GERMANS AIDED IN MEXICO ALSO BRITISH DEFEAT STUBBORN GERMAN ATTACKS NEAR LANGEMARCK COLLAPSE OF KORNILOFF IS REPORTED COMPLETE

Revolting General's Headquarters Stated to Have Surrendered—Russian Army System to Be Reorganized—Generals Ruzsky and Dragomir Given Important Commands.

Petrograd, Sept. 13.—General Korniloff has communicated to the government his intention to surrender on the arrival of General Alexeeff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies at Mohilev, at which place he is due this evening.

Petrograd, Sept. 13.—The executive committee of the workmen's and soldiers' deputies and peasants' delegates held a general council today to discuss the action of General Korniloff.

M. Skobelev, minister of labor, announced that the Korniloff adventure had collapsed completely and that his headquarters had surrendered. The minister added that soon the whole administration and organization of the Russian army would be modified. He declared that the government had acted in full agreement with the revolutionary democracy, which had thus triumphed, but that the victory ought not to lessen the vigilance of the government, because new attempts at a counter-revolution were possible thru the criminal activity of General Kaledines, chief of the Cossacks. M. Skobelev concluded by saying that in the new government the presence of any elements suspected of sympathy with Korniloff ought to be rendered impossible.

Colonel Vereshovsky, former commander of the Moscow military district, has been appointed acting minister of war. General Tepliyev has been named commander of the military district of Petrograd, and M. Palchinskii, former assistant minister of trade, has been given the post of military governor-general of Petrograd.

Generals Ruzsky and Dragomir have been appointed respectively commander-in-chief of the armies on the northern and southwestern fronts.

General Luskyevich had been in charge of the Russian armies on the northern front. He was relieved of the command in January last on account of connection with political scandal.

M. Avskentiev, minister of the interior, said today that as a result of the Korniloff revolt all the Russian fronts for three days remained without the least defence and without command. The severest penalty, he added, ought to be inflicted upon General Korniloff and the government would do nothing to mitigate his fate.

The government's task now, M. Avskentiev continued, would be to struggle against counter-revolutionary attempts, safeguard national liberty and defend the country against the foreign enemy.

M. Tsereteli, former minister of the interior, said the ministerial coalition had given good results and that it ought to be maintained, but only on condition that all elements tending to paralyze its function should be excluded from it. He insisted on the necessity of immediately dissolving the fourth duma.

M. Interference by Allies. The diplomatic representatives of the allied powers have issued a statement denying all allegations made by the press of the Allies that they are taking steps either to support Gen. Korniloff's action or to hinder his suppression, which, the statement adds, is contrary to the rule of the allies with respect to Russian internal affairs.

The representatives of all the entente powers in Petrograd, says the statement, "are in sympathy with the great democracy of their ally and offered their good services in order to avoid the shedding of blood in civil war."

The statement gives the text of a verbal note presented to the minister of foreign affairs by Sir George Buchanan, the British ambassador, acting as dean of the diplomatic corps, and proceeds:

"Unity Above All.
The representatives of the allied powers met under the presidency of Sir George Buchanan to deliberate on the situation created by the conflict between the provisional government and the Central Powers. Conscious of their duty to remain at their posts for the defence, if necessary, of their nationalities they at the same time consider it of the highest importance to maintain the union of all forces in Russia for the continuance of a victorious war. With the view which they unanimously declare to be in the interest of humanity, and anxious to prevent irreparable calamities, they offered their good services with the noble aim of serving the interests of Russia and the work of the allies."

BRITISH NAVY DEFEATS ENEMY U-BOATS AGAIN

Good Many Destroyed by Action Taken—Present German Efforts in Atlantic Fail to Win Expected Success.

London, Sept. 13.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—From a high British naval authority Reuters has received the following information: "Despite talk in certain quarters there is no reason to believe, and there is certainly no evidence, that Germany is adopting new tactics in U-boat warfare. Nobody claims that the menace has been overcome, but people should not, because of that, blindly swallow all Germany's claims. 'The Germans talk contemptuously about the loss of one of their U-boats monthly. They know that to be nonsense. I am not going to inform the enemy by quoting actual figures, but I can tell you that action against U-boats during the last three months has yielded what I will call good results in the destruction of these boats.

STOP COAL EXPORTS TO SOUTH AMERICA

U. S. and Britain Prepared to Institute Strictest Embargo.

FOOD SUPPLIED HUNS

Latin-American Countries Under Influence of German Gold.

Washington, Sept. 13.—If it becomes necessary to prevent food shipments from reaching Germany from South America thru the European neutral countries, the United States and Great Britain are prepared to apply the strictest embargo on coal exports to the Latin-American republics. Operations of a coal embargo and bunkering restrictions, it is declared, would stop immediately all food shipments from South America.

Another phase of the situation is developed by the reports that much of the German money spent for propaganda purposes in North and South America is furnished by German-owned public utility concerns in South America. More than half a billion dollars of German money is said to be invested in such public utilities. This produces an annual profit of about $50,000,000.

By cutting off coal to these concerns, it is declared, the South American governments would be forced to take over the enterprises for operation.

LIST OF CASUALTIES IS LIGHTEST IN YEAR

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Tonight's casualty list of thirty names is the lightest one issued from the record office of the militia department in a year. It contains the names of twelve soldiers who have been killed in action, five who have died of wounds, two died, five presumed to have died and the balance wounded or ill.

BRITISH REPEL FOE AT LANGEMARCK

Desperate Fighting Proceeds on Mile Front in Belgium.

GERMANS ATTACKING

Enemy Attempts Strong Raid by Night East of Bullecourt.

London, Sept. 13.—The British official communication issued tonight says: "Last night, after hours of heavy bombardment, the enemy aided our positions east of Bullecourt. He succeeded in effecting an entry in our trenches, but was driven out after sharp fighting having a number of dead and prisoners in our hands. 'We carried out a successful raid during the night in the neighbourhood of Oppy.

"Early this morning the enemy opened a heavy bombardment on a front of more than a mile north and northeast of Langemarck, and attacked in considerable strength. After fierce fighting the attack was repulsed with severe enemy losses.

"Despite bad visibility some artillery work was carried out by our artillery stations yesterday. Photographs were taken and the bombing of enemy aerodromes, ammunition dumps and railway stations continued. Three enemy machines were driven down out of control. Two of our machines are missing.

RUSSIANS OCCUPY TWO MORE TOWNS

Offensive of Allies East of Riga Makes More Progress.

AIRMEN WIN FIGHT

Muscovites Drive Down Two German Machines Near Skola.

Petrograd, Sept. 13.—An official statement issued by the war office today says: "In the direction of Riga our detachments continue to fight their way forward. In the region of the coast we have occupied the village of Kullix. South of the Rakov road Lettish battalions, after fierce fighting, occupied the village of Pelme, capturing prisoners and booty. After the occupation this village the Lettish moved forward in the direction of Rezenon, and farther south our units occupied the line of Mortsburg-Vilvaxw - Doums-Siksteren-Mtysa-Aikolpet-Miltoens-Nigales.

"During aerial reconnaissance in the region of Porliche, an enemy projectile killed our observer, Lieutenant Bekajeffe.

"In the region of Husiatyn and Skola our airmen forced two enemy machines to descend precipitately. Our airplanes bombed various enemy positions."

U. S. GOVERNMENT WILL BUILD SHIPS

Washington Administration Lets Contracts for Hog Island Yards.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Contracts for construction of a government-owned shipbuilding yard at Hog Island, Pa., and for construction therein of 50 fabricated steel vessels was let today by the Emergency Fleet Commission. The Hog Island plant will cost slightly less than $20,000,000.

The first of the 50 ships will be completed by the International American Corporation within ten or eleven months and the entire number finished probably within fifteen or sixteen months, is expected in the capital today. The shipping board in all likelihood will have asked for additional money to build more ships.

Shipping board officials believe that the fabrication of ships will mean that America within a few years will have the largest fleet of merchant ships of any nation in the world.

SMUGGLE VON LUXBURG TO EVADE ANGRY CROWD

Minister, Confronted With Charges on Return to Buenos Aires, is Unable to Deny Their Truth.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 13.—Count von Luxburg, the German minister, whose passports were sent to the Argentine Government because his objectionable messages to Berlin thru the Swedish foreign office had rendered him persona non grata, dodged threatening crowds which were awaiting him on his arrival at Buenos Aires from the interior today.

Count von Luxburg was persuaded by the police to leave the train at San Martin, 12 miles outside, when news of the crowds that had gathered at the Buenos Aires railway terminal reached them. The chief of police was on hand with his automobile at San Martin, together with a large guard of secret service men, and the count was conveyed to his home in the chief's car.

"And these are my friends, the Argentines!" he exclaimed to employees of the legation who met him. "What has happened?" he asked. "I know absolutely nothing. What has transpired?"

Proof Unanswerable. The count, however, also shown the Washington messages of last Saturday exposing his suggestion that Argentine ships be sunk "without leaving a trace" and his aspersion upon the acting minister of foreign affairs there is danger of the bill being lost in the Argentine, ignored an invitation to deny their authenticity.

The foreign office had no information today as to when Count von Luxburg conveyed to his home in the chief's car.

"I would perhaps be desirable, in order not to excite the enemy's suspicion to treat with secrecy the matter of the issue of the patents until the end of the war, should the decision be favorable to my suggestion. This would mean that the matter would be communicated to no one but the recipient and his government, and even to them only under the seal of secrecy, while the publication of the bestowal of the decoration would be postponed until the end of the war."

GERMAN NAVAL EXPERT CONTEMPTUOUS OF U. S. Britain and Germany Could Dominate World, in His Opinion.

London, Sept. 13.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Reuter has received the following statement which is the substance of the opinion expressed recently by a German naval officer of high standing, on the submarine campaign: He said that the calculator of the German high command was that Britain could not carry on the war after October of this year owing to the enormous loss of vessels. Regarding the effect of the intervention of the United States, he expressed the greatest contempt for America, saying that she had no "militarism" and adding that had only England and Germany joined hands they could have dominated the world. He laughed at the idea of America doing anything of naval or military value in the war.

Observation Easy. The senate railway committee met tonight and considered the bill but this clause was not reached. Section 274 of the bill as it came from the intervention of the United States, he expressed the greatest contempt for America, saying that she had no "militarism" and adding that had only England and Germany joined hands they could have dominated the world. He laughed at the idea of America doing anything of naval or military value in the war.

"Belgian communication: 'On Sept. 12 and 13 the artillery action was less intense. Several of our cantonments were in addition bombed by enemy aviators.'

RUSSIAN OUTLOOK GROWS BRIGHTER

Washington Cheered by Kerensky's Announcement of Disciplinary Program.

REHABILITATE ARMY

Determination Shown to Stop Meddling of Soldiers' Committees.

Washington, Sept. 13.—News of Premier Kerensky's determination to instill better discipline into the Russian army created almost as great an interest here today as the reports of General Korniloff's revolt. It Kerensky succeeds in his disciplinary program Korniloff's attempted coup will have borne good fruit in the opinion of officials and diplomats. Such an accomplishment would remove one of the great weaknesses of the new democracy and, it is believed, might go far towards infusing a spirit of order and co-operation into the civilian population on whose loyalty the support of the war so largely depends.

Kerensky's plan is believed to be to restore discipline by making it plain that military commanders shall have full authority to dictate military movements; by rooting out the serious interference of soldiers' committees with commanders' orders; and by retaining the present system of government, civil commissioners and their advisers in the ranks and provide a certain check on ill-treatment of soldiers.

By this arrangement, the death penalty for violation of orders might continue to be imposed by courts-martial, subject to limited review by the civil commissioners. The forces opposed to the death penalty could be satisfied by the assurance that the commissioners would prevent unjust sentences.

Recent reports from the Russian fronts indicated that the soldiers' committees, also said to have been short of their referendum power over general orders, still persist in interference, which sometimes means delay and disorder.

Caledonian Society Loses Two of Its Oldest Members

At the opening meeting of the season of the Caledonian Society of Toronto last evening in the Foresters' Hall, the death of two old and respected members was reported. They were about 60 years of age, and who had been a member of the society since its inception, and W. Beattie, treasurer of the society for a group of years. Mr. Beattie was 83 years of age and was for many years the Canadian representative of the Scottish antiquarian and historical society, the Burns Society and the S. O. E. Prof. J. Ferguson was present and gave an interesting address on the subject of the regular business of the society, and two little girls gave an exhibition of Scottish dances. The chair was taken by Hugh Macdonald.

HAMILTON NEWS

Hamilton, Sept. 13.—Splendid progress is being made at the Technical School, and plans are being formulated making it the centre of instruction in the textile trade. At the board of education meeting this evening, the employment of Ernest W. Kay as instructor in physics and chemistry, at a salary of $1800 per year, was approved, and a committee appointed to co-operate with the committee of the textile manufacturers of the city to establish a cotton spinning class, and endeavor to secure free from the manufacturers of cotton machinery the necessary plant, and to make enquiries regarding a competent teacher. A sure sign of the work of the school topped the largest enrollment in the history of the "Tech."

Government tractors are busy in the vicinity of Hamilton turning over the soil in preparation for the fall period. According to Parks Commissioner Wild, the work of improving Wabasso Park is practically over for the season. The building program has been about completed, and next year the work will consist of grading and landscaping work.

The problem of handling the peach and tomato crop in the vicinity of Beamsville has been solved by despatching fifty Hamilton women to the "scene of action." The workers will be paid 10 cents an hour for ten-hour day. They will be boarded for $4 per week.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

SECRETARY LANSING, at Washington, has disclosed another scandal in the Swedish diplomatic service by publishing a letter which seriously involves Folke Cronholm, late Swedish attaché in Mexico City. This letter, written by Von Eckhardt, German intriguer and chief of spies, recommends that for his services to Von Eckhardt and to Germany, Folke Cronholm should receive a decoration from the Kaiser. In order not to arouse any suspicion Von Eckhardt advised that the honor be kept secret until after the war. The letter was written 18 months ago, and it was addressed to the German imperial ambassador in Mexico City, the presumable not for his pro-Germanism. The letter betrays another clear breach of neutrality by Sweden. The United States is communicating with the Mexican Government with a view to having Mexico take action against German intriguers and spies.

The verbal fog which has obscured the operations between the provisional government and General Korniloff apparently conceals the conducting of negotiations between the two rivals. The act of Korniloff, strictly speaking, was not an act of insurrection, but the act of a man who wished to wake up the idealists at Petrograd to a grasp of the realities. The government, of course, resenting all attempts at instructing it in its obvious duties, branded Korniloff as a counter-revolutionary. In reality he is an anti-ear as any of the most crack-brained agitators. The allied legations, it appears, have proffered their good offices to prevent bloodshed, so the situation may evolve in a satisfactory compromise. Kerensky, meanwhile, has secured confirmation of himself as supreme commander of the army. This makes him a dictator, and students of military affairs are inclined to think that he now has the best opportunity that ever man had to give the country strong pilotage in its difficult course. General Korniloff, it is said, has offered to surrender to General Allenoff.

The Russian armies, after their withdrawals, have begun quite a vigorous offensive on both their extreme right and extreme left flanks. Along the Gulf of Riga coast they forced back the German cavalry and established a river line of defence, and in Rumania, near Radauts, they captured a height from the Austrians, taking quite a few prisoners. The Russian artillery has, moreover, begun a heavy bombardment of German positions south of Sventitskaya, a point between Vilna and Dvinsk. The Russian fighting forces, at least on the surface, are recovering from their recent depositions.

The Italians seemingly have settled down to a hammer and tongs. Chamin des Dames sort of battle at Monte Cassino. The position on the heights of the Aisne. They hold the crest, they are dominant, while the Austrians are clinging to the eastern slopes by dint of a policy of incessant counter-attacks. The Italians may maintain this action for a considerable time, until they tire out the Austrians, or until wintry weather immobilizes both armies. It is not certain whether the Italians have enough material on hand to make another mighty effort before the winter campaign begins.

British naval officials declare their complacency these days at the inability of the German submarines to substantiate what their authors expected. While the submarine remains down at the bottom, it is not a dispenser of knockout blows, nor even yet a bugaboo. The allies, however, have contrived, it seems, to pass over the period of greatest danger with ease, when every thing is considered. From a Reuter's despatch it appears that the British navy has destroyed a satisfactory number of the vicious little boats. German under-water activity has again become great, though perhaps rather barren, because the end of October marks the third date set by the German navy for the destruction of the British fleet. The German created activity into the Atlantic, but naval foresight has apparently forestalled him and he is not getting the results desired.

The British fought a fierce action on a front of about a mile north and northeast of Langemarck early yesterday morning and succeeded in beating off a German attack. It was preceded by a heavy German bombardment and it was attempted in considerable force. Sharp fighting resulted in the British being held in position, while the British carried out a raid of their own in the Oppy zone.

The French campaign is proceeding with advances to Mumlushita and Hill 1704, about six miles northwest of the first point. Mumlushita lies on the western shore of Lake Ochrida. In the fighting the French have taken 160 prisoners, two mountain guns and three machine guns.

WILL URGE CITY TO DEAL IN MEAT

Board of Health Would Take Action to Reduce Price of Beef.

INSPECT FLOUR MILLS

Will Get First-Hand Information as to Composition of White Flour.

It was decided at the meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon, on the suggestion of Medical Officer at Health Hearings, to recommend that application be made to the legislature at the next session for an amendment to the Public Health Act which would allow the board and the proprietors of abattoirs convicted of creating a nuisance shall pay a fine of not less than $100 or more than $200 for the first offence and double the amount for subsequent violations.

Dr. Hastings' report to the board precipitated a long discussion on the nutritive value of whole wheat bread and foodstuffs in general and on the motion of Dr. Risk the board agreed to ask the board of control to consider the advisability of entering the dead meat business for the purpose of reducing the price to the consumer.

The board will also make a tour of the milling plants in the city with the view of ascertaining the composition of white flour and to obtain information on the whole wheat bread question. Abattoirs will also be paid a visit in order to become acquainted with conditions.

But were used to feed cattle. He was more interested in supplying meat at a reasonable price to the citizens and could not see that the city had anything to be afraid of in entering on the dead meat business.

Chairman Aid. Maguire told him that the wholesalers controlled the market to a large extent and that the latter had their prices to the public set for them.

Treating the whole wheat bread question, Dr. Hastings' report stated that the most capable physiologists, while thoroughly in accord with the efforts of the medical officer of health to improve the food situation, Dr. Risk was not in favor of the whole wheat bread propaganda. In an extensive disquisition he gave the board his knowledge of bran, shorts, etc., which he contended, were not wasted, chemical and nutritive value, and endeavoring for years to show that from a health standpoint and an economic standpoint, highly bolted white flour was a mistake, inasmuch as it is deprived of the germ of the grain which was rich in protein and fat; also of all the outer coverings, each of which is rich in mineral matter and with the germ of the grain contained the real vitamins, all of which were indispensable if the people were to receive the full nutritive value of wheat flour.

Value of Whole Wheat.

He showed the value of whole wheat flour in the production of bread and stated that the facts were of special interest at the present time in view of the rapid increase in the price of eggs and meat. These were rich in vitamins, but on account of the increased cost they were practically prohibitive to a great majority of the people. Furthermore from an economic standpoint it was important that the highest possible percentage of flour was obtained from the wheat which would effect an enormous saving.

For instance, he said that 100 pounds of good average wheat would produce from 55 to 70 pounds of slightly bolted, so-called pure white flour, while 100 pounds of wheat would produce from 80 to 85 pounds of stone ground flour, while 100 pounds of wheat would produce about 95 pounds of whole wheat flour. This would mean a saving of from 10 to 15 per cent, and inasmuch as it was estimated that 40,000,000 bushels of wheat was required to keep the nation in flour every year, by the adoption of these regulations, a saving of from four to eight million bushels would be effected. In addition the people would be better fed and a better race of people would be developed.

COLLAPSE REPORTED OF GEN. KORNILOFF

forces of General Korniloff after it had been evacuated by government troops, General Savinkoff, commander of the troops defending Petrograd, told the Associated Press today. Another Korniloff force is twenty miles south of Petrograd in the direction of Tsarskoe-Selo, General Krinoff, commander of the Korniloff troops, is at Luga, ninety miles southwest of Petrograd. No fighting has occurred so far.

General Savinkoff's statement, the first authoritative one on the military situation, follows:

"General Krinoff, commander of the Korniloff troops, and his staff are at Luga. No fighting has occurred so far. One part of the Korniloff force is twenty versts (about 14 miles) south of Tsarskoe-Selo (about 20 miles south of Petrograd). This force includes one 'Savage' division and is in touch with all our advance posts. The men of this division are mostly Moslems, who went to the war and swore to their chiefs to fight the Germans and not to interfere in Russia's internal affairs. The organizers of the revolt, falsely assured them they were being sent against the Germans, and when they discovered they were really marching against Petrograd they showed discontent. They then began fraternizing with our men."

"The other Korniloff force is already in Gatchina, which was ordered evacuated because the town is not part of my plan for the defence of Petrograd, and we had there only one regiment of sharpshooters. Men from Korniloff's army are arriving constantly in Petrograd and we are well informed of the movements of the enemy."

"All the armies at the front are solid with the government. More rebel generals have been arrested by their men. I have sent an order for the immediate trial of the officers under arrest by military revolutionary

Announcing a Decidedly Interesting Fall Display of Oriental Rugs

UNUSUAL conditions in the Oriental rug markets emphasize this year the DOMINANCE of the Babayan collection. - Kirmanshah Mahal Kazak
- Royal Sarouk Keshan Kabistan
- Ispahan Meshet Boukhara Anatolian

A Canning Boiler With Removable Tray Electricity Runs This Machine

Notice How It Simplifies the Hot, Slippery Work of Lifting the Bottles Out of the Steaming Water, and Observe That It's Priced Only $1.65.

YOUR COUNTRY CALLS UPON YOU to can—can all the vegetables and fruit your family will want for winter—and then some more. And here we are in the middle of the canning season. Peaches, pears, crab apples, plums, corn and cauliflower all claim our attention. This new canning boiler promises great help in the important task. It makes for efficiency and simplicity in the best method of preserving, namely, by filling jars with raw, fresh fruit or vegetables, and submerging them in boiling water for a given time.

You'll see from the sketch how easily the bottles on the tray may be lifted out of the boiling water—very different from the old-time manner of removing them one by one, wet and scalding.

You Press the Pedal, Guide the Material—the Motor Does the Work. Moreover, It's Portable—You May Carry It From Sewing-room to Sitting-room, or Take It With You in Your Car to the Red Cross Meeting.

THE WOMAN WHO LIVES IN A FLAT, or the proverbial "little box of a house," need no longer bewail the fact that she has no place for a sewing machine. Behold in the sketch below a machine that may be kept in a clothes closet or hall cupboard, and when needed set down on the end of the bedroom or sitting-room table.

Consider, too, the advantage of such a machine for the woman who lives in the larger house. She need no longer isolate herself in the upstairs sewing-room when wanting to do a little hemming or stitching by machine these busy Autumn evenings. She may bring her machine downstairs to the family living-room.

For the Red Cross or any other sewing meeting it is an immense boon. The worker may pop it into its case and take it along with her in her motor car.

Moreover, 'tis a machine that does away with all the usual work of pedaling. It is an electric machine—the Electric Seamstress Rotary—with an insulated cord and plug, which may be attached to any lamp socket—direct or alternating current.

To sum up the matter—the "Portable Electric Seamstress Rotary" is a practical and economical motor-driven sewing machine, suitable for general family use, as well as for dressmakers. In taking it to a summer cottage or any place where electricity is not available, the motor may be detached and the machine turned by hand. Price complete, $45.00.

The Electro-Vac Suction Sweeper

If You Are Looking For Efficiency and Durability in a Vacuum Cleaner Be Sure and Give Your Careful Consideration to the "Electro-Vac"—An Outstanding Good Value at $27.50.

NO NEED TO URGE the advantages of a suction cleaner. Its fame is spread abroad wherever flourishes the art of modern housekeeping. This is to tell you of a cleaner upon which you can well depend—one that possesses many unique points of excellence.

The "Electro-Vac," to begin with, combines brush sweeping with suction cleaning. There is no need to go over the rugs with a carpet sweeper to gather up lint and threads.

It requires oiling but once a year, ordinary vaseline being suitable for the purpose. This saves much trouble and considerable expense.

Moreover, the "Electro-Vac" is so constructed of smooth pressed steel—the dust cannot lodge in the air chambers. The construction and placing of the motor ensures good service and durability.

The attachments include brushes and nozzles for the thorough cleaning of draperies, furniture, walls and woodwork.

In the Electro-Vac you have a reliable machine at the moderate price of $27.50. Special attachments, set of 6—$7.00 extra.

How to Polish Your Hardwood Floor

And to Keep Your Furniture and Woodwork in Good Condition, Too. Johnston's Prepared Wax Should be a Household Word.

WHAT POLISH do you put on your floors?—'tis almost as common a query as what kind of wool do you like best for knitting socks. And some women answer one thing, and others something else. Many whose floors are particularly worthy of praise, you'll find, will say, "Johnston's Prepared Wax."

It is one of the best floor polishes on the market. "Old English Prepared Wax" is another. Diamond E still another. With any one of them you may be confident you have a polish that will preserve the wood, that will not readily show scratches by heel marks, and will produce a soft, glossy surface without proving dangerously slippery.

Johnston's Wax is also an excellent preparation for the polishing of pianos, furniture and linoleum—cleans as well as polishes.

Price of Johnston's Prepared Wax—50 cents a pound. Of English Floor Wax, 50 cents per lb. Diamond E Wax, 45 cents per lb.

When an extra high polish is desired on floors or furniture apply Johnston's Underlac—previous to the application of wax. Apply it to linoleums to prevent the pattern wearing off. Price of Underlac, 60 cents per pint, $1.00 per quart.

Use a Weighted Brush.

It saves time and labor. The long handle does away with all tiresome bending over, and the weight makes the friction required to produce a high polish. Price of large flat weighted floor brush—15-lb. weight, $2.00; 20-lb. weight, $2.25; 25-lb. weight, $2.50.

From a Woman's Standpoint

EVERY now and then one stumbles on evidence that goes to show a Store may be something more than what the dictionary defines as "a place where goods of any kind are kept for sale."

To judge from an incident which occurred the other day, it may be a place that fills people's yearnings for something quite remote from neckties or teapots, blouses or furniture. It may possess a quality somewhat akin to the home-sweet-home of home.

A few mornings ago a certain kindly citizen drove his motor car to the station to meet a party of returned soldiers. His offer to convey any of them to their hospital or wherever they might be going, was accepted by a young chap invalided back on account of rheumatism. He was not visibly disabled and was receiving a merry welcome from a group of girls, two of whom accompanied him into the car. When it came to inquiring where he wished to be driven, it transpired that neither of his parents was living; no flag-bedecked home awaited him.

"Where will we go?" he asked the young women.

"Please yourself, Charlie," one of them replied indulgently.

"Sure there's no place you'd like to call?" he persisted, gallantly.

"Anywhere you like suits us, Charlie," answered the other maiden.

And, turning to the driver, Charlie said, "I guess we'll go to Eaton's."

A DAY or two ago in the street car we sat opposite a woman with a baby of a year and a half old or so. It was a cunning, smiling little baby—very voluble. But only three words amid the much chattering seemed to permit of translation.

"Mum—mee," ejaculated the infant.

"Yes; Mummy's taking baby to town," was the fond reply.

"Dad—dee," babbled Baby, accompanied by many spirited gestures of the arms and legs.

"Daddy wants Baby to be a good girl," said Mamma by way of improving the occasion.

"Ee—ta," gurgled the Baby after another interval of incoherence.

"Yes, Eaton's—Mummy's taking Baby to see all the dollies and pretty things at Eaton's."

"Ee—ta," echoed Baby. Mummy—Daddy—Eaton's—the Store among the first expressions of a baby's consciousness.

Aerial Navies.

When the most skillful engineers in the allied countries got together and pooled their experience and their wisdom, and contrived an engine to beat all other engines, they exchanged the principle of private for public ownership. They exemplified the value of co-operation. They produced the Liberty motor.

There is general agreement that it is the aviation arm that will determine the victory sought by the allies, and the United States Government is taking steps with this idea in view. It is expected that a force of 100,000 aviators will be enrolled, and the

The Nationalization of Canadian Railways is Under Way

Swiftly, irresistibly, tho perhaps to some extent unconsciously, the parliament and people of Canada are coming to complete railway nationalization. No other result can follow the acquisition of the Canadian Northern, and no other result is probably contemplated. True, the government, in bringing down the Canadian Northern legislation, did not fully take the house or the country into its confidence. The measure was justified to some extent upon the ground that it was the only way out of a difficult situation.

It was a long time before the debate on the Canadian Northern bill crystallized about the issue of public ownership. The government, for some reason, delayed in bringing the issue to the front. Perhaps it preferred to move along the lines of least resistance and to gradually develop its forward and far-reaching plan of nationalization.

But when Judge McKenzie, the Liberal member for North Bruce, Erie and Huron, announced himself opposed to public ownership, Mr. W. P. Maclean, M.P. for South York, could no longer keep silent, perhaps a little puzzled by the non-committal attitude of the government up to that time, Mr. Maclean said:

I am a believer in public ownership of railways and I intend to justify that belief as well as I can on this occasion. I may be to use an old phrase, a lone pine in this house, in favor of public ownership, altho I do not admit even that. But I should be, I am not far from the fact, that I have been in this house a good many years, and for many years I have favored that policy which has advocated legislation to carry it into effect.

Public ownership is not a new thing; it prevails all over Europe. In every country in Europe, with the exception of Belgium and Italy, they have had public ownership of railways. Germany, all-powerful in this war, has public ownership of railways, and she has her allies got into Turkey, all of which was accomplished because of their organization of railways under the auspices of the German government.

Further along Sir Thomas told the house that the Grand Trunk Pacific would be taken over in the near future, and he more than intimated that before long the old Grand Trunk would be taken over as well. It is a fair surmise that influence has been exerted by the imperial government on behalf of the old Grand Trunk in which so many English investors are interested. Be that as it may, the government will not consider taking over the Grand Trunk Pacific unless at the same time it takes over the Canadian Northern. The government would have a long, lean, feeble, unprofitable line in the National Transcontinental from Moncton to Prince Rupert. The Winnipeg to Prince Rupert section must either be equipped with branches and feeders or else have them built by the government. The government prefers to acquire them, and will acquire them by the acquisition of the Canadian Northern.

At an early stage in the debate Sir Robert Borden intimated that the Laurier Government in 1903 should have compelled the Canadian Northern and the old Grand Trunk to consolidate. Their amalgamation, he argued, would have laid the foundation for a second transcontinental line, which, with government assistance, might soon have rivaled the Canadian Pacific in wealth and power. Had Sir Wilfrid brought about such a railway, the prime minister argued, we would today have a second transcontinental railway company lending, instead of borrowing, money from the government.

But if that scheme had gone thru it would have been the death blow of public ownership. Sir Robert Borden has no thought today of carrying out President Smith's suggestion that the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern might yet get together and form a profitable enterprise under private ownership. Instead, he follows the Drayton-Acworth report. He wants the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk alike to become public-owned and public-operated utilities.

The plan that the government has at last developed and unfolded in Sir Robert Borden's speech on the third reading of the bill not only contemplates bringing the Canadian Northern, the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific into a national system, but further contemplates co-operative management under state control, which will include and bind to its purpose the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. As state control inevitably tends to state ownership we may take it for granted that the Canadian Pacific cannot long stand alone, with all the railroads of the country united against it under public control and operation. Indeed, it could scarcely be permitted to do so, because its lines and equipment as well must be used in connection with the national undertaking in bringing about better service and lower rates. Wasteful duplication in construction and service are to be forever abolished.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE'S CLEAR-CUT STAND. This speech undoubtedly changed the whole trend of the debate. More and more public ownership began to be the supreme issue before the house. Sir Thomas White advanced more and more confidently to its support and vindication, and entrenched himself behind a strong position when Hon. George P. Graham quoted The Montreal Gazette and some big capitalists of Montreal as utterly opposed to the Canadian Northern legislation.

The finance minister rightly located the opposition to the government's measure as emanating from the big financial group which includes the Bank of Montreal and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. He pointed out that to allow the Canadian Northern to fall into the hands of the Canadian Pacific was to bid goodbye to public ownership of railways in Canada. The government, in that event, would be allowed to struggle on with the long, lean line of the National Transcontinental (including the Grand Trunk Pacific), while the profitable business of the country would go to the Canadian Pacific. He did not propose to place public ownership in that situation, and for that reason the government was determined to acquire the Canadian Northern without delay. He said:

Let us see what lies ahead of the Dominion of Canada. How many railways are we going to have on our hands? We have already the International, which is ours. We have the National Transcontinental from Moncton to Winnipeg, which line is ours. The Canadian Northern must come in. There is also the Grand Trunk, which has liabilities in connection with that railway. I do not forecast the future with respect to that situation, but I say that the Grand Trunk Pacific in the west and the National Transcontinental in the west to supplement them, if we are going to make them a success. Therefore, whether people are in favor of public ownership or not, the matter comes down to this, that if we are going to carry out the railway ownership of the people of Canada as described, we need, in addition to the National Transcontinental and the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian Northern Railway system in the west.

What did the Drayton-Acworth report say about that? They point out that the Canadian Northern system is vital to the successful operation of the Grand Trunk Pacific in the west, and they also indicate that the Grand Trunk is complementary to the Canadian Northern in the east.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN GOES STILL FURTHER. When the prime minister came to speak on the third reading of the bill he even more plainly foreshadowed the aggressive and comprehensive policy of the government, and after stating that the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific are to be taken over to the members of the house that it rested upon them to make or mar the future of government railway ownership in Canada. He intimated not only that a great government-owned system of railways would soon be in operation under public control, but that all the railways of Canada, whether privately or publicly owned, would have to come into a system such as Mr. Maclean described as prevailing in England—a system of co-operative management under the supreme control of the state. The prime minister put forward his views with great moderation, but so one could doubt the firm purpose behind them. In the course of his speech on the third reading of the bill he reported by Hansard as saying: I do not pretend that we have too many miles of railway, but I claim that perhaps they are not properly distributed. Less transcontinental lines in the provinces would, I believe, give better service to the people than is afforded by the policy which has been pursued. Without some system of co-operative management we are simply going to continue the system that has been carried out in the past. That means that there will be unnecessary and even absurd duplication of lines. The importance of that consideration was very fully borne in upon me when I was studying the problem which has resulted in the bill now before parliament. I venture to repeat what I said before, that it came to me that the acquisition of the Canadian Northern Railway by the Canadian Pacific Railway would result in a saving to the Canadian Pacific Railway of nearly $100,000,000 in construction. What does that mean? It simply means that there are facilities there which could be used by the Canadian Pacific Railway, but because those facilities are in the ownership of another company they cannot be used for the purpose of which, in the interest of the people of this country, they might be well employed. Whether this road is owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway or whether it is owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, these roads being in separate ownership, a great railway corporation, which is the Canadian Northern Railway lines under any reasonable arrangement, is obliged to expend $100,000,000 in new construction. How is the interest on that $100,000,000 to be paid, and by whom is it to be paid? It is to be paid out of rates, and by the people of this country. There is no answer to that. If the Canadian Pacific Railway, by acquiring the Canadian Northern Railway, can save $100,000,000 in construction, that, to my mind, seems to indicate that there are facilities upon the lines of the Canadian Northern which are not employed, and which might be employed and used by the Canadian Pacific Railway under some system of co-operative management, so as to give the other road fair play.

I have gone into that question, as far as my limited knowledge would permit, with some of the heads of great railway systems in Canada, and I think they are coming to the conclusion that some such system of co-operative management, as I have mentioned might well be carried out. It may afford a solution as to the best method by which this road in the ownership of the people of Canada can be operated in an effective and reasonable way without party or political interference. That is what I must aim at; that is what we must attain, if state ownership is to continue in Canada; if the beginning now made is to be carried out to a larger future. Honorable gentlemen who are interested in the welfare of this country and who realize, as I am sure we all do, how greatly the future of Canada depends upon the reasonable and wise solution of this question, will, I am sure, give their minds to the consideration which I have put forward. I put it forward, of course, without any expert knowledge as to railway operation; but what has been accomplished in Great Britain during the past year or two may well give us a lead. There has been effective and efficient co-operative management of railways in England; we will be able to carry out something of the same kind in this country. If that co-operative management could be carried out by the best railway organization this country is capable of producing—a railway organization which will give fair play to all interests—two important results would follow. One result would be that we should save enormous sums in capital expenditure in the next ten years—hundreds of millions of dollars no doubt. But there is something more than that. The Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific are unable to meet their fixed charges. For that reason we are assisting the Grand Trunk Pacific at this season; for that reason we are acquiring the balance of the stock of the Canadian Northern Railway Company. Does any honorable gentleman, even tho he be no more acquainted than I am with railway operation, doubt that by the system of co-operative management to which I have alluded we can save millions of dollars annually at all times in the future? There is absolutely no doubt about it. SUCCEEDS LATE JOHN MANN. Special to The Toronto World. Leafs Can't Afford to Lose More Than One Game

HEARNE A VICTOR OVER THE ROYALS

Leafs Win Last Home Game of Season in Handy Fashion.

With Bunny Hearne back in harness we won the last fixture of the local season from Dan Howley's Royals by a five to one score. Bunny has pitched lots of better games of late and the Royals found his offerings comparatively easy and collected ten hits. But they were well scattered and proved good only for one run.

In spite of our win we slipped half a game to Providence and Baltimore, for the pesky enemy both took double-headers from Newark and Richmond. Easily the feature of yesterday's struggle was the healthy hitting of Jacobson. His four hits in five times up gives him a percentage of .800 for the day. But his performance was even better than the percentage figures indicate, because included in the four single runs were two two-base hits and a slashing three-base drive to the scoreboard.

Larry's boys jumped right into the fray in the initial innings and counted off Truesdale for a life and a run. Jacobson put him on third with a two-base drive to centre. Whiteman did the useful with a long sacrifice fly. Along in the third it was Jacobson again who gave the big boost when he opened with his second double to centre. Truesdale had fallen by the wayside when he tried to lead off with a long sacrifice fly. Along in the third it was Jacobson again who gave the big boost when he opened with his second double to centre. Truesdale had fallen by the wayside when he tried to lead off with a long sacrifice fly.

Montreal got its solitary run in the second, when Holden singled to left, stole second and scored on Purcell's drive to centre. They had many other chances and were always more or less dangerous, but Bunny proved the master in the pinches. Moran got on by the dead ball route in the first and Zimmerman singled with only one down. But Smith smashed a line drive to right which he collared and doubled Moran at second. Hits by Smith and Damrau put the Royals on bases again in the fourth, but Purcell and Madden failed to send them around. In the eighth, Hetsche spewed up two chances for a rally when he got nipped, off first base after hitting cleanly to left. McAuley and Moran followed with clean hits, but were left on the paths. Hetsche and Howley vigorously protested that Hearne had made a balk, but the umpires could not see it that way.

GETTING THE TEAM TO PLAY TORONTO

Special to The Toronto World.
Brantford, Sept. 13.—The team of ex-Canadian League players who are to meet the Toronto team of the International League, is now fully completed, but Mr. J. J. Nelson, who has the matter in hand, expects to have it completed by tomorrow. He was in Buffalo yesterday, but found the team was not at home, as certain of Frank Shaugnessy, now at Petawawa Camp, who formerly commanded the champions Ottawa and Kopp, of Buffalo, formerly of St. Thomas, and lately drafted by the Boston Americans. He is looking for a catcher and shortstop. It is probable that Orcutt and possibly Mackey or Bradley, of the Dominion Steel Products team, will be in the line-up.

BOTH GRAYS AND ORIOLES CAN BEAT OUT OUR LEAFS

Four Wins for Providence and Two Leaf Defeats Would Do It—Larry's Men Must Drop Two, Grays One, and Dunn Must Win Four.

The Leafs won their closing game on the home grounds from Montreal yesterday, but lost half a game in the last dash for the pennant. Both Providence and Baltimore played double-headers and turned in two victories each; it made the race even closer, and Larry's boys cannot afford to lose more than one game in those last four at Rochester if they want to make the pennant sure. As it stands this morning, the Leafs have a lead of slightly over eight points on the Providence Grays, who are in turn leading the Baltimore Birds by something slightly under a point. This tight fit is the closest on record in the International League, and the pennant may not be decided until Providence plays the last game of the season at Newark on Sunday. Baltimore look to have the best chance to beat out Larry's men. They have four more games to play with the Richmond Rebels, and if they can turn in four straight wins and the Leafs only get an even break at Rochester, it would seem that the Grays drop at least one game to the Newark Bears. Providence's only chance is for them to clean up their four remaining games at Newark, and the Leafs to lose two out of the four games at Rochester. Even if Jack Dunn's club could win all four from Richmond, this would leave Providence champions of the league. It all simmers down to the fact that the Leafs can't afford to lose any games at Rochester. Two lickings and four wins for Providence would beat us. We must drop two to let Dunn breathe home with four victories, and Providence has just to drop one to make this angle possible. Larry has Thomson prime, to work the first game in Rochester today, and will likely send Gehl at the Hustlers in

GRAYS AND ORIOLES GAIN HALF A GAME

At Providence (International)—Newark was eliminated from the international league race yesterday afternoon when the Grays won both games of the double-header, 2 to 0 and 3 to 0. Reulbach and Gregg pitched baffling ball. Ross' five passes in the fifth inning of the first game decided the victory, but the Grays' runs in the second battle were hampered by home scores.

TORONTO AT ROCHESTER.

Watching the wonderful Ranger Baseball Playhouse this afternoon at the Star Theatre will be just as exciting as sitting in the grand stand at Rochester watching the Leafs' win or break even in the first of their two double-headers, which means the championship if the former, while another day of thrills will be left to climax the last day of the season tomorrow should the pair split on the game today. The "Lid Lifters" show will be put on, while the famous "Let us go Palmer" will lead the rosters in helping to bring over the runs which may mean the championship to Toronto today.

HOW TO PLAY GOLF

Use Finger Grip

Most people know in a general way the uses of the various clubs. They know the driver is for shots from the tee—in other words, for the longest shots the game; the brassie for long shots off the fairgreen; the long irons for something short of the brassie shot; the players who use iron clubs for shorter distances, and the niblick for extricating oneself from mounds of sand. The moment, however, the beginner golfer takes one of these clubs in his hand he is confronted with his first important problem: How shall he grip it? Can one grip be used for every club, or must it vary with the use to which the club is put? I want to lay added emphasis on this question.

Usually I advise following nature and comfort in playing golf, but it seems undeniable that the "natural" way of gripping a golf club is absolutely the wrong way. Whether it is because the average American boy has played baseball, it is certainly true that the average man will grab his first golf club with both fists wrapped around the grip in the same manner that he held his favorite bat. His palms are against the grip and shaft and his thumbs are around the grip. This method of holding a golf club is so common that emphatic condemnation of it is deemed necessary.

I do not mean that a man who plays with the palm grip cannot, other things being equal, attain a fair degree of success at golf, for there are many good players who use it. It is possible that most of the leading golfers of the country began that way, but I do not think any of them use it now. Gardner, a noted player, was a palm gripper until about three years ago, when he changed with what he believes to be of great benefit to his game. He used the palm grip for years and gradually discovered, thru suffering, the error of his ways. He thinks that the reason that what appears to be the "natural" grip in golf is wrong is that we start out with the wrong idea of the game. We think we are expected to slug the ball and the palm grip is the slugging grip. In reality golf is a game of touch and rhythm and the idea of brute force must be absolutely banished from the golfer's mind. The leading idea of golf is not how far or wide a ball may be sent, but where it can be placed. Touch, and thereby control of the club, seems to be

BOSTON IS COUNTED OUT OF THE RACE

Yankees Killed Their Last Hope With a Sound Beating—Giants Lucky.

At Philadelphia (National)—Philadelphia broke even with Brooklyn yesterday, the home team winning the first game in the eleven-inning, 1 to 0, and Brooklyn the second, 7 to 3. Alexander and Pfeiffer had a duel in the opening event. With Schulte on second in the eleventh inning and two out, Whitted's sacrifice sent in the former. Hard hitting of the deliveries of Pfeiffer and Alexander gave Brooklyn the victory in the second game.

At St. Louis—Cooper allowed St. Louis but four hits, and Pittsburgh took the last game of the series, 2 to 1. A pass to Hornsby, a single by Cruise and a wild throw by Wagner in the fourth saved St. Louis from a shut-out. Score:

Pittsburgh.....10 0 0 1 0 0 0—1 4 1
St. Louis.....0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1 4 1
Batteries—Cooper and W. Wagner; Meadows and Snyder.

At Boston—New York made only eight hits in yesterday's double-header with Boston yet succeeded in splitting even. In the first game, Rudolph pitched five to five hits, and Boston won 7 to 0. Rudolph's second successive shut-out against Boston's team. Nash was hit safely three times in the second game, which New York won, 3 to 1, and in which Demaree was given brilliant support. Score:

Boston.....0 1 1 0 0 0 2—7 10 2
Batteries—Boston and McCarthy; Rudolph and Meyer.

Only three games scheduled.

At New York (American)—New York destroyed the few lingering pennant hopes of the Boston Americans by showing under the faltering champions, 13 to 7. The Yankees hit Fetter, Penneck and Jones for 17 hits, totaling 38 bases. Score:

Boston.....2 0 0 0 0 0 2—7 11 2
