"I Had Bilious Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

"Am I a child in my own house?" he muttered, fiercely. "One of these letters has been lying here for a week, and it is from that young cub, Noel Campbell!"

"The doctor's orders, papa," Elsie said, briefly.

He tore open the envelope and read the following, the scar on his cheek growing a fiery-red:

Dear Uncle:—As you have not answered my last communication, I once more repeat that it is imperative that I see you, if only for a few minutes. What I have to communicate cannot be put into writing. For a while try to forget the wrongs you have endured at the hands of my dead father and unhappy mother, and some day I may be enabled to wipe out the obligation to you which at present presses hardly upon me. If I do not hear from you within eight or ten days, I shall venture to call upon you at Blairwood Park, and face your anger, more perhaps for the sake of my cousin Elsie, whom I have never seen, than for your own. Your nephew,

NOEL CAMPBELL.

"Infamous!" cried Sir John, casting the letter away from him. "He is not content with living upon my charity, but meditates forcing himself upon me under some flimsy pretext. His father was a handsome adventurer—a nobby-pobby jackknave, who painted pictures and sang songs to perfection. A curried darling, but not one of fortune, and this impudent son is doubtless his counterpart! I will have him thrown from the gates of Blairwood, by Heaven!"

Elsie was frightened by his vehemence. "Send Markham to me," Sir John continued, and I will instruct him in what manner Mr. Noel Campbell is to be received!"

A grim smile wreathed his stern lips. "Pick up the letter, Elsie, and you may read it if you wish, so that you may become familiar with the precious handwriting of your cousin. Kiss me good-night," he added, "and be prepared for a change for the better in the morning. Stay, I would like you to play for me. Give me a battle poem, a mad charge, and a triumphal march, to carry me back to the days of freedom and glory!"

Elsie delighted to humor her father in this way, and when she left him with the grand music ringing in his ears, he was dreaming of battlefields, and the shouts of the victors floated through the corridors of time.

His eyes flashed in the gloom, and Elsie shuddered, she knew not why. "Papa," she said, at length, "I am glad that you have told me this, and I hope—oh, how fervently—that in a short while the clouds will be dispersed by floods of sweetest sunshine. You cannot think how unhappy your strange illness has made me. It takes all the joyousness out of my life. I have no inclination for the pleasures that other girls appear to delight in."

"There, there!" he smiled, fondly caressing her shining hair. "It does not sound well for my darling child to talk in this doleful strain. You, the beauty of the season! The envy of the loveliest women in the land! Do you forget your honors? Do you forget, little puss, your train of admirers?"

"I repeat, papa, that I find pleasure in nothing while you are unhappy," said Elsie, softly.

"And you love me better than anybody else in the wide world?"

"Oh, yes!"

"For a short time there was silence; then Sir John asked, abruptly: "Are there any letters needing my attention, Elsie? I don't mean upon business matters. Jefferies attends to those things. I know that Dr. Denver may desire to keep back my correspondence, but he is only a well-meaning, meddling old woman. You understand me now far better than any one else."

"I will inquire, papa," Elsie replied. "But I am afraid that the doctor will scold me."

She left the room, but was back in a very short time, carrying two sealed missives.

A footman followed with lights, and could not resist a start of surprise when he saw the improved appearance of his master.

"Bring my table-lamp, Elsie," Sir John said, when the man was gone; then he examined the envelopes carefully, a stark frown on his face.

How an Island Grows.

It is quite possible for an island to sink below the surface of the water in a few hours when an earthquake occurs. But it is not generally known that some islands have risen above the surface so rapidly that they could be seen growing.

Islands near a mainland are mostly merely fragments broken off the coast, but oceanic islands have no direct relationship with continents. They appear generally in groups and are known as low groups and high groups. The low groups are the coral islands, the high groups the volcanic islands.

The best example of an island growing in a night is one near Santonia, in the Egean Sea. This island appeared at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

One day Santonia showed signs of earthquake shocks. The next morning the people got very excited about a wreck, looking black against the shining sea.

Seafaring men went out and came back with the news that the "wreck" was a huge rock, risen from the sea where it had previously been 525 feet deep. Oysters were still clinging to it.

Within twenty-two days the island stood twenty-five feet above the level of the sea, and was about 2,150 feet in area. The water round it was hot, and black rocks began to appear round the island.

The day after the rocks had appeared they had risen so high as to become part of the island. The island went on increasing in size, the growth being visible to the eye, till it was nearly five square miles in area.

The cause of this was, of course, submarine volcanoes. And it is in this way, though the process possibly was much slower, that all the volcanic islands of the world have appeared.

Icy Moments of Horror.

"I have had icy moments of horror in the African jungle, but I am going back," said Mrs. Diana Strickland, the famous explorer.

"My first great thrill," she added, "was the discovery of a mighty necropolis, apparently asleep, so that I was able to creep to within about sixty yards of it. As I drew nearer it must suddenly have scented me—these brutes have the most acute sense of smell, but are half blind— for he got up and began to circle round and round me, setting off a wind of me, he charged me full tilt.

"I fired, but the bullet just stuck off his side and he came blinding on and on, and all that I could do was lie flat on my face and keep still, my rifle useless against the armor-plate of his skin.

"Twenty yards, ten, and I could see nothing but the black mass bearing down at me, and then with the speed of a bird he swerved round and careered off in another direction. After an hour or more he loped away far enough to let me escape.

"But the jungle does not provide a thrill every hour of the day. There are dreary everyday tasks. It takes a little time for a woman unused to it to learn to wash a dress under a wagon, and to make the most of those baths in which you just have to sit with your legs over the edge and their flesh as best you may.

"But those are the little things by which Africa schools her children, although she is not always so gentle in her teaching, as when I came on leopard cubs one day without my gun, and while taking them away the mother appeared. I dropped them and ran. Never have I run so hard."

Mrs. Strickland is about to leave London for Africa where she will lead another woman and four men 3,000 miles across the Belgian Congo from Boma to Nairobi to take a few more secrets from Nature. The museums of the world and the science of zoology and entomology will benefit from her discoveries.

Why This Retailer Succeeded.

A merchant who has made a success of the retailing business recently summed up the ten main reasons as follows:

1. He kept up with the times.
2. He didn't try to do everything himself.
3. He took time for exercise and relaxation.
4. He maintained efficiency by developing able help.
5. He did not permit system to run into red tape.
6. He did not practise cheese-paring economy.
7. He did the little things worth while.
8. He developed his capacity for large things by avoiding the pit-falls of details.
9. He took frequent inventory of himself and his stock, and last but not least—
10. He was a regular and consistent advertiser.

Fighting Insect Pests.

Nairobi Journal: The work of an entomologist in this country is very important and needs constant activity, as there are no seasonal checks to the depredations of injurious insects such as one meets with in other countries in the way of frost and drought. Although the most disastrous effect of the work of injurious insects is most undoubtedly seen in the field, none the less all stored products suffer proportionately and it has been computed that as much as 30 per cent. of all crops harvested in all countries is the amount of loss permanently incurred by producers through the depredations of insect pests.

There's an economy in using H.P. compared with other sauces and ketchups. H.P. goes further and lasts longer. The flavour of H.P. is delicious and unique. Of all Stores.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

AN EARTHQUAKE
Upon a restless world we build
And boast our strong foundations sure.
Our palaces, with treasures filled,
Through earthquakes shall endure.

No fire nor stream can bring them low,
These are the works of man.
Built to conquer every foe—
And so they dreamed in old Japan.

Yet when impatient grows the world
And seeks to shift its weight of care,
The prudent man-made thing is hurled
Into the darkness of despair.

In but the twinkling of an eye
Laughter is changed to dreadful cries;
Down come the temples from the sky,
Vain is the wisdom of the wise.

Glory and pomp are swept aside,
Riches are stripped of shining worth.
High place is naked of its pride
And desolation sweeps the earth.

If but the shoulders of the land
Shall make a little turn or twist,
Nothing that man has built can stand,
Nothing he boasts of can exist.

Islands are swallowed by the sea,
Cities in awful ruin lie.
Hurt strikes where safety used to be,
People in countless numbers die.

Of all the terrors man must face
Against his dream of high success,
The future glory of his race,
An earthquake is most merciless.

The Schneider Cup.

GREAT SEAPLANE RACE TO TAKE PLACE AT COWES.

On Sept. 28 the great international seaplane race for the Schneider Cup will be held at Cowes under the auspices of the Royal Aero Club. It is officially announced that Great Britain (holders), America, Italy, and France will compete. The Americans, who are very keen on the event, have already reached Cowes with four machines, which they are busily engaged in erecting in readiness for preliminary trials. Great things are expected of the American machines, and the optimism of the "Yanks" is unmistakable. It is claimed for their machines that they are wonderfully fast. They will need to be if Great Britain is to be deprived of the cup, which she carried off at Naples last year with the Napier Supermarine "Sea Lion," which created a speed record. The "Sea Lion" which will defend the trophy, has been altered, and it is believed, with her new powerful engine and a reduced wing span, the speed will be increased from 145 to at least 160 miles per hour. Each country is allowed three machines, and the Americans have sent over a spare one. They will be out tuning-up in about a week. Eliminating trials will be held. The starting and finishing point is from off Cowes pier, and the course a distance of 37.2 nautical miles—to Southsea, Selsey (Sussex coast), and back, five times round; a distance of about 188 nautical miles. It is expected that Italy will send two machines, and France three.

How SUNSET brings you the skill of the master dyer

NOW, without previous training or experience, you can completely transform your wardrobe, and the interior decorations of your home, by a cleaner, quicker, better method than has ever been known before. SUNSET is modern, different from all other dyes.

SUNSET is a fast dye—does a clean, strong permanent, even color on all fabrics—wool, cotton, linen or mixed goods—having a natural lustre and only gradually fading. It is fast and does not fade. Dyes which are never washed. No dyeing on iron.

There are 22 standard SUNSET colors (see list below). These can be readily combined to produce a limited number of unusual hues and shades which cannot be obtained in ready-dyed fabrics—all fast.

The Modern Method of Dyeing with SUNSET enables you to obtain uniformly perfect results, because the "know-how" of the professional dyer is built into the cake of SUNSET by one of the best-known dye chemists in America, by a patented process which is exclusive with SUNSET.

Lives Lost and Shipping Destroyed on the English and French Coasts -- Coolidge is Opposed to Cancellation of Allies' Debts -- China Has New President.

FRENCH COAST STORM SWEPT.

PARIS, Oct. 5. North to northwesterly gales, at times developing into a hurricane, have been raging during the past 36 hours, causing the loss of many lives and stranding the French shores on the English Channel and Atlantic seaboard with wreckage. The steamer Pacific from Hamburg, for Panama, is ashore two miles south of Cherbourg. The crew were saved. Two fishing smacks foundered and four men were drowned. Premier Briand, of Australia, is held up at Boulogne on the way to London. The British steamer Enrico, coal laden, is around off Stapsles and the fate of the crew of twenty-two is not yet known. A British freighter is a total loss two miles north of Dunkirk and four of the crew are missing. The Belgian steamer City of Ghent was rammed by a dredge in the port of Dunkirk, and seriously damaged.

A ROUGH EXPERIENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 5. The wild northerly gale of Wednesday and Thursday spread damage in Southern England and on the West Coast of France, causing among other things prolonged delay in telegraphic communication and complete suspension of Channel traffic. The steamer Engardine, with 63 passengers, had a terrifying experience. Leaving Dover for Boulogne Wednesday night, after a stormy passage she found she was unable to make harbor and proceeded to Calais, but could not make harbor there either and was obliged to return to England in the teeth of the gale. On arriving in England it was found impossible to enter Dover and the vessel was forced to anchor off Sandgate for the remainder of the night.

LOYD GEORGE AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. David Lloyd George, one-time Premier of Great Britain, to-day set foot on United States soil for the first time, coming here as a private citizen to tour Canada and the States. The little Welshman and his family were taken from the liner at quarantine and landed by a police boat. The former Premier made it known that while here he intended calling on former President Wilson, with whose aid the Treaty of Versailles was drafted. Crowds of several thousand massed at the Battery to greet Lloyd George on his arrival from the ship, and nine platoons of mounted police escorted him to the City Hall. With the police were delegations of British and Canadian war veterans. On his arrival at City Hall Park, Lloyd George was received by a volley of cheers.

LOYD GEORGE'S FIRST SPEECH IN U.S.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5. David Lloyd George, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, in an address to-day at a luncheon given in his honor by the Press Association shortly after his arrival on American shores, said "I claim that the real founder of the British Empire to-day was George Washington. He taught us to become democratic. The lesson taught us in the eighteenth century has been the salvation of the British Empire." He said Washington taught the British Government to be more lenient and cited as proof the case of Canada. Mr. Lloyd George described in detail the situation in Europe when the United States entered the war, declaring the Allies were fighting the greatest military machine of all time. He continued, "Europe is now in a desperate condition. Fifteen million men have been killed, twenty million maimed and injured, and billions of dollars scattered; but what would have been the case if the Allies had lost? At least now there is hope. A continent does not recover in a few days but Europe will recover. The only difference now and during the war is that we worked in unity then, and we are not working in that fashion now. You are going your way and we are going our way; Italy is going her way and France hers. It is not that you broke away from each other, there is now no common purpose and no common action between the powers of the world. If we had unity now as we did during war the terrible problems of the world would be solved in one-half or one quarter the time."

BATTILING SIKI IN TROUBLE.
MONTREAL, Oct. 5. Battling Siki, former world's light heavyweight champion, who is in Canada from France to give exhibitions and possibly engage in a title match, was taken off the New York Central train last night at St. Lambert by an officer of the Canadian National Railway after the conductor had complained that ructions were impending. Siki was later released as there was no charge preferred against him. He found himself stranded in St. Lambert minus manager and equipment. Siki had threatened to engage the whole train in a fistic combat.

Does Your Roof Leak?

If your roof leaks and you know where the water comes in, you can probably make it watertight with Plastic LASTY-GUM. A 5 lb. pail of Plastic LASTY-GUM costs only $1.50. Your carpenter will tell you that Plastic LASTY-GUM won't crack like cement and won't run like tar. Plastic LASTY-GUM is put on with a trowel and is guaranteed to stop leaks.
If your roof needs coating, we recommend LIQUID ELASTIGUM, which is put on with a brush. Liquid Elastigum will put a new surface on your roof and keep it in good condition. A gallon can costs $1.50, a five gallon can costs $6.00. This is the best coating for rubber roofing.
If your roof needs a new covering, we can sell you Campbell's Patent Roofing complete with fittings for $2.39 per full size roll. A roll weighs about 55 lbs., contains 108 square feet of roofing and will cover 100 square feet of roof surface. Regular price is $4.50.
In June this year we purchased 3000 rolls of Campbell's Patent Roofing from the manufacturers, who were selling their stock at auction. When our present supply is sold, new shipments will sell at $4.50 per roll. Now is the time to get a new roof covering at a bargain price.
Roofs covered with Campbell's Patent Roofing pay less for Fire Insurance than roofs covered with ordinary tarred felt. At our present low price of $2.39 per roll with fittings FREE, Campbell's Patent Roofing is cheaper than felt. Don't delay ordering, we are selling hundreds of rolls each month.

Tendered Farewell Dinner.

POPULAR ATHLETE LEAVES FOR MONTREAL.
A farewell dinner was tendered Sergeant-Major Harold Rendell by the Regiment and N.C.O.'s Mess of the C. L. B. Cadets, at the West End Restaurant last night, on the occasion of his departure from Newfoundland. Mr. A. G. Williams, ex-Staff Sergeant, presided over the function, and in a very happy speech paid a glowing tribute to the work of Sergeant-Major Rendell, while connected with the Brigade. Mr. Williams, on behalf of his fellow brigade members, presented Sergeant-Major Rendell with a souvenir as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by all. Regret was expressed on all sides in losing such a good friend and comrade and before the gathering dispersed, he was tendered the hearty good wishes of all for his success in the land of the Maple Leaf. Sergeant-Major Rendell leaves to-day by the Manoa for Montreal. He has been one of our foremost athletes. He figured with the British hockey team during the past three seasons; while he was also an ardent footballer, having played with his old brigade, the

SUFFERED FROM SEVERE PIMPLES

On Face, Caused Intense Itching, Cuticura Heals.

"I suffered great annoyance from severe pimples on my face, which I attributed to the use of poor soap. The pimples were hard, red and rather large, and festored. They were scattered all over my face and caused intense itching and burning. My face looked unshightly. This condition lasted about two months.
"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. I could see an improvement, and in two months I was healed." (Signed) Miss H. P. McArthur, Misconche, Prince Edward Island.

SPORTOGRAPHS

HAIL TO THE VICTORS!

By beating the Cadets last night to 1, the Holy Cross team win the Junior League 1923 Championship, and the Higgins-Hunt trophy. This is a victory to be proud of and Capt. Murphy and his gallant team fully merit the congratulations being heaped upon them. It was not luck that helped them through, but good work and strenuous practices under the clever guidance of a coach who prefers to remain in the background. It is said at once that the Junior League has fully justified its existence. Despite the scoffers and very serious handicaps, it has come through successfully; and the confidence reposed in its executive is best exemplified by the fact that none of these scoffers in which the seniors fought themselves involved this summer. It is at any time evident. The main reason, however, why the Junior League should receive every possible encouragement is that it is virtually the only recruiting ground from which the seniors can fill their ranks. At present there are too many old-timers, since past their labor, who still cling with the tenacity of crabs to the senior teams and are more of a hindrance than an acquisition. The seniors forth, therefore, of these youngsters and the gradual infusion of new blood can have but one effect and that is that in the course of the next two or three years football must stabilize as it never did before.

A fellow will scot like a frightened rabbit!

A clever boxer from me turns. Just like he would from Bobby Burns. My biceps are like bands of steel. Sack Bearnie or Halley how they feel. My legs like marble pillars are. Stronger than other chaps, by far. Broad, deep, and strong my manly chest.

I am a burly sort of chap. Who's always spilling for a scrap. Said I to Gillis, in the ring: "You have to suffer now, old thing!"

At lifting weights, and things like that. I'm jolly good. I tell you flat. To walk five miles and he faded away.

Say what you like, say what you can. There's none so strong as Foley. Dan, Claude Hall worships me, no doubt. The way I throw my weight about!

Strong, silent men, they rule the earth. They are of peerless, priceless worth. And the classiest boxer known to me. Is a youth named Danny Foley.

1924 AMATEUR MEET IN THE EAST

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The 1924 national amateur golf championship tournament will be played at the Merion Cricket Club, Havertford, near here, according to Robert W. Lesley, president of the Golf Association of Philadelphia. Mr. Lesley said to-day that a telegram from Alan E. Wilson, Philadelphia, member of the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association, had been received, stating that the Merion course had been selected.

JOE LYNCH TO MEET JOE BURMAN.

NEW YORK.—Joe Lynch of New York will defend his bantamweight title against Joe Burman of Chicago in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden on the night of Oct. 12th, unless there is a hitch in the State Athletic Commission's present plan to lift the champion's suspension next Tuesday.

BRUSSLS.—De Myster, the winner of the James Gordon Bennett balloon race in 1922, landed the cup again this year. He landed in Sweden, a distance of 1,175 kilometers from Brussels, Switzerland, Spain, France, the United States and Spain, take the next five places in the order named. The United States Navy balloon A-689, under Lieut. Lawrence, landed at Putten, Holland. The race caused the death of five aeronauts, including two Americans; the injury of five others, and the destruction of a half dozen balloons.

RIGHTLY CLAIMS THE RECORD.

Editor Sportograph. I noticed by the papers containing the results of the A.A.A. Championships that this year the Broad Jump distance was 15 feet 70-100 ins. made by L. Spurrell, and that it was recognized as a record owing to the fact that proof of previous records could not be established—that is to say the record of 1921, claimed to have been made some years ago before the A.A.A. came into existence. In fact this event, I understand, was put on the program as "open" although all the other events gave the names and winners, times and distances of the 1922 championships. As I was the winner of the Broad Jump in the 1922 A.A.A. Meet, and my distance was 19 feet 9 ins. I would like to know why the A.A.A. this year considered it an open championship, surely my distance—duly measured by the A.A.A. officials and verified by Mr. Noel—should stand as the Newfoundland record, beating as it does by a fraction, the distance made by Mr. Spurrell this year. I shall be glad if I could use your good offices to have the matter rectified.

T. V. FAYN.

Dear Lake. Note—Mr. Fayn is perfectly right in his contention, and the A.A.A. no rule that he is the title holder, having established the distance at the 1922 Championships Meet.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

MARQUIS CURZON REVIEWS BRITAIN'S FOREIGN POLICY.

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The whole field of Great Britain's foreign policy was reviewed for the benefit of the Imperial Conference to-day in a three hour speech by Marquis Curzon. With regard to the Lausanne Treaty, Lord Curzon admitted that when he went to the Conference he only hoped to secure the freedom of the Turkish Straits for commercial vessels, whereas the Treaty guaranteed the freedom of passage for foreign warships subject to reasonable limitation in numbers, while the Black Sea was no longer a Russian preserve. He was not satisfied with the position of foreigners and trade in Turkey under the Treaty, but he thought the Turks themselves would be the greatest sufferers and they would learn through experience that the new Turkish State was dependent on foreign resources and assistance. He justified the policy followed by the Allies at Lausanne, of conceding certain points to the Turks rather than breaking up the Conference, and reverting to the war. The task confronting Turkey was a heavy one and she was likely to experience great disillusion and disappointment, but "in making what will be a great experiment she starts with a complete absence of resentment on our part and with the sincere expression of good will." Reverting to the negotiations following the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, Lord Curzon repudiated any suggestion of the slightest desire on the part of the British Government to let the Germans down easily. He thought Germany's abandonment of passive resistance should have come three months ago, but he suspected it was true that no German Government could survive such a surrender. The speaker said he would not grudge France and Belgium the victory if it was a victory, but he doubted whether they were any nearer the fount of reparation. What was certain, "we see the beginning of that international disreputation of Germany which we all along feared, but which we have consistently been told to regard as a bogey."

STRESEMANN'S COALITION IS RESURRECTED.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.

The resuscitation of Chancellor Stresemann's defunct "Four Party" coalition to-night put an end to a Parliamentary crisis whose mysterious origin is only exceeded in novelty by its baffling solution in that four warring parties virtually agreed that there had been no ground for disagreement three days ago, and that the forming of the coalition was the only way out of the dilemma. Conservation of party prestige, emulating of office, and concern over political patronage was declared to have played an unusual part in the inter-party truce which was preceded by a day of bartering and jockeying for position. The coalition leaders apparently preferred to risk the immediate political future by giving four party bloc another tryout, to taking a chance of being eliminated from the nation's affairs through the advent of a dictatorship with which they were threatened. Predictions around the Reichstag accord the resurrected coalition a "short" parliamentary existence. It declared the present solution will have an inevitable sequel in the nature of a dictatorial regime without which it is no commonly believed effective salvation of Germany's chaotic economics is inconceivable.

LYLOY GEORGE'S TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION THROUGH NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.

Hon. David Lloyd George, former Premier of Great Britain, veteran of seventeen years' activity in the labyrinth of Old World politics, came to the United States yesterday and found in a wholehearted enthusiastic welcome tendered him by New York a series of humanely potent thrills. So delighted was the little Welshman who had guided the British Ship of State through the tumultuous years of 1916 to 1922 that his demeanour was more often that of an interested schoolboy than of a blase statesman. His passage from the Mauritania on the little motor boat Mason to the Battery and thence by motor, accompanied by a cavalcade of cars to the City Hall and through the streets of the metropolis, was almost a triumphal procession, marked only by two minor street disturbances precipitated by Irish Republicans fanatics. To Canada and the United States Mr. Lloyd George declared he brought, as Britain's war-time Premier, a message of heartfelt thanks for their services in the Great War. He came, he said, with no political status, with no official credentials, but as a private citizen of the Crown to express to Canada his personal thanks for "the volunteer aid she unstintingly offered the British Empire in her time of need. To the United States he brought thanks for the army that had come when the horizon of the Allied Powers was blackened with despair. His visit, however, was one of self-instruction. He wanted to say little and to study and learn much. He will return this morning for Montreal.

WEEK-END NOTES.

(I. G. MORRIS.)

We have now come to the parting of the ways in our Week-End Notes, and for a while we must take leave of our kind readers. The object in writing these notes was to interest the younger generation upon the condition of trade along our waterfront during the last half of the nineteenth century. Perhaps not much good has been accomplished, but there is at least the consciousness of having tried to do something worth while, and of elevating, in some degree, the tone of our public thought, and of our daily press. The press is one of the most influential agencies of the day, and it is deserving the support of all true citizens. At best we are but a scattered people, therefore it is not the easiest matter to meet the demands of the public in gleaming news; hence our efforts are to be congratulated upon the excellent work they are doing as disseminators of knowledge, and promoters of education. To those who remember the conditions in St. John's fifty years ago, before we had the up-to-date papers that we have now, it is manifest that our daily press has been a great moral power, and that the cause of Education has been splendidly augmented by it. We look for our daily papers, but we seldom stop to think of the amount of care involved in getting them out. This especially applies to our morning paper; and only those who have dealings with the press, and who occasionally drop in at midnight at the editorial sanctum of the Daily News really know the price that is being paid to have the paper on the market, or at the breakfast table. Our press deserves our best support; and one object of these Week-End Notes has been to assist it. The questions treated in these notes have been mostly of local interest, so that our readers have been able to fully grasp them, and to judge of their worth or otherwise. Perhaps the notes have failed; but we can only say we have tried to do our best. From far and near readers have sent words of congratulation and encouragement, and we now desire to thank them for same. Some of those who read these notes have been absent from Newfoundland for nearly half a century, and others a quarter of a century, and some have never resided here at all; but all have expressed approval of the notes. To these we now say "Thank you." At a later date we hope to resume our explanations and deal with such topics as are worth while. There are many things to write about; therefore, while we are counted worthy of public confidence, and the columns of the press, we hope to be of little service, and to do our part in bringing Newfoundland to the place she is destined to fill in the business and trade of British North America. There are various avenues through which this may be brought about; but we repeat that the Press is one of the principal factors in the advancement of the people; therefore we hope to still serve it as best we can. During the publication of these notes the country has passed through the excitement of a general election—and the usual occurrence of a spring election; but nothing whatever of a political or partisan nature has been expressed by the writer. It would seem that too much time is devoted to party interests. There surely ought to be greater ideals in life than the mere prosecution of parties whose chief work unfortunately consists of saying hard things about each other. Why not rise to higher and nobler things than these? The good in life is daily at hand. Why not choose the good? Why not make the best of life? However, we close our notes for the present, and in so doing, we again say to all who by word, or letter, have encouraged the writer, "Thank you."

likes cream of rye," volunteers another member.
"I can't get Willie to touch cream of rye, but I wish you could see him eat a big dish of shredded rice," chirps sheep number three.
And so it goes, each one giving out a bit of information that has no possible interest for anyone but herself, mere futile chatter,—capping as Molly calls it.
It's a stupid and very common bit of conversational banality and it is born of a one-track mind and a desire to share the lime light.
Watch out for it.
Don't be a capper.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE CAPPER

Molly is planning a party. It is bound to be a successful party because she is inviting only the people who will be sure to be congenial.
"I'm not going to ask Mrs. Briggs to my party. She's a capper," said Molly.
"A what?" I asked.
"A capper. It's a perfectly good word although I guess maybe I'm the only one who uses it that way. If you'll look it up you'll see that it means one who caps, matches, or offends; and that's what Mrs. Briggs does. She's the particular kind of bore who is always brilliantly reminded by every tale she hears, of an incident that like it in her own experience, which she promptly relates, and which has nothing distinctive about it to justify the repetition. She just won't let anyone have nothing on her."
You all know the type that Molly rather aptly characterizes as cappers.
"He sings it wonderfully," they ask you to sing and when you finish they say, "Well, you could hear my brother Tommy sing that song. He sings it wonderfully."
And they cap your funny story with, "The way I heard it, the man was riding in a train instead of an automobile."

The most ordinary coincidence amazes them. "You were born in December? Why so was I." "Did you say her name was Gertrude? Why I have a cousin named Gertrude!"
Only a Little Worse.
If you have the floor and are telling about your uncle's operation, the time the doctors all said it was about the worst case they ever saw, the capper will come right back with a cousin who was operated on for the very same thing—only a little worse.
When Mrs. D— is telling about her niece's honeymoon trip, the capper can hardly wait to tell you that the girl who lives upstairs was married last week and she went to Niagara Falls, too!
The only law of association which appears to function in the capper's mind is the one whereby we associate ideas and things that are alike. It is so elementary a law that it denotes a rather infantile intellect in the one who finds in it a source for endless comment.
And yet who hasn't heard this sort of conversational round-robin:
What They Eat.
"I have such a time getting Mary to eat cereal," declares a mother at the weekly sewing circle. "She will eat a little oatmeal but nothing else."
"My Johnny hates oatmeal but he

Bold Burglar

HOUSE ENTERED IN BROAD DAY-LIGHT.
On Thursday afternoon last some thief forced an entrance into the Misses Molly, Patrick Street, and got away with $35 in cash. The daring burglar had his plans well arranged. At the time the robbery was committed, both ladies were out and he left little or nothing by which the police might trace him. The ladies upon their return home noticed at once that the place had been burglarized and the police were immediately notified.

Kathryn Gallivan Gladly Welcomed

St. John Girl Returns from Professional Tour and Gives Her Friends Another Surprise—Heard at Taperial Last Night.

(St. John Times)
The reappearance of Miss Kathryn Gallivan upon a home stage after a professional season in American cities was an especially pleasing musical event at the Imperial last evening, in connection with one of the twice-a-week concerts which that house has been giving for nearly two-months past. The girlish soprano received a rapturous reception from an audience that completely filled the eighteen hundred seats. It seemed common comment that Miss Gallivan's sojourn on the professional stage has developed her talent greatly and imparted a sense of ease and particular grace to her always pleasing manner that stamped her in quite a new class of performer, operatic, some might say, at least an ability to interpret not only with the voice.

She sang that soulful favourite of Moya's "Song of Songs," with an unusual brilliance taking the final refrain with true operatic finish, and received an ovation. For an encore a flirtatious little fox-trotting number, "Peppercorn," showed that Miss Gallivan does not disdain the popular bits of the day and likes to cater to all tastes. In Gypsy costume she sang Fritini's "Gianina Mia," a slight excerpt from "The Firefly," so well known as a riling musical comedy success. Then Ethelbert Nevin's classic "Mighty Lak a Rose" was rendered very tenderly, the orchestra, which accompanied all her numbers, muting their instruments to a mere undertone. Time pressed for a second showing of pictures, so Miss Gallivan simply bowed herself out of extras. She received floral compliments during her songs.
Since Miss Gallivan has been singing in opera with the company heard in St. John last summer and thereafter in mixed quartette work in various parts of the United States to which the quartette was sent by booking concerns. In a solo capacity she has filled numerous engagements in splendid theatres and concert houses.
(Miss Gallivan is opening a season at the Majestic Theatre, beginning Monday night.)

Some Notable Disasters On Newfoundland Coast.

(H. F. SHORTIS)

The year 1881 is a memorable one in the history of our mercantile marine. It is impossible to give the names of the many vessels that were wrecked on the Atlantic during the Fall and Winter of that year. I think it is in that year that the brigantine "Charles," Capt. William Hutchings, was lost with all hands. It is surmised that she left Harbor Grace, Nfld., with a load of codfish, bound to market. Anyhow, the captain of a brigantine which arrived the next morning after the great gale, told me that he was firm in the belief that the ship was not clear of the Bay. He saw a vessel, and about twenty minutes afterwards there was no sign of her. It was a terrific storm, which suddenly chopped off to the North East, and the captain told me never in his experience had he such a narrow escape. I was telegraph operator at Harbor Grace at the time, and the "Charles" (Hutchings) and the mate William Smart, and the mate were both rescued. I was amongst our most competent experienced master mariners. At present, I can only think of one of the crew—Michael Aylward.

On the 31st December of the same year (1881) the Cura, topsail schooner, owned by W. B. Grievae, St. John's, sailed for Portugal, with a cargo of fish staples, and has never been heard of. Capt. Richard Lynch was in charge; John Delahanty, aged 37, St. John's, mate; William Mountain, aged 34, St. John's, boatswain; James Walters, aged 22, West Indies, cook and steward; Michael Tobin, aged 23, St. John's; Patrick Rochford, 23, St. John's; Richard Tobin, 41, St. John's; John Strathie, 25, A.B., St. John's. The Cura was a Scotch built vessel, and was as strong as oak could make her.

The topsail schooner, Bianca, with high fore-yard, the same as the Cura, sailed for Portugal on the same day, at the same year, and was never heard of after. Capt. Pringle was in charge. Robert Roberts, 37, St. John's, mate; Benjamin Cox, 34, St. John's, boatswain; Harry Holson, 23, Westland, cook and steward; Michael Doyle, A.B., 32, St. John's; James Burke, A.B., 27, St. John's; James Chast, A.B., 27, St. John's; James Cooper, A.B., 22, St. John's.

On the 1st February, 1881, the Hope, Capt. W. T. Southey, sailed for the West Indies, and the following comprised the crew: Edward Adams, mate, P.E.I.; Joseph Fitzpatrick, cook and steward; John Hunt, A.B., 26, St. John's; Patrick Ryan, A.B., 28, St. John's; and no report has ever been received of her or the crew.

On the 3rd of January, 1881, the Brisk, owned by Walter Grievae & Co., St. John's, sailed for the Mediterranean, with a cargo of codfish, and has never been heard of. The master was Capt. Israel Roberts; H. J. Hanford, Bristol, England, 25, mate; Arthur Harris, 30, St. John's, boatswain; Richard Murrent, 30, St. John's, cook and steward; Thomas Morrissey, A.B., 20, St. John's; James Fawcett, A.B., 29, Greenock, Scotland; William Martin, A.B., 27, St. John's; Jas. H. Clark, A.B., 28, St. John's. The boatswain, Arthur Harris, belonged to Harbor Grace, and for many years his father, and brothers Tom and George were employed by the great stores of Messrs. Ridley & Sons. Arthur and his four brothers received their education at the Grammar School, and were all in the same class. They were highly educated, and Tom and George spoke the Spanish language fluently, and were masters of Latin and Greek. On Tuesday, March 30th, 1886, the following message was received:—

To Mr. John Frew, Greenpond.

The Resolute (S.S.) drove on Ireland's Rock, Fogo Id., on the 27th inst. and sank immediately. Nothing saved. Twenty thousand seals perished; 130 men are here, the rest are on board the S.S. Mastiff—three Dundee men missing.

(Sgd.) T. JACKMAN.

The steamship "Resolute" was under the command of the famous Capt. Arthur Jackman, one of the noblest of Newfoundland's sons.

On Wednesday morning, September 2nd, 1886, the Allan steamer "Hanoverian" from Halifax to St. John's, Newfoundland, struck at Catherine's Reef, about 7 miles from Trepassay.

The man-of-war ship Trepassey, Capt. Drummond, went down for the passengers. Condon and diver Patrick Gildon went to work and saved 300 boxes of canned meat, also pork, beef, and part cargo of grain. There were 350 passengers on board, and Capt. Drummond took them from Trepassay to St. John's. Capt. Thompson was in charge of the Hanoverian. One of the passengers was our well-known citizen, the late Mr. Wm. Rowe, cooper, who was returning after a visit to Boston, U.S.A. The ship was valued at ninety-five thousand pounds sterling. IT SPANS THE WORLD as well as our old countrymen abroad, but remember the terrible disaster of the steamship Anglo-Saxon, which is one of the worst in the history of our country. She was at a place called Clam Cove, near Cape Race, on April 27th, 1883. On that memorable occasion 307 souls were lost, and 137 rescued, and I may here state that there is in St. John's to-day a well-known lady, who was one of the rescued. She was then a little girl, and is most probably the only survivor in Newfoundland to-day, in fact, there are very few of the 137 survivors alive in any part of the world. But while repeated reference has been made to one of the greatest marine disasters in history, very few are acquainted with certain details, and we have in our midst to-day a gentleman who was one of the last to see the Anglo-Saxon afloat and under steam.

In that year and date, the brigantine "Charles," Capt. Henry Snow, of Quidi Vidi, owned by the enterprising firm of Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., St. John's, was returning from the seal-fishery, having been driven by continuous gales to the Banks, and when between Cape Race and Cape Bailard the steamship Anglo-Saxon of the Allan Line, passed within hailing distance of her. There was a thick fog at the time, with a strong breeze from South to South East. The Anglo-Saxon was steering North West by West. That would be between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning. The Anglo-Saxon was barque-rigged, and was somewhat similar to the S.S. Caspian to the same line, a ship well-known in St. John's, especially amongst our buyers, who made many passages on her. I venture to say our old friend Mr. William Frew made several passages on the old Caspian. When the "Charles" was off Petty Harbor she spoke the brigantine "Dash," Capt. Boag, of St. John's, owned by Messrs. Clift, Wood & Co., who informed Capt. Snow that the Anglo-Saxon was ashore near Cape Race. Also that many of the passengers were lost. The "Charles" arrived in St. John's the same day she spoke Capt. Boag, and then received full particulars of the disaster. As I said before, Capt. Snow and the crew of the Charles were the last to see the ill-fated Anglo-Saxon afloat and under steam. The fog was very dense at the time, and the men on board the Charles heard the fog-signals of the Anglo-Saxon, sounded their fog-horns and shouted with all their might to let them know on board the steamer that they were near. They were quite near each other at the time, then they parted, each steering a particular course. Even with all the knowledge possessed by the Newfoundland captain of the Charles, the vessel had a narrow escape from going ashore at Great Island, near Cape Boyle, the same night. Such is the authentic account of the last time the Anglo-Saxon was seen previous to the terrible disaster, and this is the first time that it has appeared in print.

For many years we had a clock that was saved from the Anglo-Saxon in the Anglo-American Telegraph Office in Harbor Grace, but it was condemned after I left the office, and I suppose has long ago been consigned to the scrap heap. And a fine massive clock it was, and kept time like a chronometer. The case was of very heavy metal.

Still Greater Oil Showing at the Palmer Well

After last Wednesday's Western Star had gone to press we were advised by telegraph that a second encouraging oil show was secured at the Palmer well, General Oilfields operations, Parson's Pond, on Monday of last week, at a depth of eleven hundred and sixty feet. The oil is lighter and a finer quality than the first show of a week ago. The gas pressure continues to be heavy and indications altogether exceed in importance anything hitherto encountered at Parson's Pond. Mr. Henry expects a well of commercial value before a depth of fifteen hundred feet has been reached. Results at this well are creating much interest in this part of the coast—Western Star.

Fourfold Protection for a Family Man

THE Mutual Life of Canada has acquired an experience of over half a century of life insurance. It has studied the results of thousands and thousands of policies. Our experience convinces us that for the average family man the most useful and economical form of insurance is the profit-participating, long-term, endowment policy. That policy matures at a specified advanced age, but is of course payable at prior death if that age is not attained.

NO annual dividends are paid to holders of these policies and results with these policies are those who have not realized what Mutual profit-participating accomplishes towards lessening the cost of life insurance. On scores of these long-term endowment policies, taken out in youth, policyholders at maturity have actually received in cash 100% more than they have deposited with the Company as premiums!

This form of insurance provides against both premature death and helpless old age.

Accident and Disability Clauses

For a small additional premium, the Company will add the provision that should the assured at any time be overtaken by total permanent disability no further premiums shall be payable, and furthermore, the Company will pay the assured a monthly income during the continuance of total disability. And if desired a still further privilege may be secured—namely, a double indemnity in the event of death by accident—that is, the Company will pay double the face value of the policy.

Many Long-Term Endowment terms furnishes fourfold insurance protection—first against death, second against old age, third against disability, and fourth against accident. At the same time profits so reduce the cost of insurance as to make this policy an investment yielding not only all that it costs, but all the way from 25 to 100% more according to age and length of the endowment term.

Fill in and mail the coupon below and we will send you particulars about this policy.

POOR SEND-OFF FOR PREMIER KING.

Probably, no Premier in the history of the Dominion of Canada, ever left to attend an Imperial Conference under such gloomy conditions as did Premier MacKenzie King, according to the Montreal Daily Star. The parting shot, or the send-off, was another "Whisper of Death," under the heading of "Mr. King in London," the Star says in part:

Mr. MacKenzie King is sailing this week to represent Canada at the Imperial Conference.

It is only the simple truth to say that he is not going under circumstances that any Prime Minister, no matter what his opinions, would regard as ideal. An spirited Premier—whether Imperialist or anti-Imperialist—would be bound to desire greatly that he could speak for a strong Government, for a large and united majority in Parliament, and for a country financially able to do what it pleased in the matter of defence.

Mr. King enjoys none of these advantages. He speaks for a Government which has shown few signs of courage or vitality. His majority in Parliament is narrow and precarious. Moreover, he is compelled to keep an apprehensive eye on the Progressive group which probably would be better pleased if he left the Canadian seat at the Conference quite empty.

Most discouraging of all, he speaks for an empty Treasury, a country falling deeper into debt every year, a nation with an unbalanced budget. He goes to a Mother Country which has balanced her budget, which has made amazing strides toward recapturing her old position of financial power, and which is facing bravely burdens of an enlarged Empire. He will find there other Overseas Dominions which have already pledged considerable contributions to our common Imperial defence because, perhaps, the danger seems near to their own shores. Inevitably in such a diapason of high courage and deep devotion, the tremulo which Mr. King can manage must sound shrill and impotent.

Mr. King could very easily make it known by some gesture of friendly co-operation that Canada appreciated this solicitude for the safety of the Overseas Dominions and joined with Australia and New Zealand in preparing to meet any peril that might arise in the Pacific. The last thing the British people would expect is that we should give out of our empty pockets. But we could spend a little Canadian money in Canada and send some tall Canadian timber to Singapore, and possibly some strong Canadian steel. Or we could establish an oil-base in British Columbia—Canadian money spent in Canada—which would strengthen the power of the fleet to defend Canadian ports, should the need arise.

We can do many things out of our poverty—poverty of purse but not poverty of heart.

Mr. H. J. Logan, Liberal member for Cumberland, is no admirer of the "Whisper of Death," and vigorously denounced them at a recent meeting of the Commercial Club at Halifax.

"Away with the detractors of our country," he said. "They are the enemy within our gates, more dangerous than the foe without. We are listening to too much of pessimism. When we read the articles in the Montreal Star, one would think the country was prepared to give up the ghost. But instead this giant of the north is not in extremis. There is no death rattle in his throat, but with the chest expanded, sound heart, steady pulse and clear eye he stands erect facing the future with unbounded confidence, and from his lips come not the whispers of death, but the joyous song of a great national life."

The "Whisper of Death" was not in evidence, "three cheers and a tiger" echoed through Bonaventure station Canadian National train to which was attached private car No. 100, pulled slowly out toward Quebec, bearing on board the Right Honourable MacKenzie King, Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada, on his way to London, England, to attend the Imperial and Economic Conference as the chief representative of this great country.

It was an inspiring sound, and the Premier smiled gladly, yet with a touch of sadness—pleased with the hearty reception he had just experienced, yet sorrowful to be leaving so many friends behind. As long as the train was in sight, Mr. King waved his hat, answered by the scores of officials and friends who had remained to bid him a last "bon voyage."

Long before Mr. King's scheduled arrival, a great crowd, including many prominent officials of Dominion, province and city, gathered at Bonaventure station, and Mr. King spent about an hour and a-half greeting his associates and friends. The cordiality of his nature was shown by the fact that just before the train left a number of station employees requested permission to bid the Premier farewell, and he made a last tour of the platform to shake hands with them.

It was a representative crowd. Senators, members of Parliament, men strong in the Liberal party councils and others came for a last handshake and a word that was at once of greeting and of farewell.

On arriving at Quebec, the Premier received an ovation, and at night was given a banquet by the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, at the Garrison Club. He paid his respects to his critics, and especially to the "Stars," "Whisper of Death" on the financial immigration and railway policy of his government. "It's too bad," said the Prime Minister, "that when we want the right class of settlers, and also capital for investment, that this campaign to the discredit of Canada should have been started. He compared the political pilgrimage of the opposition leader, to a funeral procession in a national scale. He thought that the "Whisper of Death" articles and the work of the opposition in discrediting Canada, purely a political dodge, especially as the opposition leader wanted some ray of sunshine to dispel the gloom cast over him and his party by the defeat at the last elections.

to have lifted a tire from the rear of an automobile. The suspects ran when questioned by the detectives and during their get away four shots were fired by the sluths.

The firing was heard by Bowen who saw the chase across the square and joined in the man hunt. The doorkeeper kept at it until the fugitives led him up Mayor street. Using his wits he called to a citizen to give the runners the foot. The order was acted upon and one man who gave his name as Laurence Cunningham, was sent sprawling in the sidewalk. The war veteran pounced on him at the same time holding on to the other suspect who later gave his name as Walter Edwards.

The chase and capture, with the additional exciting incidents of the four shots ringing in the air at the most heavily traversed corner of the city, attracted a thousand persons who looked on from every available vantage point. Telegraph poles, trees and high buildings were dotted with persons while many more got out of the way of probable stray bullets from the detectives' revolvers. All shots were however fired in the air. The detectives gave the credit of the capture to Bowen who has a war record and several decorations. He is a footer and of powerful build.

FALL TRAVEL ON LARGER SCALE.

Fall travel to and from Montreal this year is running about thirty-five per cent greater than last. From all accounts it would seem that the recent cool spell in the latter part of August and in the middle of September has not "hit" the hotels as the Mount Royal, the Windsor, the Ritz-Carlton and the Queens are still doing a brisk trade with tourists. A contributing factor in the present "fall house" situation is the growing popularity of the St. Lawrence route.

NEGLECTANCE AND VIRTUALLY MURDER.

The careless drivers of automobiles still continue their mad career, and are adding victims daily to the already big list of dead. One of the saddest, and yet one of the most brutal, took place here a few evenings ago, when a woman was knocked down, dragged fifteen feet along the roadway and then run over and killed. She had stepped from a St. Lawrence Boulevard tram car when an automobile, going at a terrific speed, struck her. The driver must have sed the machine, rolling the unfortunate victim along the road. He turned out his lights to escape detection, tore off madly, and was soon lost to view. The driver did not even stop as he approached the stationary tram car. From the way he worked the car, the body of the victim was thrown in to the sidewalk. Only a man crazed with liquor, or had lost his senses, could have performed such a brutal act. At the Coroner's inquest, Deputy Coroner Prince denounced the act as one of murder.

"The chauffeur of that car," said the Deputy Coroner, "was not only criminally negligent, but an assassin. His actions were those of murder. I want the police of this city to make extraordinary efforts to apprehend the chauffeur of the machine. Furthermore I ask the public to help in this matter. If any person who was about the district where the accident occurred last night, saw anything which would lead to identify the machine or the driver, I wish them to come to the Coroner's Court and tell me. In justice to the community and the lives of the citizens, it is their duty."

Two small boys of 5 and 7 years in attempting to cross the street were killed by an automobile. A lad of 16 years jumped off the running board, fell under the wheels and met his death. At Foster St. Charles three working boys left a factory to go to lunch. A motor sprinkler was passing and the boys attempted to hang on. Two succeeded in getting on, but the third slipped, fell under the wheels, and died thirty minutes later in the Western Hospital.

PROHIBITION A DELUSION.

La Presse says before another year is out, so we are informed, a plebiscite will be taken among our neighbours in Ontario with reference to the vexed question of spirituous liquors. The provinces are beginning to stir themselves in this regard and our legislation relative to the liquor question has become an object of special attention throughout the continent. Honor is due to the old Province of Quebec, which has shown the way in the path of true temperance, without falling in the net of prohibition, which prohibits nothing!

The Flitsburg Catholic says whatever may be the intrinsic merits of the whole prohibition enforcement it has unquestionably been followed by a tragic national demoralization. The present problem is not one of temperance. Law, not liquor, is on trial. The stories of Mr. Haynes present question—might it not be better to so revise the present prohibition enforcement law that it will fit human nature rather than to attempt to revise human nature that it may conform to legal standards.

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Two men had a narrow escape from death when an automobile in which they were driving, in order to avoid a street car, skidded, and the owner lost control of it. The automobile jumped the curb, and went across the sidewalk, chashed through the heavy St. Catherine Street East bridge over the C.P.R. tracks at the Western end of Hochelagen and fell onto the tracks fifteen feet below and turned completely upside down, it pinned them in their seats. When rescued, however, neither of the men were badly hurt and were able to go home after the accident.

CROPS IN THE PROVINCE ARE GOOD.

The Department of Agriculture reports the crops in the Province as generally good.

Cereals are reported as having greatly improved in the last period of wet weather but the persistent cool weather is preventing them from ripening. Generally, however, the cereal crop will be satisfactory.

Vegetables are splendid in all parts of the province from the Western limits to the East.

The fruit crop has failed in many sections and is under what was expected at first.

The hay crop has been good in the Western section of the province, very poor East of Quebec, and absolutely nil in the County of Charlevoix. Pastures are at present very good, the recent rains having improved them very much and generally, there having been no more rain fall than necessary.

The area shown this year is over that of preceding years, not in old parishes but in new territory, which has been developed through colonization.

MCGILL WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

McGill had another close call when they defeated Lachine in the last of the League fixtures for the season by the narrow margin of eleven runs, thus winning the championship of the Senior Cricket League. The day opened dark and dull, with threatening rain. In the afternoon the sun came out resplendently, and the weather was delightful. A large crowd of spectators lined the McGill Campus to witness the game, each side having its followers, and admirers. McGill batted first, and one man was bowled in the third ball, the best batsman of the team, Goodman, for zero. Stuart Saunders, the Captain, followed. When he had made four he was declared out. L.w.s. Two wickets down for 7 runs. Godsell and Hedges settled down and the score mounted up with Once, Munro, Di Balme, and Wanstall to 111 runs. Lachine went to bat, and they fared badly at the start, 4 down for 24 runs. Thompson, the colored player, Clarke, a famous bowler and batter, brought the score up to 73, when Thompson fell a victim to the deadly bowling of Potter. Clarke still held on until a hard catch by Bott, the fielder on the McGill team, put him out, when the score had reached 87 and the eighth wicket was down. Two remaining men added five, making a total of 100, leaving McGill winners by 15 runs, and thus winning the cricket championship of the Montreal District for 1923, as well as the John Ross Robertson Cup, and the ter-Provincial Trophy, and the speed cricket trophy completed for by all leading clubs in the three divisions of the League. 2. But because cheap soap will rot your clothing and damage your hands.

3. You will really not save a dollar, on the contrary, you will lose money.

Cheap impure soap will ruin your blouses, waists, collars, stockings, underwear, blankets, etc., and by using cheap or impure soap to save, apparently three dollars a year—you will possibly lose, if your family is large, a hundred dollars worth of clothing.

Mayor's Call League Over-Rated

Solution of World Problems Will Be by Community of Workers. Mayor Herriot, Mayor of Lyons, France, arrived in New York on the ship France of the French Line.

Mayor Herriot, leader of the French party, is here to advance the commercial interests of his city and country, and to invite American business men to participate in the annual Fair, a French national event.

Such bodies are being considered very important, internationally. Personally I feel there has been an entire too much emphasis on their value, and that their value has been greatly exaggerated.

Living in New Era. These institutions like the League of Nations are old-fashioned and obsolete tactics," he continued.

We should have at least commercial relations with Russia, but no domestic connections whatsoever.

He was asked if he would see Dr. Cuno while here and replied with a short negative. In reply to a question concerning relations between France and Germany, he said:

"In France we want peace with Germany, but we want a peace which is just to France."

"Have you heard of the reported billion-dollar loan to be made to Germany?" he was asked. "This is the very first I have heard of any such plan," he replied, and then interrogated his interviewers for several months in an effort to learn more about the report.

He concluded his interview with a panacea for world peace, an international fair to build up trade relations. With this accomplished, he held, the political side would then take care of itself.

"The moment seems to be rapidly approaching for a settlement of the reparations problem. The Ruhr controversy has led to realization of the necessity of maintaining the Entente if Europe is not to fall into economic and political chaos. The original purpose of the occupation was not immediate financial return but to force upon Germany for the first time full realization of defeat and the consequent need of sincere effort to make reparation."

"A very earnest desire has developed on both sides of the channel for a mutually satisfactory settlement of the reparations problem and this will be greatly aided by the new Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, whose ability and high character are respected on both sides of the channel."

"The domestic problems France has had to contend with since peace have been principally of a physical nature due to the heavy burden of physical reparation and so cash payments become a most useful form of reparation."

"England, on the other hand, has had to contend with economic and industrial difficulties, rendering cash payments subordinate to full resumption of commerce. This difference in the nature of their domestic situations explains to a large degree the difference as to method with respect to exacting reparations which became apparent in the recent controversy, for the ultimate purpose of France and England has always been the same, that is to say, the payment of reparations to the fullest possible extent."

"I am convinced the desire for peace in western Europe is such that the Ruhr and Italian difficulties will be disposed of and normal commercial business gradually resumed."

Westminster Hall

In connection with the reopening of Westminster Hall a short time ago by the King, after it had been closed for about eight years while repairs in its magnificent roof were being made, many incidents of an historic character have been recalled.

High revel was held in the newly built hall in Westminster in the last half of the eleventh century in the last year of the life of William Rufus, the second of the Norman Kings.

The Hall, however, has seen sterner and more dramatic things than the most costly dinner parties. Here was the stage upon which the most important state trials took place. Early in his reign Henry VIII sat in judgment upon 450 men and 11 women with ropes about their necks for being implicated in a pretence uprising.

the palace that I will ere long raise up," yet it was a building such as London had scarcely ever seen, and the King himself was to live but a short time. Further eastward along the Thames River was the Conqueror's Tower, but except for that grim keep there was little in London to challenge comparison with Westminster Hall.

Such amiable junkettings were often seen at the Hall up and down the centuries. As late as the reign of George IV, it is stated, 100 dozen bottles of champagne and 100 gallons of food punch appeared on one occasion under Westminster Hall's venerable roof.

Three queens, they of England (it was still Catherine of Aragon then), of France, and of Scotland, and also Cardinal Wolsey pleaded for the 493 prisoners. The prisoners were forgiven and they fung their halts toward the beautiful carved rafters of oak as a signal of appreciation of "the mercy of a King to his erring subjects."

A century and a half later a King, this time in the dock, found no such lenient treatment. Westminster Hall to Charles I., was but the prologue to the scaffold at Whitehall. However, King Charles I. was not the first man doomed in this splendid building.

Meigle From Labrador

VOYAGE NOW OVER—FISHING CREWS RETURNING HOME.

S.S. Meigle, Capt. Burgess, arrived from Northern Labrador at 10 a.m. to-day, having made all ports of call as far as Turnavick. The trip occupied a period of eighteen days. Good progress was made after leaving this port. Before Turnavick was reached a northerly wind sprung up followed by a snow storm. On the return trip south bad weather was met with this side of Battle Hr. and on Monday last the ship was compelled to harbor at Muddle's Island out of a raging storm. The ship remained there two days. The Meigle reports that the fishermen operating between Turnavick and Battle Hr. have done well. Most of the fishing crews returned by the Meigle and were landed at Carbonar and Hr. Grace. Capt. Jesse Winsor's crew of the ill-fated schr. Duke also came along and were landed at their homes in Wesleyville. The crew managed to save the vessel's spars, chains, anchors, etc., before she went to pieces.

A number of patients who were receiving treatment at the hospital in Indian Hr. and St. Anthony were also brought to their homes at various places along the coast. A fisherman named Curlew, who was employed by Capt. Hiscock for the season became seriously ill during the voyage and entered Indian Hr. hospital for treatment. Curlew was permitted to leave the institution and come south by the Meigle, but during the run he again became ill, and showed no signs of improvement when taken off the ship at Brigus. Hunter Snelgrove, wireless operator of the S.S. Watchful, who met with a gunning accident on board the ship about two months ago while at Stag Bay, also arrived by the Meigle. He feels nothing the worse after the accident, and is glad to be home again. The ship brought a part-load of cod oil from Indian Tickle, and as passengers:—C. Handell, J. Keane, P. W. Carlin, M. A. McLeod, N. Hendry, H. Enelgrove, F. W. Chalmers, J. Stone, J. Allen, W. E. Luscombe, W. S. Pyle, Mrs. Pyle, Lillian Fre, R. Cox, A. Brown, E. Simmons.

A Serious Charge

Arising out of the recent prohibition case in which Constable Thomas Lynch was complainant and Arthur Desert was defendant. One of the witnesses, John Crickard, stoker on S.S. Sagona will likely have to stand trial in the Supreme Court for perjury. Crickard, who was a Crown witness in the case, was taken before Judge Morris this morning and formally charged with wilful and corrupt perjury. Inspector General Hatchings appeared for the Crown. The accused was represented by Mr. T. Halley. On motion by the Crown prosecutor for a remand pending preliminary enquiry, Mr. Halley moved for bail for the period. His Honor Judge Morris commenting on the seriousness of perjury, said that many did not realize its seriousness and it is a frequent matter for witnesses to kiss the book as if it were a pastime. The comment, he said, had no reference to the particular charge before him and it may be that it would not be sustained but it had to do with the motion for bail, he therefore set the amount at $5,000, $2,000 for accused and $2,000 each for two sureties.

Nascopie Arrives

S.S. Nascopie, Capt. T. F. Smelle, arrived in port from Hudson's Bay last evening. The ship left Montreal in July and since has visited Pond's Inlet, Berwell, Chetserfield, Churchoill, Chilton Island, Lake Harbor and Cumberland Sound. The furthest point reached was the Hudson's Bay Post at Pond Inlet 72.42 lat., or 1700 miles north of Winnipeg. The water in this vicinity was clear of field ice but icebergs were numerous. A lot of field ice was however encountered in Hudson's Bay on the way inward. The ship brought up a part general cargo consisting mostly of salmon, seal skins and furs. During the trip a new port was established at Clyde River. Some 27 H. B. officials on leave came south by the ship. They are as follows:—G. E. Mack, Capt. Munn, P. Palmore, W. M. Ritchie, Dr. Steward, J. C. Taylor, C. Roddie, T. Mussels, Dr. Matheson, Mr. Asken, Mr. Dines. The Newfoundlanders are: A. Miles, L. Manning, J. Mercor, J. Bradbury, Mrs. C. Ford, H. J. Farby, S. Bradbury, G. Ford, A. Ford, N. Ford, Miss P. Ford, S. Ford, J. Hayward, Mrs. J. Hayward, A. Meshler. The Nascopie is discharging part cargo at Harvey's premises for transshipment to Montreal by s.s. Fear of Premature Burial

A bill has been introduced in the British House of Commons calling for the appointment of public certifiers of death in order to prevent premature burial. If it is passed, a doctor issuing a death certificate will have to certify that he has inspected the body, that death has taken place, and the signs on which he inferred death; he must also certify that he attended the patient at least twice, one of the occasions being within eight days of death.

"There is a condition of trance," said Dr. Hooker to a newspaper representative, "that in every superficial way simulates death," the beating of the heart cannot be heard, even with a stethoscope; the breathing is so slight it cannot be detected, and, seeing such a person most doctors would certify him dead. Meanwhile the 'dead' person is perfectly conscious. His muscular system is paralyzed. He cannot even flicker an eyelid. But he hears the preparations for burying him go on.

"This actually happened to a very dear friend of mine who lay in a cataleptic trance. The doctors had certified her dead. Now all the time she was perfectly conscious. She felt them measuring her for her coffin. She was aware that they were putting on her shroud and composing her hands for burial. She heard them making the funeral plans. She listened to her own funeral. But she could make no sound, no gesture, for her entire muscular system was paralyzed. She was about to be buried when, suddenly, her daughter noticed a faint quiver about the muscles of her mouth. She was given stimulants, regained consciousness, or, rather, the use of her muscles, and lived thirty years after."

"The horror of 'coming alive' to find oneself buried deep under the earth can hardly be estimated."

A Coming Photodrama Extraordinary

WONDERFUL PLOT IN "RICH MEN'S WIVES."

Al Lichtman, a newcomer in the independent production arena made certain promises to the exhibitors of America, that he would strive to give them pictures that would furnish box office receipts. And he wasted no time fulfilling that promise for in "Rich Men's Wives," which is coming to the Nickel, he has a picture that compares favorably with the best in the business. It's sure-fire material that he has given theatre owners in this production, which is luxurious in settings, and valuable in cast and story. Whatever superlative claims we make for this feature will be substantiated by the picture itself, for it has everything, pathos, humor, thrills and romance. It is built on what has been universally advertised as "the story of the greatest line the world has ever known," a broken-hearted baby's kiss for a wronged mother. And if you can utilize your imagination right here you can get a fairly comprehensive idea of what this story is all about; it has the possibilities and the producers overlooked nothing.

"Rich Men's Wives" has a cast that is hard to duplicate; in it are such players as House Peters, Claire Windsor, Gaston Glass, Myrtle Stedman, Charles Clary and Rosemary Theby. Watch for further particulars in this paper.

THE AVOIDANCE of Accident is not entirely under your control. When you ride in trains, street cars, motor cars, cabs or boats, your safety lies with someone else. While you walk the street you are in danger from another's carelessness. Nor are you immune in your own home. A carpet tack, a loose stair rod, a child's toy laying around may cause weeks of disability.
Therefore, you need Protection all the time
This $36,000,000 Company gives you the Best protection for the least cost.
