Appalling Railway Disaster in Yorkshire—The "Flying Scotsman" Crashes Into a Freight Train With Terrible Results—Railway Directors and the Members of the Nobility Among the Injured.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—An appalling railway accident occurred early this morning near Thirsk, in Yorkshire, by which 10 persons were killed and a large number injured. The east coast express train for London left Edinburgh at 10.30 o'clock last night. The express train, being unusually heavy, was divided into two sections. The first section proceeded safely to London, leaving at the usual hour. The second section had over 100 passengers on board, including several noblemen and other distinguished persons. The train, which consisted of coaches from Dundee, Perth, Aberdeen and Aberdeen, swept safely through Scotland and the extreme north of England. A thick fog prevailed and the express train collided at full speed with a goods train on a siding at Manor House. The wreck of the express train was complete. The carriages were broken and jammed together, and most of the passengers were killed or seriously injured. The train was on a siding at Manor House. The wreck of the express train was complete. Men and women could be heard shrieking for assistance, and one man who was being slowly burned to death and who was being held out begged the rescuers, in heaven's name, to kill him.

The scene at the wreck was pitiable. Some of the bodies taken out of the debris had been burned beyond all semblance to humanity. The clothes and jewelry were melted by the intense heat. This will render the identification of the bodies extremely difficult, if not impossible.

A wrecking train was despatched to the scene as soon as the disaster became known. A number of physicians were carried to the wreck, and at once devoted themselves to relieving the suffering of the injured.

There Are Already Fifteen Aged Women in the Institution—It Has Cost $20,000.

The new building lately erected for the aged women's home in Belmont street was formally opened yesterday. The home was established nine years ago, but up to the present has been located in the part of the building of the Industrial Refuge. The meeting was made the occasion of presenting the 20th annual report of the Industrial Refuge and the ninth of the aged women's home. The two institutions are controlled by the same board of management. The printed report gives a full list of all subscriptions, but separate accounts are not kept for the two institutions. The total receipts for the two charities amount to $24,355.

The new building is a marvel of construction and elegance. It has cost $18,000 and the furniture and fittings will probably cost $20,000 more. This completes the project which the board of management has undertaken, and consequently are now about $18,000 in debt. There are 15 aged women already residing in the building.

Among those who spoke regarding the aged women's home were Rev. Dr. Thomas, Rev. Dr. Potts, H. A. Massey and Rev. William Frizzell. Mr. Waring Kennedy, who is the chairman of the board, and the other gentlemen soon appeared and made his speech in good form.

Wet Weather Prevented a Parade—Promotions and Appointments.

The muster roll of the Q.O.R. last night showed 187 men present. The battalion did not parade, as the weather would have injured the arms so that they would not be fit for inspection next Wednesday. After the band had played a selection of music, the band was dismissed with the exception of companies E and K, which were inspected by Lieut. Col. Oter and Capt. Macdougall. In the absence of the Mayor, the band returned with helmets for muster roll next Wednesday night.

Fourteen recruits were received last night, and two, Pte. Damer and Pte. Packard, were struck off the list.

The following were entitled to good service badges and were paraded in the ordinary uniform, and men of the 1st and 2nd battalions, Col. Sergt. Vicars for six years, Sergt. Cockburn, Bugler Jenkins and Bandman Smith, for three years, and Corporal Brown, for two years.

Presentations to the Mayor—Sergeant N. B. Sanson of G. Company, Q.O.R., was last evening presented with a handsome gold watch by the officers and men of the 1st and 2nd battalions. The watch was presented to the Mayor by the officers and men of the 1st and 2nd battalions.

MUST DELIVER UP THE CHILD.

The Father to Have His Custody—The Parties Reside Near Welland—A Horse Dead.

Chief Justice Galt yesterday delivered judgment in the matter of the Dilce child, making an order for the attachment of the mother if, within seven days after the demand of the father, she does not deliver up the child to his father. The parties separated some time ago, and subsequently an order was made for the delivery by the wife of the child to her husband, but she failed to comply with this order, and an application was made to commit her in three months. The meeting was made the occasion of presenting the 20th annual report of the Industrial Refuge and the ninth of the aged women's home. FOUND PROOF IN HIS POCKET

A CASE WHERE A WIFE DISCOVERED A GOLD MINE.

A Breun Lures a Fickle Husband to Destruction and the Wife is Now Seeking for Damages—A Valuable Letter and How It Was Discovered by the Plaintiff.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Nov. 2.—At the Assize Court this morning, before Mr. Justice Street and a jury, the suit of Quick v. Church was heard. It was a most unusual case, the first perhaps in the history of Canadian litigation. The plaintiff is Mrs. Sarah Jane Quick of Woodstock and the defendant Agnes Church of Green Bay, Wisconsin. Plaintiff is the wife of a man named Quick, formerly employed in a responsible position in the Karm organ factory, Woodstock. She charges the defendant, Agnes Church, a widow with a large family, of having alienated the affections of plaintiff's husband, and with having seduced him, and with allowing him to go and consort with her.

Plaintiff was represented by Mr. J. C. Fullerton, Q.C., Toronto, and defendant by D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., of Toronto. Mrs. Quick, the plaintiff, a quiet-looking woman of about 45 years of age, entered the box and said she was married 25 years ago. They lived together at Kalamazoo for six years, and then they went away and left her for a year. It came back and they lived together for 16 years, chiefly in Godrich, Clinton and later in Woodstock. She said she was a widow in the Karm works, and had a salary of $1200 per annum. They lived happily together for 16 years, and then she was again left her two years ago. She saw a great change in her husband, and her husband's pockets were searched and she found a letter in his pocket which she said was the cause of her husband's desertion.

She got the letter one night when she was in bed, and she found it in her husband's pocket. She said she was a widow in the Karm works, and had a salary of $1200 per annum. They lived happily together for 16 years, and then she was again left her two years ago. She saw a great change in her husband, and her husband's pockets were searched and she found a letter in his pocket which she said was the cause of her husband's desertion.

The Toronto World.

NO. 5 YONGE STREET, TORONTO. A One Cent Morning Paper.

Provincial Police. In most civilized countries there is a public prosecutor, whose business it is to set the criminal law in motion against all who seem to be within the grip of it.

The Attorney-General, who is the chief law officer of the crown, is indeed in one sense a public prosecutor. It is his duty on being satisfied that a punishable crime is committed, to take such steps as are calculated to lead to the punishment of the criminal.

But the Attorney-General proceeds in a case or obtains from entering upon it according to his discretion, and his intervention is practically limited, as indeed it should be, to cases of gross direct offence, to cases where the crime is directly connected with the public interest.

The World does not favor the appointment of a public prosecutor, but it cannot but point out the existing unsatisfactory manner in which affairs are conducted.

The Honorable Edward Blake on the educational platform is usually both eloquent and wise. The character of his mind is didactic, his failure as a politician arises from his incapacity to subordinate this faculty to the practical exigencies that confront a statesman.

What ought to be one thing, which so often antagonizes what can be, that he is bent upon some ideal, and is not prepared to sacrifice for the accomplishment of less desirable, but the only possible policy or scheme.

Mr. Blake in a speech at Harvard University declared that "the whole basis of democracy is the people as of themselves." It is that there should be provided for them trained and schooled leaders of thought and influence, hence in a country governed like the States and Canada, the most important institutions that can be suggested to the imagination are the universities of the land.

Without derogating from the value of universities we should be inclined to regard the education of the people as of paramount importance in a democratically-governed state. Universities flourish, and have for centuries flourished, in lands where the "common people," so-called, that is, the classes outside the professions, are, in the absence of more political or social liberty, the most potent "leaders of thought and influence" the world has known in the realm of politics have been men with out the great advantage of university training.

And if democracy is an educated people; with that assured there will be no lack of leaders of high intellectual culture, as demand creates supply, and the more general education is diffused the higher the standard of these educational accomplishments which are the fruit of university training.

Mr. Blake made a good point in stating to his American audience that "the system of the Republic is not free enough for Canadians." Here we can charge the question in Ireland is to convert the occupant into the proprietor of the soil, which he said would make that land "the crown and glory and strength, instead of the poverty, weakness and despair of the British Empire." We feel like crying, "Question, question!" on hearing such a dogmatic utterance about the land problem, when the one before the country is not, who shall own the soil of Ireland, but by whom, and how, shall it be governed?

Mr. Blake, it has been proclaimed by himself and friends, has entered the British Parliament to advance the cause of Home Rule in Ireland. Yet at Harvard he stated his opinion to be that, "only way that is to pacify the Irish was to convert the occupants of land into its proprietors, to make every tenant his own landlord. We venture to prophesy, if Mr. Blake says this to Mr. Gladstone, he will be reminded of the fact that the question "before the meeting" is not one of land tenure, but the policy of giving self-government to the Irish and that turning tenants into landlords is not at present "practical politics."

In another part of his Harvard speech Mr. Blake said: "The ultimate satisfactory solution of the Irish question is to be achieved with the ripening of public opinion is more complete federation of Britain itself." Here then are two things said by Mr.

TESTING THE CONDUIT.

Hand in the House of Representatives. A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives to amend the act relating to the testing of conduits.

The meeting of the Waterworks Committee yesterday afternoon was characterized by some "higher criticism" of the report of the committee on the test of conduits. The report was read by Mr. Ald. McMurich.

Ald. Gowanlock presided and there were present Ald. McMurich, David Cayley and Crawford. A caustic letter was read from Engineer Keating, setting forth that in a resolution passed Oct. 8 he was under the impression that the very effort was being made to get matters in shape for testing the conduit.

Iron poles are to be erected by the company in these streets: Yonge from Front to Davenport; King from Parliament to Bathurst; Queen from Parliament to Bathurst; Front from Jarvis to Simcoe; York from Queen to the Esplanade; Church from Front to Queen; Sherbourne from Bloor to Elm-avenue, and upon all such streets in the city of Toronto.

Wooden poles may be erected in other streets, but the City Engineer may order their removal with the approval of two-thirds of the members of the council at the rate of 10 per cent.

The wooden poles now erected may be continued provided they are equal to those in use at present, and that no place iron or wooden poles according to the order of the City Engineer.

The poles are not to be less than 110 feet apart, and the trolley wires are to be suspended at least 18 feet from the ground.

A MEANS FOR DAMAGES. Likely to Last Several Days—Six Shots. Yesterday the attention of the Assize Court was occupied the entire day with taking evidence in the $10,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Obernier against J. Ross Robertson for an unfair report of a suit against her in the Division Court.

Many figures of both parties were present in the court all day, consequently seating accommodation was at a premium. An odd stage in the proceedings, when Mr. Robertson made a statement to the jury, was reading an address to a witness he made frequent stops and Mr. Obernier, opposing water for power unless the parties using water for that purpose will agree to take water as we get it.

It was decided to notify the authorities at Upper Canada College that if they do not continue the use of city water, they must not allow their main to be tapped. Dr. Lacritz Smith, who has already tapped the man, will not be interfered with.

Personal Liability on Mortgages. Editor of the World: In an article from your issue on "Real Estate" that the personal covenant in mortgages is to be discussed in the coming session of the Ontario Legislature. It may be hoped that the result will be the abolition of it.

Art Goddard. The mistress of Ye Gallery of Arts is the mistress of Dame Jones, wears a stately gown of black velvet and brocade; her hair is dressed in the latest fashion, and she is a fine figure; the young Misses Jones wear Sir Joshua Reynolds costumes with large collars and high waists.

The gypsy maids are nearly all dark-eyed and beautiful with rich golden hair and blue eyes. They are dressed in the latest fashion, and they are a fine figure; the young Misses Jones wear Sir Joshua Reynolds costumes with large collars and high waists.

Medical Health. Inspector Hughes has issued orders to the Public School teachers of this city that no pupils are to be allowed to play near the manholes and typhoid, and giving it as his opinion that he would probably not have been an epidemic of those diseases had children not played round the manholes last summer, and older people had been aware of the danger lurking beneath the iron grating.

Building Permits. During the month of October the City Commissioner's Department issued permits for the erection of new buildings and alterations to existing ones. The total value of the work for the year up to Oct. 31 was $2,169,805, against $3,387,465 for the same period in 1891.

Fire in a Manure Dump. On the 2nd inst. a fire broke out in a manure dump. It is placed there preparatory to being carried into the lake by a scow. A fireman is kept burning while the night soil is taken up by the manure cart to the manure and the flames spread to the pile of manure, but it took them a couple of hours to subside the flames.

Corps cadets. The Corps Cadets of the 1st Battalion of the 48th Regiment are now in camp at Camp Borden. They are under the command of Major-General Sir John A. Macdonald.

THOSE TROLLEY POLES.

An Agreement Reached Between the City and the Railway Company. An agreement has at last been arrived at between the city and the Toronto Railway Company regarding the much-vexed question of trolley poles.

Several conferences have been held on the matter, but yesterday the negotiations reached a point where all were agreed. It is a sort of give-and-take agreement with the honor somewhat in the city's favor. The matter is now withdrawn from the council.

Iron poles are to be erected by the company in these streets: Yonge from Front to Davenport; King from Parliament to Bathurst; Queen from Parliament to Bathurst; Front from Jarvis to Simcoe; York from Queen to the Esplanade; Church from Front to Queen; Sherbourne from Bloor to Elm-avenue, and upon all such streets in the city of Toronto.
