PENITENTIARY, 7 YEARS

Long Senterce Imposed on 13-Year-Old Josie Carr.

Little Girl, Admits With Broken Voice and Tears In Her Eyes, That She Killed the Baby-Judge MacMahon, After Much Thought and Consultation, Passed Sentence - Sentences of Other Prisoners.

Toronto, Nov. 6 .- Seven years in the penitentiary was the sentence passed on Josie Carr Saturday morning by Justice MacMahon. When the little girl, who is now only

When the little girl, who is now only 13 years and 4 months old, stood up in the deck to reply to his lordship's question: "Have you anything to say?" she showed more feeling than she did at any of her previous appearances in In a broken voice, with tears in her eyes, she said:

"I plead guilty to killing the baby.
My brother said he would tell my father, and I did not want them to

I thought it advisable to do that before reaching a conclusion as to her destination. I do not doubt that, in her case, the desire to obtain money or properly that was not her own was the first instigation to taking this perambulator with the child in it. Perhaps she had no idea when she took the baby carriage of making away with the child. Perhaps that is the more lenient view to take of her case. And for that reason it was, no doubt, that the grand jury thought proper to return a verdict of manslaughter.

A Bad Influence.

"Had they concluded on the evidence obring in a true bill for a higher offence, for murder, perhaps upon inves-tigation of the case the conclusion might have been reached by a petty jury that she was guilty of the higher crime. However, she has pleaded guilty to the other charge. I am not dealing with sentiment, I cannot deal with sentiment in these cases. Now, taking into consideration the plea of the prisoner, my duty is to see what is best to be done for her, because it is quite apparent that she has been for years under influences which were any-thing but uplifting. Thy have drawn her, dragged her down, until she is in her present deplorable position, a girl of only 12 years and a few months, a terrible position for any girl to occupy.

"My duty is to see if after all these years of dragging down there can be found some means of uplifting her and placing her where she can begin again to learn how to take her proper place in society and among the com

"The choice of where she is to go and what surveillance she may be kept under is a matter of deep moment, and after serious consideration I think in view of the experience Mr. Archibald (Dominion parole officer) has had as a nan long connected with the courts here and a trusted officer of them, and a man who is properly appointed to the position which he now occupies, it would be in her interest to send her where Mr. Archibald has the power, one may say in a great measure, of one may say in a great measure, of seeing that prisoners are paroled, and when she reaches the age of 21 years under the sentence I propose imposing she will be absolutely liberated from the penitentiary, and if her conduct is such that the parole officer thinks that it would be in her interest that she should be paroled I have no doubt that he would take the earliest possible opportunity to see that she is removed far from any circumisances here to far from any circumstances here to where she might regain the tone of mind which I suppose she had when a much smaller child than now."

THE BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY

Rev. W. T. Graham of Sarnia Gives Two Excellent Discourses

Services were most Successful and was Very Large y Attenced-Excellent Music

Anniversary services were held in the Wm. St. Baptist Church yester-day, and Rev. W. T. Graham, of Sar-nia, was the special preacher for the day. Mr. Graham announced at the morning service that he once lived in Chatham and attended the Church Chatham and attended the church-and Sunday school of this church-in which he was preaching yes-terday, and it gave him great pleas-ure to be present on this anniversary

Mr. Graham is a preacher of great power and gave two strong sermons which were much appreciated by the congregations gathered to listen to which were much appreciated by the congregations gathered to listen to him. In the morning he took four texts of Scripture as found in John 14, 9: 19, 5: 1, 4: and I. Pet., 2,21; and from these he built a strong superstructure on the revelations of God. The preacher said that personality is the sovereign element of his tory. There are some who place Christ on the same level as Buddha, Confucius, Mohammet and other, founders of religion, but Christ has a personality which differentiates from these men. You can't take Christ pat of Christianity and have much of a religion left. Other founders of religious systems have a remuch of a religion left. Other bounds ers of religious systems have a religion like a brush heap, but Christ's religion is like a beautiful tree, all the parts of which form a unit. All the claims of Christ are in perfect harmony with His personality and there is no incongruity between

The preacher then went on to deal with the claims of Christ made in selected texts, and said that Jesus revealed God by what He said and by what He was, and that He not only revealed God but He was the revelation of man. Christ was also the life and He brings us in touch with

Referring to the last text, the speaker said that Jesus is an example of conduct for Hr tabernacled among us to show us how to live. To live a Christian life is to live as Jesus liv-ed and there should be no doubt as to a Christian's attitude towards the so-called popular amusements of to-day. The preacher closed with an earnest appeal for a deeper spiritual

At the evening service Mr. Graham At the evening service Mr. Grundm preached another strong sermon on "The Cross of Christ, basing his remarks on Gal. 6, 14—"God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of Jesus Christ." The preacher spoke first of persons, places and things. Golgotha, he said, has become a dear place to us because it reminds us of Calvary, dark Calvary. Take Paul—his influence lives in the lives of millions and shall continue to live until time shall be no more. Paul glorified in the cross because it was the greatest manifestation of God's love or benevolence, but the cross does. He glories in the cross because of the self-sarrifice it expresses and because it was to him the only way back to God. The cross brings Saul of Tarsus back to God on the way to Damascus. Some people have a great reached another strong sermon or of Tarsus back to God on the way to Damasous. Some people have a great many ways to get back to God, but if we come by morality, self-righteous-ness, or any other way than by the cross, we are not brought back to God. Paul gloried in the cross be-cause it was the only hope of the world. If the world is to be saved world. If the world is to be saved from corruption, political, municipal or corporative, it must be saved by the cross of Christ.

The music for the day was of a high order. The anthems sung by the choir, under Mr. John Reeve's directorship, were well rendered and a duett by Mrs. J. E. Oldershaw and Miss Richards, and a solo by Miss Richards were greatly enjoyed.

The pulpit was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and ferna and reflected much credit on the Kills Family With an Axe, But Says He Did It So as to Cause Them as Little Suffering as Possible-Posted Notice on Front Door and Then Killed Himself With a Razor -Discovered by Brother.

Hamilton, Nov. 6.-Philander C. Burkholder, dead on the floor of his bedroom, with his head half severed from his body by razor strokes; his wife, Emma M. Burkholder, dead in bed in the same room, with a fractured head, caused by blows from an axe, and two wounds in the head besides, their seven weeks old baby dead in its mother's arms, also with cuts and a fractured head—this was the ghastly scene which presented to Frank Burkholder, a brother of Philander, when he entered the latter's home in Saltfleet township about 9 clock on Saturday morning. The scene was a farm house about three-quarters of a mile from the village of Tapleytown mile from the village of Tapleytown, and eleven miles from this city. Evidence was soon discovered to show that Philander Burkholder had committed a double murder, then committed suicide.

Note Stuck on the Door.

Frank Burkholder was plowing in a field near his brother's home and happened to notice a paper stuck on the door of the porch near the kitchen. Thinking that Philander had gone to the city and likely wanted some chores done for him, he went over the house to see the note. He was shocked to read the following on a piece of paper, which had evidently been torn out of an account book, and stuck on the door by two table forks:-

"We are all dead inside. Go in with care, for upstairs in our bedroom you will see an awful sight. Nerve yourselves to look on it. Good-bye all." There was no signature to the note.
On the bottom margin were the additional words, "On the table you will find the reasons for this crime."
Frank nerved himself and went into the house. Upstairs he made the terri ble discovery mentioned. The wife and child were covered with a quilt, and the baby's head was nestled in close to the mother, her arm being around it, as if she had tried to shield it from the cruel fate which overtook them both.

Accuses His Wife.
The confession that Burkholder left in the note read:
"Dear Friends.—I have committed a fearful deed, but it seems the only way out of a bad Job. It appears, as near as I can learn from my wife, that some man came to the house last winter when I was away, and took advantage of the control of th tage of her. She made me the confession, and then we decided, rather than sion, and then we decided, rainer than disgrace our friends and relatives. I was to kill them and myself. It was an awful deed, but I said I thought I could do ft; but, thank God Almighty, I don't want the job again. I have asked God, through Jesus Christ, t

I nerved myself, and said, 'Don' be the coward now, and back out.' So I got in bed and drew the razor hard across my throat, first saying. 'God Almighty, have mercy, through Jesus bye, everybody, and tell my poor old mother not to fret over it, because God will forgive me under the circum-

"I leave all my property, after we are buried, to my brother Frank. He is to pay off all my debts and try and pay for the place. Good-bye, Frank and father and mother, for you have taught me the ways of truth and righteousness all my days."

Married 15 Months.

The epistle is looked upon as the work of a madman, and there appears to be very little doubt that he was temporarily insane. Friday night he had visited his parents' home, but they did not notice anything peculiar in his actions. It is supposed he re-turned home, quarrelled with his wife and then committed the crime. It is and then committed the crime. It is believed that it happened about 1 o'clock at night. It is known that Burkholder was very jealous of his wife, though he used her well, except in his fits of temper he sometimes taunted her about her baby. They had taunted her about her baby. They had been married only about a year and three months. The husband was 40 years of age and the wife was 32. Two weeks ago Mrs. Burkholder visited her brother, David New. He came for her before she was ready to go home, but he insisted upon her going with him The inquest will be held next Wednesday evening.

THE RIDGETOWN DOMINION.

"The press is not only free, it is powerful. That power is ours. It is the proudest that man can enjoy. It not granted by monarchs; it is not gained for us by aristocracies, but it sprang from the people, and, with an immortal instinct, it has always worked for the people."—Disraeli.

Very heartily does The Planet extend congratulations to its esteemed contemporary, The Ridgetown Dominion, which, with last week's issue, turned the tenth annual milestone in a vigorous and successful history.

The Dominion's success is deserved. It is an exponent of the highest and best ideals of Canadian journalism -forceful, clean, able and enterprising. It covers the newspaper field in a way few other weekly journals attempt, and every home in Kent County would appreciate it as a regular visitor.

The policy of The Dominion is the policy of the people. It has ever stood stalwartly for the public weal and the prosperity of the people. Conservative in name, it is radical in pronouncement-a vigorous exponent of "the square deal" for everyone. Behind The Dominion is the strong, advanced and conscientious personality of its able and esteemed editor-and few men have more earnestly consecrated their efforts to the duties of public service.

The Planet extends cordial and congratulatory greetings to its esteemed contemporary. May it experience many another decade of growing prosperity and valued influence for good!

"LONELY O'MALLEY."

The many who read the charmingly written glimpse of boy life from the talented pen of Mr. Arthur Stringer, which appeared in The Planet Old Boys' Souvenir last year, will be delighted to learn that his new book on boydom has just issued from the publishers 4 Mr. Stringer is surely at his best in depicting child life. Lonely O'Malley, a typical boy of big ideas and many escapades, is a wonderfully real and human production-and the delightfully-told tale of his ambitions fears, comradeships and associations will hold the intense interest of the reader from cover to cover. Moreover, the scene of Lonely's checkered career is laid in Chatham, and his experiences at the swimming place, on the river and about town will awaken sympathetic memories within many an Old Boy, and prove an inspiration to the lads of to-day. Lonely is by no means a model boy -far from it. He carries a strong storeage of dynamic deviltry; but, be hind it all, is the stuff of which heroes are made, Lonely is well worth studying. Mr. Stringer is to be cordially congratulated 'on this splendid work. Excellent as was "The Silver Poppy," there is a depth, an insight in-

Port Sudan, Egypt's New Port, Just Built Up Out of Coral Rock and Desert Sand.

The unsatisfactory port of Suakin will be superseded this month, says The London Post, by a brand new rival on the Red Sea, which has been built up out of coral rock and desert sand by the Egyptian authorities with the short space of nine months. Port Sudan, the latest addition to the cities of the Empire (and destined to be a place of magnitude and importance, in place of magnitude and importance, in the days when cotton shall have made it the New Orleans of the East) was, until last January and is now on all the maps, called Mersa Shelkh Barud. To mariners it was a little khor, or harbor, given on their charts of that sea-board, but never used.

Suakin has long been considered a port of dangerous approach by naviga-tors. A long, 40 mile channel leads to it, full of awkward coral. But for some time past the Government has been pushing forward the construction of the Sudan-Berbera Railway, which runs down to Suakin, and the consequently heavy shipments to the latter port, and ensuing groundings, opened the eyes of the authorities to the fact that when the Sudan was actually a territory of commercial importance Suakin would be no place to deal with the produce on the seaboard. Its accommodation was too bad.

In January last H M S Sealark va sent to survey the whole coast, and to report on possible sites with a view to a port which could replace and bette Suakin. In the same month Sir William Garstin visited Sheikh Barud, and his advice led to that site being decided upon to make a new place on the

It is more than likely that Port Sudan as it will now be known) will be offi-cially opened by the Khedive and Lord Cromer early in November. It is about 680 miles south of Suez, and is cap-able of holding a dozen vessels of moderate size. The entrance is 600 fee across, and divides into two channels of good depth. The land round it is about six feet above sea level—quite a considerable elevation for that flat sea board—and forming an admirable base for wharves. Moreover, it is sure to be in the very near future (cotton or none) a coaling station of considerable importance and one now greatly needed, for at present there is none be reu, for at present there is none between Perim and Suez, a distance of 1,300 miles. But beyond all its advantages it has a good supply of free water. The supply at Suakin is not only small but bad.

· The Soudan Government is building substantial warehouses, a quarantine station, a hospital, and a number of offices, so that, approaching the new harbor from seaward, it already bears the appearance of a place of activity and trade. As evidence that the Govrnment expect great things of the Sou-lan, when the railway is completed and the plantations have proceeded beyond the experimental stage, it should be noted that last May tenders were invited for a powerful light to be con-structed at Port Sudan, which should show an occulting beam for a distance of 24 miles. It will be erected on Sanganeb Reef, which is east of the port by 13 miles, and near it will be located a pilot station. Further, the Sudan Railway has been de/lected to Port Sudan, and is now on the outskirts of that town, which now has more than 2,000 inhabitants, quite a third of the present population of the port it will shortly supersede. The old port of Suakin will receive its last shipment this month, and after that the place which was so much in the world's eye during the Soudan war will drop out of FRIVOLITY IN ENGLAND. Claim That It Is What Really Keeps the Nation Sane.

Which is worse-to be too serious or too frivolous? I have no doubt about the matter myself, so far as individuals are concerned, though all extremists are bores. The perpetually lively, feather brained, pleasure crazed creature is almost, if not quite, as irritating as the deadly serious individual. But, apropos of the accusation recently lodged against us that as a nation we becoming too frivolous, one cannot help saying that we are a great deal livelier than we were a few years ago, and for this relief assuredly we have cause to be thankful.

In consequence we are accused of having become too frivolous. It seems to me that we have just got matters nicely balanced. This is an age when we are prepared to be cranks on the slightest provocation. People crave for missions, they wallow in philanthropy, they pounce with avidity on new re-ligions, they will plunge into politics or write attacks on women, society, the degeneracy of the age, or anything else that gives them an opportunity of airing what they call their views. So surely, if desipere in loco were not oc-casionally to be permitted to us, it is fearful to think what we should become. Our frivolity is the antidote to the twentieth century disposition to-ward crankiness. It really keeps us sane.-London World.

KIDNEY DISEASE AND ITS DANGERS CAN BE

QUICKLY CURED

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Kidney disease comes on quietly, it may have been in the system for a long time before you suspected the real cause of your trouble. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as, brick dust deposit in urine, higly colored, scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent urination, stone in bladder, etc.

Perhaps you did not know that these were symptoms of kidney disease, so the trouble kept growing worse, until Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Dropsy, and worst of all, Bright's Disease have taken hold of your system.

Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken at the first sign of anything wrong. There is no other safe way, (plasters and liniments are useless), as the trouble must be eradicated from the system.

Doan's Kidney Pills go to the seat of the trouble, strengthen the kidneys, and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble. Mr. Thomas Mayhew, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes: "For over four months I was troubled with my kidneys, and my back got so lame I felt miserable all over. After taking five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was as well as ever."

THE HEROES OF 1812,

United Empire Loyalist Association Asks For Monumental Recognition of Macdonell and Tecumseh. To the Ontario Government the United Empire Loyalist Association commends the patriotic duty of ren-dering provincial honors to the memory of Macdonell and of Tecumseh, heroes of the War of 1812. In resolutions adopted on the 93rd anniversary of the Battle of Queenston Heights, the association rehearses from the public chronicles the services of these defenders of Upper Canada, and calls upon the Government to raise fitting monuments to them. It is a reproach to the province that after the lapse of almost a century it has to be remin almost a century it has to be relimited that this office of gratitude has yet to be performed. Inscriptions in brass or marble are not required to make the fame of the young Attorney-General of Upper Canada or the great Shawnee Upper Canada or the great Shawnee chief enduring. The names of both are fixed imperishably in our history. But the more that great men and great deeds impress themselves upon the country's annals, the more binding is the obligation upon the state to show suitable tokens that it holds them in honored remembrance. To do so is agreeable both to the sentiment of patriotism and to the dictates of sound policy. Rear memorials to the men who fell fighting for their country, and the youth of the land will be more likely outh of the land will be more likely

Lieut.-Col. Macdonell.

Lieut.-Col. Macdonell was of the fa-mous Glengarry family of his name, which has given so many of its memwhich has given so many of its mem-bers to the service of the country. Though only 25 years of age when the war broke out, he was then Attorney-General of Upper Canada, holding his seat in the House as member for Glenseat in the House as member for Glengarry. He was selected by Brock as provincial aide-de-camp. Before going into the action in which he lost his life at Queenston Heights Lieut. Col. Macdonell made his will in favor of his god-child. Mr. John A. Macdonell, of Alexandria, has the gold medical that he will be compared to the compared to the second sec donell, of Alexandria, has the gott med-al sent by King George III. to com-memorate the capture of Detroit. It was by Lieut.-Col. Macdonell and Capt. Clegg that Brock's demand for the surrender of Detroit was borne to Gen. Hull. Hull refused to see the officers, but after the attack was begun he sent a flag of truce and an offer to yield. Macdonell and Clegg went back to Fort Detroit with Hull's messenger and there Macdonell drew up the ar-ticles of capitulation.

Queenston Heights. Richardson who himself fought in the war and is its historian, renders one tribute to the gallantry of Mac-donell. Gen. Robinson's recently-issued "Life of Sir John Beverley Robinson" contains an account of the engagement at Queenston Heights, which Sir John who took part in that fight, himself wrote. It contains this passage:

"Lieut.-Col. Macdonell was mounted and animating his men to charge.

* * The enemy were just in front.
covered by bushes and logs. They were in no kind of order, and were three or four hundred in number. They perceived us forming, and at about thirty yards distance fired. Lieut.-Col. Macdonell, who was on the left of our party, calling upon us to advance, re-ceived a shot in his body and fell. His ceived a shot in his body and fell. His horse was at the same instant killed. Capt. Williams, who was at the other extremity of our little band, fell the next moment, apparently dead. The remainder of our men advanced a few paces, discharged their pieces, and then retired down the mountain. Lieut. McLean was wounded in the thigh. Capt. Cameron, in his attempt to save Col. Macdonell, was exposed to a shower of musketry, but most miraculously escaped. He succeeded in carrying off his friend."

He lies by the side of his brave leader under the Brock monument.

Tecumseh. Of Tecumseh's exploits against or Tecumser's exploits against the troops of the United States, of his assistance to Proctor at Detroit, of his differences with that general, and of his death at Moraviantown, it is unnecessary to remind readers of Canadian history. He was the greatest of the red men who ever came in con-tact with the white race. Loyalty to his people and his statesmanlike scheme for uniting and preserving them and securing a territ pendence for them brought him into finally into alliance with King George.
Richardson has this to say of him;

"Ever merciful and magnanimous as he was ardent and courageous, the voice of the supplicant seldom reached him in vain; and although war was his idol, the element in which he lived, his heart was formed to glow with all the nobler and more generous impulses of nobler and more generous impulses of the warrior; nor was his high charac-ter less esteemed by ourselves than reverenced by the various tribes over which, in his quality of brother to the Prophet, he invariably presided. In any other country and governing any other men, Tecumseh would have been a hero; at the head of this un-civilized and untractable people he was a savage; but such a savage as was a savage; but such a savage as civilization might not blush to acknowledge for his child."

In Osgoode Hall, Toronto, there is a brass tablet to the memory of Lieut.-Col. Macdonell. Brass tablets would scarcely be adequate memorials to such men by a province like Ontario. Something more conspicuous that will attract the notice of all who resort to the historic scenes on which Macdon. the historic scenes on which Macdo ell and Tecumseh acted is required.

How to Walk Upstairs. "There are but few persons who know how to walk upstairs properly," said a well-known physician. "Usual-ly a person will tread on the ball of ly a person will tread on the ball of his foot in taking each step, springing himself up to the next step. This is very tiresome and wearing on the muscles, as it throws the entire suspended weight of the body on the muscles of the legs and feet. You should in walking or climbing stairs seek for the most equal distribution of the body's weight possible. In walking up stairs your feet should be placed squarely down on the step, heel and all, and then the work should be performed slowly and deliberately. In this way there is no strain upon any particular muscle, but each one is doing its duty in a natural manner. The man who goes upstairs with a springing step you may be sure is an ophiloman who goes upstairs with a spring-ing step you may be sure is no philo-sopher, or at least his reasoning has not been directed to that subject."

THE HOODED COBRA.

It Is Venerated In India as the One

Of all the snakes of India the naga, nag or hooded serpent, commonly known as the cobra, alone is sacred. It is called the good snake, and is considered a protector and harbinger of success. The veneration of the cobra is intimately connected with the worship of the sun, and is thus closely related to the orthodox Hindoo religio According to the Mahabharata, the heaven over which India ruled was mainly tenanted by Devas and Nagas. the former being deified heroes of the Aryas and the latter those of the Naga

Although wars continued for a long time to be frequent between rival chiefs of the invaders (Aryas) and the invaded (Nagas), a gradual fusion between the two peoples took place, and heaven was shared equally by Devas and Nagas. The serpent gods are worshiped now, as they were then, not as dangerous reptiles, nor as mere symbols, but as the deified rulers of an ancient people, whose tribal, or, rather perhaps, racial, emblem was the naga or hooded serpent, and whose chies deity was the sun; hence the Naga temples are not dedicated to the serpent, but to the Naga rajahs, the ancient rulers of the race.

Reginald McMichael Ends Life By Bullet In Toronto.

Bullet in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—With a revolver clutched in his right hand, and a bullet wound in the right temple, indicating clearly the cause of death, Reginald McMichael was found yesterday afternoon in his room at the Walker House. The body reclined upon the left side, and was in sleeping attire, but it was evident that the bed had not been slept in, as the covers were in no way disarranged. From the revolver there still depended the price ticket, which would seem to show that the weapon—38 calibre—was purchased with suicidal linent.

The chief coroner, who was at once called, and who promptly responded, decided that an inquest would not be necessary, as letters contained in the dead man's clothing made it clear that he had been receiving treatment for a mental ailment, and had been in Buffalo last week for that purpose. The young man, who was only 29 years of age, was a son of W. Mc-Michael of 101 St. George street, chief inspector of customs here. Deceased was employed in the local inspection breaches.

Rev. W. L. Routledge gave an interesting resume of a sermon from Hebrews 2, 70, which was followed by a profitable discussion.

Several matters were discussed, among which was the question of parents allowing their children to run from one Sunday school to another. In the opinion of the members of this Association it would greatly aid in the moral training and religious education of boys and girls if they were encouraged by their parents to attend the school of their own church so far as possible.

The next meeting will be held at Holy Trinity rectory, when Rev. J. W. Hodgins will give a sermon outine for discussion and groanings by which they apparsummond the dead to their dark ently summond the dead to their dark panelled rooms and compel them to speak to their insane victims. It is found in the ridiculous photography in which the dupes of spiritualistic mediums have their pictures taken, surrounded, as they are led to believe, by the spirit faces of their loved ones who are near to yet not of this earth. Have you ever seen any of these fictitious pictures? Within a few blocks of my old eastern home was a little of my old eastern home was a little stationery store which had its show windows filled with them. Raphael painted his "Sistine Madonna" sur-rounded by clouds of angel faces. Those deceifful photographs that I saw in that window showed believers in spiritual-ism surrounded by the faces of their departed kindred and dear ones and departed kindred and dear ones and friends. There they were in those pic-tures, the living with the dead, side by side. Could any fraud be more bold, more cruel and more corrupt than that which declares that such piotures are genuine? And yet as I would stop and study these pictures on my way home during the winter afternoons I often said to myself, "Absurd those pictures are in reality, but how true they are figuratively!" A man is never a true man unless he always has many faces about him. You may think many faces about him. You may think hair faces about him. For alone, These faces, these many unseen faces, hover over him in benediction. They smile at him when he smiles. They go with him to places of evil resort and rebuke him while he is there. They joke with him. They plead with him. They pray with him. They come and sit by his bed when he is about to fall asleep. They greet him the moment when he awakens in the morning. Some of these faces are old. Some are young. Some are just budding into young womanhood. Some are middle-aged. But these faces are always about us. They are about you. They are about

They are about us when we are a they are about us when we are away from home. We may be travel-ing in a railroad train a thousand miles away from our own firesides. It is the evening hour. We are tired of reading the book. We throw it down and rest our heads upon our hands and look out of the window and begin to see many faces. "Yes," we say to ourselves, "this is the evening hour, Our wives are putting the babies to bed." People may say we are alone in a railroad train, but we are not. We are home. I tell you we are home. We feel the baby boy climb up into our lap and beg us to tell him a story; we see our little girls sitting by the table studying their lessons. After the prayers have been said and the bed-room lights turned out and the last journey to the crib has been taken with its drinking water and the good-night kiss, we see our wives go and get the darning bag filled with a lot of the children's stockings. She sits down by our side. Then she looks up with a sweet smile and says, "My dear, let us have a good talk." As we talk she sews the big holes the boys have made in their stockings when they slid down the cellar door, which is their favorite toboggan. There she sits in the railroad train conversing. While we are thinking of our absent dear ones, by the telepathy of love we know they are thinking of us. They are constantly by our side. It is because they are ever present with us in thought that we try to be just as good and pure and true as if we could kiss their lips and talk to them in the flesh as well as in the spirit.

But are the faces of a father, a mo-ther, a wife, a child, the only ones that are ever present with us, because they are always thinking of us as we are of them? Oh, no. David, the sweet singer of Israel says there is another face which we must place over and above the human faces hovering about us. That is the face of God. He is thinking about us. He is planning for us He is pleading with us. I want to impress on your minds the fact that the Lord's face is ever present with us and that he is continually thinking

It is easy to see grandeur in places from which we are excluded.

The planning of the parents for the child starts at the christening.

Then comes the question of school.

Perhaps the father has amassed some

Perhaps the father has amassed some wealth. The money question is not a pressing one in the home. Where shall the boy get his education? The mother may desire to have her son go to one of the city, where he will have for companions the sons of wealthy families. Again the hard-headed common-sense of the father comes to the rescue. "No," he says. "No private school for my boy. My father sent me to a private school. There I dabbled a little in a dozen different studies and did not master any one of them. My boy shall go to a common public school, where the foundations and the rediments of an education are pounded into him. I want him to master the three Rs'—reading, writing and arithmetic. I want him at fifteen years of age to know how to write a letter. That is what thousands of college-bred mented throw the proper to is what thousands of college-bred m do not know. I want him to learn t spell and punctuate correctly. After the rudiments of an education have been soaked into him, then we can talk about private schools or a university After the school days are over wha happens? The common-sense father makes the boy start out for himself if the lad enters business, he make im work in another store where father is not. If possible, he sends th anther is not. If possible, he sends the son away for a little while, to work in another city among strangers, so that the boy learns to think for himself and stand upon his own feet. The wise father does all this not because he is. hard hearted; not because he wants to get rid of the boy. He puts the burden of life upon the boy because he is a true friend to the child, planning his best development. He wants to make the most out of his son and bring him to the highest physical, mental, moral and spiritual development. God is do-ing for us in a wide sense what the earthly parent is doing for his child in earthy parent is doing for inscand in a limited sense. He is placing his burdens upon us to develop us. He is not making us struggle for the mere pleasure of seeing us suffer. He is compelling us to be caretakers that we may grow in strength and climb the higher mountain peaks of inspiration and power which he has lifted for our thrones, and yet to-day there are but very few who have grace enough to thank God for the divine hand which has smitten them as well as for the divine lip which is ready to speak the words of comfort and good cheer.

Troubles are beneficent when packed upon a man's back in certain quantities. They may and do develop the physical and mental and spiritual man. But though the soldier goes forth with a brave heart to fight the battles of his country, with a haversack upon his houlder, he could not fight, no matter now brave his heart, if he had a con-rict's chain riveted to his ankle and a neuntain of oppression tumbled over apon his breast. Thus, while it is the of a true parent to put certain burdens and cares upon his child to de-burdens and cares upon his child to de-velop him, it is also the father's duty to see that his child shall not have too great burdens to bear, which will break his back and crush his will. As oreak his back and crush his will. As does at true father, so God plans for us. "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth. God dealeth with you as with sons. For what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?" That means as the father reproves, rebukes and exhorts and develops the child by the heavy hand of trouble so God the Father deals with his own. But in Corinthians I also read these words as a there deals with his own. But the Cormi-thians I also read these words as a qualifying clause: "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able, but will with the temptation also make a way to es-cape that ye may be able to bear it." That means that when troubles or That means that when troubles of temptations come upon us greater than we can bear then the Lord, who is al-ways planning for us, will step in and stand between us and that temptation. Thus I find God the developing friend. In the next place I find God the protector, God the shielder, God the ward-or off of two great dangers when we are not able to care for ourselves.

Let me fillustrate how well nigh im-possible it is for some men to help themselves unless they are first helped by others. Last summer it was my privilege, with a couple of gentlemen, to go camping through the mountains of southern California. For a long time I had wished to penetrate these moun-tains and go and live for awhile upon some of the Indian reservations. The great "San Luis Rey festival" was to take place among a couple of these tribes. We timed our trip to witness this festival, so important in Indian life, There I saw some of the old Indians, almost as ignorant and super-stitious as their ancestors were cen-turies ago. An old Indian missionary told me some of the strangest facts about them. Said he: "Do you know that many of these Indians believe i shosts and apparitions, just as did their grandparents? Though they talk but little during the day, yet they hest-tate to go out at night because they are afraid of the darkness. They al-ways whistle or sing to keep the spirits from tearing them to pieces. There is another peculiarity about them with all the advancement of civilization everywhere seen, many of these Indians have never learned even th mmonest laws of health. They bulle their adobe houses with no adequate means of ventilation. When they be-come sick some of them will go to bed Then they will have erected four posts at the four corners of the bed, in the old Louis XIV style. I have seen the friends cover these posts over with harkets and not leave one loophole for the country of the country reason the old western proverb "The is no good Indian except a dead Indian" has such a universal acceptation is because the American Indian, unless helped by the Christian day school, the Christian church and the Christian missionary, will never be able to help himself. The white man's sins will smite the red man down before he has time to open his eyes to see the white man's virtues. God speed the arduous work of the American missionary for the salvation of the red man and the red woman! These poor aborigines are being tumbled into drunkard's graves by the white man's whiskey; they are by the white man's whiskey; they are being morally corrupted by the white man's licentiousness; they are being ground down into misery and want by the heil fires of the white man's gambling passions, which are destroying their lives for this world and for the next. It is impossible for some men to overcome some temptations in their own strength.

But, thank God, the dangers and temptations that surround you and me temptations that surround you and m are not insurmountable, if we only call on God for help. The true father places his strong arm about his boy's heart when the surges of temptation roll in to submerge him. God the Father will throttle the hissing throat of the dead ly serpent of evil if we will only beg him to rescue us. He will take away that agonizing thirst for drink. You know you have been fighting it for years. Yes, he will make you pure in mind and heart if you only run to the mind and heart if you only run to the cover of his wings. He will lift you up, as you would run to the rescue of your boy when he is confronting some sudden and imminent danger, if you will only call to him as your child calls to you: "Help, father! Help!" The Lord sends us trouble to develop us, never to crush us. Those overwhelming mountains of trouble and not proceed from his hand. These not proceed from his hand. These mountains, these insurmountable mountains, these insurmountable mountains of temptation, are every-where around. Then it behooves us to stay very close to the side of that loving Father who is always thinking and planning for us. Stay by the Lord, who will always protect us when it is necessary for us to be spiritually pro-The threatening dangers ahead in th

The threatening dangers anead in the Christian's life are insignificant in comparison to the peril from which Christ delivered him in the past, when he said to him, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." Those ahead may be compared to the ship in the last throes of the tor nado. The cordage is being stretched to the utmost. The sails, like huge balloons filled with gas, are swelling larger and larger, until they seem about to burst. The helmsmen are clinging frantically to the wheel. The great beams and the planks of the hull are groaning, while the huge waves toss it as a chip is turned a somersult over the mill wheel. All is anxiety. The pumps are at work. The danger is great, but there is yet hope ahead. With a strong keel under him and the sails still holding to the masts, the sea captain has hope, no matter how loumay be the shricking of the euro-

Est us return to the peaceful scene of my text. As we climb the Judaean hills, where sits the shepherd poet watching his sheep, we see a transcendent beauty shining from the face of the Psalmist. We look at his raptured face a moment. Then we ask: "What is tt, David? What do you see? What do you hear? What treasure is yours?" He you near? what treasure is yours? He comes back to earth as he answers: "Why, I was softly singing to myself that Fortieth Psalm. I composed it many years ago. I did not then realther than the composed it many years ago. all I wrote. When I came to the words, 'The Lord thinketh upon me,' I began to summarize all the care God has taken of me in this world. Then I began to see visions of the glories of the land which he is preparing for me the land which he is preparing for me beyond. God is thinking of me. Yes, he is preparing them all for me when the right time comes for me to possess them. Look, cannot you see those glo-ries now?" As David talks his interries now?" As David talks his inter-pretation of my text seems very plain and very simple. God is again dealing with us as a father would deal with his child.

God says, "Nothing is too good for his children when the right time comes." So he thinks ahead and plans comes. So he thinks ahead and plans ahead for us. When the right time comes—and come it will—God is going to give us a great mansion in heaven. Yes; you can picture it—a white marble palace, with mosaic floors and rainbowed fountains. It may have terraced gardens surrounding it. Our palace will be as good as that. There is nothing too good for God's heavenly children. There he is going to give us health—immortal health. No pain, no suffering, no heartache, is to be there. Nothing is, then, too good for us when the right time comes. Then he is going to give us back our loved ones. Some of us are very lonely now. We will not be lonely then. Nothing will then be too good for us in celestial companionship. Then God will give us a crown. Then we shall have endless communion with his own dear self. Oh, my friends, will you not let God go on Yes: you can picture it-a white mar communion with his own dear seal. Oh, my friends, will you not let God go on planning for you and thinking for you? Was it to be wondered at that the radiant face we saw as we climbed the Judaean hills and looked at the shep-Judaean hills and looked at the shep-herd poet of Israel was celestial in its reflection when we realize that David was catching a glimpse about what the Lord was planning for him beyond the grave? Will you let God plan for you such a future?

The 6:30 express stopped at Raceland, and two solitary passengers alighted. A man, tall, lean and dark, left the third coach; a woman, small plump and fair, descended from the ond. Midway in their listless course to a somewhat ancient carryall they

"Oh-h! I might have known it!" she cried furiously.

The man said nothing at all. "I suppose," said the woman, with ostentatious self control, "you are go-trap with you?" "You have not. I shall walk," he said calmly.

"You will do nothing of the kind," she stormed. "And have them wondering and questioning? You will go up in the trap with me." He led the way to the aged vehicle and she followed. When they were seated and a series of noisy jerks announced their triumphal progress. he looked at her with quiet amusement. "They will think we have come to-gether," he said. "Do they know you are coming?"

"No," she snapped. "And I suppess you are surprising them too?"
"Quite a surprise party," he agreed. She clinched her little hands furi ously.

"They will understand that it was an accident that I met you at the depot." "They will think you have at last consented to be sensible" he mused and will be delighted. You know how long and ardently they have tried to throw us together."

"Us?" said the woman witheringly. 'You have been fairly thrown at my head."

"Well, I never seemed to strike you," he drawled.

She flung him a scorching glance, and he subsided into silence.

When the white pillars of the Ralstons' splendid old plantation house came into view, she turned on him flercely.

"For the next two days—I suppose I must stay so long-you will be given any number of chances to talk to me." "I'm not going to propose again," he said disinterestedly. "Don't be so wor-

FINLAND IS NOW FREE

Czar Signs Manifesto Embodying All Popular Demands.

Duchy Still Belongs to Russia, But Its Diet Has Now Control of the Budget and Is Authorized to Pass an Election Law Providing for Universal Suffrage-Military and Other Laws of Russification Abrogated.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.-The whole structure of the autocratic regime is falling, and Emperor Nicholas no long-witnessed the abdication of absolutism before a political strike demonstration extending throughout the confines of the Empire and reducing the Govern-the Empire and reducing the Government to impotency and the birth of a new and popular regime amid scenes of disorder, pillage, bloodshed, and worse, ends in a complete surrender to the aspirations of the Finlanders.

The sad story of the "Russification" of Finland began under the regime of Emperor Nicholas' father, with the introduction of the Russian postal system and attracted the sympathy of the world. One by one the Finnish grand world. One by one the Finnish grand duchy was stripped of ancient privi-leges by the Russian administration, including the gendarmerie and military conscription and the use of the Russian lawages was introduced. When the conscription and the use of the same wholly emasthe Finnish Diet became wholly emaculated and was nowerless except to protest. The Finns fought sturdily, but Russian troops garrisoned every town, and hundreds of prominent Finns were driven into exile.

Finland Given Freedom. Last week the Finlanders struck and tied up the railroads over which troops could be despatched, and compelled the Emperor's appointed Senate to resign. They organized a militia in Heisingfors, practically drove out the Russian gendarmie and sent a deputation to Prince John Obolensky, the Governor-General, and also one to Peterhof to demand the immediate convocation of the Diet in extraordinary session and the obliteration of the whole Russi-fication policy. The situation was so threatening the Government was oblig-ed to send warships to Helsingfors and on the guns of the fort on the city.

On the advice of Count Witte and Prince John Obolensky Emperor Nicholas has signed the manifestos, not only convoking the Diet, but giving it control of the budget and authorizing an election law providing for universal suffrage. Another manifesto abrogates the military and other laws of Russification. These have been despatched by fast torpedo boat to Helection of the control o

Massacres Continue.
Fatal encounters between the soldiers and the populace and anti-Jewish excesses are reported from many places in the provinces. Saturday and yesterday at Kremenchug twenty persons were killed and eighty injured. At Kutais, a military train was in collision, and nine soldiers were killed. collision, and nine soldiers were killed. After the collision the revolutionaries opened a rifle fire on the trains, and the troops replied in kind. There were several killed or injured on both sides. At Berdicheff several persons were kille dor injured. At Minsk serious rioting arose through the troops preventing a meeting of citizens. The troops fired volleys into the crowds, and there was intermittent firing for a long time. A hundred were killed and long time. A hundred were killed and wounded. Indescribable horrors are being witnessed every day.

The massacre and pillage of Jews continues at Kishineff.

Troubles at Irkutsk.

Troubles at Irkutsk.
With the resumption of telegraphic communication with the army, news of the serious state of affairs at Irkutsk and other stations in Transbaikala has arrived here. On receiving the first information of the disorders in Russian and the result of the disorders in Russian and the result in a mob rose at Irkutsk, took possession of the town and seized the 'railway.' Other towns followed suit, and Gen. Linevitch, without waiting for orders Lipevitch, without waiting for orders from St. Petersburg, sent 50,000 troops to Irkutsk to put down the rising and restored order and at other stations. Slaughter at Tiffis. Tiffis, Nov. 6.—Patriotic demonstrations yesterday were participated in by 50,000 persons. While a procession was passing along Golowinski pros-pect, firing began. Bombs were thrown at the troops, and were answered with rifle shots. The dead numbered ten, and there were many wounded. In another place four were killed and sevenounded.

Demonstration at Warsaw. Warsaw, Nov. 6.—Great patriotic monstrations were held in the streets yesterday by crowds estimated as nun bering 200,000. Processions headed by clergy and singing "God Save Po-land," paraded the principal streets. disorders at Lodz, which were held yesterday, were attended by 40,000 persons.

Peasants Repulsed.

Odessa, Nov. 6.—A tour of the city and part of the suburbs yesterday found all quiet. Whole rows of shops that were pillaged have been boarded up. The poor Jewish quarters suffered worst, and the principal streets with a few exceptions were untouched.
Peasants armed with knives and scythes tried to enter the city Saturday having been inflamed by the possibilities of looting, but where driven back by the soldiers.

Awful Indignities.
The casualties in Saturday's disturbances exceed 140, and those of the preceding three days, which have been verified, number nearly 5,600.
The latest accounts of the devastation in the Jewish quarter add horror to the situation. Besides numerous mills, all the bakeries, shops, and nearly 600 homes have been destroyed. The Jews killed, in every circumstance, were treated with revolting barbarity. Skulls were battered with hammers, nalls were driven into the bodies, eyes were gouged out, and ears severed over the sick found hidden in cellars, and they were burned to death.

It is alleged that the police and soldiers everywhere marched at the head of mobs, exciting them to destroy the Jews by crying, 'The Jews have kill-ed our Emperor, and similar expres-

"There have been more horrifying assacres and fiendish cruelties, but the districts where these took place are now cordoned by troops. Prob-ably the totalled killed will number 3,500 and the wounded 12,000. Two private doctors attended more than 306 children who had been horribly gash-ed about the head and shoulders with sabres.

"Heaping insult upon injury the civil governor to-day, when the butchery was ended, asked the householders to subscribe $100,000 to pay the police in-*reased wages."

WITTE SETTLES STRIKE.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—Count Witte Saturday solved the railroad strike at a conference with the strike leaders, at which he did not hesitate to make a practical surrender of the Govern-ment's demands. The basis of settlement's demands. The basis of settlements are comprised in the following telegram sent to strike committees throughout the Empire:

Grants an Assembly.

Cettinje, Nov. 6.—Prince Nicholas has issued a manifesto announcing that he had decided on his own initiative to grant to the people a representative assembly, and, therefore, orders the holding of free elections for deputies on Nov. 27. The first session of the new assembly will be held on Dec. 19.

New Preparation Which Everyone Will Need Sooner or Later.

Almost everybody's digestion is dis-rdered more or less, and the com-nonest thing they do for it is to monest thing they do for it is to take some one of the many so-called blood purifiers, which, in many cases, are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels and often do harm than good.

do more harm than good. Purging is not what is needed. The ruging is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and execre-tion of the digestive fluids and re-lieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done ou need take no more tablets, unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble.

It's a common-sense medicine and a common-sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease but cure the cause. about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific way.

We have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—Mrs. E. M. Faith, of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says:
"I have taken all the Tablets I got of you and they have done their work well in my case, for I feel like a different person altogether. I don't doubt if I had not got them I should have been at rest by this time."
