Ontario Officials Furnish Evidence To Deport Pepall

PEPALL WILL BE DEPORTED IF CHARGES ARE PROVEN

Warrant For Arrest Is Based Upon Three Separate Allegations.

MAKES STATEMENT

Former Toronto Broker Held on Evidence Furnished by Ontario Officials.

Special to The Advertiser.
Washington, D.C., May 15.—Andrew H. Pepall was arrested in Los Angeles, Cal., on a warrant issued by the immigration bureau of the department of labor, alleging three specific charges and he is now subject to deportation to Canada as an undesirable citizen.

The arrest was ordered by acting commissioner of immigration, W. W. Sibbey, upon complaint of Crown Attorney J. C. McKelvey of Toronto, who laid before Sibbey the alleged connection of Pepall with bond cases involving the Aemilius Jarvis bond house in Toronto. Mr. McKelvey conferred with Commissioner Sibbey here on May 10 and the warrant for Pepall's arrest went forward immediately to the federal immigration officer at Los Angeles.

The warrant charges Pepall with three counts, these allegations being as follows:

"That he has been convicted of or admitted the commission of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude prior to his entry into the United States.

"That he is a person likely to become a public charge.

"That he entered the United States without inspection."

Details Are Submitted.

Complete details of Pepall's alleged connection with the Jarvis bond case were laid before Commissioner Sibbey by the Toronto authorities, but he declined today to make public this evidence on the grounds that it may interfere with the process of justice.

He said, however, that it appeared that Pepall acted as a "go-between" in some negotiations concerning bonds between the former provincial treasurer, Peter Smith, and Aemilius Jarvis.

Pepall, acting commissioner of immigration said, first located in New York after coming to this country from Canada and then removed to Los Angeles.

Under the procedure of an arrest for deportation, Mr. Sibbey explained, Pepall will be taken to appear before the immigration officer at Los Angeles and answer to the allegation that he entered the United States illegally. When the immigration officer has heard the evidence against the defendant and the records in the case will be sent to Washington for review by the commissioner-general of immigration.

If he proves the finding of the Los Angeles immigration officer, Pepall then can swear out a writ of habeas corpus, and this legal point will be argued.

Republicans Line Up To Fight Auto Magnate's Offer For Power.

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, May 15.—Defeat of Henry Ford's plan to acquire Muscle Shoals, the great waterpower project in Alabama, was practically assured in the Senate yesterday, with a number of Republican senators to fight the Ford offer to the limit.

Senator Reed of Missouri, a prominent Democrat, came out in a bitter attack on Ford. The effect of this action is to assure the nomination of Democrats and Republicans against turning the property over to Ford, which will in all probability block it.

DRASTIC STEPS SEEN TO SAVE WINDOWS

Boys Playing Ball Break Another Window in Alexandra School.

Another window was smashed in Alexandra School last night by boys playing baseball in the playground, making four windows in this school have been broken this season. The introduction of a rule that only soft baseballs may be used in this playground and other small fields is expected to help this situation.

In most of the schools there is a six-foot wire fencing on the tops of the walls which gives a certain amount of protection to the property. It is hoped that by the force of the wind from the balls that fly by night.

TO CONSULT SOLICITOR ON HIGH SCHOOL ACT

Special Committee Will Seek Interpretation on Saturday Afternoon.

The committee appointed last night by the finance committee of the council to interview the city solicitor and get his interpretation of the clause eight in the high schools' act as to where the authority lies in the erection of a new high school, will meet on Mr. Meredith at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The committee consists of Chairman Douglas, the finance committee, Mr. Campbell, and Dr. A. J. Grant.

STEALING GRAVE WREATH BRINGS TERM IN JAIL

Canadian Press Despatch.
Regina, May 15.—Found guilty of stealing a wreath of flowers on May 9 from a grave in the Mount Pleasant cemetery, Swift Current, Malcolm Munro, laborer, was sentenced to six months at hard labor in the Regina jail. In a statement to the police, Munro said that he had received an order for a wreath to be sent to a funeral at Lac Pelletier and he went to the cemetery, took the wreath and fixed it up, putting new flowers where the old ones had withered. The new wreath was sold for $15.

BIGGS GIVES HIS DENIAL TO CHARGES OF SKIMPING

Former Minister of Public Works Answers Charges of Henry.

EXPLAINS CONTRACTS

Claims Qualified Engineers Attended to Detail of Highway Construction.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, May 15.—Frank Biggs, minister of public works in the Drury government, gives emphatic denial to a charge of "gross carelessness" made by Hon. G. Henry, minister of highways, in the construction of highways under the Biggs administration. This represents practically the same concession to anti-unionists offered in the original bill.

"I believe this is only just and right," Rev. Dr. Bowley Green of the Tabernacle Baptist Church said. "If there is a minority in any church for union that minority should abide by the decision of the church as a whole. The other alternative is that they can break away from the church."

"As a matter of fact the church union controversy resolves itself into a battle between Presbyterian unionists and Presbyterian anti-unionists. Ninety per cent of those opposed to union are Presbyterians. Methodists have been wholeheartedly behind union from the beginning."

"It is the Baptist policy that individual churches are supreme. That is one of the vital principles on which the Baptist Church is founded."

Time to Develop.

"Fundamentally, I think the genius of the Methodist and Presbyterian faiths are so at variance that I never believed there would be general acceptance of all the union clauses. The Methodists are ripe for union, but it will require some time to develop."

The new amendments were termed "a compromise between unionists and anti-unionists." Rev. James McKay takes vigorous exception to this phrase. He claims the amendments are union amendments, and do not provide for equity for minorities in congregations.

The whole question rests where it did before, he declared. The proper provision is made for the anti-union minorities the anti-unionists will not be satisfied."

Rev. W. R. McIntosh of the King Street Presbyterian Church stated that every effort was being made to mete full justice to the anti-union. The third of Mr. Gordon's amendments authorizing the National Geographic Society, sent into the unannounced Kansu region of Asia.

Reporting to the society's headquarters here, Frederick R. Nulsen, leader of the expedition, told of a trip on the Yellow River on a raft made of 72 yak skins. The "toguns," meaning "earth men," were the most interesting people encountered, he said, and it was among these that the question of age had no importance. He added that the unmarried women wore from 20 to 30 braids of hair.

Marseille, France, May 15.—With the Ethiopian flag flying, the steamship Orilliere arrived yesterday bringing for an official visit to the French republic Prince Regent Ras Tafari of Abyssinia. The battleships of the Mediterranean fleet fired a salute of 21 guns.

Ras Tafari is expected to remain in Europe for five months. He is accompanied by thirty persons who not only his faithful followers, aides and counselors, but also some of his most active enemies, whose presence with him is explained by his policy of associating his opponents with all his enterprises.

The prince, who descends in a straight line from King Solomon and King David, traces his genealogy through Biblical times to Adam.

Ras Tafari brought with him a large number of gifts intended for the rulers he is to visit, and a palm made of elephant tusks, which will be placed on the tomb of the unknown soldier. In accordance with the custom of his country, he brought lions for the kings of England and Italy, and for President Millerand of France, and zebras for other sovereigns.

TWO DIE AS TRAIN HITS MOTOR CAR

Alex. Mitchell and George Coverdale of Cayuga Killed Near Simcoe.

Special to The Advertiser.

Cayuga, May 15.—This morning, while Rev. W. C. Almack of Cayuga was motoring to Port Dover to a Methodist conference with Alexander Mitchell, George Coverdale and Rev. Herbert C. Woltz in the auto with him, they were struck by a radial car at the crossing near Simcoe, Ont. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Coverdale were instantly killed. Mr. Woltz was cut about the head, and Mr. Almack was badly shaken up.

AUNT HALTED ROBBERY, THEN HE KILLED HER

Harry Taternuk Relates the Details of Crime to Winnipeg Police.

Winnipeg, May 15.—Without hesitation, Harry Taternuk last night related to the coroner's jury how he had killed his aunt, Mrs. Peter Simtchen, here last Thursday afternoon, when she interrupted him while he was in the act of robbing her home.

He told of knocking her down, beating and kicking her, and how he tied her hands and feet and then placed a gag in her mouth.

Following his evidence the jury brought in a verdict that the woman's death was "due to apoplexy, partly wholly caused by abuses at the hands of Harry Taternuk," and Crown Prosecutor R. B. Graham announced that a charge of murder would be laid today.

Taternuk was arrested a few hours after the murder by the city police. He had not worked for the past three years, and lived mainly by street begging. The robbery, according to his evidence, netted him only $30.

IMPERIAL OIL CO. SUED FOR DEATH OF WOMAN

Administrator of Mrs. Hilda Lavery's Estate Enters Supreme Court Writ.

The Imperial Oil Company, Limited, is named defendant in a supreme court writ issued today by McEvoy & Henderson, on behalf of James S. Lavery, administrator of the estate of Hilda Lavery, who claims damages from the plaintiff, alleging negligence by its servants or agents in operating a motor truck Nov. 15 last, whereby Hilda Lavery was killed.

Mrs. Lavery, it will be remembered, was run down by a truck and died from injuries received. The driver of the truck was exonerated from blame in the accident by a coroner's jury.

LONGSHOREMEN ACCEPT ARBITRATION AWARD

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, May 15.—Over two thousand longshoremen met here last night and unanimously accepted the award of the arbitration board of the dispute between them and the shipping federation. This means they will accept hourly pay of 62 cents for day and 72 cents for night work, and general cargo. On grain cargo they will receive 77 cents for day and 87 cents for night work.

HOBBY FAIR ATTENDANCE GOES OVER 6,000 MARK

Judging in Several Departments Completed and the Winners Announced.

BIG PROGRAM

Entertainment Planned For Tonight Proves Interesting Attraction.

Six thousand people have visited the Hobby Fair at the armories. Each day the crowds increase, and tonight will prove a record-breaker. It will be an evening of big attractions. Judges worked all day awarding silver and bronze medals, cash prizes and ribbons to the winners in the twelve big departments.

The judging in art and collections of postage stamps, arrow heads, postcards, flags and samples was completed at noon, and winners in these departments are announced.

Another big attraction tonight will be the woodworking contest by 30 public and technical school boys. The boys of the public schools will be seen working at their benches before the platform.

The test is to make a two-compartment birdhouse, one compartment for wrens and another for blue birds. The time allowed for the test is an hour and a half.

Technical School boys will be provided with blue prints of a birdhouse and will also have an hour and a half to complete their task, a finished foot stool made of basswood. S. R. White, instructor at the Technical School, will be in charge.

The members of the Hobby Fair committee express themselves as delighted with the way the people have responded to their efforts to make appreciation of the boys' and girls' hobbies a big, annual, public event. Preparations are already under way to take care of the increased growth for next year's fair. The fact that the fair is five times as great as last year's task as the management has been swamped with entries far in excess of their fondest hopes.

By the time the first of the big crowds enter tonight, ribbons of red, blue, yellow and white and cards denoting the medal winners will be arranged on the prize winning exhibits.

Cats In Limelight.

Cats came into their own tonight. It is their night at the Hobby Fair. They will occupy the big tent at the southwest corner of the armories. Here will be seen six classes from the regular block fence fairs to the daintiest and demurest pussies of Persian blood.

Black cats and white cats and weas will make up the main meowing exhibit. The unique prize Please See Page 2, Columns 4 and 5.

Small Boy Complains of Tax Placed On Small Dog.

These are dog days with the city assessment officers. On their daily rounds they come in contact with every kind of dog, taxed and untaxed, and they discover the untaxed kind in every form of retainer in which a small dog can be kept.

The record was held for many years in this city by a certain lady who hid her pet poodle in the oven while the assessment man was in the house. He, however, being keen of heart and the dog being short of breath, discovered the hidden treasure, and that particular dog paid its full tax rate for that year.

Last year another assessment officer found a small, square-headed brindled pup in a refrigerator. A letter reached the assessment commissioner a few days ago from one who styles himself "a chap living on the same block," complaining of the way in which his neighbors hide their dogs every year. He completes his little epistle by stating the commissioners are not to blame as the owners hide it in the backyard when they call.

A small boy who has a tiny pup weighing probably five or six pounds called at the commissioner's office recently to know why his small dog should have to pay as much as the "great big dog" next door, and even after it had been explained to him he thought the arrangement unfair.

HON. J. S. MARTIN HURT IN ACCIDENT

Minister of Agriculture Thrown When Car Plunges Into Hole.

Special to The Advertiser.

Port Dover, May 15.—Hon. John S. Martin, minister of agriculture, while returning from his home here to Toronto this morning by automobile met with a painful accident at Lampkin's Hill, near Port Dover. Striking a hole in the road, which brought the car to a sudden standstill, he was thrown against the wooden supports of the top, severely wrenching his back. He is now resting comfortably, but his physician states it will be two weeks at least before he is able to leave his bed.

Mr. Martin has been forced to cancel all engagements.

Girl's Skull Is Found In Pond

Ontario Police Will Investigate Thorold Discovery.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Thorold, May 15.—Workmen employed by G. L. Campbell, suit contractor on section No. 4, Welland ship canal, late yesterday found the skull of a young girl in a pond, which has been used by the Beaverboard company in which to store waste pulp.

The skull was badly blackened, and because of the acid in the pulp it has not been ascertained how long the skull had been buried in the mass. The Ontario police have taken the matter in hand.

ANTS SPLIT ON QUESTION OF LATEST AMENDMENT

Irreconcilables and Moderates Among Opponents Divided on New Proposals.

DIFFICULTIES CITED

Rev. Dr. Gandier Believes the Unionists Will Accept Concessions to Other Sides.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, May 15.—Opponents of church union are now divided amongst themselves in regard to the amendments proposed to the church union bill.

There is an "irreconcilable minority," who stand out and will stand out against the bill in any form.

There is a moderate section of the anti-unionists, who are willing to come to terms with the unionists on some amendments which they consider reasonable.

Opposition to the proposed amendments was expressed today by such local anti-leaders as Rev. Dr. James Wilson, Rev. D. T. L. McKerrill and Rev. Crawford Brown.

Rev. John B. Inkster, minister of Knox Church, stated to The Advertiser today that he regarded the proposed changes in the bill more favorably than did some of the other anti-unionists.

Our church, he said, speaking of Knox, "is more largely interested in this than is any other Presbyterian Church in Canada, and we have to watch our property interests. We have had counsel retained all along to watch the proceedings."

Urges Getting Together.

"But as I see it," said Mr. Inkster, "the Presbyterian Church is divided now. It is already split, and the only thing left to do is to have those sections of it part in a Christian spirit."

"Any amendments that will allow for the continuation of the name and the lineage of the Presbyterian Church, with an equitable division of the property, would suit me."

In fact, Mr. Inkster has already written to principal D. J. Fraser of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, the leader of the anti-unionists, suggesting that the counsel on both sides get together and see what they can arrange in the way of a settlement. "If they can divide the identity of the church, so that those who want to go into union may go, and those who don't want to go may stay out, it would like to see them do it, and in view of the fact that the bill has been done at Ottawa during the past two weeks, I do not think that that would be an absolute impossibility."

The minister of Knox Church says he concedes that the anti-unionists are sincere in their statement that they are willing to grant any reasonable

GRANT ATTACKS COMMITTEE'S DELAY ON SCHOOL

CHAIRMAN FAILS TO SEE ANY NEED FOR LATEST STEP

States Other Councils in Ontario Have Made Use of Act.

LEGAL SITUATION

Dr. A. J. Grant, chairman of the collegiate committee of the board of education, and who was spokesman of the delegation from the board last night before the finance committee of the council, cannot see why the aldermen are not willing to accept the interpretation of the high schools act by the provincial department of education, just as all other city councils in Ontario have done, as to the authority for the building of a high school and its location in a city.

"It seems to me," he said, "a great pity that any legal entanglements should be drawn up of this situation, which can only impact the high school board has given so much valuable time to this question, and the citizens generally are so strongly in favor of it, that it is unfortunate the plan should be postponed to the central, and again, the position of the department, in spite of all criticism, is clear and not to be disregarded. It has said quite definitely that it will not have additions to the central, and that it realizes the need for more high school accommodation in London. Considering that the department officials themselves were responsible for drawing up of the high schools act, they should be able to give a correct interpretation of it. The board, following the practice of other boards in the province, is willing to accept the responsibility of building the school, so I do not see why the aldermen are taking the position they do in the matter."

STEPS INSTITUTED TO DEPORT PEPALL

have to be decided before the federal judge in the Los Angeles district.

Claims Illegal Entry.

If the court sustains the deportation charge, which Commissioner Sibray says usually happens in 90 per cent of the cases, Pepall will be escorted to the border and turned over to Canadian authorities for eventual return to Ontario.

Commissioner Sibray said that the American Government has no declaration of the border when he crossed the border and began his residence in the United States. This is regarded as a prima facie case of illegal entrance. In the absence of any declaration from him, Sibray assumes that Pepall is subject to deportation.

It was officially explained that the Canadian and American governments have a mutual agreement to reciprocate in expediting the deportation of persons accused of crimes, although no treaty exists for this purpose.

PEPALL CLAIMS.

Special to The Advertiser.

Los Angeles, May 15.—Following his release from county jail upon providing $1,000 bail, Andrew Pepall, formerly of Toronto, commented briefly upon his arrest by federal officials on charges of illegal entry to the United States.

This charge, according to his own statement, grows out of his coming into the United States to reside, although maintaining his legal residence in Toronto. He declares he paid the usual head tax of $8 at the time.

The law requires an additional tax if he returned to Canada and remained there for more than six months before returning again to the United States. Pepall says that although he did go back to Canada his stay there was considerably less than six months. It is learned that Pepall took up residence in the United States in 1921. Five years residence is necessary before any one can become a fully naturalized citizen of the republic. Pepall's bail was arranged through a bonding company.

The defendant will probably be given a hearing next week immigration officials said.

MURDER GOES TO U. S.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 15.—Assistant Crown Attorney J. C. McRuer has gone to Washington in connection with the arrest in Los Angeles of Andrew Pepall, wanted in connection with the conspiracy charges against Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, and others. Inasmuch as it developed today that Mr. McRuer was in Washington last week, and set the wheels in motion which resulted in Pepall's arrest in Hollywood, the fact that he had been in the United States is necessary before any one can become a fully naturalized citizen of the republic. Pepall's bail was arranged through a bonding company.

The defendant will probably be given a hearing next week immigration officials said.

GUELPH INQUEST LAID OVER TO NEXT MONDAY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Guelph, May 15.—The inquest into the death of W. B. Sloan, who died as a result of injuries received when a motor car colliding with his horse and buggy a week and a half ago, opened last night before Coroner Dr. T. H. Orton. Considerable evidence was heard from the occupants of the car and from others who appeared on the scene of the accident shortly after its happening. Sloan, who had been nervous strain, Mrs. Sloan, widow of the deceased, was unable to be present, and her evidence will be received at the next session of the inquest next Monday.

HIGH SCHOOL BATTLE GOES MERRILY ON ALONG THE LINE

Episode After Episode Fails To Bring Solution To the Problem.

LAUNCHED IN 1921

Next Parley Comes on Monday Night With the City Council.

They sit around and talk, it seems, of schemes and schemes and schemes and schemes.

The new high school may yet be or it may not be.

Episode No. XXXVII of this leading civic issue last night, when it was turned over to the city council by the finance committee for consideration next Monday night. At this point the present series will end. The ratepayers will have either a fate-out on the new high school question or the commencement of a new drama entitled, "The Building of the New High School."

Episode No. 1 occurred as far back as February of 1921, when the entire school board of that year, with the exception of Trustees Rowe and Tillman, visited Toronto and secured approval of a three-unit high school system in the city of London.

The chapter dealing with the building of the Central Collegiate, which the department specified should commence at once, was filled with excitement.

The present school board is responsible for the most recent developments, when in accordance with their policy of increased high school education, they approached the city council in March of this year, asking for two new high schools.

Ended Abruptly.

This chapter ended abruptly. The city council, on the proposal of a fresh start was made when Ald. Douglas, chairman of the finance committee, approached the board of education, and the committee provisionally agreed to carry out the plan if debentures were issued this year for one new school.

On the advice of the city treasurer, an answer was made in the affirmative.

This answer was conveyed to the finance committee through the city treasurer, and the committee immediately raised the question of the legality of the process.

The board refused to argue this point with the statement that their action was based on the arrangement reached with the department of education at Toronto when the subject of new high schools for London was first touched. In the meantime they volunteered any information which the city council or the finance committee might require.

In April the board negotiated again with the finance committee, who would take no action until the site had been designated, at the same time asking for an estimated cost of additional new high schools.

Disposed of Question.

The Central Collegiate committee disposed of this question by stating that in accordance with their agreement, they could not consider an enlargement of the Central Collegiate, explaining that permission had only been granted for the erection of a high school on the Central site upon the understanding that it was the first step in a three-unit system, and that the other two schools would be erected as soon as possible.

The next step was the unanimous decision of the school board to erect the new high school in London East, and with this arrangement they submitted a plan to the finance committee last night for decision.

End of episode No. XXXVII. To be continued with the city council next Monday night.

Old Concessions.

"These amendments are, in reality, old concessions put into different words," Mr. McIntosh stated. "We are all anxious that justice be done and are working with that end in view."

Rev. J. A. Agnew of the Riddow Street Methodist Church declared that the protests of minority anti-unionists were not in accord with the long-established principles of the rights of majorities.

"When a political party has a majority it runs the government," he pointed out, "and all minority parties must fall in line because the majority party represents the majority opinion of the people. The same applies to church union. The anti-unionists in the minority should be fair enough to align themselves with the wishes of the majority."

The suggestions of Mr. Gordon are almost identical with those contained in the original bill. I have confidence in our union committee that everything will be done for the interests of both sides. Religion was never meant to divide peoples, and the unfortunate feature about union is that it has created such bitter controversy."

CONFERENCE DELEGATE TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Associated Press Despatch.

Springfield, Mass., May 15.—Roger T. Rahn, 28, a lay delegate to the general Methodist conference from the West China conference, committed suicide here last night. His act is attributed to ill-health coupled with depression from which he had suffered since arriving in this country. Mr. Rahn was a teacher in the Christian School at Chungking, West China. He leaves a wife and two children.

Gilbert Hunt—Can you hand over the verse about "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world?"

Dear Bert—With pleasure we palm this one off on you: The hand that rocks the cradle Ruled the world in days by-gone; But the fist that handles the check-book Is the hand we're betting on.

William Pelley—Is there a selection containing the reply: "Tail oaks from little acorns grow?" "Tail oaks from little acorns grow?" "Dear Bill—There is. And here she is ready to sprout: Tail oaks from little acorns grow. But strange to say, experience teaches: That stale old chestnuts grow into Interminable after-dinner speeches.

FRENCH GAMBLERS ARE GIVEN REAL WARNING

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, May 15.—"It is impossible to stop the gambling, but some persons have power to stop the play from going too far," said Finance Minister Francis Mariat to the Chamber of Deputies. He was speaking in connection with the steps he has taken during the last session of the legislature to limit the first of June the government and the minister of finance will not allow the national currency to be touched. They will defend it with all the means in their power.

"Let the gamblers beware. Today, as yesterday, they will find the franc well defended. Some, in the last 24 hours, have burned their fingers. Others will go to think twice before they commit themselves."

HOBBY FAIR ATTRACTS SIX THOUSAND PERSONS

A globe of gold fish will be awarded to the best kitty and her kittens.

Nearly two thousand people crowded the armories last night, and proved that increasing interest is being taken in the hobbies of boys and girls of London. Members of the Rotary Club are immensely pleased with the attendance and expect tomorrow to be a record-breaker.

Two sewing contests in the center of the floor drew large crowds, as the girls from the public and separate schools and Technical School plied their busy needles.

In the pet stock classes the pigeons were shown and judged. Many fine birds were on view for the fanciers. Among the entries were Jacobins, Homers, Tumblers, Nuns and Fantails.

Twenty-six public and separate school girls entered the lists in the sewing test, which called for a collar with a half-inch hem basted and an overhand lace stitch. The work was all hand done.

The prizes were awarded to Ethel Jeffs, Aberdeen School, bronze medal; Isobel Squires, Talbot, 2nd, Isobel Cleve, Ryerson; Edna Cunningham, Rosary Clarke, Muriel McIntosh, Grace Hiney, Grace Bryner, Violet Andrews, Dorothy Durrant, Clara Smith, Isobel Gowrie, Eva Kitzler, Laverne Parker, Irene Shott, Frances Summer, Florence Jones, Eleanor Squires, Emma Berry, Bernice Stoner and Katharine Andrews.

Neatness Counts.

The 22 girls of the Technical School were required to do 45 minutes machine work on a cotton bag, and 45 minutes of handwork, introducing an original design in colored embroidery. The work was judged for neatness, stitching accuracy, originality of design, and accuracy of work.

The winners were: first, Vera Gled, bronze medal; first prize ribbon, Louise Johnson; second, Violet Barton; third, Margaret Liberty; fourth, Cornelia Miedema; honorable mention, Isobel Mann.

The time was very short for such a stiff test. The first prizewinner finished in 51 minutes.

The entrants included, Helen Griffith, M. Baker, Vera Gled, Louise Johnson, Irene Shott, Irene Draisley, Margaret Liberty, Cornelia Miedema, Irene Selway, Isobel Mann, May Nottage, Annie Storey, Evelyn Dixon, Emily Morley, Violet Barton, Helene Strathmore, Lila Moore, Lucy Clarke, Ethel Phillips, Clara Hiney, Mildred Rowley.

The tests were in charge of Miss Isabel Craig, in colored science, instructor, and Miss H. Cunningham, Miss G. Graham, Miss E. Ferguson and Miss I. Davidson.

The judges in the public school tests were Miss Mary McPherson of Central Collegiate, and Mrs. H. Beal. Technical School tests were judged by Mrs. H. Beal and Mrs. Raymond. Miss H. M. Stevens and Miss H. Gerrard were in charge of the Technical School contest.

In the pet stock exhibit of the pigeons, bronze medals were won by Gordon Jackson's fantails, Owen Stansell's A. O. V. Faulkner's tumblers and A. Dorey's homers. Other winners follow:

Fantail—Gordon Jackson, 2. Gordon Jackson, 3. G. Faulkner, 4. Melbourne Turner.

White Homers—1. Kenneth Endell, 2. Wellington Russell, 3. Wellington Russell, 4. ditto.

Tumblers—1. Howard Fletcher, 2. Howard Fletcher, 3. George Faulkner, 4. Howard Fletcher.

Blue-Bar Homers—1. Alfred Ross, 2. Donald Alfred, 3. Wilbert Clayton, A. O. V.—Owen Stansell, 1.

Red Homers—Norman Stansell, 1 and 2; George Faulkner, 3 and 4.

Nuns—Harry Kincaid, 4 ditto. Blue Clay Hens—Donald Alfred, 1; Arthur Dorey, 2; Howard Fletcher, 3; Alfred Ross, 4; Bert Skinner, 5.

Blue Clay Cocks—Arthur Dorey, 1; Howard Fletcher, 2; Kenneth Endell, 3; Arthur Dorey, 4; B. Skinner, 5. Homer, not classified—Howard Fletcher, 3.

H. M.—Fred Brown.

Art.

PRIZE-WINNING DOG.

Above is a photograph of Mrs. Geraldine R. Dodge's Alaskan shepherd dog, Gira's Schatz von Hobentann, which was shown at the bench show of the United Canine Association at the Toronto Hunt, Eglington avenue. There were about 300 dogs benched, including a record entry of 28 Russian wolfhounds.

ONTARIO FARMERS ARE INVITED TO BIG O. A. C. EVENT

Semi-Centennial Celebration Is Planned by Guelph College During Week of June 9.

SPECIAL RY. RATES

Farmers of Ontario are invited to participate in the gigantic semi-centennial celebration of the O. A. C. Guelph, during the week of June 9. June 12 and 13 have been designated as farmers' days, and district representatives expect there will be a large attendance from Western Ontario on June 12, the day set aside for Western Ontario tillers of the soil.

At 1:30 each day there will be a parade and pageant of college department floats and live stock, and later sport programs.

The reception committee has been busy for some time, and will welcome farmers from the counties of Essex, Kent, Lambton, Elgin, Middlesex, Oxford, Norfolk, Brant, Hamilton, Wentworth, Lincoln and Welland on the 12th, while people from the other counties will be entertained the day following.

R. A. Finn of the local branch of the department of agriculture, has been notified that a demonstration rate has been granted by the railways for the day of a single fare and a half from all points from Guelph, where the regular first-class one-way fare does not exceed $3. This takes in a radius of 80 miles.

The above rates hold good for a distance for a party of ten or more, a letter received by Mr. Finn states.

STANLEY HALLAM GETS TWO-YEAR SENTENCE

Former Prohibition Officer Is Convicted of Obtaining Money by Fraud.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 15.—Stanley Hallam, formerly an Ontario temperance enforcement officer, was this morning sentenced by Mr. Justice Lennox to two years in the penitentiary for obtaining money by fraud.

Hallam was recently tried at the assizes on five charges of obtaining money on false pretences. His plan was to induce men to invest money in a view to getting jobs as truck drivers.

Hallam had expressed his willingness, if allowed out, to go to work and pay $2 a week till the amounts were charged with obtaining were paid off. Upon the request of Mr. Justice Lennox, J. E. Lawson for the crown investigated, and reported that if his lordship desired Hallam to have an opportunity to work outside the jail during the day under permission of the parole board, the longest sentence in the province was two years less one day. The maximum sentence for the offense is three years.

ASQUITH TO OPEN DRIVE ON LABOR

British Liberals Plan Intensive Campaign Against MacDonald Policies.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, May 15.—The intensive campaign by the Liberal party, which has been boomed in the press as a reprisal upon the Laborites for the latter's hostility to the party, which put them in power, is to open at Brighton next week, when Premier Asquith, the Liberal leader, will make an important statement of policy.

A meeting of the Liberal party last evening discussed the campaign and appointed a committee of management. Former Premier Lloyd George strongly appealed to the members to exert themselves to the utmost.

BETTER HOMES SHOW ATTRACTS LARGE CROWDS

Variety of Fine Exhibits Presents Pleasing Spectacle at Winter Garden.

EXHIBITORS PLEASSED

Thousands of home lovers have found that the Better Home Show, which opened on Monday night at the Winter Garden for every afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week, is providing an abundance of entertainment. The show was greeted with a large crowd on its opening night, and since then the patronage has increased until yesterday both in the afternoon and evening, the Winter Garden was packed.

Nor have city people alone attended the show. Many coming from out of town have expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the exhibits. St. Thomas was well represented Wednesday night, and the wonderful exhibits of housefurnishings is meeting with the approval of all.

The exhibitors are amazed at the large attendance and state that if the crowds keep up until Saturday close to 5,000 will have witnessed the show.

The exhibits are all prettily decorated, and the color schemes of gray and ivory is carried out nicely. With the many floral decorations, the Winter Garden and the various exhibits present a picturesque setting.

DEPOSITORS' ACTION HIGES ON M'KEOWN'S REPORT

COUNSEL AWAITS REPORT BEFORE APPEAL FOR AID

W. T. J. Lee States Government Intervention Depends on Commissioner.

PROBE CONTINUES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, May 15.—That it is the intention of counsel for depositors of the Home Bank, in the event of a favorable report by Commissioner McKee, to ask the government for a bill which will give the depositors "full justice," was announced at this morning's sitting of the royal inquiry commission. The announcement was made by W. T. J. Lee, one of the depositors' counsel, when opening his argument in support of the depositors' claim. Mr. Lee informed the commissioner that counsel for the depositors were anxious for an interim report on this phase of the case as early as could reasonably be expected. If the report was favorable, the government would be asked to bring down a bill.

Reviews Efforts.

Mr. Lee followed R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., who opened argument for the depositors yesterday and concluded this morning. Mr. McLaughlin emphasized the point that Liquidator Clark had been forced into liquidation in 1916 the depositors would have received 100 cents on the dollar. This payment could have been made out of the assets of the bank in 1916, together with a reasonable application of the double liability. It was in 1916 that the western directors of the Home Bank applied to Sir Thomas White, then minister of finance, for an independent audit of the bank's affairs.

Mr. McLaughlin took the ground that even if the finance minister could not have forced the Canadian Bankers' Association to take over the bank, he certainly could have forced the bank into liquidation. All he had to do was to give the information in his possession to the public, when liquidation would have been inevitable. "If a bank to be allowed to go on taking money from the public when facts are known to the trustees of the people which, if they were known to the people, would prevent them from depositing?" Mr. McLaughlin asked.

Attaches No Blame.

He attached no blame to Sir Thomas White personally, pointing out that the former finance minister had been working at high pressure under war conditions, and that his mind was occupied with many things. He knew that even the suggestion of a bank failure would have been a powerful argument against inspecting the bank. The former minister was probably only too glad to trust M. J. Haney and get the Home Bank off his hands.

Mr. Lee quoted at length from correspondence to show that the condition of the bank was thoroughly impressed on Sir Thomas. He will continue this afternoon.

FACTS UNSUPPORTED IN CASE OF SENATOR

Committee Investigating U. S. Oil Land Cases Makes Decision.

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, May 14.—By a vote of 4 to 1, the Senate investigating committee today held that the charges in the indictment returned against Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, by a federal grand jury in its own state were unsupported by the facts.

The committee reached its decision quickly on the basis of testimony given by a dozen witnesses and documentary evidence submitted by the justice department to support the charge in the indictment that Senator Wheeler accepted money for appearing before the interior department in oil land cases.

CURZON COMMENDS U.S. ACTIVITIES IN PERSIA

Former Secretary For Foreign Affairs Warmly Encourages American Assistance.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, May 15.—In the course of a brief discussion of Persian affairs in the House of Lords last night, Lord Curzon said that he had always warmly encouraged the appearance of the United States on the scene, and he recalled that the active role of the United States in Persia was connected with representations he had made to Washington. He added that he wished very success for United States assistance, which he hoped would be paid to Dr. Millpaugh, the director-general of finance for Persia, and his assistants in bringing reform in the Persian financial administration.

ACCOMMODATING MIXED FARMERS SAFER RISK

States A. J. Reynolds in Second Session of Economic Conference.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Regina, Sask., May 14.—Presentation of the banks and mortgage companies' cases featured the morning session at the second day's proceedings of the economic conference here today. A. J. Reynolds of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Prince Albert, spoke for the banks, and W. R. McConnell for the mortgage companies.

Mr. Reynolds took issue with Geo. F. Edwards regarding his remarks yesterday on the high price of money in Canada. He did not think there was a pioneer country in the world that had been developed on as low a rate of interest as Canada. Proceeding, he said, Canada's future was fundamentally the finest. Asked whether the banks more readily accommodate mixed farmers than wheat growers, Mr. Reynolds declared they did, because they were comparatively safer risks.

The Guild is planning also to hold a rummage sale within a short time.

"KING DAVID" CANTATA.

The Young People's Federation of St. Andrew's Church will repeat the sacred cantata "David, the Shepherd's Boy" in St. Andrew's Hall tonight. The success of the first presentation a short time ago was so great that requests were made for a repeat performance. Miss Marilyn Pococke is the director and promoter of another treat for the audience tonight.

DEMOCRATS CONVENE AT FLINT, MICHIGAN

Delegates Are About Evenly Divided on Wet and Dry Issues.

Associated Press Despatch.
Flint, Mich., May 15.—Democrats opened their state convention here today. Indications early in the day were that the session would be hard-fought and that delegates would take no action on the wet and dry issue or other questions on which there were conflicting opinions. It was tentatively decided by leaders to adopt a resolution favoring law enforcement and to send a delegation to the national convention instructed except to cast the "favorite son" ballot for Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris. The delegates were said to be about evenly divided on the wet and dry issue.

At a pre-convention meeting last night the delegates listened to a speech by William G. McAdoo and then held a pre-primary conference in which a complete slate of state officers was endorsed. The candidates included Dean Morison E. Cooley, for 43 years head of the engineering department of the University of Michigan, endorsed for United States senator.

PARTY OF 600 ITALIANS MAY BE TURNED BACK

Officials Learn Two-Thirds Are Not Farmers As They Had Claimed To Be.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Halifax, N. S., May 15.—The hopes of some four hundred Italians, prospective settlers in Ontario and Quebec, who landed here yesterday from the Italian steamer America, were somewhat dimmed when they were told that they may not be allowed to stay.

The party, consisting of men, women and children, were held in immigration quarters awaiting decision of the federal immigration officials at Ottawa. It was discovered that two-thirds of the party of 600 were not farmers, as they had professed to the authorities overseas.

COUPLE ARE REMANDED ON IMMORALITY CHARGE

FRENCH COALITION UNDECIDED WHEN VICTORY IS WON

Ardent Socialistic Section Is Severe on Leaders For Hiding After Big Success.

"INACTIVE" JABS

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, May 15.—The coalition of the left seems less and less decided on what to do with the victory won in Sunday's elections. The Socialists, who claim the lion's share of the credit for defeating the bloc national, are beginning to show uneasiness at the continued absence of such men as Herriot, Painleve and Briand, who, logically, they say, should be at the helm of the new coalition group, but all of whom appear to be waiting for someone else to take command.

The leaders of the Socialist party have decided to call a convention of the party for June 1, when they will discuss the question whether members of the party may accept posts in the cabinet under a capitalist regime. Some of the more ardent and impatient Socialists and Radicals are rather severe on the leaders who have taken in seclusion now that the victory is won, after working diligently all winter and spring to organize the coalition. The leaders, Herriot and Painleve, have now made known through their friends that they are available candidates for such "inactive" jobs as the presidency of the republic and the presidency of the Chamber of Deputies, two of the most lucrative and uncompromising posts in the republic.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR RETURNS HOME

Harry Cockshutt and Wife Arrive in Toronto From England.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, May 15.—Lieut. Governor Harry Cockshutt and Mrs. Cockshutt arrived in Toronto this morning from a visit in England and the continent.

He was met in the station by Premier G. H. Ferguson, and left immediately for Government House. The Misses Cockshutt are remaining in England, and will be presented at court May 21, and will leave England on May 24 for home. While in England the lieutenant-governor was tendered a banquet by the city of Bradford, from where his father migrated in earlier days.

The lieutenant-governor and his party visited the Valley of the Kings at Luxor in Egypt and the pyramids, which have been recovered from King Tutankhamen's tomb, and which are being assembled in Cairo. The party then went to Athens, and later to the south of France, remaining at Cannes for awhile. Col. Cockshutt and family spent considerable time in Flanders and visited the cemeteries, where Canadian soldiers lie buried. A visit was also made to the British Empire exhibition at Wembley.

GREENFIELD CONFERS WITH SIR H. THORNTON

Wants Lower Freight Rate For Coal From Alberta To Ontario.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, May 14.—The Hon. Herbert Greenfield, premier of Alberta, in Montreal today holding conference with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, and Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. A direct outlet for the Peace River district is the subject of the interviews, the premier stated, although he will also talk with Sir Henry Thornton with a view to securing a lower freight rate for coal from Alberta to Ontario. As to what passed between him and the railway officials, the premier says he has nothing to say.

S. CHINA GOVERNMENT WILL PASS TO PEKING

Sun Yat Sen's Death Spells Downfall of Regime There.

Associated Press Despatch.
Hong Kong, May 15.—With the death of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the visionary leader of the Reclamant South China government, which was confirmed yesterday, the capital of Canton is expected to pass into the hands of the Peking government, whose forces for the past year have been battling the troops of the "Constitutionalist" president. While Dr. Sun surrounded himself with a number of loyal and efficient generals and governmental leaders, it is not considered likely that any of his associates will be able to wield sufficient influence to prevent a collapse of the southern regime.

For months the Sun government has been on the verge of bankruptcy and has only succeeded in financing itself by means of exorbitant taxes, confiscations and the licensing of the gambling and opium traffic.

Forest Fires Rage In West

Canadian Press Despatch.
Edmonton, May 15.—Edmonton is covered by a smoky haze, caused by fires burning in the Grande Prairie country and carried here on strong winds from the northwest. Settlers fires are raging all over the country, according to reports received here, but to the present time the timber had not been touched. The dry condition of the country and the strong winds, however, make the fire situation hazardous, the reports said.

C. N. BRANCH LINE BILLS ARE PASSED

Special Meeting of Committee Today Will Discuss Amendment.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, May 14.—Remaining Canadian National branch line bills passed the railway committee of the house this morning, but a special meeting of the committee is to be held tomorrow to discuss an amendment, which Hon. J. B. B. Baxter proposes to insert in all the bills. When the bills were previously before the committee the point was taken that while total expenditure on a line was limited to fifteen per cent more than the estimate given in the bill, there was nothing to prevent the whole of the money being spent on part of the line, and the Canadian National then coming back to parliament later for a further vote. Today an amendment was inserted in one bill—and it will, stated the minister of railways—be incorporated in all the branch line bills, providing that the expenditure may not exceed fifteen per cent over the estimate on the average mileage. This it is stated would meet the objection raised.

Wild Horses Are To Be Corraled

Canadian Press Despatch.
Edmonton, May 15.—The Alberta department of agriculture is making arrangements for rounding up about 10,000 wild horses at large in the Bow Valley district and other open range sections in that part of the province. The round-up will be the same time in June, according to present arrangements, and the corrales will be built within the next few days.

MEDICINE BOTTLE CLUE IN ARREST OF ROBBER

Englishman Confesses He Drugged Mrs. H. Johnson and Stole Jewels.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, May 14.—Henry Edman, an Englishman with a half dozen aliases, and a suspect in several of this city's most sensational unsolved crimes, was in custody tonight on an alleged confession that he had drugged Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of the playwright, and robbed her of $9,000 worth of gems at the Hotel Almac last Monday night.

Arrested on a clue furnished by a bottle of cough medicine and identified by numerous witnesses, the prisoner was reported to have admitted that he and a woman companion robbed Mrs. Johnson, and that he and two gunmen recently invaded the apartment of Mrs. Mildred Monroe, a former Follies dancer, and robbed her of $200 worth of jewels.

LABOR OPENS BATTLE TO KILL DISPUTES ACT

Congress At Montreal Asks Two Governments To Repeal Measure.

Associated Press Despatch.
Montreal, May 15.—The executive of the American Federation of Labor, in session here today, adopted a resolution urging the Congress of the United States and members of both houses to pass the Hours-Excess railroad bill, to repeal the present railroad act, as far as its application to governmental agency in settling disputes is concerned, and to restore the voluntary agency with regard to the settlement of disputes, as represented by voluntary negotiations between employers and employees. The bill in question comes before Congress next Monday.

The executive decided to hold its next regular meeting in Atlantic City next August.

It was decided to call upon the various political parties at their national conventions next month to incorporate in their platforms the labor plank put forward by the American Federation of Labor.

SERVICE MEDAL RECEIVED.

Secretary George Turner of the G. W. V. A. announced today that he has received a General Service Medal for O. Ward of Nelson street. Mr. Turner expects to receive a number of these for returned men in this city within the next few days.

HOUSE S RAIDED AND POLICE TAKE SIX PRISONERS

Three Women Remanded For Week—Two Men Are Fined.

KEEPER IS HELD

James Rae was found guilty of being the keeper of a disorderly house at 189 Oxford street when he appeared in police court today and was remanded for a week for sentence as were three women inmates, two of them girls 16 and 19 years of age. Two men were found guilty of being frequenters and were each fined $20 and costs by Magistrate Graydon.

A wealth of evidence was introduced by Chief Birrell.

First came Inspector Lucas, who stated he had raided the place for liquor on Saturday, May 10 at 1 a.m., but didn't find any. There were two men there at the time and three women, he said.

Sergeant Middaugh told of watching the house every night last week from 11 o'clock till 2 in the morning. Tuesday was a quiet night, the sergeant stated. Wednesday morning motor cars started to arrive. Mr. Rae went around the yard shining a big light, but didn't pick up the officers who were stationed at the far rear. Mr. Rae made several pilgrimages from the house with the light, the sergeant declared. The blinds on the windows were carefully pulled down and he could not see inside. He knew there were three children in the house, two boys, 12 and 14, and a little girl of eight.

Sergeant Tomblin, who conducted the raid early this morning, stated a touring car pulled up on the west side of the house at 12:30. He listened under a window for a short time and then saw Rae's voice. Later he went to the front door and peered through the keyhole and secured enough evidence to warrant a raid. The sergeant phoned for Constable Ayres and with Constable Burgess proceeded to enter the house and arrest the men and women.

TOWE AMAZED AT BILL BEING ORDERED PAID

Finance Committee Indorses $150 Cost For Envelope Design.

How a certain bill was ordered paid in last night's meeting of the finance committee of the city government, the seven wonders of the world, according to Alderman Towe. The bill was one rendered by a Mr. Knowles for making a design to be used in envelopes to be used by the city as advertising. The manufacturer claims that he received a verbal order from the industrial area committee to do the work, which area commission deny giving such an order.

Last night when Mr. Knowles presented his bill for $150 the committee acknowledged his claim and ordered it paid with a recommendation to the council to this effect. After the meeting Alderman Drake, who had been the first to pay attention, declared that he had not fully understood the position, and Ald. McKay did not remember having voted on the question. Alderman Towe, who was present as a spectator, wonders why he, as a member of the commission, was not asked by the committee about the deal before it was passed on.

ASSESSMENT RAISED ON C. P. PROPERTY HERE

1924 Tax Check Will Be Nearly $16,250—Second Largest Taxpayer.

The value of the property owned in the city by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is re-assessed by the city every five years, has been raised by the city for the ensuing five years by about 15 per cent. The representative of the company was in the city yesterday consulting the assessment department as to the fixing of the assessment until 1929.

Last year the C. P. R. paid around $15,000 to the city in taxes, so that in future its tax check will be nearly $16,250. The company is the second largest taxpayer in the city, ranking after the Canadian National in this respect.

NEW BACON HOG CLUB FORMED AT KOMOKA

Mr. Campbell Chosen Head of New Society—London Men Speak.

The Komoka Bacon Hog Club was organized at a well attended meeting of farmers at the home of Alfred Campbell, Komoka, last night. Short addresses were given by R. A. Finn and J. Andrews, of the Middlesex branch of the department of agriculture, who spoke of the benefits to be derived by such a club.

Mr. Campbell was elected president; Charles Waugh, vice-president; Wilson Spragg, secretary-treasurer, and Harry Alway and Edgar Doan, directors.

ECONOMIC BOARD TO BE PERMANENT

Resolution Authorizes Creation of Body To Probe Crises in Saskatchewan.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Regina, Sask., May 15.—A resolution authorizing creation of a permanent economic board for Saskatchewan to investigate and deal with economic crises and contingencies as they arise crystallized the two-day discussions of the economic conference here yesterday.

Under the terms of the resolution adopted on the recommendation of a representative of the government, the board having power to add to its numbers as occasion demands. The board will be composed of two farmers, one of whom shall be a woman, one manufacturer, one representative each of the loan companies and the banks, a representative of the University of Saskatchewan, one from the Women Grain Growers' Association, a representation from the transportation companies, a retailer and a representative of the government.

WOMAN POLICE OFFICIAL VISITS TORONTO COURT

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, May 15.—Miss Mary Allen, O.B.E., commandant of the Women's Auxiliary Police Service, of London, England, which is a voluntary body and training school for police women, has arrived in this city in the course of her tour of cities of this continent in the interests of police work and women's courts. Miss Allen is a striking figure in her masculine uniform, including riding breeches and regulation army cap, which is her regular style of dress. Today Miss Allen paid special attention to the women's court here, under Magistrate Margaret Patterson. A series of receipts and other honors were being tendered to Miss Allen here today.

BROOKLYN COUPLE ROBBED OF JEWELS

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, May 15.—An armed bandit who held up Samuel Schastain and his wife Celia as they stepped into the porch of their Brooklyn home on returning from the theatre early today escaped with $10,000 worth of rings and jewels and $400 in currency. The bandit helped Mrs. Schastain remove her necklace, which included a diamond-set necklace.

ST. MATTHEW'S W.A. GIVES A SPLENDID CLOSING PROGRAM

Charming Japanese Sketch Introduced by Miss I. Isaac, Returned Missionary.

TELLS OF CHILDREN

The closing meeting of the Junior W. A. of St. Matthew's Church was held Thursday afternoon and evening at the church. In the afternoon tables of fancy and practical articles were exhibited, showing work of the senior girls' branch under the supervision of Mrs. E. Cripps. Supper was served to all members at 6 o'clock and in the evening, a delightful program was enjoyed. The numbers included solos by Miss Louise Crich and Miss Charlotte Green. An interesting dialogue was presented by Misses Elsie Jones, Bertha Shores, Mary Shores, and Mona Morgan, Lorraine Evans and Ivey Grand.

A charming Japanese sketch was also given by Misses Phyllis Holmes, Vera Holmes, Gladys Last, Ethel Marshall and Helen Dyson. The girls presented a pretty scene, wearing dainty Japanese costumes, enjoying a talk over tea cups. This sketch was introduced by Miss Irene Isaac, a returned missionary home on furlough from Japan, who gave a stirring talk on her work and life among the Japanese children. Miss Isaac was particularly interesting as she is a member of St. Matthew's Church. Following her address she was presented with an electric toaster on behalf of the Junior W. A.

A charming address was read by Miss Helen Dyson, and the presentation was made by Miss Marjorie Innes.

Miss Joan Waugh, general secretary, awarded the prizes for regular attendance during the past year to the following: Misses Phyllis Holmes, Vera Holmes, Helen Dyson, Mary Shores, Betty Shores, and Louise Crich. Prizes were also awarded to those who were absent from the recent missionary examinations: Misses Elsie Jones, Vera Holmes, Phyllis Holmes, Gladys Last, Bertha Shores, Hilda Benstead, Charlotte Green, Helen Dyson, Lorraine Evans, Ethel Marshall, and Pauline Wilson. The meeting was closed by benediction by Rev. T. J. Charlton, who acted as chairman of the evening.

POLICE REORGANIZATION IS DENIED BY NICKLE

Rumors Said Government Ministers Were Working Over Heads of Commissioners.

Toronto, May 14.—An impending reorganization of the provincial police force, which had been rumored, was given denial today by Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., attorney-general. The statements had been circulated that ministers of the crown were working over the head of the police commissioner, General A. S. Williams, and that the reorganization of that official would be welcomed. Hon. Mr. Nickle's commentary upon the report was that it was "a pipe dream."

POSTAL WORKERS' SALARIES WILL BE DISCUSSED TODAY

Ottawa, May 15.—The salary schedules of the postal workers will be discussed at a meeting of the audit board here today. Auditor-General Gontier told members of the executive of the Dominion Postal Employees Association when they waited on him yesterday. The board would consider the three wage schedules—those of the men, the department and the civil service commission.

C. H. FLETCHER MUST PAY WIFE $25 EVERY MONTH

Charles H. Fletcher was ordered to pay his wife, Ada Fletcher, $25 a month by Magistrate Graydon today. Fletcher was charged with breach of the wife's maintenance act. W. E. Lammiman, who appeared on a similar charge preferred by Mrs. Lammiman, had his case adjourned two weeks by the court.

SIX SPEEDERS PAY.

Six speeders who fell victims to police stop watches paid a total of $55 in fines to Police Court Clerk John Moule before court opened tonight.

Members from the two St. Thomas Orange lodges were special guests at last night's meeting of the Edith Cavell Lodge of this city. Other guests were present from Lange-marck Lodge and Harmony Lodge of this city. The meeting took the form of a social gathering and proved a very successful undertaking.

Mrs. Aitken, one of the members, who is leaving shortly for Scotland, was presented with a lodge pin by the members.

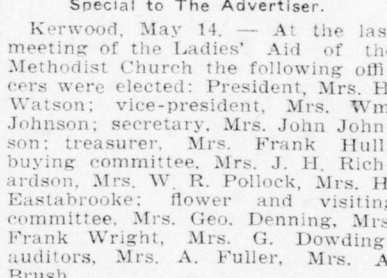

Paris, May 14.—The Baptist Young People's Union met on Monday night with Miss Ruth Nelles, president, presiding.

Miss W. Parker and Miss D. Hinchclife were elected delegates to the B. Y. P. U. convention to be held in Ottawa.

ANKLES ARE WARM

Scorns Women For Wearing Straw Hats in Snow-storms.

Woman's dress has never been distinguished by its logic or appropriateness. Although we still retain many incongruities, in certain ways we have become, to my mind, much more sensible in the last few years. Who of us would willingly return to the days of tight lacing, or the days when we swept up the filth and dirt of the streets with long and absurd dresses and trains? To a certain extent our change of life and interests has changed our dress. In days gone by, women were much more indolent, exercised very little, and, of course, took hardly any part at all in business or sport.

But today we see absurdities of a different sort. One thing which I must confess that I practice as much as anyone else, is muffling one's ears in furs on a cold winter day, yet wearing only the thinnest kind of silk stockings and low and fragile slippers. I follow this custom for a number of reasons, which I presume are the same as those of many others. Why, I can't say, but my ankles and legs never seem to feel cold if I am otherwise warm. Besides, I can't bear the feeling of spats and heavy stockings. Consequently, even though I may look absurd, I excuse myself, saying that I am not suffering.

One custom of the last few years which seems to me ridiculous is the wearing of straw hats by women in the middle of January or beginning of February. Straw hats are shown on sale in the stores for those fortunate people who are departing for warm climates. They are certainly not intended for wear in snow storms and freezing weather, and I cannot see the advantage of trying to change the seasons by our apparel. We have plenty of time in which to wear straw hats without having to be so inappropriately covered in cold weather.

But the most generally followed and flagrant example of the absurd and illogical is the use of furs during boiling weather. I have often been amused to watch women on a hot August day, quite evidently and unattractively hot in appearance, clinging (because they undoubtedly think it smart) to a large fur neck-piece. It certainly does not look smart, and is, to my mind, extremely unattractive.

The thing to try for in the summer, I have always believed, is an appearance of coolness. It is not as cool, but it is charming to the people who have to look at us. That is one reason why people who are unfortunate enough to be in mourning in the summer have difficulty in dressing, because black is an extremely hot color, and no matter how cool the dress actually may be, it gives an impression of heat.

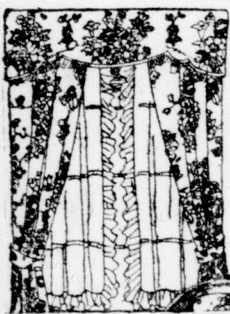

It seems to me that any inappropriateness that adds to the charm of woman's dress is perfectly permissible, except when she is working in a business place, or playing golf or tennis. When her costume is chosen for its attractiveness logic is not the main issue. But I fail to see any reason for illogical dressing if it makes for her discomfort and is not attractive to others—and I can see no argument which could be brought against the fact that furs in summer are both uncomfortable to the wearer and heating to the observer. Personally, I hate to see women give anyone, particularly men, a chance to ridicule them.

WOMEN and THE HOME

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Testimonial From "A Happy Husband and Father," Who Tells How to Make Marriage Successful—How Often Should a Man Call on the Girl He Loves?—The Girl Who Isn't Allowed to Have Dates.

Dear Miss Dix—So many people write to you about unhappy marriages that I want to tell you of one marriage that has been a great success, and of a home where love, happiness, joy and children abound. I married at the age of 29 a very intellectual, cultured, animated and attractive girl of 24. We had little money, but by working together we have accumulated a modest fortune and have raised a fine family of children.

But all through these twenty years of married life I have seen a strong, intelligent, animated and happy face across the table from me. I have seen my wife always cheerful and happy, and busy with her family, and never complaining, which has been a source of inspiration to me while at my office and made me feel that I had something worth while to work for. So I say, boys and girls, marry for love and love only. It is the one permanent factor in happiness.

It is perfectly possible to marry at the proper age and remain absolutely happy during one's married life, provided each partner to the contract is ready and willing to make sacrifices and do his or her part. A HAPPY HUSBAND AND FATHER.

Answer: Thank you, Happy Husband and Father, for these words of cheer. We need them in this column, because we hear so much of miserable marriages that we need to be reminded that there is a reverse side to the medal, and that there are also successful marriages, and happy homes, in which husbands and wives love each other, in which there is companionship and mutual consideration, and where the dove of peace perches perpetually on the roof pole.

Certainly the man and woman who have made a success of their marriage have found the greatest happiness on earth. When a husband and wife are really mated, they make a little heaven for themselves. No love is so satisfying as domestic love. No comradeship equal to that of those who have all thoughts and interests in common, and who know that nothing but death can ever separate them. Wife, husband, children, home—these make up the cycle of the ideal life.

So great are the rewards of the happy marriage that it is tragic to think how few enjoy them when all might have them, for there is no marriage that could not be made a success if a man and woman, working together, tried to make it one.

And it seems to me, Happy Husband and Father, that you offer young people the formula for how to be happy though married: Not to marry until they are old enough to know what they want in a husband or wife and are ready to settle down. To pick out an intelligent woman or man of whom they will never tire for a life companion. To be willing to work and struggle together. To have a common aim and object in life. And, above all, to start out with an unlimited supply of love.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please answer these questions: How often should a young man go to see a girl with whom he is in love? How far should he trust her? Should he have his own way all the time or give the girl hers?

Answer: I should counsel moderation in calling on the girl. Go to see her often enough to keep her interest in you alive and prevent her from feeling neglected, but do not give her an overdose of your society. No matter how fond a woman is of a man, she does not want him perpetually under foot.

And when you go to see a girl, don't stay too late. No human being can be interesting for longer than two hours at a stretch. Most of us say everything we have to say inside of thirty minutes. Whenever a girl begins to look at the clock, or smoothers a yawn, or gets up and walks around the room to keep herself awake, take the hint and beat it. You are beginning to bore her, and boredom is fatal to love.

As to how far a man should trust the girl he is in love with, I should say all in all or not at all. There is no half-way house in faith. You have to believe that a woman is sincere and honorable and discreet or else that she is unworthy of trust. I should certainly advise you not to marry a girl unless you have perfect faith in her. People who have to be watched are not worth watching.

It seems to me that neither a man nor a woman has a right to have his or her own way all the time. Certainly the bossing in a family should be a fifty-fifty proposition. No one individual has a right to expect others to make all of the sacrifices and do all of the giving up.

Generally speaking, a woman should have a right to do as she pleases about feminine affairs, and men a right to do as they please about their own personal matters, and they should compromise on things that affect them both. If you expect to be happy though married, don't let yourself be henpecked. Neither be yourself a domestic tyrant.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My parents are very fond of me and give me everything I want, but there is one thing that they oppose very much, and that is my going out with boys alone. They let me go to dances, but I must go with my brother. Their idea is that a girl should be 25 years old before she thinks of having any beaux.

Now, I can't see how I am ever going to get married if they keep on like this. How can I even get acquainted with boys if I am not permitted to have them come to the house or have any dates? My father says I must do as he says, but I think that at 25 I will be too old to attract men. What do you think?

DOTTY A. P.

Answer: At 25 a girl is at her most attractive age. She is a full-blown rose instead of the bud, and she is generally more sought after than when she was younger, but that is only when she has been in the running all the time; when she has played about with men from the time she was 18.

If a girl has never been permitted to have any masculine attention up to the time she is 25, she is not likely to ever have any, and nothing short of a miracle will save her from being an old maid. She doesn't know how to play the love game. She doesn't understand the arts and graces with which women attract men. She is stiff and self-conscious in masculine society and men pass her by.

Your parents are doing you a cruel wrong in not letting you live the life of a normal girl of your day and generation, and they are certainly blighting your chances of matrimony by not permitting you to have dates as other girls do.

Your father is a merchant. Make him see that he can keep a daughter on the shelf too long, just as he can the goods that he carries in stock.

DOROTHY DIX.

Capes on Frocks. London, May 14.—Often today, when a frock is given a panel in apron form, it has a deep cape collar to match. The panel, usually finely plaided, is often in two tiers, and the cape—hanging from the shoulders in back—copies the two-tiered effect.

Careless Shampooing
Spoils the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greasy, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you "Mulsified." Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Advt.

A Bicycle Saved Tom $15 A Month Rent

TOM Reid was sick of paying high rent for cramped quarters in the centre of the town. He only stayed on because he was close to his work.

One Sunday he went to the outskirts to see a friend, and right next door was a snug, cosy home to rent, with a large garden, for $15 a month less than Tom was paying.

"I've wanted a place like this for years," said Tom, "But it's too far to walk from here to work, and I've never fancied hanging to a strap in a slow tiresome street car."

"Why not ride a bicycle to work?" suggested his friend. "I do. And it's just nice cycling distance. The first three months' saving in rent will pretty nearly pay for a C.C.M. Bicycle, which will last you for years."

"Good idea," said Tom. "I'll bring the wife out to see the place."

A month later Tom moved out to the new home, rode a bicycle to work, and spent part of his spare time in the garden.

THE FLORENTINE DAGGER

By BEN HECHT.

INSTALLMENT IV.
THE LEADING CHARACTERS:
JULIEN DE MEDICI, a playboy and direct descendant of the famous Italian family of murderers. He rejoices that the finger of suspicion for the recent murder of his father points to his fiancée.

FLORENCE BALLAU, beautiful and talented daughter of Victor Ballau, the murdered man who finds lying on the floor with a Florentine dagger in his heart and a candelabra by his head.

JANE, the Ballau housekeeper.

NORTON, chief of detectives, who believes the crime to be merely a case of suicide. Norton points to the "beard" that is clutched in the dead man's hand, and the disordered condition of the room, indicate that Ballau wanted to divert attention from his self destruction. Norton, however, overlooks a discrepancy in Florence's account of how she rushed home from the theatre in response to a telephone call. At the instant Norton asks Jane at what time, on the evening of the murder, Florence came home.

CHAPTER VII. Bankruptcy.

"I don't know what time it was, she answered.
"Then what happened?"
"When I got into the kitchen I heard Miss Ballau screaming and I rushed out in the hall."
"Just what did she say?"
"I don't remember. She was screaming. I went in and saw Mr. Ballau on the floor. I began to cry."
"I don't remember."
"Come now, Jane, pull yourself together. Do you remember how Mr. Ballau was lying?"
"On his back."
"Did you notice whether a candle was burning in a candlestick beside the head of the dead man?"
"I didn't notice any candle burning."

"How did Mr. Ballau treat you?"
The housekeeper failed to answer. Suddenly, with a cry, she fell forward. Her head lay on the table as the sound of hysterical weeping filled the place.
"That will be all, thank you," said the coroner. A policeman assisted Jane to her feet and led her sobbing from the room.

"Call Mr. Donovan," ordered the coroner.
Donovan, the doorman of the Hudson Apartments, in which building the dead man had lived, took his place stolidly in the witness chair.
"Q—Mr. Donovan, were you acquainted with the dead man?"
"Indeed, when he was alive I was well acquainted with him. I'd known Mr. Ballau for years, and a very fine man he was."

"Between the hours of 7 and 10:30 on the night Mr. Ballau was found dead did you notice any strangers enter or any people you know to be friends of Mr. Ballau?"
"No, sir. There was only Miss Ballau and the gentleman, Mr. De Medici, your honor."

"Q—What time was it when Miss Ballau entered the building?"
"A—Well, it was after being mid-din' late. Around 10 o'clock, I should say, or thereafter somewhat."

"Q—Did you pay any attention to Miss Ballau when she came in?"
"A—No. I was only for noticing it was her and that's all."
"Q—Did you know any man with a black beard who ever called on Mr. Ballau?"
"A—Well, now, there was Dr. Lytton, who used to come often, and he had a black beard, but he got rid of it a month ago."

"Q—He got rid of it. In what way?"
"A—By shaving, your honor, I presume."

"Q—Do you see Dr. Lytton in the room, Donovan?"
A short, thick-set, bull-necked man with a glistening bald head stood up near the wall.

"A—There's the gentleman himself, your honor."

Coroner Holbein regarded the standing man.

"Thank you, Dr. Lytton," he said. "Did you see Dr. Lytton the night Mr. Ballau was found dead, the night of April 10?"

"A—No, sir, I did not."

"Q—Did you see Mr. De Medici come in that night?"
"A—I don't recall to be exact, your honor. I remember I heard the young lady screaming and that it was Mr. De Medici holding her in his arms and telling me to call the police."

"That will be all, thank you," the coroner nodded.

Five days had passed since the death of his friend and a curious change had come over Dr. Medici. His hand trembled as he dropped it furtively on the gloved fingers of the girl at his side. He ignored the caress. A laceration passed through his heart.

"Cold, aloof and defiant," he mused with a shudder. "She sits next to me like an image of stone. It is I who tremble. This thing grows in me. The feeling of her guilt overwhelms me."

Shrinking from himself, despising the evil intuition that the coroner's opinion of her guilt was developing in him, he had felt himself being slowly dragged into a dark region of himself. Alone in his room he had sat through the nights musing:

"Ah, I'm changing. I feel myself losing the identity of Julien De Medici. The phantom comes closer to my brain. They knock warily at my heart."

He released the unresponsive hand of the girl as the coroner raised his voice.

"Call Mr. Philip Johnson."

Mr. Johnson identified himself as a broker on the stock exchange. The coroner proceeded.

"Q—Did Mr. Ballau play the stock market?"
"A—Yes, sir."

"Q—How much money did Mr. Ballau invest through you during the last few years?"
"A—I have looked over my books and find that Mr. Ballau invested something like $250,000 in the last year and a half."

"Q—And what became of these investments?"
"A—Mr. Ballau was unfortunate. The money was entirely lost as a result of several unforeseen fluctuations on the market."

"Q—Did Mr. Ballau, during any conversation with you, express himself as overwhelmed by his losses and reveal in any way that he was brooding over them?"
"A—Mr. Ballau took his losses without any complaint. He kept his emotions to himself. But from the way he acted and from many things I saw, I felt certain that he was frantic."

"Thank you, sir," said the coroner. "That will be all. Call Mr. William Stone."

A stout, genial-looking man took the witness chair and under questioning identified himself as an attorney.

"Q—You were Mr. Ballau's lawyer, were you not; retained by him to handle his estate and whatever litigation arose?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—Mr. Ballau left a will, did he not?"
"A—He did."

"Q—When did he make out his will?"
"A—Eight days ago, April 2."

"Q—Did Mr. Ballau have a will previous to the drawing up of this will that you testify took place April 2, or eight days before his death?"
"A—He did. When I was first retained as legal adviser by Mr. Ballau some nine years ago, he entrusted to my keeping, among other papers, his last will and testament."

"Q—When Mr. Ballau made out his new will on April 2 was this other will destroyed?"
"A—It was."

"Q—Do you desire at this time to divulge the contents of the second will?"
"A—There is little to divulge. Mr. Ballau merely dictated a memorandum bequeathing all his property and holdings in the event of his death to Miss Florence Ballau, his daughter."

"Q—Was she present when the will was drawn up?"
"A—She was."

"Q—Are you in a position to know the extent of Mr. Ballau's holdings?"
"I am."

"Q—Tell us, then, to the best of your knowledge, how large an estate Mr. Ballau left behind."

"He left nothing behind. As far as I have been able to find out, he was heavily in debt at the time of his death. His present possessions, so said, would barely pay for the chattel mortgages and loans. He was penniless when he died."

"Q—Do you know whether he was insured?"
"A—He carried a life insurance policy of $150,000."

"Q—Do you know what kind of a policy it was?"
"A—A straight death insurance policy, collectable in the event of his demise."

"Is there a suicide clause in that policy, Mr. Stone?"
"Yes."

CHAPTER VIII. Questions and Answers.

"A—Yes, the policy provides that its conditions shall be null and void in the event of its holder taking his own life."

"Thank you," beamed the coroner. "Call Mr. Meyerson."

Mr. Meyerson walked to the witness chair. Following the introductory questions the coroner proceeded.

"Q—You frequently sold antiques to Mr. Ballau during his life, did you not, Mr. Meyerson?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—How are his accounts now?"
"A—Mr. Ballau owed me $12,000 at the time of his death."

"Q—What was the last thing Mr. Ballau bought from you?"
"A—My books show that on March 28, Mr. Ballau purchased a Florentine dagger, which formed a part of the famous De Medici collection in my keeping."

"Q—Is this the dagger which Mr. Ballau purchased from you on March 28?"
The coroner held aloft the slim weapon which had been found protruding from Victor Ballau's heart.

"A—Yes, without a doubt."

"Q—Was Mr. Ballau alone when the purchase was made?"
"A—He came in alone, but as we were talking, Mr. De Medici entered. He joined us in our discussion over the weapon, contributing to its sinister and romantic past."

"Q—What, exactly, if you remember, did Mr. De Medici say?"
"A—I recall that he humorously bewailed the habits of his great-great-grandmother and added that if he had enough money he would buy the entire De Medici collection, my keeping and drop it in the middle of the Atlantic."

"That will be all, Mr. Meyerson," said the coroner. "Call Miss Florence Ballau."

A climax! Florence Ballau. There had been innuendoes in the press. She arose—a figure out of the depths of melodrama. Her dress, attire, the tilted and sombre hat that shadowed her face—the night-flower face that had captured Broadway.

The room was stirring with excitement. Murmurs arose around him. "Later . . . later," De Medici whispered to himself. A warm enervation was sweeping him. "My love makes a stranger out of me," he went on. "Ah, Francesca, my cruel and beautiful Francesca."

He sat smiling furtively as the figure of Florence Ballau lowered herself gracefully into the witness chair. His eyes, narrowed and inscrutable, followed the vibrant line of her body.

"We will not detain you long," the coroner began, affecting a heavily casual manner. "But it is necessary for the purposes of this record to learn from you again the story of your finding your father's body. Do you wish to testify?"

The young woman nodded once, answering in a soft contralto, "Yes."

The examination proceeded.

"Q—You were engaged at the time of your father's death to marry Mr. Julien De Medici, were you not?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—And the party your father was giving was in the nature of a formal announcement of the engagement. I take it?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—When did you last see your father alive?"
"A—in the morning."

"Q—How did he seem?"
"A—He was depressed . . . and sad."

"Q—What gave you that impression?"
"A—We talked. He told me he was ruined."

"Q—Tell us, if you will, what else did your father say to you on the morning of April 10?"
"A—He said he was sorry to have brought this on just as my career was beginning. He said he had put his last money into the play in which I was acting, and that it, too, seemed likely to fail him."

"Q—Did he make any threats against his own life at the time?"
"A—No."

"Q—What did he say?"
"A—He spoke of his insurance. He said that there came a time in every man's life when he was worth more dead than alive."

"Q—What reply did you make to that?"
"A—I kissed him and begged him not to be absurd. I told him that I loved him. Then I said good-bye and went to keep my appointment with Mr. De Medici."

"Q—What time did you leave the theatre?"
"A—I don't remember. It was after the second act. I had a frightful headache and asked the stage manager to call my understudy and left the theatre."

"Q—Did you go straight home?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—What time did you reach the apartment?"
"A—I don't know. I went straight up in the elevator, intending to take a nap before the party started."

"Q—Do you usually carry a key to your apartment?"
"A—I had one until several weeks ago. I lost it."

"Q—So you rang and the housekeeper let you in?"
"A—Yes."

"Q—What was her demeanor when she opened the door?"
"A—I noticed nothing about her. She was not disturbed."

"Q—Did you go into your room that night?"
"A—No."

"Q—What did you see when you entered the library?"

"A—That my father had been murdered."

"Q—Were the lights on?"
"A—No."

"Q—Did you notice anything unusual?"
"A—An ebony crucifix was on his body."

"Q—Anything else?"
"A—A candle was standing by his head."

"Q—Was it lighted?"
"A—No."

"Q—You are positive of that? Or is it possible that in your grief and excitement you may have blown it out?"
"A—It was unlighted. There was only moonlight in the room."

"Q—Have you any theory as to how your father met his death?"
"A—I think . . . he killed himself."

"That will be all, Miss Ballau," the coroner announced.

"Inconceivable imbeciles," De Medici's musing began again. "They let her go. They had only to confront her with the telephone call. Cost must have told them, as he told me. And her flight from the theatre. They have neither eyes nor intelligence . . . or they wait. As he looks at me. Next . . . yes, they will ask me questions now. There was blood on my hands when the detectives came in. I must remember to explain about that. Him, they keep whispering. They know something. About whom?"

His eyes turned slowly toward Florence. A shudder of delight confused his memory. He heard his name called. He stood up and walked to the chair, his brain clear again. He was calm.

Having established his identity and his connection with the Ballau family, the coroner proceeded.

"Q—Now tell us, Mr. De Medici, when you last saw Mr. Ballau alive."

"A—It was around 8 o'clock that evening."

"Q—How did he impress you with regard to his state of mind?"
"A—He was in good spirits. He was pleased that I had obtained Miss Ballau's consent to marry me. He seemed as happy as myself."

SERGEANT C. A. SHAW LEAVES FOR HALIFAX

Has Completed 23 Years' Service in Royal Canadian Regiment.

Sergeant C. A. Shaw, who has completed 23 years of service in the Royal Canadian Regiment, received his pension and left London last night to take a new post in the signal station at Halifax.

Before leaving Sergt Shaw was made the recipient of a travelling bag, the gift of the headquarters sergeants' mess, and the men with whom he had been identified at Wolesley were at the station to bid him good luck.

Sergt. Shaw was awarded the M. S. M. in France, the 1914-15 star, the general service and victory medal. He has also been awarded medals for long service and good conduct. Medals are among the highest military awards and justly prized by those who possess them. The M. S. M. won in France was for faithful service and devotion to duty.

R. S. M. Roberts made the presentation on behalf of the warrant officers, staff sergeants and sergeants of the headquarters staff of the R. C. R.

WANDERING OXFORD LADS FOUND AT HALIFAX

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, May 14.—The mystery of the disappearance of two East Oxford lads, aged eleven and fourteen years, missing since Monday morning, is solved by word from the Children's Shelter at Hamilton, and the father of one of the lads left for that city tonight. The boys were found in a C. N. R. boxcar.

TRANSFORMER BURNS, STREETS ARE DARKENED

Lights Are Out On the Main Streets For Several Hours in Evening.

Richmond street, between Bathurst and Dundas, and King street, between Talbot and Clarence, were in complete darkness last night about 9 o'clock, except for a few store lights, when one of the big transformers at the corner of King and Richmond blew out and burst into flames, and threatened the surrounding electric fixtures.

Ladder wagon number one was called, and the blaze was quickly extinguished with chemicals, but it was several hours before the proper lighting system was in effect again.

Fresh Air Row Takes 3 Lives

Chicago Workman Kills Two and Commits Suicide.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, May 14.—Angered because other employees opened a window, John C. Gardner, 60 years old, an inspector for Illinois Malleable Iron Company, yesterday shot and killed two foremen and then, pursued by other employees, placed one of the three pistols with which he was armed, against his temple and committed suicide.

The police said they learned that Gardner and his two victims, R. W. Wilcox, 54, and Herman Krause, 41, had quarrelled because the two men insisted that a window be left open, while Gardner maintained he had a cold and the air would make it worse.

Last Days of Big Bargain Prices

Congoleum Week Ends on Saturday!

No need for mother to worry about cleaning up after this party. Congoleum Art-Rugs are ideal for rooms where children romp and play.

This Gold Seal Guarantees Satisfaction.

WHEN the stores close next Saturday night, Gold-Seal Congoleum Week comes to an end. The special bargain prices now in force will be withdrawn. Your opportunity to buy Canada's most popular floor-covering at these remarkable reductions will be gone.

If you already have used Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs in your home you know their beauty, their durability and wonderful money-saving and labor-saving features. If you do not yet have Congoleum Rugs in your home, you owe it to yourself to at least see what beautiful, sanitary, and practical floor-covering you can buy for amazingly little money.

Don't delay! Go to any of the stores listed below and select your Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs today if possible; for remember the Sale ends Saturday.

Beautiful Patterns for Every Room

Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs are famous for their beautiful patterns. You will find elaborate Oriental designs in warm, rich tones for living room and dining room—dainty flowered patterns that bring a fresh attractiveness to bedrooms—and a fine range of conventional patterns for kitchen, bathroom and pantry. Or, if you prefer to cover the entire floor, you will find attractive designs in Gold-Seal Congoleum By-the-Yard.

Waterproof and Easy to Clean

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs are made all in one piece on a durable fabric-felt base. They are waterproof, germ-proof, and accident-proof. Neither dust, dirt, nor spilled liquids can penetrate the smooth, seamless surface. Unlike woven rugs, they require no tiresome sweeping or beating. A quick going-over with a damp mop makes Congoleum as clean, fresh and spotless as when new.

Lies Flat Without Fastening

Here is another important feature of Gold-Seal Congoleum: no tacks, nails, or cement are ever required to hold it in place. It literally "hugs" the floor and never "kicks up" or curls at the edges or corners.

New, Genuine, Guaranteed Goods

All the Gold-Seal Congoleum offered in this sale is fresh, new goods, just received from the factory. All of it carries the famous Gold Seal pledge of "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back." Look for the Gold Seal on the face of the goods. It protects you against inferior imitations of Gold-Seal Congoleum.

This is Your Last Chance

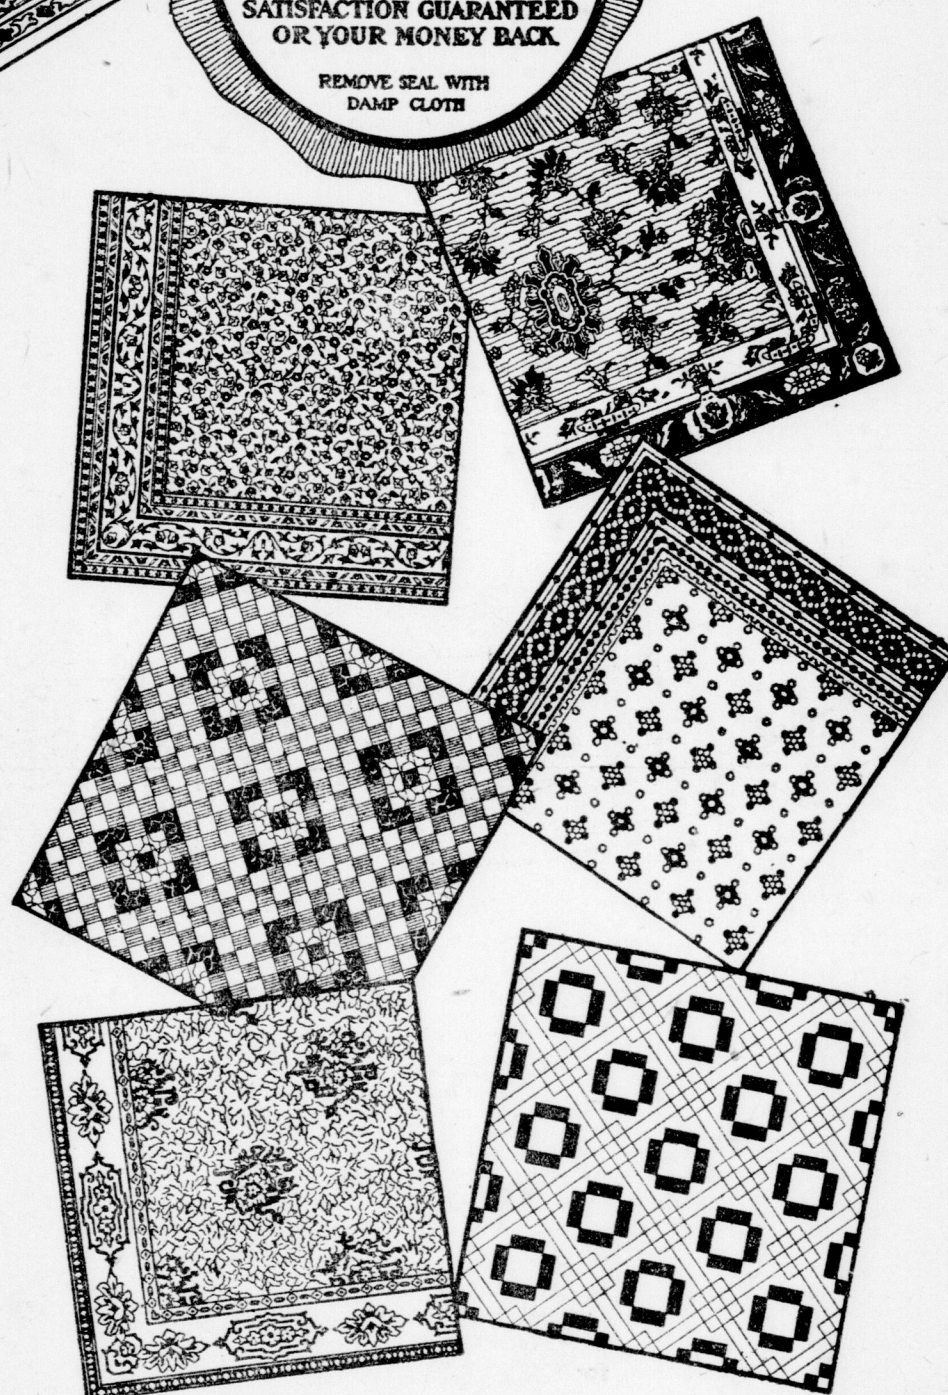

If you wait till the last minute something may prevent your taking advantage of this opportunity. And then you will have to pay more for your Congoleum. After Saturday the regular prices will again prevail.

The Premier On the Right Track Here.

Premier Ferguson intimates that he will make a cut in the printing bill of the province, especially in the issuing of blue books, so called by reason of the color of the cover.

Let him go ahead, and if he goes far enough the country will say he has done well, for after all there are far too many of these documents printed and distributed.

The chief objection is that they do not in many cases accomplish the purpose for which they are intended. People do not read them. Many of them could be sent out in greatly curtailed form.

During the last two or three years some of the reports were notoriously slow in making their appearance. Whatever value they might have had was brushed to one side by the over-press from which they suffered by the time they reached the readers.

There are publications in which stock is used of a quality altogether out of keeping with the needs of the case. The financial statement of Hon. Peter Smith, delivered on the 16th of March, 1922, serves to illustrate. It is 64 pages and cover, good cover stock and heavy book paper of a kind used for printing half-tone pictures, but there is not an illustration in it.

Mr. Ferguson might call to his assistance some good newspaperman who is heartless enough to cut government reports and printing to the bone as he has had to cut newspaper copy. Such a man would have a sense of news value that would make government reports of far greater interest than they are at present, and reduce the cost to a very marked degree.

Speech in 100-Pound Lots.

It is sad to think of the fate that awaits many of the speeches made in Parliament. Those making them may imagine they are handing down documents that will live and keep on living.

There was an auction sale on the square that surrounds the city hall at Woodstock on Saturday. Included in the articles to be disposed of was a great collection of bound parliamentary debates, the thunder and the brains of years.

Surely there would be bidding for these and a ready sale.

There was. They were knocked down to a buyer at the rate of 35 cents per 100 pounds. The country is certainly going to the dogs.

Looking to the Future.

A carefully prepared estimate shows that in the last three years the general public in United States has been swindled out of $3,000,000,000 by buying worthless stocks.

This is a reflection of business conditions that have prevailed. There has been a lot of money in circulation; people have been getting it easily and letting it go the same way. Whenever this condition comes to pass the shark and the hyster are quick to see the handwriting on the wall; they know that the time is ripe for the harvest. The suckers are running down the stream, and all that is needed is a bright light and a pronged fork to catch them.

But all this has happened in United States and is of no interest to Canada. It would be fortunate if things worked out that way, but they do not.

It is the turn of this country to have better times; there are many things pointing in that direction. There is more money in circulation, and the loan rates are easier than they have been. Every business has cut its overhead expense, and is prepared to move in advance as the currents turn.

It is here that the people of Canada can do something to help themselves. They can put their money to work in useful channels. In the past it has remained for British, and later on American, capital to come in here and develop our resources, and in this way have a big influence in determining their final disposition. Canadians, like the people across the line, have been fooled in some of their investments. They were keen for big returns and they wanted them quickly. They have parted with their millions, as the people in the States, with their larger population, have parted with their billions.

But there are good investments to be made in Canada. We have resources, plenty of them, and we are fond, at times, of rolling out big figures to prove the point. But we need faith and courage in what we have, and in our own ability to turn our own raw materials into an article ready for the markets of the world.

We must cease looking to the outside world for the genius of development which we should more and more possess ourselves.

Comparing Mortality Records.

Canadian wage-earners, living in cities, show a lower death rate than those living in the United States. Just why that should be is hard to state, but figures given by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for 1923 prove that it is so.

For the white industrial policyholders of the company in the United States, the death rate last year was 8.2 per 1,000. In Canada it was 7.5. A further analysis reveals that the higher mortality among this class of the population was found in the older provinces of the east, but in only two of these, Quebec, with a rate of 9 per 1,000, and Nova Scotia, with a rate of 8.3, did the mortality exceed that of the States.

In the central and western provinces the prevailing rates were extremely low, ranging from 4.6 in Manitoba and British Columbia to 5.1 in Saskatchewan. Grouping the four provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, the rate is 4.7 per 1,000 population. "Each one of the four provinces," says the latest statistical bulletin of the company, "shows remarkably favorable figures, reflecting the low mortality of a new and prosperous population." The lowest death rates in the industrial population of the two countries are found in these provinces.

Those Who Cannot See.

A canvass is to be made in Sarnia for funds for the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

A man who has eyes to see can never appreciate or comprehend the position of his brother to whom sight has been denied.

He may close his eyes for a few minutes to try and get the sensation of blindness, but he knows all the time that he can open them again.

At a musical recital put on by a number of blind pupils, the chairman found it necessary to accompany one of the performers to the dressing-room. Arriving there, instinct told him to switch on the light. He did so with the casual remark, "Wait till I turn on the light."

The answer came, "Oh, it's like that all the time."

"It was the first time," he remarked afterward, "that I ever caught the idea of blindness—like that all the time."

It is to be hoped that Sarnia, or any other center where the appeal for funds is made, will respond generously and wholeheartedly.

The Power of a Sermon.

At a meeting of ministers in Toronto Dr. W. H. Graham of the St. Clair Avenue Church criticized some of the pulpit tendencies of the day. He thought there was too much stress being placed on psychology and biology. He would replace that with "preaching based on experience."

After all, preaching is the delivery of a message, and the first thing a preacher must determine is whether or not he has a message.

The word needs a real vital, gripping message from the pulpit. It has a right to expect it, even to insist on getting it.

It does not take long for the person in the pew to discern whether the man in the pulpit is seized with the word he is speaking.

There is a loose belief that claims that congregations will not stand for strong, outspoken preaching. The refutation of that comes in the fact that the outstanding men in the pulpit today, those who are preaching to filled pews, are courageous men, fired with a passion to preach the living word.

Church history shows in all denominations that the greatest preachers were those who used their holy office to bring a burning, outspoken message to the people.

The first thing any preacher must determine, and he must settle that himself, is that he really has a message. Unless he has that assurance he is not going to get very far nor is his work going to be crowned with permanent success.

The Trail Leads to the Land.

United States has a great home market. That is why there is so much pressure brought to bear on Washington to keep up the tariff wall. If there is ever a leak in the dike discovered, there are scores of interested parties on hand ready to take turns at shoving their fingers into the opening until word can be sent to Washington to have the official fixers on hand. Not only is the hole then plugged, but a couple more slabs are laid up on top to make sure the thing won't happen again.

A home market is only as good as the buying power of the people in it. United States complains today. The country banks complain; next in the chain the merchants voice their grievance; on beyond them the same word comes from the jobbers and wholesalers. And it has reached the manufacturers.

And all because the farmer of United States can't buy as this stragg of distribution wants him to.

It takes a lot of searching to come back to a very old rule—that no nation can be better off than its farmers.

What Might Have Happened.

Sir William Hearst says a barber in Sault Ste. Marie could get him more votes at election time than 20 men he could pick from the church he attended.

The whole election machine would certainly have been wrecked by making the barber go to church.

Dr. Frank Crane Success and Fair Play

WE CANNOT all win in the game of life, but we can all play fair.

There's satisfaction in winning. To know that you have carried off the prize, got into the spotlight, received the applause, and beat the other fellow—there's no denying it tastes good.

In fact, it is one of the most primitive of good feelings. It goes back to the caveman, who successfully clubbed his rival and took away his woman and self. For thousands of years evolution has been developing in us the lust of Success.

So we contest for prizes while we are children in school, we struggle for the mastery in the football game at college, we seek justice in law courts by conflict of legal talent, we compete in business, in sports, in dress, in politics and, upon the grandest scale of all, in war.

All human energy seems to be put forth, not primarily with the intention of producing something, accomplishing something, adding something to the sum of mankind's happiness, but for the purpose of outdoing somebody else.

SO vast and universal a tendency we shall not attempt to stop. It is the way nature gets things done. It is the strange and iron law of the survival of the fittest. Possibly in the end it means a stronger and better quality of human beings.

Yet, like all general laws, it is modified by other laws. Gravitation also is a universal law, and grips every molecule of matter, but the variety and beauty of the world are caused by many other forces. If there were no force but gravitation all things would lie in one dead lump.

So if the survival of the fittest and the joy of success were the only drives of human conduct, it would naturally follow that only the few successful ones could be happy, while the great mass of men and women are condemned to failure and bitterness.

And we find in all our doings that there is a source of satisfaction as keen, as constant and as dependable as success.

It is the consciousness that we have played fair.

Only one can win, but all can have the pleasure of the consciousness that they have honestly competed, have not cheated nor struck foul.

It is not necessary to conquer in order to feel the glow of self respect; what is necessary is to know that we have "fought a good fight, we have kept the faith."

This might be called "the democracy of happiness"; that is, it is the reason why the masses may be happy, and not alone the few superior ones.

THE WEEK IN BRITAIN

By H. SOMERVILLE
62 Chatter Rd., London S.W.

THE late Marie Corelli made herself a best-seller among novelists by various devices calculated to keep up the interest of the romance-loving public in her personality. She got great kudos from her well-advised quarrels with critics. She also managed to convey an intriguing atmosphere of mystery as to her origin.

One story was that she was Irish and her true name Mary Carroll. The version which got into "Who's Who" (supplied by herself) was that she was of mingled Italian and Highland Scots parentage. There was also a well-known story that she was adopted as a baby by Charles Mackay, a well-known song writer. It is quite true that she was adopted by Charles Mackay, but this was not till she was five years old. She was the daughter of poor but respectable working-class parents and was the eldest of nine children. Her baptism is recorded in St. Marylebone Parish Church, where her father is described as Thomas Cody, laborer, and the future novelist was named as Caroline Cody. When she was ten years old she had changed her name to Minnie Mackay, for in her juvenile years she believed there was much in a name.

Britain Restoring Gold Standard Soon?

If the gold magnates of South Africa and the Porcupine ever had any uneasiness about the propaganda of J. M. Keynes and other theorists who would devalue gold, they may get some comfort from a speech delivered by Sir Felix Schuster, a leading

London banker, who makes fun of the theorists and says that not only must Britain retain gold as her monetary basis, but she must soon restore the gold standard by allowing free export of bullion. At the present time gold can only be exported under license, the government

fearing that if it were left free whilst the pound sterling is at a discount people would turn all their paper money into metal and ship it to America for dollars. Sir Felix Schuster points out that this country has now a stock of gold of 152,000,000 pounds, which is over 3½ per cent of our paper currency. He thinks this sufficient to meet all probable demands even if export were freely allowed. He has also revealed the interesting fact that after the armistice the British bankers voluntarily transferred the whole of their gold, amounting to 40,000,000 pounds, to the Bank of England, accepting depreciation in gold, and has complained bitterly of what he regards as an attempt by the bankers to dictate the form of Russia's internal economic organization. There is a remarkable paucity of information published as to how the system of state monopoly of trade is really working, but Messrs. Petters, oil engine manufacturers, in a letter to the prime minister, say that the system of soviet government monopoly was introduced with the idea of elimination of middlemen's profits, but the actual result has been to make a greater difference between cost and price than ever existed before, the reason being that the conditions under which trade is carried on invite speculation and bribery on a scale hitherto unknown. Furthermore, it is economically impossible for any businessman to devote the time and effort now necessary for the consummation of a single and possibly quite small transaction, as under any system of government trading so many departments have to be consulted and have to approve of prices, conditions, etc., that this in itself entails an increase in cost.

MEIGHEN ARGUES DEBT INCREASED 40 MILLION

Declares Robb Secured Reduction by Juggling Figures of National Railway.

DOUBTS BALANCE

Does Not Think Government Will Make Ends Meet Next Year.

Ottawa, May 14.—Debate on the budget, which has dragged along over a month, found new life today in the speech of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition. A House, which for days past has scarcely had quorum, was filled. Public galleries were crowded. Mr. Meighen challenged the statement of the acting minister of finance, Hon. J. H. Ross, that last fiscal year had shown a reduction in debt of $30,400,000. The previous year showed an increase in net debt of $31,600,000; therefore, according to the budget statement, said Mr. Meighen, there must have been improvement in net debt of $62,000,000.

Mr. Meighen went into detailed analysis of the financial position of the Dominion. He held that, outside of the National Railways and Merchant Marine, the improvement for the year was $870,712. The most claimed in newspaper reports in National Railway net earnings, Mr. Meighen continued, was $20,000,000. But examination of returns made to the railway commission showed an operating improvement of $12,000,000, while fixed charges had increased $5,788,000, leaving a net railway improvement of rather more than six millions.

Guarantee Bonds. Mr. Meighen took up the question in another way. In the fiscal year previous, Mr. Fielding advanced $98,000,000 out of the treasury to the National Railways. Last year only $25,000,000 was advanced out of the treasury. In 1923-24, however, Mr. Meighen continued, the device was adapted of guaranteeing bonds and this was done to the amount of $500,000, or practically the difference between the cash advances of last year with the year before. There, he compared with previous years, the whole of the $25,000,000 guarantee bonds should be added to the national debt less the thirty millions of "alleged surplus."

This would give a net increase in debt of $12,000,000. "We are going into debt over $40,000,000," declared Mr. Meighen, "and by a juggling of figures endeavoring to persuade the country that we are reducing the debt by $30,000,000 and giving this as an excuse for reducing taxation."

Mr. Meighen doubted if next year's budget would balance unless the same bookkeeping methods were employed as last year and questioned the acting minister of finance had any right to reduce taxes at all. He argued that for Canada free trade would be disastrous, and spoke of the tariff reduction as a carefully calculated scheme to get Progressive support at the sacrifice of the least possible number of votes.

Mr. Meighen continued his speech tomorrow when the prime minister also will speak. A discussion is expected tomorrow night.

Had His Doubts. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen said he wished to give the House some figures he had obtained as to Canada's revenue and expenditure, as well as the standing of the National Railways, preparatory to an analysis of the budget. When it was first introduced, the budget would be balanced this year he had been compelled to wonder how it could be done. Having followed the figures issued from time to time as to receipts and expenditure, he had not noticed any great improvement in the balance. He had now obtained from the department of finance a statement of all receipts applicable to the last fiscal year, which shows an improvement over the previous year of $1,782,642. This was the best the government could do after multiplying receipts and adding to every other form of taxation, in addition to the tax the government had made an adjustment with the British government of $9,622,000 on a transfer of accounts.

But it must be remembered that this was found money which had been coming to Canada for years and only awaited the completion of accounts to be received. The matter of fact, he had received the previous year on the same account a sum only $1,423,000 less. The total improvement in receipts and old and new taxes, therefore, was $3,205,642. Proceeding to expenditure, Mr. Meighen said there were four classes of expenditures, ordinary, capital, special and extraordinary. He would deal with the fourth later. He read a series of figures which showed that capital expenditure had increased by $3,488,000; ordinary expenditure had increased by $2,046,631; and special had diminished by $107,890.

Expenditures Increase. There had been a net increase in these three classes of expenditure of $2,335,367. Deducting, therefore, the total improvement in receipts, the total increase in expenditure outside of the National Railways, from the total increased revenue and credits, it would be seen that the showing for the year 1923-24 was better than for the preceding year by exactly $870,712. The acting minister of finance had said that Canada had paid off $30,000,000 on the national debt in 1923-24. The figure had been done would be if the National Railways had improved its showing for the year by $62,000,000.

"Does the government suggest that they did?" asked Mr. Meighen. "Can this government look me in the face and suggest that the National Railways are $62,000,000 better off than before? The fact is that this government has misled the country, and they know it."

Right Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King: "I shall reply to this later."

Mr. Meighen said he had looked up the actual figures. The most claimed, "even in press reports," in the way of Canadian National improved earnings was $20,000,000. But this was not correct.

Official returns given by the Canadian National Railways to the board of railway commissioners showed an increase in the operating income, as compared with 1922, of who intimates that Ontario has a new and startling scandal on its hands. Investigations into the highways department have revealed things which may prove serious in nature.

On Fixed Charges. A fourth factor, however, still had to be taken into account. The fixed charges for 1923, compared with 1922, had increased by $5,788,000. This item, being owed chiefly to the government, had not to be paid in cash. But it actually reduced the net improvement of the railways showing to $12,067,270.

The most the railways could possibly have contributed to a reduction in government liabilities there-fore would be twelve millions, and probably was little more than six millions. Where was the sixty-two millions needed to justify the government's budget announcement?

Mr. Meighen might be put in a position to say that there had been no addition to the national debt. Mr. Fielding had advanced $98,250,000 to the National Railways. There were some improvements in the financial position of the railways during the year, and so it would be expected that Mr. Robb would not have to advance quite so much. However, Mr. Robb said he had advanced only $25,000,000 to the National Railways. The surplus of $30,000,000, Mr. Robb had indicated bonds of the National Railways to the amount of $72,500,000, but it was said this did not affect the national debt. Besides Hon. G. P. Graham had said that the previous government had also indicated bonds of the National Railways to the amount of $72,500,000. There was, argued Mr. Meighen, no difference in the amount of bonds indicated without adding to the national debt. That was if the fund of the National Railways was reduced by the same amount. But where bonds were indicated and the fund of debt not reduced it was nothing short of dishonest to say that there had been no addition to the national debt.

Questioned by King. Premier King asked if under the late government none of the proceeds of the sale of bonds had been used to pay deficits.

Mr. Meighen replied that the former government had indicated railway bonds to a total of $100,000,000. In the course of the year, however, the Canadian Northern had been reduced to $15,000,000. In the case of the Grand Trunk Pacific, a little over $14,000,000 was used for general purposes.

Should Be Added. He asked whether the $50,000,000 had been used for refunding. The minister of railways had said that it was for capital expenditures. Well, capital expenditure should be added to the debt unless it was represented by something that would appear in the active assets. But, Mr. Meighen maintained, it was necessary to treat the railway advances as non-active the day when, as he hoped, the National Railways would make such a return to the government as to create an active asset.

Mr. Meighen declared that if the accounts of the Dominion were properly stated, there would be an increase of $12,000,000 in the national debt during the past year, a slightly greater increase than that of the year before. It would be just as defensible as was the system year bookkeeping used by Mr. Robb to organize a corporation known as the "Liberal Government Incorporated," and pay all the expenditures of the country by the sale of bonds. In that way the debt might be reduced annually by $300,000,000 or $300,000,000. The true position of the national debt was shown by adding to that debt the entire $22,500,000 guaranteed for the Canadian National and subtracting from it the alleged surplus of $30,400,109, leaving a net result of an increase in the national debt of $12,099,890.

Doubtful of Balance. Mr. Meighen wondered how the acting minister of finance could justify the reduction in taxation. Revenue was going down. It was doubtful if the sales tax would bring as much next year as it had this year. Mr. Meighen said he would have balanced his budget next year unless the same bookkeeping methods were employed as were used this year.

Free Trade. said Mr. Meighen, might work in a country which had long business experience, huge population and vast resources of banking and finance. It might be better for such a country if the rest of the world would be pleased to follow suit. For Canada it would be disastrous when the United States denied us access to its markets for any but raw materials which they need to make money.

John Miller (Progressive, Qu'Appelle) asked if the United States did not make their markets available for Canadian implements and boots and shoes.

Mr. Meighen retorted that a manufacturer would reckon on United States market for such products, knowing by previous experience that the duty was likely to be raised at any time and make his capital expenditure a loss.

Referring to the various arguments for reduction in tariff which had been made during the debate, Mr. Meighen said that he did not believe one in ten of the Liberal members really believed their own arguments.

Add to Profits. One of the Progressives had estimated that for every dollar collected by the government in customs duties another dollar was put onto the price of Canadian products and went to the manufacturer as excess profits. If this was true the government in imposing a tax on boots and shoes was causing Canadians to pay nineteen times as much as they collected. This was if all their arguments were sound.

If the Progressives really wanted to test the sincerity of the government in its attitude toward tariff reduction, they should demand a reduction in the tariff on boots and shoes and see the minister of justice (Hon. Ernest Lapointe) assume the defensive. He wondered if the Hon. Jacques Durosni was willing to "vote disaster" to Hamilton and Toronto and Brantford and all these industrial centers would be so philosophical if the industries of the Three Rivers were at stake. Also what would the minister of railways (Hon. G. P. Graham) say if Brockville's lawn mower industry was attacked?

Mr. Graham commented that the tariff reductions affected a number of things made in Brockville. "I am not a lawn mower," he said, "but I am on lawn mowers now," answered Mr. Meighen, "and he said, all a carefully calculated scheme to get the Progressive support at the sacrifice of the least possible number of votes."

Hoey Speaks. R. A. Hoey referred to the statement made by Mr. Fielding at the introduction of his last budget in regard to the moderate changes in tariff policy. Mr. Hoey pointed out that Mr. Bonin had been brought in to bring about the "tranquillity" he had advocated, nor had President Harding been able to restore "normality." Such pronouncements were "never put under the microscope," he brought into harmony with fundamental economic laws.

Mr. Hoey enumerated the requirements for successful farming, including machinery, fuel, fertilizers, and a constant supply of labor at wages which should be regulated by the purchasing power of the dollar. The stabilization of the purchasing power of money, he admitted, was well-nigh impossible. But it was necessary that it should be kept at the highest possible average.

He did not believe that there was a manufacturer in Canada who was not talking "mere political piffle" who would contend that the tariff was the sole factor in the success or failure of his business. "I don't know," the farmers admitted. "But why was this emphasized as the only factor?" Canada, it was said, was peculiarly dependent on the tariff. Being so, it could never prosper under a system which taxed the many for the good of the few. The British system did not recognize the right of one class to tax another class.

Compares Tariffs. Mr. Hoey defined "adequate protection" as "all the protection that manufacturers in your constituency may demand at any time," and a revenue tariff as "all the protection that should be extended in the interests of national progress." He declared that the issue now being clarified was not between protection and free trade, but between a protective and a revenue tariff.

Dealing with the relation of the tariff to the woolen industry, Mr. Hoey quoted an appeal sent to members of parliament, "Don't block out this basic industry." He asked whether it would not be possible to have a law passed to prohibit business organizations from taking part in politics.

Mr. Hoey reviewed the case of the Hawthorne Mills of Carlton Place. Hon. T. A. Cregar, he said, had been severely criticized during the 1922 election for drawing a salary of $15,000. Yet in 1921 R. Thompson, senior, the president of this "two-by-four wool factory" had received a salary of $15,000 and dividends of $13,000, a total of $28,000, while in 1922 his salary had been $12,000. Thompson Junior, had in 1921 drawn a salary of $4,998 and in 1922 a salary of $5,000. Mr. Hoey stated that one of the causes of the suspension of the Hawthorne Mills had been that it had taken up the manufacture of felt hats, which had not proved profitable.

Reads Salary List. Mr. Hoey reviewed the position of the Canadian Woolens Limited of Peterboro, indicating the healthy condition of that company. He read the salary list of the company's officials. This was one of the company's appealing to the government not to blot out the "peculiarly important" industry.

Statistics on Canadian emigration to the United States were read by Mr. Hoey. The figures were from the immigration branch of the Department of Labor at Washington, viz.: 1917, 105,399; 1918, 32,359; 1919, 57,782; 1920, 90,025; 1921, 72,317; 1922, 48,510; 1923, 117,011. The small exodus in thirteen years were in the years 1918 and 1922.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, doubted the correctness of the figures. Mr. Meighen had, he said, figures from the British embassy at Washington which showed that 181,000 Canadians entered the United States last year.

U. S. AUTO PRICES IN GREAT BRITAIN CUT 20 PER CENT

Agents of U. S. Motors in United Kingdom Cut Prices 20 Per Cent.

FACE COMPETITION

By HAL O'FLAHERTY. Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, London, May 14.—Agents of American motor cars in the United Kingdom reduced the prices of their cars twenty per cent in anticipation of the removal August 1 of the war time duties.

During the past four years American cars shipped to England were taxed 33 per cent of their value, making their price here seem exorbitant as compared with the prices ruling across the Atlantic. Removal of the duties in August was decided upon following a debate in the House of Commons which revealed this country's deep-seated belief in free trade. The Liberals and Socialists combined against the Conservatives in their desperate attempts to maintain the duties.

When the final vote was taken the Labor government secured a majority of 165, thus sustaining its decision to allow motor cars, fables, gloves, glassware, clocks and watches into the United Kingdom from other countries duty free.

Little importance is attached to removal of the duty on gloves and watches. The principal interest is centered in the motor industry, which now must face the grinding competition of great producing countries such as the United States, France and Germany.

It is almost a foregone conclusion that some British producers must suffer heavy losses, but according to free traders, where one manufacturer loses, the country as a whole gains. England will soon take its place alongside the United States and Canada as a great motor-using nation. Today she has only one motor car for every 110 persons, due largely to the fact that small light cars cost twice as much here as in the United States and France.

Three years of trade depression and private shortage of money also have held back the demand for cars. With 33 per cent chopped off the market price there is no doubt that one of the greatest boom periods in the history of the motor trade is approaching.

If anything, French cars of the lighter types will find a greater demand than those of American make. This is due to the fact that French manufacturers produce a type which appeals to British users. It is built with low clearance, small cylinder capacity and small wheels, all of which reduces operating costs to a point far more satisfactory than those of American cars.

Surrogate Judge and Steson of Late Chieftain Heads Political Body. Associated Press Despatch. New York May 14.—Surrogate Judge James A. Foley tonight was elected successor to the late Charles F. Murphy as leader of Tammany Hall. But two of the 70 members of Tammany's executive committee voted against him.

Surrogate Foley will resign from the bench within a few days to assume the leadership of New York's oldest and most powerful political organization. His present office carries a salary of $15,000 a year. Although Surrogate Foley had repeatedly indicated to the Tammany district leaders that he would not accept the place vacated by the death of his stepfather-in-law, Mr. Murphy, Daniel F. Ryan, secretary of Tammany, said tonight that "obligation to the organization had caused him to accept."

The election of Surrogate Foley as chieftain of Tammany's main wing is viewed by political leaders as the passing of regime and the ascension of a new kind of "boss" to the controlling throne of the probably the most powerful machine in municipal politics in America.

Wheeler told the committee, which resumed hearings on bills proposing modification of the prohibition law, that there never has been a determined and widespread effort by bootleggers of beer, rum runners, brewers and their allies to discredit any policy of government as that used to break down the enforcement of prohibition.

ALL SOCIAL BODIES UNDER ONE OFFICE

Ferguson May Appoint One Head To Supervise Work in Ontario.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 14.—Premier Ferguson is contemplating a reorganization of all the social departments of the Ontario government under one administrative head. They are now scattered among the departments of Provincial Secretary Goldie, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, and other ministers. "My idea," he said, "is to get a big man with administrative capacity who can get on with the public and make an appointment for support enlist the co-operation of the outside social organizations and the churches, and who is able to look after the general administration. He will have supervisory charge of all delinquents, feeble-minded and the underprivileged, and all classes of welfare work. Under him there should be men in charge of the various branches of the social organizations who are sympathetic of the work and capable of handling it."

WATERLOO TORIES NOMINATE SHAW

Hespler Farmer and Ex-Warden of County To Contest Constituency.

Special to The Advertiser. Galt, May 14.—William C. Shaw, farmer of Hespler and ex-warden of Waterloo County, was today unanimously chosen by the South Waterloo Conservative Association in convention at Preston as the government candidate in the by-election of June 23 in this constituency. His name was the only one brought before the convention.

Hon. J. S. Martin, minister of agriculture, was the chief speaker at the convention. Mr. Shaw, a farmer, and he, Z. A. Hall and Hon. Mr. Martin flatly contradicted statements of Mr. Homuth regarding the election protest. Mr. Shaw said the decision to enter a protest was unanimous, and he quoted from the judge's decision to show that they were justified in taking the action they did, as irregularities had been proven. Mr. Martin contradicted a statement that members of the cabinet and government were against the protest, declaring that it was a purely local matter and not one for the government.

Mr. Martin in his address emphasized that Mr. Homuth had been one of the most ardent supporters of the Ontario government and that he would have to stand on his record. He declared that Ontario would watch the outcome of this contest. He said that Premier Ferguson had authorized him to say that he considered the South Waterloo by-election as a vote of confidence in his government on its record of ten years, and urged the winning of the right to the government.

The nomination of Mr. Shaw was moved by Mayor D. N. Panabaker of Hespler and A. R. G. Smith of New Hamburg.

HOUSE WILL INCREASE EMPIRE 'EX' GUARANTEE. British Government Makes £500,000 Increase Without Division. Associated Press Despatch. London, May 14.—The House of Commons today without a division agreed to increase the Government guarantee in connection with the British Empire Exhibition, from £100,000 to £600,000 after a motion to reduce the extended guarantee had been withdrawn.

Wheeler told the committee, which resumed hearings on bills proposing modification of the prohibition law, that there never has been a determined and widespread effort by bootleggers of beer, rum runners, brewers and their allies to discredit any policy of government as that used to break down the enforcement of prohibition.

Patrick Boyle and William Fraser Die Within Few Hours.

WERE NEIGHBORS

Family Physician Gives Myocarditis As Cause of Death of Both.

Special to The Advertiser. Lucan, May 14.—Neighbors and companions for several years, Patrick Boyle and William Fraser, who lived near Mooresville, dropped dead within a few hours and of the same disease. Myocarditis is given as the cause of death.

Last night about 9:30, while preparing to retire Fraser fell dead. This morning about 5 o'clock, while lighting the fire to prepare for breakfast, Boyle followed his companion across the Great Divide.

Patrick Boyle was born in Biddulph township 81 years of age and spent his life on the farm. Survivors are the widow and eight children. The funeral is to be held on Friday afternoon from the home to Nursery Cemetery at Wardsville.

William Fraser was 58 years of age and was unmarried. Since the death of his mother some years ago he had lived alone on the farm where his death took place. His remains are to be taken to St. Peter's Cemetery in Lucan on Friday morning.

Dr. Graham, who examined the attending physician to both men, and gave the cause of death in the case of Fraser as acute myocarditis, and in the case of Boyle as chronic myocarditis. He says that both had been under his care at various times for some years.

Living on adjoining farms, Boyle and Fraser were comparatively close companions. They worked and spent their leisure time together. The cemeteries where the remains will be interred are comparatively close together, so that even in death they are not far separated.

EIGHT BROADWAY CABARETS ORDERED LOCKED FOR YEAR

Associated Press Despatch. New York, May 14.—Eight Broadway cabarets, including the most prominent resorts in the "White Light" district, today were ordered closed for a year under the padlock provision of the prohibition law. A ninth resort, in Greenwich Village, also was ordered locked up for a year.

DYSPEPSIA WAS SO BAD Could Hardly Eat Anything

Mrs. C. Stone, Nanticoke, Ont., writes:—"Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia, and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicines, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better. I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone troubled as I was."

Athletes From All Western Ontario To Compete Here Saturday

W.O.S.S.A. MEET ENTRY LIST LARGE

Nearly 160 District High School Athletes To Contest For Honors.

That the W.O.S.S.A. track meet looms as a big event is amply evident in the large number of entries received. Altogether some eighteen schools are represented, and nearly 160 athletes will compete, the list of entries running up to 500. This is an average of three events per man. From the performance during the past month in and around London it looks as if the habit of providing gold medals for breaking records will be more costly to the association.

Valuable shields are given the individuals, while the City of London trophy is at stake as well as the junior trophy donated by the chamber of commerce. The athletes from the visiting cities are to a great extent dark horses. For instance, it is Kitchener's first time, and the same can be said of Windsor-Walkerville. Technical, while it is a well-known fact that Edwards, competing in the sprinting events, for the Windsor Collegiate, will make every other competitor to win. Also in Hadfield and Mason, representing the London South, B. Wanless will have to fairly fly if he wishes to retain the championship of the century run. In the weight events, D. Westman of Central will have a number of strong competitors in Charlton of Windsor, B. Buckboro of Tillsonburg and Campau of Windsor-Walkerville Tech.

The program is as follows: 1-100 yards (Senior) heats, 2-100 yards (Intermediate) heats, 3-75 yards (Junior) heats, 4-Half-mile (Intermediate), 4-1/2 mile (Senior), 5-1 mile (Senior), 6-1/2 mile (Senior), 7-1 mile (Senior), 8-1/2 mile (Senior), 9-1 mile (Senior), 10-1 mile (Senior), 11-1 mile (Senior), 12-1 mile (Senior), 13-1 mile (Senior), 14-1 mile (Senior), 15-1 mile (Senior), 16-1 mile (Senior), 17-1 mile (Senior), 18-1 mile (Senior), 19-1 mile (Senior), 20-1 mile (Senior), 21-1 mile (Senior), 22-1 mile (Senior), 23-1 mile (Senior), 24-1 mile (Senior).

At 5 p.m., or immediately following the completion of the meet, a banquet will be tendered to the athletes and officials by the city of London. This will take place in the London Central Collegiate Auditorium. At this time also the medals, shields, and trophies will be presented.

The entries are given below. The abbreviations are: London South, L.S.; London Central, L.C.; Windsor, W.; Windsor-Walkerville, W.W.; Windsor Collegiate, W.C.; Windsor-Walkerville Tech., W.W.T.; St. Thomas Collegiate, S.T.C.; Alvinston, Alv.; Sarnia, Sarn.; Kitchener, Kitch.

YANKEES SUFFER WORST DEFEAT

World's Champions Defeated by St. Louis Browns 11 to 1.

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, May 14.—Johnson and Zachary were hit opportunely today and Cleveland took the opening game of the series, 5 to 2. Edwards was unsteady but effective. Rain prevented play after the seventh inning.

The score: R. H. E.
Cleveland..... 020 201 0-5 11 0
Washington..... 110 000 0-2 7 0
Edwards and Myatt; Johnson, Zachary and Ruel.

BROWNS MAUL YANKS.
Associated Press Despatch.
New York, May 14.—The New York Yankees suffered their worst defeat of the season here today, losing to the St. Louis Browns 11 to 1. Hoyt was knocked out of the box in the fifth, when St. Louis scored five runs. Pipgras, a youngster, was hit hard in the sixth when five more runs were scored. Shocker held the Yankees hitless until Pipgras singled in the sixth. The game was preceded by a parade and the raising of the world's championship pennant, won by the Yankees last October. Judge Landis presided at the ceremonies.

Babe Ruth was presented with a diploma for being selected the most valuable player in the American League.

The score: R. H. E.
St. Louis..... 001 055 000-11 6 2
New York..... 000 000 000-1 7 2
Shocker and Severid; Hoyt, Pipgras and Schang, Hoffman.

BOSTON BLANKS CHICAGO.
Associated Press Despatch.
Boston, May 14.—Boston slugged out a 12 to 0 victory over Chicago today in a high wind. Quinn was hit safely only four times. Boone signalled his return to the game by a batting error, knocking in four runs.

The score: R. H. E.
Chicago..... 000 000 000-0 4 1
Boston..... 022 202 31x-12 9 2
Connolly, Steingraef, Cvangros and Crouse; Quinn and O'Neill.

ATHLETICS WIN AT LAST.
Associated Press Despatch.
Philadelphia, May 14.—The long losing streak of the Philadelphia Athletics was broken today when Detroit was defeated in the first game of the series, 5 to 4.

The contest was hard fought, with both teams hitting the ball.

The score: R. H. E.
Detroit..... 100 210 000-5 11 2
Philadelphia..... 009 021 000-5 11 2

London Men Show Up Well At Rodney Shooting Meet

Rodney-on-the-Lake, May 14.—Roland Day of London was high gun in today's big shoot here, with W. Hollingshead, High Chief Yellow Hammer of the Canadian Indians, second. The Londoner's total was 143. Dr. P. C. Banghart, also of London, was third with 141, and Fred Kerr of Crediton was fourth with 140.

Herb Taylor of Rodney took the long run with 77 unfinished. The event drew trappers from as far north as Hensall, and from Detroit and Hamilton on the west and east. Dr. Frank Shaw of London ran the office end of the shoot.

NEW TRI-COUNTY BALL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Middlesex - Oxford - Waterloo Circuit Will Include Nine Clubs.

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, May 14.—The North Oxford and Oxford-Waterloo baseball leagues have amalgamated. At a well-attended meeting held at Hickson this step was decided on. Two teams were also admitted from Middlesex, and now the league will be known as the Middlesex-Oxford-Waterloo League.

Two groups will be operated this year, as follows: Evelyn, Thorndale, Embro, Harrington, Kintore, to be known as the western group, and New Hamburg, Ayr, Hickson and Plattville, as the eastern group.

The winners will play off for the New Hamburg Independent Trophy, emblematic of the league championship. The officers of the circuit are: Honorary presidents, L. W. Ratz, New Hamburg, and W. Oliver, Kintore; president, Thos. Pratt, Plattville; vice-president, J. J. Clark, Harrington; secretary-treasurer, J. F. Lindsay, Hickson.

Group meetings will be held May 16, when the schedules will be arranged. It is likely both circuits will open May 24.

MUSKIES LOSE, 6-4.

Special to The Advertiser.
Muskegon, May 14.—Inability to hit when runners were on the sacks cost Muskegon the opening game of the series here this afternoon. Bay City winning, 6 to 4. Clancy of Muskegon with two singles and a triple, and Connolly, Bay City, with two triples and a single were the batting stars.

SYNOD ADOPTS NEW BASIS FOR DIVISION OF BUDGET

Proposals For Experiments in Limited Appointments Is Rejected.
MOTION WITHDRAWN
Claim System Opposed To Anglican Custom of Permanent Clergy.

The adoption of a canon providing a new basis of budget apportionment and the rejection of a proposal to make mission charges the seat of an experiment in limited appointments were two outstanding features of the closing session of the Synod of Huron yesterday afternoon.

The bishop, in his annual charge delivered Tuesday morning, indicated a certain desire on the part of parochial committees for limited appointments. He advanced in this connection, arguments, both for and against such a system, which is directly opposed to the time-honored Anglican custom of permanent clergy. A resolution to make the mission charges the seat of an experiment in this direction was brought in by the Very Rev. L. Norman Tucker, the dean of Huron and chairman of the committee on the bishop's charge. It was seconded by Venerable Archdeacon Fotheringham of Brantford, and both clergy withdrew their motion in the face of opposition from the synod, stating that they themselves were not wedded to the idea of limited appointments, nor did they believe in having the experiment tried out first in the mission stations. The custom is, however, to take some action on a suggestion of the bishop's charge.

Commencing June, 1924, budget apportionments for the synod will be made out according to the canon sponsored at the morning session by Venerable Archdeacon Doherty.

Lengthy Debate.
After a debate lasting the entire morning and for a considerable length into the afternoon, the canon with amendments was adopted as a whole, and the budget apportionment will be carried out with the sum of the necessary expenditures of each congregation in the diocese, and of share in the net revenue from the parochial endowment, if any, as a basis.

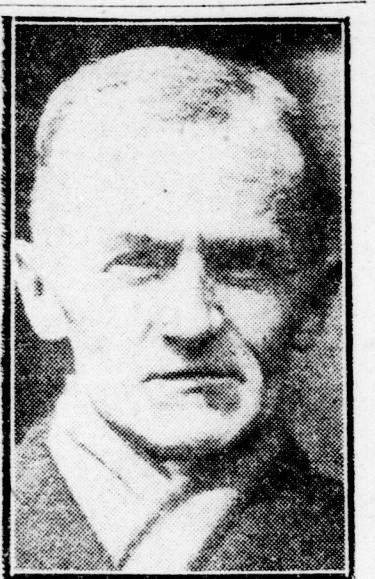

The canon provides for an annual report to the synod office of a detailed account of all necessary expenditures during the year, this information to be supplied on a printed form sent out from the synod office, and to form the basis of the budget apportionment. The system to be followed in this report is that used by the general synod in collecting its budget apportionment from the various diocesan synods in the Dominion.

Considered an important clause in the canon was the provision that the diocese shall have the right of appeal to the executive committee for a reduction of its basis of apportionment, but such an appeal must be in writing, signed by the incumbent and churchwardens, and be sent to the secretary-treasurer of the synod before the first day of December, said appeal to be considered and finally determined at the December meeting of the executive committee. It shall have the power to revise the basis of apportionment of any congregation in the diocese.

Amendment Adopted.
In addition, the following amendment, introduced by Rev. H. W. Snell, was adopted: "Provided that 75 per cent of the apportionment may be apportioned by the executive committee directly to the parishes, the remaining 25 per cent to the deanery, to be distributed by them equitably to the various parishes."

The report brought in by the committee on the charge with regard to the misuse of missionary giving was presented to see that it was brought to the attention of all churchwardens that all contributions are trust funds and must be treated as such. On the women's Auxiliaries, they reported that the work of the organization should be allowed free scope, and that the co-operation of the W. A. should be secured in making up the budget apportionments, and further that an effort should be made to establish a branch of the W. A. in every congregation of the diocese.

With regard to widows' pensions, the committee recommended that in recognition of the present inadequacy of the pension scheme, the bishop be requested to name a committee of five to give effect to the plan suggested by Senator McColl in the bishop's charge.

CHARLES GARROW,
master at Osgoode Hall, before whom F. H. Richardson, former Toronto civic controller, confessed to have received $13,500 in commissions from the Home Bank.

for renovation of the college buildings.

Emigration To U. S.
At this point the question of emigration to the United States, which pops up at almost every public meeting in the country, made its way into the Synod of Huron. Sheriff Johnston of Sarina stated that laymen were to a large extent unwilling to make contributions to the jubilee fund of the congregation, without some assurance that the students benefited would remain in the diocese and at least within Canada itself, and not join the exodus to the United States. Discussion ensuing revealed the fact that Huron College was not alone in producing graduates who entered the ministry in the United States, but that similar procedure was going on in practically all other colleges. Many clergymen, too, held that no restrictions should be placed on the choice of a field of work, whether in Canada, in missions or in the U. S. Among these was the Dean, who pointed out that the college in the first place had been a gift to the diocese. "Freely have we received," he said, "freely let us give."

Boys' and Girls' Work.
With regard to boys' and girls' work, the charge laid emphasis on three points: the aims of the work should be religious, it should be under the control of the local church rather than outside organizations, and it should be also a training for the distinctive interests of the Anglican communion. The report recommended the appointing of a special committee to work with the Sunday School committee on this matter, and to report to the next synod.

The synod adopted the recommendation contained in the report of the Laymen's Association by Sheriff Johnston to the effect that each parish be asked to set aside a date when the chairman of the deanery or a layman appointed by him should have an opportunity of addressing the congregation on the matter of the budget apportionment.

In connection with the report on social service, presented by Dean Tucker, it was mentioned that the judge of the juvenile court in London, Rev. G. Q. Warner, was a clergyman of the Church of England, and a resolution of appreciation for Judge Warner's work, together with that of Mr. Justice Harty, Judge of the children's court in Brantford, and a lay delegate to the Synod, was unanimously passed.

A resolution submitted by Rev. J. Selwyn-Adams to change the age limit of superannuation was referred to the Synod executive.

THOUSANDS VISIT OPENING OF PARK
Amusement Seekers Find Springbank More Attractive Than Ever.
Thousands of citizens of London and Western Ontario poured into Springbank last night to celebrate the opening of nature's most wonderful playground. The local street cars were loaded to the doors with pleasure seekers and the auto parking spaces at the park were jammed with cars until they groaned.

Hundreds of jubilant young people crowded into the newly and attractively-decorated dance hall and toddled to the strains of jazz supplied by Ronnie Hart's orchestra until the last car whistled around the bend.
