GETTING READY FOR TAX RATE

Make Budget Speech at Next Council Session.

Characterizes School Board Rate as Very High-Changes at the Opera House-Other Business

Ald. Mounteer, who is still far from well, was the only absentee at last evening's city council session. Contrary to expectations the rate was not struck, but Ald. Marshall, chairman of Finance, intimated that this man of Finance, intinated that this important matter would form the main business of the next meeting.

Among other matters dealt with last night was the passing of a by-law to regulate the fire protection of the Opera House, under the requirements of which many alterations and improvements will be necessary, and the amendment of the market by-law by allowing merchants to commence purchasing one hour earlier, than heretofore.

J. Conn wrote concerning three ac-counts for extras on the King Street West pavement. The communica-tion was received and the money will be paid as soon as it is seen that the work is satisfactory.

The Finance committee from the County Council reported to the City Council that they have raised the salary of the Harrison Hall janitor $25 per year.

GREAT GAME IS IN SIGHT

Civic Finance Minister Will Haughty Challenge of City Aldermen to the Unvanquished Team of Mr. Perrin.

> Decide to Demolish Their Opponents According to a Special Wireless Code -The Ten Command-

Ald. McCoig and Tye, representing the City Council, have issued the following ultimatam, which speaks for itself, and there is liable to be little short of bloodshed on the day of the great struggle:

We, the undersigned, duly appointed and recognised as the sports committee of the Council of the city of mittee of the Council of the city of Chatham, do, on behalf of the said City Council, challenge to a baseball game on Friday, July 15, at 3.30 p.m., on Tecumseh Park, the team of one George (Bill) Perrin, who, with exalted presumption, has jointly and severally since the season of 1903 gossiped around that his bunch are "champions."

The conditions governing contest to be:

First—The privilege of using Ald.
G. G. Martin for couch.
Second—That if ex-Mayor T. A.
Smith appears in the precincts of the field he must remove his diamonds.
Third—That the forfeit be a cannon for the Japs, the losers to be shot right out of the mouth of the cannon.
No half measures in the shooting.
Fourth—That the gate receipts be Fourth-That the gate receipts be divided amongst the spectators.

Fifth—That Ald. Piggott be allowed to explain to each of the ladies present how the game is played.

Sixth—That the alderman being hit by pitched balls the most times re-ceive an asphalt block. Seventh—That City Clerk Merritt Seventh—That City Clerk Merritt must wear a head covering, as the Perrin men claim the reflection of the sun is hard on the eyes.

Eighth—That Ald. Marshall be allowed to run bases either to the right or left, as is most convenient.

Ninth—That Mayor McKeough be and is hereby empowered at any and all times to rescind by a two-thirds vote of the aldermen any or all runs made by the Perrin crowd. made by the Perrin crowd.
Tenth-Special commandment to the Perrinites, Thou shall not steal

With a due observance of the fore-going decalogue the aldermen hereby challange the aforesaid vaunter of his baseball prowess. We well know that he has been stealthily pre-Per-rin for many months, but have no fear for the future, having secured the services of that illustrious pat-riot, the Hon. Sir William Holman, K. C. B., etc., as our special repre-sentative. sentative.

Sentative.

Know we then by these presents that we shall be ready at the day and hour mentioned and you, George Perrin, fail not on your peril to be prepared therefor. In default of appearance we shall not hesitate to denounce you and your alleged champions as impostors and caitiffs.

The Japanese kept on our heels and there were constant exchanges between the Russian and Japanese batteries. The Japanese advance stopped eight miles south of here. The fighting along the road was lively, but our losses were small. There had been preliminary skirmishes and manocuvring for position around Kai Chou since July 5. On that day two companies were caught in the hills to the eastward and surrounded by six Japanese battalions. They cut their way, however, and returned to Kai the eastward and surrounded by six Japanese battalions. They cut their way, however, and returned to Kai Chou, bringing many wounded. "While the Japanese crept forward 100 yards, keeping up a fierce exchange with our riflemen, another column started to work around our left through a deep valley. The sound of a heavy rifle fire at the railway station told us that the column had struck our outposts. Then our battery behind the station opened fire and the advance in that direction was checked. "We had a squadron of cavalry and a battalion of infantry across the river and through the golden haze we could just see them manoeuvring to meet the Japanese column, which they engaged fiercely. The Japanese finally rolled back. In the meantime the Japanese cavalry on the extreme west tried to creep around the shore of the gulf of Liao Tung, but our batteries headed off the cavalrymen and drove them in confusion. By noon the advance was checked at all points, though growing numbers of Japanese were seen gathering in the hills, their though growing numbers of Japanese were seen gathering in the hills, their batteries throwing in an occasional Wherever an advance movement appeared, it was greeted by the bark of the quick-tirers and the drumming of the machine guns. There was little rifle fire. The Russian main column was already proceeding north and a few Cossacks were hovering in the rear, supporting the batteries.

"At noon the Japanese artillery arrived and engaged the Cossacks' horse artillery. The Russians made no attempt to scriously contest the ground but retired to a fresh position, at the same time worrying the enemy.

"The whole of our artillery, remaining in the rear and, covering the infantry retreat at Pintzan, allowed the Japanese to come up and then shelled them. Again the fight developed with some warmth, while the Japanese brought up fresh batteries with which they pounded the village.

CONSERVATIVE PROSPECTS

A Nova Scotia gentleman, a form er Liberal, and at one time connect ed in a business way with a leading Liberal politician of that province, while in Monston a few days ago, says the Times, gave it as his opinion that the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is doomed and that the Conservatives are coming into power at the next election. This gentleman's business at the present time takes him to all parts of the country and brings him in contact with a great many people. It is therefore of some value

Similar testimony is given by another old Liberal, who writes to the Winnipeg Tribune, edited by Mr. R. L. Richardson, former Liberal member for Lisgar, Manitoba, as follows "All along the main line of the C

P. R., from Winnipeg to Calgary, I have found the Conservatives enthus iastically prepared to follow Borden's lead. I have found the Independents equally pleased with the stand he has taken and ready to give him their vote and influence. Also a considerable number of Liberals prepared to cut loose from their party on this great transportation question, and I think the chances for the Opposition candidates are excellent all along the

That the Conservative cause growing rapidly in favor, especially in Ontario and the west, is beyond question. But there is also a great awakening in Conservative circles in Quebec and in every province except New Brunswick there is a perfect organization. Here, for some reason or other, both parties prefer to leave the details or organization for the last moment, but the result of the St. John contest a few months ago is not discouraging from the Conservative point of view.

GUILTY SILENCE OF THE GLOBE.

The silence of the Toronto Globe on the subject of the terrible milistarism programme which it has attributed to Lord Dundonald looks like an admission of guilt, notes the Mail and Empire. The Globe falsely charged that the British General had been trying to impose upon us a scheme Involving the establishment of a standing army, the building of huge fortifications from end to end of the country, and the expenditure of from $35,000,000 to $53,000,000. A Presbyterian clergyman, formerly a reader of the Globe, writes with reference to these untrue statements:

"The matter is one of wider interest than may be supposed by some among us. If the Globe has invented a series of allegations with regard to this officer for the purpose of founding an argument upon them detrimental to that gentleman, it stands to reason that the same process may have been, or may be, followed on other matters. I fully agree that the press is entitled to draw whatever conclusions it may see fit from given facts; but I hold that the conclusions must be based upon facts, and that the facts must be fabricated to fit the conclusions. While the manufacturing of facts adverse to anybody is an injustice to the party thus represented, it is an equal injustice to the readers who are misinformed. A newspaper has no right to state that which it knows is misleading to its readers, and by so doing it is cheating the people who place confidence in it, and expect from it, in return for the price they pay for it, a true relation of matters of public inter-

> DUNDONALD'S FALL FROM GRACE.

On June 23rd, in the House of Comns. Sir Frederick Borden said of Lord Dundonald:

"And one cannot here trying to understand the mental, not say the moral makeup of the man who, while having this in mind, goes every day to his office, meets his chief day after day; profers him the hand of friendship-or professes to-writes him polite motes; professes to be engaged in full sympathy with him and occasionally pays him a compliment-I say it is difficult to understand the mental and moral makeup of the man who could do that and carry it on, not for days, nor for weeks, but confessedly for months. And what is the object which the gentlemen states as the justification for this course? Oh, his object was to save not exactly his country, but this benighted country of Canada He was to be the, saviour of his country. And one can imagine the stress under this high minded noble man, day after day, felt impelled to go to his work acting the double part, even though he did it because of the great benefit which he was roing to confer on this country of

CANADA VS. UNITED STATES. Philadelphia, July 11.—The 36th annual international cricket match between Canada and the United States, tween Canada and the United States, the latter represented by players picked from the various Philadelphia cricket clubs, was begun to-day at Haverford, near this city. The weather was cloudy. The Canadians made 182 runs in their first inning, and when stumps were drawn for the night the Americans had accumulated 132 runs for the loss of three wickets. For the visitors T. C. S. Saunders and Captain Symons played excellent cricket, they making 61 and 51 runs respectively, J. B. King, for the Americans, had a fine inning of 49. Summaries—

Early this morning A. H. Roszell's barn, on Queen St., was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. It was some time before the firemen could get a stream of water on it, owing to their being no pressure. For-tunately a heavy rain was falling or serious damage might have been done, as the barn was in the centre of many other wooden buildings. P. On the reception of the Toronto members of the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, the mayor of Toronto in presenting field glasses and a civic medal, observed: "It was owing to Major Merritt's efforts that the 2nd Canadian mounted rifles was sent at all; and it was owing to his efforts that the contingent arrived in time that the contingent arrived in time to take part in that crowning event of the war, the Hart's River engage-ment."

EASY WORK "Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women.

Dr. Pierce has so much faith in his "Prescription" that he offers to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

PATIENCE BEYOND BELIEF. A Strange and Thrilling Tale From French Penal Colony.

A wonderful example of the pa-A wonderful example of the patience of prisoners in preparing means for escape was discovered some time ago in the French penal settlement in New Caledonia. The convicts live in barracks, and every evening they are thoroughly searched and locked in are thoroughly searched and locked in.

Among the prisoners were two marine engineers who were in for political crimes. They lived together in the same hut. Every night, for two years, they labored at digging an under-ground chamber beneath their house, concealing its entrance during the day. Every morning each of them carried out some dirt in his blouse or his pockets.

Their hut stood near the seashore. After two years' toll they had dug a tunnel reaching almost to the sand-stone bank by the beach. At the end of the tunnel they hollowed out a large cavity, and in this cavity they set to work building a boat, By cutting through to the beach they were able to come out at night and find pieces of driftwood on the shore, and every serviceable piece of timber they decread. and every serviceable piece of timber and every serviceable piece of timber they dragged in.

In their underground chamber they made a forge, and with little bits of steel and iron, some smuggled in from the marine repair shops in their hair and under their armpits, they made, arst tools, then bolts, rivets and the necessary ironwork for the building of a laugh. Then they set and the necessary fromwork for the building of a launch. Then they set patiently to work building an engine for the launch. When that was finally accomplished, they had been working nightly for over seven years.

At this time another convict was lodged with them, a Paris embezzler, and they had to take him into their and they had to take him into their confidence. For six months he hele-ed them, until everything was ready, except to provision the boat. Then the embezzier turned informer, ing to gain favor thereby. Next night guards surprised the two marine exgineers in their underground chamber, seized their tools and put them into solitary confinement with ball

The subsequent investigation brought to light the entire plot. The seven long years of patient toil so impressed the French commandant that a year later he mane ged/to obtain a pardon for the two engineers and they returned to France.

THIS MUSICIAN IS DELIGHTED

His Kidney Disease and Gravel Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Tried Many Medicines But Got No Relief Till He Used The Great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Rosedene, Ont., July II.—(Special)

—Mr. Samuel J. Orow, the wellknown musician of this place, relates an experience thiat adds to the already great popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this locality.

"I suffered for years with Kidney Trouble," says Mr. Crow, "which became aggravated with every attack toold and caused me much agony.
The disease developed into Gravel, when I was totally unfit for anything.

when I was rotally thing.

"I fried different remedies without the desired result and was in much misery when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills when to my astoniahment and delight I immediately between key recover.

One of the governesses in a kinder-garton and preparatory school was giving an interesting lesson on "Worms, grubs, and caterpillars, and their uses to man." Presently sho turned to a little six-year-old girl and asked:

"Now my dear, what worm was it that gave your mother her beautiful silk dress?"

"Papa, ma'am," promptly replied the child.

Kidney Fills when to my astonishment and delight I immediately began to recover.

"After using five boxes the aliment had entirely ceased and I was again enjoying perfect vigor, all of which I owe to Dodd's Kidney Fills."

The fact that Gravel yields so readily to Dodd's Kidney Pills is good asws indeed, as it does away with those terrible operations that were supposed to be the only relief from this trouble.

Kidney Fills when to my astonishment and delight I immediately began to recover.

Trying to Forget It.

Mifkins—Hello, old wan! What do you think of that clgar I gave you last light? Bifkins—Don't ask me to think. I'm trying to forget it.

Let those who complain of having to work undertake to do nothing. If this this trouble.

The Englishwoman's Latchkey. Talking about the British aristocra-cy, a woman who has met it on its native heath tells me that the feminine section of it never stirs out without a latchkey. We carry latchkeys over here, but we don't do it in the British way. The American woman ties her key in the corner of her handkerchief or hides it under the mat or puts it into her purse along with cold cream recipes and car tickets and samples. The Englishwoman parades hers. The wo-man who knows her tells me that she has seen latchkeys set with precious stones and fastened to long chains. She has seen them gilded and strung from belts; she has seen them with pins on the back of them, worn as brooches. She tells me that the Englishwoman would no sooner leave her latchkey at home than her husband would his bath. The thing is possibly new to the Englishwoman and, being new, is paraded. With us over here it is an old story. Possessing the reality, the symbol is of small moment to us. We are content to leave the latchkey under the mat.

A Philosopher as a Fisherman. Herbert Spencer once won a curious wager. He was staying for a fishing holiday in the house of Sir Francis Powell, the president of the Scottish academy, and while angling for trout he happened to drop his eyeglasses into a deep pool of the river. In the even-ing he related his misadventure to his host and the guests, and said that he was prepared to bet that he would recover the pince-nez from the bottom of the pool. His friends declared that this was an impossible feat, but Herbert Spencer still offered to make the bet. His challenge was accepted by one of the visitors. Upon the following evening Spencer returned to the house with the missing eyeglasses. He had fastened a strong magnet on the end of his fishing line and fished for the glasses until it came into contact with their steel rims.

Floating Targets of the Sea. Even the French and British war-ships that patrol the Newfoundland coast during the fishery season do not escape the danger of icebergm, crowded with men and carefully navigated though the vessels are. The ice masses serve a novel purpose for the fleets all the summer through; being used as targets for big gun practice. When a specially formidable one drifts along past St. John's a cruiser slips her moorings and runs to sea after it, pelting it with projectiles until she fires away her allowance. It is one of the sights of St. John's, the endless proce of icebergs of every size and shape that drift by day after day, charming the eye and cooling the summer atmosphere. Sometimes they ground in the harbor mouth and prevent ships entering or leaving.-P. T. McGrath in McClure's.

Palestine.
When one thinks of the great events that have taken place in the Holy Land, the multitude of cities, villages and towns, the countless millions who have been born there and whose bones now lie in its rock ribbed hills, the small dimensions of Palestine are almost startling. West of the Jordan, where most of the historic events took place, there are only 3,800 square miles, including all the geographical divisions now called Palestine. Including the land both east and west of the Jordan, the total area is 9,840 square miles. The length of Palestine from north to south is about 150 miles. It varies in breadth from twenty-three to eighty

Wanted None of His Art. At a dinner in London, Theodore Watts-Dunton said: "It isn't generally known that Turner, the painter, and Dr. Augustus Pritchard once lived together for a year in Cheyne row. The painter and the physician had a fine garden, and they took a good deal of pride in their flowers. But the garden gate did not work well, and one day Turner, because it wouldn't cpen, pet-tishly gave orders that it be nailed up. It was thought that this odd act would enrage Augustus Pritchard, but, on be ing told of it, all he said was, 'Oh, well, I don't care what Turner does to the gate, so long as he doesn't paint it.'"

Colds. Every one knows when he contracts a cold on the chest. Not so with cold in the kidneys and bowels. The kidneys, however, are the weak point in many men and women nowadays, and they may be well protected by wearing a roll of white flannel, which should be about a foot wide and go twice around the waist for winter and once for summer. Try it, reader, if you have any tendency to bladder or kidney trouble.—

Exchange. A Mean Bank. "Madam, you've already overdrawn your account."

"What's that?" "You haven't any more money in the bank."

"The idea! A fine bank, I think, to be out of money because of the little I've drawn! Well, I'll go somewhere else."

A Philosopher.
Rivers—What do you do when you wake up in the night with jumping toothache? Brooks—I try to be thankful it isn't galloping consumption.

Special Sale Leather Goods

At this time of the year most wholesale houses are anxious to clear out their spring samples. Our past experience has taught us that we can get some tremendous bargains. Last year we bought about $300.00 worth of Purses, etc, from one house and we made a special sale of them in July. They turned out so well that we have this year tried it again and have just received a large ship-We bought them at a discount of 33 1/3%. We have marked them at about regular wholesale price, but for this week we are giving a discount of 25% on them.

The goods are shown in our King St Window and are as fine a lot of Leather Goods as we have ever shown.

DEMAND FOR ACTION

Col. Sam. Holmes points out that the boats sucking sand up the river should be compelled to put out buoys marking the spot. About three years ago three little lads lost their lives up the river by reason of the sandsuckers deepening the river where they had been accustomed to swim. The fatal accident last Thursday night when Miss Harris lost her life was undoubtedly due to the same cause, as Mr. Holmes' states that he saw a boat taking sand at the same spot only a short time ago. The Government, the County or the police should do something to protect the public. The fatality list so far totals four, and it looks as if this were bad enough for any Government to take action. If a man's life belongs to society the state should protect that life.

At the time the three boys were drowned, the coroner's jury advised that measures be taken to protect the spots dredged out or deepened but no attention was paid to the recommendation and the result was the fatal accident last Thursday night. We can look with horror on the rotten condition of the life preservers and the fire appliance on the General Slocum and we can hold up our hands in horror at the criminal negligence of American officials, while under our very noses just as bad a state of affairs exist evem if the death rate is in a much smaller scale.

By-laws to provide waterworks, purchase an electric light plant and build new granolithic walks were car-ried at Thamesville.

John Used to Get Angry.

At one time there was an English-man in India, John Nicholson, who in his own proper person was wor-shipped as a god in spite of his protest. Such a hold had his powerful personality taken upon the native mind that a strong sect of worshippers persisted in regarding him as a god. If, however, one of the Nikkasseyn fakirs so Tar lost control of himself as to offer worship to the diety in person Nicholson was in the habit of ordering him to receive a dozen lashes, a fact which did not in the least interfere with the worshippers' belief in his divinity.

When Nicholson was killed some of the worshippers slew themselves upon his tomb, but the remainder went over in a body to Christianity, saying, "Our god told us that he was but a man, and now we see that it was true. We wish, therefore, to be Christians as he was."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: -- I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often betall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. "Mr. Hobbs even offered to lend me noney if I needed it," he said after they had talked matters over, "and so you see, we have a good many friends in Sandgate after all. And now I want you to sing a few of the old songs for me, so that I can have them to think about when I am lonesome and home

But the singing was a failure, for Alice broke down in the middle of the first song, and they had to go out and watch the fireflies once more while she conquered her tears.

"You will write to me every day, won't you, Bertie?" she asked disconsolately as they waited the next morning for the train that was to separate them. "I shall be so lonesome and blue all the time!"

When he kissed her goodby she could not speak, and the last he saw as the train bore him away was that sweet sister's face trying bravely to smile through its tears, like the sun peeping out of a cloud.

CHAPTER IV.

F all the smooth, elusive vultures lurking in the shadow of the temple of justice or perching upon it Nicholas Frye, or "Old Nick," as many called him, was the most cunning. Nor did his looks belie the comparison, for he had deep set, shifty, yellow gray eyes, a hooked uose, and his thin locks, dyed jet black, formed a ring about his bald poll. He walked with a stoop, as if scanning the ground for evidence or clews, and to add to his marked individuality when be talked he rubbed his hands together as though washing them with invisible soap. It was not from any sense of cleanliness that he did this, for they had many times been soiled willingly in the most nefarious transactions. client was to him a victim to be kept in waiting, exasperated in regard to his grievances by all possible means, de-luded as to his chances of success in quest of justice, deceived as to its cost and robbed in every way known to an astute lawyer.

He had been the legal adviser of John Nason for many years, and when that busy merchant came to him on behalf of his son, who wanted to find a position for Albert Page, Frye readily promised to give him employment. It was not because he needed hime but because he saw at once that through some friendship for this young sprig of the law, as he intuitively considered Albert to be, he could strengthen his hold upon the father and obtain some secrets that might eventually be used to rob him. In plain words, he thought to use this young country lawyer as a spy. He knew that John Nason felt a keen interest in his only son Frank, and that was another reason for employing that son's friend. He knew also that Frank was given a liberal allowance, spent it rapidly and most likely would be getting into various scrapes needing a lawyer's efforts to rescue him, and so he would have fur-ther pickings in that direction. These were two good reasons for his ostensi-ble acts of kindness, and so he at once sent for Page to come.

When, the morning after his arrival in Boston, Albert presented himself at Frye's office, he found that lawyer busy reading his mail.

"Take a seat, sir," said Frye politely, after Albert had introduced himself, "and excuse me until I go through my letters." And then for a long half hour Albert was left to study the bare office walls and peculiar looks of his future employer. Finally Frye turned to him and asked rather abruptly, "Well, Mr. Page, what do you know about law?" at the same time scanning him as if expecting to see hayseed adbering to his garments.

"Not much perhaps," replied Albert modestly, uncertain of his ground. "I have been in practice only a year at Sandgate, and the few people there do not have much use for a lawyer."

"Then why didn't you stir 'em up a little and bring 'em to see they needed your services?" was Frye's next query. "You will never succeed as a lawyer unless you make business. Did you bring your sheepskin with you?"

"No, sir," answered Page. "I didn't think it necessary after what I wrote you. I have it in my trünk."

"Well, bring it tomorrow," said Frye.
"I make it a rule to take nothing for "I make it a rule to take actining for granted and have everything in writing." And then he added, with a searching look, as if he was about to utter a crusher, "What is your idea of a lawyer's chief object in existence?" Page was a little nonplused. "Oh, I suppose," he replied slowly, "to see that laws are properly executed and justice done.' Frye looked at him a full minuté without making any further comment, while a sardonic grin gradually drew his lips apart, showing a full set of false teeth, and then, as he began rubbing his hands together, he said:

"It's evident, young man, you have much to learn in your profession. Laws are made for lawyers and are the tools of our trade. If the world does not see fit to use those tools, it is our business to make them, and, as for justice, that is an allegery, useful in addressing a jury, but considered a fable by the judge. Laws are useful to oppose oth-case and hinder your opponent's.

"You seem an honest appearing young man, which is well so far as our relations go, but no further. I want an assistant, one who is ready and willing to do just as I direct and to ask no questions. Do you think you can fill the bill?"

"I can try," replied Albert quietly, "and as soon as I get used to your methods of procedure here I think I can succeed.

He was a little startled at the peculfar character of his employer and in a way slightly disgusted, but he was not in a position to cavil or feel squeamish over apparent lack of honesty and resolved at once to ignore it. "What do you wish me to do?" he continued after a moment. "I will do the best I can for you and am ready to go to work now."

"You are to be at the office at 8

e'clock sharp," replied Frye, "take one hour for lunch and remain till 6." Then he added by way of a spur to his slave's fidelity: "I am paying you $75 a month on the recommend of an important client of mine who wanted to humor his son. It was your good luck to have this son's friendship, as he belongs to a wealthy family. He no matter and all the better for us you can. It may be the means of bringing us more business. What I say to you I shall expect you to consider a professional secret, and I hope you will make good use of your time when with this young friend of yours and heed well what I have said to was set at work copying legal docu-ments and at the same time trying to reconcile himself to his new surround ings. That night he wrote to Alice:

"I have hired out to a most unmitigated old scoundrel and yet one of the sharpest lawyers I ever met. He assured me I must lay aside my con-science if I mean to succeed, and hinted that he might use me later on as a sort of spy, upon Frank, I imagine. He employs a stenographer of uncertain age, who comes in and takes dictation and does her work outside. The only stupid thing he has said was to warn me not to flirt with her." Then he wrote to his friend Frank, telling him where he was located, thanking him for his assistance and begging him to call at an early date.

After that he smoked for an hour in glum silence. His room was small and cheerless and in comparison with his home quarters a mere den. But it was a question of saving, and the lux-ury of space even he could not afford. There is no more lonesome place in the wide world than a great city to one born and bred amid the freedom of the wide fields and extended woodlands, as Albert had been, and now that he was shut in by brick walls all day and imprisoned in one small room at night, with a solitary window epening on an area devoted to ash barrels and garbage, it made him homesick. He was a dreamer by nature and loved the music of running brooks, the rustling of winds in the forest and the song of birds. The grand old mountains that surrounded Sandgate had been the delight of his boyhood, and to fish in the clear streams that tumbled down through narrow gorges and wound amid wide meadows or in the ily dotted millpond his pastime. He had the artist's nature in him also and loved dearly to sketch a pretty bit of natural scenery, a cascade in the brook or a shady grotto in the woods. He loved books, flowers, music, green meadows, shady woods and fields white with daisies. He had been reared among kind hearted, honest, God fearing people who seldom locked their doors at night and who believed in and lived by the Golden Rule. The selfish and distrustful life of a great city, with its arrogance and wealth and vanity of display, was not akin to him, and to put himself at the beck and call of a mercenary and utterly unscrupulous old villain, as he believed Frye to be, was gall and bitterness. For two weeks he worked patiently, hoping each day that the one and only friend the city held for him would call, passing his evenings, as he wrote Alice, "in reading, smoking and hating myself a little and Frye a good deal."

He had hesitated to write Frank in the first place, disliking to ask favors, but it could not be helped, and now he began to feel that his friend meant to ignore him. This humiliating conclusion was growing to a certainty and Albert feeling more homesick than ever when one afternoon while he was, as usual, hard at work in Frye's office

Frank came in.
"Pray excuse me, old man," remarked that youth briskly after the first greetings, "for not calling sooner, but I was off on my yacht about the time you came, and then I ran down to New York to take in the cup races. You see, I'm so busy I do not get any time to myself. I want you to come over to the club and lunch with me today, and we can talk matters over."

"You will kindly excuse me," replied Albert. "I have a lot of work cut out and am only allowed one hour for lunch. Can't you come around to my room tonight and have a smoke talk? "Maybe," replied Frank, "and we can go around to the club later. You will meet some good fellows there, and small limit, you know. Say, old man," he added interestedly, "how do you like Frye?" As that worthy happened to be out chance to exchange opinions. Albert's is already known, but, for reasons, he did not care to express it to Frank at this time. "Frye is a shrewd lawyer, I presume," he answered, "and so far I have no fault to find. He takes good care to see I have work enough, but that is what I am hired for, and I have been rather lonesome and glad of it.

Then to change the subject he added: "I want to thank you once more, Frank, for getting me the place. Things were in a bad way at home, and I needed it."

"You may thank dad, not me," replied Frank. "I was just going off on a trip when your letter came, and I turned the matter over to him. Frye's his attorney, you see."

"Are you personally well acquainted with Mr. Frye?" asked Albert, having an object in mine

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.) (From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)
In the first opening of Oklahoms to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race ome fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case become so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few ninutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the pa-tient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by All Druggists.

Eggs Without Fowls.

A lady in a village school was about to give a lesson on our domestic fowls, and, by way of pre-liminary, she asked (addressing one little lad):

"Your mother cannot get eggs without she keeps fowls, eh? "Yes, mum, she can," said the boy.

"Oh, indeed! How?"

"Why, she keeps ducks, mum!" HURRIED AND WORRIED ALL DAY.

And the worst of it is you are title run down and have mighty little chance to catch up. Everything seems like a grindstone wearing down your nerves. You are irritable and get less sleep than is absolutely neces-sary. Better stop before things get sary. Better stop before things get worse. Your best plan is to use Fer-rozone for a while and give your nerves and brain a chance to pick up, Ferrozone is the finest tonic a busy man can take. It makes new blood, nourishes the body, strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite and re-habilitates the whole system. Try-Ferrozone. Price 50c.

TRAINING DAUGHTERS.

Teach the Girls to Recognize the Scholarship is a purpose commonly held in the school and college for boys Although not one boy in a thousand will become a scholar, yet it is well that the purpose is general. If one boy in a thousand becomes a scholar, one girl in ten thousand becomes a scholar, scholar. Small is the chance that my boy will become a scholar, and so infinitesimal is the chance that my daughter will become a scholar that I have the right, and perhaps am bound by the duty, of eliminating it from my calculations. But if my daughter can-not become a scholar there is one thing which my daughter may become—she may become a thinker. It is as much more important as it is more probable, for the opportunities for the use of scholarship are few, sporadic, but the opportunities for the use of the power of thinking are constant. In no better way can I prepare my daughter to undertake the joys and responsibilities of the headship of a home, either for herself alone or for herself in combination with others, than by making her a thinker. The appreciation of others' needs is most readily secured by think-Wise thoughtfulness saves or helps to save one from selfishness. Effective economy or economic efficiency is the result of discrimination, and discrimination is a form of thinking. Attention to details is primarily an intellectual quality. The largeness of conception which my daughter should embody in her life in the home represents the power of thought. Therefore I wish

Artistically Done, It Will Add to the Draperies play an extensive part in decoration, and often the most inexpensive materials carefully disposed are exceedingly effective. An artistically draped door will often change the whole character of a room. The illustration shows an effective treatment in this line. Over the door are a canopy and a rail, which are easily put up and which a few pieces of pottery ornament. The door draperies start from under the canopy, which hides the brass rod they hang from. The top drapery should consist of some soft material in a shade harmonizing with the walls. The undercurtain drapery is art linen looped back with cord and tassels. A stand, bearing a palm placed near the door, is a prefty finishing touch.

Fan Wall Pockets.

A very handy thing is a wall pocket for letters and small articles, and it can be made very attractive by using one large and one small folding fan. A wire is run in and out through the large open fan one inch from the edge and covered with narrow ribbon, which is slipped through the same holes. The small fan is treated in the same way. mail ran is treated in the same way. The small fan is then placed upon the large one and the ends firmly wired together. The wire near the edge of the small fan is bent to allow the fan to form a curved pocket, and the ends are fastened to the sticks of the large fan, which forms the back. Ribbon bows are fastened over the joinings at the sides, and a length of ribbon extends from one to the other and a little above the top of the back to hang it by. A large bow conceals the fastening at the lower point of the pocket.

The Girl Who is Leved.

Her features may or may not be good, her complexion perhaps leaves something to be desired, but her sweet, true eyes and her kindly heart make her friends forget any physical short comings that she may have, and wherever she goes she is as welcome as the sunshine. Her charm is in her freshness and her naturalness. She is sweet and wholesome herself, and, being that, she is on the lookout for the good that is in the world. Seehow she always finds it. People seem to be at their best in her presence, and, though she knows that the world has its ugly, seamy side, she escapes personal con tact with it. She is simple and hom est, and people who are tired of the shams and hollowness of society delight in her.

A Laundry Suggestion.
In ironing, the laundress should be instructed to hang upon one side of the clotheshorse only such articles as can be put away immediately after airing. By separating those which need a stitch or button the work of search-ing through the clothesbasket and the tumbling of the treshly laundered Sign of Big Clock, Chatham pieces are avoided.

Yang, July 10, via Seoul, July 11.—For the first time during the war, newsrang, July 10, via Seoul, July 11.—For the first time during the war, newspaper correspondents and military attaches have been permitted to accompany the Japanese troops on an advance, instead of remaining behind with the headquarters of General Kuroki. Almost all the correspondents are now attached to the staffs of the division generals, and although they are not on the fighting line, they now witness the operations from a closer range than heretofore.

Lieut-General Ian Hamilton, one of the British attaches, travels with General Kuroki. Col. Hume, another British attache, and Col. E. H. Crowder, of the general staff of the American army, are to go with the western column, while Captain P. C. March, of the artillery corps, U. S. A., is to travel with the eastern column. The country throughout which the army is advancing is a succession of ranges of closely wooded hills with narrow country throughout which the army is advancing is a succession of ranges of closely wooded hills, with narrow valleys between them. The valleys are sown with corn and beans, and are traversed by many streams. The roads are winding and rocky. There are many steep passes, and the engineers are required to do much building. The Russian force on the Pekin road before Mo Tien Pass consisted ing. The Russian force on the Pekin road before Mo Tien Pass consisted of two regiments of East Siberian infantry, with four guns and an outpost of 300 cavalry. There was a succession of fresh graves, each surmounted by a wooden cross, upon which had been pencilled hastily the name of the buried man, marking the line of the Russian troops. Sunday was op-pressively hot, but the army on the Pekin road camped in shadeless and sandy fields. The soldiers improvised shelters of boughs and corn stalks, but still they suffered much from the

There were few tents, and the men hudded under trees or built shelters on the banks of the river; but most of them slept in 'the fields with little to protect them from the rain. To-day, Tuesday, it is still raining, but the army is on the march. The men dripning wet plodding steadily on army is on the mater. The met dripping wet, plodding steadily on through the deep mud. Neither sun nor rain affects the army of the Japanese soldiers, who are in fine condition, confident of victory, and keen to tion, confident of victory, and keen to meet the enemy. The men are wonderfully hardy, and there is remarkably little straggling or dropping out of lines. The Chinese in this region complain that the Russians confiscated all their grain and provisions, and they are now helping the Japanese in all possible ways.

The pitching of Emery for the home

ABOUT ROY MILLER.

Roy Miller, of this city, who is playing with the Crookston baseball team, out west, is evidently pretty much the whole thing, from the newspaper accounts. Here are a couple of clippings from the account of a Crookston and Winnipeg game—

Pitcher Miller was an enigma too deep for the locals to solve, but the brace of tallies scored in each of the before mentioned periods, were big. After the third, the Maroons swung their clubs fruitlessly, and only twice did a man get to the first stopping place, once on an error and the other occasion on Miller's only compliment-

His best efforts was a clean four-sacker in the 7th which happened fortunately with no one on the paths. It was undoubtedly the longest drive ever seen on the home grounds, going clear to the potatoe patch, back of deep centre.

THE BIG GAME TO-MORROW.

THE BIG GAME TO-MORROW.

The Tecumsehs had their last workout yesterday afternoon and are resting quietly to-day for the big game at St. Thomas to-morrow. Every man is in the pink of condition and if they don't win to-morrow it will be because they are up against a better team. Manager Babcock returned from the East yesterday and at once, accompanied by Treas. McCoig, visited the grounds, where the boys were practising and both kept a sharp eye on every movement and will to-night pick the team and will probably decide the championship of this district. Grace received a bad clip on the arm from Pickering's stick, but will be in the game all right.
