PLAN FOR A SPLIT IN PRESBYTERIANS ON CHURCH UNION

Manitoba College President Would Delay Completion Until 1931

Suggests a Joint Committee for 1929 General Assembly to Divide Church Equity—Antagonists Challenge Authority of 1916 Assembly.

(By Canadian Press.) Port Arthur, Ont., June 11.—The debate on church union reached its high tide in the Presbyterian General Assembly this morning and new developments in an effort to reach a compromise are planned.

President McKay, of Manitoba College, is scheduled to submit a project which will take the form of an amendment to the constitution of the church.

It is considered likely that no denial will be imposed upon the town of Dortmund in consequence of the fight, as it has been established that the satisfaction of French headquarters that no ever body suited them and could take whatever name they pleased.

A document drawn up by the antagonists of union and signed by the present propaganda should cease and at the general assembly of 1929 a committee of seven, consisting of three "antis," three "pros" and a chairman mutually approved or appointed by the Chief Justice of Canada, should divide the church equity.

The antagonists of union could then organize into what they would call the "anti" union and the "pro" union and declare that the prevailing party in the present assembly, by reason of its "illegal action," has subverted the assembly and thereby, in effect, seceded from the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

They protest that all such "illegal acts" shall have no force or effect in the church. The antagonists of union, in this document, disclaim all responsibility for the schism.

It is a Fact--

That many persons continue to wear old lenses long after they should be changed and that many a person is right now suffering the penalty for neglecting eye strain that a thorough examination of the eyes would reveal.

Every investigation of this subject has ever been made has indicated that a large percentage of those who would be wonderfully more comfortable and better off in every way if their ocular defects were corrected, do not even suspect that the lack of proper glasses is at the bottom of their troubles.

AUTO TEETERS ON BRINK OF BRIDGE

Hung precariously Over the Edge After Catapulting Horse and Occupants of Team to Street.

New York, June 8.—An automobile hung precariously over the edge of the Williamsburg Bridge Wednesday afternoon, while its driver, too dazed to help himself, looked blankly twenty-five feet below to the street, to which his machine had precipitated a horse and wagon and its two occupants.

Anthony Barbone, of 7 Old Field road, Mesopth, Queens, was joggling along toward the Brooklyn end of the bridge with Patrick Perino, of the same address, when the automobile crashed into the wagon. The car was driven by Joseph Barrelli, of 469 Park avenue, Brooklyn, who lost control when the steering rod snapped.

Horse, wagon and the two men were hurled through the railing and fell with a terrific crash into South Fourth street, Brooklyn, between Bedford and Driggs avenues. The front of Barrelli's automobile started over, but the rear wheels caught on the broken railing and halted the car, perhaps saving the driver's life.

Barbone was severely injured. His right arm was fractured, and at St. Catharine's Hospital last night it was reported he was suffering from probable internal injuries. Perino was badly shaken up, but was able to proceed home unassisted. The horse was injured so severely it had to be destroyed.

Patrolmen John J. Quilley, hearing the crash and the cries of those who had witnessed the accident, extricated Barrelli from his dangerous position. Barrelli was suffering from severe nervous shock.

So quickly did a crowd gather that reserves were called from the Bedford street station to keep the people moving. The accident occurred at the beginning of the rush hour.

MOTHER HALTS
ATTACK ON CHILD

Saves Shoemaker from Violence, and Detectives Arrest Him.

New York, June 11.—Mrs. Anna Klarer of 357 East 169th street, the Bronx, held an angry crowd at bay, preventing a mob assault on a man who is said to have attempted an attack on her seven-year-old niece, Bernice Klarer. Coolly arguing against violence, Mrs. Klarer did guard duty in the doorway of a shoe shop, staying the crowd from venting their anger on Michael Conforti, twenty-two years old, of 320 West 114th street. When detectives arrived the man was covering in the store, and they were compelled to draw pistols to hold their prisoner.

Bernice went to a shoe shop a few doors from her home to have a button put on. A moment later she fled screaming to the street. Passers-by stopped her, heard her story and passed the word along. A thousand angry men and women soon gathered.

Mrs. Klarer, who had run to the shop when she heard the child's screams, was the coolest person in the crowd. She dissuaded the men from breaking windows, urging that the law could deal adequately with the accused man. Detectives of the Tremont Avenue Station shouldered their way in, arrested Conforti and rushed him by automobile to the station house, where, the police said, he confessed.

Conference Deplores Practice of Selling Beverages by Mail Order.

The report of the Committee on Evangelism and Social Service, which was presented to the Montreal Methodist Conference in Brockville this week, precipitated one of the most animated debates of the conference. The references to the conditions existing in the Province of Quebec and the administration of the Quebec liquor law were indicative of unanimous disapproval of the Government policy as embodied in this act. The principal clauses in this report were as follows:

"Whereas the temperance situation in the Province of Quebec is in a very unsatisfactory condition owing to the great increase in the traffic in alcoholic beverages, made possible by the administration of the Quebec Liquor Act as at present carried out.

"Therefore, resolved that we hereby petition the Quebec Government to pass such legislation as shall result in the reduction of the sale of liquor to a minimum, with the object of its entire sup-

Joining Provinces and states.

"This conference learns with regret that since the recent repeal of the Canada Temperance Act in certain counties the sale of liquor under unlawful conditions is being continued without any effective effort on the part of the Provincial authorities to stop such illegal traffic.

"This Conference deplores the practice of the Quebec Liquor Commission of selling alcoholic beverages on the mail order system, shipping such orders into all parts of the province (wet or dry) through the mails.

Petition Quebec Government.

"This Conference hereby petitions the Quebec Government and Legislature to make provision by an amendment to the present law, by which the commission shall be required to give due public notice regarding all applications for permits or the intention of the commission to grant permits for the municipalities, wards or polling subdivisions."

The report mentioned the notable increase in the number of public dance halls opened up of late in rural sections, many of which are run for commercial purposes and without supervision. It was declared that these were dangerous to the morals of the community. It was suggested that the Methodist Church officials co-operate with local officials in controlling such places, especially in seeing that they were licensed and supervised.

It was recommended that an educational campaign be immediately carried out; that all the present temperance of alcoholic beverages, with the names and addresses involved in such permits, in order that opposition to such permits may be taken, either by petition or by vote of the ratepayer, by any organizations of the Province of Quebec accept the leadership of the Canadian Prohibition Federation.

Wedded In Jest; Repent at Leisure

50 Judge Rules in Denying West Virginia Joy Riders Divorce

Morgantown, W. Va., June 11. — Judge L. G. Lassalle refused to divorce Jamison Meredith, a West Virginia University student, and his wife, Anne Shakespeare Meredith, on the ground that they contracted the marriage in a "spirit of jest." The case will go to the Supreme Court.

"I am unable to believe," Judge Lassalle said, "that a young man and a young woman of the education and Christian rearing of these two could have heard the ceremony read and participated in it with any spirit of fun or with any intention other than of becoming man and wife."

"There is no doubt in my mind that these two were in love, although I fear that this love has been turned to hate on at least one side and cannot be revived."

According to the testimony, Meredith, who is a son of Supreme Court Judge J. A. Meredith of Fairmount, went on an automobile trip with a party of friends which included Miss Shakespeare. They decided to get married, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. John A. Volenieder of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He testified that there was no spirit of jest by either of the contracting parties.

TWO WOMEN CLAIM BABY.
Chicago, June 11.—A parallel to the case which King Solomon was called upon to decide faces a Chicago judge. The women here say they gave birth to the same child.

A girl five years old, whom both call Leona, is being closely guarded at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Lenz, wife of a druggist, to prevent the other "mother" from taking her. Mrs. Lenz says she can furnish positive proof that the girl was born to her in Chicago.

Mrs. Julia Warana says she has a birth record certifying that Leona was born to her in Poland and that she gave her to Mrs. Lenz three months ago to keep for her during a period when she was in financial difficulties.

FALLS HEIR TO $150,000.
Rochester, N. Y., June 11.—William Oldham, who makes flapjacks in true western style in the window of a front street eating house, here, will put aside his white coat and apron forever. William will retire to private life, having fallen heir to $150,000 from a relative in England.

Next week he intends to travel in easy stages across the continent to California. There he will take a ship to London via the Panama Canal. "I want to get some of that old English ale," Oldham said today. "I might return here and I might not. It all depends."

Amongst those who left today to attend the committee meetings of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Methodist Conference in Sackville are Rev. R. G. Fulton, Rev. E. E. Styles and Rev. H. E. Thomas. The other members of conference will leave tomorrow. The stationing committee meeting is taking place this evening.

Miss M. Agnes Lawlor, formerly of this city, has resigned her position as superintendent of the Marshall Browning Memorial Hospital at DuQuoin, Ill. Miss Lawlor served overseas for some times during the war with the Red Cross. She probably will accept another position.

THE NEW BRITISH PREMIER AND HIS PAST RECORD

Is Anxious to Wipe Out All Old Party Differences

Newsy Items from Empire's Capital—Remarkable Personality of Krassin—A Report from Essen—Restoration of Belgium.

(From Our Own Correspondent). London, May 24.—Whitbourne brought with it the political crisis which was bound to arise very soon. Mr. Bonar Law was compelled on account of persistent ill-health to resign his position as Prime Minister, and Mr. Stanley Baldwin, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer, reigns in his stead. Ever since Easter, when Mr. Bonar Law came back from a brief holiday in Devonshire, apparently restored in strength, but with no improvement in his throat trouble, we knew his tenure of office could not be for much longer. While the arterial sclerosis which was the cause of his retirement two years ago was not a disabling malady, this added throat affection, depriving him of his speaking voice, refused to yield to treatment. His recent voyage to the Mediterranean was a last hope, and when it, too, failed he hurried back to London, consulted his medical advisers, and tendered his resignation to the King on the bank holiday. The very precipi-

tancy of his action, and the fact that he did not have time even to suggest to His Majesty who should be sent for in his place, proved the gravity of his illness. A minor operation has been performed, and the immediate crisis seems to be passed, but Mr. Bonar Law has passed forever from the active political stage.

The purity of Sunlight. The scrupulous purity of Sunlight Soap is ensured because it is blended with pure coconut and rich palm oils which are tested by our expert analysts. Thus there is no possibility of adulterated or inferior oils being used.

Who graduates this week? Eversharp. The business man's gift to the young graduate. From the man who has arrived to the man just starting, Eversharp is the ideal gift. In beauty of design, this pencil resembles finely wrought jewelry. Yet it is essentially a worker—an implement of business. And it lasts a lifetime. Eversharp changed the world's pencil habits. It was the first successful mechanical pencil—and Eversharp can't be copied. No other pencil has Eversharp's perfect balance. The rifled tip, which holds the lead firmly without slip or wobble, is exclusively Eversharp. The lead index tells always how much lead you have. Give Eversharp! At your dealer's—$1 to $12. tion in the land when a subject can aspire to go to a comparatively untried man. Mr. Stanley Baldwin has been in Parliament fifteen years, only in the last six has he emerged from the back benches, while his first Cabinet post was when he became president of the Board of Trade two years ago. His reputation is based on his very recent achievements, the funding negotiations over the American debt, and the Budget which he yet to become law in the Finance Bill. Behind his slight Parliamentary career, however, lies a long term of successful business service as head of Baldwin's Ltd., the great iron and steel combine founded by his father and worthily carried on by his son. A Trinity College, Cambridge, man, Mr. Baldwin is a cultured scholar of wide interest, and personally he is a charming and modest companion.

Party Regroupings. Although he is the choice of the most active Conservatives, the new Prime Minister is widely separated in temperament and ability from them, and he frankly aspires to wipe out the divisions within the party by a general tolerance. At the same time his accession to power has been the signal to Mr. Lloyd George to give up all hopes of reconquering the Coalition, and concentrate on reuniting the Liberal Party. Liberal reunion has hung fire because the followers of Mr. Asquith suspended, not without reason, that Mr. Lloyd George was ready to make the best of both worlds, but now those fears seem to have evaporated. It is too early to speak of a united Liberal Party, but the inevitable process will be much hastened by the disappearance of Mr. Bonar Law. While he was last in office, Mr. Lloyd George, for the sake of old time and, perhaps, of vague hopes for the future, could not go into uncompromising opposition. With Mr. Baldwin at the helm, the man who above all others gave the death-blow to the Coalition restraints are removed, and Mr. Lloyd George has lost no time in proclaiming the fact by a speech strongly critical of the Government. The Liberal Party appears to be passing through a period of difficult internal stress, owing to differences over Russia and other matters.

Krassin. Whatever may be said of some of his Moscow colleagues, in Mr. Krassin the Russian Soviet has a remarkable personality. He is a tall, dark, handsome man with a pointed beard, of fine carriage and gracious manners, despite his keen business training and intellect. And, according to the instinctive conviction of some observers who have met him often, he is in his heart of hearts, emphatically, "no Bolshevik." Such a level-headed engineer, formerly in control of one of Germany's most flourishing post-war electric concerns, with a genius for organization and sound trading methods, could hardly accept all the Moscow theories without some reservations. Like most Russians, Krassin is a wonderful linguist. He talks English today almost perfectly, and with great fluency and force. Occasionally he pauses for a word, and there is a very slight foreign accent, but otherwise he is master of the most difficult tongue in Europe. Yet, until he came to this country in 1920, he did not speak a word of English. How many English business men or politicians would be able or willing to pick up Russian in three years—and three years of strenuous struggle with the problem of stricken Russia!

King George and Philatelists. About ninety philatelists associated with the London exhibition were entertained at Buckingham Palace by King George the other day as special invited guests at a party in their honor. The occasion would have been memorable in any case, but was made still more so by the opportunity afforded the visitors, all distinguished philatelic experts, of inspecting at their leisure the King's unique collections of stamps. These are declared by some of the guests at the Palace to be without equal in the world, certainly in the case of any individual collector. King George has specialised in British Empire stamps, and according to one of those who inspected the collection this must be worth some £100,000. The Royal collections were shown admirably arranged and collated in the fine picture gallery at Buckingham Palace, and King George, who entered into the conversation with his guests, displayed a genuine and deep knowledge of their common hobby. His Majesty was advised not to expose his collections to the risks of public exhibition, and I hear that insurance companies declined to accept the "risk." Many of the King's best specimens are of peculiar value, inasmuch as the are "first pulls." King George consented to pay a visit to the exhibition. Bertha Takes the Helm. From Essen comes the news that Bertha Krupp is once more to take the helm of the mammoth Krupp Works. Before her marriage to Von Bohlen Bertha was the autocratic chief of her husband's business. Now she is about to leave the domestic seclusion in which, as a fond German wife, she has passed her married life, to take the helm. Trained from early girlhood for her administrative career by her father, Alfred Krupp, Bertha has an amazing command of the technical side of the iron industry. She will carry on, if necessary, for the 15 years which is the period of her husband's sentence.

The Art Rivals. It was generally supposed that the famous Cloth Hall of Ypres was in its ruined state, but scaffolding is now going up round its smashed towers and walls and in places rebuilding has begun. A friend who returned from the devastated area tells me that in most places the cemeteries, dead tree stumps, "pill boxes," and stacks of rusty wire by the roadside are all that is left to mark the old battlefields. Entire villages have been rebuilt and shell-torn ground has been levelled and ploughed up. On the stone crosses in the cemeteries are replacing the wooden crosses in British cemeteries the words "Unknown Soldier" are changed to "Known unto God."

An Admirable Criticism. A youngster of my acquaintance is taking up a position on an Irish pig farm and thereby abandoning a London career of promising versatility. He comes of an aristocratic family, and is himself essentially a Bohemian. He has been an artist's model, and claims to have one of the finest and most remunerative ones, yet he is now posing for artists, however, this young Bohemian has written expert economic reviews for one of the intellectual weeklies. He has also acted as secretary to one of London's all-night cabaret clubs, and as a further aid to joyous existence, he has abandoned his pursuit, and, not without some melodious tears in Bohemia, is off to Ireland to study scientific pig culture. But he is a cheerful fellow, and his friends are confident that he will never be "husky."

Talking of models reminds me that many Chelsea artists when they engage a new model nowadays hand out a card briefly setting forth the thing they want. It is the result of much sad experience of the vagaries of the professional model, and especially of the kind of picture that is chosen for their pictures. Children selected "because of their legs" have a habit of turning up the artist with Marcel-waved hair or in the most impossible Sunday suits. The artist's remedy is to engage a model who is always so proud of their smart appearance. Jacob Epstein, the famous sculptor, tells a good story of one of his strange models. He chose him solely because he wore such a wonderful hat—a bowler that was narrowly flat in the crown and leant usually wide in the brim. It was a unique hat, and would have made any comedian's fortune. After the first sitting Epstein paid the model. Next day he appeared at the studio without his one asset, and wearing instead of that perfectly enchanting hat a new very smart bowler of regulation pattern. The old one was tragically required for. Alas! it had been cut up into home-made socks for the ruined model's shoes.

Golfing Managers. American golfers have taken a lead out of the book of the professional States to bring about a match between Sarazen and Hagen, a prize of $8,000 being offered, but their manager would not hear of it. Whatever happened, the prestige of one of his proteges would suffer. By the chance of the draw, however, Sarazen and Hagen met in the competition at Leeds. They had a real needle match for a prize of £50. Sarazen is described to me as a "really nice boy," without any of the swank and side which unfavorably distinguishes so many Americans who achieve public fame; in fact, he is really quite modest. Good judges were of the opinion that he was distinctly unlucky to lose to Hagen, whose putts were dropping into the hole while his own were hanging on the lips; but though he is, according to some accounts, the greatest, the most formidable, and most brilliant golfer America has yet sent us, Sarazen is quite deplorable about his own performance. He says that since his arrival over here he has learnt a lot. He has seen shots played that he is quite unable to execute himself, though he hopes to acquire them by steady practice when he goes back to America. Surely this is the right spirit. A Slim Hater of Men. To the Pensions Ministry belongs the credit of organizing the first mixed walk to Brighton, and the winner, a slip of a girl in a white sweater and a short tangerine skirt, is a youthful man-hater who kept going just because she wanted to beat the lords of creation. Thus the eternal duel of sex begins to invade the arena of sport! But in this case the men started two and a half hours behind the ladies, which is equivalent to a ten-mile start or almost one-fifth of the full distance. Moreover, the man-hater's record time of just over 12 hours is almost four hours outside the mere male record. Most of the girls wore blue gymnasium costume, and displayed calves like town hall footmen. I should never have picked the man-hater as a likely winner, or even a possible finisher. She had no style like the little Manchester girl who first did the walk had, and was barely doing four miles an hour five miles out. Yet she finished quite fresh at six miles an hour. It would be better to hold these sporting events in the daylight.

The Acid Test. These high-brow controversies about the standard of British Art revealed this year's Royal Academy Show leave me entirely cold. The critics who engaged in these controversies seem to me to be blind persons beating the air. It really does not matter twopence whether the Academy Show is better or worse than last year's or merely just about the same. One has simply to read the writing on the wall—and that writing tells us, more authoritatively than any art critics, the British life, we have made immense strides since the Victorian days in this respect. Thirty years ago "Bubbles" was the derisive cry. Today you will find superb designs and colors, combined with rare feeling and imagination, in the posters that advertise the Underground and the L. C. C. trams. The rest of the commercial world is following suit. A bad poster nowadays is recognised as such even by the man in the street—and no sound business man dare risk his firm's reputation on one.

The Art Rivals. It was the Underground that set the pace originally. Their stations were adorned with magnificent posters, almost all of them worthy of a place on the line of the Academy, luring the Londoner into the beauty spots and the historic corners of London and its rural environs. But now the L. C. C. is challenging the Underground's art supremacy seriously. Some amazingly good black-and-white and colored posters, advertising popular tram routes, are now on the walls. These are obviously the work of first-class artists, with taste and originality as well as imagination, and Londoners are keenly appreciative. Seven million people see these pictures every week. And this sort of thing, in the wider sense, is more educative than a score of Royal Academies. The latest L.C.C. poster has seen is one of the best. Of all places it advertises the tram routes to the famous Caledonian Market. But the artist's brush, dipped in superb colors, depicts the opulent romance of that Cockney bazaar, so that one scans the adventure of its commerce, and its old and new innuendo, and longs to visit the place. It may mean a sharp disillusion for the credulous souls, but it is a daily art lesson for the masses. And the starting thing is that these posters are not all in the "popular" vein, but most severely modern and high-brow.

WHISTLE. Try this on your palate. Other drinks may look like WHISTLE, but if their color can kid your eyes their taste can't kid your palate! WHISTLE—some drink!

(By Canadian Press). Montreal, June 10.—An airplane flight around the world by a British airplane, manned by British pilots, under the auspices of the Legion of Frontiersmen, was the project unfolded here Friday by Captain Harwood Steele, M.C., a son of the late Major General Sir Samuel Steele, who has arrived in Montreal in connection with the proposed around-the-world all-British flight.

The Legion of Frontiersmen, Captain Steele explained, was an organization of adventurous British frontiersmen, pioneers, sailors and men of that type from all corners of the Empire, who had banded themselves together in an Empire-wide organization for imperial service, either in peace or war. The present president of the Legion, he said, was Major General Lord Loch, who was taking an active part in the proposed adventure, whose main idea was to win for British airmen the honor of being the first to make a globe encircling flight.

ARRIVE HOME FROM BOSTON

Members of N. B. Tourist and Resources Association Had Enjoyable Visit.

With memories of a very rough passage and a very good time in Boston the members of the New Brunswick Tourist and Resources Association returned to the city on Saturday about noon on the steamer Governor Dingley on which the annual business meeting of the association was held on Wednesday. Members of the Boston Canadian Club excelled themselves in looking after the members. A high tribute was paid to Premier Veniot, who headed the party and it is expected that much benefit will accrue to the province as the result of the visit of the association. On the return trip when the ship was off Point Lepreau E. A. Schofield, on behalf of the association, made a neat speech in which he thanked Captain Ingalls for the many courtesies of the Eastern Steamship Lines.

STUDENT KILLED IN LAB. BLAST

Banker's Son Victim of an Unexplained Explosion of Chemicals.

New York, June 11.—An explosion of chemicals with which he was experimenting in the laboratory of the Clark School, 78 Riverside Drive, resulted in the death of Kemper Louis, seventeen years old, a student, an hour later in Knickerbocker Hospital. The explosion drove a tiny bit of copper into the boy's groin, severing an artery and he bled to death.

Louis, who lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kemper Louis, was performing an experiment in the laboratory when the chemicals exploded without warning.

The blast burned his face severely, tore both hands in many places and also drove a minute fragment of copper into his left groin. The copper is believed to have been a section of the receptacle in which Louis had placed the chemicals. It measured only a sixteenth of an inch by an eighth of an inch, according to Assistant Medical Examiner Charles Cassasa, but it tore its way into the youth's body deep enough to sever an artery.

An instructor, who heard the explosion, ran into the room and found Louis on the floor. He summoned an ambulance from Knickerbocker Hospital.

Louis was taken to the hospital at 8:30 p. m. and at 4:40 p. m. he died. Assistant Medical Examiner Cassasa and the police of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were notified and started an investigation into the cause of the explosion.

Dr. Cassasa, in examining the student's body, found in the groin the piece of copper, which is believed to have caused death. He said that other fragments of the copper vessel containing the chemicals which exploded might be found in the student's body, but the tiny fragment he discovered undoubtedly killed Louis.

The left hand had been badly torn by the explosion. The right had also been injured, but less severely. Dr. Cassasa said that from the numerous lacerations of the left hand it appeared that the hand had been resting on or near the receptacle containing the chemicals when the explosion occurred.

The boy's father, Edward Kemper Louis, who is in the banking business, declared last night that his son had been preparing at the Clark School for Yale University and had been specializing in chemistry. He was in the freshman class. He had not been able to learn the full details of the explosion, he said.

Tenants in an apartment house adjoining the Clark School heard the explosion. It was not heavy enough, however, to do any damage to the building.

W. H. White, formerly manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Moncton, has been transferred to Woodstock, Ontario, and left for there on Saturday.

REVISION OF THE PUBLIC HOSPITAL CONSTITUTION

The committee of the Board of Commissioners of the General Public Hospital which has in hand the revision of the constitution and by-laws of the hospital met on Saturday and made good progress with the work assigned to it. All of the members of the committee attended. The committee members are: M. E. Agar, Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts, J. King Kelly, Mrs. J. Varner McEldan and Dr. E. J. Ryan. It is probable that the committee will have a report to submit to the next general meeting of the hospital commissioners next month. Pending the drawing up of the new constitution there have been no staff appointments made this year.

The new out-patient department of the General Public Hospital will be opened soon and, for the size of the hospital, is probably one of the finest in Canada. It is situated in the basement west wing of the hospital. As soon as it is opened, the X-ray department will be removed to the rooms at present occupied by the out-door department on the main floor of the hospital.

My Debt of Gratitude.

'Ulcers the Size of Man's Hand.'

Our portrait is of Mr. G. M. THOMPSON, 24, Midland Grove, Edward Rd., Balaclava, Birmingham, England, who writes: "In July last I happened to get a scratch on my leg. It was so slight I took no notice of it till a fortnight elapsed, when I found it could not go to work. It gradually grew worse, when I consulted a doctor from this period it got from bad to worse all at length the sores turned into ulcers. I had at that particular time ulcers the size of a man's hand covering my leg. After I had tried nearly everything I read about your Clarke's Blood Mixture and decided to take it; it was then in the month of October, and after the second bottle, I found relief. I continued until the seventh bottle when I found myself completely rid of the trouble. You can make use of this statement and I will be only too pleased to answer any enquiries because it's nothing else but Clarke's Blood Mixture that I owe my debt of gratitude to."

Sufferers Ulcers, Glassblower Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Gout and Rheumatism should realize that blood is the foundation of life. It is the cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly stimulates, sweetens, and expels the impurities that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand in its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from any injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores.

"Babe" Ruth's "Comeback" Lags; Cy Williams To Be Crowned "King of Swat?"

CY WILLIAMS AT BAT. AND CONNIE MACK

Philadelphia, Penna., June 11.—With twenty home-runs to his credit so far this season Cy Williams, of the Philadelphia Nationals, has put the "Babe" on the shelf so far as personal glory is concerned.

Babe Ruth, expected to make a spectacular "comeback" this season after his complete fluke last year, is not doing so well, with only eleven home-runs to his credit.

Worry over his wife's health, and his own entanglement in the lawsuit of a young woman, influenced the Babe's batting, in all probability. The lawsuit was withdrawn and the charges denied later, however, but not soon enough to avoid upsetting the Babe's pose.

Year before last he knocked 'em over the fence fifty-nine times, but found it impossible to repeat the performance last year.

Williams' stunt is causing a grin to appear on the face of Connie Mack, sixty-year-old manager of the Phillies, who has not been known to smile in ten years.

Coming up into the sunlight, after many years in the cellar, Connie Mack's "kid" players are in second place just now, next to the New York Yankees.

When the series is played, Williams expects to have chalked up a record that will draw the spotlight away from the Bambino and turn it on himself.

To give the Vets a chance to play one of Saturday's postponed games with Quincy, the St. Peter's and Vets will meet this evening and the postponed game will be held on Thursday. It is probable that the opposing twirlers will be Stretcher and Beaty or Farie. On Wednesday, St. Peter's play Quincy here while the Vets play at Moncton and on Saturday the Fredericton team will play two games here with St. Peter's. DISCUSSION ON WEST SIDE TRACKS

C. P. R. Officials Have Talk With Common Council Members.

Superintendent Says Any Change Now Would Drive Business from Port—Puts Responsibility on Government—Tenders Opened.

The committee meeting of the Common Council this morning took the form of an informal discussion, there not being a quorum present. Commissioner Bullock is in New York and Commissioner Wigmore was unable to be present. J. M. Woodman, general superintendent of the New Brunswick district of the C. P. R. and C. C. Kirby, district engineer, were present to discuss with the city the matter of affording some relief to citizens of Germain street, West St. John, greatly inconvenienced by the position of the C. P. R. tracks in that street. After considerable discussion the matter was left open in the hope that something might transpire which would bring the situation to a head. Tenders for a new steel stairway in City Hall, West St. John were opened and referred to Commissioner Thornton for report. The Mayor brought up the matter of the relief to be afforded residents of Germain street, West, with reference to the C. P. R. tracks there. G. G. Hare, city engineer, was present. Superintendent Speaks.

Mr. Woodman said the railway did not contemplate having expenses any great amount of money there. To remove the tracks would mean a great loss to the port. These tracks were the main lines in the city. To remove these would force all the business onto a small track which could not handle the traffic. It had been expected that the Government would make some changes which would obviate the difficulty but this had not been done. If the change had to be made to small tracks it would mean the business to other ports. As a matter of fact more tracks were needed. To make any real difference a change in the whole layout would have to be made. Mr. Kirby said he could not see what temporary relief could be afforded. He understood that when some of the property owners bought the land from the city there had been a provision that they should take the property subject to whatever inconveniences they might be called upon to suffer by reason of the position of the railway. Mr. Kirby said the company had filed in whatever work had been done by the Government but the Government had ceased work and the company had not gone on.

Citizens Rights.
The Mayor said something was due to the property owners and the question was one of responsibility. He would like Mr. Woodman to give it such consideration as he could and see what he could suggest. Mr. Woodman thought the best thing to do was to urge the Government to go through with its part of the programme and then the C. P. R. could go through with its. He said the C. P. R. would carry out its promises as long as the men now at the head remained there. Commissioner Thornton thought it would be well to have the leases of the properties looked up and the Mayor agreed. Commissioner Frink said there had never been a resolution asking the Government to continue the work.

Stairway Tenders.
Tenders for the new steel stairway for City Hall, West St. John, were opened. They were as follows:
John Flood & Sons, $8,250 and $3,650 with slate on main landings.
Canadian Welding Works, Ltd., $2,800 and $3,325 with slate on main landings.
The tenders were referred to Commissioner Thornton for report.

St. John Boy Is Victim Of Canoe Accident In Ont.

Robert Golding, 19, Drowned at Kenora Last Evening, With Amherst Man—Body Recovered.

Robert Golding, nineteen years of age, son of Mrs. Fannie Golding, 73 Erin street, was drowned when a canoe upset in the middle of the bay at Kenora, Ontario. The fatality occurred late last evening when Golding and Andrew Bernard, of Amherst, N. S., were evidently returning home late to the C. P. R. camp at Ignace, Ont., where the two young men were employed on construction work.

Advices to the Golding home this morning told simply of the accident and that Robert had been drowned. There were no particulars. Young Golding left St. John on May 16 as a member of a crew of fifty men who were en route to Ignace, Ontario. He and most of the other men had been placed through the local employment office. They had been in Ontario a little less than a month. According to information to hand the accident occurred near Kenora which is only a few miles from Ignace, headquarters of the C. P. R. extra gang in that locality.

Golding was unmarried and was a returned soldier. Arrangements will likely be made to have the body brought to St. John for burial.

A Canadian Press despatch today from Kenora, Ont., says: "Two young men from the Maritime Provinces lost their lives by drowning late last night when a canoe upset in the middle of the bay in forty feet of water. The victims were Robert Golding, aged 20, of St. John, and Andrew Bernard, aged 29, of Amherst. Both were single. Golding's body has been recovered. They were employed on the C. P. R. extra gang."
