A remarkable story, says the Wheeling... (W.Va.) Register, is told of the late Captain Stone, of Mountville, who was buried at the beginning of this week. Thirty-five years ago he came from New Orleans to Mountville to make his home, and he brought with him two seeds of a mango-like tree that flourished near his former home. These he planted, remarking to his family that he would have coffee made from the tree. One of the seeds died, but the other flourished and grew. From a shoot it began to sprout, and in the autumn of thirty years grew to a fine tree. About eight months ago a severe wind storm passed over Mountville, and Captain Stone's tree had its trunk snapped. He had it cut, sawed into lumber, and sent to a Pittsburgh firm. In a short time it was returned to him in the form of a beautiful coffin, and for months it was preserved in his residence. About two weeks ago he contracted a sickness that culminated in his death, and in the coffin he had planned was laid, and in which he had planned 35 years ago, and in which he had laid away forever.

An international gathering of jurists, statesmen and philanthropists opened its sessions in London on the 11th inst. The object of its promoters is to endeavor to establish an international code of law, and to settle the questions which arise between civilized countries. The president is Sir Fitzroy Kelly, Lord Chief Baron of England, who is supported by half a dozen English judges. The United States is represented by two Chief Justices and eight leading lawyers. From the other nations are represented by several distinguished jurists, including Italy, Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Austria, Turkey, China and Japan. Among the subjects proposed for discussion are: consular jurisdiction in Eastern countries; collisions at sea; international protection of telegraphic communications; international maintenance of light-houses and rules of quarantine; bills of exchange; uniformity of weights and measures; extradition of criminals; sea signals, &c. The main object of the conference, however, is to promote international codification, and to place international arbitration on a recognized footing.

A writer in the Westminister Review for July, advocates Imperial Federation, on the ground that it would strengthen the Empire and save the redundant wealth and population of the Mother Country. From 1810 to 1876, the total number of emigrants who left the United Kingdom was 2,434,942. The destinations were as follows:— United States, 1,000,000; British North America, 1,000,000; Australia, 800,000; New Zealand, 300,000; Other places, 334,942. Thus, while England sent 2,434,942 emigrants to develop and enrich a foreign power, she secured only 2,527,500 for her colonies, assuming that the "other places" were British possessions. Taking the money value of these emigrants at $1,000 apiece, England in that period of sixty-seven years presented the United States with the sum of $2,434,942,000, or an annual gift of $36,320,000. The writer advocates a well-considered scheme for sending the redundant population of the Mother Country to the colonies, and dwells at some length on the resources and area of the Canadian North-West.

A railroad, 2,000 kilometres, or about 1,200 miles in length, is projected to connect the Mediterranean with the River Niger, as in contemplation. The completion of the African continent, the absence of deep gulfs and penetrating seas, and inlets, has been the chief protection against successful invasion; but let one such enterprise as this be executed and made profitable, and it will speedily be stabled in all directions, deeper and deeper, with railroads, which will carry with them the irresistible forces of trade and civilization. These will overcome the savage natives and dispel the mystery of the Sahara. Flooding the Sahara and transforming it into an inland sea may be an impracticable project, but the fact that it has been seriously broached is another indication of the determination of European enterprise to get into the heart of Africa and open it to commerce and industry.

Cost of the Zulu War.—The Chamberlain of the Exchequer has submitted an estimate of the cost of the Zulu war. The Chancellor, backed by the authority of the War Office, still adheres to his estimate that the cost of the war will be covered by half a million a month down to the end of July. From that time they consider the expenditure should rapidly diminish, and from July to the end of the war a further sum of £2,100,000 is given as the estimate. Besides these, the navy incurred half a million, and the cost of transport, and the sum of £500,000 had been put down for contingencies. The total cost of the war is four and a half millions, of which one and a half millions were voted in April last; the remaining three millions he proposes to raise by Exchequer bonds. His surplus list vote was put at £1,500,000, and the balance he expects to receive as a contribution from the South African colonies.

Of the railway in Nova Scotia known as the Eastern Extension, the New Glasgow Chronicle says:—The rails are laid for a distance of nearly thirty miles from New Glasgow. Two ballasting trains are now at work, one to the east and one to the west, of the ballast pit at Barney's River. The western ballasting train goes to Pictou Landing every morning for a load of rails and takes the car loads of them, enough to lay a mile of track. A third train will soon be in operation, and it is expected that the track will be laid and ballasted to Antigonish before the end of the month. Work was begun at South River east of Antigonish, on Monday last, and it will be seen by advertisement elsewhere that the principal industry on the eastern division is about to be commenced.

As a measure of protection against the tea dealers who give away china dogs and other crockery to their customers, the crockery dealers are going to send out packets of tea to persons who buy crockery from them. This might make a very pretty gift, with the odds on the side of the crockery men. There are a great many persons who know pretty crockery, and when they see it then there are who can distinguish good tea from bad. The crockeryman who therefore has a larger margin to work upon for his 50 cent tea need not cost him more than 20 cents, and he can afford to be generous.

Col. Dowski will return to Canada the next week in August. His ideas is said to be to give a sort of garden party during the annual prize meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association, at which both ladies and gentlemen will be present. It would be of a similar character to the garden parties given by him at Wimbledon.

An Undesirable Truth. You desire to suffer, and if you lead a miserable, unsatisfactory life in this beautiful world, it is entirely your own fault, and there is only one excuse for you,—your untimely and prejudicial and skeptical, which has killed thousands. Personal knowledge and common sense reasoning will show you that Col. Gray's August Flower will cure you of all your Complaints, or Dyspepsia, with all its miserable effects, such as sick headache, indigestion, or the heart, sour stomach, nervous prostration, low spirits, &c. Its sale now reaches every town on the Western Continent and not a Prussian bullet will tell you of its wonderful cures. You can buy a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Three doses will relieve you.

Shot Through the Heart.

I have a tale to tell, with a true German flavor, of a huntsman of the olden time, and of the ringing of a shot in the recess of a forest.

From village to town, and back from town to village—no matter where—the narrow footpath runs at one end through smooth meadows, then descends into a wide hollow, of which the whole sweep is filled with a glorious old wood.

A party of English travellers dwell for a few days in the adjacent town, and soon discovered that the grand old forest oaks were good to dine under.

Only their own servants went with the holiday makers, who had dined first and were dancing merrily when first the shadows on the turf began perceptibly to lengthen.

wouldn't leave the forest. Let it pass. Mary Götter and old Luck, who lives close by, and has gone down on his knees to you five times over.
