Turks Make Unusual Demand.

Met Pasha Puts Extinguisher on Lausanne Conference -- France Worried Over Reparations Failure -- Britain Prepared to Accept Portion of Risk--Allied Premier's Conference Collapses.

DISAGREE OVER MINORITIES

LAUSANNE, Dec. 12. Met Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, dashed the hopes of the Eastern Conference for a speedy satisfactory settlement for the question of minorities in Turkey. In an address at this afternoon session he insisted upon the rights of the Greek population in Asia for the Turks in Macedonia. He demanded the exclusion of all Greek interference in Turkey, which would protect the remaining minorities, as the Turks have always been able to get along with other nations when they kept out of politics. He was stirred with outside influences. Ismet declared Turkey did not accept Lord Curzon's proposal to have the League of Nations handle the affairs of minorities, that would mean the Foreign Power would continue their interference in Turkish affairs and encourage minorities to appeal to the League of Nations. This plan, he said, would be in the exploitation of minorities for political ends, under the guise of humanitarianism. Lord Curzon's emphatic tones denounced Ismet's demand that there be a forced exchange of Turkish and Greek populations and declared that minorities remain in both countries. After talking that from six hundred thousand to nine hundred thousand persons had already been expatriated temporarily within the last two or three months, and have become a curse on the Greek Government. Lord Curzon said, "I sometimes wonder if the Turkish Government has not considered the economic results of this gigantic transference of populations, to which there is no parallel in modern history."

Lord Balfour principle, namely, the refusal to consider any renunciation of war debts and reparations question, but with definite gain for the British in view, and not merely because she wished to be generous. The British policy is said to be centred in the re-establishment of trade and commerce, the stabilization of exchanges and the bringing to an end the almost continuous Allied Conference and disputes over reparations and war debts. Pessimists believe such stabilization of European economy would not be realized through Britain's cancellation of debts, if at the same time the French were permitted to carry out coercive measures to obtain indemnity from Germany. According to the official view, the British are willing to make great sacrifices, but other Allies must also sacrifice some of their interests.

FATAL EXPLOSION IN CUBA.

HAVANA, Dec. 12. One hundred workmen were killed or injured to-day in a boiler explosion which wrecked the Sugar Mill near Camagua. Most of the victims were Spaniards.

FRANCE GLOOMY.

PARIS, Dec. 12. France tonight is gloomily taking stock of another reparations failure at London. Premier Poincaré returned to Paris with a worried air and Parliamentary as well as Government circles are deeply disappointed. There is a forced hope in some of the newspapers' comment, in which it is suggested France may induce the Allies to approve the seizure of Ruhr and other guarantees at the resumption of the inter-Allied Conference on January 2. France's grim determination to go it alone if necessary in order to lay her hands on something tangible that will make Germany act, is still the dominant note in the newspapers and political discussions. There is some criticism that the Government already has delayed too long, and there is great concern over the impending necessity of France acting independently.

BRITAIN WILLING TO TAKE SOME RISK.

LONDON, Dec. 12. Mr. Bonar Law informed the House of Commons to-day with regard to the discussion of the Allied debt question in the Premier's Conference, that he had told the Conference that if Great Britain saw some chance of a complete settlement with the prospect of finality, she was willing to run a certain risk in the end of not receiving as much from the Allies and Germany as she might have to pay the United States.

UNEMPLOYED INVADE CENTRAL HALL.

LONDON, Dec. 12. A turbulent but short lived scene was staged this afternoon in the Great Central Hall, adjoining the Lobby of the House of Commons, when the police ejected a crowd of fifty unemployed who had invaded the place and begun singing "Red Flag" and waving placards.

REMOVING CATTLE EMBARGO.

LONDON, Dec. 12. The House of Commons to-day passed the third reading of the Bill removing the embargo on Canadian cattle.

Moving Into Larger Quarters.

The Cleveland Rubber Co's new premises at the new Martin Royal Building, 161 Water Street, are being renovated and will be occupied on Dec. 15th. The new premises are more commodious and have far greater facilities, than the old, for our growing trade. We are exclusive distributors for WILLARD'S CHOCOLATES and the new CLEVELAND RUBBER BOOTS. We are also in a position to offer BUDDY and COLUMBUS Boots at the LOWEST WHOLESALE PRICES. THE CLEVELAND RUBBER CO. Dec. 4, 6, 9, 11, 13.

C.L.B. Cadets.

Outport Companies are sending in their reports regularly in good time. Bonavista Company "L" advises H. Q. they are now 31 strong, all ranks. Lieut. I. J. Bishop in command, and eight parades were held for November. On November 14th Bonavista Company held their annual entertainment and realized nearly fifty dollars for the Company's funds.

Grand Falls Company reports 75 on the strength with four parades for November. They have lost the help of Lieut. C. A. Wells, Correspondent, who has moved to Canada. Lieut. Wells was a valuable officer, and all ranks wish him good luck in the land of the Maple Leaf. Company Sergeant Major Joseph Bungay and W. O. William Wills have also resigned and these officers have been a hard blow just when the Company was getting into its stride. All these gentlemen have left to seek their fortunes in Canada. The Grand Falls C.L.B. Bazaar was held on the 30th November and was a brilliant success, so that the Company can meet all its financial obligations. The Chaplain, Rev. T. E. Loder, Hon. C.F., is now starting first aid lectures to the lads so they can secure their First Aid Certificates. The lads are taking great interest in the work, drill and games. Arrangements are now being made to organize the C.L.B. Athletic Association at Grand Falls and their hockey team will soon be on the ice. Next summer the Brigade will have their own teams in the football and baseball games. Well done Grand Falls!

Bell Island also reports under Major Lindsay, O.C. They have changed their Chaplains lately. Rev. John Stead moving to Fredericton, N.B., Canada, and his place being taken by Rev. I. Parsons the new Rector. All ranks congratulate the new Rector of Bell Island on his appointment and wish him every success in his duties. Bell Island, too, reports many changes in the rank and file—having followed the fashion set by Grand Falls and Bonavista, due to lads and W.O.s. moving elsewhere to find employment. We regret to hear Bandmaster W. J. Martin has also resigned after good service, but Bandmaster Clarence Scanes is filling the post magnificently. He has now been posted as Bandmaster to J. Company. Ptes. Eugene Sheppard and Frank Squires have been promoted to be Lance Corporals. Bandsman J. Bellows has been granted a five year good conduct long service medal which will be officially presented a little later on his arrival from England. Bell Island reports 63 on the strength.

The C.L.B. Ladies' Auxiliary have organized and have held recently a very successful "At Home." The Old Comrades also held their annual meeting last month and elected their officers for the new year and we hope to have their names later for our records. Major Lindsay is now arranging to have a detachment underway in each Church School, under a competent officer and the lads will have the benefit of the C.L.B. training. This is a great idea and we wish the Major every good luck in organizing C.L.B. work in the schools of Bell Island.

St. John's Headquarters Companies are reporting progress. The Old Comrades are finalising their new Club Room addition and will soon have Billiard table again in working order. Last night the officers played a game of basket ball, under their Veteran leader, Captain M. Job Taylor against the W. O. Mess team and cleaned them off the slate—a return match will be held next week.

The Officers Mess dinner is being held to-night at the Grenfell Institute. Mess President Captain H. A. O'Leary, O.B.E. is Chairman and a pleasant evening is anticipated. All officers will be there, unless special leave has been obtained. Headquarters are trying to secure from their London Headquarters several movie picture films of the C. L. B. Cadets on parade and in camp in England to show in St. John's for the benefit of the Brigade. A new supply of carbines is also applied for—and if same are received in serviceable condition to use blank ammunition the officers hope to arrange a few sham battles during the coming summer.—Q.

Donald Crisp Production Made in England Sets High Standard.

Setting a new high standard for excellence, Donald Crisp's Paramount production of "Appearances," which comes to the Nickel theatre beginning to-night, is in many respects a remarkable photoplay. In point of players and settings it is not surpassed by any photoplay production presented here this season.

The story itself is unusually captivating. It was written by Edward Knoblock, a playwright of international fame. The theme deals with that class that is given to living far beyond its means in order to keep up appearance in society—a class not confined to England alone. This propensity all but leads to a tragedy in the lives of several persons, and in the development of the story many scenes of great dramatic power arise. The outdoor views, many of them photographed on the grounds of historic Highcliff Castle in Hampshire, England, are most beautiful. The fine English landscape is pictured in all its rich beauty and many views will be easily recognized by anyone who has travelled in King George's domain. The interior settings are wonderfully massive.

The Hand of The Bolshevik.

(London Morning Post)
We are not among those who laugh at what is thoughtlessly called the Bolshevik bogey. With that dark and sinister power reigning over one-half of the Old World and threatening the other half, we should be unwise to disregard the danger. Moreover, we suspect the hand of the Bolshevik in Ireland, and we believe that he has powerful agents even nearer to the centre of the British Empire. The Bolshevik is not a bogey, but a real danger to our peace and State.

George Street Church.

MEN'S LEAGUE.
The members of this Association were privileged to listen to a most interesting address on the relation of the Church to industrial questions on Monday night last. Rev. E. C. Bearp, Rector of St. Thomas' was the special speaker, and he handled his subject with insight and sympathy. He held that it is not part of the Church's proper function to interfere directly in industrial disputes, nor to propagate any particular social or industrial programme. What she should do however, is to inculcate principles and emphasize moral issues, leaving the application to be worked out by those specially qualified. Yet the teaching function is by no means insignificant. Indeed, the supreme need of the time in our modern civilization is a revival of the moral sense. What lies at the root of industrial troubles on the part of workers and employers alike is simply fear. This arises out of an attitude of mutual suspicion, for which, unfortunately, there has been reason in the past on both sides. The cure is to be found in a coming together and the frank exchange of views, so that mutual sympathy and understanding may eliminate fear and suspicion. Progress must be paid for at each step by the recognition of increased responsibility. Mr. Bearp quoted the statement of a writer who thought from the labor standpoint, to the effect that labor has now education enough to demand its rights, but not enough to realize its responsibilities. In the midst of industrial problems the Church must be, as Christ Himself was among men, not an agitator with a plan, but an idealist with a vision.

In the conversation which followed high appreciation was expressed of the admirable exposition, and the friendly spirit shown by the visiting speaker. The feeling was freely voiced that when the nature of the meetings becomes better known, the premises used will not be able to seat those who will wish to attend them.

Florence Reed, Broadway favorite, returns to the screen after a long absence, in a remarkable quadruple role in W. K. Ziegfeld's premiere screen production, "The Black Panther's Cub." In this magnificent photo-drama, based on Swinburne's immortal poem, "Faustine," Miss Reed is seen in four separate and entirely distinct characterizations.

As the story of "The Black Panther's Cub" opens, Miss Reed is seen as "Faustine" known as the "Black Panther" and keeper of the most notorious gambling palace in Paris. She is the shrewd temptress, the cold and calculating beauty who has all Paris at her feet.

As the story progresses there is an allegorical flash of Swinburne's "Faustine," the Empress whose thumb is ever turned down on the unfortunate of the gladiatorial ring. It is this "Faustine" that the "Black Panther" is said to resemble and it is because of her unrelenting greed for gold and the attitude of men, that she has been so named.

In the role of the once beautiful "Faustine," now a grey and wrinkled old woman, but whose heart still burns with a passion for greed, Miss Reed does some of the most wonderful acting of her long and successful career.

The cast, which includes Norman Trevor, Earle Foxe, Tyrone Power, Henry Stephenson, Mlle. Dazie, William Roselle, Ethel Doncher and Paula Shay, all stars of the stage and screen, is one of the most notable ones ever selected for a photoplay.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram

The Feast of Chanukah.

The Feast of Chanukah, also known as the Feast of Dedication, and by other appropriate titles, occurs this year on December 13th, and will be observed in Jewish homes and in the House of God for eight days thereafter, starting from the evening of December 14.

This festival is a minor holiday and is reminiscent of the Maccabean victory in the battle for Israel's faith when the prophets promise was verified: "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."
It recalls in particular the eventful years of 168 to 165 B.C.E. in Palestine. During that period Antiochus Epiphanes, or "the mad man," King of Syria, had resolved to quench the lamp of religious liberty and resorted to the crude tyrannies of Imperialists to compel all subject peoples to speak one language and worship according to a ritual approved by the appointed priests of his empire and their religious heads, who naturally followed the polytheistic liturgy of the Greeks, then in a state of decadence.

The enforcement of this royal decree was mandatory on all peoples, including the Palestinian Jews. In compliance with this tyrannical edict the Temple on Mount Moriah (Jerusalem) was desecrated and the altar of the high priest was displaced by a hideous idol, the work of man's hands, and an abomination of human shame and self-degradation. Throughout the country, many weaklings, fearing the mandates of Antiochus, yielded to the promptings of their frightened hearts and listened to the tempting voices counseling treason of the monarch and worshipped the idolatrous images. It seemed as if Israel and his sacred heritage were doomed to be swept away by the rising tide of heathenism.

The enforced obedience to these idolatrous practices of paganism which were an abomination to the Jew and a source of irritation was a factor in fanning the flames of revolt that soon broke out when imperialistic tyranny added oppression to violence. The hatred germinated in the hearts of the Palestinian Jews against Antiochus resulted in a revolt that instantly led to war against Syria.

This insurrection was headed by a priest of Modin, Mattathias by name, a member of a princely family who rallied a small band of loyal followers to defy the king and wrest freedom for his countrymen from the tyrannies and blasphemies of the mad emperor.

Supported by Judah, his son, to whom tradition has given the name Maccabee, and his four heroic brothers, the Maccabees led to triumph the handful of embattled Palestinian farmers who, by their invincible strength and death-defying zeal for their God and country, defeated all the Syrian generals sent against them in successive campaigns covering a period of four years.

The final victory of the insurgent Maccabees happened according to the Hebrew calendar on the 25th day of Kislev, corresponding to the month of December, in the year 165 B.C.E. Following the victory the Temple at Jerusalem was renovated, the idolatrous images removed and the altar rededicated to the worship of the one and only God.

The sanctuary thus rededicated rose from the dust of its desecration in greater beauty. Israel now became endowed with new strength for the spiritual contest through the ages against error and superstition. In the Jewish religious school and in many Jewish homes, the celebration of Chanukah with its lights, symbols of cheer and hope, recounts these historical events and emphasizes the firm conviction that the day will come when justice, love and mercy will be exalted and selfishness and hatred between races and religions laid low. This festival voices the hope that all men will eventually be banded together in one covenant of love and righteousness and all mankind will turn to God alone as Ruler of the World.

Fads and Fashions.

Newest frocks feature simple decoration of leather and fur. A straight silhouette is featured by many new coats for spring. Gray gloves striped with black are among the new accessories.

There is a decided vogue for the evening gown of metallic cloth. One famous milliner is producing nothing but black or brown hats. The use of ruffles and wool embroidery is noted on crepe blouses. Small girls are wearing gold embroidered satin mandarin suits. It is reported that French gowns for spring will be shown in soft tones. Satin, faille and taffeta are shown unbordered in color and tinsel. A new type of imported hand-blocked velvet is trimmed with feathers. Evening wraps of bright rose and blue velvets are collared with rich fur. One notes silver and steel embroidery upon chiffon and Georgette.

NEWMAN'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Fight of The Sultan.

The Sultan Mohammed VI. has abandoned Turkey, alarmed by Ankara's threats to treat him as a traitor. General Sir Charles Harrington escorted him on board the British battleship Malaya, where he was received by Admiral Osmond de Beauvoir Broock. The Malaya then left for Malta.

A battalion of Irish Guards at Yildiz Barracks was on the usual early parade when several large closed motor cars drew up outside the closed back gate in the 20 ft. high wall that surrounds the gardens of Yildiz Kiosk, the Sultan's palace. Suddenly the tall, solid gates were thrown back and out of them came a party of a dozen men in civilian clothes. The battalion at drill formed as if accidentally a guard to keep off anyone who might try to approach. Accompanied by General Hill and the commanding officer of the Irish Guards, this small party got into the cars, which drove off down the steep hill towards the quay at Tophane, on the shore of the Bosphorus.

GRATEFUL FOR BRITISH PROTECTION.

In this inconspicuous way did Mohammed VI., the last of a long line of once powerful Sultans, escape from his own palace, driven out by the menace of his Nationalist subjects. It was necessary that he should leave with these precautions of secrecy to avoid any attempt at violence by the Nationalist forces in Constantinople.

Their seizure in daylight in the streets of Constantinople of the anti-Kemalist editor, Ali Kemal Bey, and his subsequent brutal murder at Istanbul had been evidence of their ruthlessness against those whom they consider their enemies.

On the quay at Tophane General Harrington was waiting to receive the Sultan. Mohammed, who is 61, looked a frail old man as he climbed slowly out of the motor car. But the British officers who had brought him down said that he had kept up on the way a constant conversation through the First Chamberlain as interpreter.

The Sultan was wearing a well-cut black overcoat with a velvet collar, and his head was covered with a fez. He seemed to have little luggage. Two suitcases and a trunk were all that was put into the launch that took him to the Malaya.

WITH HIS YOUNG SON.

On the way to the battleship he thanked General Harrington warmly for enabling him to get away. He said that it was a great relief to feel himself in safety under British protection.

On the quarter-deck of the Malaya Admiral de Beauvoir Broock and his staff were waiting, and the Sultan, with his suite of 9 officials and his 10-year-old son, was taken down to what would be the admiral's quarters if the Malaya were a flagship at the stern of the vessel. A fire was burning in the open grate, and the bright chintz-covered furniture of the large white room made it look as cheerful a refuge as anyone could desire.

Later in the morning Mr. Neville Henderson, Secretary of the British Embassy, who is acting as High Commissioner now that Sir Horace Rumbold has gone to Lausanne, visited the Sultan to hear any wishes he might express before leaving. Then the Malaya weighed anchor and steamed into the Sea of Marmora.—Daily Mail.

WALT MASON

The children hear the ringing of Santa's string of bells, as he comes blithely swinging across the moors and fells. They hear his reindeer loping beneath the wintry sky, they listen, and they're hoping he will not pass them by. I listen too, but only discordant things I hear; the night is dark and lonely, the wind is bleak and drear. The snow is on the gables, the wind beats at the door, and I am old and fables appeal to me no more. I have a golden chalice, a diamond-studded fan; I'm living in a palace, I have a rich sedan; I'm decked in purple raiment, I have a costly lyre, I'm fixed to make the payment for all I may desire; my aunts, in priceless sables, go sloshing through the mart, but snow is on the gables, and snow is on my heart. I listen for the ringing that only children hear; I listen for the singing of Santa to his deer. And I would give my plunder, my lyre and dachshund too, if I could hear and wonder, as little children do. There are no elves or witches, or fairies by the streams; but all an old man's riches aren't worth a bairnie's dreams.

Scientist Discusses

PROBABILITY OF LIFE ON VENUS.

BOSTON.—The existence of life on the planet Venus may be considered highly probable, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, said in a recent lecture here. He added that the question of life on Mars was controversial, but that its small mass and its great distance from the sun counted heavily against the probability of life there. "Venus," he said, "is comparable to the earth in many ways and it, as is likely, living organisms develop wherever conditions are suitable over a sufficient interval of time, then it may be considered that life on Venus is highly probable. On no other bodies in the solar system, however, are conditions at all favorable for the existence of protoplasm." Dr. Shapley said that accepting the tidal evolution theory of a planetary system, even for stars otherwise favorably located, an encounter of just the right sort with another star was necessary for the birth of a planetary system. "And once such a family is born," he continued, "other stars must not disturb the family, and the star's light intensity must remain essentially uniform for the enormous interval of time required for the crustal evolution which must precede animal origins.

OTHER LIVING EARTHS.

"Nevertheless, it appears probable that among the thousands of millions of stars, there are here and there planets that conform to the requirements. Although the animal man is probably not duplicated in the universe, there are doubtless numerous other living earths, and the chance that their life phenomena surpass in intricacy and 'highness' those on the earth is as good as the chance that they fall below our level." The search for habitable worlds, he said, was largely a search for conditions suitable for the existence of water in a liquid form. "This, he added, was an absolute necessity for the development of life such as that on the earth, and a definite chemical constitution for air, land and water also was necessary. A planet's days and nights, therefore, must not be so long as to prevent the existence of water in a liquid form. "It seems uncertain," he said, "that some water exists on Mars at times in a liquid form. The average astronomical opinion is that low forms of organisms may exist on Mars, that high forms are very improbable, and that beings physically comparable with man are absolutely impossible."

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"
Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:
"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. DRESS SUITS AND CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

Did you ever hear the story of the man whose wife was helping him into his dress suit? She was half way dressed when she heard the demands on her began: "See if you can button this blamed collar! I can't. Where are my cuff buttons?" "Where the blazes did you put the shirt studs?" "You'll have to get me another collar--you've made such a mess of this. I wouldn't wear it to a dog fight." "I laid a clean handkerchief there not two minutes ago. Oh well, I don't know who put that collar on it, I didn't."

Finally she gets him dressed. He smiles himself, into his coat and stands admiring himself, then he turns and catches sight of his wife still half way dressed.

"Great Scott," he exclaims, "here I am all dressed and you've still got on that kimono thing you had on half an hour ago. What have you been doing with yourself all this time?"

I love that story. And I often think of it.

Like a Picture Puzzle.

Here, on the contrary, is a much more intricate affair. She has a certain limited amount of money with which to buy a good many things. If one thing costs more than she expects she will have to change her plans and save somewhere else. The reason she goes shopping several times and comes home empty handed is simply that she is planning her campaign. If she finds Phillip's velocipede costs more than she thought it would, it will have to be his sole present from both father and mother, without the football she planned as a supplementary gift. On the other hand if she can get Mitchell's slippers at a sample shoe shop she will have enough left for stockings. And so forth and so on. Many a woman has come back almost empty handed and then come once more and done the bulk of her shopping in a single day, after the whole campaign has fallen into place like the last few pieces of a picture puzzle.

She Might Try His Way.

That isn't foolish time wasted, it's wise planning.

And the man who laughs at her or finds fault with her, or wants to know what she had been doing all this time reminds me of the man and the dress suit. Not quite as unreasonable and absurd but almost so.

A good dinner deserves a good cigarette, a bad dinner needs one. Let your choice be COB.

Automobiles Build Fortunes For Lucky Marylanders.

BALTIMORE—Twelve years ago the Pennsylvania Railroad gave an old bridge over the Susquehanna River at Havre de Grace to private interests; the building of a new bridge had made it, apparently, valueless. Automobiles ever since have been crossing the structure in increasing numbers, and the men who got the bridge for nothing in 1910 recently sold it to the State of Maryland for $885,000. And in the 12 years it was in their possession, they pocketed $70,000 in dividends, all in tolls charges collected from motor cars.

When the new bridge made the old one of doubtful use, the railroad company offered it first to the state and then to the county, but without success. If no one accepted it, the company was obligated with the necessity of removing it, which would have been very expensive. So finally the company changed its mind from a railroad bridge to a highway bridge, and considered itself lucky in finding a group of Maryland men who consented to accept the structure, which originally had cost $1,000,000, as a gift. The recipients set up $700 to organize a company, and the net returns from the bridge were $65,000. The state will continue to collect tolls until 1935, by which date it estimates the toll will retire the bonds issued for the purchase price of $885,000.

A Hot Letter From Pipe Smoker.

Three years ago my dear friend was complaining because I could not give him a pipe tobacco that was as good as a card. He immediately decided Edgewood. If I had a dollar I would buy a pack of Edgewood. I have been smoking it ever since. It has been a great thing, and I have been able to give him a pipe tobacco that is as good as a card. Both kinds pack so nicely that they will last for a long time. I have been smoking it ever since. I have been able to give him a pipe tobacco that is as good as a card. Both kinds pack so nicely that they will last for a long time. I have been smoking it ever since. I have been able to give him a pipe tobacco that is as good as a card. Both kinds pack so nicely that they will last for a long time.

Fashion Has Again Raised The Barnyard.

PARIS.—Fashion, in her ever insistent search for novelty, again has invaded the barnyard. Rooster feathers have come back. They are the latest thing on smart Paris hats, and even on evening gowns. All colors are used, and when the rooster can't supply the shade, the dyer does. However, natural white and black are the most popular colors. Rooster feathers probably are about as cheap a material as can be found, but their use on chic hats has not lowered the price of bonnets. One little hat shop is displaying these "simple" but smart things at 750 francs, while other stores ask 500 and 600 francs.

Co-Operative Marketing.

Mr. A. B. Morine, K.C., Addresses Board of Trade.

A local association on the North side of Bonavista Bay, for export in a suitable vessel? Think of the time, labor and expense that would have been saved. Think of the opportunity it would have been for the more financially independent fishermen.

THE MATTER OF GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

I want to emphasize the point that from beginning to end the control of the co-operative organization would be solely in those financially interested as members contributing fish. There would be no Government appointees. There would be no politics. No considerations would have any weight, except those which concerned the profitable marketing of fish. Very intimately, each member would influence and practically control his own fish, at least as intimately and practically as partners in a firm or company control the fish they are directly interested in. Under the Regulations 1920, this was not so, nor would it be so under the proposal called "Nationalization" recently made. There would be a Manager and adequate staff for each association and district exchange, and a General Manager and staff for Central, and of course there would be directors, but the overhead cost for exportation would be much less in the aggregate than it is now, when each exporter has some of his staff at least employed upon exportation matters which would be centralized under co-operation.

OBJECTIONS CONSIDERED.

In discussions, I have heard three objections which I wish to consider briefly:

(1) Co-operative exporting, coupled with a ban upon exportation except through the organization would, it is said, be MONOPOLY spelled in capital letters. It appears to me as though it would be the first breath of liberty to the fishermen, the death blow of privilege. Under the 1920 Regulations, a license, rather hard to get was essential to an exporter. Under existing conditions, bank accommodation, still harder to get by many, is essential to an exporter. Under "Nationalization" as proposed, no private person will be permitted to export. Under Co-operation, as I propose, anybody may export, without a license and much or little. It will confer on any man with small capital, but much pluck, the privilege of exporting on equal terms with the largest capitalist through his association.

(2) It would interfere, it is said, with the sacro-sacred principle of demand and supply, which some people regard as a part of the deocalogue. What is the meaning placed on those terms by the objection? By "demand" do they mean "quantity needed ultimately for consumption," and by "supply" do they mean "the quantity actually caught." Well, co-operation would not interfere with it within that meaning. It would not seek to create an artificial demand, which would be followed by very natural depression—by withholding a due supply of fish. It would only act to regulate the supply in the markets so that there should always be enough, yet never too much over-supplying a market is as bad as withholding. It is not proposed to limit the supply so as to force prices above the natural value of fish, but only to prevent that senseless rivalry between sellers which causes fish to sell below its natural value.

(3) Co-operation will destroy the vested interests of present day exporters. Therefore, they will oppose it. If that were so, and it could be shown that co-operation would, nevertheless, be for the greatest good of the greatest number, so much the worse for the exporters, for the fight would have to go on. But it is not so. The large exporter would remain the large collector, producer, member, or whatever you may call him, as a partner in the organization—the name, not the substance, would be changed—unless the present day home selling fisherman becomes an exporter in his own right through the organization; and to the extent that the fisherman did become (which they would only do by enterprise, economy and pluck), a prosperous middle class would be created, whose prosperity would make them better buyers from present day exporters in their capacity as Merchant-Importers. In course of time (a very long time, I fear) the exporter of to-day would be such, I hope, pass away, supplanted by prosperous fishermen co-operative exporters for that word, be a happy consummation for all the people of the Colony. Ireland's tenant farmers, Scotland's crofters, are rapidly becoming "peasant proprietors," and in this country we may build up a class of fishermen akin to the "peasant proprietor," the land-owning farmer, the contented, prosperous, middle class man of the United States and Canada, the broad based

THE FISHERMAN EXPORTER.

In his capacity as an adventurer, many exporters to-day carry on a Labrador station, fit out and operate vessels to the Banks and the Labrador, to supply boats and traps to be worked for them, on wages or shares. In all these cases the outfitter is the owner of the fish, and could turn it into any association he belonged to. Inasmuch as most shrimers would not be able or willing to wait for payment in full till account was received of the sales abroad, the outfitter would be under the necessity of paying them off at say current local rates. But many exporters also outfit for cash or on credit, partially or wholly, many owners of masters of craft who pursue the fishery on their own account. The fish caught belongs to the supplier, who, if he were independent enough, could turn the fish to an association for export on his own account, and deal with his sharemen as I have just indicated. Such an adventurer has now no such opportunity under existing methods but must sell locally at any price he may be fortunate enough to get here. He has no place to store his fish awaiting export, no banking accommodation for advances, no means of procuring transportation to market, no foreign agent, no knowledge of exporting practices. The provision of exporting facilities for such a class would be, perhaps, the greatest boon of co-operation. It would give "a place in the sun" for the energetic, economic, ambitious fisherman, for whom there is in reality no outlet to-day under existing methods. It would not be a large class at the outset. It would grow slowly, I fear, but it would grow, all the same, and the whole Colony would be the better for it. A co-operative organization would have the most ample room for the capital and enterprise of the present day exporter. Conditions confer on exporters what I call a quasi-monopoly, but, as usual, with monopolies, it does them as much harm in one of their capacities as it does them good in another. They frequently profit nowadays by sales, but they lose continually by bad debts, and in the long run, they, in common with the whole people of the Colony would benefit by a changed system, resulting in the creation of a prosperous middle class, successful fishermen, exporters, of the produce of their own efforts.

CONCLUSION.

Commenting upon a Memorial recently presented to the Government by the United Fishermen, asking for the appointment of a Commission to acquire and disseminate information on marketing problems, the Advocate newspaper expressed great anger over the alleged implication that the people at large are at present unable to give an intelligent opinion upon these problems at a general election for members of the Assembly, and to give a mandate as to the way in which they shall be disposed of. Well, gentlemen, I have, as you hear, given considerable thought to the matter, and I freely admit that I cannot yet give an intelligent vote upon the problems. I want to know more, much more, about pooling, financing, marketing, distributing, and many other abstruse questions. How is it with you? Could you now vote with good judgement on free trade, co-operative marketing, or nationalization in regard to fish? Are we the only persons unqualified to exercise our franchise intelligently? If you think not, I venture to commend to you the proposal made by the United Fishermen, that a Commission of Inquiry should be appointed. I should like to hear Aaron Sapiro speak to you. I should like to hear President Coaker explain Nationalization to you. I hope you will invite both these gentlemen to speak before you. I should like to hear many discussions in this Board room this winter on those trade matters. You are the Parliament of Trade in this Colony. A great crisis calls upon you for deliberation and action. Mr. Coaker has announced "Nationalization" as the issue for the next general elections. Will it find you unprepared? Will it find the country ready? I warn you that the issue cannot be avoided, and that much depends upon you that it shall be disposed of by a well-informed electorate. You cannot stand still in this matter. "That man's the best Conservative who lops the mouldering branch away." If you do not help to devise a wise remedy, an unwise attempt will be forced upon you by a not unjustifiable if incoherent cry—"Time for a change," which will soon ring in your ears.

Rotary Club Luncheon.

THE Peace Conference was the subject of a most interesting address yesterday's weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club. The speaker was a gathering present, and included among the guests were Dr. Macpherson and Messrs. A. E. Harris, L. R. J. D. Henry, F. Gilmour, M. C. J. Ellis, F. R. Emerson, R. E. Evans, Rotarian Arthur C. M.G. president. The speaker was the Rt. Hon. Sir W.F. C. In his opening remarks he gave in the time at his disposal a brief outline of the work of the conference and the scope of its endeavours. He pointed out the phases that impressed themselves generally upon the minds of the multitude of subjects that were dealt with by the Conference of the past efforts that were made by the delegates who dealt with them. There were over a thousand persons in the British delegation in one large hotel in Paris at their disposal. There were eminent men in the staff of assistants. The speaker pointed out that impressed itself upon on Sir William, was the desire of the British delegation to meet the wishes of the Americans. This was apparent on many occasions throughout the Conference. Another point was, notwithstanding the many languages represented at the conference, there was little difficulty experienced as the representative addressed the gathering in his own language and his address was immediately repeated in French or English. This was the first occasion on which English was used as a diplomatic language, the Americans insisting on this being done. Interesting references were made to Clemenceau, Lloyd George, President Wilson, G. N. Branes, Lord Robert Cecil, General Smuts, Lord Sinha and other statesmen who attended the Conference. He also read extracts from the address of welcome of former President Poincare to the delegates of the Allied Conference and these showed that the French policy to-day is the same as it was then, namely that Germany must make reparation and that there must be a sufficient guarantee that there will be no repetition of her attack of 1914. England agrees with France on all points in the abstract, but she did not want to force payment of these reparations at the cost of the ruin of Germany and the crippling of trade. This was the crux of the present differences between England and France. At the conference Sir William was a member of the delegation of Great Britain as President Wilson had taken up the position that Newfoundland was too small to have separate representation. Weight tells at the conference board as elsewhere and they have the most weight who have the most money and men.

Sir William dealt briefly with the mandates given over German South Africa, the Southern Pacific and Palestine and Asia Minor, and spoke of the tremendous responsibilities which these mandates involved.

Villa Declines to Write His Memorials.

MEXICO CITY.—Pascho Villa, erstwhile bandit and now a gentleman farmer in the state of Durango, has declined to write his memoirs, although an American publishing company is said to have offered him $50,000 for the manuscript. Villa is reported to have told the publishers that he has no desire to perpetuate the story of his adventures, but rather prefers that his children, now small, hear of their father's exploits as a rancher and benefactor.

United Fishermen's Movement.

DELEGATES WILL CANVASS THE COUNTRY.

The subjoined message received from Mr. J. S. Hill, Secretary of the United Fishermen's Movement, indicates that the campaign for reduced expenditure and a corresponding reduction of taxation is to be pushed to the limit, it being the intention of the organization to appoint delegates to canvass the country in support of this object. The message reads:— WESLEYVILLE, Dec. 12. Arrived here Saturday. Find Advocate is already taking advantage of our departure, and is slandering Sir John Crobble and Mr. Morin. If this continues further trouble will follow. United Fishermen's movement stronger than ever. We are awaiting the arrival of our Chairman, Capt. Jesse Winsor, to hold another public meeting, when delegates will be chosen to canvass the country in the interests of the organization. J. S. HILL, Secretary.

TO MARTINSIDE PLANE.

Mr. Cotton left Botwood in the new Martinside which has been christened the "Silver Falcon" at 11.55 a.m. yesterday and arrived at St. John's at 1.55 p.m. the same day. Owing to the fact that Botwood was frozen over skids were fitted. The new machine having a different undercarriage from the previous machine, the flight was more of an experimental nature. Just before landing the shock absorber, holding the right skid in position, stretched so that the skid dropped and hung vertically below the machine unknown to the pilot. Mr. Cotton was flying over Quidi Vidi about five feet above the ice in order to decide on the best place for making a landing, and having selected his spot he throttled down when the right skid, still hanging vertically, hit the ice, and being situated under the centre of gravity tripped the machine so that it hit the ice on its nose and slid along, the skid hitting the starboard plane and doing a certain amount of damage. Neither Mr. Cotton nor his passenger, Mr. Corse was hurt, but both were very disappointed after having made such a successful flight. The flight was in fact a record one between St. John's and Botwood, the total flying time being one hour and forty minutes. This time could have been beaten if a straight course had been taken, but Mr. Cotton followed the railway and when nearing Placentia Bay went out of his course towards Bar Haven in order to get a long distance view of timber there. If Mr. Cotton had known the skid was out of position he could have got it back by slowing down or stalling. The wind pressure would then drop and the skid be pulled back to its normal position by its shock absorber elastic. The damage is not serious and the experiment will prove of great value as it will insure against similar occurrences in future. The "Silver Falcon" is a machine specially fitted out to the Aerial Survey Company's order. It has an enclosed passenger cabin to seat four passengers in comfort and is provided with a special heating apparatus. In addition to this it is equipped with special cloud flying instruments so that the machine can be navigated when flying through cloud banks or fog, and it also has a wireless telephone equipment enabling the pilot to speak to a ground station and also receive messages in the same way as one uses the ordinary telephone. This slight mishap will not make any difference to the Company's proposed operations this winter.

Musical at Star Hall.

PROCEEDS FOR DR. GREENE'S NIGHT SCHOOL.

A grand musicale in aid of the night school for the poor boys of the city takes place to-night in the Star of the Sea Hall, under the auspices of the Star Ladies' Auxiliary. A number of leading artists are taking part and there will be selections by the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy orchestra, and a violin solo by Miss Major of the Star movie. The night school, which is conducted by Rev. Dr. Greene, opens shortly, and will be continued throughout the winter, affording an opportunity for those who through adverse circumstances have been unable to avail of the regular educational facilities to equip themselves for life's battles. The admission fee includes an excellent tea served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and it is expected there will be a large attendance.

Masonic Dance.

POPULAR ORCHESTRA LEADER HONOURED.

The Grand Dance organized by the Masonic Entertainment Committee, and held in the Temple last evening was the most successful the Committee has yet held. The ballroom was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and its appearance was very favorably commented upon. The Masonic Orchestra which supplied the music was in excellent form and the programme proved very enjoyable. Eight dances were enjoyed thoroughly and then supper was served. The supper had been arranged by the Masonic Ladies Auxiliary and was delightful. The second dance after supper was an elimination contest which proved most interesting. Mr. Gower Soper and Miss Pearl Hiscock were the last couple on the floor and were awarded the prizes, which were presented to them by Mrs. T. Cook. The win was a popular one, as Miss Hiscock is an indefatigable worker in the Auxiliary. Following the presentation of the prizes, Mr. Ern Fox, leader of the orchestra, was called from the piano and the President of the Club, Mr. D. MacFarlane, in a happy speech, presented him with a silver Tea Service, as a wedding gift from his Masonic friends. Mr. Fox suitably replied, thanking his friends for their gift. Three hearty cheers for Mr. Fox were then given by the assembly. Dancing was then resumed and was continued till an early hour this morning when the gathering dispersed. The floor artists were especially looked after by Messrs. J. Wernell, H. T. Rendell and W. E. Pippy. Amongst the guests of the evening were Miss Vili Alardyce, daughter of His Excellency the Governor, Capt. P. F. Wilberforce-Bell, M.C., and Captain A. G. Stewart Goodfellow, of the Governor's staff.

LADY ALLARDYCE WILL OPEN SALE.

The Ladies' Aid and Young Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Church are holding a Christmas Fair in the Presbyterian Hall to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. Lady Allardyce has very kindly consented to declare the sale open. The preparations for the occasion are both elaborate and unique, while the stocks in the various stalls will consist of many articles best suited for the Christmas season. Much attention has been paid in this respect to the pantry stall, where a plentiful supply of jams, etc., will be found to meet the ready purchasers. During the evening a partridge supper will be served by the ladies of the Association.

Prospero Returns.

SHIP HAD STORMY ROUND TRIP.

After a very stormy round trip S.S. Prospero arrived in port yesterday at 5 p.m. from the Northward. The ship made all ports of call and the passage occupied 13 days. Capt. Field reports some of the harbors frozen over, and at St. Anthony the ship had to butt her way to the pier. The Prospero brought a part freight, mostly fish and oil, and the following passengers:—Miss Pilgrim, G. Hander, J. Moore, A. Dawe, J. Pomeroy, L. Boyles, M. J. McDonald, J. and Mrs. Norris and five children, Miss M. Norris, Miss Harty, W. H. Reid, E. Reid, Capt. Blandford, W. Feller, R. Balle, W. Davies, J. O'Brien, P. and Mrs. Saecry, J. Muroell, F. Pearce, Miss White, J. and Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Young, G. Young, F. Clarke, G. Phillips, Mrs. Williams, W. House, A. Christian, F. J. Morris, H. Maidment, John Guppy, Mrs. Ash, Miss Courage, Miss Brothers, R. Ricks, R. Byrne, Mrs. Byrne, Miss Byrne, W. Lockyer and 10 second class. The ship will likely be sailing North again on Friday.

"The Bronze Goddess."

GREAT ATTRACTION AT CASINO THEATRE TO-NIGHT.

The Mae Edwards Company to-night present for the first appearance on any stage "The Bronze Goddess." Whether this is a mystery play—as the name would seem to imply—or not, persons are promised something universal in this bill. Last night "You're a Bigger Liar Than I Am" was repeated and added another leaf to the laurels of the Company, Gallagher and Shean did their turn to the great delight of the audience. They will be on the job again to-night, with some local verses. Patron would do well to request the weather man to improve on the brand he is at present handing out.

Two Men Seize a Castle.

Lindisfarne, or Holy Island, which lies off the coast of Northumberland, a mile or two from Bamborough point, and about seven miles from Berwick, was, during the rebellion of 1715, the scene of a very daring adventure. The castle was held by a sergeant, a corporal, and twelve men only, as it was not supposed that the rebels would think it worth their while to seize such a comparatively unimportant post. But Launcelot Errington, a young man of an ancient family, long distinguished for its loyalty to the Stuarts, resolved to seize it on behalf of the Pretender. He communicated his design to Mr. Foster, who commanded a division of the rebel forces, and was promised assistance. The master of several French privateers, then cruising about the coast, also agreed to cooperate. Launcelot, and his brother Mark, contrived to moor a small barque in the harbour, and the former made his appearance at the castle, and invited the sergeant and his men on board ship, to troll a song, and empty a bowl or two of foreign liquor. The sergeant and his men, apprehending no danger, followed Errington on board, and drank the greatest possible number of bumpers of genuine Bordeaux brandy, until they were incapable of speech or motion. The brothers then hastened on shore gained the castle, knocked down the solitary sentinel, turned out an old gunner, closed the gates, and merrily hoisted the Pretender's colours. So far their daring enterprise had been crowned with complete success; and had Mr. Foster or the French privateers kept their promises, the castle might have been held by the rebels with little difficulty. But no reinforcements arrived. A detachment of the Royal troops, however, soon made their appearance, and the gallant brothers were compelled to retreat over the castle walls, hoping to find concealment in the caves until high water, when they intended to swim to the mainland. But the tide rising while it was yet daylight, they were obliged to make off from the rocks; they were discovered by the sentries, fired at, and Launcelot was wounded in the leg. His companion would not leave him so both were captured, and despatched to Berwick Gaol. There Launcelot was forced to remain until his wound was healed.

They dug a passage from their cell, under the prison wall, depositing the earth they had removed in an old oven, to which they had gained access. Through this passage on the dark night of December 13, 1715, they made their escape, and found their way to the Tweed side. The Custom House boat was moored to the bank, and they rowed themselves across the stream in safety. The fugitives now hastened to the vicinity of Bamborough Castle, and there, in a pea-stack, concealed themselves for nine days, subsisting on provisions furnished to them by a relation, who was one of the Royalist garrison. At last they reached Sunderland, where they obtained a passage on board a vessel bound for France.

MUTT AND JEFF

MUTT GETS INSIDE DOPE ON THE LION TAMERS' PASSWORD.

—By Bud Fisher

Just Folks

It's all very well to have common skill. And it's fine to be counted a team. But the single deed with its thrill. Doesn't tell us the man you are. For there's no lone hand in the play. We must work to a bigger goal. And the thing that counts in the end. Is how do you pull with the team. They may sound your praise and call you a great. They may send you out for a mate. Or never you'll win the game. For never the work of life is done. By a man with a selfish dream. For the battle is lost or the won. By the spirit of the team. It is all very well to fight for the cause. And what you do for the good. And what you do for the good. Combs more than the flash of the grind. Where the stars but faintly glow. And it's leaving all thought of the hind. That fashions a winning team. You may think it fine to be praised. But a greater thing to do. Is to set your mind and set your feet. On the goal that's just in view. It's helping your fellow man. When his chances hopeless are. It's forgetting self till the team. Or And fighting for the team.

DeValera Anathema

(Catholic Register). (Was there ever more wanting stupid, criminal and profane instruction than DeValera and his followers are inflicting on Ireland. Ireland won't have them, the land shall be ruined. If the condemn them then the country be made to suffer. If the Irish republicans then, then the Irish shall be impoverished and beg and shall not rule in their own land. This is the programme of the patriotism put forward by the American (his father came from Umbria) who hopes to make a part of Villa. This is the campaign disclosed by General Cahy from captured rebel documents. The roads are to be blocked, cut, railway bridges and stations destroyed, trains wrecked and communication and transportation ruptured. In this way by the nation, by closing fair markets and preventing the ordinary intercourse. DeValera to reduce the country to starve the people into submission. A pretty patriot he. Too Much Change Scared

Hermann Meyer, a German was confined in 1912 to an asylum at Metz in the Sarre. He was released last week, leaving the asylum to custom kept during the period of confinement were returned to him. They were found to be in perfect order. Meyer, who knew nothing of war, and nothing of what happened to Germany, was very happy. Proceeding to the hall he took a long pull, then he laid down a newspaper. The waiter handed him a note, more than Hermann had seen in his life. "I am still," said Hermann. Getting up he went to the inside asylum and the doctors to admit him again.

Killed Instantly

WHEN HIT BY RUNNING COAL BOX
JAMES HIBBS, EMPLOYED AS LANDING TENDER, LOST HIS LIFE.

(Sydney Post.)
GLACE BAY, Dec. 9.—The second fatal accident to take place at Dominion No. 2 mine within two weeks occurred yesterday afternoon when James Hibbs, employed as a landing tender lost his life.
The accident happened around three o'clock just as the mine was through for the day and as far as can be learned, the unfortunate man was on his way up the deep when he was struck by a fall box of coal. The accident happened in No. 2 South Deep. The deceased, who has been employed in No. 2 mine for the past few years was regarded by officials of the mine as a very careful employee, and his death coming as it did, will be a great shock to his parents and fellow employees.
The deceased who is a native of Newfoundland came to Cape Breton about ten years ago with his parents and has resided at New Aberdeen since that time. He was 25 years of age and unmarried. Besides his parents, he leaves to mourn his loss several brothers and sisters. Mrs. Leander Pooler of New Aberdeen, is a sister.

Plain Facts Told Plainly.

After a man passes the fortieth milestone in the journey of life comes the temptation to "rest on his oars," and particularly so if he has been successful. That is one of the dangers of middle age. Most of us are willing to "work like dogs" through the twenties and thirties in the hope that when the bell of time gives forty strokes we can lie back on the cushions and watch the clouds roll by.
Better watch a few clouds roll by before forty comes, and be prepared to keep up steam after you have arrived at the mile-post. If you are hugging the delusion that you can win the fight before you reach forty, break away. To be sure some of your best work must be done in that period, but after you have turned forty, there is still much good work and the results ahead—if you don't begin to rust out.

All around me I can see young men who are looking forward to that time when the oars will rest quietly in the waters of life's rippling stream. What a mistake! When they reach forty they will be at their best if they only take the right view of things. Sure, they may be so entrenched in their business position that their business future is settled as much as the future can be considered settled or certain. But are there not other things in life? Is a man's business the whole of his life, and is money his sole aim? Stop and consider.

Here is a young man of twenty just starting out in life. Is his life to be so divided that the first twenty years are to be fierce and restless activity, the next ten years a slow-down, and the next period, if he lives, a period of rusting out? That is the philosophy most men travel on. You can hear it all around you in these words: "For the next ten or fifteen years, I will bend every energy to accumulating money. Then I will take things easy."

If you are wise in the use of time your best work will come after you are forty. It may be along different lines than you have worked in the thirties. Your accumulated experience will open up newer and brighter fields of activity, those fields from which we glean even more satisfaction than from our triumphs in business. Do not fool yourself into thinking that you will find satisfaction in idleness, if that is your idea of pleasure. Many a man who has slaved until forty and then started out to "see the world" has returned to the old hearthstone dissatisfied. Make your resolution now, that when the death call comes, it will find you at work at something. Never let the rust gather. Take some of your pleasures as you go along. Take some to-day. Make each day complete in itself, for you know not what tomorrow will bring forth. You are given the present to do with as you will. The tomorrow is not yours. Be certain. Yes, work. But do not postpone all day so far into the future. Do not deprive that future of what may be your best work. Live an even life.—Elli in Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin.

Curzon Finds Ray of Hope in Europe.

LONDON—While the recent address of Lord Curzon, Secretary for foreign affairs, to an audience of business men in the City, dealt in large measure with the actual political situation of the Near East, the speaker also expressed some interesting ideas as to conditions on the Continent. He does not believe that the future outlook of economic Europe is one of unrelieved gloom. "I see the little nations of Europe pushing forward to a greater life of international unity during the next few years," said Lord Curzon. "In the states of Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Rumania, Poland and Finland, and in the Baltic States, I see symptoms of life and energy, and the growth of a strong sense of national independence and power. But on the other hand if I look at the great powers, whether they emerged triumphant from the war or whether they were broken up by the disasters that ensued, I find that they are in a position of much greater dislocation and disturbance. Take our own country. Our financial position is much stronger, with the exception of America, than any other State that took part in the war. But at the same time we have a burden upon every man in this country."

FRANCE WEIGHED DOWN.
"France is weighted with a heavy debt and is sore about reparations. Germany is in a position of political instability and is debilitated by the utter collapse of her exchange. Russia is still outside the comity of nations, because she cannot make up her mind to accept the conditions which render admission to that comity possible and desirable. She is still enamoured of communism, and persists in pursuing her communistic propaganda in every part of the world. Austria was saved only by the interception of the powers when on the verge of perishing. Italy has been concerned with more than one coalition and change of Government. What an ambition it would be for the statesmen of the great powers to combine and survey this situation; to liquidate it section by section; gradually to take the various pieces of the jig-saw puzzle which are lying about and fit them in their own places, and once more present a picture of a peaceful and united Europe."

Submersible Battleship the Latest of the day. All Dr. Parkes is able to say about the craft is that it embodies the lessons of the war and is of very considerable dimensions. This description has given rise to the inference here that the submarine may be a near approach to the "submersible battleship" which the late Lord Fisher prophesied would be the ultimate development of underwater war craft.
