ANOTHER SHAM TENDER.

VOL. II., NO. 79.

ALDERMAN BUSBY'S CLEBK WILL

Statement of Facts for the Consideration of the Public—The City Gains by Taking the Lewest Tender—And so Does the Aldreas from Victoris Ward.

Mr. J. W. V. Lawlor is to the from

Mr. Lawlor is a clerk in the office o Alderman W. L. Busby, who was elected to represent Victoria ward in the common

The alderman appears to be there to represent himself, and to make money out of contracts with the city in defiance of the law. He is not the only alderman who does this, but his underhand way of doing it is more objectionable than that adopted by any of his colleagues.

The other day, when Progress pointed out that he had contracted in the name of Mr. Lawlor to supply coal to the Depart-ment of Public Satety, of which he is a per, it was thought he would not have the effrontery to do such a thing the second time. This thought did him a great injus-tice. He is again a tenderer, with as much assurance as though his system of sham tenders had not been exposed. And for the second time his tender is the successful

The ferry committee is composed of Aldermen Stackhouse, Busby, McCarthy, Barnes, Jack, I. E. Smith, McGoldrick, Kelly and Baskin. These gentlemen re-cently advertised for tenders for coal.

They met last Tuesday, when the tenders were opened. Alderman Busby was pres-There were several offers, and that of J. W. V. Lawlor was found to be a few cents lower than that of a well known reg-ular dealer. Alderman Busby and his colleagues thereupon awarded Alderman Busby the contract in the name of Mr.

One of the committee, who asked where Mr. Lawlor's place of business was, was met with an evasive answer, and there was a laugh at what was considered a good joke, despite of the fact that it is beginning to get a little old.

The members of the committee knew that they were giving the contract to Alderman Busby. They justified themselves by saying that they always vote for the lowest

This was not the principle adopted by other aldermen when they passed over Timothy Cusack's lowest tender for street cleaning, etc., and accepted the much higher

As a matter of fact a committee is not bound to accept the lowest or any tender. In the case of Cusack they passed over the lowest because they alleged, though untruly, that Connell had better facilities for ng the work. In the case of the coal tenders they might have inquired if Mr. Lawlor is known as a coal merchant and if

They probably thought there was no need for making this inquiry. They knew they were giving the control to one of their humber, who was present at the time.

The city is a gainer by the award to the extent of $10 or so, and Alderman Busby is the gainer to an extent considerably

The electors of Victoria ward should be proud of their representative.

A lady well-known in St. John society called at the office of a leading dentist, last Saturday, to speak to him unprofessionally. The dentist's boy answered the bell. It was about dusk and the business-like attendant failed to recognize the visitor, though he thought he did. "The doctor's out," he said, "but he wants you to leave your teeth with me, so he can work at them over Sunday." "Thank you," replied the lady, "but mine do not come out easily

The World Uniform Collecting agency of Toronto is now classed among the "skin" and, besides, I shall want to use them on last few years. The system was described having it generally known that Sunday is not excepted from his days of labor.

Then a manager was elected, who tried to see what could be done. He found that the business would not suit him; that it would not suit any man who cared aught for his respectability in the place. He found accounts, outlawed and bad accounts of every kind flooding his desk, and having no desire to send a walking bad debt sign after a man, resigned the position. The Toronto managers were then Thurston, Thorley & Co., but since details in regard to the management under a commission, please address Jacob Sniffem." then that firm is dissolved and the collecting agency is being carried along by J. C. Wilson & Co., who will give the St. John subscribers no satisfaction about the $10 they paid to their agent. Experience is sually expensive, but such experience as this is not useful. What the St. John subscribers should do is to unite and demand that their money be returned to them.

Mr. Braden rises to explain.
My book, The Problems of Problems, was published in Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S., by Chase & Hall, in 1876. The publishers cent copies to papers and certain persons.
Most of the letters and press notices of the book were sent to the publishers, who got book were sent to the publishers, who got up a pamphlet containing selections from such notices. I never saw the pamphlet, and knew nothing of it, till a copy was sent to me. Some of the notices of the book I saw; but most of them I never saw. missioners. > As this is what is assailed, the attack is on the publishers, and not on me. But it so happens that some of the men who deny commending the book sent their commendations to Mrs. Braden, who preserved their letters. The publishers will be heard from in due time. The original letters will be published. That will settle all dispute. Such is the explanation.

The land where the tents are pitched is rough and boggy, part of it a swamp, in fact. The parade ground is not large enough for the purpose. The water used in the past by the men, some of them at least, has been entirely unfit for use. There seems good reason to believe that half a dozen lives have paid the penalty of its use, while many more have been endangered. •

Is there any good water on the grounds? There any good water on the good.

There is, but the supply is small and inconveniently located. It cannot be named in connection with the fine stream of run-remedy For there would be no election day. The votes could be deposited at any time, up to a certain date, and counted each day or week by a committee sworn to secrecy. From time to time the names only of those who had voted would be posted in conspicaous places, and thus personation would be impossible. There would be thirty days allowed for corrections, after the close of the voting.

Some of the men say that the popular commandant and his staff are passionately fond of the bathing at St. Andrews. That they dearly love their early morning dip into the briny surges of the bay. That but to this St. Andrews would never be chosen as the place for the camp at all. The men if they bathe at all use the swamps. Cleanliness is next to godliness, and no doubt if one's martial ardor needs toning they dearly love their early morning dip into the briny surges of the bay. HOW WOMEN SHOULD DEAL WITH CERTAIN OFFENDERS.

Jome Plain Words on the Subject of Social Purity—The Existing Organizations Fall to Grapple With the Recognized Evils— Woman's True Sphere,

A short article has appeared in a city paper, under the heading of "Social Purity," signed "White Ribbon," in which the case of Robert Ray Hamilton is taken as a text for a number of hysterical questions and exclanations, closing with a plea for the formation of a White Cross society in St. John, the questions being propounded by "an active worker in the social purity movement" in New York, and quoted by the writer of the communication.

The writer is evidently as sincere in the desire for reform as in the belief of need of reformation. The latter is unquestion able; but it seems somewhat ironical (to use no harsher term) that God is called upon so often to pity the victims of man's lust, while their own sex deny them even sympathy or protection; and it is extreme ly doubtful if the men, speaking generally, will be brought to a due sense of their obligation in this regard, while they receive

The needs of a large and growing family have debarred the writer from active participation in any of the current "n ments"; but the formation of circles of "The King's Daughters," and guilds, and W. C. T. U's, have not been without interest to him, and have suggested trains of thought in relation to each that would no doubt find responsive appreciation from many similarly situated; but they might prove too discursive for your columns, and theretore the present communication will be limited to a consideration of those aspects of the question within the domain of common sense, and it is to be hoped not too repugnant to the ostentatious parade more or less characteristic of the modern female

The first proposition advanced is, that fully one-half of the wrecked lives of both sexes is due to the culpable neglect. by ostensibly Christian mothers, of a plain and imperative duty.

Second, that the difference in treatmen accorded by women to erring ones of their own sex, and their betrayers is directly responsible for the present status of social

Third, that in England and America the ruling power in matters social is woman. Her sevay is as unquestioned as it is unquestionable and with her rests the entire solution of the problem. It lies in her power, without the formation of a single "guild" or "circle" to effect a complete reform among all men who realize their duty to themselves and to society.

Fourth, that in the effort for this reform

they are entirely untrammelled and un-restricted, except by social customs which they themselves have inaugurated and keep

With regard to the first-the culpable neglect of duty by mothers-attention may be called to the large number of immature young girls who promenade the streets at night. They are of all classes, and hundreds of them appear to be habitues of the pavement. They are nearly all well dressed evidently in the enjoyment of comfortable homes. How is this conducive to true conceptions of womanhood? Will the attractions or the restrictions of any guild or circle compensate for the influences of the home, be it ever so humble? Many of these young women are regular attendants at churches and Sunday schools, the mothers of many are active in church and W. C. T. U. circles. and it is evident that the excitement and stimulus to be found in these daily recurring events is preferable to the plainer and more exacting duties at home. The effect is reactionary, and revolutionary; it has transferred the centre of attraction from the home circle to the church parlor, the social, and the guild. It has diffused the sentiment of reform; but, like morcurlow water, it lacks the force to give it vitality.

As to the second, it has become a by word. For those of their own sex-regardless altogether of whatever palliation there may be for their downfall-women, as a rule, have little but censure. For the more culpable male transgressor, much depends upon his circumstances and social position If sent to Coventry for a time, his probation, is neither very long, nor the restrictions very exacting; and there are few social gatherings at which he may not pre sent himself, provided he wears good clothes, and boasts of a bank account. Here, again, the mothers of the community hold the key to the remedy of one phase, at least, of this complex question. This naturally leads to the consideration of the third proposition. It is a fair sup-position that about nine-tenths of the families constituting the comunity are professes christians. We should not be far out of the way in estimating that three-forths of this number are more or less regular attendants at churches. This being admitted, how could the vice under discussion assume more than trifling proportions if the mothers of these families should say to every profligate, "You cannot enter It requires moral courage to do it; and while perhaps not quite so conspicious as membership in a "White Cross Society," it would be found far more effica-

Take the case of a young man addicter to drinking and kindred vices. Remon strance and exhortation amount to nothing He pursues the even tenor of his way, regardless alike of tears and prayers. Suppose at the outset he was met with the result? In the vast majority of cases, his choice would lie with propriety and chasti-ty, with benefit alike to himself and community; but while licentiousness and in ebriety prove no bar to his recognition socially, there is but little incentive for him to make a change, apart from his own ideals of manhood. A little episode recently brought to light gives point to this statement. While church and civic dignitaries may descend to all sorts of chicanery and fraud without incurring social con-demnation, the youthful disciple of Bacchus may well be complaisant.

In conclusion, why do not those who make their desire for reform most con-spicuous apply their energy in this direction? As stated above, they would find themselves untrammelled and unrestricted, except by shackles of their own creation. The plea is made for women to reform abuses in the state, while those very abuses spring from causes which they should control in the home and social circle. I fancy the vote manufactures care very little for newspaper comment and exposure; but it would be an everlastingly cold day for them if their names were erased from the visiting lists of a few independent recognized social leaders. This is where women hold the lever that rules the world; but, unfortunately, the use of it requires true womanhood, true heroism, true patriotism, and these be small things compared with the delights of the W. C. T. U., the White Cross society, the Guild, and last, but not least, "Women's Rights." IRENE.

Then they sent out specimens of the lung to other members of the profession, as people under more cheerful circumstances send out wedding cake, and the recipients of the attention—and the lung—were highly flattered and responded that they were "good specimens of red," etc., and every-thing was satisfactory.

So forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and Moncton court of Foresters, Dr. O. J. McCully was called in. He pronounced the malady to be typhoid fever. During the second week of his illness, complications set in which seemed to indicate inflammation of the lungs. Dr. R. G. ANOTHER SHAM TENDER.

Whatever may be said of the duty of a ommittee in dealing with a sham tender, there can be no excuse for an alderman who is a party to such a tender.

Alderman Busby may feel that, having been elected by the men who run his ward, he is entirely independent of the citizens at large, and that he has a right to do as he pleases whether the people like it or not. If this were not so, he would scarcely have, ventured to tender for coal again after his previous sham tender had been fully and clearly exposed.

is neither here nor there, but the principle involved is a very important one. If Alderman Bushy's acts are to pass unrebuked, the door is opened for fraud and jobbery of every kind in other matters. What concerns a few hundred dollars worth of coal at the present time, may relate to thousands of dollars in contracts of other kinds. What is merely deception in this contract may be fraud in other kinds of contracts in the future. It one alderman can do this thing, all can do it. In small or large matters, the sham tender should be frowned

It a sense of their position cannot prevent men like Alderman Busby from resorting to such subterfuges, the better class of people should see that such men are not allowed to represent them at the council board. So long as we have ward elections, with cliques and heelers to elect candidates regardless of their fitness, it will be difficult to get the best class of men on the council. There should, however, be enough good men in any ward to prevent the election of any one who has shown that he will lend himself to a barefaced deception for the sake of illegally making money out of the city. For this reason, there should be a change in the representation of Victoria that several of the states hav adopted the Canadian ballot system, trouble is anticipated in making it work to the satisfaction of everybody. One objection, and a very serious one, even in Canada alter eleven years' experience, is the marked after the name of the candidate for whom the elector wishes to vote. Every person who has acted as a deputy returning officer knows the tendency of voters to do just what they should not do. Many of them make some mark other than an X, and very often when the right mark is made it is put in the wrong place.

There is no reason why an inexperienced man should lose his vote because of what is virtually a clerical error. The most is by scratching out the names of all for whom the elector does not wish to vote. This may cause delay where there are a Different methods will be employed to catch ber of candidates, but it is the safer the next fire-bug. method in the long run. It is more fair to the voter, who may be honest, even though he be ignorant of the law.

ONE VOTE IS ENOUGH

From the revelations made by Pro-GRESS last week, it will be seen that the system of manufacturing voters is not confined to either side of politics. While it seems that the purchase of Queens county property by certain conservatives was bona fide in the first instance, it is generally accepted as truth that an effort was subsequently made to add names for the purpose of colonizing voters. On the other hand, the liberal papers which cried out in horror at such a transaction, learned from these columns that men of their own party had been equally guilty of voting on the fault with the complexion of the kettle byegone age, may be.

Under the system of allowing a man nore than one vote a vast amount of corruption is possible. Syndicates could buy land in every county through which the Intercolonial railway passes in a seven or eight hours' journey, and on election day, carloads of voters could be transported from one county to another to defeat, poss ibly, the wishes of the resident electors. It would make no difference whether the grits or the tories were in power. Either party would lend itself to the work, because a government railway is always an important part of the political machine. Enough of this has been done in the past to show what might be done in the future. That nore of it has not been done proves lack of organization rather than purity of pur-

MR. BULMER AND HIS FRIENDS. The "third party," heretofore supposed to consist of J. T. BULMER, C. R. CASEY and E. B. The "party" has issued a circular, which it requests the papers to publish free of charge, calling a convention at Moncton. Mr. BULMER is booming the

The manifesto contains a great deal of truth. It is contained in the Hibernian declaration that the Scott act, "wherever in force, is openly defied."

When it states that there is a conviction in the minds of all right-thinking persons that prohibition is the supreme of the hour, it is quite as truthful as whe it alleges that the overwhelming public opinion is in favor of prohibition in the maritime provinces. Admitting that the "third party" contains all the right-thinking persons, and that it represents public oninion, the statement cannot be

After Mr. BULMER and his friends have established prohibition in Canada, they can turn their attention to its enforcement in Maine, with special reference to Bangor

Those of our readers who believe that PROGRESS is at times too liberal in its views as to what is religion and what is superstition, should read what Archdeaeon FARRAR has to say in the last number of The Forum. In his treatment of "Modern Claims upon the Pulpit," he says some things which would be considered rather rank heterodoxy if uttered by a newspaper. Yet this eminent clergyman can scarcely be called heterodox, however broad his views may be. He simply believes that christianity can stand the test of truth and human research, and that non-essentials which are inconsistent with known facts should not be cherished as if they were landmarks. This is not opening the door to agnosticism. It is an effort to sweep away the barriers which have so often caused doubt to become unbelief. He recognized the fact that opinions change with the ages, and that the drift since the days of JONATHAN EDWARDS is "in the widening light of knowledge," and is not danger-

The system of manufacturing criminals by employing persons to lead them into crime has received a rebuke in Charlotte county. When Mr. John C. Miles first showed the public how he could immortalize New Brunswick scenery, people had an idea that he was doing as good work as could be asked of any artist. Each season since, his pictures have become more attractive and this year he seems to have surpassed all his previous efforts. The specimens of his skill, in black and white, on exhibition in the windows of Barnes & Co., of late, are particularly good, and if cash were as plenty as admiration, they would be on exhibition a very short time. I understand that fur trimmed costuines are to be much worn this winter. Jackets not only being bordered with fur, but bands of it being used to edge plain skirts, and also the front draportes of them. With the departure of the dress improver, the spirit of our so-called dress reformers ought to rise. I hear that in Paris, not even a pad, is used now, but in England it will probably exist some little time longer, but in a very modified form.

In the meantime, dressmakers should learn the art of making a dress look stylish without steel or pad, for very few figures look well in the now fashionable straight drapery without them. The triple coachmen's cape, which, I hear, was the fashion of a year ago in Paris, has just been introduced heys.

The music loving people of St. John are looking forward with much pleasure to the concert which is to be given by the St. John Oratorio society next Thursday. Mr. Parker, of Boston, who delighted everyone by his exquisite rendition of the tenor solos in "Judas Maccabeus" at a former concert, is alone attraction enough, but added to this there will be the pleasure of listening to a tieble soloist, Mrs. Humphrey Allen, also of Boston, and who has never sung to a St. John audience before. Mrs. Glichrist and Miss Hea, two well known vocalists, will take the alto solos in the oratorio "Samson," which is the one selected for the evening's entertainment: The bass solos will be taken by Mr. Mayes and Mr. T. The dance given by Dr. and Mrs. Steeves at Lancaster, on Tuesday evening last, passed off very pleasantly. A great number of young people from the city were present, many driving over in their own carriages, while others made up little parties, hired an omnibus, and made the drive to and from the asyltim part of the evening's enjoyment. The host and hoseess, ably assisted by their sons and daughters, did everything in their power to make it one of the pleasantest dances of the season. A long programme was carried out; the excellent hired music and waxed floors leaving nothing to be desired by the dancers. And interesting is his work, as it is worthy, who labors to pre-serve these memorials and put them in a serve these memorials and put them in a more engaging high before the too careless readers of his generation; his is the praise of fidelity to the past, the present and the future. And such is due to the translator of those chansons so dear to the simple peoples who founded their New France, ch is now our Canada. A careful perusal several times repeated, has impressed us that this is no trivial accession to our literature; whether we regard the grace and fidelity of the translator's English, or the significance of the songs themselves, as they appear in the original language on parallel pages. On them all is the unmistakable impress of the race that produced a Beranger and De Musset, whether we

"The nightingale's song filleth
Its glades with melodies;
He sings for maids whose beauty
No lover holds in fee.

There is an artlessness and ærial beauty in some of these chansons which Mr. McLennan finely renders, but which nevertheless are the more the despair of the poet-translator, the more of a poet he is. Mr. McLennan gives, in a note, an instance of these songs, and their influence of these songs are the songs and their influence of these songs are the so on the Frenchman; and tells us how that by Capt. James E. Pitcher of the medical department of the U. S. A., treating of with Napoleon, and many a time it was with Napoleon, and many a time it was hummed by him when he was mounting for battle." Of the more martial of these pieces "Brigadier" is a favorite with us, from the jocund spirit of it, and the easy flowing harmony of the verse.

Of the translations of these old chansons by Mr. McLennan, Mr. Lighthall has given us a number of examples in his recently-published volume†—the best Canadian anthology extant,-while of the "A La Claire Fontaine," he has given a version of his own that seems to me better than Mr. Mc-Lennan's. But here we have the characteristic songs of modern Canada, also with accounts of the singers and notes, biographical and elucidatory; and certainly the emplete impression of the volume is one most gratifying to the patriotic Canadian reader, who discerns thereby that the land has produced poets of which we have no reason to be ashamed. The introduction is well calculated to interest the casual reader in the work before him, and the arrangement is at once suitable and unique; so that in editing little is left to be desired, save that the volume might have been more comprehensive. The last section of the book, entitled "Seasons," is a rare casket of iowels, where of jewels, where our native poetry shines in completest lustre; but throughout, much is found to praise, and little to object to; and in these lays we are interested to see set forth not merely the genius of rising poets whose words the world will cherish, but also the glories and triumphs of a great people, and the salient or ever-changing features of the land and clime amid which they dwelt. In the words of the genial features of the land and clime amid which they dwell. In the words of the genial poet who edits the volume,—here "you may catch something of great Niagara falling, of brown rivers rushing with foam, of the crack of the rifle in the haunts of the moose and caribou, the lament of vanishing (Mrs. Colores has returned to her home in St. John, after a two weeks' visit. The tone is courage! for to hunt, to fight, to hew out a farm, one must be a man!"

We will be surprised if this work does not command a wide and warm welcome among all English-speaking people, and especially in England and the colonies. PASTOR FELIX.

The Magazines.

Scribner's Magazine for November contains a portrait of Emin Pasha—governor of the equatorial provinces, and an article "Where Emin Is," by H. G. Prout (Barourd Bey) describing the country and the people through which Stanley is travelling. It is well illustrated and interesting. In his "The Effect on American Commerce of an Anglo-American war," Professor J. Russell Soley argues that many of the principles of international law which England has been by Capt. James E. The November Forum is a particularly good number, and its leading paper, on American Rights in Behring Sea, by J. B. Angell, is of special timely interest. Archdeacon Farrar's discussion of modern claims upon the pulpit is, as might be ex-pected, a liberal view of the real signification of christian teaching. A remarkable disclosure of the great individual wealth due to the United States laws for the protection of monopolies is contained in Thomas G. Shearman's article on The Owners of the United States. Then the Municipal control of Gas Works, the Cost of Universities, the Requirements of National Defence, and the Domain of Romance, by Maurice Thompson, will all repay careful perusal. The author of Vice Versa, that admirable piece of real humor, has written a new last wee novel, The Parish, which is naturally expected to meet with phenomenal success.

The Scribners have prepared a handsomely illustrated catalogue of holiday books for the young, which they send gratis upon application to any address. Belford, Clarke & Co. say that they have

Prof. C. A. Briggs' address before Union Theological seminary, in September last, which evoked such a shower of criticism, will be brought out by the Scribners in pamphlet form, under the title of "Biblical History."

Scribner's Magazine's holiday number will be very attractive. The cover will be of drab, green and white. It will be more fully illustrated than ever and will contain an unusual amount of good literature "Contemporary American Caricature," by John Ames Mitchell, editor of Life, will probably be a treat, reviewing, as it will, the whole field of American humorous drawing, and being illustrated by characteristic work from the pencils of J. SPORTS OF THE SEASON.

TURF NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE ON THE CONTINENT.

An Interesting Budget from our St. Croix Correspondent—What Has Been Accomplished in the Way of Bettering the Record—Some Big Frices Paid.

Mr. Will Eaton has exchanged his grey horse, Dukemont, by Olympus, with Fred. Mercier for his five-year-old chestnut mare by Olympus, dam Rosa, by Tom Lang.

Col. Russell's four-year-old stallion Edge Mark, by Victor Von Bismarck, trotted a trial at St. Louis, Ky., against time to break the four-year-old record of Sable Wilkes' 2.18, and succeded in trotting in 2.16, beating the stallion record for that age, beating the stallion record for that age, beating the stallion record for that age, and just equalling the four-year-old of Manzanitta by Electioneer.

Annie Dickinson, by Lumps, paced to a record of 2.19½ last week at Kentucky, spaking three two-year-olds Williams has beaten 2.20 with this year. Annie has n bred to Axtell. Aubine and Lady Wellington trotted a mile at Fleetwood last week, double, in 2.16, and it is said will break 2.15 before the season. Williams says that if Axtell keeps all right next year he will break Maud S's.

record three times in an afternoon.

That Kittie C. the supposed wringer is all right is guaranteed by the fact that Kittie d. won her race at Lawrance, Mass.

Inst Thursday

The owner of the pacing stallion Roy Willkes was fined $1,000 for attempting to dump the free-for-all race at Lexington, Ky., and Geo. Robens, who drove the horse, was fined $500 for pulling Roy. Now the National Trotting Association come to the front and at the next session of the Association the Balch Stallion Race is to be investigated, as no horseman believes that Nelson could ever beat Alcryon if Robens (who pulled Roy Wilkes) had driven to win. It looks now as though there would be a very unpleasant settle. there would be a very unpleasant settle-ment of a race that all Maine went crazy over. Nelson says Jim Golden could not drive Nelson and that is the reason he lost at Lexington and that the horse is not he asked Golden to drive him a mile, and the first mile Jimmy Golden ever sat behind Nelson he drove him in 2.17½, driving a second faster than his owner could in two wilkes lowered it to 2.23½. In October the same year Geo. Wilkes lowered it to 2.22. In 1872 Jay a gentleman's driving horse he has no equal wilkes lowered it to 2.21½; then came afternoon. So Nelhorse does not hold water. The Horseman says that "Jack rotted Nelson to a standsays that "Jack rotted Nelson to a stand-still in the second and third heats, and that Nelson and Alcryon in each heat at once took the lead and were never approached until the three-quarter pole was reached," while the Cultivator says, "Geneva S. and Norval formed a combination and shut Nelson in a pocket in the second heat, which gave Jack such a lead that Nelson could not cut down."

chich gave Jack such a lead that Nelson ould not cut down."

You can read all the accounts, and then saw your corn and all the accounts, and then saw your corn and the saw your draw your own conclusions. and don't forget it, and if you are not wiser you will have more money in your pocket should any of this "great sire's get" ever run up against this colt with the "cold strain of blood" in a race as there would be only one colt in it—Edgardo.

C. H. Eaton is driving Magnolia, 5 year old, by Claymo, dam Little Nell, and for a gentleman's driving horse he has no equal and is the best on the St. Croix. He is large, stylish, well made and nice gaited, very steady, level headed, and a child can handle him or drive him any place and there is only one thing wrong with him. I believe he is not well enough bred to keep on going. Well, that's all right, but just you bring along one of your knothole bred ones that can down him and that has kept coming any faster than Magnolia has the past year and somebody will offer you more than $100 for him right off the reel.

And has returned from bodines, ip to Montreal, New York and other Piaces, full of new ideas for the fall and winter trade. His trip was largely for the purpose of getting these ideas and keeping himself in line with the times as regards the latest novelties. As a result he will have a splendid stock of all that is newest and best in jewellry, etc. Besides, with a view to the best practical work, he has an invoice, about a yard long, of the most improved tools and appliances of his trade. The advance in the processes of the working jeweller appears to be almost as great as the dentist, and Mr. Gard's outfit will be not only most complete, but up to the latest date.
