The present duty is $11.20 per gross ton, equal to 40 per cent. I am not aware that any of the bar iron at present manufactured in this country is made from native ore or native pig iron, but is entirely produced from scrap iron, the supply of which is largely imported from abroad. Therefore this branch of the iron trade in its present form does not in any way contribute to the development of the internal resources of the country. It therefore appears to me that a duty of about $4 per ton upon bar and all other manufactured iron might meet the requirements of the country and enefit the revenue."

Philomena rejoiced that she could remain in that quiet room. The Angelus bell sounded sweetly in herears, morning, noon and evening. The early Mass, in the dark cold morning, was her joy. Long flights of stairs to ascend and descend several times a day, the humble fare of invisible bonds. Thanks to be fitted the steam of the samovar from within or from snow and frost from without; the common delft service in lieu of the silver and rare china or poroelain, to which she had all her life been accustomed; all these things, separately and collectively, had little or no power over her, after that morning Mass in the great dim solemn church, in whose deep shadows she had been told, spies were watching her taithful countrymen, or those of them who were brave enough, to risk the little left them to kneel there one half hour, and perhaps to fortify themselvee, by partaking of the Bread of Life, for what more of suffering and wrong might yet await them. She liked what more of suffering and wrong Joseph, of might yet await them. She liked you speak. might yet await them. She liked to see the long double rows of little lads, as they came in to the eight o'clock Mass, kneel before the high altars with reverent air, each ene unstrapping his sumka, or satchel, of books from his shoulders, and depositing it noiselessly beside him. "The hope of Poland" she called them; these boys, reared and taught by oppressed, and often-exied priests, under the stern eye of the priests, under the stern eye of the cruel conqueror.
