The man who pays his debts and his taxes may be a blessing or a curse to the community. It depends on what else he does. In making this statement it is understood that by the word "debts" is meant the ordinary cash obligation which a man incurs in the transaction of business. There are men who appear to believe that as long as they are not indebted to their neighbor for goods purchased or to the municipality for the last tax levy, that they have discharged their whole duty and nothing more can be asked of them. But in reality a man's duty to his neighbor is limited only by his power to do his neighbor good and his duty to the community by his ability to be of service to it. The community in which the prevailing statement is, "What do I get out of it," is one which does not and cannot prosper. Not what we get out of life, but what we put into it is what counts in the long run.

Robinson of Muncey, a former pastor, who paid a high tribute to the character of the deceased and spoke very feelingly about his love and fidelity to the church of his choice. Among the floral tributes on the casket was a wreath from the business men of the town. Interment was made in Watford cemetery, the pallbearers being W. S. Fuller, E. D. Swift, Wm. McLeay, C. W. A meeting of ratepayers of the district was held in the School house on Wednesday evening on Wednesday evening to discuss the cost and advisability of supplying the farms in the vicinity with hydro power. Mr. Lawler, engineer for the Commission, was present and explained the approximate cost and the necessary procedure to obtain the power. The meeting seemed largely in favor of securing the power and a committee was appointed to canvass the 10, 12 and 14th con. and 6th con. of Warwick and report results at a future meeting. As many of the residents of the district are enthusiastic about the matter it is altogether likely that power will be installed in that part of the township shortly.

A two-headed pig was recently born on the farm of H. G. Whiting of Nissouri township, about half a mile beyond Crumlin. This freak lived for several days and seemed to be as well disposed as any other pig, but, falling ill, no efforts were made to bring it to maturity because Mr. Whiting sagely remarked, "he didn't care to feed two heads merely to get two hams."

A peculiar and distressing case of cruelty to animals is reported in Burford township. A few days ago some boys were out hunting rabbits on a man's farm and found a calf chained to a fence, where the poor brute had evidently been tethered for some months and had not been removed to shelter after the cold and snow storms set in. The chain, with which it was tied had worn through the skin on the calf's neck and the skin had grown together again over the chain. A cow was found dead in the barnyard, and a bull was tied to a post and had been nearly devoured by the starving animal. The County authorities were notified and when the officer visited the place the calf was lying dead in the slush and snow. It is hard to realize how any one with any regard for his own financial interests would permit such a condition to exist.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A man does not have to go in for frenzied finance to be driven into a frenzy by his finances.

Some people go to the movies to rest their minds, others to rest their feet, while others go there to read aloud the titles and annoy their neighbors.

A writ for slander, claiming $50,000 damages, has been issued by the United Farmers' Co-Operative Company against Dr. A. A. Farewell, of Oshawa, following his criticism of the company's affairs. The writ was issued by Gordon Waldron, K.C., solicitor to the U.F.O.

Border Cities Star:—Not only is the public backing up the Adolescent Act's enforcement, but employers are giving it every support, for they realize that an educated employee is worth more than one whose intellectual life was stunted in his early years. Citizens generally should support the compulsory education of every boy and girl under the age of sixteen years, for the battle of life is to be best qualified.

Hamilton Herald:—Four years ago as a war economy, Britain dispensed with grand juries for five years. Now they are considering whether it is worth while resuscitating them, for the administration of justice has not suffered from their absence. In Canada the grand jury is not a very useful institution, but in many of the American States it is utilized for important investigations, and often renders valuable public service.

Canada's Victory bonds are back to par. The 1937 issue reached 100 during Friday's trading at Toronto, with little or no pressure to sell on the advance. While this represents an advance of only 10 cents, the fact that this particular issue is again quoted at its face value is itself attracted attention. Other issues are now quoted close to par, with a corresponding reduction in the field. This may have a far reaching effect on money rates generally.

Some of the States of the American Union are suffering from an over abundance of corn; and by-the-way, this is not the only thing the U. S. is suffering from. It has in its possession over one third of the gold of the world, running into the billions, pocket book bulges to bursting point, and yet it has other problems on which its wealth seems to have no effect. For instance, its gigantic unemployment and labor questions and its divorce evil, which is eating the heart out of its home life.

ARE YOU 'FED UP?'

Have you had your fill of high-life divorces? Are you tired of murder mysteries; of graft stories; of highway robbery; of assault and battery?

Do you long to read CLEAN news about clean people, particularly about the folk in whom you have greatest personal interest, the people of your own home town?

There is only one sure way—

When corn is 32 cents a bushel it is as cheap fuel as coal at $16 a ton, according to Secretary Wallace of the American Department of Agriculture. At 20 cents a bushel it is a fuel as cheap as coal at $10 a ton. "Undoubtedly," he says, "large quantities of corn will be burned on Western farms this winter unless the price should materially advance." In Argentina, corn is burned to-day, not only on farms, but in power plants.

Five hundred Michigan druggists are being enlisted in the state's effort to eradicate diphtheria, the disease which is now costing $16,000 in preventable deaths. Through three drug stores, starting the first of the year, the state department of health will distribute diphtheria antitoxin free of charge to the public as provided by the last legislature. Antitoxin is administered to diphtheria patients to prevent death and is given to those who have been exposed to the disease to render immediate immunity.

Brewing of beer and manufacture of native wine for home consumption are permissible only in cases where permits are granted by the Department of Customs and Excise, according to J. H. Bertram, collector of Inland Revenue, Toronto. Persons desirous of making beer or wine for their own use must notify the department and receive a permit before proceeding with the undertaking, or they will be liable to prosecution under the inland revenue act. The Inland Revenue Collector's announcement is confirmed by legal authorities at Parliament Buildings, Toronto and James P. Haverson, K.C.

The continued weakness in all farm products, which extends to meats as well as grains, would seem to make it fairly certain that the decline in the general index for all products in Canada will continue for some time. This decline is not altogether unhealthy. Since it is really now the process of adjustment of the various items to a general level. It is to be noted that the fall in wholesale prices in the United States has been heavier than in Canada, and it is to be expected that for some time Canadian prices will continue to decline more rapidly than those in the United States until the level between the two is more even.

To read carelessly and listen inattentively have much more serious results than missing the benefit of a certain book or discourse. It means that you are forming the habit of missing the best of all that you read or hear. A young woman for some years attended a church with a dull rector, as she thought, and instead of listening to the service she was accustomed to exercise her thoughts in different channels. When after some years she sat under the preaching of some man of marked eloquence she was shocked to find herself unable to listen to him for five minutes at a time, without wandering attention. The habit of reading a trashy book skimmingly as many reviewers do, is equally disastrous. Granted that is all the book deserves, the mind deserves better.

The newspapers of the province are again emphasizing the fact that many of the pupils of the public schools are remarkably poor writers. The Aylmer Express says: "Criticism of the manner in which writing is taught in public schools is adverse. It is a generally admitted fact that the writing of many of the pupils who graduate from the public school today is more like a scrawl than an exhibition of penmanship. Something has gone wrong in recent years in the teaching of writing, and it apparently is going from bad to worse. This is to be regretted, and the department should give special attention to a remedy." The indefensible habit of the abbreviation of words in writing is also very noticeable. This often leads to errors in interpretation. The practice in failing to spell out the word "and" is also to be deplored. No good writer will abbreviate this word.

Friendship—Yes! But—

"The Bill will not let in Canadian wheat, but will save to the American farmer the right to raise a bushel of wheat instead of transferring that right to Canada."—Mr. Fordney, in introducing the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill which has shut millions of dollars worth of Canadian foodstuffs out of the United States market.

"If we are to build up a self-sustaining agriculture here at home, the farmer must be protected from unfair competition from those countries where agriculture is still being exploited."—President Harding. The very spot chosen to deliver this speech—Minnesota—shows that Harding had the Canadian North-West in mind.

WHILE ties of friendship unite Canada and the United States, the attitude of Uncle Sam is that of "Business First", and Canada cannot and should not hope for any consideration from the United States where the interests of the farmers and business people of that country are involved.

Uncle Sam has built the Fordney Tariff directly against Canadian agriculture, and new additional Tariff proposals are now under consideration to shut out from the United States Canadian goods of every kind.

These measures are due to the insistence of the American farmer that the United States market shall be retained exclusively for him and that the influx of Canadian farm products into that country must cease. They are also due to a like insistence of United States manufacturers and workers, who have seen their country develop tremendously and grow rich under a Protective Tariff, and who believe that a still further increase in Tariff is the only means of assuring continued prosperity.

CONTRAST THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNITED STATES LEADERS WITH THAT OF CANADA'S WOULD-BE LEADERS, CRERAR AND KING

Crerar proposes to allow American goods to enter the Canadian market free of duty.

King proposes that the present reasonable Tariff on the products of the American factory and farm shall be greatly reduced, and that the home market of the Canadian farmer and manufacturer alike shall be thrown open to our Southern neighbour, in the face of the United States Emergency tariff, which practically shuts out Canadian farm products from these markets, and also in the face of the permanent tariff now under consideration at Washington, which gives every promise of being even more drastic than the Emergency Tariff so far as our products are concerned.

In view of the attitude of the United States, what folly it is for Crerar and King to propose throwing open the Canadian market to a flood of both agricultural and manufactured products of the United States when there is not the slightest possibility of any compensative advantage to Canada.

Does any sane Canadian believe that Crerar or King, hat in hand, could persuade the United States Government to completely reverse its Tariff policies and agree to reciprocal trade in face of American public demand for a high protective Tariff?

The people of the United States conduct their affairs and protect themselves by the principle that "Business is business." Why should Canada do otherwise?

Unlike Crerar or King, MEIGHEN stands firm for a reasonable Tariff to protect all our industries—those of the farm, the sea, the mine, the forest, the factory, and for the building up of a bigger and better Canada through the full development of the home market.

FRIENDSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES? YES, BY ALL MEANS!

BUT— let us defend our home market, our industries, our farms, our workmen, our homes by the same methods as are used so effectively against us.

Let us work out our own destiny—that of a strong, self-contained nation within the British Empire group of Nations, courageous, masterful, self-reliant.

Save Clothes

by Taking the Rub out of Wash Day

EVERY RELIABLE GROCER HAS MIR-A-CLE NOW

Get a trial bottle and be convinced that it does entirely take the place of rubbing.

Every bottle of Mir-A-cle is fully guaranteed. Your grocer will cheerfully refund the purchase price if Mir-A-cle does not satisfy you.

Wash Your Clothes Clean Without Rubbing at Five Cents a Washing

YOU'VE NEVER YET BEEN ABLE TO USE A SOAP OR A WASHING COMPOUND THAT TURNED OUT YOUR WASHING SATISFACTORILY WITHOUT RUBBING. EVEN MACHINE WASHED CLOTHES—LABOR-SAVING AS THE MACHINE IS—ARE NOT AS WHITE AS THEY SHOULD BE UNLESS GIVEN A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF RUBBING.

SINCE THE DAYS OF SOAP, SOAP MAKERS HAVE BEEN TRYING TO FIND SOMETHING TO TAKE THE PLACE OF RUBBING WITHOUT INJURING THE CLOTHES—IT HAS BEEN THE "MISSING LINK" OF THE WASHING PROBLEM.

Mir-A-cle The Missing Link

"Mir-A-cle, the latest chemical discovery for washing, is that missing link. It is the thing that soap has needed all along to accomplish the washing without rubbing. Mir-A-cle isn't a soap—it isn't a washing tablet—it's a liquid cream which adds the chemical properties to soapy water; that act as a dirt solvent without causing injury to the fabric or the clothes.

This is what C. J. McLennan, Chemist, who Discovered "Mir-A-cle" says :

"If I were selling a bottle of Mir-A-cle Cream direct to a housewife, I would probably say: 'Madam, you have never been able to turn out a washing with soap alone without labor and even when you have the dirt removed from the clothes they are not white. That is because some of the soap is left in the fabric.'

"Mir-A-cle is intended to be mixed with soap. It eliminates the rubbing and removes from the clothes every particle of soap, leaving the clothes soft, silky and clean. Understand, You Must Use Soap, as you have in the past—any kind of soap."

CREAM The WEST FLOUR

"How's that for a pie!"

YOU can also make beautiful lightcakes and bread of wonderful whiteness and flavor with Cream of the West Flour.

Maple Leaf Milling Co., Limited
Toronto, Winnipeg, Brandon, Halifax

From a little hamlet of sheep-herders away up in the highland of Scotland, the cleanest, the softest and the whitest wool used to find its way to the market. What manner of sheep-growing did they carry on up there? What special feed did they give their sheep, and where had they secured stock with such elegant coats of wool, the wool buyers used to ask—but the canny mountain herders kept their silence and went from the wool markets with the best prices and their secret still their own.

There was a little Scotch laddie who lived among these sheep-herders and while other laddies were playing he was watching the washers get their wool ready for the market. He noticed that they used a washing solution that brought the dirt from the wool without harming the texture, and right there that little lad discovered the secret, of the good wool that had made his little hamlet famous among the wool buyers.

Years after, grown to a man, and in a large new country that little boy had great reason to remember his experiences of that day. The work that he engaged in had made him an expert in chemicals—and when the world war came a large allied power sought his aid to solve a great problem. What chemical process was there through which the clothes of the boys in the trenches could be passed to rid them of "cooties" and germs without harming the clothes.

Right back to his home hamlet in Scotland went the thoughts of the once little boy, now grown to a big man—in chemical research work, to hunt up the secret of the washing solution. After much research he was soon in possession of a formula for a washing cream built and perfected upon the basic principles that had been used for generations to wash the sheep. This he used as a basis for his washing cream that was used so successfully by the army of the country he represented.

The war over, and the success of the wonderful washing cream that had developed from his experiments with the sheep-herders' formula fresh in his mind from his army experience —the chemist realized its commercial value—its wonderful advantage as a washing cream to use in every household. First, because of its antiseptic and disinfecting powers, secondly because of its cleansing powers, and thirdly because it in no way harmed the garments on which it was to be used—it was bound to become popular he knew.

It has become popular. Under the name "Miracle Washing Cream" it has taken the housewives by storm and is revolutionizing the washing problem wherever used. That man is C. J. McLennan, President of the Miracle Manufacturing Company, Detroit, and President of the McLennan Chemical Company Limited, of Windsor, Canada.

CANADA SECOND IN WHEAT PRODUCTION

Canada is now the second wheat producing country in the world according to 1921 statistics. We produce about half as much wheat as the United States, but, they, it must be remembered, have ten inhabitants to our one. Russia, at one time an important factor in this fundamental industry, has apparently fallen by the wayside, for she does not appear in the 1921 list. The C.N.R. has carried this season—September 1st to November 13th.—41320 cars or approximately nine and three quarter million bushels. For the similar period in 1920, the number of cars handled was 21,853.

C.N.R. Employees Would Make a Great City.

If the 55,000 employees of the C. N. R. were domiciled in one spot, instead of being spread from one end of the country to the other, they would constitute a city larger than Hamilton, Calgary or Halifax. For it must be remembered that it is not only the people who actually work for the C. N. R. that are sustained by it, but their wives and families. This tremendous body of workers are actuated but by one motive, to make the C. N. R. the most successful publicly owned enterprise, divorced entirely from politics.

Capturing a New Market

Canada's flour is the standard of the world. This is pretty generally admitted. The writer knows one citizen of the United States who, on every visit he makes to Canada, carries home, under strict instructions from his wife, a number of loaves of bread, she claiming that no bread obtainable in the United States can approach that made from Canadian flour. As an instance of the increasing popularity of Canadian flour it is interesting to note that Dr. A. H. Stafford, born in Winnipeg but for some time past domiciled in Jamaica, recently said that until the steamships "Canadian Forester" and "Canadian Fisher" of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Service came into Kingston last spring, every pound of flour used on the Island came from the United States. Now it all comes from Canada. This very valuable market for Canadian products has been captured by three ways, Dr. Stafford affirms; First, the fact that Canada had ships to deliver it there; Second, the quality of the flour itself; and Third, the fact that the people of Jamaica desire closer commercial and social relations with the people of Canada.

ONE OF A BIG BUNCH

An editor, who, going away for a vacation left his paper in charge of a minister. During the minister's stay in his sanctum the following letter came from a country subscriber:

You know d— well I paid subscription to your paper the last time I was in town. If I get any more such letters from you as I received last week I will come to town and maul h— out of you!

The minister answered: I have been trying to maul that thing out of the editor for ten years; and if you will really come to town and maul it out of him, then, my dear sir, I have twenty members of my church I will also get you to operate on.

All of which goes to show that the printer averages up pretty well with the elect.

FEDERAL GENERAL ELECTIONS

Nominations Held Tuesday in All Ridings.

Candidates for Canada's fourteenth parliament were nominated on Friday, in the 235 Federal seats. There are three-cornered contests in a great majority of the Ridings. The Progressives nominated 144, Labor and Independent candidates number 73. There were four women candidates nominated. In Ontario, where there are 82 constituencies there were 79 Conservatives nominated, 64 Liberals and 70 Progressives.

In Lambton East the nominations were held at Alvinston. The proceedings were somewhat of a formality. The Conservatives and Progressives only nominated a candidate as follows:

Joseph E. Armstrong, farmer and oil producer; official agent Major McKittick.

Burt Wendell Fansher, farmer; H. A. Gilroy, financial agent.

The payment of the $200 deposit by representatives of the candidates to W. R. Dawson, returning officer, and the filing of the nomination papers was the feature of the proceedings. All papers relating to the nomination of the candidates were properly signed by more than the number required by the statutes and were accompanied by a signed declaration of acceptance by the candidates. Both candidates addressed the electors.

FORMER WARWICK RESIDENT

Many will learn with regret of the death on Nov. 8th, of Mrs. Jas. Robertson near Yale, Mich. Mrs. Robertson with her husband and family formerly lived on the 12th line of Plympton. They moved thence to Yale, Mich., about forty years ago, but the friendships formed while living in this country were never broken. Mrs. Robertson, although ninety-three years of age, retained her faculties, both mental and physical, to the last and was preparing for a visit to Forest when stricken with her fatal illness. Of a very kindly disposition, unusually intelligent and besides almost a model Christian she was a blessing and help to all with whom she came in contact. She was born in the Highlands of Scotland and possessed to a marked degree the good qualities of that strong and rugged race. Her surviving family are:—Mrs. W. Brandon, sr., Warwick; Miss Marion, at home; Mrs. B. Case, Stawthroy; Mrs. B. Haines, of Brown City, Mich.; Mrs. John Thompson, Sask.; John and Alex. near Yale, Mich. The funeral was large. The services were conducted by two old friends T. D. W. Muir, of Detroit, and D. McGeachy, of Sarnia. Mrs. Brandon was unable to attend the funeral through illness, and Mrs. Thompson on account of distance. Those attending from Forest were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. Will Brandon and Robt. Brandon, of Warwick; Robt. McLaren and sister Margaret, and John McCol of Plympton.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Mothers if your little ones are constipated; if their little stomach and bowels are out of order; if they cry a great deal and are cross and peevish, give them a dose of Baby's Own Tablets—the ideal medicine for little ones. The Tablets are a gentle but thorough laxative and never fail to right the minor disorders of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. Noble A. Pyle, Ecum Secum, N.S., writes:—"My baby was terribly constipated but Baby's Own Tablets soon relieved her and I now think them a splendid medicine for little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE FATE OF HELIGOLAND

Heligoland as a German fortress has been wiped out under the supervision of the inter-allied commission, and little remains to-day of the once powerful fort. The work of demolition has been going on for two years, and while not entirely completed yet the commission of which Admiral Sir Edward Charlton is the head, is said to be satisfied that the Island of Heligoland never again can be a menace to the allies. What little is left of the harbor, including the land reclaimed from the sea by the Germans, it is expected will be gradually destroyed by the North Sea.

The work yet to be done in the demolition of the fortress is expected to be completed next April. Then a final inspection will be made by the commission, and it is expected that Heligoland will then be handed back to Germany, under the provisions of the peace treaty. The commission has withdrawn the officers in control of the work of demolition, and the remainder of the undertaking has been left in German hands. Quarterly visits will be paid to the work by the commission until it is entirely completed.

The commission has left nothing to be taken for granted, even though the German authorities have aided, rather than hampered, the progress of the work. Naval officers have seen the great guns cut into pieces. In the destruction of carriage cases, fuses, etc., they have always insisted upon the production of the scrap metal, while in the destruction of the vast stores of explosives, where there is no residue to produce as evidence, they have personally watched the burnings. Admiral Charlton is said to be satisfied that very little in the way of warlike stores can have been concealed.

Besides the destruction of guns at Heligoland, gun emplacements and harbor works, on the island have been broken up. In addition to guns many of which were very large, batteries of howitzers and aircraft guns have been demolished.

In order to make certain that Heligoland cannot be utilized again as a site upon which to build a harbor for warships the commission has placed blocks of stone and concrete about the bed of the harbor so that dredging will not be possible.

Many Fish in Sea of Galilee.

The abundance of fish in the sea of Galilee is to this day the wonder of travelers. Most of the fishing done by the Syrians involves the use of nets probably identical in construction with those of the apostles, and the best evidence of the fishing having been done through the centuries with nets is to be found in the ease with which most of the fish may be deceived with the help of any bait, natural or artificial. The pellucid water of this beautiful lake, with its ever-changing reflections, is in striking contrast with the muddy depths of the Jordan, but the silt in that river, however unsightly to the eye, does not seem to inconvenience its fish, which are extraordinarily plentiful even in the lower reaches before it falls into that deathly lake which the Arabs call the Sea of Lot—London Chronicle.

Ancient City a Desolate Ruin.

It was predicted by both Conder in 1875 and Guthe in 1880 that unless something was done to stop the encroachment of the sands from the southward Ascalon would be covered from the sight of man within a few generations. This work of nature has been accomplished, for the place is now described as being "a desolate heap of ruins." In common with all ancient ruins, those of Ascalon show that man did more to destroy man's work than natural causes, for it is known that many marble pillars, remains of Roman and Crusading times, were dug up by the natives and sold for use as building material in Gaza and Jaffa.

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owen Sound, Ont.—"I suffered for ten years with female organic trouble, neuralgia and indigestion, and was weak and had such bad pains I could hardly walk or stand up at times. When I would swoop I would have to go and lie down. I could not sleep at night, and would wander around the house half the time. I tried everything but nothing did me any good, and the last doctor I had told me he never expected me to be on my feet again or able to do a day's work. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband said I should try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I thank God I did, for it relieved me, and I am now well and strong. I think there is no remedy like the Vegetable Compound for anyone who has my troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. You can publish my letter for the benefit of those I can't reach."

Wanted—A Husband

By KATE EDMONDS

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Had some good fairy suddenly interrogated Janice concerning what she wanted more than anything else in the whole world, the instantaneous answer would have been "a husband," which perhaps, is not so very surprising after all; for while the response would come on the heels of the question, it would lack the saving grace of being absolutely true. It was not so much a husband for which Janice yearned, as that which a husband usually represents.

Janice wanted a husband because she could not find a man to serve in the role of friend, whose reassuring arm would chase away all fear when the dark bridge had to be crossed at night after work; one who would sympathetically listen to the little tale of woe about the domineering foreday in the "department." Somehow it seemed to Janice if she could find a husband, he would be the pal for which she longed.

But in monotonous friendliness Janice continued to hemstitch her days away, until one day above the din of the machines electrically growling out the work, she had heard herself referred to as "the old maid."

In that moment an idea dawned and found expression; any plan seemed feasible to avoid the ridicule of her fellow-workers.

"I'll pretend there is some one. He lives far away, so I can't see him, but I must write him letters to inspire him in his work." She reassured herself. "Why shouldn't I?"

Then as the pretty pieces of organdy came out from beneath her needle in long rows of even hemstitching, the imagined husband of Janice was quite complete as to details, even to a name. "I think I would like the sound of Mrs. John Carpenter," and in her mind's eye she saw visiting cards bearing the words.

The day's work completed, she retraced her steps to the tiny room called home and sauntered into the "parlor" as nonchalantly as she was able, that no attention might be directed to her perusal of the almanac which comprised the sole extent of the rooming house library. Opening the book at "List of Towns in the United States," and turning to a page of that section at random, she placed her finger with blind faith and opened her eyes to find herself pointing to "Hay Ranch, Oklahoma."

In the safe seclusion of her room, the first letter was indited to the creation of a lonely girl's imagination. It was a sweet little letter, filled with the yearning for an understanding friendship.

When the missive, lacking other identification than "John Carpenter, Hay Ranch, Oklahoma" was deposited in the mail box, Janice felt happier. Though but the figment of her own mental creation, she had somebody to whom she "belonged." Nor was this the last letter composed, for whenever the ogre of loneliness pretended power, another would be dispatched telling "My darling husband John" all the details.

Some months had slipped by and early summer had merged into late fall. At the end of a trying day's work, Janice returned to the rooming house too despondent and depressed to care about the evening's meal. She walked slowly down the broad thoroughfare lined with its stores, restaurants and theaters, the loud billposters acclaiming the entertainment offered within. Amid the jostling of the unminding crowds, intent upon scurrying home, Janice was banded about, unnoticed in the motley assortment of humanity. In her hand she held, ready for posting, her letter to "John Carpenter, Hay Ranch, Oklahoma" in which she had written, "I long for a dear little cottage far away from the struggles of a big city. It does not seem that I can stand the strain much longer."

Janice turned the corner onto a more secluded street, where some construction work was being conducted. A scaffolding, its false foundation failing, gave way with a rasping but too abrupt warning to permit Janice to escape the deluge of things the boards supported.

Then, save for the fact that she had been grabbed with precipitate speed, she was conscious of no more until the white walls of a hospital room became as apparent a reality as the pain in her body; and the small common to medical institutions forced itself upon her consciousness.

A nurse, stiffly starched in white-apron cleanliness, greeted her. "Better, I see. Would you like to see a visitor?"

JANICE CROWE, her eyes, "A VISITOR?" This was a new world indeed. "Who would visit me?" The question came in a faint, far-away whisper of utter hopelessness.

The nurse smiled in professional fashion. "It is the man who snatched you actually from death. It was at great risk to his own life." She paused a moment and went on: "He comes every day to learn of your progress," and she added: "He sent you these roses."

Janice thought surely she was dreaming. She shut her eyes tightly—and opened them upon six feet of man, literally towering above the low cot.

She looked up at the friendly stranger as he held her hand lying so inert above the coverlet and smiled a wan, happy smile. "Thank you, Mr. Man, for the lovely roses."

Through long, torturous months when fractured bones seemed difficult of mending, always he was there, radiating a protecting friendship which seemed to yield the strength her pain-racked body demanded.

But when the period of convalescence was nearly over and no doctor's time limit did end the delightful moments before the bay window overlooking the bend in the river where the water sluggishly drifted into the ocean beyond, intimate, hopeful words of future happiness hurried the ultimate day of complete recovery.

Each morning the bed-tray, laden with savory breakfast dainties to tempt the returning appetite of the convalescent, was abetted by a sprightly nosegay, charming, colorful, fragrant. And nestling in its heart, Janice would find a tiny note of good cheer; sometimes an original thought of the man's big heart; often a gem culled from the mighty work of an inspired poet or author.

It was a wonderful morning, the sun reflecting its rays within the room with many multi-colored beams. Janice fussed before the hand mirror, adjusting the furbelows on the pretty dressing sack the nurse had generously lent her. Reflected in the looking glass she held in her hand, she saw the door opened, and then two strong and gentle hands were laid upon her shoulders.

It did not seem possible that the lonely Janice, unloved until this, her twenty-sixth birthday, could be listening to these wonder-words. "I have come to take you to a dear little cottage far away from the struggles of a big city."

Astonished, Janice heard this strange repetition of the wish confided to her "husband," and the man laughed delightedly at her consternation.

"I found this letter in your hand the day of the accident," he explained, "and opened it because it was addressed to me."

He paused a moment to withdraw a neatly tied packet from his pocket. "I came to the city from Hay Ranch, Oklahoma, to find my 'loving wife Janice' who wrote these wonderful letters."

Janice did the impossible. She laughed and cried at the same time. "And there really was a John Carpenter of Hay Ranch, Oklahoma?"

"Guiltily. But won't you answer my question?"

"What question?" Janice naively asked.

"Will you come with me to a dear little cottage far away from the struggles of a big city?"

And with the kiss he took from her lips, she gave him the answer.

LOOKING TO COKE FOR FUEL

With the Inevitable End of the Gasoline Supply, That Material May Supply Substitute.

Gasoline will continue to go up in price. A few years from now we shall have to use something else as fuel for automobiles. The question is, what? The United States government bureau of mines thinks that we shall get the requisite substitute from coal. In every city there will be "by-product coke ovens," which will extract from the coal a light oil available for the purpose. The coke can then be used in our furnaces and for other ordinary fuel purposes. Germany during part of the war was practically shut off from every supply of mineral oil. She depended for her motor fuel entirely on coal, putting the latter through by-product coking plants. Before long we shall be obliged to do the same in the United States. Part of the light oil in coal is toluol, which in time of war is needed for the manufacture of TNT. Modern warfare requires enormous quantities of the substance for making high-explosive shells. During the first part of the war the allies came near defeat for lack of it. Another by-product from the coking of one ton of soft coal is 5,000 cubic feet of gas, available for cooking and other household uses. The coke itself makes an admirable smokeless fuel for furnaces. If people could only be persuaded to use it.

"Money can't buy anything else like this wonderful herbal Zam-Buk. It's simply priceless!" says one enthusiastic mother. For injuries, Zam-Buk is the indispensable ever-ready healer. Where there is any skin or scalp disease, Zam-Buk is magical in extracting germs and poisonous impurities and growing new healthy skin. Being prepared exclusively from pure refined herbal essences, all highly concentrated, Zam-Buk retains its medicinal virtues indefinitely. It never goes rancid and useless like fatty salves and ointments do. Yet, whilst so much more safer, purer and reliable, herbal Zam-Buk costs no more to buy.

From Stadacona St., Montreal, Mrs. Villiers, writes:—"For healing, give me Zam-Buk! It is the finest thing I know. It saved me from a poisoned hand, rid my three children of scalp sores, and healed my husband's badly crushed finger. We wouldn't be without it at any price."

Interest in Japan.
Among the numerous things which show the interest that has developed in regard to the trade possibilities of Japan is the enormous increase in the number of letters of inquiry received by the American consulates in Japan. Where the letters received by the American consulate general at Yokohama formerly numbered hundreds, they now number several thousand a year.

From all parts of the world these letters come—from Alaska, from Africa, from the most remote hidden-away towns in the States, and from the cosmopolitan centers of the world. They contain queries on all sorts of subjects. Besides the trade letters touching on Japanese exports, hosts of them are inquiries about missing relatives, requests for postage stamps, information about positions in the far East, nondelivery of goods bought in Japan, highway transportation and innumerable other subjects.—East and West News.

Fish Are Perfect Brutes.
Twenty-two alligator gar, or garpike, big fish which the aquarium has long desired but never had, reached that place in good shape after a troublesome voyage from Louisiana on the steamer J. R. Gordon.

Alligator gar are vicious. In Louisiana they are called fresh water shark and treated with the respect due to man-eaters. There are tales of them having bitten men. They grow to be as long as fourteen feet.
James Legg, a messenger from the aquarium, who brought them up, said he had a hard time getting them and keeping them. First the natives about Lake Charles, where they lived, were afraid of them, and it was difficult to get assistants. Then the steamer ran into rough weather on the way up and the fish, in canvas-lined boxes, were occasionally washed out on deck by the vessel's rolling. They had to be recaptured several times.

In Texas they tell how, years ago, an Englishman there imported a famous wolfhound from Europe, in order that he might attain wealth catching wolves, by reason of the scalp money offered by one of the state authorities—$10 each.

Some dyed-in-the-wool Texans were invited to witness the first chase. They followed many miles through the prairie grass, but without getting sight of either wolf or hound. Finally they came to a wooded spot, where a native was chopping.

"Did you see a wolf and a hound pass just now?" cried the Britisher.
"Yes, sir; they just passed."
"How was the race?"
"Pretty hot—rip an' tuck. But the dog was a little ahead."

A Suspicious Nature.
"I don't like Mr. Dubwaite's new stenographer," said Mrs. Dubwaite.
"Why not, my dear?" asked Mrs. Gadsbur.
"She has a dreamy look in her eyes."

"Oh, well, she may not be meditating mischief."
"Perhaps not; but when a girl is young and pretty and indulges in day-dreams, with a susceptible old fool like Mr. Dubwaite around, some of those dreams may start to coming true."
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Art Collectors Fooled.
Wealthy collectors searching in Egypt for treasures and relics are often imposed upon by crafty Arabs, who manufacture mummies, using the bodies of their own dead, which they swathe in the mummy windings and encase in stolen or spurious mummy cases.

The duped collector, after secretly negotiating with a mysterious Arab, is led to an abandoned pyramid, where the fake mummy is discovered. Then the Arab aids the collector in smuggling the mummy out of Egypt that the Egyptian authorities, who examine all relics taken out of the country, may not reveal his swindle.

Best Jet Mined in England.
Jet is a bituminous mineral, and it is said, the vegetable remains of coniferous trees or fossilized wood. The best jet comes from mines in Whitby, England. Spain and France have large jet mines. Queen Victoria is said to have been very fond of jet, and during the latter part of her reign it came into great favor as jewelry. It is capable of taking a high polish and is very easy to carve. The genuine jet is so valuable that many imitations are in the market. The best imitations come from Italy and are called "Italian jet." The real jet is very light, while some of the imitations made from glass are heavy.

FARM MANAGEMENT

A Brief Study of Some of Its Leading Problems.

Systematic Method Important—A Question of Quantity, Quality, Cost, and Proceeds—Inefficiency and Carelessness to Be Barred—Good Care Will Save Many Fools.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

We speak of uncontrollable factors. Nevertheless farm management means control. The word "uncontrollable" is used loosely, and some measure of control is possible or hoped for in every farmer's undertakings. Farm management as a science, as a study, or a planned system, is a study of the methods of control. Farm practice is the corresponding art. A farmer was invited to attend a meeting to discuss improved methods of farming, "Nothing doing," was his reply; "I know a lot more now than I can get done." A very natural point of view, for the limitations of time, the scarcity of labor, adverse weather, diseases and pests, prevent him from getting all those results which his plans and his labor deserve. Yet he must plan, and to plan intelligently he must be possessed of the best knowledge available. He must plan to produce the greatest possible quantity, the best quality, at the lowest possible cost, and then he must plan to sell his produce at prices which will bring to him sufficient encouragement and reward.

Problems of Farm Management.

These are the problems of farm management: Quantity, quality, cost, and proceeds; and since they are closely inter-related, they cannot be studied separately, but must be considered all together. For example, European farming and Canadian farming are often compared to the disadvantage of the latter. It is asserted, and it is doubtless true, that the European farmer produces more per acre than the Canadian farmer does, and that the European acre is increasing in yield, while the Canadian acre is diminishing in yield. On the other hand, the Canadian farmer produces from three to ten times as much per man as does the European farmer. In Europe, because of the dense population and the relative scarcity of land, production per acre is the measure of efficiency. In Canada, because of the scarcity of men on the land and the relative abundance of land, production per man is the measure of efficiency. In Canada the farmer has the option of applying more labor to the same acres, or applying his labor to more acres. The law of diminishing returns speedily induces him to choose his option by working more acres. A low production per acre is the inevitable result of this choice.

Management Influenced by Returns.

The farmer's interest is served by adopting such a system of farm management as will give him the greatest returns for labor and capital expended. Unfortunately, that system invariably results, in a country where there is unoccupied land, in wasting soil fertility and diminishing yields. The nation, as distinct from the individual farmer, is concerned in conserving its natural resources and in producing the greatest possible amount of wealth; that is, in maintaining the soil fertility unimpaired and producing the maximum per acre. Thus the interest of the individual farmer and the interests of the nation are opposed, so long as the farmer can spread his available labor over more acres than he can work at maximum productivity. Those interests will not be reconciled so long as economic conditions furnish the farmer with inefficient and costly labor, and costly fertilizers.

No Excuse for Slovenly Farming.

All this, however, does not excuse the careless and inefficient farmer. Two farmers live and work side by side. Both have the same number of acres, and the same amount of capital invested. To both the same knowledge of good methods is available. One of them directs his labor, arranges his crops, selects his stock, keeps them healthy and thrifty, keeps his land clean, maintains his soil fertility, sells his produce to advantage, and succeeds. The other is haphazard. He has no plans, or wrong plans. His stock are poor in quality, and ill-fed. His fences are broken down, and his land overrun with weeds. He is going behind year by year. We all know men of both types. The difference is a difference in farm management.—President Reynolds, O. A. College, Guelph.

Good Care Will Save many foals.

The best time to grow foals, and the time when they will make their largest gains is when they are being carried by their dams. Many farmers do not realize this, and begin feeding the mare a proper ration only after the foal is here. The brood mare, when in foal, should be fed a high protein ration, a ration which is rich in muscle and bone building material. This material is supplied in the form of oats, bran, and oil meal, as a concentrate, and clover or alfalfa hay as a roughage. As soon as the young foal arrives, see that he gets a good drink of his mother's first milk. This fore-milk or colostrum has purgative properties, and will usually clear the foal's intestines of the excrement accumulated prior to birth. If the digestive tract is not cleaned by the fore-milk, give the foal a tablespoonful of castor oil and a warm water and soap rectal injection.

Watch out for navel infection. If pus and disease germs get inside the body through the opening of the umbilical cord, a local infection or "joint ill" may develop and the foal be lost.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED
As a Result of Treating the Trouble
Through the Blood.

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic people suffer pains that could be avoided by building up the blood; when rheumatism is associated with thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Hall, Main-a-Dieu, N. S., suffered from rheumatism for years, but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he is now free from rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was confined to bed for three years and a helpless cripple from the trouble. I could not move, and had to be turned in sheets. My legs, and fingers were drawn out of shape, and sores developed on my body as the result of my long confinement to bed. I was in this serious condition when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began taking them. The first benefit I felt from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger, and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I will always be lame, as the result of my long stay in bed my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work as Fishery Overseer. I may add that when the rheumatism came on I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches I only weighed 67 pounds, and now I am at normal weight. There are many here who know and can vouch for the truth of these statements."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST MELODRAMA

The "Whip" is one of those melodramas which, as presented at the Lyceum, may be expected to enjoy long runs for years to come. Though rich in thrills and surprises, it is not of the blood-curdling, blood-and-thunder kind of play of which there has been too much in the past, and forms a highly satisfactory entertainment. "The Whip" is splendidly filmed, many of the scenes being magnificent. There is an Atlantic steamer approaching New York harbor, a realistic fox-hunting scene, a thrilling race between an automobile and a railway train, the rescue of "The Whip", a noted race-horse, from a daring attempt on his life, and finally the great race which is won by "The Whip" despite the efforts of crooks to maim or kill him. For powerful, gripping scenes, it has never been surpassed. It is a big picture, indeed. In their efforts to produce sensations, the directors made stupendous scenes and introduced stunts that are hair-raising in their daring. The picture appeals strongly to the sport-loving people, for the most equal the thrills. The fox-hunting scenes, the blood horses and the races were enough to make red blood pulse faster. Then, too, there is a love story which struggles through a mesh of villainous entanglements to a happy conclusion. The picture was produced among wonderful settings, and it is enacted by a splendid cast throughout. It is one of those rare photoplays which never made less than a one-week stand and in the larger cities runs for weeks and months. All the characters are splendidly sustained, and taken altogether it is a picture play of the high class. No one should miss "The Whip" which has been filling theatres all over the country.
