DRY LAW BENEFICIAL

(From Boston Post.)
 To the Prohibition Editor of the Post:
 Sir—There is no slavery found anywhere, equal to being a slave to strong drink.
 When license was in force all over the country it cost more than ten times as much to care for the wrecks of the saloon in filling jails, almshouses, asylums, etc., than the revenue obtained.
 When we want reliable advice we consult specialists. Is there any organization with such wide, first-hand knowledge of the havoc, physical, mental and moral, wrought by liquor as the Salvation Army? Do they see any change for the better? Evangeline Booth says their slum officers, nurses, managers of industrial homes, all unite in the same jubilant story: More comfortable homes, children better clothed and fed, men who formerly could not save a dime, opening bank accounts.
 Hard-times and idleness caused by closing the breweries and distilleries, throwing thousands out of work. What became of these thousands? Did they have to apply to the authorities where they lived for aid? Not much—when the saloon disappeared new stores of all kinds appeared to take their places; dry goods, markets, restaurants, auto supplies and candy stores created a great demand for help.
 Failure of the law. Ask the manager of compensations, factories and shoe shops how it is with their help Monday or after a holiday, when previously Monday was always a holiday, so many absent after Saturday night debauch and Sunday drinking.
 Ask the grocery man and store keeper, they will tell you sales are larger and collections sure, where before sales were smaller and collections uncertain, with more or less losses.
 Ask the banker and he will tell you there have been more deposits since prohibition than ever before.
 If the saloon were now open there would be double the automobile accidents.

MAKE GARDENS A BLESSING

War gardens were considered necessary in order to increase the supply of food. Now the need, in America at least, is not so great. But undoubtedly there will be many gardens planted this spring simply for the pleasure which is to be derived from working in the soil after a fatiguing day at the office. Would it not be a good plan for those who raise potatoes and corn not from necessity, but for personal pleasure, to donate the money which they would otherwise spend for green vegetables to the funds for feeding the starving peoples of other lands? Then, indeed, their gardens would be a real blessing.

FRIGHTENED!

"Every morning I woke up, I felt that something terrible was going to happen."

Writes Mrs. M. and she goes on to say, "I wonder if any other woman ever had such fits of depression as I had for over a year. I was so utterly despondent that if it had not been for my children, I believe I would have put an end to my life. Every day and every night was a nightmare. I dreaded going to bed because I lay awake most of the night. When I did sleep, I had the most dreadful dreams. I couldn't eat. I was completely run down—nothing interested me, nothing appealed to me. I consulted several doctors. They prescribed different remedies to build me up but these preparations didn't do me any good. Doctors told me I had a nervous breakdown. I was tired all the time. I felt every day that my strength was gradually leaving me. The least little exertion left me thoroughly tired out. I knew I was gradually wasting away. I felt I was going to die and I was so thoroughly miserable that I did not care whether I lived or not. And then I heard about Carnol and what a fine tonic it was. At first I refused to take it as I was sure it wouldn't do me any good. Finally I did try it with the most wonderful results. I am well and happy every minute of the day now. I eat heartily and sleep soundly. My friends won't believe that Carnol alone has done this for me. I am never despondent now and every day is a day of joy. What Carnol has done for me it will do for you."

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle and he will refund your money. -2-122

REST, WOMAN, EACH DAY

We nearly all live too strenuously. It does not matter whether we are millionaires or unable to pay our rent; we all do too much, ride about too much in street cars or automobiles we over-indulge in the telephone; we try to see too many people in too many places in a single day. And the painful fact about a single day is that we cannot stretch it a second beyond twenty-four hours.
 Now it is no use preaching to people about this; they must live as they choose, and nothing I can say will cause a woman to cut out a single errand. But I can recommend to her a practice insufficiently practiced, lying every day on her bed. If I were dictator of the world, I should compel every woman to lie down for an hour a day. It does not matter when she does it, morning, or afternoon. It is no use saying that you are too busy; you are not; you are awake 16 hours a day, and I have never known a woman kept busy 16 hours a day. But I do know many women who do not organize their work.
 To lie down you need an act of will. You need not sleep, but you need to relax; you lie flat, letting your arms lie flat too, your hands droop. Fingers, eyelids, lips, everything must be left limp. Then, as you say to yourself, "Nothing matters" or "I don't mind", a soft peace comes to you; your strained nerves grow less taut. At last you arise, refreshed and serene, your heart made light for new labour.

GREATER TEA CONSUMPTION IN GREAT BRITAIN

The reduction of the English duty on tea by four pence a pound will undoubtedly result in greater consumption on the part of the public of Great Britain, which is now by far the largest tea consuming country in the world. This increased demand will tend to raise the present abnormally high market, and an increase in cost of teas throughout the world may be expected.

PRaise FOR LOUIS BENNETT

Friends of Prof. Louis Bennett, who spent some weeks in Wolfville last summer, giving instructions in voice, will be interested in the following item taken from the Spartanburg (S. C.) Journal of May 6th. Prof. and Mrs. Bennett will return to Wolfville this summer. See announcement on another page. The Journal says:
 Among the distinguished guests at the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday were Mr. Edmond Morris, of Philadelphia, for a number of years director of the Spartanburg Music Festival, whose retirement from the teaching force of Converse College last year was much regretted, and Professor Louis Bennett, of Boston, who succeeded him at Converse College, and to whose admirable management the great triumph—the greatest, we have been told by numbers of the older inhabitants, in the history of the Festival—was due. Mr. Morris spoke to the Kiwanians with warm approval of the present seasons Concert he had attended, of his abiding interest in Spartanburg, its people and its institutions, and that he had not realized until he had departed from this gripping town how fully it had taken possession of his affections. Mr. Bennett did not speak, but simply rose at his place and bowed his acknowledgements to the Kiwanians; but the Hon. Pierre H. Fike, President of the Kiwanis Club, spoke the sentiments of the Kiwanians and of the great body of the art-loving people of the town, we believe, when he paid tribute to the man who made the Music Festival of 1922 the high-water mark, so to say, in the artistic and educational history of this town in the following well chosen words:
 "We have as an honored guest today Prof. Louis Bennett, Director of the Spartanburg Music Festival; those who know him know that he is a man of action, and not words. His work for the Festival of 1922 and the success it is from the standpoint of music, speaks far more eloquently for Louis Bennett than anything I or anyone else could say. He has labored faithfully, intelligently and incessantly, and the result speaks for itself, and this result is at once the marvel and admiration of all who attend the Festival; musicians or patrons."
 We call that "rather neat," as they say in the God-fearing community where "Perry" was raised, and after the Festival which closed last night, there is not the least doubt that the man who "put over" the Festival of 1922 deserves the thanks of all the people of Spartanburg for what he did; and his name is Louis Bennett.

RADIO FUTURE RESTS LARGELY ON WIRE 'PHONE

The recent experiments whereby conversation was successfully carried on between an office building in New York and a steamship at sea, using both the long distance wire telephone and the radio, promises a development in the quality of broadcasting that will eventually place it on a par with the highest class of entertainment and educational programmes.
 One very serious difficulty during the past year has been getting busy artists, musicians, public speakers, etc., to the broadcasting stations, particularly when the latter were located at distances from the populated centres. This unavoidably prevented such stations from putting on programmes of the quality that they might have desired. Even in New York, with a great wealth of talent to draw from and the large stations only a few miles away, it was often impossible to secure the best talent, because the latter were unable to be in two places at the same time.
 On the other hand, when the telephone wires were available, as in the case of a broadcast of the Chicago grand opera performances during the winter, the same programmes were available to the radio audiences as to the immediate one, without any hardship on the artists.
 This combination of wire and wireless is sure to solve the problem of radio programmes in the future. When the best plays, operas, and lectures can be sent from the stage or platform at exactly the same time through the ether as in person, practically the entire world of entertainment by sound is thrown open to the radio listener. The technical difficulties have been practically overcome; they are a mere trick of amplification and the proper placing of the microphones. If the wire telephone companies are in some way enabled to devote a certain portion of their lines to carrying the desired material from the cities to the stations, no matter where located, the best in the country will be available to all in the country in a degree now not remotely possible. If that can be arranged, the radio will take its place as the greatest force in the all around education of America.

A monthly inspection should be made of the brake rods and connecting parts of the auto or motor. Clean off all the accumulated dirt and rust, so that they will act as freely and efficiently as possible.

Foolish Saving

A penny saved is not always a penny earned. Sometimes it is two pennies lost. The merchant who spends nothing on advertising loses much more than he saves.

The money spent for plate glass windows is not looked on as lost; nor is the money spent on better interior lighting.

Anything that increases favor, that adds to sales, that multiplies customers is very properly regarded as a good investment.

Advertising is a good investment—just as plate glass windows are. Advertising sells more goods to more persons than shop-windows do.

THE ANNAPOLIS VALLEY AND ITS ATTRACTIONS

[By William T. Abbott, in Industrial Canada.]

No section of the Maritime Provinces makes a stronger appeal to the popular imagination than the Annapolis Valley. In one corner of it, the section around Grand Pre, was enacted one of those dramas of history which never fail to arouse the human emotions. This drama immortalized by the poet Longfellow, has spread its influence over the whole valley, giving to it a world-wide fame as the Land of Evangeline.

History, too, has woven its tendrils of romance about the old fort at Annapolis Royal, where stirring scenes were enacted in the days of the French regime. Antedating Quebec as a place of settlement, this venerable town has a story that goes back to the very inception of French settlement in America, and to one who finds interest in viewing the theatre of by-gone events, no ground in the Dominion is more fascinating.

However, historical interest is but one of many features which the Valley offers for the entertainment of the visitor. It has scenic attractions unsurpassed in length and breadth of the land. In its vicinity, there are opportunities for hunting and fishing calculated to delight the heart of the sportsman. Its orchards possess a fame that is continent-wide and all through the Valley from end to end nestle happy town and villages, where life flows on pleasantly and prosperously.

There are several ways of approaching the Annapolis Valley. One may enter by rail from Yarmouth at the western end of the Nova Scotia peninsula or one may arrive by boat from St. John through the remarkable portal of the Digby Gut, between whose towering cliffs the waters of the Annapolis Basin pour out into the Bay of Fundy. At its eastern end at Windsor, the visitor may approach either from Halifax or from Truro by rail. No matter how one enters, the entire Valley is traversed by the main line of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, while an excellent motor road follows the railway throughout, affording the motorists an opportunity to see the country under most favorable conditions.

How Valley is Formed

The Valley is formed by two lofty ranges of hills, known as North and South Mountains. The former raises a barrier between this sheltered and fertile region and the storms of Fundy Bay, while the latter separates it from the rough interior of the province, across which at times come blowing the chill winds of the Atlantic. From Annapolis Royal, the point at which the waters of the Annapolis River begin to broaden in to the beautiful expanse of the Annapolis Basin, to Windsor, where the Valley region ends, the distance is over one hundred miles. In width, the Valley varies from six to fifteen miles.

The protected character of the Valley, its rich soil and the equable climate which prevails render it particularly adapted to the culture of apple and other fruit trees. The proximity of the Valley to the ocean makes it further possible to ship out the apple crop in the fall to the English market with ease and expedition. These factors have contributed to a notable growth of the industry in recent years, so that there are now about 30,000 acres in orchard. Last year the crop ran up to around two million barrels of marketable fruit, which meant a turnover of about $6,000,000 in cold cash. And yet, the industry is still in its infancy. It is estimated that only about 20 per cent. of the available land is under cultivation, which gives a faint conception of the potential value of the industry to Nova Scotia.

The development of the apple industry in the Annapolis Valley has been gradual, but at all times recognized as of potential value. In 1856 the first shipment, consisting of 700 barrels was sent by schooner to Liverpool. The first cargo by steamer was shipped to London in 1881 on the steamship Neptune. Both shipments went from the port of Annapolis. Subsequent years saw these figures increase even up to the million barrel mark. In 1911 and 1919, when record crops were grown, reaching around 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 barrels respectively, a new and vigorous impetus was given to apple cultivation.

One of the events of the year in the Valley is apple blossom time and it is a rarely exhilarating experience to motor or drive up to some commanding spot on the mountain side and look down on the sea of white blossoms that fill the lower levels. The aroma from the countless flowers mounts up the hillside and adds to the pleasure of the spectator, the fragrance of the apple blossoms.

To enter the Valley from Digby and to traverse its length to Windsor is to enjoy a delightful trip. Digby itself deserves attention, for it has attained a reputation as a summer resort that has earned for it the name of the Newport of Nova Scotia. Built on the sloping side of a lofty hill overlooking Annapolis Basin, it is away from the exposed coast and yet near enough to the open ocean to derive all the benefits of cool sea breezes and invigorating salt air. Fishing is its principal industry, while in summer the tourist trade is most lucrative. There are quite a number of summer hotels in and near the town, which are well patronized in the season.

From Digby the railway skirts the shore of the Annapolis Basin as far as Annapolis Royal. Scenically, this is one of the most attractive sections on the entire run from Yarmouth to Halifax. The track is for the most part within sight of this fine expanse of land-locked water. At times, however, it swings inland and crosses on high-level bridges, those smaller valleys through which tributary streams flow down to the Basin. Notable among these is the Bear River Valley, at the mouth of which is located the new pulp mill of Clarke Bros. Limited, one of the large industries of the province.

Annapolis Royal

Annapolis Royal at the head of the Annapolis Basin, as already mentioned, is notable for its historical associations. Known in the days of the French as Port Royal, the remains of the old French fort still stand in a fair state of preservation and are an object of the deepest interest to the historically inclined. The town itself, which is now recovering from the effects of a serious conflagration last fall, is a charming place, its streets lined with beautiful hedgerows and its gardens filled with fragrant flowers. From it, the sportsman gains access by motor to the hunting and fishing regions of the Milford and Kedgemaquoog Lakes.

Leaving Annapolis, one enters the Annapolis Valley proper and the orchard lands for which it is so famous come into increasing evidence. At intervals of five or six miles, villages and towns occur, among them Bridgetown, Middleton and Berwick, places notable as shipping points where one also finds warehouses and local industries associated with the apple industry. The general impression given by all these places is one of prosperity and contentment.

At Kentville, the central point and largest town in the Valley is reached. Here the Dominion Atlantic Railway has its head quarters and shop. Here also is located a government experimental farm and a provincial sanitarium. From it a branch line of railway operates to Kingsport and Canning in the Cornwallis Valley.

Wolfville and Windsor

The next point of importance is Wolfville and here one is in sight of the famous Basin of Minas, with the bold outline of Cape Blomidon in the distance. It too is a pretty town, built along the sloping shore of the Basin and is perhaps chiefly notable as the seat of Acadia University and its preparatory schools, the Baptist institution of higher learning in the Maritime Provinces.

Skirting the shore of Minas Basin, where the phenomenon of high and low tides is conspicuously observable, the railway brings one to Grand Pre, the scene of Longfellow's Evangeline. A national park near the railway, commemorative of these famous events, with a fine statue of Evangeline in its midst, was recently opened, affording an added interest to the surroundings.

Leaving Grand Pre, the route of the railway is along the shore of the Avon River, a tributary of the Basin of Minas, passing through the thriving little town of Hantsport and so on to Windsor, where the Annapolis Valley region ends. Windsor is 46 miles from Halifax and contains quite a number of industries. There are gypsum mines close by and plaster mills are operated. Lumber is shipped in considerable quantities. The town is also the site of the University of King's College and its preparatory schools, which are supported by the Church of England in the Maritime Provinces. From it a line of railway extends to Truro, while the main line of the Dominion Atlantic continues to Halifax.

If tin or enamel ware becomes discolored, boil in strong solution of soda and water a few minutes, then remove and polish with one part oxide of tin to three parts whiting.

LYING AS A FINE ART

(From the New York Tribune.)

In a German libel suit an authenticated copy of a secret dispatch sent by the Bavarian Minister at Berlin has been introduced into the evidence. It reveals that the Minister wrote in 1914 to Hertling, then Premier of Bavaria and later German Chancellor, that "we must adhere to the assertion" that Germany was as much surprised as the other powers by Austria's ultimatum to Serbia. To insure an understanding of his robust hint the Bavarian Minister repeated:—"We must deny that Count Hertling knew the contents of the ultimatum before it was delivered". That Germany had no monopoly of this practice of making history as agreed on later is shown by the formal report of Moscow concerning the murder of the Czar and the helpless members of his family transmitted by local Soviet officers. A code telegram, uncovered when Kolchak's forces occupied Ekaterinburg, where the cellar slaughter occurred, said:—"Inform Sverdloff that the entire family has endured the same fate as the head. Officially the whole family will perish during the evacuation." To Mexico is ascribed the development of the technique by which political prisoners are killed while trying to escape. But in fact Mexico has lagged far behind. German and Russian officials have attained to higher levels in falsification. If Carlyle were alive he would no longer say that Cagliostro was the world's most accomplished falsifier. And were Oscar Wilde in the flesh he would acknowledge that his lament on "The Decay of Lying" is baseless. Yet Tchitcherine, who, as a high officer at Moscow in 1918, could not have been ignorant of the Romanoff massacre, though he has asserted his innocence, is received at Genoa as a gentleman whose word is valid, and German officials who participated in the attempt to deceive the word concerning the starting of the war are honorably entertained by Lloyd George.

The man that feels himself slipping away might try tying up the loose ends of his life with the nuptial knot.

In answering the new radiophone call, be sure to properly enunciate the last syllable of the hail: "Hello."

Acadia's closing time is again with us and during the next few days our town will be the centre of attraction to the Baptists of the Maritime Provinces. Many of these—old graduates of the various institutions—have been regular visitors to Wolfville for years and citizens will gladly renew their acquaintance. Others will perhaps make their first visit and we feel sure will be delighted with our beautiful town and its surroundings. To all these THE ACADIAN, on behalf of the citizens, tenders a hearty welcome and trusts that their stay among us may be pleasant and tend to an increased interest in these institutions which have in bygone years done so much for the cause of education in these provinces.

At a meeting of the Council held some time ago it was ordered that in future the telephones paid for by the town should be grouped in the Telephone Directory under the heading of the Town of Wolfville and specified according to the different departments represented. The resolution set out the matter fully and passed unanimously. Last week the May issue of the directory was placed in the hands of subscribers and those who anticipated the change mentioned above were disappointed. THE ACADIAN is not aware of where the blame for the omission should be placed but as of late the directory has only been issued twice a year—in May and November—it seems a pity that what was at the time thought to be a wise move and in the interest of public convenience should not have been brought into operation where there was apparently plenty of time for making the necessary change.

Wolfville people for the past ten years have been justly proud of the fine main thoroughfare which cost them considerable but is worth all—and more—than it cost. The outlay for the work was undoubtedly one of the wisest and best expenditures that the town ever made and has favorably advertised it in all directions. Of late, however, this street has been badly neglected and now shows wear as it never should have been allowed to do. Experts say that the secret of maintenance of a tarvia street is never to allow it to deteriorate. A slight expenditure made every second year, it is claimed, will keep the street up to standard and materially increase its life. The present season should see Main street put in the best possible condition as we cannot afford to allow it to be further neglected. In this particular "a stitch in time saves nine."

The letter signed "Civic Pride", which appears elsewhere in THE ACADIAN this week, is well worthy of the attention of our readers and is especially commended to the notice of the town authorities. Dealing as it does with a matter which has repeatedly been referred to by this paper we gladly give the letter space. It is certainly time for a move in Wolfville to prevent the apparent laxity regarding the care of our public and private premises if our reputation as an ideal residential town is to be maintained. Look around you, and do your "bit" to help.

Very little is heard concerning the coming town election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Councillor Nowlan. Tuesday of next week will be nomination day and the election will take place on Tuesday, June 6th. The term will be a short one but it is highly important that a good man be chosen for the position. Many problems fall to the members of the Council and no doubt they will appreciate the assistance that may be given them by the choice of the people for the vacant place at the board. Civic interest demands that this matter should receive the careful consideration of the electors.

It will be seen by the announcement in another column that it is the intention of the Council to enforce the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act in this town, and THE ACADIAN feels sure that their action will receive the approval of citizens generally. With the increased number of automobiles which frequent our streets it is imperative that their movements should be properly directed in order to avoid accidents. In order that the safety of motorists themselves as well as the public generally should be properly guarded it is necessary that the rules of driving and parking cars, etc., should be carefully observed and the Council in demanding that this be done is performing a public service.

The congregation of St. Andrew's church was delighted last Sunday morning with a solo, "O Divine Redeemer", beautifully sung by Miss Evelyn Duncan. Mrs. J. W. Smith sang a solo at the evening service.

On Victoria Day the Boy Scouts enjoyed a hike to Black River Falls with Scoutmaster Brown in charge. A chocolate bar trail was laid along the road to lighten the tedium of the miles.

Councillor and Mrs. D. G. Whidden entertained very pleasantly at their commodious home on Wednesday afternoon and evening a number of lady and gentlemen friends. A dainty tea was served after which the evening was spent at cards and was greatly enjoyed.

The ladies of the Baptist Church entertained the members of the choir at a banquet on Thursday of last week, in honor of the choirster, Prof. Marsh, who is closing his work in Wolfville. Mrs. Marsh was presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers, and the occasion was an enjoyable one.

Mr. Byron Bent, who had charge of the construction of the new Bank of Montreal building here, left on Saturday last for Sussex, N. B., where he will supervise the erection of a new school building to cost $130,000.

Mr. Bent has been with the Rhodes, Curry Co. for many years and has built many fine buildings in different parts of the Maritime Provinces.

The speaker at the Methodist church on Sunday evening last was Rev. Dr. James Neave, who gave a most interesting and instructive address descriptive of his work in China, where he has spent the past twenty-five years.

Dr. Neave labored in the interior of that interesting country being located 1800 miles from the sea. During his long stay in China he won the confidence and esteem of the people and rulers, and has done splendid work. His wife, who was formerly Dr. Maud Killam, of Yarmouth, a medical missionary also in China, died some years ago.

The musical services of the Baptist Church last Sunday were particularly interesting. The choir was assisted in the morning by Miss Bridges of the Conservatory staff, and in the evening Mrs. Barteaux was the soloist. Mr. Frank Marsh, Jr., who directed the music during the past year with marked success, is leaving in the course of a few days for Alabama and Mr. D. D. Cameron who presided at the organ for the past two years has also resigned his position to take a course at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., where he has obtained a scholarship. At the close of the evening service a large number of the congregation met these two musical leaders in the Church Parlor to say a word of farewell and to express appreciation of the services they had rendered in a musical way.

MOTORS AND MOTORING: A Page Full of Interest to the Owner or Prospective Owner of an Automobile.

CLEAN UP THE LITTER

"Park your car anywhere you wish, but clean up your litter afterwards." Keep this in mind now that the jaunting season is beginning.

This advice ought to be posted, according to thoughtful motorists, at many points along the country roads and especially at the hundreds of pleasant little vantage points where family motoring parties are in the habit of stopping for lunch. A cool and inviting bit of shade, a spring by the roadside, or a slightly spot overlooking a sheet of water—these are the places sought in summer by the touring parties, and when the ideal bit of ground has been reached, out come the food hamper and the sandwiches, and all too frequently the scraps of wax paper and the ice-cream boxes and the other essentials that mother has been thoughtful enough to put in are left lying about, to be scattered by the wind or trampled into the ground.

One of the pleasantest things about the motor picnic is to find the lunching place scrupulously clean, and one of the most disappointing is to find it untidy. Could not every party make it a point to clean up after the repast, and so have things in tidy shape for the next? To do this, says a writer in Country Life, would remove what is called "one of the motorists' gravest disregards for his fellowmen."

Several of the 1922 models of passenger automobiles have a light placed under the hood, for inspecting the engine on a dark night.

DEGREE OF HONOR FOR DANISH DRIVERS

A degree of honor is instituted for chauffeurs in the service of the Royal Danish Automobile Club in Copenhagen. This consists of a diploma and a badge of honor for men who have loyally and ably served a certain number of years. The proceeds of a fund reward deeds of valor and presence of mind exercised on difficult occasions in automobile accidents, and also to support widows of deserving men.

DRESSING FOR LEATHER

An effective leather dressing is made with one part vinegar to two parts linseed oil shaken vigorously in a bottle. This dressing should be gently rubbed into the leather with a rag. Then rub with a soft duster and finish the polishing process with a chamois leather.

The treatment may be applied to leather upholstery, suit-cases, trunks and bags of all descriptions. Not only will it render the leather pliable, but it will make it look like new. When the leather shows signs of wear, white of egg should be painted on the worn part some days before applying the linseed oil and vinegar.

HORACE'S PUNISHMENT

Little Horace was sent to his room as a punishment for taking forbidden cake from the sideboard cupboard. His mother, thinking to make the punishment more impressive, went up to his room, and after all was forgiven, said:

"Now, Horace, what did I punish you for?" Horace looked at her in amazement, and his face wore a pained expression. "Well, mummie," he replied, "I like that! Here have I been kept in bed all the afternoon, and now you can't remember what you did it for!"

Advertising offers a rich field for the man in whom a trained imagination and sound common sense will work in the same harness.

PRESSURE FEED FAILURE

It sometimes happens on cars where fuel is fed by pressure supplied by the exhaust gases, it becomes increasingly difficult to maintain the pressure at the requisite figure. As a rule pressure does not drop quickly, but seems gradually to ooze away. The first thing to do in a case of this kind is to examine the filter cap of the tank. A leather or rubber gasket is used at this point and often the rubber becomes spongy or the leather gets hard and cakes, or a small bit of foreign matter may have lodged between the cap and its seat. On the other hand it sometimes occurs that the pressure in the system is built up to a point where the small valve operated at the carburetor float will be unable to restrain the fuel and flooding of the instrument will result. As a rule, a pressure of one and a half pounds is ample to insure an uninterrupted supply of fuel in the carburetor.

MOST WANT ENDURANCE

A census conducted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce shows that endurance is what most automobile owners seek in a car. Other considerations in order of preference are: Economy, comfort, price, appearance, service, hill-climbing ability, specifications, speed and appointments.

PROPER WAY TO STOP

Skidding or locking the brakes and sliding the wheels causes serious damage both to the truck's mechanism and the treads of the tires. Drivers should be taught that their trucks will stop quicker if the brakes are applied gradually and firmly than with a jerk. Improperly adjusted brakes will sometimes cause one wheel to lock, resulting in a section of the tire being torn or ground off. As soon as a truck starts to skid it should be steered, if possible, in the direction of the skid. Abrupt turning of corners has the same effect as skidding by increasing the strain and wear on the tires.

In France, a regular motor service is maintained daily over the new "Routes des Alpes", between Nice on the Mediterranean shore and the Swiss frontier, travelling the French Alps and traversing some of the wonderful mountain country in Europe.

Because of automobile stealing, a large insurance company is said to have lost $2,000,000 in payment last year of cars insured against theft. Losses during 1920 amounted to $1,000,000.

FAULTY MAGNETO GROUND WIRES KEEP ENGINE RUNNING

If an engine with magneto ignition continues to run after the ignition is switched off, the trouble lies in the magneto ground wire, which may be disconnected, loose or broken. Sometimes a break in the wire may be unnoticed because the insulation around the wire may not be damaged.

CARBURETOR MUST BE ADJUSTED WHILE HOT

A great many car owners make the mistake of adjusting the carburetor when the engine is cold. Now it is always best to make adjustments to the motor after it has been run for long enough to get thoroughly warmed through, and this applies equally to the valve tappets, etc. It is quite possible that the cold motor may operate very well on certain adjustments that will not agree at all with the hot engine.

Back-firing is the principle cause of automobile fires, and the principal cause of back-firing is too lean a mixture fed to the cylinders.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians.

USE RUBBER COVER ON SHORT CIRCUIT

There is frequently danger of short circuits in the battery because of the fact that one of the terminals is located near the metal handle used for lifting the battery. To obviate this danger it is only necessary to slip a short length of rubber tubing over the wire at the point where the contact might be made. To do this the tubing should be slit lengthwise, slipped over the wire and taped firmly in place. It is a good plan to follow this practise wherever there is danger of the wires rubbing off their insulation, establishing a short circuit.

Beware Rejuvenator

So-called battery "rejuvenators" do restore a battery's strength—for a while. But at the expense of the battery. They shorten the life of the battery plates. The best way is recharging by electricity.

WHERE COURTESY MAY COUNT MOST

Let Good Manners Grow With Use of Motors.

As the number of automobiles increases, so does the opportunity for good manners in motoring.

After all the streets and highways belong to everybody and no one who is at all considerate of others' rights will forget that.

Most lapses from the golden rule of courtesy are due to thoughtlessness rather than deliberate selfishness—but thoughtlessness and automobile driving are a bad combination.

The man whose car waits at an unpolluted intersection for a chance to cut across the traffic wonders why none of the scores of cars will hesitate long enough to make a gap for him, but this same man, were he in the stream of traffic, probably would not stop for another.

Those who expect courtesy should themselves be courteous. Every day every motorist has at least one occasion upon which he could courteously slow down and allow a fellow-motorist to turn his car or could steer to the right or left a little to make it easier for the other man to turn into the main highway from an intersection.

In almost every city there are some streets so frequented during the morning and evening rush hours that the people who live on these streets and own cars can hardly get into or out of their own driveways—because the passing motorist is so supremely indifferent.

The courteous motorist will not weave in and out of traffic or narrow roads and force other motorists to give ground to avoid collision or slip in between two cars so as to compel the man behind to use his brakes for safety.

It isn't courteous to take the corners swiftly and swing wide so that approaching drivers, especially women, are forced to slow down in alarm.

When cars are parked and space is limited, the considerate motorist will give a thought to those who will come after him and will not park carelessly so as to waste space.

A special chapter might be written on the courtesy of the horn. The horn is a safety signal—not a medium for the expression of impatience when traffic is delayed by a stalled motor a few cars ahead. The horn is not a door-bell to summon friends whom one is picking up to go to dinner or for a drive. In every block there are sensitive, nervous and sick people who have a right to more consideration than is shown by repeated full length prolonged soundings of the horn.

The merit of the modern automobile horn is its carrying power and distinct tone. A very gentle touch on the horn button will warn pedestrians quite as effectively as a blast that paralyzes them with fright. Pedestrians have rights, too, the right to cross at intersections without waiting five or ten minutes, the right to be warned courteously, if warning is needed at all.

Some people contend that automobile horns should be prohibited, and the burden of caution be placed on the motorist. This is an extreme view—but the reasons that lead to it are plain enough, the abuse of the horn.

PLANTING THE FLOWER GARDEN

(Experimental Farms Note)
The annual delight to flower lovers of planting the garden is about to be experienced as spring is here. Often the desire to plant, however, is so strong that certain kinds are set out in the garden long before they should be with the result that many plants are ruined by late spring frosts. There is no advantage, and great danger in planting geraniums, for instance, before the last week of May, and tender plants are almost certain to be killed.

In planting the flower garden it should always be kept in mind that green grass is one of the most pleasing sights about a garden as flowers without grass to set them off may be compared with a picture without a frame. The flower garden then should be planned that the grass will not be much cut up by flower beds. See that the places for flowers are along the boundaries, in corners, or close to the house, leaving as much grass as possible in an unbroken area.

All herbaceous perennials that are going to be planted this spring should be set out as soon as possible now as the more growth they have made before planting the less satisfactory will be the results the first year.

Roses should be planted as early as possible, and if the plants seem dry when they arrive prune severely and bury them in moist soil for a couple of days before planting.

Some of the hardiest annual flowers, the seed of which can be planted outside early in May, are Sweet Alyssum, Calliopsis, Candytuft, Calendula or Pot Marigold, Delphinium, Eschscholtzia, Poppy, Phlox Drummondii, Virginian Stocks, and Verbena, while for best results Sweet Peas should be planted as soon as the ground is dry enough, but good success will be obtained in an average year even if there is delay in planting for a few weeks. Annuals that are affected by very little frost should not be planted before the latter part of May as, in addition to their probably being killed by frost, these tender things do not succeed well until the temperature of the soil is fairly high. This applies also to such tender plants as Cannas and Dahlias. Gladioli may be planted any time in May.

In planting the flower garden it is very desirable to plan it in such a way that there will be a succession of bloom from early in the spring until late in the autumn. Care should be taken also to arrange the plants in such a way that there will be pleasing blending or contrasts in colours and that the lower growing plants will be in the foreground, or, at least, not hidden by the stronger and taller ones.

MANAGING A HOUSE
When you think about the new equipment you will need this spring to operate your business or your farm, do you also consider the new devices which will enable your wife to run the house on a more economical basis and with less expenditure of energy? Managing a house is as much a business as managing a store or farm, and the same care should be taken to secure the best equipment on the market if the most satisfactory results are to be obtained.

TURN THE CLOUDS INSIDE OUT

If you happen to feel a blue spell coming on, consider the facts contained in this little lay sermon that comes from real life in B. C.

The other day in Vancouver, some poor people sniffed escaping gas and suspected one of their neighbors was growing world-weary. It was a familiar sign there, for others had used the same means before. Their conjectures were perfectly correct, for they broke into the squalid little cabin of Mr. Jesse Bellew, aged 71, in the nick of time to yank a jet that was stuck into his mouth, and turn off the escaping gas. Mr. Bellew was tired of life; the world had been unkind; a note in his hand enquired: "What's the use?"

But some lowly gutter evangelists rushed to the rescue. They fed him; gave him clean raiment; cheered him up with energetic knocking of tambourines and booming of a bass drum, and they prayed over him amid rollicking hymns. Then they cast about for a job, which was the main thing, after all. Finding the old gentleman was quite handy with a paint-pot, they created a new profession. It is going about town slicking up brass signs where the enamel was worn off, and polishing the brass. Now Mr. Bellew has so many clients that he has hired two assistants from Vancouver's slums, and he is waxing opulent.

"Mr. Bellew's own observation is inspiring to the man or woman who feels blue with the world's wallops: 'Folks, I'm an old codger and thought life was over for me.' Bless yer hearts, life is only starting! She's sure a good old world when you get to understand her. When y're feeling blue, just remember that war song and 'Turn the Dark Clouds Inside Out'. There's lots of silver ready to be polished up on the other side."

The world is full of Mr. Bellews, although, perhaps, they are not all reduce to the straits of self-destruction. But all the same, Mr. Bellew's little life lesson is well worth remembering. Life's darkest day must have a bright spot somewhere ahead. The law of averages works. The world or life never was supposed to be a place of sheerest joy. We are told that prolonged ecstasies will only reach us in the invisible world. However this may prove, we have still lots of happiness in this old world, if we look for it. But most of it needs uncovering. Anyway, it doesn't pay to revel in an orgy of self pity, it gets us nothing. And that blue feeling never pays. Forget it. Things are probably not so bad after all.

Don't Spoil Your "Day Off"

For weeks you've been dreaming of a day with your Hardy on the little, secluded lake known only to you and to a select few others as just swarming with trout.

You know where the big ones lurk and you know, too, the fly that will tempt them to the fatal bite.

You know where you'll camp and just what eats you'll take.

One thing you don't know, though, and that is, if a guide will be available.

The success of your trip turns on that. Don't take chances! Make sure!

You needn't write him. Correspondence isn't your guide's long suit!

The Telephone will do the trick for you. Ring him up and talk with him!

OUT IN FRONT

(By the Pioneer Sergeant)

WE very much
DISLIKE
TO hear people
BRAG.
NOT only is it
AN indication of a
WEAK mind but also of
AN exaggerated imagination.
WE were holding up
A street corner
YESTERDAY—
IT needed it—
LISTENING to the wisdom
OF the passer by.
WE heard a
STRANGE gentleman
EXPIATING on the UNIQUE apartment houses
IN his home town,
WE didn't say anything.
IT was too hot
TO argue,
BUT we have our own
IDEAS.
WE can point out an APARTMENT in the CENTRE of our BUSINESS section—
AN apartment of THREE rooms containing
TWELVE persons.
COULD anything be
MORE unique.
DO you wonder that
A large proportion of
THE tenants make their
ACCUSTOMED habitation
ON the street.
WE are told that the LANDLORD finds he must
INCREASE the rent,
DUE to the density of POPULATION.

AND that the

HEALTH board
CONDEMNNS it as UNSANITARY
BUT like a good soldier,
IT still carries on—
AND probably will—
UNTIL—well—
YOU know what we mean.
WE thank you.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Withrow moved this week into their new residence in the Bank of Montreal building. The apartments are handsomely and conveniently fitted up and are ideal in every particular.

Mrs. (Capt.) Wilfred Lockhart returned to Wolfville on Tuesday afternoon after an absence of some weeks. She is, however, glad to get back to her Wolfville home.
