THEIR WORK IN AUSTRALIA.

What the Brothers Redmond have been doing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—J. E. Redmond, M. P., and Wm. Redmond, his brother, who have been working up the Irish national league of Australia, have arrived here. The former said prior to his visit there was no organized movement in Australia. During his stay he addressed 42 meetings, established three hundred permanent branches, collected seventy-five thousand dollars and created the federal convention to hold yearly meetings, comprising a delegation of delegates from the various branches. Redmond further said the colonies subscribed about $4000 to the Parnell fund to be sent to Parnell as a special donation. As members of parliament are not paid, arrangements were made in six colonies to subscribe yearly sufficient to support six Irish members elected under the auspices of the league.

A SURPRISING VERDICT.

Acquittal of the Prisoners in the Emma Bond Case.

HILLSBORO, Ill., Jan. 3.—The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of the three men charged with outraging Miss Emma Bond. The verdict caused immense surprise and has created great excitement. A meeting was held to-night with Mr. Glenn, a prominent miller, as leader, and a resolution adopted that if any of the defendants are in the town to-morrow morning a public meeting will be held and they will be notified to leave immediately. A movement was made to hang the jury in front of the court house, but the idea was finally abandoned.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND

A CLEVER BUT DISHONEST CONFIDENTIAL CLERK.

Meeting His Detainee in Chicago House of Ill-Report, He is Easily Captured by the Pinkerton Agency.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—About Christmas the Pinkerton agency received a telegram from Speary & Barnes, New York and New Haven, stating that their exchange clerk, E. H. Kolbe, had absconded after forging and converting to his own use one hundred thousand dollars in exchange. The agency discovered Kolbe here in company with a man named John R. Vanarsdale. They were spending money very freely. Vanarsdale returned to New York where he had been arrested. Kolbe was arrested secretly in a house of ill-repute with one of the inmates, with whom he had become intimate. He was the point of starting for Mexico. Four hundred dollars in money was found in his possession and $1200 worth of furs and silks, which he had lavished on the woman who had become his mistress. Kolbe spent $200 on her and Vanarsdale $2000. He forged bills of exchange on Banford Bros., which were readily disposed of to Jessup, Paten & Co. Being recognized at the exchange by a clerk of the firm he had the checks made payable to his personal order instead of to the firm. He opened an account with another bank, collected the amount of Jessup, Paten & Co's checks, and that if any of the bank's checks were cashed, he would be notified, and absconded. He confessed his gains are fully $100,000.

THE BRUTES OF THE RING.

Sullivan and Slade's Inaugural of the New Year.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 3.—A special from Denver, Colorado, says that the Sullivan-Slade party had a street fight in Denver yesterday. Slade and Sullivan and a couple of others passed New Year's night in a notorious house of ill-fame. This morning a row occurred while all were in their cups, and Sullivan was thrown out of the house. He was not armed, but his assailants were. Sullivan then entered the saloon and endeavored to procure a loan of his revolver. The man refused to lend it and Sullivan knocked senseless all hands then turned upon Sullivan, who, not liking the situation, beat a precipitate retreat. In the melee Slade was struck on the head with a brick bat and fell into the street. Slade was taken to a hotel inensible from the blow, but his injuries were only temporary.

WANTED—PROBATION.

Proposed Appeal of the Women to the Party Conventions.

MURDERERS AND THEIR VICTIMS.

Two Executions on One Day at Newark, N. J.

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 3.—Robert Martin was hanged at 10.28 a. m. for the murder of his wife and child. He ate a light breakfast and received the sacrament. James B. Graves was hanged at 11.04 o'clock for the murder of the boy lamp lighter Eddie Saden. He cried like a child and had to be carried to a scaffold. There was a large crowd outside the prison.

On the night of June 15, 1881, Martin went home intoxicated and fought with his wife. She left the house, but returned and picked up her infant daughter who was lying in the cradle and started down stairs. Martin followed with a revolver fixed at her three times of aim and shot her.

Graves was 55 years of age and a recluse. He lived in the same house with the Saden family. The boy in the neighborhood were in the habit of annoying him and he had often threatened them. On the night of Dec. 20, 1881, he crept up behind Eddie Saden while the latter was lighting a lamp and shot him in the back, killing him.

Graves was attended by two ministers who prayed on the scaffold. He died from strangulation apparently without suffering. He left an address to the public expressing grief for shedding innocent blood and attributing the crime to the influence of disease, medicines, and liquor. Graves was an infidel and no religious services were held over him. When the trap was sprung he struggled hard for an instant. His pulse ceased in five minutes and then expired, beating irregularly for six minutes.

THE BRUTES OF THE RING.

Sullivan and Slade's Inaugural of the New Year.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 3.—A special from Denver, Colorado, says that the Sullivan-Slade party had a street fight in Denver yesterday. Slade and Sullivan and a couple of others passed New Year's night in a notorious house of ill-fame. This morning a row occurred while all were in their cups, and Sullivan was thrown out of the house. He was not armed, but his assailants were. Sullivan then entered the saloon and endeavored to procure a loan of his revolver. The man refused to lend it and Sullivan knocked senseless all hands then turned upon Sullivan, who, not liking the situation, beat a precipitate retreat. In the melee Slade was struck on the head with a brick bat and fell into the street. Slade was taken to a hotel inensible from the blow, but his injuries were only temporary.

On the night of Dec. 20, 1881, he crept up behind Eddie Saden while the latter was lighting a lamp and shot him in the back, killing him.

Graves was 55 years of age and a recluse. He lived in the same house with the Saden family. The boy in the neighborhood were in the habit of annoying him and he had often threatened them. On the night of Dec. 20, 1881, he crept up behind Eddie Saden while the latter was lighting a lamp and shot him in the back, killing him.

The Mountain Minstrel.

The English poetical works of Evan MacColl, author of "The Mountain Minstrel,"...

The biographical notice prefixed to this edition is from the pen of Mr. McKenzie, the editor of the Celtic Magazine, in which...

There is nothing surprising in the early development of the poetical faculty in a youth raised amidst such scenery and associations...

The appearance of this collection, which was entitled "The Mountain Minstrel," elicited very favorable comments...

It is impossible in a brief notice of this kind to do anything like justice to productions of such variety and intrinsic merit...

It is only necessary to add that appended to the volume are some highly readable extracts from Mr. MacColl's "Notes of a tour through the north of Scotland" in 1838-39.

Mr. MacColl's "Notes of a tour through the north of Scotland" in 1838-39. These show the writer to be a keen observer as well as apt at describing what came under his notice.

An Adroit Theft. Galligan's Messenger of Dec. 11 says: A Spanish prefect, Senor Soriano, returning from the Amsterdam exhibition, where he had been representing the interests of the province, made his preparations for leaving Paris last week.

Who does not know the tearful grand old man, whose sweet, wrinkled face, clean dress and lavender-colored collar carry one back to childhood's days?

A woman, no matter how poor she is, and how deep the creases of her dress take more and more pains with her hair as time rolls on.

"Nerve," said Tamms, "why, he's just full of nerve! Why, when he caught me kissing his wife he wasn't at all embarrassed."

THE WORLD AT LARGE.

A genuine Rembrandt has arrived in Paris, and is pronounced to be superior to the one in the Louvre, valued at 500,000 francs.

The library of Harvard college contains the first two drafts of Longfellow's "Excelsior." The first is written on the back of a note addressed to Longfellow by Charles Sumner, and is endorsed "Sept. 28, 1841, 3.30 o'clock, morning."

Buda-Pesth intends, like Vienna, to celebrate her deliverance from the Turks by series of popular festivities. The first occurred three years later than the raising of the siege of Vienna, namely, on September 6, 1686.

The members of the imperial and royal families, as well as those of all those of Austrian, Hungarian, and foreign families who were assisted in the reconquest of Buda-Pesth, are to be invited to the celebration.

Twenty-three ostriches stalked up to the New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter and began to peck at his coat button. Mr. L. J. Selfridge explained that he had imported the birds for breeding, and that they are the best that the American Ostrich company's agent could find in South Africa.

The following letter on the question whether laughing is painful appears in the Pall Mall Gazette: "The following facts, as related to me by a late distinguished officer who died high in rank in our navy, may be of some public interest."

VENTRILOQUISM is declared by an expert to be very largely a humbug. There is no such possibility of throwing the voice to a distance. The old stories of the wizard, in which he figured as exploiting such ability in the midst of a crowd, were necessarily fiction.

MR. THOMAS BENGHUGH WILL ORGANIZE an advanced Evening School on Thursday, the 10th January, at 8 o'clock, at the Albion Club, 111 Queen Street West.

RAILROAD COMPANIES are held responsible for heavy damages for injury to passengers, because it is their business to carry them safely.

When one goes on board a steamship and sees the fire-hatches and axles, the life-boats and life-preservers, and then reflects how seldom there is any occasion to them, it seems like a waste of money—a provision against danger that was not to be made.

THE MADRID LIQUENTANT.

Sketch of the Man Who is Believed to be Assisting the King's Progress. The Paris Figaro gives some interesting details respecting a Frenchman named Souleis, who is believed to be the Madrid right hand man and to have taken a leading share in the defeat of the Egyptian force under Hicks Pasha.

He was then a young fellow of about 24 years, very dark and witty, loud in talk and extravagant in gesture. He was from Algeria, where his family still reside. When the war broke out his family, dreading lest his adventurous spirit should lead him into danger, summoned him home to the Algerian capital, where he does not appear to have pursued any settled occupation.

One fine morning he disappeared, and his friends, who were in a state of alarm, heard that he had joined Arabi, to gratify his passion for fighting the English. After the collapse of Arabi he fled to Cairo, and subsequently joined the False Prophet, in whose operations he is now so prominently before the public eye.

It is a curious fact that the name of the False Prophet must not be confounded with the name of the False Prophet, who was the officer of the same name and name who so distinguished himself in the Ashab-ul-Batini, who gained his rank and name in the west coast of Africa, at present with his regiment in India.
