THE MAY THE HAGUE

The Washington View

eat Britain's Position in the Canal Controversy

ening of Tremendous Diplomatic Struggle is Imminent—What United States Will Contend—Passage of Measure Now Before Senate Seems Assured.

Washington, July 16.—The lines are now drawn for a great diplomatic struggle between the United States and Great Britain, the question of whether this country will discriminate in favor of American ships in the administration of the Panama Canal. The disagreement may terminate in the submission of the question to a Hague tribunal. A series of diplomatic and legislative conferences develop the fact that the forces in the American government which favor allowing American ships free passage through the canal in the future, are victorious. There is nothing in the Hay-Paonecote treaty under which the canal built to prevent this concession. The diplomatic conference which was noted yesterday from Mitchell agents, in charge of the British embassy, is expected to be fought along the following lines: The lines are now drawn for a great diplomatic struggle between the United States and Great Britain, the question of whether this country will discriminate in favor of American ships in the administration of the Panama Canal. likely to pass. The ultimate passage of the measure behind the scenes of the nation is assured. The British bill would not prevent operation of the measure in the use of the canal, but the ordinary course of business. But the position of Great Britain will strengthen the opposition to the position.

conference with President Taft, representative Sulzer, of New York, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, made a statement supporting the measure. Of course I am surprised that the British government now objects to the United States government. This is the real meaning of the treaty and we shall carry it out in good faith. We have a right under the treaty to charge on tolls for our own ships. There is no doubt about that. It never questioned before, legally or diplomatically. It cannot be successfully questioned now and doubtless Congress will proceed with the Panama Canal legislation regardless of the criticisms of our friends across the water. Besides, second thought will put them right and show conclusively that the position is untenable.

Supports British Position.

On the other hand, Representative Hanson, of Georgia, chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, and Representative Browne, of Minnesota, ranking Republican member of the committee, supported the British position. They pointed out three provisions in the pending bill, which they considered violated the treaty provisions. They are: First: The provision that tolls shall be levied upon vessels engaged in the foreign trade of the United States. This is held to be discrimination in favor of American commerce and against the competing commerce of neighboring nations. The treaty prohibits any advantage or disadvantage to any nation, to its commerce or its citizens, on account of the construction and operation of the canal. Second: The acute attachment prohibiting tolls to be levied on American vessels engaged in the foreign trade which is subject to being taken by the United States government in an emergency, in favor of American vessels engaged in the foreign trade, and against foreign vessels engaged in the foreign trade. For the same reasons, this provision seems to violate the terms of the treaty, which prohibits the imposition of a treaty forbidding such discrimination. Third: The provision in a senate amendment providing in substance that retrofitted ships may be engaged in coastwise trade in the United States during a voyage to or from transoceanic ports, but not to or from transoceanic ports, Central or southern America. This provision would tend to discriminate in the use of the canal in favor of the commerce of the United States and correspondingly operate to the disadvantage of the commerce of Canada, Mexico and Central and southern America. This discriminating tariff of the canal towards the commerce of other nations and against that of the United States is clearly forbidden by the Hay-Paonecote treaty.

UNUSUAL RECORD OF DRY WEATHER IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Month of May Produced a Record Quite the Other Way, So Effect is Not Damaging to the Crops—Interesting Figures Showing How Thermometer Has Stood.

A fairly high and quite even temperature together with an intense humidity has made the weather in St. John, so far this month, at least comfortably warm. The dryness is the weather's chief feature, however, for during the month of July to date only .06 inches of rain has fallen, and altogether since June 18, the rainfall has been only 1.5 inches.

This is quite an unusual record of dry weather, but the month of May produced a record quite the other way. During that month seven and a half inches rain fell, and during three days, May 30, 31 and June 1, no less than four and three-quarters inches of rain fell—thirty-one and two-thirds times as much as fell since June 18, almost a month.

From the farmer's standpoint this weather, which is not much varied in the whole province, is not unwelcome. Rain fell so frequently and in such heavy quantities in May and the early part of June, that the crops here look particularly good and they have given a good start. Ordinarily the present dry weather would be a far too much for the good of the crops, but this is counteracting the severe soaking they received earlier in the season. The hay, particularly, is well advanced, and the reports from nearly all sections of the province are encouraging for the farmer.

The first part of July, last year, was quite a bit warmer than this year. The highest temperature this month, was 74 in the 2nd, and 3rd, while the highest average temperature was yesterday, when the mercury went as high as 72, dropping

SAVE THE CHILDREN
Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the home may feel that their children's little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in the summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
