CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN STRICKEN
CONDITION IS VERY SERIOUS*Britain's Premier Overcome With an Attack of Heart Trouble and Cancels All Engagements.

Bristol, Nov. 14.—The Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, after addressing a political meeting, was seized with sudden illness last night at the residence here of William Howells, Liberal member of Parliament for South Bristol. Doctors attended the sufferer for over an hour, and although the sharpness of the attack has ceased, the Premier's condition is such that London doctors have been summoned. Heart trouble is believed to be the cause of the illness.

Sir Henry had planned to make several political speeches, but he has given up all his engagements, and has requested Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell to take them up.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, prime minister and first lord of the treasury since 1905, was born in 1836.

PREMIER CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN.
Critically Ill From Heart Disease in Bristol.

ROGUISH WINK
THAT WENT ASTRAY*Meant for a Friend, But Court Caught It and Acted in Cruel Manner.

John E. Cooper appeared in the police court today to answer to three charges, the first being one of fraud preferred by Mr. C. H. Armitage, of East London, for whom Cooper has been working for some time. Mr. Armitage claims that Cooper misappropriated some money which he obtained for selling carpet sweepers for him. On this charge Cooper pleaded guilty, and elected trial before Magistrate Love. The case was adjourned until Saturday. Cooper is also charged with beating his board-house out of $18, and with not paying his rent for the month of October a fine of $1.50. He pleaded guilty to the latter charge, and was ordered by the court to pay it. The other charge will stand over until after the fraud charge is heard.

George Storey, a youthful looking fellow, who gave his age as 21, was charged with being drunk. Unfortunately for Storey he winked rather knowingly at some of his companions when he said his age was 21, and as the court did not believe from his looks that he really was that age, he was remanded until tomorrow, in order that his correct age might be ascertained. Two first-time drunks were allowed to go.

THIRD RUSS PARLIAMENT OPENS CHEERS, PRAYERS, NOBODY HURT

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The third Russian parliament was opened in the Tauride Palace at 11 o'clock this morning in the presence of Premier Stolypin and the cabinet, by M. Golubeff, vice-president of the council of the empire. The religious service preceding the opening was conducted by the metropolitan Antonius, and a large

PROSPECTS FOR "TECH" VANISHING

London will not get a technical school next year. This was made certain by the announcement from Toronto that the Government would not deal with the question at the next session of the Legislature. Hon. Dr. Pyne declared that the Government had the matter under consideration, but nothing definite had been done yet, nor would anything be done for some time yet. He also declared that the Dominion Government should make large grants for the maintenance of such schools.

The other day a deputation was sent from Hamilton to interview the Government with regard to that matter. Hamilton wants more than a technical school. A technical college is what is asked for. Some time ago the Government removed the Normal College

TEACHING NURSES HOW TO COOK
NEW COURSE IN VICTORIA HOSPITAL*Expert Dietician Made Member of Staff—Trip Through the Wards.

Work has already commenced for the new isolation hospital, in that several of the buildings on the land bought for that purpose have already been removed, and it is anticipated that the rest will be removed shortly. When the building is completed rather an imposing pile will be found near Victoria Hospital. There will be one building completely covered with splendid buildings. When the Hygienic Institute is built, as it surely must within a very few short years, London will be an important center as a seat of medical education. Few better equipped and better managed institutions are to be found in Ontario than Victoria Hospital.

Dietician Appointed.
In keeping with the progressive institution, a dietician has been appointed to the staff. This is the first permanent appointment of the kind in Ontario, and makes a great step in advance. The need of such an official or teacher has long been felt, and the consummation of the wishes of those in charge has been a matter of congratulation. Miss Parkinson, of Toronto, a graduate of the Lillian Massey School of that city, was appointed some time ago, and has been in charge about six weeks. Miss Parkinson is a young lady of splendid training, and is enthusiastic. As was said before this is the first hospital in Ontario to appoint as a permanent official a teacher of dietetics, and Miss Parkinson has special qualifications for the position. Besides being a graduate of the Lillian Massey School, she also took a course in the Johns Hopkins School at Baltimore, and is as a result thoroughly trained for the position.

Her duties are by no means light. She has charge of the whole domestic economy of the nurses in training. They are instructed in the properties

CLEVER DETECTIVE
HAS DISAPPEARED*Took a Prominent Part in the Attempt to Solve Barton Murder Mystery.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Ont., Nov. 14.—W. J. Wells, formerly provincial detective, living at 15 Leuty avenue, has disappeared so completely that his friends are alarmed, and fear foul play. Wells lately traveled for a Montreal firm of drygoods importers.

He went west on a trip for the firm early in the summer, in Vancouver, B. C. In June he wrote to his wife from a Vancouver hotel, and left the hotel to post the letter, but never has been seen since. Wells leaves a wife and three children, now in financial and mental distress. He took a prominent part in the attempt to unravel the Barton murder mystery near Hamilton. He never relinquished the idea of running down the murderer, and it is feared that his vigorous prosecution of this case may have something to do with his disappearance.

FOUND DEAD IN BUSH BULLET IN HIS HEART

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—In the bush about seven miles from Pembroke, a dead body of a man was found with a bullet hole through the heart. It is thought that he was hit by a stray shot from hunters who were in that vicinity.

FARMERS UNITE
IN GOOD DEED*Plow Thirty Acres for Mr. Peters, Hurt in Crystal Hall Crash.

About 40 or 50 farmers of London township recently gathered and plowed a farm of about 30 acres for Mr. E. Peters, who was so severely injured in the Reid disaster. The neighbors also split enough wood to last Mr. Peters all winter, as well as doing other work, which he is unable to do himself at present.

It will be remembered that Mr. and Mrs. Peters both sustained broken limbs in the Hamilton, Long & Co. building, when Crystal Hall went down. Mrs. Peters is still in the hospital, but Mr. Peters was discharged the other day, although he is still in bad shape.

NO FIRE ESCAPES IN LONDON SCHOOLS

In London not a single school has a fire escape. Most of the schools are only two stories high, but the high ceilings make them higher than the average two-story building. A few schools are three stories in height. All schools open into hallways, but some of the hallways are none too wide. Were the hallways or stairways to be cut off by fire in any way there is now no way of escape. Fire escapes could be installed at not too great an expense, and the chances of safety would be increased exceedingly.

Fire drill is held in all the schools regularly, however, and in a majority of the schools the drill is conducted with great rapidity and skill. The school is emptied in a very short space of time. Still every possible safeguard should be provided for the children, and it is thought that the board of education will deal with the matter soon.

TWO MORE CASES FOR THE ASSIZES

But two more cases remain to be heard at the non-jury assizes now before Sir Justice Tullock.

The case of Welch vs. Esperanza, an action for $70,000 against the Esperanza Mining Company, by A. E. Welch, a local stock broker, was taken up yesterday afternoon, and is being continued today. The case is one in which Mr. Welch claims to have sustained severe financial losses through the failure of the Esperanza Mining Company to keep a contract for buying certain properties upon which he held options and had paid some $5,000 thereon. T. H. Luscombe, for plaintiff; Sutherland, Kenning & Cleary, for defense.

The Rowe vs. Rennie case, an action over a boundary fence, was decided in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe. The costs were levied on the defendant.

MR. CLARKE NOT RESIGNINGWill Continue as a Member of the Board of Health.

It has been given out on the best authority that Mr. Harry Clarke, who was recently appointed factory inspector under the Whitney Government, would not resign from the board of health, but would continue to hold his position until his term expires. His headquarters will be London, and he declares that he will be in the city to attend all the meetings of the board.

Mr. Clarke has been officially notified of his appointment. His salary will be $1,100, with expenses.

Is This Your Cat?

A wolf was killed on the streets of Winnipeg last winter, but if things pan out right London will have an animal story of its own. This story was not told by a nature fakir. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Campbell Galbraith, of London South, was in the woods near the Cove ranges when he saw a full-grown lynx. The animal is a very large one, and made its escape into the woods. It was making towards the city.

MASKED BURGLARS PLUNDER A BANK

Naperville, Nov. 14.—The agency of the Banque de St. Jean was burglarized during the night.

Three masked men and one unmasked ordered Mr. Prault, the manager, at the point of a revolver and striking him with the butt, to open the safe, upon his refusal they soon opened the safe with nitro-glycerin, and carried off the contents, $400 to $600.

Envoy Lemieux at Tokio

Tokio, Nov. 13.—Rudolph Lemieux, P. M. G. and minister of labor of Canada, arrived on the steamer Empress of China this evening. He was received at Yokohama by Count Toraninima, representing the Japanese department of foreign affairs.

The programme for the entertainment of Minister Lemieux will not be arranged until his wishes in the matter are known. He will be received in audience by the Emperor on the latter's return from the army maneuvers.

The Japanese Government understands that Minister Lemieux comes as a representative of the Canadian Government for the purpose of discussing and investigating immigration matters, and that he brings an independent plan for the settlement.

The Japanese Government considered that its present plans now in progress, looking toward the control of immigration, would be satisfactory to Canada, and it is not likely that the visit of the minister will result in any material change.

TOWSER TIED, CHICKENS COOPED
FUELISTS PATCH UP A PEACE

The case of the South London contractor, charged with the poisoning of a dog, was brought to court this morning, and admitted that he had used any bad language, agreed, in case he had done so, to tender an apology in open court to his neighbor. It was further agreed between the parties that in future the contractor is to keep his dog tied up to a post, and the other keeps his chickens in a coop.

LONDON RAILWAYMAN BADLY HURT

Richard McLeod, a Grand Trunk brakeman, living at 187 Langarth street, was painfully injured while working on a construction train near Clinton late yesterday afternoon. McLeod had his leg jammed between a couple of cars, and the injury to his foot was particularly painful, four of the toes being crushed so badly that they had to be amputated. He was taken to Clinton, where his injuries were attended to, and this morning was brought to his home in this city. It is said that Mr. McLeod had a close call from being killed, as he was standing close to a car when some other cars were shunted into it. He was caught and only saved himself by hanging on to the cars.

FORGED A CHECK IN ORDER TO WED

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 14.—Edward Watson, the young Scotchman, who attempted to pass a forged check for $700 upon Detective Wallace yesterday forenoon, appeared before the police magistrate this morning and pleaded guilty to forgery. He was sentenced to 20 months in Central Prison. Watson told Detective Wallace that he wanted the money to get married, and that his story was found to be true. At his boarding house, 7 Morrison street, Miss Minnie Ashwell and a bridal party were awaiting Watson's return. Watson had ordered furs and jewelry from the department stores for his bride, and had given the girl a forged check for $500.

SIX MONTHS FOR RICHARD.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 14.—Richard Solomon, who was brought back from Niagara Falls to answer to a charge of stealing $14 from Mrs. Emery, whom he boarded, was sent to Central Prison for six months.

Members for L.C.I. Staff Appointments Up Today*Mr. Neil Gray Is Likely to Be Given Department of English.

This is the busy day for the board of education. At 4:20 o'clock No. 1 committee of the board will meet to discuss the appointment of three teachers to the Collegiate Institute. At 5 o'clock No. 2 committee will tackle the janitors' increase, and at 5:30 o'clock the board will meet to dispose of the question.

Chairman Fitzgerald and Principal McCutcheon were in Toronto this week when the applications were laid before the department, and a confidential report was received on the teachers. Several teachers among the applicants were singled out as of proper caliber, and it is on these names that the committee will work this afternoon. In the department of English, the appointment will probably go to Mr. Neil Gray, at present assistant in that department. Mr. Gray has proven his worth since coming to the Collegiate, and it is thought a fitting thing that he be promoted. The inspectors are said to have reported very favorably in his case, and there will be no objections from any quarters to his promotion. There are several first-class applicants for the position of English teacher, and it is said that they are willing to take the position of assistant, especially as it means the recognition of the merits of the present teachers, and promotes a worthy teacher.

In the moderns department, the position will probably go to Mr. H. S. McKellar, of Owen Sound. He is recognized as one of the very best teachers in the province. He was offered the position once before, but through some misunderstanding it was not given him.

There are several good men applying for the position of machine-master and the inspectors have given a wide range of choice.

The question of the increase in salary to the janitors is another matter to be decided. The committee in charge last night made a thorough canvass of the situation, and it is thought that a favorable answer will be given the petition, although it is certain that the increase asked for will not be given, as it means an increase of 50 per cent.

HELD THE WATCH
ON ENGINEERS*G.T.R. Expresses Were Too Long for Crossings, But Were Compelled to Clear.

This morning the Grand Trunk crossings at Richmond street were blocked for some time by passenger trains. Express No. 6 was more than usually long, and it was a case of blocking one or other of the crossings, no matter how the train stopped at the station. There was a lot of baggage to be unloaded and the engineer did the best he could under the circumstances, although it is unlikely he would have done so had not Sergeant McDonald been standing beside him with a watch. The bylaw allows the company five minutes, and at the end of that time the police officer notified the engineer that he must move. So the engineer simply backed up and blocked Richmond street for about four minutes more, by which time all the baggage and express had been loaded. No. 6 had hardly pulled out when No. 3 came in from the east, and again Clarence street was blocked, and as it was close to noon about fifty people stood and shivered for several minutes until one of the officials got after the engineer and made him pull his train clear of the crossing.

The case of the conductor from Sarnia, who has been summoned to appear in the police court for blocking the crossing a few days ago, comes up tomorrow, and the outcome is being awaited with considerable interest especially by the railroad men.

BATTLED WITH WOLVES

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Chief Thunderer, of the Chippewas, narrowly escaped being devoured by wolves near War Road, Minn., across from Port Frances. The pack attacked him in the woods, but he succeeded in standing them off with an axe, with which he killed one and maimed another, until help arrived from his camp. The Indians believe this early fury of the wolves indicates a severe winter.

CITY TO HAVE BALANCE OF POWER
WHEN WESTERN BECOMES LONDON*A Special Committee of Council and the Senate In Conference.

No. 1 committee held a special meeting yesterday afternoon when the Western University question came up. A delegation from the senate of the university was present, and the proposed changes in the government of the institution were discussed, and an interim draft of the new constitution made. The new university will be called "The University of London," if the proposed new scheme is adopted, instead of Western University.

The principles of university government were discussed by the joint committee. The senate had discussed them at a meeting held Tuesday evening, and had formed a draft of the government of the University of Toronto. The university will be governed by a board of governors, and a senate. The board of governors will consist of a stated number of members, from the city, the Government, the faculty of arts, theology, and affiliated colleges. A chancellor and a vice-chancellor will be elected from that body. The governors will have the management of the university under its control, will finance it, appoint professors, and other work in connection with the university. The senate and the Government will hold the balance of power in the government of the university. The arts faculty will have quite a large representation on the board of governors, such candidates to be elected by the undergraduates and undergraduates. The senate would have the internal economy of the institution under supervision. It would arrange the curriculum, arrange the work of professors, arrange studies and other such duties, subject to the sanction of the board of governors.

There will be the University of London, and University College, as it is called. The latter will be presided over by a president, it being thought advisable to drop the title "Provost."

In the first draft, the city was not given representation on the senate, but it was also thought desirable to have city representation on that body.

Will Be Undenominational.

Of course, the university will be strictly undenominational. That was the first matter mentioned, and it was unanimously decided that it should be so.

Power With City.

This system of management was not worked out in detail. The exact number of governors, how many from the city, Government, arts faculty and other affiliated college was not gone into closely. This is a matter of detail to be worked out by the university senate shortly. The broad principle was established that the city and Government should have the balance of power. How that will be outlined will be decided later.

Ald. Beattie and the others of the committee made no mention of the proposed changes, and will report on the matter at the next meeting of the council. The committee were in favor of the grant, and were of the opinion that the proposed changes would guarantee a thoroughly undenominational university, and also give the city control of it. Ald. Beattie will draft a clause in his report outlining the proposed changes.

Those present were Dr. John D. Wilson, Dr. Moorhouse, Inspector Edwards, and Mr. John Dearness, representing the university, and Ald. Beattie, Ald. Stevenson and Ald. Stevely, representing the council.

MANY CHINESE PAUPERS

Relatives Paid Passage and Head Tax
—All Had Promise of Work.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 13. — The shipment of pauper labor, with relatives in China advancing the $60 passage money and the $500 head tax, was brought out by Commission King in examination today of twelve of the 72 Celestials who had paid $36,000 in taxes on arrival of the Empress of India.

Some of the twelve examined had a dollar, but all had written or verbal promises of work here, and in the Northwest. One was compelled to remain here till a friend in Moosejaw sent his fare and money for board. Two had tickets to Toronto, having promises of employment in laundries. One admitted he came here to attend school, with the expectation of the usual refund of the head tax at the end of the first year, as the act provides. There is some doubt as to whether the promise of employment is of a character sufficient to cover a violation of the alien labor laws.

In Portuguese East Africa an explorer has discovered a new species of zebra, resembling the ordinary zebra in shape, but the head, neck, forelegs and fore half of the body are dark brown in color, the back and hind legs, including the legs, being striped. He also discovered a peculiar type of antelope similar in size and shape to the Boer reebuck or impala, the distinctive difference being a black line down the center of the back and on either hind leg down to the foot. When the animal is startled it immediately takes to flight, the initial leap being fully ten feet through the air.

Pale, Anaemic, Sickly Girls

Anaemia is most common among young women and is marked by pallor, weakness, indigestion, irritability, spells of dizziness and fainting, heart palpitation, severe headaches and feelings of extreme lassitude. The blood is lacking in the elements which go to form energy, vigor and strength and demands such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure sharpens the appetite, invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, strengthens the heart's action, and naturally and gradually restores the sufferer from weak blood to health, strength and vigor.

The headaches and eyeaches of pale, nervous school girls, of office girls and of factory employes are largely the result of thin, watery blood and will disappear when the blood is enriched and the system built up by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Put this great restorative to the test by noting your increase in weight while using it. Fifty cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ANYTHING TO GET HOUSEMAID

Piano, Auto, Other Luxuries and a Fancy Salary Are Offered.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—If there is a young woman in Chicago who longs for position—"position" meaning income to her liking, luxurious home, auto, musical instruments and assistance in entertaining her callers—this is her opportunity.

All of these things and more are held out as an inducement to that much sought person, the model maid, by D. Van Ness Persons, 3240 Rhodes avenue. Mr. Persons, who is the publisher of a trade journal, has become tired of the "general run" of maids, and he has decided to get one on whom he can rely if he is compelled to divide his income with her.

What is more, Mr. Persons has decided to surprise his wife with the best maid in Chicago and hire her if she demands $10,000 a year.

Then Mr. Persons seated himself at his typewriter and penned—or type-writered, to be exact—the following lines:

"Wanted—Maid for housework, fruit, candy and preserves furnished in plenty. This is an exceptional opportunity to locate with a family of refinement; every opportunity will be accorded to make your situation entirely agreeable. Piano with soloist; library well supplied with literature. Reception room at your service; your company will be entertained if so desired. Dancing every night, however, is prohibited, as the master of the house insists she shall have his coffee each morning at 7 o'clock. Wages no object, exact what you think is right. No washing and nationality not scrutinized. 3240 Rhodes avenue."

"Ad" is Carefully Prepared.

Mr. Persons spent considerable time studying the bit of literature, adding, from time to time, such inducements as he thought might be looked on with favor by a discriminating maid.

"Do you really expect to get the best domestic in Chicago?" Mr. Persons was asked in the evening.

"If money and kind treatment will do it," he replied. "I believe that I have offered everything that a maid could desire. Don't you think that with this inducement I have offered a young woman could lead what might be termed a comparative butterfly existence?"

"There is the piano with the player attachment if she did not chance to have music training, an automobile jaunt when tired of music, good reading when neither was desired, and, I suppose, some member of the family would assist her in entertaining, in the parlor of course, when she did not feel inclined to do the entertaining herself."

"How about duties?" Mr. Persons was asked.

"O, as to that, I haven't given that much thought. If I can get the sort of person we are looking for, I believe that my wife will be so satisfied that we won't ask her to do much. At any rate, her duties will be extremely light at first."

HIS MARLBOROUGH COAT

The Dictum of Fashion Is That "The Style Is in the Man Himself."

Not quite so extreme as the sartorial, the new Marlborough overcoat is a smartly draped overcoat, conforming slightly to the lines of the figure. It is not the tight body-fitting coat which some prefer.

Individuality in men's dress is recognized in the fashion world today, and that which suits a man, both as to shape and color, is correct. The best styles of the past few years combine to harmonious effect. The style body, including the legs, being striped. He also discovered a peculiar type of antelope similar in size and shape to the Boer reebuck or impala, the distinctive difference being a black line down the center of the back and on either hind leg down to the foot. When the animal is startled it immediately takes to flight, the initial leap being fully ten feet through the air.

AERIAL CONQUESTS OF ENGLISHMAN

London Journalist Breaks All Aeroplane Records at the French Capital.

London, Nov. 13.—All aeroplane records have been beaten by Mr. Henry Farman, a well-known English newspaper correspondent in Paris, who on the busy drill ground outside the walls of the French capital made a flight on Saturday of nearly half a mile at an average speed of 30 miles an hour.

The flight was accomplished in the presence of the aeroplane committee of the French Aero Club and of a large number of enthusiastic spectators. Mr. Farman was immediately awarded the Archdeacon cup, at present in the possession of M. Santos Dumont.

Mr. Farman began his experiments about half-past ten in the morning, and in the presence of many well-known aeronauts and motorists made a short flight of a couple of hundred yards, thus showing that his machine was in perfect condition.

At this point he witnessed an accident to the military airship Patrie, which was overhead. One of the propellers fell off and the Patrie immediately shot up and disappeared into the clouds. The propeller fell harmless into an empty street. The accident caused much excitement, and, jumping on his motor car, Mr. Farman went to the military ballooning establishment at Chalais-Meudon to give notice of the accident.

He then decided to summon the aeroplane committee of the French Aero Club for an afternoon trial, and at half-past one he was back on the drill ground, where the members of the committee had already arrived. At 3 o'clock the machine was brought out of the shed, and soon afterwards Mr. Farman made his first flight of 353 yards, at 27 seconds, at a height of between ten and twelve feet from the ground.

This he followed by a second flight of 440 yards in 31 1/2 seconds, and this broke all official records. He was about to take his machine back to the shed when he was induced to make another trial, and a curious scene took place. The aeroplane hopped and jumped along in the thick mud for a couple of hundred yards, and then, with a buzzing, whirling sound, left the ground, rose to a height of twelve feet, and moved smartly forward in a series of undulatory movements, now approaching to within three feet of the earth, and then rising again to thirteen or fourteen feet.

The machine went straight on towards the moat of the city walls, on which hundreds of people were standing, and it looked as though Mr. Farman were about to drive right into the wall when, at the last moment, he turned, and, having stopped the motor, came gently to earth, thus showing that he had the most perfect control over the aeroplane under all conditions.

BEHEADED BY ARABS

Rash Young Frenchman's Terrible Fate at Casa Blanca.

London, Nov. 13.—A tragic fate has befallen M. Maurice Kuntzer, a young Frenchman, who for some weeks had been living at Casa Blanca, M. Kuntzer, who was the son of a Paris banker, was in the habit, in spite of warnings, of taking walks outside the town, often wandering beyond the outposts and venturing over the Arab lands.

At last the inevitable happened. He went out one day as usual, but this time mounted on a mule, and never returned. His fate was not long left in doubt. Arabs who came from the Moorish camp to the French lines told the sad tale. When well out into the country, M. Kuntzer was attacked by ten brigands, and he and his mule were severely wounded by the pursuing bandits, and fell.

Resolved to sell his life dearly, the young Frenchman emptied his revolver on his assailants, killing one and wounding another. But they continued to fire at him, and at last he fell severely wounded. The brigands then approached and finished their murderous work. They stole everything that he had on him, and treated his body with great brutality.

Afterwards they cut off his head, which, together with that of an Algerian tirailleur who was killed during the last fight, is now exposed at the Moorish camp as a trophy of victory.

TEACHING THE NURSES

of the various foods and their nutritive values. Miss Parkins lectures on these themes to the young ladies, and by means of regular courses in this particular branch of the nurse's work, they are splendidly equipped for their life work. How to feed a sick patient is a very important matter, and its great importance is being insisted upon of late. In many diseases nowadays scientific feeding is of vast importance, and the fact that the authorities of Victoria Hospital have not neglected this important branch of the nurse's training, but rather have been pioneers in the field, is a matter of congratulation.

An Advertiser reporter was a visitor at the hospital yesterday, and was taken in charge by Miss M. Stanley, the lady superintendent, and was shown all through the big building. As everything is so spotlessly clean, and the corridors are so brightly lit, and the amount of work that amazes a mere man. By 10 o'clock, the numerous nurses and attendants have done a great deal of hard work, and the physician and surgeon to begin his work. This routine day after day is carried out, and the great procession of the world's ill moves on apace within the walls. The countless bandages, dressings, medicines, and other paraphernalia, making up common necessities of hospital life, are really wonderful when looked at closely. The necessities of modern surgery are infinite in variety and number.

The Diet Kitchen.

But to return to the diet kitchen. Miss Parkins has a class of six nurses constantly under her care. They work in the kitchen with her, and learn the art from beginning to end. They have practical demonstrations, and have soon acquired a working knowledge. Their knowledge is, of course, reinforced by lectures and demonstrations during the balance of their course, and by the time a young lady has finished her three years' probation, she is not only thoroughly trained in the art of nursing, but also in the art of cooking for the sick. This is especially valuable to her, and adds considerably to her education. It is a scientific course in domestic science both for sick and well. This is a great step in advance. A course somewhat similar to that of Victoria Hospital is in vogue in the Sick Children's Hospital at Toronto, although not on so ambitious a scale. Miss Parkins and Miss Stanley, the lady superintendent, are enthusiastic over the work, and are hopeful that it will result in great things for the hospital.

The children's pavilion and sun-room at Victoria has been thoroughly overhauled of late, and a splendid new linoleum has been laid on the floors. This was done by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary. The rooms are singularly bright and cheerful.

While the hospital is the scene of much that is disquieting, and much that is distressing, there is, nevertheless, here, there is the bright side, and that bright spot seems to be centered in the maternity ward, where the wee bits of humanity are ushered into the world. Here as many as fifteen little milks to nurse, and they have to be labeled or they will get terribly mixed up, are to be found, and a prettier sight could scarcely be witnessed than this. Yesterday the "kiddies" were on their good behavior, and as a result, they were much admired, more so than usual, by the male members of the party.

As Superintendent Heard pointed out yesterday Victoria Hospital is getting to be a very big institution. With the Isolation Hospital, and shortly a Hygienic Institute, and then perhaps a medical school in the same neighborhood, a pile of buildings devoted to the study of the health, and the prevention of the disease of humanity will be a distinct credit to London, and to Ontario.

"London is not half proud of its hospitals," said an American to the writer the other day. "There are very few places in America of the same size that can boast of so splendid institutions."

DR. FISCHER'S LATEST POEMS

New Volume, "The Toiler," Issued by Former London Physician.

A new volume of poems has been issued by Dr. W. J. Fischer, who has many friends in this city, being a graduate of the medical department of the Western University, and having been house surgeon at St. Joseph's Hospital for two years. These latest offerings of his muse have been gathered together under the title of "The Toiler." The one hundred and more selections testify to Dr. Fischer's literary industry and fertility. Many of them are poetic nature studies. They show a fine eye for the manifold beauties of earth and sky and lake and river, and they express melodiously the moods and reflections which nature inspires in the poet's mind. Dr. Fischer finds poetry in everything within his range of observation, from a summer rose or a snowfall to a street Arab or an old piano. The sentiment of his poems is always elevated, and he evidently believes in the moral power of his art.

"The Toiler" is dedicated with affection and gratitude to Dr. John Wishart, F. R. C. S., and Dr. Hugh McCallum, M. R. C. S., of this city. The volume is from the presses of Wm. Briggs, Toronto, and is a handsome production.

Gladstone's library is now accessible to all, as the St. Deane's library, at Hawarden, greeted at a cost of $200,000. There are 37,000 volumes, largely on theology.

Representative George A. Pearce, of the Sixth Maryland district, has materially increased his popularity with the women of his state as the result of a commencement address delivered at Keo-Mar College, in which he announced himself in favor of the elective franchise being extended to women.

TORONTO AND NIAGARA POWER.

The Toronto board of control has been staggered by an independent report on the Niagara power scheme, or that part of it relating to local distribution. The hydro-electric commission reported that the cost of a local plant, capable of distributing all the electricity needed for power and light in the city, estimated at 33,772 horsepower, would cost $2,463,411, while a plant capable of delivering 12,439 horsepower, sufficient for street lighting and strictly municipal purposes, would cost $1,- $51,582. These figures were based on a system largely of overhead distribution except in the central portions of the city.

The Toronto board of control thought it would be prudent to check these figures, and instructed a firm of engineers to make a separate investigation. These engineers have reported that one system would cost $4,290,000, while a more complete system, providing for a greater area of underground wires, would cost $5,200,000.
The Globe says that "inasmuch as the controllers had calculated on $2,000,- 000 as the likely outside price, or possibly $2,500,000, the figures of the special engineers have caused them considerable disappointment." The surprise is the greater because the head of this firm of engineers, Mr. Cecil Smith, was the engineer of the hydroelectric commission.

The controllers are now said to be disposed to negotiate with the Toronto Electric Company to ascertain if a compromise might be reached, which would save the city a large expenditure for a distribution plant, and at the same time reduce the price of electrical energy. The Globe argues that regulation or expropriation is preferable to competition, and that the proper plan would be to place the Toronto Electric Company on a semi-public basis, so that all its profits, after paying shareholders a dividend of 8 per cent, should go to the reduction of light and power charges. The Globe has met the fate of others who have ventured to suggest any modification of the plans of the hydro-electric commission by being stigmatized as a mouthpiece of the power corporations.

The wide discrepancy between the figures of the commission and of the firm of engineers employed by the Toronto Board of Control, suggests that municipal authorities should carefully weigh any proposition put before them and not have it rammed down their throats. In Toronto it is improbable that the ratepayers will vote to establish a plant in competition with an existing one, if the company already in the field is disposed to be reasonable.
The main object, is to provide cheap light and power, whether by public regulation or public ownership. The people are not concerned about theories if they can get results.

MR. GRAHAM AND THE ATHLETE.

Mr. Hugh Graham, the wealthy owner of the Montreal Star, having tired of making liberal contributions to Conservative election funds, has hit upon a new and much more laudable way of disposing of his surplus cash. Mr. Graham is to become a patron of clean Canadian athletics, and to begin with has taken in hand
no less a personage than the Canadian Indian, Tom Longboat, the noted long-distance runner. It is unfortunate for Longboat that his achievements in his peculiar line have made him popular with a certain class of young men whose favorite way of showing their admiration is to fill their idol up with firewater. This process of hero-worship has twice landed the poor Indian in the police cells at Hamilton. It is to check him in what appears to be the beginning of a downward course, as well as to encourage the development of a splendid physical specimen, that Mr. Graham proposes to spend money to better advantage than in fighting the Laurier Government. He offers to hand Longboat a check for $2,000 if,
at the end of five years, he is still in the athletic field, and if it can truthfully be said of him that he has resisted temptation, kept temperate, and ranged himself always on the side of clean sport. Longboat's white friends should help him to earn the prize.
They should see that he is more than temperate, that he abstains entirely,
for it is well known that "Indian drink, Indian drunk." Evidently Mr. Graham recognizes this, for in his letter to Longboat, he gives utterance to these words of wisdom:

"Most athletes of fame are exposed to extraordinary temptations at the hands of friends and pretended friends. Remember, too, there are always lots of people jealous of a winner. Enemies will ever be on the watch to trap you into doing something wrong. An athlete cannot do his best unless he is temperate and honest.

"When you are tempted, think of Canada. You have been instrumental in bringing her fame. Don't be misled, or she will lose it. Aim high, then you will do the best that is in you."

The advice is excellent. Men like Hanlon and Sherring, and even Long-boat himself, have done much to bring the name of Canada into prominence abroad. The Canadian athlete, in striving to win laurels, should keep constantly in mind the good name of his country.

OUR WORKINGMEN'S HOMES.

The correspondent of the Dundas (Scotland) Advertiser was one of the party of British journalists which visited this city three months ago. He must have had London in mind when he penned the following for his paper:

"I have lingered somewhat over my description of Ontario, and yet I have merely sketched its outlines.
It has no drink problem, no rich,
and no poor, and its educational system, like our own, is free and compulsory. It is the largest in population, and the wealthiest. It has an amazing variety of woods, grain and fruit; luscious vines and orchards extend for miles on either side of the railroad track, and you need go no further than the observation car of a Grand Trunk train to realize why it is called the Garden of Canada. But what have Impressed me most in Ontario are the homes of its working people. No huge tenements with men, women and children huddled together under unhealthy conditions. No filthy, squalid surroundings, but nice, comfortable, well-kept villas, each with its veranda, and trim garden plot. In almost every case the house is the property of the occupier. These are the houses of the artisans who toil in the factories and the working sheds. The homes of the workmen of Ontario are homes, indeed, and men who live in such surroundings must bless the fate that placed them in a country where there is room and to spare."

Mr. Lemieux will be received in Tokio like the ambassador of a great power. So he is.

Mr. Foster is still preaching against graft, and has left scarcely a whole pane of glass in his own premises.

The city of Montreal proposes to spend two million dollars to aid the railways in elevating their tracks. It looks more and more as though London had missed an opportunity.

The hospital trust wishes alcoholic patients to be kept in jail. By and by the public will make special provision for this class of unfortunates so that they shall be treated scientifically.

South Perth Liberals have renominated Mr. G. H. McIntyre, M. P.
They are fortunate in such a candidate. Among the newer members of the House of Commons none has made a better impression.

Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., advises the city of Toronto to try to make an arrangement with the Toronto Electric Company instead of building a plant to compete with it. Mr. Osler thus brands himself as a monopolist and an enemy of Mr. Beck.

FINE DISTINCTION.

[New York Sun.]

Knicker—Does she know anything about finance?

Booker—Yes, she considers her husband
a trust company and her father a bank.

AN OFF YEAR.

[New York Sun.]

First Baby—An off year in politics,
Second Baby—Yes, I've only been kissed twice.

STRATFORD AND HYDRO-ELEC-TRIC POWER.

[Stratford Beacon.]

The city will have to buy the power at $25 per horsepower per annum, and it will have to get its money from some source.
The street lighting and waterworks plant might use some of the power all night, but there are no industries apart from a flouring mill, that run all night to use it. It is so to printing offices, which work only eight hours per day, it will have to be at the rate of $8 per horsepower for the eight-hour day. How would this figure compare with producer gas at even $12 per horsepower?

HER NATURAL MISTAKE.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Amelia—Herbert, dear, your office is on Orange street, isn't it?

Herbert—Yes, why?

Amelia—That's what I told papa. He made such a funny mistake about you the other day. He said he'd been looking you up in Brad street.

A LITTLE WAY.

[Frank L. Stanton.]

A little way to walk with you, my own—
Only a little way;
Then one of us must weep and walk alone
Until God's day.

A little way! It is so sweet to live Together, that I know Life would not have one withered rose to give
If one of us should go.

And if these lips should ever learn to smile,
With thy heart far from mine,
'Twould be for joy that in a little while
They would be kissed by thine!

SAFE PREDICTIONS.

[Toronto Star.]

We notice, too, a certain boldness in Lord Strathcona's predictions as to the future of Canada, which may be due either to his sanguine temperament or to the fact that there are not due until the end of the twentieth century.

THE WEATHER PROPHECIES.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

The goosebore gets its inning now, I saw it
St. Perkins takes his goosebore down
An' shows how it is turnin' brown.

"Look here," bawls he,
"From this I see
The winter will be mild as tea."

The goosebore knows the weather some,
I vum.

Bill Peters takes his goosebore down
An' shows how it is turnin' brown.

"See here," he'll yell,
"Them spots foretell
A winter cold an' long, as well."

STEADY OLD LONDON.

[Toronto Star.]

The conviction grows that London is still the financial center of the world. At all events it isn't thrown off its base by a twenty-four-hour panic like New York.

IS PROOF NECESSARY?

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

"Americans learn much more quickly than the English do," said the boastful Yankee.

"How do you make that out?" the Englishman demanded.

"An Englishman may live in America for twenty years, and at the end of that time he will talk just as he did on the day of his arrival, whereas the American begins to talk like an Englishman before he has been in England a week."

CHANGING LINES.

[Punch.]

When Ethel's little teeth burst forth
In cunning baby rows,
They looked, so Ma and Pa declared,
Live lines of pearls.

She grew to be a beautiful maid,
And young men would enthuse
About her wondrous, matchless teeth—
An even line of UUUUUU.

At sixty things were somewhat changed,
She oftentimes tried to please
By smiling cheerfully, but then
Her mouth seemed full of V V V V.

At length there came a moment when She sallied forth and bought
Some article to take the place
Of what was plainly U.

DISAPPOINTED.

[Hamilton Herald.]

Conservative newspapers have a new cause for complaint against the Minister of Justice. Mr. Aylesworth says he is not going to retire—and after the Conservative newspapers have all agreed that he would retire, and had almost settled upon his successor!

[Winnipeg Free Press.]

On Oct. 21 seismographs at Toronto and Washington registered an earthquake shock greater in violence than which wrecked San Francisco. As no news of a disaster came to hand through ordinary channels of communication, it was assumed that the disturbance was submarine;
but after the lapse of ten days the news came of the destruction of Oct. 21 by an earthquake of Karatagi, in Bokhara, with the estimated loss of 15,000 lives. The whole city was buried under a hillside which was shaken down upon it.

EARTH'S OLDEST INHABITANTS.

[Dundee Advertiser.]

Brazilian cocoanut palms live from 600 to 700 years, and the Arabs assert that the date palm frequently reaches the age of 200 to 300 years. Walrusen's oak, near Palmley, Scotland, is known to be more than 700 years old; and there are eight olive trees on the Mount of Olives, near Jerusalem, which are known to have been flourishing in 1099. The yews at Fontaine Abbey, Yorkshire, were old trees when in 1122
the abbey was built, and a redwood in Mariposa Grove, California, is a manifold centenarian. Such old trees of Africa have been computed to be more than 5,000 years old, and the deciduous cypress at Chapultepec is considered to be of a still greater age. Humboldt said that the Dracena Draco at Orotava, on Tenerife, was one of the oldest inhabitants of the earth.

TO MAKE DRY LAND OF THE ZUYDER ZEE.

[November Technical World.]

Little Holland, with its 5,000,000 people living safely behind their wave-washed dykes, is about to make a new conquest from the old enemy, the ocean. Already Dutch engineers have begun the tremendous task which will result in turning the Zuyder Zee into 1,400 square miles of dry land. Where of old the great Dutch waterfloods gathered, where now 4,000 fishermen sink their nets, there will rise happy villages, broad pastures, poplar-bordered roads and sleepy canals—new farms and homes for 50,000 Dutchmen. The task to be undertaken is a tremendous one. It will cost nearly $76,000,000. In return the Government expects to secure annual rentals of more than $5,000,000 from those who occupy and till the hard-won ground.

VEILED LADY WANTED

Mysterious Woman Who Sold Sultan of Morocco's Diamond.

London, Nov. 13.—Mohammed Tazi, who was sent to Paris to raise money
on the jewels of the Sultan of Morocco, confided several articles of the collection, including a diamond necklace worth $6,000, to a jeweler to the Rue de la Paix. While in the keeping of the latter the necklace was stolen, without the thieves leaving the slightest clue to their identity.

In his despair, Mohammed Tazi invoked the assistance of the Government, and the affair was placed in the hands of two of M. Hamard's shrewd-est detectives. As a result of their researches, the missing necklace has been found, though not in the condition in which its custodian last saw it.

After its disappearance, it passed into the hands of some receiver, who broke the necklace into half a dozen pieces. These were recovered one by one at the shops of different dealers.

The pendant was composed of a magnificent single-stone diamond, which had been removed from its setting and sold separately. The hunt for this diamond was a long one, and for a time was fruitless; but now the dealer into whose hands it had come has handed it to the police, explaining that it had been sold to him by a woman who wore a thick veil. The mysterious vendor gave name and address which proved to be fictitious.

LITERARY NOTES

The marvelous development in commercial activity in the past few years has been in most respects a cause of increased national prosperity, but the utter inability of both the shippers and the railroads to keep pace with this development in increasing their facilities has been one of the fundamental causes of the present deplorable condition of freight congestion. The both parties must give some every-possible time and labor saving device in order to relieve the situation, is the belief of J. A. Munroe, traffic manager of the Union Pacific Railroad, who with five other traffic managers of the Harriman lines, gives his views in the November number of System, the Magazine of Business.

The November Travel Magazine is a special Mid-Winter Resorts Number, descriptive of places near and far that are attractive to people who fear the biting cold of winter. Marvin Walllace's Undiscovered California describes one of the unknown winter states—Napa County, a scene of the "Silverado Squatters." In Los Angeles
as the Paris of America we have W.
R. Stewart's story of the charming little city on the coast that is well known to many Canadians. There are many other well-written articles in this number, which like its predecessors, is beautifully illustrated.

Hereafter the Travel Magazine will be fifteen cents a copy, although the subscription price of one dollar a year will remain unchanged.

The December Technical World contains some 32 interesting articles, most of them liberally illustrated, and all of them instructive. Among others are "Where Courage is Capital," H. G.
Hunting; "Top of the Continent," Aubrey Fullerton; "To Sink a Ready-made Tunnel," "Setting Sunlight To Work," Frederick Blount Warren;
"Sweeping in the Air," C. M. Deardruff; "We're on the Verge of Flying,"
H. G. Hunting.

FRENZIED FINANCING.

Chicago Bank President Charged with Frauds Totaling $14,000,000.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The trial of John R. Walsh, formerly president of the Chicago National Bank, now defunct, on a charge of misuse of the funds of that institution, formally opened today. The Government will attempt to show that Walsh took from the Chicago National Bank, the Equitable Trust Company and the Home Savings Bank, $14,000,000. In his statement to the jury Attorney Debyns declared that Walsh obtained the ownership of various large properties without cost to himself by using the funds of the banks. He said: "Watered stock to the probable amount of $25,- 000,000 or $30,000,000 was issued. Mr.
Walsh, through employees, voted the stock to himself. He then sold this stock to the banks, taking the money to build up his private enterprises. All of the stock so sold by Mr. Walsh was practically valueless. It was also the practice of Mr. Walsh to make loans to one of his companies, and then sell the bonds of that company to the banks. These bonds were practically worthless."

The state auditor's office yesterday, says
the Minneapolis Journal, paid bounty claims on 1,021 full-grown wolves and 951 cubs. The amount paid out was $9,721 50, and in this fiscal year about $50,000 has been paid out on such claims. Marshall County made the biggest showing, with $1,620 paid, and claims for $132 50 from Hennepin County were honored. The present bounty is $7 50 for grown wolves and $3 for cubs.

AT KINGSMILL'S

THE GUARDED SECRET

CHAPTER VIII.

The terrible, blood-curdling cries that had so startled Aline, had, indeed, suddenly ceased. The mysterious mansion had returned to its strange, brooding silence.

Forgetful of her anger against Mr. Delaney in her fear and terror, Aline clung nervously to his arm with one trembling little hand.

"Oh, Mr. Delaney, what is it—that terrible creature I saw yesterday?" she cried out, fearfully.

His dark face was strangely agitated as he turned it upon her with a face, almost as if speaking to himself.

"Yes, I saw it. Did you suppose it struck me that murderous blow invisibly?" she questioned, with something like awe.

"I had hoped—" he began, then paused, after his abrupt fashion of leaving sentences unfinished.

"Answer me," exclaimed Aline, in her sharp, imperious young voice.

"What was it that struck me with that blood-stained dagger yesterday? What was it I heard shrieking like a lost soul today? Tell me!"

"It was a ghost," he said, turning his head away.

"I do not believe you," cried Aline. "It was not a ghost. It was something warned by the breath of life. It clutched me with warm, living fingers. It was strong and swift. Oh, how terrible it was!" she shuddered. "Was it really a human being?"

"It was a ghost—a mystery! I can tell you no more," repeated Oran Delaney.

And then, with that strong will which Aline already began to subtly recognize, he changed the subject of the conversation.

"Have you forgiven me for my rudeness of last night?" he inquired, with a touch of gentleness in his voice.

"No," said Aline tartly.

"I have brought you these beautiful flowers—as a peace-offering," he continued, unflinchingly.

"You cannot refuse them, for I know that you love flowers very dearly."

"I shall never love them again," she replied, obstinately.

"I shall always remember that my fondness for flowers brought down all this trouble upon my head."

"I beg your pardon; it was your fondness for peaches," he retorted, with a slight gleam of mirth. "If you had not come into my house to take luncheon with me, nothing would have happened."

"I should never have come into your garden even but for the flowers," she replied, offended at her appetite for peaches.

He smiled, and then a subtle sigh drove the evanescent gleam away.

"Well, we will not quarrel over the cause," he said.

"I am sorry you will not have my poor flowers. I hoped they would beguile some of the tedium of your illness."

He put the basket on a stand near her and sat down.

"Mrs. Griffin has sent me to take care of you during her absence," he said. "But if my presence is disagreeable, Miss Rodney, you can send me away at any moment."

Aline inwardly wished that she was brave enough to do so, but she was too nervous and frightened to take him at his word. There was a sense of protection in his presence that she could not forego even to gratify her spite at him.

So she lay silently gazing at his dark, stern profile under her long lashes until he turned suddenly and caught the curious gaze of the large, liquid blue eyes. He smiled slightly as they fell before him.

"You have not said whether I am to stay or go," he said.

Aline hesitated a moment, then answered, in a low, half-angry voice:

"Stay."

"Thanks. I was afraid you would send me away," he said.

"I would, but—but I am afraid to stay here alone," she replied, with a shiver.

Something like anger flashed into his dark face a moment, but was quickly dispelled by the thought, "Why be angry with a willful child whom I have unavoidably offended?"

"You are very frank. I quite understand that I am retained in your presence merely in the character of a watch-dog," he replied with some hauteur.

"But while I am here, pray do anything for you—talk to you—read to you?"

She caught eagerly at the last suggestion.

"Yes, you may read to me. I do not like to talk to you. You make me angry when I talk to you," she said.

"You are very flattering, Miss Rodney. However, I do not forget that you are sick. We pardon the discourtesies of invalids," he said calmly, going over to a little stand littered with volumes bound prettily in blue and gold.

"What is your preference—prose or poetry?" he inquired, carefully turning them over.

"Poetry," she replied.

"Naturally—being young," he muttered to himself.

"Do you mean to say that I shall not love poetry when I grow old—like you?" she asked, purposely adding the sting of the last words.

But he faced around toward her, with an expression of the most palpable amusement.

"Do I appear very old in your eyes, Miss Rodney?" he inquired.

"As old as the hills—you are, aren't you, sir?" she replied with malicious prepossession.

"I was three-and-thirty yesterday, my frank lady," he answered coolly.

"As for you, judging from your words and manner, I should guess that you are about ten years of age."

The delicate shaft of sarcasm went home. Aline knew that she deserved it, and that she had been behaving rudely to the courteous gentleman under whose roof she was a guest.

She was bitterly angry with him because he had refused to communicate with her friends.

"Please go on with your poetry," she said, assuming an air of dignity, and taking no notice of his last words.

He opened the book he was holding and commenced to read a poem quite at random:

"How many years will it be, I wonder, And how will their slow length pass, Till I shall find rest in silence, under The trees and the waving grass?"

"Many there be in the world who love it, Who cling to its trifles and toys; But I can never find ought to covet Among its vanishing joys."

"But once, indeed, was my heart elated, And pleased with a dream of its own; A beautiful dream it was, but fated Soon to be overthrown."

"Death, like a shadow, fell and darkened The light that had shone so clear— How oft since then have I vainly hearkened, And prayed for his coming near."

"But he cometh not, and I vainly wonder, How will the long years pass, Till I shall find rest in silence, under The trees and waving grass?"

He paused, and Aline, impressed against her will, but determined not to show it, cried out almost peevishly:

"Why did you read such a doleful thing? I do not like sad poetry."

"That is your fault of your youth, again," he quietly answered. "Now, I on the contrary, rather admire the pathetic style. The time may come, perhaps, when that very poem will please your fancy. Nay, you may even subscribe to the sad sentiment it embodies."

"I should never do that if I lived to be as old as Methuselah!" cried Aline, with the rash confidence of youth, and Oran Delaney smiled—that slow, pensive smile whose latent sarcasm she already began to understand with the swift intuition of woman.

"Why do you despise youth, Mr. Delaney?" she cried out, hotly.

"I do not despise it, I only pity it," he answered.

"I can fancy age deserving pity, but not youth," she answered, resentfully.

"For its illusions," he answered, and this time the sarcasm had faded from his voice and face. Both were genuinely sad.

"Its illusions—what are they?" queried the girl, and again he smiled, sadly.

"Do not ask me. They will come home to you soon enough, as they have done to me. Youth is the happiest period of life. I pity it because it comes to an end. I do not despise it, and I fully subscribe to the poet's plaint:

"The loss of youth is sadness To all who think or feel— A wound no after-glance Can ever wholly heal."

Aline lay very still for a moment, gazing silently at him with a feeling of vexation that she had permitted herself to listen to him with interest and even with an unconscious latent sympathy. She was about to make some careless answer to show her utter indifference, and to provoke him again, when she suddenly observed that he had turned deathly pale, and that a stream of blood was pouring from inside his coat-sleeve down upon his hand.

"You are wounded, too!" she cried out in dismay, and feeling a deathly faintness stealing over her at sight of the "killing blood."

"It is nothing—a mere flesh wound—a scratch," he muttered, tearing off his coat, hastily, and then Aline saw that his shirt-sleeve had been torn open and his arm bled above the elbow; but the linen had become loosened in some way, and the gaping wound was bleeding profusely.

He tried clumsily to draw the crimson bandage tighter about the wound, but he was very awkward with his left hand, and he did not succeed. Aline could not help being sorry for him.

CHAPTER IX.

She had a very tender heart, this little willful heroine of ours, and although she thought that she hated Oran Delaney she would not willingly have seen him suffer. She saw that he was growing pale and faint from loss of blood, and she could not keep from pitying him.

"Come here, Mr. Delaney. I will fasten the bandage for you."

He looked surprised, but he came to the bed and held down his arm to the level of her little white hands.

She drew the band tightly around his handkerchief tightly around it. The blood ceased to flow, but her own hands were stained with blood when she had finished.

"Does it frighten you much?" he asked. "You look very pale."

"No, I am not frightened," bravely. "Tell me—how did you come by your wounds?"

"In much the same manner as you came by yours," he replied, reservedly. "Through that horrible—something," she inquired, with a shudder.

"Yes."

"A gleam of intelligence flashed from Aline's eyes.

"Ah, now I begin to understand," she said. "You met it first. It was your blood I saw upon the knife and the hands and the dress?"

"Yes."

"And you did not run away from me—to save yourself? I thought—"

"Thought—" She paused and looked at him, half-inquiringly.

"Well, what was it you thought?" he inquired.

"When you left me in the hall, you know," she said, with some embarrassment. "I believed that you had deserted me and fled like a coward, leaving me to the mercies of that terrible creature. I was mistaken, perhaps."

He looked at her with a slow flush rising through the pallor of his face.

"Every moment I am with you, Miss Rodney. I learn more and more how contemptible I am in your eyes."

"But I told you I was mistaken," said the girl, with unconscious repentance in her voice. "Was I right?"

"I met the danger first," he answered simply.

"Yes, I understand, and I am sorry

I thought you were a coward. I beg your pardon," she said, gently.

"You are freely forgiven," Mr. Delaney replied, quietly, as he brought a damp sponge and carefully removed the blood-stains from her delicate, dimpled white hands.

She submitted quietly to the operation, though he had half-expected that she would snatch her hands away in petulant anger.

"I am a great deal better today, am I not, Mr. Delaney?" she inquired as he resumed his seat.

"I think so," he replied. "Your wound was not serious. It was struck too hastily. I hope you will soon recover now. You are bearing it very bravely."

"Thank you. And when are you going to let me go home?"

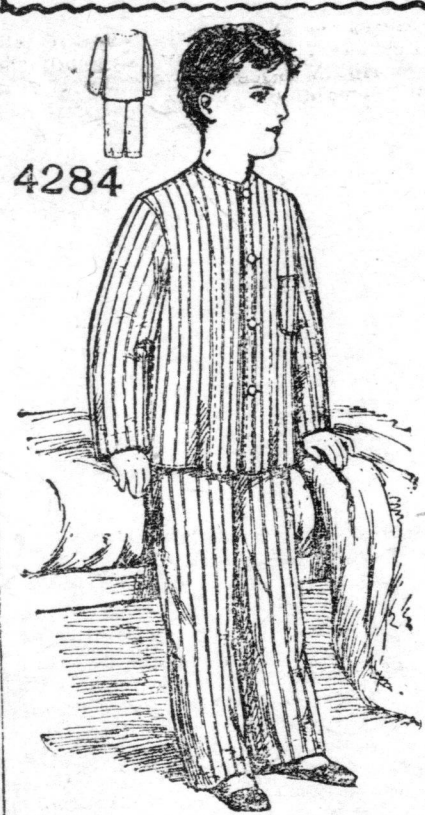

The wistful tone of the young voice struck him like a reproach. He turned away his head as he answered:

"As soon as your wound is healed. That will be in a few weeks, I hope."

HOSPITAL TO BAR GRADUATE NURSES

Will Not Be Allowed to Take Cases at Victoria.

ALCOHOLICS TO BE EXCLUDED

Mayor Willing to Settle Mitchell Account for Fifty Dollars—The Report for October.

The hospital trust met yesterday afternoon in the mayor's office, and decided that after Dec. 1, no graduate nurses will be allowed to take cases in Victoria Hospital. Such nurses as are required for special work will be taken from the final year of the Nurses' Training School. The official Government report was also received. The account of Mr. Victor Mitchell for $242, for the plans of the isolation hospital, was sent back to the trust by the council, and the trust offered to settle the account of Mr. Mitchell for $50 without prejudice. There were several other matters of importance disposed of.

Mitchell's Account Again.
The account of Mr. Victor Mitchell for $242, for drawing the plans for the isolation hospital, was sent to the hospital trust.

Chairman Scretion said that he had made no bargain at all with Mr. Mitchell and had promised no pay for the plans.

Mayor Judd was willing to settle the account for $50, but would not be held up. He was inclined to think that Mr. Mitchell had done some overwork on the plans at night, but of the necessity of it he was not so convinced. Of course, the proposed settlement was entirely without prejudice. He would make it in the nature of a grant for alleged extra time on the isolation hospital plans. If this settlement was not accepted, the account would be repudiated. His worship insisted that it was only for the purpose of making an amicable settlement.

Trustee George B. Harris was willing to make a grant, but thought that $50 would cover the amount of work done. Still, he was willing to make it $50 to settle the matter amicably. He would make a motion to that effect.

Mr. C. M. R. Graham seconded the motion, and it carried unanimously. The financial and statistical report of the year to the Ontario Government was presented.

The ice supply of the hospital was used up, and it was decided to purchase forty tons from the asylum authorities at $2 a ton.

No More Alcoholics.
The matter of alcoholic patients in the hospital was brought up by Chairman Scretion. He was in favor of excluding them from the hospital altogether. Many delirium tremens patients were admitted, and after the first frenzy was worn off they would be admitted to a private ward, where they were often a menace to the safety and health of other patients, as the attack would generally recur.

They had caused a very great deal of trouble and inconvenience. He thought that the jail was the fit place for them.

Trustee Graham gave notice of motion that at the next meeting of the trust he would move for the exclusion of such patients.

The official Government report for the year is as follows:

WATERY BLOOD

NERVES ARE WEAK
FACE IS PALLID
YOU LACK STRENGTH
YOU LOOK SICKLY.

Until You Ironize and Fortify the Blood There's No Hope of Cure.

Thousands of tired workers need the invigoration, the strength, the nerve force, which Ferrozone can supply.

Ferrozone imparts strength because it nourishes.

Ferrozone is able to nourish because it supplies to the blood the elements it lacks.

Once the blood is vitalized, its tonic influence is circulated to every nook and corner of the body, carrying new life with it.

Cases on record prove that Ferrozone builds up when all else fails. Mr. Alonzo W. Douglas, of Woodbridge, Ont., says: "I desire to state the results I derived from the use of Ferrozone. Two years ago I was stricken with pneumonia. So severe was the attack and so reduced was my strength that my life was despaired of. I had the very best medical attention, but made no progress towards recovery. When reduced to practically a skeleton, a kind friend told me of the remarkable power of Ferrozone. An improvement began almost at once. I gained steadily in weight and strength, until Ferrozone made me a new man. I will gladly answer inquiries from other sufferers if they care to have further particulars about my recovery. Ferrozone deserves its great measure of success."

When a man in M. Douglas' low condition can be quickly cured, aren't the chances good for you? Don't fail to try Ferrozone. Price, 50 cents per box, at all dealers.

Graduates Excluded.

The attention of the trust was called to the fact that the limit of income for the hospital was reached, and Chairman Scretion thought that the trust should take some action in regard to it at once. The limit of income was $23,000 from paying patients and the trust should see to it that this income was increased as much as possible, in view of the fact that the expenses of the hospital were increasing about 5 per cent per annum. He would suggest that all graduate nurses be excluded from the hospital. This would increase the income of the trust from $2,500 to $3,000 a year. Some times there were as many as 15 or 20 graduate nurses in the hospital. The average was about six. There were enough nurses in the hospital to furnish from six to eight third-year nurses for this purpose. Victoria Hospital was the only hospital in the country that allowed graduates into it.

Mayor Judd pointed out that at the time the Nurses' Home was built it was understood that this would be done. In fact this increased revenue from this source was given as one of the reasons for the expenditure of so much money. He thought it was the only thing to do. He was of the opinion it should have been done sooner. St. Joseph's Hospital does not allow it, and he saw no reason why Victoria Hospital should allow it. At present a private nurse cost a patient $18.50, while the trust could furnish just as good a nurse for $10.50 for private work.

Superintendent Heard informed the trust that there were sufficient nurses in the hospital to allow six or eight to be set apart for this work all the time. If six were on special duty the hospital trust would receive $3,000 extra income.

Trustees Graham and Jackson moved that all nurses for special work be supplied from the third year, and all graduates be excluded from the hospital after Dec. 1.

The motion carried without a dissenting vote.

Superintendent's Report.

The ladies' auxiliary of Victoria Hospital have recently placed a splendid linoleum on the children's pavilion and sun room, and the trust tendered them a hearty vote of thanks for their kindness.

The executors of the will of the late Miss Waterhouse were also tendered the thanks of the trust for the handsome donation from the estate.

Superintendent Heard's report for October showed that 141 patients had been admitted during the month, 42 males, 71 females, and 26 children, and 128 discharged, 47 males, 58 females, and 23 children. During the month there were 12 births, 9 deaths and 43 operations. At present there were 111 patients in the hospital. The income for the month was $1,577.50. Those present were Mr. S. Scretion, chairman, Mr. C. M. R. Graham, Mr. Geo. B. Harris, Mayor Judd, Mr. R. W. Jackson, and Superintendent T. H. Heard.

MR. ROSS TALKS TO AMERICANS

Ex-Premier of Ontario Makes a Hit Before Buffalo Audience.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—The Buffalo Express, under the heading, "As Seen by a Canadian," reports the address of Hon. G. W. Ross before the Equality Club on Monday night as follows:

Ourself through Canadian eyes—this was what the 100 people who were at the dinner of the Equality Club saw while Geo. W. Ross, former premier of Ontario, and a member of the Dominion Senate, was speaking. His subject was "American Statesmanship."

Hugh Kennedy was toastmaster. Crippled by chronic rheumatism, so that he has to walk with a crutch and a cane, unable to stand even while delivering his speech, Senator Ross' physical disabilities are at present when he begins to speak. With an imagination covering in its broad sweep the history of America, France, England, Russia and Japan, Mr. Ross drew a picture of the American Republic, its progress and its aims; a picture so graphic and drawn with such fidelity to the spirit and even the letter of American institutions that his hearers could scarcely believe that he was not an American. When he finished the applause was tremendous.

Did Not Flatter. And yet he did not flatter; he even adversely criticized us as a bit. He thought our constitution should never have permitted slavery; said that the war of 1812 was a mistake; that the repeal of the reciprocity treaty in 1866 was one, too. But he did it all in a very pleasant manner.

HANDS TERRIBLY CRACKED
ZAM-BUK HEALED THEM.

Over and over again the value of Zam-Buk for chapped and cracked places has been demonstrated. Mrs. Yellen, of Portland, adds her testimony, and says: "My hands were so sore and cracked that I could not put them near water. When I tried to do so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I seemed quite unable to get relief from anything I put on them until I tried Zam-Buk and the balm succeeded when all else had failed. It closed the big cracks, gave me ease, soothed the inflammation, and in a very short time healed my hands completely."

Hands that are chapped may be restored to the smoothness of health by judicious application of Zam-Buk. The value of Zam-Buk, either as a protective or corrective, cannot be overestimated. A box should be on every dressing-table.

Zam-Buk heals sores, cures eczema, skin eruptions, ulcers, ringworm, itch, barber's rash, blood poison, bad leg, salt rheum, abrasions, abscesses, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists, at 50 cents, or from Zam-Buk Company, Toronto, for price. Three boxes for $1.25.

PREFERENCE OR THEIR MONEY BACK

The Class C Shareholders of York Loan Are Said.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Class C shareholders of the York Loan are entitled either to preference or to have their money refunded, said the claim advanced by Mr. A. W. Briggs in his argument before Mr. George Kappel, official referee, yesterday afternoon.

These shareholders hold $225,000 of stock, and their certificates bear the magic legend "First charge upon the securities of the company." These certificates were issued under the company's bylaws until 1903, though counsel for the general body of shareholders and for the liquidators, argued that this preference clause was not allowed, either by the company's charter or by statute.

To this Mr. Briggs replied that the company could not plead any informality. If such a plea were held to be good, however, it would only result in making holders of Class C certificates ordinary creditors.

Mr. Kappel said that they would undoubtedly become, if the preference claim failed, irregular, "quid pro quo" shareholders, and entitled to follow their money. These shareholders had a right to expect that all formalities had been properly complied with. It is true that there was no actual statutory authority for the bylaw under which they were issued, but the certificates had been issued nevertheless.

In the course of his argument Mr. Briggs went exhaustively into both the English and Ontario law governing such corporations as the York Loan. The first act was passed in England in 1836, and amended in 1874. The former was largely identical with the Ontario act of 1887. The latter was replaced by the act of 1897, which counsel contended recognized preference shares, in form at least.

Advantages to Power Company.
Mr. A. E. Herington, accountant of the National Trust, was examined as to the assets taken over by the liquidators. He stated that the York Loan held bonds of the Southern Light and Power Company for $212,500. That company was under liquidation and the assets had been sold for $47,500, of which $10,000 had been paid in cash.

Mr. Stewart Lynn explained that the York Loan had made advances to the Southern Light and Power Company under a blanket mortgage and that this had been discharged in exchange for bonds representing the total indebtedness in September, 1905.

Regarding the Toronto Life Insurance Company shares, Mr. Herington said that the York Loan held 180, on which $125 had been paid, $100 being the par value and $25 the premium. These had realized $18,000, or the par price at which they had been sold to the National Agency Company.

Mr. Lynn stated that no direct cash advances had been made to the Toronto Life Company. The money paid had been for stock.

Mr. C. D. Scott said that there had been indirect payments in connection with the forming of the company, salaries and other expenses for which the liquidators were suing the Toronto Life.

In the case of the List Piano Company, Mr. Herington said that advances had been made and wiped out by bonds as in the case of the Southern Light and Power Company.

Broke a Leg.
A young man named Hetherly, living on Queen's avenue, was taken to Victoria Hospital this afternoon about 2 o'clock in an unconscious condition. Dr. Mason was called and upon examination found that his leg had been broken. It is stated that the young man met with the accident by falling from a fence.

Slippery Pavements.
A number of small accidents, none of which resulted in anything more serious than a broken harness or a bruised side, resulted from the light snowfall which covered the city pavements last night and made them exceedingly slippery. Very few drivers had rough-shod horses, and when they got on the asphalt had to be particularly careful or their horses were down before they knew it.

OPPOSES HASTE IN CANAL ACTION

The Deputy Minister of Railways
Urges Investigation of Navigation Needs.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The deputy minister of railways in his annual report recommends that before the Government takes any action in reference to the Georgian Bay Canal, it should appoint a commission to investigate the economic problems involved. The passage is so important that it is worth quoting in full. It says: "That Canada, will, before long, be called upon to make further extensions and improvements in this direction. Water transportation is certain, to meet the demands of her fast increasing population, her commerce, and the expansion of her western civilization."

"What form that action will take is as yet undetermined. The construction of a 20-foot navigation from Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, to Montreal, via the Ottawa River is a scheme that has been much discussed, and a considerable amount of preliminary survey work has been done under the public works department. Then again there is the suggestion of the enlargement of the existing Canadian canal, following the larger class of steamers to reach Prescott, and, thence by the utilization of properly designed barges to admit of the economical transport of products of the west to the seagoing vessels at Montreal. I merely mention the above facts to prepare the way for the inevitable measures that will be requisite in the near future, without reference to projects that may ultimately arise in connection with the water communications of Western Canada, as that growing section of the country expands."

"I venture to submit that before any action is taken with reference to the Georgian Bay ship canal, or the enlargement of the Welland, it would be advisable that a commission should be appointed to study the economic problems involved, and report thereon for the benefit of the Government and the country. This commission should, in my opinion, consist of not more than three persons, one of whom should be a business man of large experience, one to represent the marine interests of the country, familiar with the size of ships and the various problems involved in the actual conduct of like transports, and the third an engineer of wide experience, one familiar with both rail and water transportation."

BAPTIST WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY
Annual Convention at Owen Sound—Election of Officers.

Owen Sound, Nov. 13.—The twenty-third annual convention of the Baptist Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies opened in the Baptist Church here this morning at 9:30 o'clock and will continue for two days.

Mrs. C. J. Holman, president, and about 200 delegates, representing thirteen associations, are in attendance. After the opening exercises had been concluded Mrs. Wm. Kennedy welcomed the delegates on behalf of the local Baptists, to which Mrs. Holman made a suitable reply. Reports were read from all the associations showing a general increase in the interest taken in mission work, as well as a substantial gain in the amount of contributions.

Mrs. Gregory, of Toronto, gave an interesting account of the Northwest Indian Mission work, which is being carried on with great success. Satisfactory reports were read from the secretary-treasurer and other officers.

The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. C. J. Holman; vice-presidents, Mrs. R. W. Laird, Mrs. John Little; recording secretary, Miss Emma Fox; members of the board, Mrs. John Stark (Toronto), Miss Olive Copp (Hamilton), Mrs. Jessie Gibson (Toronto), Mrs. H. H. Hurd (Toronto), Miss Trotter (Toronto), Mrs. A. J. Vining (London), Mrs. Wismer (St. Catharines), and Mrs. Gilmore (Toronto).

At the afternoon session Mr. Vichert gave an exceedingly interesting account of a summer's work in the Cobalt district, and was followed by further reports from the corresponding secretary, Miss Stark, and a conference on mission band work, led by Mrs. Mulock.

The session closed with a stirring address from the president on "The Master's Call." Tonight the programme included an address on Grande Ligne Mission work by Mr. Fournier, and an address on Northwest Missions by Rev. Walter Daniel.

GERMANY BLOCKS AGAIN
Refuses to Join with France to Settle Moroccan Claims Muddle.

Paris, Nov. 14.—The Matin this morning declares that the reply of Germany to the Spanish-Franco note, proposing an international commission to examine into the claims for damages arising from the bombardment of Casablanca by French and Spanish warships, similar to the Alexandria commission of 1882, is most unfavorable. It presents obstacles to the speedy settlement of the question and demands in addition a separate German mission to settle the claims of German merchants.

AFIRE OFF SANTA BARBARA.
Santa Barbara, Cal., Nov. 14.—A message from Alcatraz, a small oil refining station on the Southern Pacific Railroad, 30 miles northwest of Santa Barbara, says that an unknown steamer is afloat off that place. The Pacific Steamship Company's steamer Coon Bay left this port to render any assistance possible.

The Medical Men Object To Exclusion of Nurses

The action of the hospital trust yesterday in excluding graduate nurses from the hospital does not meet with the approval of the medical men of the city nor the nurses, although it is admitted that it will mean a considerable increase in the revenue of the institution. The doctors think that it is a considerable hardship on the graduates who have been sent out from the institution in that they are not allowed to go back to it. They point out that there are no longer any surgical operations in private houses, and very few typhoid fever cases are treated at home. They are all sent to the hospital and give employment to many nurses. If the present intention of the hospital trust is carried out, this large number of the nurses what are regularly employed will be compelled to leave the city, as it will be impossible for them to obtain employment.

"It will increase the revenue of the hospital, there is no doubt of that," said a prominent physician to The Advertiser today, "but it will be rather hard on the graduate nurses. Many of them will be forced to leave the city. It will also operate severely on those wealthy patients who have a certain nurse, and who will have no other. I know of many cases where the nurse knows more about certain people than their family physician. When sickness comes they want that certain nurse, and in many cases they will insist upon having her. They will no longer go to the hospital if they cannot have their own nurse, and the result will be that the hospital will lose a better class of patients who have money. In the Royal Victoria, Montreal, they have a post-graduate course for nurses. These graduates are given work at a salary, and the patients are assessed for it. This gives graduates a chance, and no private hospitals have the same rule that the trust inaugurated yesterday, but there is considerable latitude is given in its operation."

However, the man who pays the taxes figures out that it will increase the revenue of the hospital, and ease his burden and help him out.

BURGLAR GANG FROM ACROSS LINE
The police are more strongly than ever of the opinion that the burglaries which were perpetrated in the city a few nights ago are the work of a gang on their way east. Last night there was a very similar series of housebreakings in St. Marys, and nothing of any value was taken, it being apparently the object of the marauders to secure either something to eat or money. It has been learned that a similar series of housebreakings occurred around Strathroy a night or two before the thefts were reported here. The police have been notified by the chiefs of police at the various border towns that large numbers of men out of work are coming across from Detroit and other points in Michigan. Many of them are coming this way, and it is expected that a few cases of burglary and petty thieving will be heard of in the near future.

PLENTY OF WATER FOR THE ASYLUM

A supply of spring water for the asylum is the object of the Ontario Government and the Welland, it would be advisable that a commission should be appointed to study the economic problems involved, and report thereon for the benefit of the Government and the country. This commission should, in my opinion, consist of not more than three persons, one of whom should be a business man of large experience, one to represent the marine interests of the country, familiar with the size of ships and the various problems involved in the actual conduct of like transports, and the third an engineer of wide experience, one familiar with both rail and water transportation."

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Thomas Campbell died in the general hospital today from lockjaw. He stepped on a nail, which set up inflammation, resulting in blood-poisoning.

A PECULIAR WILL
Left Money to Provide Children With Sunday School Clothes.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Application is being made at Osceola Hall by the executors of the estate of William Battarshall, of Ellice Road, who left a peculiar will, by which he left a large sum of money to provide for the clothing of children of the ages of 1 to 10 years, to be completed for at the Perth fair, and the interest on the sum to be used for the purchase of the clothing. It turns out now that there is not enough money in the estate to carry out these bequests, and the executors are consequently asking the court for instructions.

APPLES WERE NOT STOLEN
Court Acquits Two Young Westminster Farmers of the Charge.

In the county magistrate's court this morning two young farmers appeared on a charge of having stolen a barrel of choice apples from the property of Charles Patrick, a Westminster farmer.

The accused young men were William Neno and Eli Dorman. After hearing the evidence in the case Squire Chittick rendered an acquittal.

The substance of the whole story was that a man named Jones had purchased all the packed apples on Patrick's farm, and the accused were employed by Jones to remove the apples. Patrick became imbued with the notion that the young men were picking up apples off the ground with the result that the arrest followed.

UNCLE SAM BARS HIM
Wm. Hartsell Makes Two Vain Attempts to Enter Republic.

Woodstock, Nov. 14.—William Hartsell, who formerly lived near Vanderburg, this county, is having a hard time trying to get into the United States. He started last week for Nashville, Tenn., with two other people. The other two were allowed to proceed to Detroit on payment of the tax. Mr. Hartsell, being partly paralyzed, was sent back despite the fact that he showed them he had some money.

Then he decided to go by way of Port Huron, but at that point met with the same trouble and was sent back to Woodstock. Meantime his trunk has gone on to Nashville and he himself is now determined to try another route.

SUES A MAGISTRATE
Declares He Was Maliciously Sentenced to 53 Days.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 14.—Wm. Lowry, of Madoc, has entered an action against Police Magistrate A. F. Wood, of Madoc, for $10,000 damages for imprisonment in the Belleville jail for 53 days, claiming that his imprisonment had been ordered maliciously and without reasonable cause. Lowry was committed by Magistrate Wood to a horse-stealing and sentenced to six months, the sentence afterwards being reduced to two months. The conviction was afterwards quashed by a high court judge, on condition that Lowry would not take any action against the convicting magistrate. Lowry, however, refused to accept his freedom upon these terms, and carried his case to the court of appeals, but not only quashed the conviction, but also refused to grant the magistrate an order of protection.

WANTED GOV'T SANCTION
France Unwilling Otherwise To Ship Gold to the United States.

New York, Nov. 4.—For several days reports have been in circulation that certain banking interests here are engaged in negotiations to secure a large amount of gold direct from the Bank of France. These reports also have intimated that certain political questions were involved in the negotiations, particularly with reference to some preferential tariff agreement. From authoritative sources it is learned that the effort to secure French gold direct was taken by the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. At the first intimation of impending financial trouble, a representative of the Morgan house was sent to Paris for this purpose. The Bank of France intimated its willingness to send this country $20,000,000 in gold, but because of its governmental character, it desired some form of commitment from the United States Government in so large a transaction.

TITLE OF LAND VERY OLD
The Dominion Government Buys Property from the Montreal Nuns.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—What will probably be the handsomest Government building in Canada is to be erected in Montreal. It will be a new customs house, and the expenditure for land and buildings will amount to $3,000,000. Deeds were signed today transferring the property to the Dominion Government on which the new structure is to be erected. For this land a sum of $402,000 was paid.

The property acquired by the Government is the block which fronts on the east side of McGill street, being bounded on the north by Youville Square, on the south of Youville street, and in the rear to the east of Normand street. This block has been until today in possession of the Sisters of the Grey Nuns. The reversed sisters of the order had been given the property during the French occupancy and the deed bore the name of Louis XV., so that the land had been held for a period of 175 years. It is rare that a transaction is recorded in a local registry office where the previous owner and his title is so far removed.

SIR LEWIS MORRIS DEAD
London, Nov. 13.—Sir Lewis Morris, the Welsh poet, one of the pioneers of the education movement in Wales, died yesterday at the age of 74.

Sir Lewis Morris was a graduate of Oxford, where he had a distinguished career. His profession was a barrister, but practiced chiefly as a conveyancing counsel.

His fame rests on his poetic works, among which are "Songs of Two Worlds," "The Epic of Hades," "The Ocean of Life," "Songs of Britain," "A Vision of Saints," "Idylls and Lyrics," and "A Harvest Tale."

He was also the author of many articles on literary and educational subjects. He was created a knight in 1895, and was Deputy Chancellor of the University of Wales.

It was from a poem by Sir Lewis Morris that Sir William Mulock, as Postmaster-General, selected the line, "We hold a vaster Empire than has been," which was inscribed upon the special stamp issued by Canada to commemorate the inauguration of Imperial penny postage.

THE BOOKS WERE BURNED
Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—When application was made to the court today for the release of George Lidster, secretary of the Plumbers' Union, who has been in jail for several months for contempt of court because he failed to produce the books of the union when ordered to do so by the Chief Justice at the time when the union plumbers on strike were being prosecuted by their employers, light was thrown on the mysterious disappearance of these minutes of the union. It appears that Lidster's mother, upon hearing that the court was demanding the books in question, had taken them and burned them, without the knowledge of her son, thinking that she would thus be saving him from possible trouble. She was afterwards afraid to tell what she had done. Her action has only resulted in her son being confined in jail for several months. His release will likely be effected.

THREE DEPARTMENTS
Lord Elgin's Scheme for Reorganizing Colonial Office.

London, Nov. 13.—Lord Elgin has issued copies of a dispatch sent to the premiers of the self-governing colonies respecting the reorganization of the colonial office. It enlarges on the schemes which Lord Elgin outlined in the House of Lords, dividing the office into three departments, a dominions department, and a crown colonies department, and a general department. The secretary of the imperial conference will be linked with the dominions department, without being entirely merged therein. Lord Elgin says the reorganization is made in a strong desire to promote the interests of all parts of the empire, to produce efficient and sympathetic treatment of the manifold questions which arise, and asks for cordial co-operation of all concerned.

SIR LEWIS MORRIS DEAD
London, Nov. 13.—Sir Lewis Morris, the Welsh poet, one of the pioneers of the education movement in Wales, died yesterday at the age of 74.

Sir Lewis Morris was a graduate of Oxford, where he had a distinguished career. His profession was a barrister, but practiced chiefly as a conveyancing counsel.

His fame rests on his poetic works, among which are "Songs of Two Worlds," "The Epic of Hades," "The Ocean of Life," "Songs of Britain," "A Vision of Saints," "Idylls and Lyrics," and "A Harvest Tale."

He was also the author of many articles on literary and educational subjects. He was created a knight in 1895, and was Deputy Chancellor of the University of Wales.

It was from a poem by Sir Lewis Morris that Sir William Mulock, as Postmaster-General, selected the line, "We hold a vaster Empire than has been," which was inscribed upon the special stamp issued by Canada to commemorate the inauguration of Imperial penny postage.

THE BOOKS WERE BURNED
Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—When application was made to the court today for the release of George Lidster, secretary of the Plumbers' Union, who has been in jail for several months for contempt of court because he failed to produce the books of the union when ordered to do so by the Chief Justice at the time when the union plumbers on strike were being prosecuted by their employers, light was thrown on the mysterious disappearance of these minutes of the union. It appears that Lidster's mother, upon hearing that the court was demanding the books in question, had taken them and burned them, without the knowledge of her son, thinking that she would thus be saving him from possible trouble. She was afterwards afraid to tell what she had done. Her action has only resulted in her son being confined in jail for several months. His release will likely be effected.

FIRE ESCAPES FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS
On Fire Chief's Report No. 3 Committee Will Look Into the Subject.

No. 3 committee held its regular meeting last evening, and considered the report of Fire Chief Clark on his recent trip to the fire chiefs' convention in Washington. The chief reported it to be one of the best conventions he had ever attended. One of the most important papers was that on "Is fire prevention of more importance than fire protection?" It was pointed out that in Europe the losses by fire were much less than in America, and that was largely due to the method of construction of buildings in the old land, and the splendid systems of building inspection in vogue there. It was also shown by statistics that where the losses by fire were small, the fire brigade was very efficient and deserved most of the credit for such a condition.

The matter of fire protection for schools was the theme of a very interesting discussion, and it was the opinion of the convention that there should be fire escapes on all schools over one story high, and that the school children should be thoroughly instructed in the uses of such escapes. Ald. Booth thought that such a matter should be brought to the attention of the board of education of this city, as far as he knew there were no fire escapes on any of the schools of the city. The only means of escape in case of fire was through a main hallway, which, if a fire should break out in the stairway would offer no chance of escape for the children. It was a matter that the fire chief and the city engineer should look into.

Ald. Booth made a motion to that effect, and City Engineer Graydon and Fire Chief Clark were made an inspection of the schools.

The narrow escape of the firemen at the corner of King and Richmond streets, as mentioned in The Advertiser of the other evening, was the subject of a very interesting discussion. Ald. Booth wanted to know if the street railway was living up to its rules in this matter. Some time ago the company had promised to slow up at this crossing, and it appears it was not being done.

"I would have some of their men arrested," said Ald. Booth, "just as the Grand Trunk employees are arrested, for blocking the streets. A fine or two would make the employees a trifle more observant of the rules."

Fire Chief Clark said that there was no excuse for the employees. Both the firemen and the street railway employees are warned by their rules to slow up at this crossing, and others, as they are dangerous. If they obey the rules there is no danger. If they disobey them there is grave danger.

The committee decided to warn the street railway employees, and insist upon their observing the rules.

M. J. Flanagan appealed against paying rental for his store on the lot which was filled up with bricks from Smallman & Ingram's store.

The committee decided to remit a portion of Mr. Flanagan's rental. Ald. Gillean commended the committee as directed he had settled with Miss Maud Jones for a dress ruined by water, for $10.

The request of Mr. R. W. Smith, for the restoration of his license for the Oriental Theater, was again laid over. Chief Clark reported the installation of a new fire alarm box at the corner of Marmelon street and the Hamilton road. Its number is 512.

The petition for an arched light at the corner of Richmond and Louisa streets was granted. Those present were: Ald. Gillean (chairman), Ald. Gerry, Ald. Garratt, Ald. Booth and Market Clerk Maker.

Christian Science, the worthy preacher is left without an excuse for making statements which are fossilized fiction, without a single element of truth to recommend them. Of all religions, Christian Science demands the exercise of faith most, faith, not in man nor in matter, but faith in Omnipotent God, in spirit, in the triumph of life, truth and love. To the Christian Scientist whose faith is uplifted to the understanding that God's creation is the spiritual universe forever invisible to the physical senses, the apostle Paul's clear crystallization of truth as found in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, contains a world of meaning: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

To quote briefly from "Science and Health," Mrs. Eddy writes: "Biblical lore said, 'He that taketh one doctrine firm in faith has the Holy Ghost dwelling in him.' This preaching revealed a strong rebuke in the Scripture, 'Faith without works is dead.' Faith, if it be more belief as a pendulum swinging between nothing and something, having no fixity. Faith, advanced to spiritual understanding, which rebukes sin of every kind and establishes the claims of God."

In conclusion, if it be true that Christian Science is built upon a false foundation, it will fall; but if truth sustains it, then nothing can ever overthrow it. Yours sincerely,
PETER E. MACKAY,

"The Mysterious Burglar." "The Mysterious Burglar," comes to the Grand Monday. It is a musical melodrama treating of police methods as set on foot to catch criminals of the higher class. The plot is punctuated with laughable comedy with no less than a dozen sparkling song hits. Stage novelties in the way of trick scenery and illusions are frequent, puzzling at all times and affording much opportunity for conjecture.

"I'm Married Now" Tonight. George F. Hall, in "I'm Married Now," will be the attraction at the Grand tonight, and will be extravagantly presented, with scenery, costumes, etc. The company is said to be a strong one and contains many funny comedians, who will appear in the numerous roles, as well as present their specialties.

"Bonnie Brier Bush." "The Bonnie Brier Bush," comes to the Grand Saturday, matinee and evening. "The Bonnie Brier Bush" is an exposition in four acts of some of the most interesting features and strong dramatic incidents of the book, and mainly treats of the "Scotch Marriage" entered into by Flora Campbell and Lord Hay. The scenery is painted from sketches of the exact localities, including views of the interior and exterior of Lachlan Campbell's cottage and the glens of Drumtochty.

SCOOOL JANITORS ASK AN INCREASE
Ask Education Board to Grant Them $75 a Room Per Annum.

No. 2 committee of the board of education had the janitors of the public schools before it yesterday afternoon, when the matter of the increase in their salaries was discussed. The present schedule is $50 per room per annum, and the janitors are asking for $75 a room. Dr. Tassell, chairman of No. 2 committee, questioned the janitors on their rules, and other matters pertaining to their work. On the answers given it was decided to revise the schedule for the janitors, and have them sent to each janitor.

Mr. W. Bruce, of Victoria school, declared that he worked fifteen hours a day at the school, rising at 3 o'clock in the morning and working until 7 in the evening. He did not think that the increase asked for was excessive. Other janitors spoke of the increase in the cost of assistance, and also the increased cost of living.

The committee decided to lay the matter of increases over until the next meeting.

Hunt Bros., in a communication to the committee, were willing to allow a rebate of 50 cents a ton on 110 tons of coal that was not up to the standard required by the board. It was agreed to send Hunt Bros a check for the balance due them, minus $50.
