War Records Wanted.

The officer in command Canadian War Records has asked us to make known that it is desired to compile complete history in photograph of the Canadians' share in the war in the same way that all other belligerent countries are compiling similar records.

It is particularly desired to obtain photographs of all officers, N. C. O.'s and men who have served or are now serving in the Overseas Military Forces of Canada, and it is requested that our respective columns.

All officers and other ranks serving overseas may find it difficult to send in their photographs and their relatives are therefore especially appealed to, to send in their photographs to them.

By preference the photographs should be unmounted and printed on a separate sheet of paper in order to ensure permanence. Each photograph should be accompanied by a concise record not exceeding two or three hundred words, of the subject's military career, including date of enlistment, promotions, distinctions and so on, as this will greatly assist in obtaining a full and accurate record of all concerned.

In addition it is desired to collect all photographs, dealing with the mobilization, training and departure of troops, together with pictures of interesting reviews, sports, presentations, etc. Any photograph of this nature is regarded as a document of historical importance, and it is hoped that the possessors of all such photos

A Soldier's Letter.

The following are portions of two letters recently received at his home in Greenwich, from Pte. Kenneth G. Fraser, 135th Batt., formerly of the 15th, Wolfville platoon:

DEAR HOMEPOLE—Here I am in remote Scotland. This is my second year in Edinburgh, and I must tell you something about my trip. Most of the morning I went on parade as usual and was going on a train just after dinner when the mid-day express came to the bus door and told me there was a pass at Co's office for me starting at 5 o'clock that morning. As we were having pay parade that day and my first day was over half gone before I got my pass. I went on parade and got my own pass. Then as I did not want to go on pass with too small an amount, I paraded before the paymaster again and asked for an advance. He broke his heart and gave me another pass.

Next I went up to Co's office to get a warrant which would allow me to travel half fare, and while there I 'jailed' them to change the date of my pass to Tuesday morning so I could have the full time, but they told me to go on that afternoon and gave me two days' extension instead.

I left Wolfville at 3.30 and got to Milford at 4 o'clock. The next train was a half hour late, so it was about 7 o'clock when we arrived at Waterloo Station, London. Here we took the tube (underground) to King's Cross and had only gone a short distance when some prison guard

Oh! My! That Smells Good!

And, madam, you should just smell the fragrance of crushed coffee after it is brewed. And the flavor of it! Well, you never tasted ground coffee with a flavor just like Red Rose Coffee. Coffee critics, those who have travelled far and wide and tasted coffees in various climates, tell us they have never tasted more delicious coffee. Some have even said—but we will refrain from printing such high praise. We prefer you to try Red Rose Crushed Coffee without revealing anything further as to its quality. We don't want to take all the edge off the surprise in store for you when you try it. And the same price it was three years ago.

Witley Camp, Oct. 7
I believe this is the first I have written you since getting back from Scotland. My pass was cut at midnight Saturday, so of course I left the barracks in the morning. I was in camp before that, but we encountered another air raid. The trains were held up, consequently I had to stay in London all night and did not make camp until Sunday morning. I was up before the Co's commander for being late, but when I explained how it happened I was dismissed and everything was 'jake' with me after all.

The raid on London Saturday night was worse than that of Monday. I was at Waterloo station waiting for a train when it took place. Two bombs struck quite near, one came in the open end of the station and the other struck the elevated railway just outside, but there was no one near enough to be hurt. Some people had brought lunches and came into the tubes before dark, and when the raid came on the tubes were soon crowded again.

The people in the tubes were very pitiful. Some were fainting and little children crying and clinging to their mothers. I got a small bit of chocolate from one of our sergeants. When the raid slackened I went down into the station again and found the floors covered with children lying around sleeping. I stayed there until one o'clock, then, as they told me there would be no trains going until morning, I went out to a Y. M. C. A. and got a bed. I took the first train in the morning leaving there at 8.35.

A Canadian Highlander certainly takes well with the Scotch people. I did enjoy my trip to Edinburgh that winter. I received the number of pages of historical interest. Was all through the old castles, as good as the home care. I'm which is situated on a high rocky point, and is a fine view of the city.

I never expected to be in a place that was built before America was known at all. I got a surprise while going through it. Two soldiers were walking ahead of me and when I got near them I discovered that one was K. Palmer from Grand Pre—the last time I saw him he was in civilian clothes. It seemed strange we should meet in a place like that. He is in the artillery, I think, and he was in the same company with my right honorable friend the leader of the government."

I walked across the Forth Bridge it is 12 miles long and is a quarter long and is a mile and a quarter long. I sent a picture of it to Ethel, hope she got it safely. I have not time to describe the various places I saw, but I made good use of my time and took in all the principal sights, it is impossible to make you see them in a letter anyway. There were Holyrood Palace, the Museum, the Zoological Gardens, the Palace, a lot of Monuments, etc., etc.

You asked about my socks, mother. I will be very glad to get those that were given you by the Port Williams Red Cross to send me, it is very kind of you to remember me—and all the boys will appreciate it. You spoke of sending the leg home to be re-ordered. I have none to send at present but may have later on. We got socks with socks and when they get bad we swap them out to women for new ones, but they are not nearly so good as the home care. I'm pretty good at mending socks for a hardened and worn pretty well before we change them. Some of the fellows send them out to women around here to mend, but I can do a better job than I can. I saw a bunch of fellows out in a woman on the other day, she had mended holes in some of them. I saw a girl together. You know about how she would do it. Now it is nearly time for 'lighting out' and my bed is not made yet, so must close.

If ping this finds you all well and happy, as ever your loving son and brother.

Be Ready for Emergencies.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Bypass of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when coughs or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25 cent bottle and sell at 60 cent.

A woman, very careful of her health, asked the late Hamilton W. Mabie, one day, to recommend to her a really good novel.

"Why not try 'A Kentucky Cardinal' suggested Mr. Mabie.

"No," replied the woman, "I don't care for theological works."

"But," said Mr. Mabie, "this cardinal was a bird."

Occasionally a man is clever enough to know how important the lead

Union Government

is concentrating its efforts to win the War. It has gone about raising reinforcements in the only practical way; under the Military Service Act, 1917. Laurier, Bourassa and their adherents admit their intention of holding up reinforcements so urgently needed in the trenches. Where do YOU stand?

To Back up the Boys—To Hasten Victory—To Win the War—SUPPORT UNION GOVERNMENT

To Women Every woman may vote who is a British subject 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person male or female living or dead who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain in the present war, or who has been honorably discharged from such services and the date of whose enlistment was prior to September 20th, 1917.

Unionist Party Publicity Committee.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., DEC 7, 1917.

Editorial Brevities.

Can't you give the boys a vote? They are giving their lives for you.

Are you strong for the men at the front or for the men who want to save themselves?

Roll up a big vote for Sir Robert Borden. Show the country that Kings county people are proud of him.

The Union Government has been created to back up our soldiers and see them through. Give it your support.

The news that General Currie's state of health requires that he be given a rest will be heard with regret, but should occasion no surprise. He is of the original First Division, and has been at the front since early in 1915. All the original Firsts should have a fairing in Canada.

Nominated as the Liberal candidate in Lincoln, Ontario, Captain E. J. Lovelace cables from the British convalescent hospital in which he is now a patient that he stands for a conscription government during the war. The men who know the need are strong for the thing that the Lanier Bourassa combination opposes. Are you for the men at the front or for the men who want to save themselves?

The order increasing from twenty dollars to twenty-five dollars a month the allowance to the wives and other dependents of soldiers is a most convincing answer to canvasses that the Union government will not treat fairly the families of men overseas. Common sense should force on every elector the conviction that Union government can and will deal with all war problems far more impartially than any party government.

We cheat ourselves in many ways. We juggle our motives, doing something wrong or unworthy under a pretext which confuses our real reason. Many times unkind things are said which are not at all necessary. We say them from malice, or the desire to appear clever, or for applause, and we pretend to ourselves that we say them for truth's sake or in the interest of candor or in good faith.

A Bishop's Reasons.

The Anglican Bishop of Toronto, Canadians should reflect upon:

(1) Because it is non-partisan, being composed of the best men on both sides of politics.

(2) Because its raison d'etre is to "win the war."

(3) Because it pledges both sides equally to any policy or action that in their combined wisdom they may adopt toward this end.

(4) Because its determination is to keep full faith with the Motherland, in the matter of Canada's pledges, and thus with Canada's sons at the front.

(5) Because to do otherwise at this time of stress for the Empire would be to emphasize division, the consequences of which might lead to disasters greater than can be estimated.

Think over these reasons seriously, and see if they do not meet fully and completely every legitimate argument of the opponents of the Union. There is no answer that will satisfy those who oppose Union and conscription because of a hope that they can thus escape service, but Bishop Sweeney's five reasons must appeal to those who are giving the great question manly and honest consideration, and who are fair enough to realize that the issue is national, not partisan nor petty.

Antounging Report For Wolfville.

The wife of a merchant had stomach trouble so bad she could eat nothing but toast, fruit and hot water. Everything else would sour and ferment. O.J.E. SPOONFUL buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., mixed in Adler-Like benefited her INSTANTLY. Because Adler-Like flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of any thing we ever sold.

The sergeant-major had trouble in finding an accountant for his captain, but at last brought in a private for trial.

"Are you a clerk?" demanded the captain.

"No, sir," replied the man.

"Do you know anything about figures?" asked the captain.

"I can do a bit," replied the man modestly.

"Is this the best man you can find?" asked the officer.

"Yes, sir."

"Well," growled the captain, "I suppose I'll have to put up with him! Turning to the private, he enquired, 'What were you in civilian life?'"

"Professor of mathematics at the State College, sir," was the unexpected reply. The Tattler.

H. Pingo will always be at his office over Rand's drug store Mondays, Tuesdays, Saturdays. Visits may be arranged for short distance outside on other days.

"Ralph Connor" in Wolfville.

On Saturday morning Major Gordon (Ralph Connor) paid a visit to Wolfville and delivered an address in College Hall.

Owing to fire troubles, the major was somewhat late in keeping his appointment. The proceedings were therefore started by Messrs. Lumadon and Esterbrooks, who gave narratives of their personal experiences at the front in Flanders in very graphic language, and most interesting they proved. Indeed, some listeners were heard to express poor little Oliver Twist's celebrated request for 'More.' Major Gordon entered the hall amid cheers and yells, and immediately took the platform. He is a clear and forcible speaker, and at once captured the closest attention of his audience by his homely style, devoid of all oratorical flights, just a clear, plain statement of facts, gathered by personal observation.

'This is no time,' he said, 'for politicians to be bandying charges of things done, or left undone. But this is the time for politicians to get together, to head all their energies to one object, namely, to win the war. Sir Wilfrid Laurier or Sir Robert Borden are names at this present crisis that mean nothing to me; but the Government, whose sole object is to win the war, means everything.'

'Canada should not be contented with raising 100,000 men, but should raise 300,000, so that reliefs be available, to enable those boys now in the trenches, to get over to Canada for a few weeks, to renew their vigor and thus return to the front, full of confidence and strength, to put the finishing touch upon the enemy. At present in some units, 250 men have to perform the work of 1000.'

With Russia eliminated, Germany will have available large bodies of new troops to challenge our lines in Flanders, and now on for the next six months, is the critical period of the war.'

Speaking of the women in France, he found them all steadfast in their duty to their beloved Fatherland. No weeping, no repining, only a cheerful anxiety to do their duty to the utmost.

In Great Britain, as an example of the occasion to which women of gentle birth have risen, one million and a half of these, who had always a maid to comb their hair, or button up their boots, are now employed in the munition factories, or on farms and other occupations.

He found no weeping there, only white determined faces, just set on seeing this job put through. He thought, may be believed, that the women of Canada just as capable and just as proud to make the same sacrifices, to do their duty to Canada and the world.

The spacious hall was packed both on the floor and galleries. Ladies predominated, seemingly coming from far and near, and the Major was given a most sympathetic and encouraging reception.

The Sunday Night Meeting.

That was a great meeting at the Opera House on Sunday evening. All day while the storm raged the ladies who had the meeting in hand saw their hopes of a big audience dwindle away. On account of the bad state of the weather and roads the services in the various churches were slimly attended Sunday evening. But when the chair was taken at the Opera House meeting practically every seat in the house was filled.

Mayor Hales occupied the chair and Mr. W. H. Chase, the president of the Kings County Union Government Association, Dr. DeWolfe and Mrs. Sexton had seats on the platform.

Dr. DeWolfe was the first speaker and he was in fine form. In a brief but earnest and eloquent address he thrilled his hearers. His theme was "The Winning of the War," and he urged that we should put forth every effort in that direction. He spoke of the present crisis in the history of Canada and urged that nothing should be done in any degree to imperil the high place Canada holds to-day in the eyes of the world. His plea for a greater unity and support for the Union Government evidently found a responsive echo in the hearts of those present.

Mrs. Sexton has spoken in Wolfville on former occasions but never to better advantage than on Sunday evening. She is a wonderful woman and her address was a wonderful one. Her appeal to the women present to stand by the boys overseas at this crisis will not be forgotten by any one who heard her. Her address was a most earnest one and indicated her intense interest in the welfare of the Empire and its sons.

At the close of the address a resolution was read by Mrs. (Dr.) DeWolfe, seconded by Mrs. Howard Bass, and unanimously passed, pledging the support of the meeting to the Union Government and our boys at the front.

Our Heroes.

One of the youngest of our heroes to give his life for his country is Lance Corp. James E. Higgins, of the 21st Batt. of the Highland Brigade, second son of Thomas F. Higgins, of Portland and adopted son of the late Capt. and Mrs. Haliburton James was 18 years old in October, the last day of which he was killed while in command of a machine gun. Of the six in this gun crew three were killed and one wounded at this time.

Members of Co. A have since written of the high esteem and devotion to duty, and the splendid character of his work in the trenches since January last. He spent his boyhood in Canada, entering the Canning Bank or Nova Scotia at fifteen years, and leaving as teller when he enlisted. Strong in physique, of a happy and contented disposition, he was a typical Canadian boy, and the hearts of his friends are sad at their loss, though rejoicing in the true manliness of the free and noble giving of his services for Canada.

The news was received recently by Mrs. Frank O. Hutchinson, of Hortonville, that her husband, Lieut. Frank O. Hutchinson, had been killed in action on October 30. Lieut. Hutchinson enlisted as a private in the famous 85th Battalion and soon rose to the rank of sergeant. He went overseas with the Highland Brigade in October, 1916, and was shortly sent to France. He fought in the battle of Vimy Ridge, where he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant for valor on the field, and was sent to England to take his commission, where he was very successful in participating in the capture of the town of Arras.

Lieut. Hutchinson was deservedly popular among both officers and men and a general favorite with all who knew him. He was a man among men, of a high Christian character and greatly admired for his sterling qualities. He loved his home and looked forward with great joy to a happy reunion with his family, when peace should at length come. He will be much missed by a wide circle of relatives and friends. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife and 4 children, and a little son, a mother, two sisters and four brothers of whom T. F. Hutchinson of Wolfville is one.

Before enlisting, Lieutenant Hutchinson was engaged in engineering work with the Cleveland Bridge Company of England. He was working in Brix, but came home shortly after the war broke out, and responded bravely to the great call of the Nation.

SAVE YOUNG SOWS

To increase the production of pigs, young sows intended for the butcher must be saved this Fall. Next Spring's "Keep a Pig" propaganda, aimed at the residents of small towns and suburbs of cities, added to the normal avenues of sale, ensure a record demand for the progeny of all these sows. Elsewhere will be found a business statement from Prof. J. M. Treuman indicating the probable profits. Be sure to read it. Try to plan things so that you will keep one or two more sows than in former years.

There may be, in response to the appeal, those wishing to purchase sows for breeding purposes who do not know where to buy them. On the other hand we already have the names of some 25 farmers who have sows to sell and we will list the names of others. If you are either a prospective buyer or seller and do not know of anyone with whom you can do business send your name to Prof. J. M. Treuman, Agricultural College, P. O. Box 100, Fredericton, N.B. McKeena Block had a narrow escape on Wednesday afternoon when fire was discovered in the back shop of W. C. Bleakney's grocery. Mr. Bleakney at once sent in an alarm and took active measures to extinguish the flames which were rapidly spreading. The firemen were promptly on the spot and the danger was soon over with little damage being done. The cause of the fire is unknown but it is supposed a match thrown among waste did the trick.

Halifax Suffers.

News came from Halifax yesterday morning that a terrible explosion had taken place in that city leaving death and destruction in its wake. No particulars were to hand when we went to press other than that a French munition ship had been blown up in the harbor and that a great amount of damage had been occasioned. Numerous fires in the north end of the city, with loss of life, was reported. A special train with doctors and our men was dispatched from Kentville to lend assistance.

Theological Club Passes Resolution.

At a recent meeting of the Theological club of Acadia University an interesting discussion was held regarding the part a minister should play in matters of national interest and national need. It was felt that the present crisis of the country is one in which clergymen should speak out with no uncertain voice. This war is one in which great principles are at stake, and, as leaders of the people, ministers must champion these principles boldly and earnestly. At the close of the meeting the following resolution was moved, and enthusiastically carried by a unanimous standing vote:

"We, the Members of Acadia Theological club, place on record our hearty sympathy and co-operation with a Win-The-War policy, and further, that we pledge ourselves to support the movement for a Union Government in all ways possible."

Memorial Service in Baptist Church.

The memorial service in the Baptist church last Sunday morning was sad and impressive, though beautiful. The pulpit was occupied by Rev. Mr. Miller, Dr. Chute and the pastor, Rev. N. A. Harkness. Brothers Ernest Barras and Vaughn Heeshaw, two returned and wounded soldiers, unveiled the Roll of Honor as the pastor read the names of those connected directly or indirectly with the church (14 in all) who had sacrificed their lives in fighting for the right.

Mr. Miller spoke very touchingly upon the heroism and bravery of these noble young lives, who had seen their duty, knowing what lay before them, and, seeing it all, gave up their best to answer to God's call. Though poorer in losing them, we are richer for their service. In conclusion Mr. Miller referred to that part of France where those who had fallen lay buried, speaking of it as forever a part of Canada.

This was followed by impressive remarks by the pastor, who, in his usual interesting way, brought a message of comfort to his listeners.

After prayer by Dr. Chute and the singing of appropriate hymns the Dead March in Saul was rendered, impressing one with a solemnity not often experienced. F. A. G. M.

Annual Supper.

The annual supper of the Kings County Agricultural Society took place at Evangeline Hall, Lower Horton, on Friday evening last, and was a complete success. The attendance was larger than usual. Supper was served by the members of the Woman's Institute, the proceeds being devoted to Red Cross work. Tables were laid in the lower part of the building and were loaded with the tempting viands which the ladies of the locality know so well how to prepare and serve. In the absence of the president of the Society, Mr. Guy Fuller, Dr. Chipman presided. After full justice had been done to the good things provided, the members of the Society and their guests repaired to the upper hall which was packed to the doors. Dr. Chipman took the chair, Miss Annie Stuart, president of the Woman's Institute, also having a place on the platform. An excellent program of music, etc., was furnished. Prof. Cumming and his air were unable to be present, but P. J. Harkness, chemist at the Agricultural College, gave a very excellent address. Rev. Mr. Miller, Rev. Mr. Ryan and others also took part and a profitable and pleasant time was spent.

The Kings County Agricultural Society was organized 128 years ago and has been a most useful and influential organization. It now has a large membership and is doing good work in the community.

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

MATTIE WARREN
Port Robinson, Ont., July 28th, 1915.
"We have used 'Fruit-a-lives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Mattie, was troubled with kidney disease. The doctor said she was threatened with dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally we decided to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. She began to show improvement after she had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-lives' and would never be without them."

Haig.
By Walt Mason.
We hear a lot of other men who've done artistic fighting, but Haig, who's won, again, again, is unknown at this writing. He doesn't hand out Halifax news to eager-eyed reporters, nor yet submit to interviews which might be called rip snorters. He doesn't hunt the 'feature' gent, or leave his post forsaken, to face a kodak in a tent and have his picture taken. I know not if he's short or tall. I've never seen his photo; but whether he is large or small, he's getting William's goat, oh. Some colonels view the hall of fame and think it El Dorado, but he who plays the mighty game is always in the shadow. I know not how he wears his beard, or who may be his tailor, but more and more his strokes are teared, and Wilhelm's growing paler. I've seen no pictures of his wife, or of his sons and daughters, or of his ancient home in Flie, beside some storied waters. The grand stand looks for him in vain, no. Jerry has known him, but when the Prussians plant their plain, they cast him and become him.
Molly's Eyes.
If Molly's eyes should beam for me I'd give the sun fair warning;
He needs't rise,
To light the skies,
For just one glance from Mary's eyes Would be my morning.
If Molly's lips were red for me Then all my days are sunny
I'd whisper to the golden bee
You needn't rob the rose for me,
Her lips are honey.
If Molly's heart would beat for me So near I just could hear it;
I'd give the world,
At least, my part,
For just one glance from Mary's eyes,
And my heart near it.

The Preparation of Garden Soil.

The past season saw perhaps the most extensive garden "shot" that has ever been known in this country. Because of the short time for garden preparation, the soil in many cases was but indifferently prepared. Even with this handicap the results were fairly successful and highly encouraging. With the ground now broken up by last season's tillage, gardeners will start in 1918 with much better prospects of success. In order to make success doubly sure, preparation of garden land should be started in the fall.

To have the land well prepared not only makes a great difference with the growth and the yield of the crops, but adds much to the pleasure of the later garden operations. Proper preparation of the soil in the fall makes the land several days earlier in the spring, it helps to conserve the moisture of the dormant season for the growing crop and leaves the ground in a finer, mellower condition than if all of the work of preparation had been delayed until spring. In the autumn is the time to apply fresh manure to garden land for most crops. By spring it will be rotted and mixed with the soil. If manure is applied in the spring, it should be fine and well rotted except, perhaps, for such crops as corn, cabbage and turkeys.

In the fall the ground should be deeply plowed or dug, leaving a rough surface exposed to the winter weather. In the spring the plowing or working may be shallow leaving the weathered portion of the land on top. For all hardy early planted crops such as the root crops, and onions, it would pay to start the preparation of the land now. Even for potatoes and beans better results will be obtained by fall preparation of the ground than if left entirely until spring. If the winter holds open it is not yet too late to manure and plow the garden plot.

The curious and inquiring old gentleman fired out a string of questions at the young flying officer who had the misfortune to be in the same railway carriage with him. The young man answered the first twenty or so questions politely, but after that he got a bit tired.
"That's a terrible poison that's just been discovered, isn't it?" he asked the old gentleman at last. The old gentleman pricked up his ears.
"What's it called?" he asked inter-estingly.
"Airplane poison," said the R. F. C. man.
"Is it very deadly?"
"I should say so!"
"How much would kill a person?"
went on the tireless questioner.
The R. F. C. man's eyes twinkled.
"One drop!" he said. And silence reigned.

INDIAN TOTEM POLES

(1) Kik-Sitti Totem, Wrangell, Alaska.
(2) Totem, Wrangell, Alaska.
(3) Totem, Kluwagan, Alaska.

THE clan totem of the Indian is one of the most interesting productions of the wood sculptor. These carvings are found in British Columbia, especially along the Pacific Coast, as well as in Alaska. In many waterside villages these carvings are placed on poles in prominent places, or along the main street, as in Alert Bay, or over the graves of the departed. With them a bear must have gone to their happy hunting grounds. To the white man they are as mysterious as the dreamlike legends of the natives. They tell the clan to which the dead Indians belonged, as well as his tribal status.

Each clan of the Indians of Alaska and British Columbia has its own totem, from which it takes its name. Thus there is the clan of the wolf, the clan of the raven, the clan of the eagle, and so on. All the members of the clan are supposed to be descended, actually and literally, from the animals whose names they bear, and to conduct themselves always with due remembrance of the fact. For example, a man isn't supposed to kill or eat his father, and therefore, the Indians of the bear clan, for instance, are not supposed to eat or kill bear. That animal is sacred to them, and the medicine man or "shaman" of the clan will invoke the direct penalties on any member who dares to transgress that rule.

The marks and customs of the clan are regulated by their totem. It is absolutely unthinkable that two members of the same clan should ever fight or quarrel. It is as much as a man's life to quarrel with a raven or a fox or a bear or a wolf or a member of some other animal with which he is allied. Usually these poles are very large and have a doorway cut through them at which access is had to the solidly built wooden house in which the clan or tribe lives. Among some of the Pacific Coast tribes, even within the memory of men not infrequently the pole of the tribe's house was set in holes in high sea walls. It is believed that the superstitious belief that a man would drive away evil spirits protected the chief, and condoned to some extent in fishing, hunting and victory in war. When the poles were placed in position and the house finished, the ceremony was generally ended by a feast. For selection the poles were gathered into the new house, which was always the largest in the village. The chief with his principal "yes" entered, dressed as demona in bear and wolf skins and decorated with horns, bones, skulls, eagle's claws and panther's teeth. A bandage was then placed over the chief's eyes, and thus blindfolded, to the sport of his "yes" he chased the terrified clan through the house until he had caught the number agreed upon to be made sport of.

The accompanying illustrations are striking specimens to be found in Alaska and while the art is crude from the white man's point of view yet they are not to be despised as the records of the artistic spirit of these original Americans.
Women Once Invalids
Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.
All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:
Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a milder one that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.
Hardly Able to Move.
Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOUNG, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.
Three Doctors Gave Her Up.
Pittsburg, Penn.—"My medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DEKSHINE, 84 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.
All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medical Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice.—It will be confidential.

IMMIGRATION After The WAR

By Col. J. S. DENNIS

CANADA'S greatest need is agricultural producers. Out of her population of less than 8,000,000 people only slightly more than half are from the rural districts. Nature's most bounteous bequests to Canada were in our rich farm lands. She should not only raise all her own food products, but should be an exporter of these products upon a large scale. It will not be patriotic or good business to invite unrestricted immigration from the Mother Country after the war. Great Britain will need to look to her own agricultural development. There will be a demand for labor there to rehabilitate British industry. It has been the desire of economists to develop a larger portion of the British population into farm workers. It would seem that the reconstruction period will afford this long sought opportunity.

Canada must look to the United States and to the northern European countries for agricultural immigrants. In the United States alone, there are a large number of young men each year who leave the farms and flock to the cities because of their inability to obtain cheap farm lands. Every effort must be made to interest these men and by placing the inducements of Canada before them, attract them to this country.

There is every reason to suppose that the tide of immigration that flows to Western Canada from the United States before the war can be started again through the proper direction. But most of all of this immigration was from experienced farmers whose training had been under practical the same conditions of climate, soil, government, language, money and society as they found in Canada. Failure among this class of immigrants has been the exception. In large numbers of cases these immigrants came from European countries originally, having merely passed a period of acclimation to American conditions during a stay in the United States.

Canada will continue to attract numbers of agricultural immigrants from the northern countries of Europe in spite of the rigid laws, in many of these countries, against emigration. Sweden, Norway, Denmark, have sent many valuable farm producers to our borders, and we may expect many more. Even Russia, in spite of the broadening democratic development there, should be a source from which a large number of good agricultural settlers can be obtained.

Special homestead provisions for British soldiers have been proposed as a possible means of colonization in the Dominion. Canada's experience with such a plan after the South African war was anything but satisfactory. The objective of providing liberally for the men who have fought for the Empire by granting them homesteads can be obtained. It was reached in only a small percentage of cases. Instead, the plan made it possible for land speculators to obtain the choicest of the Government lands through the purchase of the soldier scrip at a heavy discount. And it has been the experience of the past that speculators have held back the development of large areas of excellent land. In our Western Provinces, drastic measures have been taken for forcing this unoccupied land, held by speculators, into the hands of producers by the imposition of a sur-tax on unimproved land.

As previously stated, the crying need of Canada is greater agricultural production. Colonization by our returning soldiers that will increase the number of our producers will help solve both the labor and immigration problems, but we know from experience that the men from the old countries, the stores and the trades, will seldom be given some sort of special training in the principles of agriculture, or have had some experience in this line of work. One way to successfully place soldiers upon the land would be to organize them into military colonies after they have been given one year's instruction at a district agricultural school.

It would be an excellent investment for the Government to even support the families of such soldiers, through the same separation allowances that were given soldiers' families during overseas duty, while they were attending the agricultural camps. Agriculture is a business requiring special knowledge, just as store-keeping, or any of the trades.

The Civil War veterans were allowed a rebate in time equal to the period of their service in the army in obtaining title to their homesteads. A similar provision has been adopted in Canada. Due care should be taken in the other regulations surrounding the homesteading of soldiers as well as civilians, so as to be sure that every acre comes from a man who has a sincere desire to enter into the business of farming. It must be remembered in this connection that almost 90% of our Canadian soldiers, and even a higher percentage of those of Great Britain, have had no experience in farming. As against this, the predominance of farmers among the Civil War veterans, and the population of the country, was almost 3 to 1. Yet the history of the Central Western States during those years of hardship endured and ultimate failure of those veterans who were not familiar with conditions, attesting farm life.

Canada has been wont to consider that all her farm problems are located west of the Great Lakes; that the Eastern Provinces are sufficiently settled. We have now to face quite the same problem that the United States faced a decade after the Civil War, namely the re-population of the farms in the older sections, left vacant during the rush to the prairie lands in the West. Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and other States were for years dotted with vacant farms. The same situation is to be found in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces today. Our Provincial and Federal Governments have only recently come to realize this fact and are now putting forth a concerted effort to bring a betterment of these conditions.

And again we have large areas of new lands in both Ontario and Quebec lands tributary to rail service even which are yawning for occupation and production.

Canada's immigration problem, concerned as it is with the economic foundation of our future prosperity, should receive the most careful attention of our Government and the deepest thought of our statesmen.

Canada's greatest economic need is more farmers. This need translated into other terms means a necessity for a wide immigration, the sort of settlers who have the inclination to go on to our lands and the knowledge of how to make these lands produce the utmost so that Canada may at least feed herself, and finally develop as surplus to self abroad. This essential immigration can only be secured through an intensive campaign under the direction of the very best experts obtainable.

Mrs. Rex—Mercy, no! She would leave instantly. I told her it was just right but that we preferred it a trifle underdone.—Boston Transcript.
