegetable crop this season. He says it will be a record-breaker.

The Understudy of the Sun McClary's Sunshine Furnace

WHEN Old Sol swings low and far away he appoints an understudy for the purpose of keeping Jack Frost where he belongs—Outside.

Years ago McClary's "Sunshine" Furnace, by reason of its marvelous heating capacity and the balmy June air it suffused the house with, was specially appointed Understudy to the Sun. That appointment has been confirmed year after year, and—your "Sunshine" Furnace—Jack Frost's Master awaits your orders for the coming winter.

Remember the past winter—the Frost King was very active — He battered us with a three months' siege of snow and ice — Almost conquered the thermometer by chasing the mercury out of sight. But he failed to penetrate thousands of homes, because the Understudy of the Sun — McClary's "Sunshine" Furnace — was on the job in the cellars of these homes.

It's easy to keep Jack Frost at a safe distance with the "Sunshine" Furnace. He may storm and rave outside, but there is no place for him within—because, the Understudy of the Sun has demonstrated its mastery in the home.

The average furnace is a glut-ton for coal—it literally burns up money. The "Sunshine" Furnace saves money—earns its cost in a very few years because it burns coal sparingly. Call on the McClary agent of your locality and ask him to prove that statement true. If he cannot convince you—show you that the "Sunshine" Furnace will cut your coal bills by a very pleasing margin we don't want your order. That's the fairest way we know of doing business—does it appeal to you?

There are a multitude of reasons why the "Sunshine" Furnace does save fuel—reduce coal bills—reasons that will be printed in the following advertisements. Here is one that should make you call on the McClary agent at once—the "Sunshine" Furnace has four radiating surfaces—surfaces that gather up the heat greedily and diffuse it liberally all over the house.

But—you just call on the McClary agent and ask to be shown. If you do not know him write us at our nearest address and we'll tell you.

You certainly owe it to yourself to find out why McClary's "Sunshine" Furnace is called the "Understudy of the Sun."

England Welcomes Her Brave Daughter; Spain's Fair Queen in the Homeland

After Facing Assassination as a Bride, She Has Heroically Fulfilled Her Perilous Destiny by the Side of Boy King, Who Loved
Her at First Sight.

(Special Letter to The Advertiser by
T. P. O'Connor, M. P.)

There is something that touches one in the return from a foreign land of one of one's own people, and this is one of the reasons why the young Queen of Spain is getting so much welcome from
all sorts and conditions of men
and women during her present visit
to the land of her birth.

There are many other reasons. It is related that when she started out on the momentous journey which was taking her from her quiet and almost obscure home in England to all the glories and all the perils of a palace
and a throne in Spain, that her expression was found to be sad, and the expression she would expect to find on the face of a young girl going to meet the bridegroom she loved. But the Princess gave a very natural explanation. "It is nothing," she said,
"I cannot help feeling moved when I think I am leaving the country where I have spent so many happy hours to go towards the unknown."

"Unknown," in a sense that her new country was about to open to her, but not unknown as perhaps to the world.
It is one of the penalties of royalty
not merely to be subject to the bullet and the bomb of the heartless and senseless miscreants who ply the trade of terrorism, but also to be made acquainted with the peril long before the general public are able to realize it.
I am told that in Monte Carlo, that cesspool of Europe, you cannot go three steps in the evening without being under the observation of a detective—so full is that place of the ravenous and perhaps broken gambler
who is ready to rob or even to kill,
and similarly there are few modern
cities where you are allowed to go a step
without being surrounded by a large
though perhaps concealed, corps of
protectors, in the shape of detectives
and officials.

Nearly Always Forewarned.

LONG before the attempt at assassination comes, they are forewarned by the authorities, who are constantly supplied with information either by the subsidized informer or perhaps by some spirit more human than the rest, who is compelled by conscience to warn the intended victim of the danger that is about to befall him. I am told that in England are now as much in peril as monarch on the Continent, for more than a dozen royalists who are few modern
cities where you are allowed to go a step
without being surrounded by a large
though perhaps concealed, corps of
protectors, in the shape of detectives
and officials.

The young Princess was sad, but sadness was as little in her natural temperament as in her early experiences. She was known from childhood for the brightness of her spirits as for her great and even dazzling beauty of face, figure, and above all, coloring.
She has the golden hair, the deep blue eyes, the light and alert figure, and, above all, the fine coloring of the typical English girl of today.
And she had also in her girlhood the high spirits of her country and her sex.

Love at First Sight.

LAUGHTER-loving, frolicsome,
good natured, simple, she seems to come out from the page of Vollam de Morgan, the miniature portrait painter of the least destined, one might think, for all the dark hours and the deadly perils of a throne in Spain. But destiny willed it, and destiny takes its account of human temperaments or desires. One evening at a dance in Buckingham Palace,
a young foreigner saw this girl with the dazzling complexion and the brilliant hair, passing to and fro, with all the alertness of her youth and high spirits. In a moment he had realized that this was the woman for whom his life was to be a sacrifice, and he determined to win her. He asked her name, and then and there he fixed forever, so much may happen in a moment to the human individual, the wave of capricious chance. The young man was the King of Spain, and the young lady was his present wife.

It is a curious coincidence that the young girl should have been told when quite a child by one of her parents that one day she would find happiness on the lovely land of Spain. On his way to the expedition in Ashanti, which killed him, Prince Henry of Battenberg whiled away the dreary hours of a compulsory wait at Gibraltar by running up to see the beauties of Seville. It somehow or other struck him that he ought to write a letter to his little daughter before he left for the unknown. In Africa it was the first time he ever wrote to her, for it was the first time that he had even been separated from her, and in his letter to love her mother, he told her that when she was big and able to travel
"You will come to this beautiful country. You will see for yourself," he added, in words that are strange reading nowadays, "that you will like it, and be happy when you are here." The child who received this the only letter she ever did get from her father, was then eight years old. Ten years later there came to England the sovereign of the country from which the letter was written, and there came that scene already described, when she and he were drawn to each other and involved forever in each other's destinies.

Born in Balmoral Castle.

UP TO this time the young Princess had led the ordinary life of the young English girl. She shared the profound affection which her grandmother gave to the last child of her house who had remained with her; for,
as everybody knows, the Princess Beatrice was the last of Queen Victoria's children to leave her. This was the reason perhaps why it was in Balmoral that the young Princess first saw the light, the first royal baby born in Scotland for two hundred and eighty-seven years. The child was thus brought up in close intimacy with her grandmother from her earliest years, her favorite, her favorite parent in the Empress Eugenie, whose god-daughter she became, and whose will it was that she should be much to do with the shaping of her career, especially at the critical moment when her marriage lay trembling in the balance. I have little doubt that the high-spirited nature of the Princess must have been a great help to her in the Highlands. The late Queen Victoria kept up to the end of her life,
some of the stern old-fashioned eighteenth century ideas, and remained always something of the German Royalty of the eighteenth century in her stern submission of others and of herself to the iron discipline of the ancient courts of Germany. Cabinet ministers of her time who survive still tell of something approaching to a dismay of the hours they had to pass
when it was their duty to be in Balmoral as ministers in attendance. The hapless minister had to go sometimes to the boudoir of the Queen, to stand still and idle while their royal mas-tress took her little after-dinner stes-ta, and to listen to her boredom and exasperated nerves. There is a story of one minister rising in sheer nervousness, opening the piano and touching the keys in mere absence of mind, and then being told by the Queen, whom the music awakened, that if the Queen desired music, she would order it, while the Queen, who was few modern
cities where you are allowed to go a step
without being surrounded by a large
though perhaps concealed, corps of
protectors, in the shape of detectives
and officials.

Happy in Isle of Wight.

THERE were happier surroundings
for the young Princess in the Isle of Wight. Here it was that her mother made her chief home. She had been given the office of guardian of the island by her mother, and this gave her duties and occupation, and needs to be told of the beauties of home in the Isle of Wight, and the lovely English garden with everything in the scenery of England that pleases the eye, including the everlasting splash of the sea that is the glory of the island. It was a home where the children of the Princess of Battenberg could get the hardy and healthy training of the English child, and while she was still a girl, Princess Ena, as she came affectionately to be called by her family and the people,
was able to ride and fish and romp
with her brothers on an equal footing.
Her mother took place just when she was eighteen and in the modest surroundings of an infirmity ball at Ryde. Then in the month of June she came to London for her first season, and it was then that she met her future husband.

Even the hardened man or woman
of the world can read with pleasure and with sympathy the life of a girl who was ordered to marry for the true love of romance, ardent, attentive, generous; and there are numberless little tales of those dainty and unexpected acts of consideration which she did for the world. When the young Princess was in Paris a short time before her marriage, the Chamberlain of the King was ordered to hire for her King's automobile. "There were none fit for her that could be hired," replied the chamberlain; and then came the imperative message of the grand young lover that an automobile should be purchased there and then, and the young Princess used to the modest circles of the juniors of even such high circles as those of royalty was able to do through the streets of Paris in a brand new Panhard. The King brought him that his fiancée might like some fruit; he sent her a whole orange tree laden with fruit from his own lovely country. In short it was an up-to-date idyll—up-to-date, and yet so old-fashioned.

A Bomb in a Bouquet.

ONE is tempted to dwell a little over these preliminary scenes.
They stand in such contrast with the horrors that immediately followed.
Everybody knows the gorgeous splendor and the elaborate etiquette of the wedding which was accompanied, carriage after carriage, princes and courtiers, and high dignitaries of the church, and all the elaborate ceremonials of the Catholic religion. Then the young Princess, in the light of the Spanish day at noon, and then the procession through streets crowded with tens of thousands, giving to the young people the enthusiastic welcome
that their youth, their love, as well as their position called for, and then the entrance into the Calle Mayor—
the last street to be traversed before the young couple reached home and silence. A bouquet is thrown from a balcony—it is huge and seems a more splendid gift of welcome than any that has preceded it, and in a second there is a crash; there comes the wall of dying—thirty persons lie dead, a hundred are wounded, horses lie in the agonies of death, human life is trampled, and
the wondrous gown of the young bride,
worked by many hands and a present
from the bridegroom, is spattered with blood. This is an awful moment, dying from every nerve. The young couple confront it with splendid courage. The young lover-king took the head of his wife between his hands and kissed her, and he asked in anxiety if she was wounded. "No," no," was the reply. "I am not hurt,"
and to further assure him she says, "I swear it," and then the two had to leave their carriage to go into another called the "carriage of respect"—it is a grim reminder of how these horrors were dimly anticipated that such a carriage should have been held in reserve for this or any other accident—

and calmly the two went home, leaving behind them this terrible scene of horror and terror. And through it all the boy-king, whom even his bitterest enemies credit with extraordinary fearlessness, behaved with unbroken calm.

Never Entirely Effaced.

BUT it was an inauspicious beginning for a wedding and a reign.
This was the "unknown," the prospect of which had brought sadness to the young Princess as she left her own home and security and tranquillity and universal affection for another land, in abnormal condition.
Motherhood has come to her several times since that day, and she has shown the tact of a Princess in adapting herself to the ideas and even the prejudices of her new country. But the image of that horror can never be entirely effaced from her mind. If tact can save a throne and a dynasty, the young Queen certainly will be the guardian and savior of her husband and children and their country. She must have had her moments of pain and suspense when first she had to face the horrors of the bull fight;
but she rose to the occasion, and she herself, with her own hankerchief, gave of mischief for the great show to begin. She wears the mantilla of the Spanish woman in some of her public appearances, and it is said with grace as great as that of the lady of the court. Brought up as she was carefully as royalties are in our day, she learned to be a linguist when she was a child and already could speak French and German as well as English, and it took her only a few months to speak Spanish fluently. She has found in her large nursery abundantly opportunity for her precious work of a young mother. Her children are healthy and interesting, but what a strange light it throws on the atmosphere of calumny and hatred in which royalties have to often live
that the children are physically and mentally deficient. As a matter of fact they are bright, gay, normal children, with plenty of the high spirits, the dash of mischief, and now and then the naughtiness of the healthy child.

Such has been the life of the Princess Ena since she became a Queen.
Doubtless her own people will be able to trace in the young and beautiful face some of the anxieties through which she has passed in the years that stretch between her home in England and the splendor of her palace and position in Madrid. And this will add another touch of cordiality and of sympathy to the welcome with which she is received.

OFFICIAL PROGRAM FOR WESTERN FAIR

Forty Thousand Will Be Distributed
Throughout the Country.

The official program for the Western Fair has just been issued, and forty thousand of them will soon be distributed throughout the country.
If one or more is wanted to send to a friend, call at the office for it. The program is a very neat little booklet, containing all information regarding the attractions for the great exhibition, also information regarding the railway rates. The secretary has also issued this year, "Western Fair Herald," an attractive four-page paper, thousands of copies of which will be distributed at once. From indications it is probable that this will be the banner year for London's exhibition. Each and every citizen of London should feel it a duty to boost the exhibition in every way possible. Men, women and business should exhibit their goods—no better advertisement could possibly be obtained than an exhibit at the Western Fair. Stockmen and breeders should exhibit their stock, and there is no better place to bring them to the notice of buyers than at this exhibition. The general public should attend in large numbers, as the exhibition affords not only plenty of amusement and recreation, but instruction
as well, as the very latest inventions

Is Your Back Full of Aches All Day Long?

THAT STAB-LIKE PAIN IN THE BACK IS SURE INDICATION OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as fol-

"For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches.
My condition grew steadily worse,
my limbs became bloated and shaky,
I was nervous and felt rheumatic.
I was unable to do my work, and I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys
and was nearly dead when I discovered
the true cause of my suffering.
I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills what I needed. They speedily put me right,
and their steady use keeps me active,
energetic, strong and happy. I strongly

Suffered Agony From Dyspepsia

"Fruit-a-lives" Makes Wonderful Cure

N. C. STIRLING, ESQ.

Glencoe, Ont., Aug. 15, 1911.

"So much has been said and written about 'Fruit-a-lives' that it might seem unnecessary for me to add my experience."

"But 'Fruit-a-lives' were so beneficial to me when I suffered with distressing Dyspepsia, that I feel called upon to inform you of the remarkable and satisfactory results I have had from using them."

"Dyspepsia and Indigestion, as everyone knows, can give you more uncomfortable hours and days than most common complaints. I was suffering from both, and I was unable to eat or sleep. I am glad to be able to say to you that although in the past I suffered excruciating agony with Dyspepsia,
I am now in perfect health."

"Fruit-a-lives" accomplished the desired result, and I have to thank them for my very favorable and satis-
sfactory state of health."

For Sallow, Blotchy, Rough or Greasy Skin

(From Woman's Tribune.)

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome
it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt—especially in warm weather—making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercurized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion.
Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or more and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's.
One ounce of mercurized wax, procurable at any druggist's, is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby,
here's the best possible remedy: Mix
a pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered saxolite and use as a face bath.
It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

Rev. R. J. Campbell Answers a Newspaper "Examination"—Fears Greater Irreligion in Days to Come—Church Must Preach Eternal Verities and Break Down Class Prejudices.

Much interesting information has been gathered of late years with reference to the little races of the world, with the result that it has been shown that dwarf peoples are by no means confined to any one quarter of the earth.

About twelve years ago Dr. Marap discovered a race of dwarfs in Europe, in the eastern Pyrenees, in the valley of Ribas, called "Nanos," which the English names "the dwarfs," who did not exceed four feet in stature. A distinct peculiarity of the Nanos that all have red hair. They are well built, broad in shoulders and hips, but with extremely small hands and feet. The average of a very low order of intelligence.

They should devote themselves to the task of endeavoring to break down all prejudice between class and class and bring to bear upon the discussion of social questions the spirit of generosity and good will. They should encourage the individual to think and act in terms of the whole, and to wage against all strife and bitterness. The social change which is inevitable should operate from the higher rungs of society downward, as well as from the lower upward, and this is not in the least true as in many instances now happening, the privileged order begin to be discontented with the immunities and develop a social conscience.

In Luzon, the Philippines, there dwells a race of dwarfs known as the Aetas, whose average height is four feet eight or nine inches. They live in the mountains of the interior, thus bearing out the theory of one authority upon little peoples that, most if not all of the dwarf races survive only in the most inaccessible parts of the continents or islands to which they belong.

In court circles there is a strong wish to remove some of the impressions conveyed in the recently-published biography of King Edward, which is held to have done him less than justice in some respects. This is especially so with regard to his influence in foreign affairs and domestic politics. Prob-
