ABOARD FOR BLAKE

Wild Scene in the Lenox Lyceum Last Night.

NEW YORK IRISHMEN GROW VIOLENT

Police Guarded the Doors of the Hall.

Sympathizers With Farrell Denounce the Canadian-Irish Statesman and Try to Disrupt the Meeting Which He Was to Address—Gained Access and Created a Wild Scene of Confusion—A Bomb Discovered From the Hall After the Meeting by a New York Police.

New York, Oct. 17.—Edward Blake, who was formerly of the Opposition to the late Sir John Macdonald, and who some years ago went to Ireland and was elected to Parliament from an Irish borough, was given an enthusiastic reception in Lenox Lyceum to-night. As things look now, his visit will be productive of the hottest fight among Irishmen that has been known in years.

Tried to Break Up the Meeting. An attempt, apparently well organized, was made to break up the meeting to-night, which, under the auspices of the Irish National Federation of America, was being held at the Lenox Lyceum. Several hundred men attempted to gain admittance to the hall, but nearly all were stopped at the doors. There had been reports that that trouble might be expected and 20 policemen were stationed at the entrance of the doors and about the interior. The persons who took seats on regular tickets numbered probably 500. Three men, who tried to disturb the speaker by shouting, were ejected. One man had gained access to a box by paying $1 for a platform ticket. He remained quiet till shortly before 10 o'clock, when he stood up and began to speak. He was immediately arrested after he went from the box a thin line of smoke was seen coming from a point where the man had been sitting. People in the immediate vicinity were ordered to get up and the smoke suddenly thickened to a dense column, and there was a stampede for the door. Mr. Blake, who was speaking at the time, remained perfectly cool. Raising his arm toward the people who were running he said, "Don't be afraid, it's only a little smoke and won't hurt you."

Found a Bomb. Some one cried "Dynamite" and three policemen rushed over to the box, which was situated in the southeast corner of the auditorium. The policemen found an ordinary revolver, which had been filled with powder and had burst open. It had apparently been brought in by an old man who had been brought in by the hall-keeper. The bomb was a blue-colored patchbox affair. The men who were arrested were taken to the station. The names of some of these were Robert Grant, T. J. Kelly, John J. Moran, Chris McCabe and John Moran. They denied having attempted to gain admittance to the hall.

Fears of Violence. It was feared that violence might be done to Mr. Blake. He had been invited to the committee when they left the building, but sufficient police protection was not given. However, to prevent any demonstration. The several gangs of men did not appear until Mr. Blake was safe on his way to the residence of Dr. Thomas Ad. Emmet.

Kind Words for Mr. Blake. The meeting had been called to tender a reception to Mr. Blake and to raise funds for the Irish National Federation of America. Mr. John Walsh, chairman of the City Council of the Irish Federation of America, was the president of the evening. In doing so he stated that Mayor Gilroy had accepted an invitation to receive Mr. Blake, but at the last moment had declined for the reason that he was called away from the city. Mr. Walsh paid a high tribute to Mr. Blake, speaking of him as one who had made great sacrifices for the Irish National cause, and whose commission commends itself to everyone who had the good of the Irish people at heart.

Mr. Blake was Ambassador. Mr. Blake had been invited to the meeting by the Irish National Federation of America. He came to the United States as a begging ambassador to replenish the depleted funds of the Irish people in Ireland. Don't Want Mr. Blake. Justice Wabshaw's man said to-day to a reporter that this circular was as good a representation of his position as could be made. "We do all we can to help Irishmen on the other side with money and influence, but we want nothing to do with Mr. Blake."

FOR FIFTY YEARS A THIEF

An Aged Kleptomaniac Who Operated Successfully in Toronto Arrested and Convicted in Rochester.

On the evening of Saturday, July 30, an aged woman entered the millinery store of Mrs. Burnell, 440 Yonge-street, and asked to be shown a bonnet. Before making a purchase, however, she hurriedly left the store, feigning indignation at the discourtesy with which she claimed to have been treated. Mrs. Burnell quickly missed her purse, and sent a police officer in pursuit. The old lady being caught, Edward and Terence, who were taken to the police station, she gave her name as Margaret Brown, aged 78. Although the police suspected her of being a professional crook, they could prove nothing, and she was discharged when brought before the court.

Yesterday the old lady, giving the name of Margaret Hutchinson, was put on trial in Rochester, N.Y., for stealing two purses, one containing $25 and the other $25.40. She was tried for the theft of the smaller sum first and was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $500 or serve 500 days additional. At the expiration of this term she will be called upon to answer for the charge of grand larceny for stealing the purse containing the larger amount of money.

The suspicious of the Toronto police that the woman had an intimate knowledge of crime's crooked ways, confirmed yesterday, when Chief Hayden of Rochester found in his collection of pictures of the innocent-looking old woman, who will probably spend the rest of her life behind prison bars, Hutchinson, it seems, is only one of her aliases and she is better known as Margaret Brown, alias "Old Mother Hubbard."

Nearly Killed at Joliet, Ill. Her record is as follows: Margaret Brown has been a thief for 50 years. She makes a specialty of opening handbags, and after removing the pocketbook closing them against the wall in Chicago and sentenced to three years in Joliet Prison, where, in an attempt to escape, she fell and was nearly killed. She was discharged from Joliet in 1878, and after that operated in St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities.

From Boston she was sent in March, 1888, to the House of Correction for six months for stealing a handbag, which was found on her person.

Six months after being released she was arrested in New York city for stealing a pocket book, and was given three months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

On the expiration of this sentence, on July 2, 1894, she was arrested again on a requisition from Boston, charged with the larceny of a satchel containing $200 in money from a store. She was taken to Boston and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction in the latter part of July. She was subsequently transferred to Deer Island on account of her old age and infirmities.

Besides the numerous convictions, she has many times been charged with offenses of this character, but through lack of evidence has escaped conviction.

INTERESTING TO ENGINEERS. An instructive paper on the principle of the steam injector, by Octave has a report of the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association in Montreal, including a paper on the subject of accumulators, and one on the subject of electrolysis by J. A. Hay, Esq., one of an account and illustration of the recent boiler explosion at Three Rivers, and a large number of miscellaneous notes on mechanical matters. John P. McKenna, Bookseller and Newsdealer, 30 Yonge-street, is the sole distributor in Toronto of the sale of the publication.

The Crown Importing Co., 13 Front-street East. importers of high-grade liquors. Our specialty the celebrated 15 years old "Four Crown Brand" Whisky as supplied to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and H.R.H. Prince Bismarck of Germany. 240

What the President Says. New York, Oct. 17.—President F. C. Weitz of the Adams Express Company to-day confirmed the reports that two men had been arrested, who were undoubtedly concerned in the recent train robbery on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad at Cherry Run, Va. He added that the robbers had taken less than $20,000 in cash, as it had been learned that several packages supposed to contain easily negotiable securities and cash contained in ready drafts with bills of lading attached, which can be stopped, and after a little delay, the company has over 30 detectives engaged on the case.

As a natural investigator of digestion Adams' Tonic is recommended by the medical faculty. John Adams, Bricklayer, is Wanted. Joseph George Elway, a seaman on Her Majesty's ship Blake, now at Halifax, has been arrested by the authorities in locating his uncle, John Adams, bricklayer, who was born at Trent, Somerset, England, and came to Canada a number of years since. Two sisters of Adams are still living, one of them being Mrs. Elway, whose maiden name was Sarah Adams. News from Adams was being sought in Ontario and is now thought to be in Toronto.

The famous Lutesman sextette in past songs at Massey Hall to-night. Toronto. Oct. 17.—Rev. Mr. Dinick of Toronto, who was a student at Albert College, died last night. He was 32 years old.

Hippolyte is a Scrapper. Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 17.—Advice from Port au Prince, Haiti, say President Hippolyte and his Minister of War, General Deshayes, are still in the Palace the other day. The Minister of War was badly whipped.

For mental fatigue and indigestion use Adams' Tonic. Beware of worthless imitations. Take your visitors and friends to see the beautiful Cybarams of Jerusalem on the Day of the Crucifixion, Grand Front and York; open daily 3 a.m. to 7 p.m. Admission 25 cents.

To insure sound digestion use Adams' Tonic. Drink "Sprudel" mineral water if you want to keep in perfect health. Every bottle is put up fresh at the spring.

SHOT DOWN BY THE TROOPS

MANY KILLED IN A RIOT AT COLUMBUS, O.

A Mob of Fifteen Hundred People Attacked the Jail to Lynch a Colored Friend and Was Met by the Militia—Driven Back by a Deadly Volley and Several Persons Killed.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Three persons were killed, half a dozen fatally wounded and scores more or less injured in a riot at the Court House to-night. A mob of 1500 tried to break open the jail in order to lynch a colored friend and the militia opened a deadly fire.

In the Criminal Court at Washington Court House to-day, Jasper Dolby, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Mary C. Bird, a week ago confessed the crime and was sentenced to the penitentiary for 30 years.

An attempt to lynch the prisoner had been feared since last night and the Court House and jail, which form parts of one building, were surrounded with militia. As darkness came on a mob of 1500 people surrounded the building, yelling, "Lynch him," "lynch him."

The beginning of the trouble. Finally some one threw a stone which struck a soldier in the breast. Then Col. Coit of this city whose anger was aroused, addressed the people. He told them not to repeat the offence.

"If you want to injure any one," said he, "hit me and not these young men," and with hat uplifted he walked into the crowd. The crowd gathered around him, making an attempt to batter down the door at the north entrance.

The mob came again. As the darkness increased, the crowd surged closer and closer to the court house steps. Col. Coit addressed them again, but they would not listen to him. He shouted that he would have to order the soldiers to fire if they did not fall back, but on they came, and finally the order to fire was given.

Many were seen to fall, and they mob fled like a lot of frightened sheep. The following were killed: Smith Welch, 18 years old; Jesse Juty and Mack Johnson. Four men were fatally wounded. Scores were more or less injured and were carried away by their friends. Of these a number are still in the hospital.

The crowd secured a battering ram and began to beat down the doors. One was shot while firing the soldiers until the door fell in. The troops then fired the volley which resulted so fatally. The remainder of the Legislature and the city at the south entrance, and unmindful that a portion of the crowd was making an attempt to batter down the door at the north entrance.

Disregarding His Brother's Advice a Lad Walks in Front of a Mail Train.

Gravenhurst, Ont., Oct. 17.—A boy about 10 years of age named Tommy Day, son of Fred Day, an employe of the Hamilton Company here, while in older, attempted to cross the railroad in front of the incoming mail train to-day. Although the brother tried to prevent him he still persisted and was struck in the head by the engine and fatally injured.

A WONDERFUL BOAT. A Baltimore Inventor Thinks He Has a Submarine Wonder.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 17.—A Baltimore inventor, Simon Lake, after years of study and experiment, has invented a submarine boat, which he describes as follows: The boat is capable of being submerged, or raised to the surface, at will of the operator. It is capable of being propelled on the surface, or when submerged, or when on the bottom of the water, as required. Many of the operations in raising vessels and moving cargoes can be performed from it without going outside of it. The boat can be easily in a storm as in calm. The vessel will prove invaluable in laying foundations for piers, bridges, docks, and locks, and in the construction of canals. It will also be of use in removing obstructions, such as rocks or shingle from entrances to harbors, all the drilling operations being accomplished by power in an ordinary atmosphere.

WILL END THE LORDS

Decisive Statement Made by Shaw-Lefevre, President of the Local Government Board.

London, Oct. 17.—Shaw-Lefevre, President of the Local Government Board, said in a Liberal meeting in Bradford this evening that the Government were determined to end the obstructive tactics of the Lords, who had ceased to be an independent part of the Legislature and had become merely a section of Tory caucus. The country might expect a statement on this subject from the Prime Minister in a few days.

THE TORONTO WORLD

NO. 85 YONGE STREET, TORONTO. A One Cent Morning Paper. SUBSCRIPTIONS. Daily (without Sundays) by the year $3 00

WHOLESALE NEWSDEALERS. P. W. Beebe, 231 Spadina-avenue.

CANADA WILL HAVE NONE OF THEM. General Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, makes the statement that the English Board of Guardians are in the habit of paying him £15 for every pauper he takes off their hands.

THE BICYCLE NUISANCE. If the council attempts to frame definite rules for the regulation of bicycles in the streets it will experience the same difficulty as has been met with in our endeavor to regulate the speed of the electric cars.

BOARD OF TRADE MATTERS. General Meeting of the Board to Be Held at the Board Rooms.

EGGS AND POULTRY. A valuable report has just been issued by Mr. Gilbert, head of the Poultry Department of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa.

ALL WRONG. "Why, Jennie, you've been crying."

IRREALISTIC. Book-cannibals should take courage from a story told by an English lecturer on "The Art of Book-binding."

NO DANGER. Patient—Aren't you making the medicine too strong for my stomach, doctor?

A BARGAIN. The shopper—"I'd like to buy that lovely lampshade, but I can't afford to."

A USELESS CLASS. "I understand," said the detective, "that you had a clue to the whereabouts of Crookes, the famous criminal."

IT IS A THOUGHTFUL ARTICLE in the October North American Review Lady Henry Somerset uses the argument in favor of woman suffrage that the manifold inventions of late times have gone far to relieve women of tasks and drudgeries that in earlier days gave her constant and necessary household occupation.

Domestic economy once altogether, a monopoly in her skilful and ingenious hands. Having thus been partially displaced in the earlier realm of domesticity, Lady Somerset insists that woman should bear her part in "the wider home which has now spread outside the house, which we call society and government, and take her place with man in framing laws that affect the well-being of those who formerly worked within her kingdom, but who now dwell outside in the larger family circle we call a nation."

The argument with which Lady Somerset combats the idea that if women vote they should also shoulder their share and fight is very keen. She hints that the original reason why women were not required to fight did not grow out of physical disability, but because the mothers are the makers of men, and unless they were preserved the fighting tribes could not have survived. Besides, she argues, women have a greater role than that of fighting. They are the fountain of the race, at which it renews its life, perpetuates its hopes, and conserves the results of victories already gained; and I maintain that if service to the nation is to consist in a cheerful and unflinching service—that woman renders a greater service in far greater than the occasional facing of a Maxim gun or the remote contingency of a bursting shell. There is hardly a woman who is not called to some face to face with death; who does not go down into the mire of Gettysburg or suffering, and with the dew of eternity on her brow give to the world its sons and daughters; and in which she too often gives her life. It is a greater service to bear soldiers than to bear arms.

Again, she declares herself as follows: I believe that woman should vote because she is a different being and does the virgin soil of the prairie and from it to create agricultural products that can be converted into money in the markets of the world. The inmates of the English workhouses are not men and children; you ask her to nurture and care for them; you ask her to instill into their minds the boldest aspirations that are to be their guide in after life; you ask her, with all her experience, to make judgment, to look upon the world with its many social evils that render the mother's eyes weeps of awe, while you are blinded, and then you ask her to believe that it is "justice" that her voice should be allowed her action power to guard the interests of her girls, whom you declare that men, and men alone, must represent. You ask her to sit through long weary nights rocking the cradle, but when the child grows up to deal with those questions that make for the weal or woe of his future life. You do not deny that in many cases women maintain the home by their own labor, that by the sweat of their brow they are the breadwinners of the household; you ask her to represent the women when they are called upon to care a living for the children who are deprived of a father or a mother, or a wife, or a husband; but the Rubicon, where toll is merged into privilege and penalties are merged into reward, you say to the woman: "Stand back; thus far and no further!"

Wisdom and otherwise. Fogg—Poverty is a misfortune, not a crime. Figg—I don't know about that; at any rate poverty has been the cause of most poetry-writing. Fogg—You mean the writing of poetry has been the cause of most poverty.—Boston Transcript.

Tinn—Hallo, Tagg, what's that sign on your front door. "No admittance except on business?" Tagg—There have been so many young men calling my wife and their visits have been so fruitless that I have adopted this plan to reduce the surplus.—Tit-Bits.

Trotter—I say, old man, I met a very pleasant relative of yours in the mountains this year. He was very kind, too, and lent me ten dollars when I was particularly hard up. Faster (sadly)—I'm afraid you're mistaken, I haven't any such relations.—Harper's Bazar.

Genl—Where were you employed last? Man servant—At a writing master's. Genl—What were you required to do? Man—I had to keep a ledger of the bills when a new party wrote before commencing to take lessons.—Uk.

Young Tutter—Do you think your mother, Miss Clara, would let you go to the theatre with me without a chaperon? Miss Pinkery—Doubtful—I do not know, Mr. Tutter. She has often said she wouldn't let me go with any young gentleman I wasn't engaged to.—Life.

Stranger—Would you kindly show me the way to the carvings? Intelligent Native—That is not difficult to find. You just walk down that street yonder, and at the farther end of the street, the cathedral is exactly opposite.—Filling Blatter.

To a Seeress. "Arry, 'Arry Smith de Smith, As wheelsman you was win renown'd, You are the auisance of the town, You're wan an' you're awfully admired, You're faine to be desired, You wiril and whiak about the lands, With shoulders bowed, with lower lip pale, And dull eye hid in your lower eyelid, Love birds that sing and flowers that blow, Try not to be a mere machine, And let the record-keeper go!" —PUNCH.

Company. "Er—my dear, said the young husband, "it's just a little—ah—crowded with your mother living with us?" "I know it," answered the bride, "but poor Fido is so lonely without her." —Indianapolis Journal.

Some One Knows. He—If I've got that tunnel was so long I'd have kissed you. She—Gradus; didn't you? Somebody did.—The Great Divide.

An Era of Achievements. What is the use of trying to remember who is the latest horse or the fastest bicyclist if we are to have a new fastest one every morning?—Boston Globe.

An Assurance Item. Insurance Agent (to widow)—I will send you a check for the $5,000 insurance on your late husband. Widow—Ah, if my poor husband had only lived to see this day.

Shop Talk. "She's ready maid," remarked the landlord of the waiter girl. "You'd have thought so if you had seen her hand me down awhile ago," replied the prett drummer at the table.

A Collector. "I suppose while you were abroad, Tompkins, you made quite a collection of coins." "No. It was too expensive. The only thing I could afford to collect was hotel keys." —Harper's Bazar.

A Bargain. The shopper—"I'd like to buy that lovely lampshade, but I can't afford to." "No, you can't," said the salesman—"Well, madam, I'll make the price $3.99." The shopper—"Oh, how good of you; I'll take it." —Chicago Record.

Johnny's Opinion. "I'm going to marry your sister, Johnny, and I'm far away. What do you think of that?" "I guess I can stand it if you can." —Life.

Bedtime. A little girl's father had a round bald spot. Kissing him at bedtime not long ago, she said: "Sleep down, pony; you want to kiss the place where the lining shows." —Tit-Bits.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla effects a radical cure by cleansing and renovating the blood. 257

Magnificent Splendor.

One of the sights of the city will be to visit our store on Friday morning, the commencement of our Grand Fall Opening. One of the prettiest and most attractive displays of seasonal merchandise ever shown in the history of our establishment will be displayed in our magnificent show windows. You are cordially invited to call.

TO-MORROW, FRIDAY

We offer several hundred Black, Blue and Brown Beaver Overcoats at $9.99 that other dealers are now asking $12.00, and that we hold regularly at $13.00. These Overcoats are lined throughout with Tweed, double or single breasted, made up in excellent style, with or without velvet collar, swelled edges, and other first-class trimmings. We make this sacrifice for one day in order to introduce our men's department to numerous persons who have not previously purchased from us. This is a grand money-saving opportunity. You cannot afford to miss it.

We also offer specially for Friday our own manufacture Men's Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.99, $6.49, $7.50, $9.99, $10.99 and $12.95, all special prices and positively for Friday only.

It being the anniversary of our Friday Bargain Day, a great reduction will be made of from 50 to 60 per cent. off our regular prices. This is the grandest opportunity ever offered by us to the purchasing public of Toronto.

FROM THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A WOMAN'S LUNCH.

The Editor "Goes for" an Extended Contemporary and Also for a Free-Press Scribbler. NOTHER FAILURE—Ever since we established a private graveyard in connection with the Kicker and especially since we tried to open a public park, where our citizens can go to take the fresh air and read the epitaphs on the tombstones and ruminate on the past, our esteemed contemporary has thrust for our life. He has not only made several attempts to assassinate us by day and night, but has hired others to do the same thing. Further than that, he has skulked out on our page by night and torn down the fence and uprooted the vines which we were training to beautify the tombstones and add to the natural picturesqueness of the spot. The critic's jealousy and desire for revenge have been so apparent that he has been talking for months and months. We wish to be at peace with all mankind and more particularly with our fellow-craftsmen. For this reason, we have politely and studiously ignored the freaks of our esteemed and the present article is inserted more by sorrow than anger.

Up to a month ago our e.e., seeming not for an editor who holds a gun in both hands and shuts his eyes and opens his mouth when he pulls the trigger, then he bought an acre of sand lot west of town and gave out that he was going into business. Occasionally one will rush through an order of fried oysters and a half dozen pickles. The wonder is that they live through the second year. From the table time to swallow the several mouthfuls ordered, they hurry off to "sleep," and use 40 of the 60 minutes allowed for dinner in this way. Then back to the store to stand five hours in the high-heeled, uncomfortable shoes, their pitifully attended and waists tightly clasped in corset and bands, and their trembling little stomachs containing ice water and pie. And so it goes all the time naturally attending a working-woman's life, and it is surprising that their faces are harassed, nervous and bloodless? The young man can no better afford it—some kind quiet differently; meat of some kind forms a part of his lunch, and usually vegetables, and a glass of milk, all of which he masticates leisurely, and strolls back to the store, rested and refreshed. He is contented in a loose, comfortable suit of light weight flannel, the feet resting upon (not over) the soles of comfortable shoes, his circulation unimpeded, and his body well nourished. What wonder that he keeps his nerves well covered, that ill-temper finds not a home upon his face, and that we find him cheerily selling ribbons long after the girl with whom he knocked elbows as a cash boy is gone and forgotten.—Boston Traveller.

Arguments Against Woman's Suffrage. The arguments used by those who oppose woman's entrance to public life are in these days usually based on the line that woman is too sacred, her influence too pure and precious to be frittered away in the sordid quarrels and mean ambitions entailed by party politics; that her presence has ever been the magnet of the home, and that the nation will be wisest and best that preserves the sanctity of its womanhood, and the influence of its mothers. It is precisely because I believe in the truth of this argument that I maintain that to deprive woman from any one single right, to exclude her from any prerogative is to create for her not only a disability by reason of her sex, but to build a barrier that must ever effectually hinder her widest influence. It is well to talk of the mother guiding the son in life, but from the hour that the boy understands that his mother's prerogatives end at the garden gate, that she has no voice whatever in the moulding of the nation's laws, that her precepts are good for the fireside, but unavailing at the headquarters of government, there instinctively creeps into the boy's thought a realization of the fact that his mother is classified by the rules of the land, not by the logic and influence that is deemed so precious, and yet which is sedulously preserved for "home consumption only."—From "The Renaissance of Woman," by Lady Henry Somerset, in North American Review for October.

"A Guide Conscient." We hear much of the Scotchman's thrift, his caution, his perseverance, his dogged resolution, his faculty for pushing his way in the world, and undoubtingly these are strong representative constituents in his composition. But I think it may be ascertained without fear of challenge that the keystone of his mental structure and disposition is self-esteem. The Scot's primary form of self-esteem has been waggishly described as "Lorl, gie us a guid conceit o' ourselves, and the answer to the petition, when put up, is, it must be confessed, seldom denied. The thing may be hidden in reserve, overlaid by shyness, dignified under gravity of demeanor, but all the same it is there, a sort of inward conviction of that superiority in mundane affairs we have just noted.

You may soften it down by naming it self-possession or self-confidence, if you will, but draw a northern Briton into conversation in any rank of life below the gentle, and the strength of the sentiment will soon make itself apparent. The history of his country, his sanguinary and patriotic struggles against the hated southern in days of yore, his extraordinary success in every quarter of the globe, the roll of great statesmen, distinguished viceroys and proconsuls, soldiers, divines, literati, merchant princes, he is entitled to boast of—all these are so many bays in the garland of laurel he is ever ready to entwine round the national brow, to minister to his own self-satisfaction.—The Scottish Review.

Wellington and Waterloo. Not long before his death, 1897, Sir James South told me the following: "Lord Ashley, after visiting at Stratfieldsaye, dined with me at the observatory here; he alluded to conversations with the Duke—was the Duke of Wellington said the opposed generalists to be wrong, South especially. "But how was it, sir, you always had the better of them?" asked Lord Ashley. "Why, I blundered as well as they, but my men got me out of scrapes, theirs left them in," was the reply.—Notes and Queries.

Thirty Students Arrested. St. Petersburg, Oct. 17. A squad of police last night visited the Technological Institute here, and, proceeding to the dormitories, took into custody 30 of the students, who had retired. The charge on the arrests was that they were engaged in a nihilist conspiracy against the Government. The visit of the police was a complete surprise to the authorities of the institution, as well as to the students.

As the electric road is only six years old and scarcely anything has been done as yet toward the development of long distance railways by electricity, it may be considered a little early to venture any well defined predictions on the subject. The indications are, however, that within five years electricity will be the generally accepted power for elevated and underground roads, as well as for surface street car service; that in ten years numerous inter-urban roads from ten to thirty miles in length will be electrically equipped; that in twenty years some of the large railway systems enjoying the heaviest traffic will consider electric passenger service essential to their welfare; that, both for the convenience of the public and economy of operation, the tendency will be toward more frequent and smaller trains; that a maximum speed of 150 miles, and a schedule rate of 75 miles per hour will not be considered remarkable; and that within the life of the present generation we will see the present long train of coupled cars with their restricted space, poor ventilation and light, imperfect facilities for viewing the scenery, and annoyances from smoke and cinders, give way to a single car of liberal dimensions, shaped on scientific lines to cleave the air at high speeds with minimum resistance, equipped with noiseless electric motors, free from the disagreeable products of the steam locomotive furnace, designed to afford the passenger an unrestricted view in all directions, perfectly ventilated, lighted by electricity and capable of a speed that will cover the distance from New York to Chicago between sunset and business hours next morning.—Engineering Magazine.

HUNTING RUSSIAN WOLVES. An Exciting Sport, But Apt to Be Dangerous. Wolf hunting is probably the most dangerous sport there is. With a servant and a couple of fast horses attached to the sleigh, I have gone out and baited the ground for the brutes on numerous occasions. A fat boy tried to get a tree never failed to catch a pack. The trouble was that it drew too many. The wolves would gather to the number of 200 or 300 and devour the pig. Then we would dash upon the scene and the fun would commence. They are as fleet as deer. To say that they are as fleet as wolves would be more like it. They can outrun the horses every time, and if you are not picked off as fast as they come up you are sure to be devoured. Imagine yourself making a running fight with a head of a tiger. The wolf reaches your horse and you are dead, and you can possibly imagine what a nerve sport it is. It requires a cool head and a good eye. If you are not sure of your horse, your only chance of safety is in keeping your horse up. It is generally a long fight, but you will see the carcasses of the animals dotted along the snow for a mile or two in your tracks, and still they come on in numbers. Slowly the pack thins out. Many have dropped bleeding to the ground. Others have been killed by the crows. The more they fall the more timid the rest become. When you finally outdoze the horses, they are bound through the most trying ordeal that the most ardent sportsman could wish.

I consider wolf hunting the most dangerous sport there is. Tiger hunting in India is tame beside it. If you go into the jungles of India to shoot a tiger you are accompanied by a long retinue. You shoot your prey from the howdah of an elephant. If you miss your victim there are 20 bullets ready for him before he sprouts. A person might as well go tiger hunting in a menagerie. The most satisfactory part of the sport which wolves afford is that after you are all through you have a long drive home in your car. But it is great sport.—San Francisco Chronicle.
