The Great Naval Review.
Tomorrow, at Spithead, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his fellow-premiers of Great Britain beyond the seas, will, with other guests of the Queen, view the imperial naval review. It will be a magnificent spectacle, for if there is one thing that the British pride themselves on more than another, it is their naval prowess. "Britannia rules the waves" was the declaration of the English-speaking race long before the great naval victories of Nelson were recorded, and as the motherland, by her enlightened policy of trade freedom, has extended the sway of the English-speaking race, it has become more and more true that Britain is away ahead in the race for naval supremacy. Her position as a suzerain of some 40 colonies—many of them self-governing in everything but naval defense—renders it necessary that Great Britain should keep a large and well-equipped navy constantly ready for defense, not defiance.

For many years the policy of every British government has been to maintain a navy more powerful than any two others combined. There are not many fleet combinations that Britain need fear. Italy is a good friend of the motherland, and her navy—now an effective one—is not likely to be combined with that of another country against Britain. Germany, under the present autocratic emperor, has not much affection for the land that gave him his mother, but it is hardly expected that the Germans will coalesce with either France or Russia against the British. Japan and the United States have no reason for adding an attack on Britain. Rightly or wrongly, the suspicion in recent years has been that if there is to be a naval combination antagonistic to Great Britain, it will consist of the Russian and French navies. These form the second and third navies of the world, and it is the rapid increase of both which has caused the even more speedy addition to the British navy. France has been openly adding to her war ships. Russia, however, has been increasing her naval strength in that stealthy manner for which she was long ago notorious, but the secret agents of the British government do not find much difficulty in obtaining all information required to govern the action of the British admiralty. When it is found that Russia and France are each building a battleship, then Great Britain immediately builds two, and in addition makes increased provisions for calling into service her unrivaled mercantile fleet in any emergency. Thus Great Britain's naval preparedness is always equal to that of any two or three of the powers that could be expected to menace her. Just now, however, there is a disposition in France to be more friendly to Great Britain, while this showing her readiness to hold her own both at home and abroad has studiously avoided the semblance of a quarrel with her neighbors.

The naval review of tomorrow is not an exhibition of blustering bravado, but a demonstration of Great Britain's strength as a naval power, and of her readiness to protect her interests by the most effective means which her unrivaled resources command. As peace-lovers, we would welcome the day when constant and costly naval extension would be unnecessary, and when nations would confer with each other as to how best to reduce the military burdens of their respective peoples. The day does not seem to be at hand, though the disposition to look to peaceful arbitration as a means of settling international disputes grows, and that is one good sign of the times.

A Jamaica paper pronounces Canadian creamery butter the best imported into the island. Put up in sealed air-tight cans, it sells at from 40 to 50 cents a pound. There is money in that trade for enterprising produce exporters.

Civic Governors' Attention!

London streets have been vastly improved in recent years, at no greater cost, relatively, to the ratepayer than very poor roadways were provided ten years ago. But in this era of wheeling, when 2,000 bicyclists use the streets, no large, loose stones should be lying around the thoroughfares. The boarders should be picked up by the ward employees, broken and used to mend holes.

Then an improvement might be made with regard to street sweeping. Residents on streets where the sweepers operate complain of the noise made by the operation of the machines during sleeping hours. It may be necessary to sweep in the night time, but, if so, the noise should be reduced to a minimum. Complaint is made of loud talk and shouting to horses, and the sweepers make far too much racket.

Could not the workmen be prevailed upon to cultivate a whispering method of talking, remembering that all around them are open windows and sleeping citizens? And could a machine used at such unseemly hours not be equipped with rubber tires and other noise-destroying agencies?

The Queen's Message to her Canadian people reached Ottawa a few minutes after six o'clock on the morning of the great jubilee, and Lord Aberdeen had to get out of bed to answer it, and dispatch it to every center in this wide Dominion. But he now has the gratification of learning that his cablegram was the first of forty messages in reply sent to her Majesty by the forty governors of colonies in all parts of the world. The Governor-General is nothing if not energetic.

It will interest women readers of The Advertiser to know that when she rode through the streets of the British metropolis, at the side of her husband, in the great jubilee procession, Lady Laurier wore a lace-trimmed small bonnet and a black and claret-colored flowered dress.

The New Orchard Pest.

The Ontario minister of agriculture should have the support of every grower of fruit in the country in his endeavor to put down the new orchard pest—the San Jose scale. When we first heard about this pernicious pest, the statement was made that it could not survive a winter's frost north of the great lakes, but recently it has been found in several orchards in the Niagara Peninsula, and there is danger of its spreading to the Western Ontario orchards if the utmost watchfulness is not exercised. The scale, indeed, is found adapting itself to different climatic conditions. The Country Gentleman informs us that it has been found in the mountainous regions of Virginia at a height of 2,000 feet; it has been found in Western New York, and as far north as Canada. It infests all deciduous fruit trees—peaches, pears, plums, apples, quinces, and the ornamentals that belong to this class; also the black walnut, our common American chestnut, both the American and European lindens, the catalpa, the Lombardy poplar, the Carolina poplar, and the cut-leaved birch. At present there is no case on record where the scale has spread by means of fruit.

The original home of the scale in the United States was California. How it got to the Eastern States and thence to Canada is a pertinent question, and nurserymen answer that it came on nursery stock from the Pacific coast, which proves the necessity of greater vigilance in the purchase of such supplies. It is now found in nineteen states on the Atlantic coast, in adjacent states inland, and in a number of orchards between Hamilton and the Niagara River. In a recent address at the Virginia Experiment Station, Prof. Alwood said that for five or six years it was spreading on the eastern half of this continent in the nurseries and orchards before anyone had the first inkling that there was a San Jose scale side of California except in insect cabinets. It is now four years since the first case was known, and it is only during the last eighteen months that the States people came fully to realize the extent of its dissemination in the east. It is only within the last few weeks that our neighbors in the States have had brought to their attention some of those alarming cases where the scale had existed right under the nose of specialists for years without having been detected. Of the eastern specialists, not one in a hundred had ever seen a San Jose scale, but all at once fruit was sent to the department of horticulture at Washington, infested with it, and it set up a great furor among specialists, because it was known that if it succeeded in gaining a foothold in their orchards and nurseries, it meant vast destruction of the fruit-growing industry in the east. Prof. Alwood cited a number of cases in Virginia where the scale was found to have existed for some time without its presence having been suspected, and where the only prevention for the further spreading of the infection was immediate destruction of the stock. In one case an orchard had become infested with the scale by means of the peach gatherers, who, in gathering the fruit had carried away the scale upon their clothing, and in various ways, and had spread it in the orchard, it being found on close investigation in the furthest limits of the orchard. When carried in this way it spreads very rapidly; also where the trees are large and interlaced with each other. In other cases the spread is very much slower; trees are known standing twelve feet apart, one solidly infested with scale for two years, and the other entirely free from it. A case of scale was found to exist, Prof. Alwood went on to say, within a few steps of the door of the horticultural building of Cornell University, where it had been for three years without having been detected, showing how easily it can be overlooked when no one is especially interested in finding it.

Only two cases of scale were known to exist in Virginia orchards when Prof. Alwood entered on his inspection of the trees, and he located ten other infested places where the scale was not before known to exist. This result shows the benefit of vigilance. When the scale has once taken hold, nothing but the destruction of the tree seems to have any effect. As yet it does not seem that the United States authorities have discovered how to control the dissemination of the scale, and the nurserymen, at their recent convention, resolved to take a hand in framing legislation for such combating the formidable pest. In Ontario, the minister of agriculture and the fruit expert at the model farm are now engaged in devising means by which, with the assistance of orchard owners, the ravages of the insect can be kept within as narrow limits as possible. Orchard owners who discover anything of a scale-like nature, or anything out of the normal or usual appearance on the bark of their trees, should immediately send to Hon. Mr. Dryden samples for diagnosis.

Sanders Spencer, writing to the Country Gentleman (New York), says that to produce the finest and highest-priced side of bacon for the English market, one must first breed the pig which is long and deep in the body, light in the shoulders, head, jaw and neck, fine in the bone and oval, with a very large proportion of lean meat and one of quick growth in its youth. Mr. Spencer is an expert, and Canadian bacon producers may well accept his advice.

Industrial Development in Canada.

Times are improving throughout the Dominion and men of means are showing that they have faith in the future by investing their means in manufacturing, mining and other enterprises. Among the latest evidences gathered from the Canadian Manufacturer and other sources, are the following:

The Brantford Water-Chute Company, Brantford, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $2,000, to erect and operate water-chutes.

The Harrison Plank Manufacturing Company, Harrison, has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $6,000, to grow and manufacture flax.

The Windsor Specialty Manufacturing Company, Windsor, has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $10,000, to manufacture novelties.

When deserted by the workmen who come to this city, the old G. T. R. shops at Brantford will be turned into an agricultural implement factory.

Wm. Davidson has started a boiler works at Halifax, N. S.

The Lake Megantic Pulp Company is framing and laying the foundation of its new pulp mill.

The wheel works at Hamilton are to be enlarged.

The new factory at Parry Sound of the Patent Cloth Board Company, notice of incorporation of which is given, is nearing completion. It is said that they will have the finest equipped mill of its kind in Canada, the plant being of the latest and most improved machinery. The company will manufacture almost exclusively for export. The Canadian Gazette, of London, England, speaking of this class of business for Canada, believes that a trade of large proportions can be built up.

A new pulp wood saw mill has been introduced in the Port Arthur district. It is built on a big scow. The log is carried from the water by an endless chain, shifted to a set of barbed rollers from which it is carried to a table with a guide. When it is in right position a lever is pressed and the big circular saw cuts it. By an automatic arrangement the piece of wood is rolled off the table down an incline into the river. It is possible to cut 75 cords a day with the machine.

There is prospect for a busy summer in the building line at Charlotteville, P. E. I. A new pork-packing building is in course of erection at a cost of $60,000. The new cathedral will expend, perhaps, $50,000 more. A college will be built at a cost of $20,000, and a new wing will be added to the provincial asylum.

C. W. Thompson has purchased the paper mill at Napanee Mills, Ont., and will add extensive improvements.

The Oxford Manufacturing Company, Oxford, N. S., have begun the manufacture of dress goods.

Code's knitting mill, Perth, Ont., has been running night and day for several weeks to overtake orders. Mr. Code is doing a large business with farmers this season, and has been obliged to increase his employees.

Firstbrook Bros., Toronto, manufacturers of shipping cases, cigar boxes, etc., will build a three-story brick addition to their factory.

The Canada Printing Ink Company, Toronto, is being incorporated with a capital stock of $40,000 to manufacture printing inks, printers' supplies and machinery, dry colors, oils, varnishes, etc.

The Watson-Foster Company, Montreal, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $450,000, to manufacture paper hangings, colors, glue, pulp, paper, etc.

The Luxfer Prism Company, Toronto, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000 to manufacture prismatic glass and other devices in glass goods.

The paper, pulp and saw mills of the Royal Paper Mills Company, East Angus, Que., among the largest of the kind in the country, are crowded with orders. Over 12,000,000 feet of logs, the product of the last season's cut are already at the mill.

Parties representing German capitalists have called for and are considering tenders for six large buildings to be erected near Capetown, Que., for the manufacture of a secret high explosive, to take the place of giant powder, dynamite, etc.

M. P. Tudor is building a saw mill at Wardner, B. C., with a capacity of 20,000 feet per day.

R. B. Bisset, Edmonton, N. W. T., is building an egg case factory to meet the demand caused by the development of the egg trade with the Kootenay district, B. C.

The James R. Ayer Company, Sackville, N. B., is being incorporated with a capital stock of $40,000, to manufacture boots, shoes, harness, etc., and to carry on the business of tanners.

The reign of King George III. was the same as that of his grand-daughter, Queen Victoria, at the present time—sixty years—but for years before he had attained that limit the king was in his dotage, and unable to perform his duties. The Queen, on the contrary, possesses all her faculties, and may rule for years yet. Correct habits are powerful aids to long life and good health.

JINGOISM DOOMED.

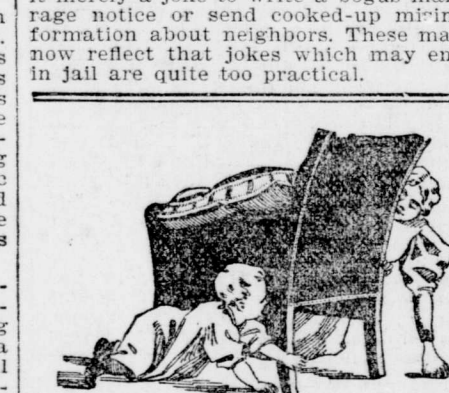

[Chicago Times-Herald.]
We are not disposed to hope that one week of unclouded good feeling will be an end to all prejudices and cause this country to throw itself into the arms of Great Britain. But even the stubborn root of jingoism will be worn away eventually by the good feeling and even affection that exists between the plain people of America and the plain people of England. The Morland, on one side of the water and the Salisbury on the other side may succeed for a time in keeping men apart, but in the end the establishment of permanent relations of cordial friendship is certain. Occasions like the present one merely tend to hasten a result which sensible Englishmen and sensible Americans have set their hearts on a result which will make a conflict between this country and England as improbable as another war between north and south.

AS TO BOGUS ITEMS.

[Ottawa Journal.]
Occasionally in the past the Journal and some of the residents of neighboring municipalities have been victimized by persons sending bogus news, sometimes covering malicious slurs upon the victims. The Journal was under the impression that there was no legal remedy against the perpetrators, and on one occasion, after arrangements had been made to employ a detective to follow the offender, dropped the matter, believing that no legal penalty could be inflicted. It now finds that the offender is a penitentiary one. Under section 429 of the Dominion Criminal Code it is enacted that:

"Every one is guilty of an indictable offense and liable to two years' imprisonment who, with intent to injure or alarm any person, sends, causes or procures to be sent, any telegram or letter or other message containing matter which he knows to be false."

It is satisfactory to discover that the law takes cognizance of a business which has proved irritating to a good many newspapers, and has hurt the feelings of many people throughout the country. Some of the people who so into that sort of thing do it maliciously and no one would seriously endeavor to save from the penitentiary the man or woman who would engage in despicable business of this kind. Others think it merely a joke, and write a bogus marriage notice or send cooked-up information about neighbors. These may now reflect that jokes which may end in jail are quite too practical.

A mother and her baby can have lots of fun together if they both are well and strong and hearty. Health makes them good-natured and happy; but all the delights of motherhood perfectly safe and nearly painless.

Mothers of young children are subject to a heavy draft upon their physical resources, and their health ought to be specially fortified, both before and after the baby is born. The most remarkable strength-sustainer for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It imparts health and endurance directly to the organs, appendages and nervous centers concerned in maternity. It makes motherhood perfectly safe and nearly painless.

It protects the mother from relapse; makes her capable and cheerful; insures abundant nourishment for the baby; and completely reinforces the vitality of both mother and child.

It is the only scientific medicine devised by an educated experienced physician for the express purpose of strengthening and healing woman's special organism.

The reasons why it is the most perfect and successful remedy of its kind in the world are more fully explained in one chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," which will be sent free, by mail, to any one who sends stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. Or handsomely cloth-bound for 50 stamps.

Mrs. P. B. Cummings, of No. 40 Humphrey St., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I am now a happy mother of a healthy baby girl. I feel that I have done me more good than anything I have ever taken. Three months previous to my confinement I began using your medicine. I took three bottles. I was only in labor forty-five minutes. With my first baby I suffered six hours, then had to lose him. He only lived 12 hours. For two years I suffered untold agony, and had two miscarriages. The Favorite Prescription saved both my child and myself."

URINARY TROUBLES

CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

I have been troubled for some years with urinary trouble. I could not hold my urine. Was constantly broken of my rest, as I had to get up six or eight times every night. I tried doctors and many remedies without getting any relief until one of my friends advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I felt relieved from the first box and six boxes completely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for the new lease of life and comfort your Dodd's Kidney Pills has given me.

Marriage of a Popular Young Londoner
To the Belle of South Bend, Indiana.

The South Bend, Indiana, Tribune yesterday has the following interesting account of a popular young Londoner's marriage to a young lady who while visiting here made hosts of friends:

With the grand melodious strains of the organ filling the church, and in the presence of hundreds of friends Miss Maude Earl Oren, eldest daughter of County Treasurer, and William H. Oren, became the wife of Mr. Frederick H. Beltz, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Beltz, prominent residents of London, Ontario, Canada. The ceremony, with full ring service, took place on Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock in Milburn Memorial Chapel, on West Thomas street, and the solemn words were pronounced by the pastor, Rev. S. W. Goss. A reception followed at the beautiful apartment of the bride's father.

The wedding was one of the most brilliant social events that has taken place in South Bend this year, and it will long remain an exceedingly happy memory. Although it takes from the social circles of the city a bright and attractive young woman, it is to the city where she will reside one who will be loved and admired for her pleasant womanly ways and her natural attractiveness.

The pretty chapel where the ceremony was performed was most beautifully filled with relatives and friends, nearly all from South Bend. The decorations were simple and beautiful, and a variety of forest of palms in the alcove which incloses the organ and almost hiding the latter from view.

Mrs. Geo. M. Studebaker presided at the organ, and while the seats were filling, with a touch and a smile, the feeling rendered delightful music among the numbers being served. The bride, popular as she is, was dressed in a simple and elegant gown, and the bridesmaids, dressed in white, were seated along the rear and center aisles and the bride's train was carried by the bridesmaids.

Family Desertion.

A Singular Coincidence in the East End.

A Married Man and His Neighbor's Wife Leave the City Very Abruptly.

Two cases of family desertion have occurred in East London, and what may have been only a coincidence, has given rise to the rumor that the parties, a man and a woman, have gone together. However that may be, nothing definite has been learned in proof of it.

It was a week ago last Saturday that the husband failed to return home in the evening, and his wife, who had been waiting for him, was wondering what could have happened.

Three or four days passed, and she received a letter from her missing husband, stating that he had gone away to get work, and giving his address. On Tuesday following the wife of the next door neighbor left the house at the afternoon, and no word of her has since been received. None of the family knew where she was going away.

She and her husband were married about five years ago, and have a bright little boy five years old. The husband had been a year and a half in the city, and the missing parties were well thought of in the community, and are respectively connected.

A NEIGHBORS' QUARREL.
Caused the Magistrate Much Consideration—A Hired Man in Trouble.

The settlement of a neighbors' quarrel occupied the attention of Police Magistrate Parke nearly all the morning. Jane Blackwell charged Rebecca Sharp and Bessie Sharp, two sisters, with assaulting her, and she was ordered to pay a fine of 10s, or to be imprisoned for 14 days.

The case of Mr. Laird, the society has been moved by Rev. B. Clement, seconded by Mr. John Cameron, and resolved, that the members of the board have heard with the deepest regret of the unexpected death of the Rev. J. G. Laird, the honorary secretary of the society. They realize keenly that in the death of Mr. Laird the society has lost one who was ever assiduous in the discharge of his duties. Since his acceptance of the position of honorary secretary, their late colleague had rarely if ever been absent from any official meeting, and in many ways had manifested his zeal and good-will. His kindly, genial presence, his wise counsel, his warm interest in the promotion of the circulation of the Holy Scriptures, will long be held in remembrance. We recognize in our deceased colleague a soldier of the cross, who, after years of usefulness, has now heard the Master's plaudit. "Well done, good and faithful servant!" The directors of the Western Ontario Bible Society desire to extend their sincere expressions of condolence to the family and friends of Mr. Laird. And resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the relatives of the deceased.

It was also arranged that Ven. Dean Innes (and in his absence, Rev. Mr. Innes) be invited to deliver the funeral sermon at the funeral of Mr. Laird, on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Andrew Thomson, 200 St. George Street, at 10 o'clock.

The case of Clinton E. Turner, broker, was sent for trial by consent of counsel.

CLEVER DOGS AND PONIES.
Prof. Gentry's Show Is a Fine One—Amusing and Instructive.

Prof. Gentry's dog and pony show, which is making its first Canadian tour, appeared last night on the spacious Chapter House grounds in the north end, the performance being given in a commodious water-proof tent.

Prof. Gentry has a fine reputation as a dog and pony show, and he has been in the United States as an animal trainer and sustained it here in a clever and fascinating manner.

The professor's ponies and dogs are handsome and well trained, and gave a wholesome and amusing exhibition of animal intelligence. One of the best events was the arrest of a black dog by the hand of a boy, and the dog was hanged by the dog, after which the dog was hanged by the dog, after which the dog was hanged by the dog.
