FROM DAY TO DAY
(Monday's Daily)
ART.

We praise the art of an age gone by. And scoff at the art of our own. To be worshipped as great a man must be. Unloved of his age, unknown. We laud the products of pens which lie Dark centuries deep in rust; And raise for the standard of future years The musician who sleeps in dust.

Let us praise the men who deserve our praise, Give each one his lawful wage, Whether he toiled in the good old days Or in this bright, golden age.

All glory to art of the years gone past, All glory to years to come; But let us acknowledge our own at last, Ere it sicken and perish dumb.

—Katherine A. Clark.

HOLIDAY DECORATIONS.

Some houses in Edmonton have been so charmingly decorated for the holiday season that it is to be hoped their mistresses will not be so generous as to show the cheery crimson bells and ropes and wreaths of evergreen. Their effect in contrast with the white walls without doors is delightful. We have taken this custom of Yuletide decoration from the English. In accordance with the English custom of taking the decorations down on Christmas the day on which candles were distributed at the meal, was made something of a ceremony.

Horlick, the quaint poet of "Merrie England," whose poems are filled with merriment and laughing professions of hobgoblin beliefs, writes of the proper time to take down the decorations and mark the passing of the Christmas season. He sings:

Down with the rosemary and so, Down with the bay and mistletoe; Down with the holly, ivy, and hollyhock; Wherewith ye dressed the Christmas hall.

That is the superstitious find Not our last branch there left behind; For look, how many leaves there be Neglected there, mistletoe and ivy. So many gobolins you shall see.

TWO RECIPES.

Shortbread—Two lbs. flour, 1 lb. butter, 1/2 lb. sifted sugar. Beat the butter and sugar to a cream, add the flour, work into two flat cakes an inch thick and very smooth, divide into four, pink the edges, prick well with a fork. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Sprinkle with sifted sugar or chopped almonds when half done.

icing for Christmas Cake—Take icing sugar, mix with the beaten white of egg till stiff enough to spread, flavoured with lemon juice. Paint the cake with liquid jam or jelly to make the icing stick. When icing is cold, decorate with more icing colored pink or red with cochineal, or yellow with clear orange red or butter color. Press out of a tiny cone made of strong writing paper.

PRETTY CLOTHING FOR ELDERLY WOMEN.

There are in Eastern Canada several notable instances among society women past middle age who wear light colored costumes and who appear to the best advantage in dainty colored attire.

Perhaps Lady Laurier, the wife of Canada's premier, is one of the happiest instances, for with her fresh complexion and beautiful silver hair she looks particularly well in the pale mauve and cream brocades and rich cream laces which give her wardrobe a distinctive mark.

"This year the mode for light-colored gowns promises to be universal on both sides of the Atlantic. In continental Europe at the winter resorts this is a "white season," for there is a perfect rage for white fro, ermine, white faced cloth, and above all, ivory white Indian cashmere. The latter is really an ideal material for dresses of ceremony. But it has been rather out of favor the last three or four years. Now it is rushing to the front again and in connection with rare, lovely embroideries.

Marguerite, dowager queen of Prussia, is credited with this universal adoption of white, for on every possible occasion she appears in white robes trimmed with touches of primrose yellow. Miss Robins, Quebec, cream robe with turquoise blue embroidery, cream lace trimmings, turquoise necklaces, lace trappings, black silk with black lace trappings, and cream lace yoke. Mrs. Kelly black silk with black lace. Mrs. Smith, black silk with cream lace yoke and bertha; Mrs. Boucher black silk with tulle yoke. Saturday afternoon was a particularly bright occasion socially for the social circle of guests invited to the "Nightingale's" bridge, and Miss Turnbull presided over the card-party taking on later to Mrs. Turnbull's showy rooms for tea. The card-party was a thoroughly enjoyable informal affair at which Mrs. Swaisland and Mrs. Nightingale who was artistically gowned in dove gray voile, was assisted in receiving by her sisters, Miss Hudspeth and Mrs. Helen Hudspeth, the former wearing a pretty light blue gown, the latter in dark blue silk. The guests included Mrs. Branton, Miss Branton, Mrs. Swaisland, Mrs. Norquay, Mrs. Dunstan Smith, Mrs. Boucher, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Braithwaite, Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. Pardee, Mrs. Almon, Mrs. Rhodes and Mrs. McPherson.

LOVE'S MOODS.
(Wednesday's Daily)

I thought of my love in the distance, Silent and wild was the place; In a moment her voice lent its music, And around shone the light of her face.

Her face, and her's only!

I stood in my love's sweet presence, But a mood wrapped her soul from all view; We spoke, but on flowed the silence, And deeper the solitude grew— How deep and how lonely!

—Edith M. Thomas.

AN ECCLESIASTICAL HAT.

A milliner who works in a large city says that one day a woman came into the store very much excited, and wanted the trimmings on her new hat changed. She said it had been trimmed on the wrong side.

"But," said the saleswoman, "the trimming is on the left side. That is where it ought to be."

"It doesn't make any difference whether it ought to be in front or back, or left, it's got to be on the church side."

"Church side," gasped the astonished girl.

"Yes, church side. I sit right next the wall in church, and I'm not going to have all that trimming next the wall. I want it on the other side, so that the whole congregation can see it."

The trimming was promptly placed on the "church side" of the hat.

A WOMAN AMONG WOMEN.

To many Canadians who have had the privilege of meeting this great-hearted philanthropist in England and here, she is more than a passing interest in the news of Baroness Burdett-Coutts' death. She was one of the great women of the nineteenth century.

Many in Edmonton will remember that like many other genial and kind people she once did something that set the wisecracks to shaking their heads with the cry—"Silly! Silly!" When she was 67 years old she married a man of 30, a young American, a philanthropist and thinker. The Baroness had lived long enough to see the wisecracks to shaking their heads with the cry—"Silly! Silly!"

Mrs. Roy, who has, with her husband, Senator Roy, been spending the holidays at home, has been the guest of honor at a number of very enjoyable social affairs, including several small dinners and a tea given by Mrs. Turnbull on Saturday afternoon. This afternoon Mrs. Roy is the raison d'être of Mrs. Thibault's tea. Mrs. McMahon entertains at cards tomorrow also in her honor and on the same day this attractive member of Edmonton's social life leaves for the Federal Capital, where, with the reopening of both Houses of Parliament, a notably brilliant social season is anticipated by the Canadian visitors from every province.

SHORTLY.

The dinner tendered by the Edmonton Council on the occasion of a luncheon to the ladies accompanying the visiting knicker from Winnipeg, took place on Saturday night and proved a most agreeable function. The guests were received by Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Cormack, Mrs. Wilford and other ladies. The other ladies of the committee. The long dinner tables were most artistically decorated with ropes of amaranth, baskets of rare growing plants, ferns and vases of cut flowers. Covers were laid for fifty. Some very attractive dresses were worn. Mrs. Brock was most becomingly gowned in champagne silk with cream lace and green lace bertha rose point lace, and touches of clear mauve on the corsage. Mrs. De Gan, Winnipeg, wore a delectable white point d'esprit over white, and Mrs. Russell, Winnipeg, rich black lace over black silk. Mrs. McCormack, Champaigne chignon cloth in princess, with appliques of Irish lace and touches of pale blue velvet. Mrs. Wilford, blue silk with cream lace and touches of black velvet. Mrs. Gray, a very dainty gown of white point d'esprit over white, with white satin embroidery. Mrs. McKenney, cream silk embroidered; Miss Morin, Balmoral, white corduroy with pale blue sash; Madame Leonard, clear blue silk with white lace and chignon garniture; Madame Gariepy, black silk with black lace trimmings; Mrs. Silver, black silk with white chignon trimmings; Miss T. 1897, cream silk gown, prettily shaped and lumes. The late king of Italy was very fond of the virgin tint and was really angry when his queen appeared in any but the palest and most delicate colors. He declared with truth—that a pretty woman looks best in robes composed of soft white laces and he used to present his wife with costly frounces, on condition that she wore them on ordinary, as well as extraordinary, occasions. Indeed King Humbert's two special weaknesses were laces and pearls, and with these two most desirable possessions Queen Marguerite is richly endowed.

The queen has been heard to say that beautiful white lace and rich white furs belong by right, to women who have left their youth behind them. It is a very comfortable doctrine and one which contains many grains of truth, applicable as well to the women of Alberta as to those of Paris, for the art of growing old gracefully is one universally desirable.

every philanthropic and charitable cause which she approved.

It was in 1837, the year Victoria became Queen, that Miss Burdett-Coutts began her life of benevolence and beneficence, limiting herself to no one phase of helpfulness; but wherever she could benefit humanity her heart and her purse were open. She built and endowed St. Stephen's church, Westminster; endowed three colonial hospitals, secured the permanent adoption of travelling inspectors of schools, gave funds for the topographic survey of Jerusalem, established a home for women, fitted out hundreds of boys for the navy, suggested the formation of the East London Weavers' association, erected model tenements, aided Sir Thomas Brooke in his work in Sarawak, helped the starving fishermen of Cape Clear Island and the poor of London and Scotland, organized the Turkish Compassionate fund to help the peasantry during the Russo-Turkish war, and for nearly seventy years has devoted herself to charities.

In 1871 the Queen conferred a peerage on the great philanthropist. Altogether it is estimated that during the four score and twelve years of her life she has given for charitable purposes more than $25,000,000; and many of the most important charities in England owe their prosperity, or indeed, their very existence, to her generosity. The whole long life of the baroness had been one of wise and unselfish devotion to good works.

She might have frittered her life away in social functions with rests between, but she did not, and the world is considerably better for this woman's life.

THE YEAR WITH THE RAILROADS.
(Montreal Weekly Herald)

Never in the history of the Dominion have the railways had such a year as that which closed on Monday.

Increase—great, but, however, increases have been the rule from the smallest single car line to the great system that spans the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The year of grace 1906 made an excellent start from the railway viewpoint. There was hardly any a-w-e-a weather and the snowprows reposed especially in the south. That meant hundreds of thousands less in operating expenses so far as the great systems were concerned.

It is true the systems have had to pay more for labor—more for material used for structural purposes, and more for equipment than they have ever done before, but against that there were enormous advances in the earnings owing to the vastly increased volume of traffic handled.

As the calendar year and the railway year do not synchronize and as the railways will not themselves have the figures of their earnings available for at least another month of the year, it is impossible to give a complete and satisfactory statement of the results.

This much can be said that the results have been of a remarkable character as regards the systems operating in the west, east and middle of the country. This is, of course, due to the widespread prosperity. To begin with the I. C. R.—the Government railway—may be said to have turned from a chronic accumulator of deficits to a profit-maker. The Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk have surpassed all records, and the Canadian Northern has shown that as one of Canada's great systems it must now be seriously reckoned in Winnipeg for 1906.

When the Canadian Pacific closed its accounts for its financial year which ended on June 30, it showed gross earnings to the amount of $1,669,758, and the working expenses amounted to $1,086,146, leaving the net earnings at $2,793,312.

The gross earnings from July 1 to December 31, 1906, however, revealed a decrease of $98,185, but there was a substantial advance in the gross earnings at $2,793,312.

So far as the Grand Trunk is concerned, the gross receipts for the first half of the present year, the six months ending on June 30—amounted to $1,921,821, compared with $1,729,089 for the corresponding half of 1905, an increase of 11.5 per cent, or nearly 10 per cent. This increase, it may be remarked, was not due to an increase in the net profit of $1,475,455, for the net profit was only $1,086,146, or a decrease of $98,185, but there was a substantial advance in the gross earnings at $2,793,312.

Since the last of July up to the 1st of November, the date of the last Grand Trunk figures yet compiled, the increase in the gross earnings has been in the same proportions. For July the gross earnings were $1,617,000, as against $1,500,000 for the corresponding month of 1905, an increase of 7.8 per cent. For August, September and October were $1,800,000, $1,800,000, and $1,800,000, respectively, or an increase of 10 per cent over the corresponding months of 1905.

It is not by the earnings capacity alone that the railways are to be judged although it will be generally conceded that the financial result is the final test of success.

The fact that upwards of 4,000 miles of new line have been under construction this year—a greater amount than ever known when railway building was in its palmy days—also a further proof of the confidence in the Canadian Pacific announcing an expenditure of $7,000,000 on locomotives and various kinds of passenger coaches and freight cars, while the Grand Trunk is also spending well up in the millions on the same kind of equipment.

Taking it as a whole, the railway year has been the best for the companies and the best for the people that Canada has had. It has been the best in economic results and it leaves the systems in better physical condition than it found them.

LOVE'S MOODS.
(Wednesday's Daily)

I thought of my love in the distance, Silent and wild was the place; In a moment her voice lent its music, And around shone the light of her face.

Her face, and her's only!

I stood in my love's sweet presence, But a mood wrapped her soul from all view; We spoke, but on flowed the silence, And deeper the solitude grew— How deep and how lonely!

AN ECCLESIASTICAL HAT.

A milliner who works in a large city says that one day a woman came into the store very much excited, and wanted the trimmings on her new hat changed. She said it had been trimmed on the wrong side.

"But," said the saleswoman, "the trimming is on the left side. That is where it ought to be."

"It doesn't make any difference whether it ought to be in front or back, or left, it's got to be on the church side."

"Church side," gasped the astonished girl.

"Yes, church side. I sit right next the wall in church, and I'm not going to have all that trimming next the wall. I want it on the other side, so that the whole congregation can see it."

The trimming was promptly placed on the "church side" of the hat.

SOCIAL.

Mrs. Roy, who has, with her husband, Senator Roy, been spending the holidays at home, has been the guest of honor at a number of very enjoyable social affairs, including several small dinners and a tea given by Mrs. Turnbull on Saturday afternoon. This afternoon Mrs. Roy is the raison d'être of Mrs. Thibault's tea. Mrs. McMahon entertains at cards tomorrow also in her honor and on the same day this attractive member of Edmonton's social life leaves for the Federal Capital, where, with the reopening of both Houses of Parliament, a notably brilliant social season is anticipated by the Canadian visitors from every province.

SHORTLY.

The dinner tendered by the Edmonton Council on the occasion of a luncheon to the ladies accompanying the visiting knicker from Winnipeg, took place on Saturday night and proved a most agreeable function. The guests were received by Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Cormack, Mrs. Wilford and other ladies. The other ladies of the committee. The long dinner tables were most artistically decorated with ropes of amaranth, baskets of rare growing plants, ferns and vases of cut flowers. Covers were laid for fifty. Some very attractive dresses were worn. Mrs. Brock was most becomingly gowned in champagne silk with cream lace and green lace bertha rose point lace, and touches of clear mauve on the corsage. Mrs. De Gan, Winnipeg, wore a delectable white point d'esprit over white, and Mrs. Russell, Winnipeg, rich black lace over black silk. Mrs. McCormack, Champaigne chignon cloth in princess, with appliques of Irish lace and touches of pale blue velvet. Mrs. Wilford, blue silk with cream lace and touches of black velvet. Mrs. Gray, a very dainty gown of white point d'esprit over white, with white satin embroidery. Mrs. McKenney, cream silk embroidered; Miss Morin, Balmoral, white corduroy with pale blue sash; Madame Leonard, clear blue silk with white lace and chignon garniture; Madame Gariepy, black silk with black lace trimmings; Mrs. Silver, black silk with white chignon trimmings; Miss T. 1897, cream silk gown, prettily shaped and

PAVLOFF SHOT

St. Peterburg, Jan. 2.—[Special Telegram.] Vladimir Pavloff, military procurator and advocate, generally known since last parliament as "Hangman" Pavloff from the epithet constantly applied to him by radical deputies, was shot and killed today while walking in the garden of the chief military court building, near the Moika canal. The assassin, who was apparently disguised as a workman, was captured after a long chase through the crowded streets of the city during which he fired six shots from a revolver. The assassin was captured and accidentally wounded a boy. The assassin was a member of the same careful preparation which was characteristic of the murder of General Alex. Surovich. Winnipeg's Building

Free Press: The year has closed and the accomplishments for 1906 in the building line show that it has been a record one in the city of Winnipeg. The total value of structures erected in Winnipeg for the twelve months now ended is $13,750,450. The total number of permits issued was 3,908, which cover 4,176 net buildings.

Compared with last year's figures, an increase of $1,930,300 in shown in the total cost of buildings, which is the largest increase for one year ever recorded since the 1903 total was over $12,000,000 above the 1902 record and the 1904 record exceeded those of 1903 by nearly $4,000,000.

The building inspector's books show that in the past four years, 1903-06 inclusive there has been 338,941,750 spent in new buildings in Winnipeg. In that period 3,852 permits have been issued, and 12,138 structures have been erected. The inspector says, too, that the largest increase for one year ever recorded is the 1906 total of $13,750,450, which the inspector states must be fairly close to the actual amount paid out for buildings in Winnipeg for the past four years.

A comparison of the number of permits and buildings for 1906 and 1905 shows that the increase in permits and buildings this year is hardly proportionate to the increase in the total cost of buildings. For an increase of 142 permits and only 54 buildings there is an increase of nearly $2,000,000 in cost. This indicates that the buildings erected in 1906 have been for the most part more costly than those put up in 1905.

The most costly structure for which a permit was issued during the year now closed in the city is an exchange building in Lombard street. The permit for this case was $500,000.

Two buildings have been erected in the year closing very nearly $250,000 each. The Walker theatre comes next, the permit cost being $200,000. There were three buildings erected at a cost exceeding $150,000—two between $125,000 and $150,000; five between $100,000 and $125,000; three between $75,000 and $100,000; four between $50,000 and $75,000; nine between $25,000 and $50,000; nearly sixty between $10,000 and $25,000; and over a hundred between $10,000 and $10,000. The balance of the building totals is made up of the cost of structures requiring less than $10,000 for their erection.
