WESTERN FAIR'S FIRST REAL DAY LIKELY TO BREAK CROWD RECORD; THRONGS OF CHILDREN ATTEND

Fine Day and Plenty of Attractions Give Young Visitors Much Happiness.

MIDWAY IS MAGNET

Every Attraction in Buildings or Grounds Has Its Quota of Eager Patrons.

Thousands of keen-eyed, expectant youngsters swarmed the grounds of the Western Fair this morning long before the hour which on other days heralds the opening of school. For the attraction today was something far stronger than a school opening;

far stronger than a school opening; far stronger even than the call of the old swimming hole in mellow eummer. Today is children's day at Western Ontario's big exhibition, and youngsters proclaimed their joy by crowding through the gates with all the refreshing abandon of youth.

Tots, bewildered with their first glimpse of fair festivity, and older lass and lassies still young enough to enter whole-heartedly into the spirit of carnival, wandered two thousand strong over the grounds. Curiosity was aflame and juvenile London gave itself up to an expression of pleasure which every Western Fair opening brings forth. Even the pretentious Manufacturers' Building, housing exhibits designed to interest nousing exhibits designed to interest nousing exhibits designed to interest more mature minds, exacted enthusiastic attention from the kids. More interested scrutiny was, of course, given the side-shows and gayly bedecked booths. But every attraction was patronized, even the art gallery coming in for its full share of youthful praise and criticism.

Groups of notential track men gath

Groups of potential track men gathered about the horses while "Wah-Wah" the bald-headed dog and "Skinny-Minnie" of side-show notoriety came in for a great proportion of the youngsters attention. The house of enchantment, Tom Thumb, the smallest man in cartivity. the smallest man in captivity; Teeny Weaney, the lilliputian pony and oth-er stars of the freak world drew thousands of dimes and quarters from the pockets of the boys and purses of the girls. "Hot Dogs," too, enjoyed a bull market and all the booths purveying luxuries dear to the heart of modern

The Crystal Palace maintained its reputation for being the most attractive building from a youngster's point of view. From early morning they made the structure unofficial head-quarters. Here it is that retailers exhibit their wares and agents for manufacturing confectioners and novelty specialists distribute to excitable relays of boys and girls ever on the lookout to receive a gratuitous package of soap or miniature box of cereal food. Free balloons and colorful banners, distributed in lav-ish fashion dangled after thousands of boys and girls as they went their automobile display was crammed full of interest for youths of a mechanical turn and the art gal-lery drew thousands intent on exam-ining the prize designs submitted by class-mates and companions in the school-drawing exhibit. A lumbering elephant, one of the features of the Johnny J. Jones shows, was watched with keen interest by dozens watched with keen interest by dozens of tots who had never seen this particular vintage of circus animal before. The third largest locomotive in the world also exacted close attention and, of course, "Bullba," the African dodger was called upon to evade many baseballs hurled with feroclous vim by hundreds of prospective candidates for his league pective candidates for big league

Many side-shows and booths are still in the process of being erected and school children spent hours watching the activities of workmen.

In another section of the grounds hundreds of tin cups were given away free by a hardware booth. Boys of all sizes, ages and nationalities all scrambled on the floor as the cups were tossed in the air. Some of them were caught, but the majority precipitated a free-for-all wrestling bout before lucky individuals secured a strangle hold on one and claimed it for his own. Everything in Full Swing For First Day of Fair-Buildings Look Well.

Under cloudless skies the gates to the 1923 Western Fair were opened this morning at 7 o'clock, and from that hour until Saturday night, they will remain open, with the exception of a few hours every night.

The grounds and buildings at the fair, far excelling in appearance previous exhibitions, were thrown open and the crowds began to pour in, gazing at the exhibits, which this year eclipse any that have ever be a seen here. Every building had its quota of early visitors, and while in many cases it was necessary for final touches to be added, at noon the fair was in its holiday garb, and will not change its appearance for six days. Flags and flowers enter into the decoration schemes, and the board of the Western Fair Association have reason to feel highly gratified at the general ensemble of the whole exhibition.

At the Campbell street entrance several varieties of farm implements were being unloaded at 9. a.m., but with the completion of this everything was in its place and ready the inspection.

Determination of W. J. May Leads to Arrest of F. Snyder in Everett.

OF LONDON DISTRICT

The perseverance of the inspection branch of the Dominion Postal Service is no better exemplified than in the case of Frank N. Snyder, of Gainesville, Mich., who after a two years' chase, has been captured at Everett, Wash., and will be brought back to Ontario to face a charge of TRACED CLEVER POSTAL THIEF robbing a hydro-electric car near W. J. May, inspector of postal ser-

Amherstburg of a mail sack containing between $5,000 and $7,000.

Special credit for the robber's capture is due W. J. May, an inspector of postal service in the district superintendent's office here, for it was he who after two years of dogged persistence finally logated his man on the western coast, and instant communication with the department at the western coast, and instant com-munication with the department at Octawa caused him apprehension by W. F. Trent, postal inspector at Van-couver. Snyder waived extradition when confronted by the inspector at Everett, and voluntarily accompanied Mr. Trent to Vancouver, where he is awaiting transferral to Essex.

Reads Like Detective Tale. If the full facts of the long chase and Snyder's ultimate capture were divulged the story would read like a modern detective tale, but D. J. Mc-Lean, district superintendent, and Mr. May, with their usual reticence, insist that it is just a matter of long standing that has been finally cleared up, and are loath to discuss the affair

Mr. May is always in touch with mails in transit, and he said that he was first attracted to the case through the fact that the mail bag had been stolen while on a moving train. The robbery received considerable ne orlety at the time, and although every effort was made by postal author ries and police to locate Snyder he eluded capture for nearly two years.

"I traced Snyder's movements in Michigan for quite a while," Mr. May asserted, "but he always managed to slip away. I tracked him to Durand Mr. May is always in touch with and he said today that all the neces-sary evidence would be collected in preparation for the thief's return. Mr. McLean expressed the opinion that when Snyder was met at the other and of the country by a postal official he concluded that the net had been lrawn tight, and so decided to con ess and return of his own free will.

It was related that the sack contained between $5,000 and $7,000, and the nen visited the haystack from time to time taking money from the pouch, after which Snyder and a bank clerk, who it is claimed was concerned in the robbery, weighted it and threw it into a river, with the rest of the mail

London officials state that the mail clerk was under observation for some time, but no evidence could be gathered that would show up his connection with the theft. With Snyder's arrest, however, officials hope to clear up the bank clerk's side of the affair. Snyder is married, and he motored across the continent from Gainesville, his home town. MODEST AND AFFABLE

Special Wireless to The Advertiser. On Board the Empress of France at Sea, Sept. 9.—The Prince of Wales may not be officially on board the Empress of France, but there is a fair-haired, smiling-faced young passenger on the list as Lord Renfrew, who, by his modest courtesy and affability has already won the esteem of all.

Lord Renfrew is accompanied by Brigadier-General Trotter, Sir Godfrey Thomas, Major E. D. Metcalfe and Scotland Yard men. The party occupies rooms 22, 34 and 36 en suite, and Lord Renfrew has quietly and unostentatiously fallen into the everyday life of the ship as would any English gentleman. He breakfasts in his own suite, but lunches and dines at the regular saloon; he walks the common promenade deck and dances in the general lounge as do other passengers.

Lord Renfrew read the scripture lesson, which was the thirteenth chapter of I. Corinthians.

His clear, steady, sympathetic voice and unaffected manner gave peculiar impressiveness to the reading. As this heir to the greatest throne in the world, in quiet earnest tones, read: "And though I have all faith so that I may remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing," one could not help being moved, and when later the minister prayed for God's blessing upon Edward, Prince of Wales, many reverently and full heartedly said "Amen."

Famous London Bandit Gains Liberty From Kingston Penitentiary.

FIVE MAKE BREAK

Canadian Press Desnatch. Kingston, Sept. 10 .- McMullen, the Wyoming, Ont., bank bandit, a man named Ryan, alias Slade, believed to have been sentenced at Hamilton for robbery, and three other convicts, escaped from Kingston penitentiary today in a 'smoke screen," which it is believed they set for themselves by firing some of the buildings, and got away, after a stern automobile chase, in which one of their number, probably McMullen, was shot and wounded by the guards. The swamp in which they are hiding is surrounded. It is thought they will be recap tured shortly.

The cleverly conceived smoke screen, for the officials are now thoroughly satisfied that the men fired the building for the purpose of escap-ing, prevented the guards on any of the walls from observing them and enabled them to get over the wall and down the other side before any oppo-sition could be offered them. Meanwhile the fire merrily roared

Not only in the eyes of citizens of London does the Western Fair find favor, but also in those of visitors from farther afield.

population 100,000 by

This is the mark set by Mayor Wenige as the objective for the London "100,000 Club" proposed by his worship who announced today that the organization would come into being at a special gathering soon after fair week.

Several applicants for information as to the qualifications for membership in the new body have been received by the mayor who reports that he is more convinced than ever that the time is opportune for the establishment of a real "boosting" club and that the success of the ven-ture is practically assured.

"What are the qualifications for membership?" people have written to the mayor and he answers, "pep, stick-to-it-ness. And ginger and stick-to-it-ness. And the most peculiar thing about this proposal is," he added, "that we are act going to go for subscriptions. We are not going to seek financial aid. All we want to start with is 100 young men who have started with nothing and made good in their par-cicular line. We don't care what their business or venture is except that it be legitimate and successful. "Membership will not be confined

The mayor is planning to stage a meeting directly the fair is over when all interested in the move will be invited, when the "aims and objects" of the association will be formally drafted and qualifications specifically defined.

There is certainly room for the 100,000 club," said the mayor. 'London is bound to grow and we should help. Rev. John Garbutt Delivers Interesting Service at Dundas Centre Methodist.

"The church has been falsely accused of lack of brotherliness," declared Rev. John Garbutt, pastor of Dundas Centre Methodist Church, speaking on "The Brotherliness of Christianity" last night.

As a matter of fact, Magistrate Hawkshaw points out, he has never held a court in Lucan except to hear cases which originated in Lucan. His court is held in London for convenience, he declared. He could, saloons, universal peace, and, if he listened close enough, white slavery. Church women were interested in the Red Cross, he pointed out, and the relief of sufferers from famine, flood and earthquake. The church supported day nurseries and free dispensaries. The Presbyterian, Catholic, Anglican and Methodist churches furnished hospitals.

"He would write: These men love one another," Mr. Garbutt declared. Mr. Wilson, who attended the recent missionary conference in Toronto, invited church members to attend the meeting in the First Methodist Church on Thursday, when Japanese relief will be discussed. It has not been decided what method of relief will be adopted or whether a special appeal will be made.

Methodist missionaries were established in Japan 50 years ago, Mr. Wilson stated. Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Cochrane at that time left the Wilson stated. Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Cochrane at that time left the best pulpits in Ontario to organize stations in Japan. The Canadian Methodist Church in Japan now boasted 30,000 members. There was a bigger increase in membership in Japan last year than in the whole of Ontario. One hundred workers were out there. Many of the churches in Japan are self-supporting.

When the world Sunday school convention was about to be held in Tokio a year ago, the convention hall was razed by fire. However, Japanese authorities decided the Christian delegates should not be inconvenienced and placed the great royal theatre at their disposal. One year ago Miss Lola Clark, a summer school student, decided to spend her life in foreign missions. She had placed her life against the money of the church members, Mr. Wilson said.

Earthquake and flood had now devastated part of the country, the speaker declared. Hearts must be touched by the terrible agony.

An Appeal to the Loyalty of the Citizens of London

THE DESTINY OF THE WESTERN FAIR IS IN YOUR HANDS

It is for you to say whether this great exhibition is to fill its proper place in the life and activities of Western Ontario or mark time as an institution devoid of adequate patronage.

25c ADMISSION PRICE THIS 25c YEAR REDUCED TO

In addition the general attractiveness of the whole show has been enhanced by the erection of a magnificent $200,000 Manufacturers' Building, the broadening out of the grounds for agricultural exhibits by the purchase of a large acreage, and a thorough renovation of the old buildings. The result will be seen in every department, as accommodation is now perfect.

As an outstanding instance of what the vast improvements mean it can safely be said that no other fair in Canada will now in any way outclass the ART EXHIBITION OF THE WESTERN FAIR.

Let us repeat, the destiny of the Western Fair is in your hands. And do not forget that the 1923 council of the City of London is behind the effort to break all attendance records.

Another Political Party Coming.

Following a gathering of six U. F. O. elected mempers and a similar number from the U. F. O. organization. Hon, Manning Doherty gave a statement in which he intimated that a new "broadening-out" party would be formed. It is the intention, he says, to have a convention later on to formulate a policy and select a

If this idea prevails, the move will have the anagonism of Mr. J. J. Morrison, the secretary of the U. F. O., and the leader of quite a strong following in its membership. That will bring about much the same conditions that prevailed prior to and during Hon. Mr. Drury's appeal to the electorate in June of this year.

To follow it a little farther, it means that if the ew party comes into existence it is going to make a bid for members outside the ranks of the U. F. O. It will have to take them from either Liberal or Conservative party, and such an attempt will certainly be regarded by both these parties as a raid on their membership, and it will be opposed.

Mr. Sinclair, the new leader of the Liberals, is less inclined to co-operate with the U. F. O. members than was Mr. Hay. During the life of the last session Mr. Hay and Mr. Drury were on very good terms, and each understood the views of the other. Could a fusion of parties have been arranged then there would not have been much opposition from either of these leaders.

The creation of a new party, part U. F. O. and part Liberal and Conservative, is not likely to meet with much success now. The political lines are quite different to what they were a few months ago.

Mr. Sinclair is able to represent, in his leadership the best and sanest things the U. F. O. can hope for There are business problems that are of greater importance to the farmers of Ontario than the investment of their energies in political action.

Western Ontario's Big Fair.

Western Fair is open and ready, and it is the biggest 25-cent investment offered here for years. This exhibition has always been a good one; it has always been a solid, substantial and compact index of the things that make Western Ontario supreme in agriculture and commerce. There is nothing to apologize for at the Western

Fair. The buildings are better this year; additions made have given the directors an opportunity to do things they have had in mind for a long time.

Londoners should make it a point, as well as residents of the district, to patronize the Western Fair. It is interesting to notice, and a source of pride as well. that many of the finest animals and herds came from points right around here. All classes of livestock are well represented, and show the remarkable care that is being exercised on many of our best farms in breed. but he has not those qualities that can win the battle Apart from vulgar joys and ways, ing true to type in accordance with the best traditions without having the fight.

Industry has a real chance now to come into its own at the Western Fair, and the commercial interests the movement that made him premier of Italy. have been quick to see the advantage of making their best displays for the inspection of the people of this toss when it landed Mussolini high up in Italian affairs.

The Western Fair is all in readiness. It is well worth careful inspection. The directors have staged a display that is a credit to all concerned.

The One Thing That Will Help.

One report in a financial paper says that the earthquake in Japan has caused an unsettled condition in the editon market, with a tendency toward higher prices. It might be well for some of these markets to cure their unsettled conditions, and along with them their tendencies toward higher prices.

"Higher prices" or "firmer tendencies" will not help the cotton trade when it is traced all the way through until it comes to the consumer.

The cotton market, or any other market, can best erve its own interests by conquering its nerves and getting close to the size and ability of the dollars in the family purse.

Doing Business for Cash.

Hardware merchants in Strathroy adverse the fact that they intend changing their method of doing business, and henceforth will sell their goods for cash They make the very reasonable claim that they cannot afford to have so much money on their books, and that if they are to keep their own accounts straight and take advantage of trade discounts they must have the money that rightly belongs to them to do it.

Business is slowly but surely moving in this direction. Many have gone over to it, and their evidence is that they did not lose trade, but gradually worked into a place where they could buy closer because they had the cash to do it.

There is nothing revolutionary in the announcement of the Strathroy hardware dealers. They are simply going ahead to do what others should have the good sense to imitate. Once an article is purchased and paid for the deal is closed and wiped off. It's by far the better way for the customer as well as the

Where Does the Dirt Come From?

The miners point out that they are docked or even suspendid if they have rock or shale in the coal they turn in from their daily work.

There is no doubt that coal consumers in Canada get a goodly share of such coal at times. There are clinkers and large pieces that will not burn.

If the miners are docked for putting this kind of stuff in, how then do the coal buyers get it? There have been samples of anthracite analyzed in London that show as high as 30 per cent of non-combustible material.

It is quite certain that this material does not run out and jump in the cars of its own free will. It will be interesting to see what the mine owners have to say to the charge now leveled at them by their own employees. The Old Story Over Again.

The way Premier Mussolini of Italy is handling the situation with Greece shows the danger of shoving the average untrained man into a big position. Or, as in the case of Mussolini, it is just as danrous to allow the man to do the shoving himself. Mussolini is not fitted to handle a situation that hands firmness as well as tact, and consideration as

There is no doubt that work—real physical work—is a neglected panacea on the part of many city men. I have a friend who is growing fat. Every afternoon he plays handball. To get to the gymnasium, six blocks away, he calls a taxi.

Handball he considers a sport and "fine for reducing," but he thinks walking stupid work. Somebody the other day railed about automobiles. "They make folks lazy," he said.

This is a just criticism of the improper use of the automobiles, but there is no question of the health value of the motor car in that every day it takes into the open air thousands of persons who would not go out without its aid. But to call a taxi or to jump on a bus or a street car, if your errand is within easy walking distance, is a mistake.

"Fewer entiries, but cleaner, newer, more up-to-date work." At a glance this expressed in the words of the judge, Miss M. V. Powell of Whitby, is seen to be characteristic of this year's exhibition in the ladlet work department at the Fair.

Miss Powell, for the past three years, has been judging this particular section of the Western Fair. In that time she has seen a constant improvement, and this year the work has become of a distinctly better grade. In some miraculous fashion, this year's work has come clean from the hands of the worker. It has seemed, always, that soft white thread, diguring daintily in crochet work of latting, or else worked into the elegance of embroidery, has lost some of its impraculate purity before the completion of the workmanship. Thus, even when yiewed through glass, the articles had often acquired a tint of dinginess.

This year nothing of that is apparent. The embroidered linens are white as fleece. Crochet work work or hook. And the white, woolly jackets old-fashioned institution made smartly up-to-date, to a fragile frock of organdy for the tiny little girl. The more practical, but none the less skilled side of this class of workmanship, is evident in the exhibition of hand-hemmed sheets, pillow-cases, and serviettes. There was a time when every little girl sat upon her stool and learned "to sew a fine seam." Little girls of today don't take so kindly to sitting still and learning to hem almost invisibly. But the Fair exhibitions indicate that there are still a few who are skilled at this particular art.

When knitted clothes are practically leading the vogue, it is amazing there is not a greater abundance of knitted articles exhibited. Just a few pairs of socks, a pair or two of knitted articles exhibited. Just a few pairs of socks, a pair or two of knitted bedroom slippers, and these are all. Except—a wonderfully knitted cape, which has been placed in a class by itself. Long and full and cosy, it looks just the thing for motoring, and incidentally, it must have taken aeons to knit.

Here is a good stroke with which I have successfully cured many golf-ers who were cursed with that "in-

Take a position at the ball which places the ball a trifle more forward. Instead of having it just inside the left heel, have it directly off the left heel. Take your regular stance, so place the club that the end of the eg or just inside it. Now be sure to turn your left hand well up on the shaft. Let all your knuckles show. At the same time drop the right hand down correspondingly. Now open up the face of the club some—that is, have the toe of the club a little back of the direct right angle to the bail. Not very much of this opening of the club face, just a little. You are about the said the club face in there as you o send the club face in there as you rould for an intentional hook so let he shot proceed, and crash into the ball with all the snap you can put into the clubhead. Shoot your right der into it. This stroke works well with the midiron. If you are a slicer, this stroke, rightly accomplished, will rid you of the round-house curves. Keep left arm

Atlantic City. Sept. 3—Because of the change in Sparring staff in the past few days. Luis Firpo is shaping up much better for the fight with Champion Jack Dempsey on Friday night. What Firpo needed was a few rounds daily with sparring partyers who could do their share at the sungation of the share and fast. Afound from his customary indifference, Firpo moves faster and hits harder himself. He looks less awkward and more danger-ous than he did last week, when he was outfling and siapping and leaving to navigate through.

Firpo in training and Firpo in the fighting ring are two persons. Normally Firpo is calm, balanced, almost phiematic. In the ring excitement blazes in him, and doubles his speed and strength. The Pacific Coast League has been a runaway for San Francisco, however, the team in that city never having been in danger.

Orlando has won the championship of Florida, being the first champion of the season to come safely through. Dubuque has the Mississippi Valley championship on ice. In the Virginia League, Richmond, Wilson and Nortolk were tied one day recently with a winning percentage of .550.

Rochester had a chance to win from Baltimore in the International, but it looks now as though Baltimore will take home the bacon.

Out in the Three-Eye League, playing with Danville, there is a third baseman named Rice of whom the boss of the Three Eyes writes that he has not seen a more prepossessing ball player in 20 years. Scouts need Americans. Rice leads the league in just about everything from batting to base running and fielding. On paper it looks as if the Browns' hot corner was pretty well taken care of for 1924.

When Dempsey was training at Toledo he was untroubled, full of fun and life. Now he seems to be much more settled than increasing years more settled than increasing should warrant. We all know that youth declines with each year, but Jack has grown old too soon. His Jack has grown old too soon. His actions gave me the impression that he has some doubts that he is as good as he used to be. Once a fighter gets bothered about those doubts, he is through. It is not cowardice, but it is a lack of confidence that is even more dangerous than a timid heart. more dangerous than a timid neart.
Since returning from Saratoga I have read that Dempsey weighs 193 pounds, and that he will enter the ring at 189 pounds. I do not believe that I really think he does not weigh much more than 180 pounds now and much more than 180 pounds now, and he will spot Firpe at least twenty pounds unless I have lost all judgment of weight.

Does Not Underestimate. Dempsey has always been high strung and nervous, but he is even more so now. It is a good thing that the race meeting at Saratoga closed in time to give him two weeks to himself. He is naturally affable, and a quick-thinking fighter. He is kidding about that weakness with his left hand. He has a good left hand, and he will use it against Dempsey even if he did not bring it out in his fights with Willard and Brennan. He's in the same position that Dempsey was in at Toledo. He is young, powerful and ambitious. He has everything to win and little. has everything to win and little to lose. He is in shape. He is fast in an awkward way, and he is so bad that he is very good, if you get what

In the first game Zeigler was in danger only in one inning; the sixth, where three hits, an out and a fielder's choice scored a run. The Wolves attacked McCallum with a will in the fifth inning, scoring all four of their runs on five hits, including a double. Outside of this one frame, McCallum hurled a nice game.

In the second game Haines was opposed to Good, and as the local southbaw allowed but three hits, the efforts of the Cockney right-hander were wasted. The lone run of the Tecs was sired in the second inning, when Mackey and Stimpson doubled in succession After that Good was invincible. The Wolves picked up their first run in the fourth frame on a double and a single and came back in the fifth inning with three runs on four hits, incluring a double, along with two errors. Errors on the part of Ruane and Barbelon put Haines in a bad hole in the fifth inning, from which he could not extricate himself.

In the first quarter neither side scored and in the second period the Athletics made two rouges against the visitors, the score standing 2—1 in favor of St. Thomas at the end of the first half. Sarnia scored a touch-down in the third period, and Skelding came within one point of equalizing the score with a well-played drop-kick. St. Thomas had another chance in the last half, Shaw carrying the ball over the line in a buck, but the head linesman ruled that he had gone outside the playing field before crossing for a touch.

Don McCrimmon, playing middle, who is a likely man for a berth on Queen's first team this fall distinguished himself at open field tackling and stopping bucks, Saturday. McCrimmon is a fast runner and seldom misses a tackle. Shaw made yards repeatedly on bucks. It was in this department that the locals excelled, as their running plays seldom got away with precision. Loose ball handling behind, the St. Thomas line was noticeable, but with more practice this will be remedied. "Rector" Newton and Stan. Manore performed brilliantly for Sarnia.

Ingersoll, Sept. 9.—In the Midget lacrosse team which entered the second round of the semi-finals this season and were defeated here by an 8 to 3 score by St. Kitts, last year's champions, Ingersoll has the foundation of a strong juvenile aggregation for next year. The local youngsters have developed rapidly. The youngsters are apt imitators, and the way in which they have taken to the fine points of the game is a revelation. They should make a strong bid for honors in the juvenile division next season.

It wasn't surprising that Juliet Divine should know Eustace Nazlo. she was, Sheridan had sharply to remind himself, the sort of girl who would know that sort of man. But a wave of resentment swept over him. He wondered if, before leaving New York, she had made an appointment with Nazlo at Monaco, and realized it was probable.

His nerves, rasped by the scene with his aunt, were on edge. The gi.'l had no right to arrange flirtations for this trip, and he'd warn her that Could Juliet Divine look like that? Of course, Juliet had a spurious air es not know of Terry's relationof girlishness, and might be taken for twenty instead of twenty-seven. But if her beauty had a defect, it was a certain bright hardness. Her wasn't this virginal youth. this. But he was puzzled by Nazlo's way of address. What did the fellow mean by calling the girl "Miss Desmond? It must be a slip of the tongue, or else there'd been some adventure in which Juliet had posed as "Miss Desmond." Strange, however, that a man about town like Nazlo hadn't known the Million Dollar Doll!

No wonder that she seemed upset at meeting him! There was something under the surface here; but Miles was surprised at his own sense of relief, and the cooling of his anger against the girl. Taking all things together, it began to look as if there'd been no appointment! He had another surprise, also; his sudden wish to shield her.

Terry's quick wit was baffled by lack of experience and her training

"Juliet will be so angry if Mr. Sheridan finds out!" she thought. "What can I do?" She looked up at Sheridan and met his eyes. It seemed to him that he Divine, who had never met him, but caught an S. O. S. signal, and he

Seeing the tall, beautiful young woman strolling with Miles Sheridan (whom he knew by sight), Nazlo took it for granted at a distance that the man's companion was the "Million Dollar Doll."

Know you.

Nazlo was a man of the world, and his great aim was to reach social heights, climbing on his millions. "I'm sorry," he said civilly. "I beg the lady's pardon—and yours. I must have been deceived by the great likeness between her and a friend of but mine—a friend I've lost sight of, but hope to find again. He lingered, expecting a move on Gossip, about women of her world same to him, however, and he knew of Juliet's most conspicuous adventures. Here was one, which he hadn't heard about! . . There had been talk of Mrs. Miles Sheridan and an Italian prince. Nazlo decided, as he approached the pair, that this escapade was tit for tat on Sheridan's part. He heard himself telling men the girl's part, if only a gesture or a faint exclamation, or—almost equally welcome—a sign from Sheridan that a chat with a fellow New Yorker would be acceptable. But the white sunshade screened Teresa Desmond's face, and Sheridan was irresponsive. Unless Nazlo was ready to risk a snub in public from one or the other.

What use to make use of it!) he didn't want a row with the man or girl. "Again I beg pardon," he excused himself: and lifting his hat once more turned back in the direction whence he came. (Copyright, 1923, by the Bell Syndicate.) In Tomorrow's Installment Miles Is Strangely Happy.

THE HAUNTED ROOM.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

"Good-night, my dear," said Miss

"Ye-e-e-s," assented Miss Carow,
"I know, my dear—perhaps you can hear the waves in the inlet from the garden window—and good-night, child—pleasant dreams," and she went smiling from the room, closing the door behind her. But in her own bedroom the smile died from her lips, and she shook her head, dubiously.

"I should have made Esther come in here with me, but she dislikes to sleep with any one as well as I do head."

"Wind? I did not hear a sound," de-clared 'Mrs. Hammerly Jones, as she stirred her coffee. "Perhaps, Mr. Pelham, the moans you heard were uttered by a ghost—an old house like this might be haunted."

John Pelham grinned skeptically, but Mrs. Jones' remark left an unpleasant impression. That day Esther accompanied Pelham on his tramp through the woods, but they did not talk about ghosts. Esther was not

LONDON, September 4, 1923.

London Advertiser, City. Gentlemen:

Publishers,

We feel that we cannot allow this opportunity to pass without expressing our gratification at the results obtained through recent advertising in The Advertiser."

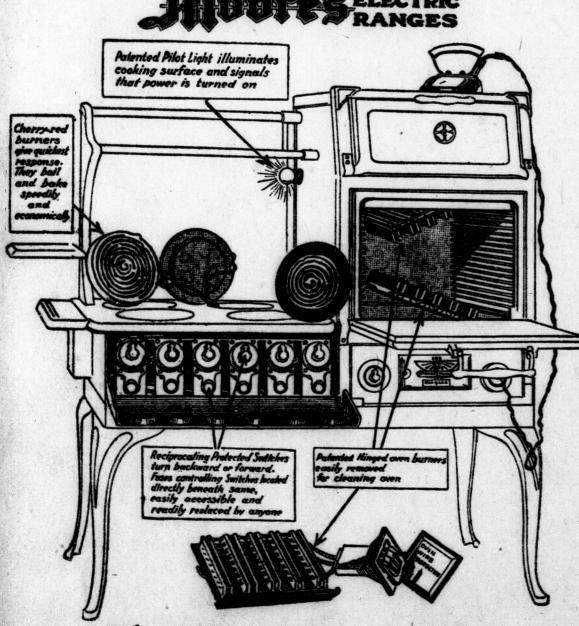

When we installed our Hat Cleaning and Blocking equipment a few weeks ago, we first used "The Advertiser" to tell the people of London and vicinity of the new venture. Hundreds of hats immediately came to us for cleaning and blocking and many are still being brought in.

"The Advertiser" has certainly done its part and the great volume of business that is coming to us shows that the people believe that we can do our part too.

Very truly yours.

Today I Saw

Once upon a time—it starts like a fairy story, but it is really true! Once upon a time I declared with much youthful emphasis that NOTHING would ever make ME think regretfully of my vanished school days. I'd always remember the history and arithmetic that were the trial of my young life! trial of my young life!

But today I caught myself thinking it would be rather fun to be starting back to school after a long summer of playtime. To be hunting up books and learning my spelling, and running down to the corner to meet my "mos' nintimate friend," with applodies to Emmy Lou apologies to Emmy Lou.

For the returning school days have brought with them a delightful line of dresses a delightful line of dresses which are eagerly awaiting their small owners. They don't feel at home on our little wax models. They want a real live girl who will take them to school, and let them play hop-scotch at recess, and ride a bicycle after four!

What little girl wouldn't like a pleated skirt in all-wool plaid of sand and brown, with a jade pullover sweater to match the green thread in the skirt? Or a shepherd check pleated skirt and a red middy, with a very grown-up tailored pocket? Or an all-wool navy blue serge with a trim little pleated skirt and a japquette blouse outlined at collar and cuffs with a vivid embroidery in red and gold and green?

And they slip on quickly and with such case that even small fingers can fasten them. -without making their owners late for school. You will have another agreeable surprise when you see the modest prices of them all.

If I had had that jacquette dress, I am almost sure I could have successfully wrestled with compound fractions! JUDITH.

WHAT SEPTEMBER OFFERS. Of the twelve months in the year September is the finest for your vacation in the "Highlands of Ontario." Recognizing this, a number of the best hotels are remaining open at least until the end of September for the accommodation of guests. True, there are fewer people, but there are more fish, more sunshine, more space, more opportunities for every pastime as a consequence, and at reduced cost. Weather conditions in September are usually ideal. A week or two spent at Bigwin Inn, Canada's finest summer resort hotel, located in the Lake of Bays region, during the month of September, simply makes a splendid holiday. Fishing, boating, golf, lawn bowling, etc., are provided for guests. Ask any agent of the Canadian National Railways for full particulars.—Advt. Wedding Ring Not Any More Necessary Thun Best Man. Birth of An Idea. "In 1855 a provincial exhibition was held in London, and this no doubt a move was made at the annual neeting of the society in January. 1867, to dispose of the Talbot street property and secure the military rounds situated on Richmond stree motion was lost, however, and a committee of Messrs. George McGee, John Wheaton and John Elliott was h result of a public meeting called by Mayor Frank Smith and held on November 13, 1867. At this meeting mittee was appointed to canvas the citizens for funds to start ar exhibition. In 1868 the government passed an act allowing small grants to agricultural societies shows, and this new organization at once made application for and received the allotment.

"At the amalgamation meeting in April, 1868, the combining of funds and efforts was accomplished, and hs both above societies are still in existence, the same plans as made 56 years ago survive. Officers of also form part of the Western

The First Officers. "The first officers of the Western Cair were, I think, James Johnston, p. esident, George McGee, vice-president; William McBride and H. erson, secretaries, (I wonder what the directors in those days would say now if they could see one man handling all the work of a fair many mes larger); Alex Kerr and John wart, treasurers; and the name

ed today was chosen.
The first fair was held September 3-30 of that year, and since that me there has been one every year vithout a break, each one getting sors until now the prize list is many thousands of dollars and the entries thousands of the thousands, while also away up in the thousands, while the attractions of today would. I guess, make those who attended the first fair roll over with envy, al-though no doubt they were well satisfied with what was then provided.

"The fair grounds the first years were what was then known as the Military Grounds, situated on Richmond street where the C. P. R. station now is, and it is on record that it was a decided success, although on the second day the weather was far from favorable. Owing to the building then known as the Crystal Palace being occupied with soldiers, the old drill-shed, which stood where the Collegiate Institute is now, was used for such articles as needed protection, while the livestock was exhibited on the grounds. Then the Crystal Palace was located on Wellington street between Hyman and Central avenue. The horse classes are reported as were what was then known as the Military Grounds, situated on Rich-mond street where the C. P. R. sta-

"Large oaks from little acorns from is a saying that might well be applied to the Western Fair, for from a little gathering of farmers some 75 years ago has grown the huge exhibition known all over the Dominion of Canada, and it has grown in much the same way as the mighty oak, adding a little bit to its size every year Although the nucleus of the Western Fair was born several years before the actual accomplishment of it. In the nature of little exhibitions of farm products for the farmers in the immediate vicinity of the village of London, the Western Fair did not have its birthday until 1867, the year of the Confederation, so that it actually is 56 years old.

Secretary for Eighteen Years.

The history of the Fair from its birth reads as a romance, and to hear Secretary A. M. Hunt relate the story is as interesting as any best-seller. Mr. Hunt, who has been secretary for 18 years, has the story at his fingure tips, and found time Saturday to relate a little of it as he answered the phone or attended to any of the multitude of things which he is responsible for, in his office at Queen's Park.

"In order to have a clear understanding of the beginning of the Western Fair Association," said Mr. Hunt, "it is necessary to go back a few years before its organization and look at the East Middlesex Agricultural Society and the London, and District Horticultural and Agricultural Society, as it was from the server its of the vest fair being the visit to the city of Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught, and the attendance, as far as I can find out, was exceptionally large. Other than this the records for that year are very incomplete.

"In the same year the question of ground arose again, the Richmond street property having been broken into by the C. P. R. Application was made to the city council for a bylaw to be submitted to the people asking for the expenditure of John Wheaton and John Elliott was appointed to discuss with city and county officials the possibility of holding larger fairs. The same year a request was presented from the London District Society that representatives of the two societies meet and amalgamate.

"As to the other society, the London District Horticultural and Agricultural Society, this was formed as a result of a public meeting called as a cost of a society, this was formed as a result of a public meeting called a request was purchased. New buildings were erected at a cost of about $60,000, and everything put in shape for the expenditure of a sum of money to purchase new grounds. Never before have there been tural Society and the London and District Horticultural and Agricultural Society, as it was from the amalgamation of these two, at a joint meeting held on the evening of April 22, 1868, that the Western Fair Association was formed.

"The East Middlesex Society had been organized several years previous to 1868 and held a yearly fall show at the recently erected, but with more than to 1868 and held a yearly fall show at grounds situated at Talbot street, and the secretary. One class which will be a difficult one to judge will be that of Jersey cattle. Over 100 entries had arrived by noon on Saturday, and several well-known breeders were still arrive with their entries from To-The stabling facilities are exwhich had arrived on Saturday looked very much contented, and took their strange surroundings quite as a matter of course.

One cow celebrated her first apearance at the Western Fair by presenting her owner with a per-fectly good baby buil. The young-ster lay beside its mother through the whole of Saturday and was the center of interest to a large crowd of young boys, few of whom had seen so young an animal before.

Another large class this year is the Ayrshire list. These entries filled the whole of one cow barn, and still more are expected. It is interesting to note the difference in the way these animals are sent to the fair. Some of the cows are groomed and clipped to a shiny sleekness, while others again looked as if they would have to win was no doubt but that they on their merits, under the standard

Border Leicesters, Lincolns, Shrops, Southdowns and Oxfords are all well Southdowns and Oxfords are all well represented, and the owners were busy until a late hour last night with their sheen shears putting the final touches on their favorites.

The horse entries, both in the heavy and light classes, are fine animals, and are in true show shape. The work of the judges on this section will represent some mighty close selection, for in looking over the splendid drivers and draft horses it is really difficult to place a decision, and the exhibitor who emerges first from any of the horse competitions will have something worth while in will have something worth while in the way of an award.

ceeded in having all entries in the amateur unframed classes transferred to a section of the annex.

Visitors to the Art Gallery had grown accustomed to the number of dangling cards and loosely-flapping sketches, which for the most part formed the amateur group. But the improved effect gained by eliminating this group is quite amazing. And in their turn the amateur entries gain by being exhibited in their own particular section. Really ex-cellent pieces of work now stand forward with great prominence to the eye of the visitor, instead of, as formerly, losing themselves in the shadow thrown by the greater glory of the professional entries.

Finest Yet Shown. There can be but little doubt that this year's exhibition is the finest in the history of the fair. This year the entries are the more spectacular because they include a group of justly famous paintings from Toronto and Ottawa galleries. Placed just where they command the entrance from either door, are the magnificent paintings sent by the Carrol Galleries of Toronto, "The Portrait of Edward Wortley Montague in Eastern Dress" by G. Romtague in Eastern Dress" by G. Rom-ney, and "The Portrait of Chief Jus; it tice Sir John Kelyng" by Sir Peter Lely, and between these two a re-production of a choppy bit of sea off the English coat by Frank Brang-

It is in a great measure due to the co-operation of these various art galileries that this year's exhibition may count upon a splendid success. The paintings have been lent to the Western Fair without charge, the only expense incurred in connection with them being the cartage and insur-ance to cover fair week. LOVELY CANVASES

As the visitor to this year's Western Fair enters the grounds by the Dundas street entrance a large red brick building stretching east and west faces him. A long, flat-topped many- windowed affair whose white steps can hardly accommodate the throngs moving in and out. This is year has taken on a new and lofty dignity.

Sir Peter's impressive chief justice is perhaps not the only cause for this, nor alone the presence of the other great pictures, but the fact that an aggressive committee has suc-

of $180,000, and which houses the inest and largest collection of manufactured exhibits ever seen in Western Ontario.

Contained in this great brick and steel island in the middle of the grounds are the products of over 150 manufacturers. From the brilliant booth of the Hobbs Manufacturing Company which faces the north door to the smallest of the pure food booths on the top floor is a vista of the handlwork of Canadians which will hold the interest of the most jaded fair goer, and attract both his patriotic and his commercial interest of the most jated fair goer, and attract both his patriotic and his commercial interest of the which will hold the interest of the most jaded fair goer, and attract both his patriotic and his commercial interest of the which will hold the interest of the most jaded fair goer, and attract both his patriotic and his commercial interested listeners at this cosy little stand. The east end of the building is devoted to automobiles and their accessories, including oils and tires.

On Top Floor.

On the top floor are all the pure food products, and all the home-fitting scenes that will appeal to the brides. One whole side of the floor is occupied by a number of furniture offerings, which have all been purchased by the Thomas Company of London, and which include some of the cosiest chairs and most loungy-looking davenports.

In the furniture line the exhibits of Snyders of Waterloo, who show their luxurious "Sani-Bilt" goods, and of the Goderich Art Craft Furniture Company, who display their "Reed-Craft" basket chairs and tables, that will assuredly defight the heart of the women who love the veranda in the summer time, are unusually attrac-tive. The booth which houses Graf-one of the very few machines in ac-tion in the building in one of their "Miehle" vertical presses, and another press in action is shown by the Knowles Litho Company of London. The Helena Costume Company show several power sewing machines action, with girls performing var us processes of the manufacture of their products.

Pure Food Section.

In the pure food section at the east end it is hard to pick out any one particularly fine booth, but the exhibit of Gorman-Eckert, and those of the Kellogg Company, and of Dalton's, whose booth exudes a wonderfully pleasing aroma of coffee, are worthy of mention. The exhibit of the A. E. Silverwood Company is unique in the presence of huge size models of milk ottles, a pound of butter, and an enormous ice cream, about eight feet nigh, that will make the mouths of the youngsters water. Christie Brown and McCormick's also show biscuits. and the offering of the Canadian Postum Cereal Company is well worth attention. The Orange Crush peop have a striking exhibit arranged in orange and black draping, and backed by great pyramids of their bottled by great pyramids of their bottled products. The Borden Milk Company show a well-arranged display of their tinned milks, and make a bright and vivid showing.

On the same floor are the exhibits of the British and Colonial Press, exhibitors for the first time in London, who display a wide variety of en-gravings and photos, both commercial and purely scenic. This is a bootl well claim a place in the Art Sec. tion of the Fair. The London Techway of drafting.

Domestic Indoor Sport

Family Spats Often Clear the Air, as a Thunderstorm Does-The Danger Lies in the Lightning Bolts of Brutal Truth Which Are Blurted Out in Anger.

Not long ago in this column I reminded a woman, who desired to pour upon the troubled waters of her household, of the fact that it takes two make a quarrel, and advised her that the best way to achieve peace in

I fear this gentleman is right, and that there are not many husbands and wives who are real, honest-togoodness pacifists, with a sincere. heartfelt desire for a harmonious and quiet home. Otherwise, more people would achieve concord in the holy estate. For the thing that we greatly want and are determined to have at any price we are mighty apt to get. That married people fight for the pure love of fighting and because they enjoy the scrimmage even a blind man can see. Nothing is ever gained by making a domestic roughhouse, and nothing could be easier to void than making one if either the husband or wife desired to do so. No woman and man can be married for six months, to say nothing of about the throat. This newest idea is sixty years, without having gotten the lay of the land of each other's peculiarities and prejudices, and without having found out where each had erected his or her little "Keep off the grass" signs. Each has his or is a "Choker," and the other of opera her bit of forbidden ground upon which to set foot is as good for a scrap as a nickel is for a ginger cake, and the other is perfectly aware of its

Every wife knows that there are certain topics that injuriate her husband as a red rag does a mad bull. But does she adroitly sidestep these dangerous subjects and use all of her feminine wiles and arts to keep them from being dragged out on the carpet? She does not. She deliberately hauls them in by the scruff of the neck, if they won't come in any other way, and in the ensuing mix-up a pleasant time is had by all. Every husband is aware of the particular chip that his wife carries on her shoulder, and that merely to brush it with a word brings on a scene that might terrorize the boldest. But does he gumshoe around it? Not much. He knocks it off, and they go over the top in a battle in which quarter is neither asked nor given.

There are households in which there is a Thirty Years' War over ligion; over the question of bills or an allowance; over the husband's latchkey; over the wife's clubs; over everything the children do and leave undone; over the bread and pie and coffee. Certainly nothing but getting a sort of decadent pleasure out of quarreling with each other keeps husbands and wives in a perpetual wrangle over these things. Either one could negotiate a peace with honor at any moment he or she wearied of the

Perhaps the real reason of the family scrap is that it does put pep into domesticity. It is adventure, danger. For the dullest fools must know the risks they run of killing each other's love when they slash and cut mercilessly at each other with their tongues. It is the thrill that comes with stirring up a stagnant pool that becomes a whirlpool that threatens to engulf you,

To the average husband and wife married life is dull and monotonous. They have not the money for many outside amusements, and they have et enough resources within themselves to make home life interesting and entertaining. So they find drama in their fierce quarrels and in their kissing and making up.

Also they find in these fights a vent for their overstrung nerves. It othes the man to take out on his wife all of the temper and irritability that he dares not visit upon his customers or clients, and a woman feels at peace with all the world after she has had a row with her husband that ended in tears in which she wept out the bitterness of soul that possessed her because she is getting old and fat and nobody asks her to dance any Undoubtedly, many people regard the family spat as a thunderstorm that clears the domestic air and leaves everything refreshed and brighter. That is why they run up no lightning rods for protection against its dangers. In the heat of anger a woman will hurl any insults at her husband and the man will retort with bitter home truths. Each believes that the episode is ended when the fight ends in a draw, and an armistice is declared.

"John knows that I didn't mean what I said when we quarreled last night, and I called him a tightwad and a loafer, and said he was no good because he couldn't make money enough to give me the things that my sister's husband gives her," says the wife.

"Mary knows that I didn't mean what I said when I called her a dumbbell and said she looked like a figure of fun in her new dress, and that I ondered what the fool-killer was doing the day I married her that he didn't get me," says the husband.

But the trouble is that we all do remember the things people say to us when they are angry, because in anger, as in wine, the truth will out. When we are angry we blurt out the old grudge, the old disappointment, the things we really think about another, the cruel truth that we hide in our hearts until we lose our self-

This is what makes the family scrap such a dangerous amusement, and this view of the subject is called to the attention of the husbands and wives who love to fight.

The October meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Martin, promises to be most interesting, as an address from one of the child welfare nurses is anticipated. Roll call is to be answered by "Suggestions for next year's program."

SEASONAL WINDOW BOXES.

Many home-makers believe there are only two seasons of the year when they can have bounteously-filled window boxes at their sills. They know the charm of early pink English daisies and pansies, and perhaps follow these with jonquils, daffodils and narcissus. When these spring blossoms fade, they replace them with the summer's red or pink geraniums, petunias, ageratum and trailing vines.

But there is a window-box plan for every season of the year—autumn and winter as well as spring and summer. Now is the time to take out the geraniums (which have

WEDDINGS.

STEVENSON-YEO.

A pretty wedding was solemnized the Hyatt Avenue Methodis Church on Wednesday. September 5. at 1:30 p.m., by the Rev. Johnston McCormick, when Madeline daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Yeo, 180 William street, city, became the bride of George W. Stevenson of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, 6 Christie street.

The bride, who was unattended and was given in marriage by her father, looked very lovely in a gown of cinnamon-brown Roman crepe, heavily beaded, with small feather hat, fox fur and shoes to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of Sunset roses. During the signing of the register Mr. William Taylor sang, "Until" very effectively. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents.

THE first "NEMO WEEK," celebrated a quarter of a century ago, featured the Self-Reducing Corset, and each succeeding "NEMO WEEK" since then has signalled some new and desirable improvement or innovation in the famous Nemo Self-Reducing Service. It is therefore very fitting that at this time, the 25th Anniversary of Nemo Week, we take the opportunity of introducing the

EXHIBITION WEEK SPECIAL Kribs' Miss Simplicity Electric Washer

Kribs' Miss Simplicity.

This is the Electric Washer for families who want a good, reliable, durable machine at a moderate price.

The Hydro Shop has handled the Kribs for years, and has sold hundreds in London. On the strength of that experience we tell you the Kribs is a firstclass buy.

You Will Be Satisfied!

Miss Simplicity, by the swift and gentle action of its tireless "dolly fingers" flushes out all the dirt without harming a thread. Then it/ wrings the clothes in its power-driven wringer, completing a big family washing in about an hour, and for less

TEMPTATIONS OF 1923' OPENS TODAY AT GRAND

Special Fair Week Attraction of High Class-Five Royal Hussars a Feature.

When "The Temptations of 1923" open their three days' engagement at the Grand Opera House this afternoon, London theatregoers will be entertained by one of the finest and snappiest musical revue companies now on the road. Those who witnessed "Town Scandals," which opened the season at the Grand, enjoyed it, but will see a show this week of superior class, larger, newer, and with more gorgeousness than its predecessor. The leading comedian, Danny Murphy, is known wherever musical revue shows are produced, while Flossie Everette, the dainty soubrette lead, is one of the most talented entertainers in her line. The performance, in addition to being a first-class musical revue, contains as much high-class vaudeville as is usually found in a complete vaudeville performance, the featured act being the Five Royal Hussars, a quintette of young ladies, who, as musicians and entertainers, rank with the best. "Temptations of 1923" is the revue used last season by the Shuberts in their $2 attractions, and is bound to prove decidedly popular as an attraction for the first three days of Fair week. "Temptations of 1923" holds forth twice daily for today, Tuesday and Wednesday, matinees at 2:15 and evening performances at 8:15.

ORDINATION SERVICE

CONDUCTED BY BISHOP

Ridley Parsons Admitted To Ministry At Cronyn Memorial Church will be the curate.

In the ordination sermon Rev. A. L. G. Clarke of St. John the Evangelist Church dealt with the principle underlying the first ordination as recounted in the Acts of the Apostolic and should have a spiritual zeal for spreading Christ's gospel.

At one of the most interesting and impressive services held at Cronyn Memorial Church, Mr. Ridley Parsons

Wes ordained at the Sunday morning spreading Christ's gospel.

The candidate was presented by Ven. Archdeacon Young, while Ven. Archdeacon W. J. Doherty read the gospel. The epistle was read by Mr. Parsons.

Mr. Ridley's ordination has been pending for some months as he was vaudeville performance, the featured act being the Five Royal Hussars, a

FOURS and SIXES

These new Nash conceptions in open and enclosed car types are now placed on display with a quiet surety that they will exceed the expectations even of those who look for Nash to lead the way and who consequently set their hopes highest.

With traditional progressiveness Nash has developed a number of bodies and other outstanding improvements whose artistry and execution is as certain to command the professional concern of coachwork craftsmen and engineers as the admiration of the public at large.

With no justification in the way of increased manufacturing costs for a price advance Nash stands firm on current prices so that the important and expensive new car advancements relating both to engineering. and equipment in reality constitute a price reduction.

The girls who were so signally honored in the contest that included the members of all the young farmers' clubs in Great Britain are: Joan Moore, 14, of Leicestershire; Ivey Townshend, 16, of Surrey; Emma Absolon, 17, of Hornsey, and Mildred White, 18, of Devonshire.

Guests of Mayor. After luncheon they were the guests of the mayor on a motor tour on the district and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wenige, Mr. Forrester and F. E. D. McDowell of the publicity department of the Canadian National, Montreal, they visited the new University of Western Ontario, the hospitals, Springbank Park and other beauty springoank Park and other beauty spots around.

The young farmerettes, eager and pretty and typical of modern English girlhood evinced a great deal of interest in the city's many handsome institutions and large industrial plants

"Canada surprised me when I first landed here," Miss Moore, the young-est member of the party laughingly exclaimed to The Advertiser. "I exclaimed to The Advertiser. "I didn't expect to find the cities so large or the country so developed. I was rather under the impression that Canadians were of the rough-andready type. But, now that I am here. I'd like to stay here. We've enjoyed our trip so much, and everyone we have met has been so friendly." Ardent Horsewoman.

Miss Moore, who at home is an ardent horsewoman, remarked on the small number of saddle horses to be seen in Canada. She was more than delighted, she said, when during their visit to Jasper National Park she was afforded the opportunity of taking many canters on the mounts kept at the park.

The four fair visitors were full of praise for Canadian-bred stock, and after a continental tour, during which after a continental tour, during which they have inspected several prize herds, they state that they can frankly say that Canadian cattle equal the stock raised in the British Isles.

Yesterday Sergt. Barnhill was assigned to desk duty, He, Sergt. Roy Montieth and Detective Bolton were in the station at the time of the shooting. Sergt. Barnhill was cleaning his automatic revolver. He had taken the bullets from the magazine but had neglected to remove the one from the breach. While he was cleaning the gun, the bullet was discharged, perforating the muscular part of his left hand.

The bullet imbedded itself in the floor near the door leading to the guardroom. Detective Bolton had moved from that spot but a few moments previously.

He and Sergt. Montieth bandaged Sergt. Barnhill's hand and telephoned Dr. Ernest Williams, police physician. He removed the sergeant to his home. Dr. Williams stated Sergt. Barnhill's hand will be disabled for a few weeks. He will not know until a few days have elapsed whether poison will develop.

The Family Milk Supply

ARNATION Milk is the only milk supply your family needs. It is really more, because it serves as both cream and milk.

Fresh from the can it has creamy consistency because about 60% of the natural water content has been taken away from it by evaporation, then sealed in the container and sterilized. Use it for tea, coffee, fruits, cereals and desserts.

By adding a little more than an equal part of water to Carnation Milk you have milk of natural consistency. You get "whole" milk-rich, wholesome and pure—for cooking, drinking—for every milk use.

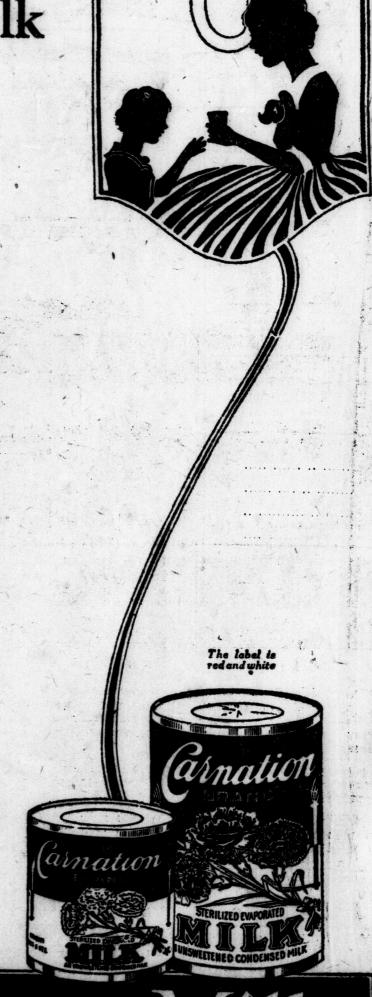

There is no waste to Carnation Milk -it stays sweet in the can indefinitely -and for several days when opened. Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans from your grocerthe Carnation Milkman.

Try this recipe—and write for your copy of the Carnation Cook Book. Over 100 tested recipes—FREE.

Two eggs, ½ teaspoonful salt, 3 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoonful vanilla, ½ cup Carnation Milk, few grains nutmeg. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk mixed with the water. Line a pie tin with pie paste; add the mixture to which the vanilla has been added. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven at first to set the rim, then reduce the heat as egg and milk in combination should be cooked at a low temperature. This regime makes one pie.

"The exhibition of 1895 was held from September 12 to 21, and it was in this year that disaster first overtook the association. The evening prior to the opening a fire broke out which destroyed the carriage and poultry buildings, and although the exhibits were all saved, the loss was considerable. Temporary quarters were provided in tents and other buildings, and the Fair progressed as though nothing had occurred. "You want admiration spokeen for the efforts of the men who are behind it. To exhibit one week after so many months of hard work, seems very little to us, but it is enough.

"And this year we feel that a new era has started. Our new building is one that the city may justly be proud of, and the whole fair far exceeds any of the past, either in my memory or in the records which have been maintained.

"Yes," concluded Mr. Hunt, "the Western Fair has had its ups and downs, but look at what is out there now. You would never think that at times it has been hard slugging to make it go, but go it has and will," lowing the fire new horse and cattle barns, sheep and swine pens were constructed, the city council voting $25,000 for this purpose.

Appointed Secretary in 1905.

"In 1905 I was appointed secretary, and have acted as such ever since that time, watching the Western Fair grow and grow until now I don't know where it will stop. That year there was a large expenditure of money on grounds and buildings. A system of sewerage was, installed and large lavatories built, as well as a large addition to the horse barns. The following years, to the end of year's registration. The following years, to the end of 1910, much building was carried on, new open stands, building for cement to help of all kinds, and over $350,000 had been given out in prizes.

"The next big disaster that occurred, as far the Fair was concerned, was in 1913, when fire again destroyed many of the buildings, as well as the grandstand and open stands. Several frame buildings near Campbell street, stables and other sheds were destroyed, and the grounds assumed a more or less dilapidated appearance. Nothing daunted, however, the association and the city got together and decided to go right ahead and erect newer and more substantial structures.

The directors themselves were gratified beyond measure.

The final day directors' luncheon was one that talked not so much of the achievements of the present as of plans for the future. In this connection definitely tangible prospects loomed up. By Mayor Maguire, the chairman of the day, it was stated that the city would hope during the coming year to finance the new eastsern entrance to lend assistance to the new machinery building, and to assist also with the proposed hydro tower.

Disaster in Japan Has Failed To Upset Financial Situation.

BONDS ARE INACTIVE

Consideration Given Franco-German and Greco-Italian Troubles.

By STUART P. WEST.

rrespondent of The Advertiser. Copyright. New York, Sept. 8 .- Every other conideration has been overshadowed in the financial markets of the last week by the tremendous disaster to Japan.

by the tremendous disaster to Japan. Perhaps it was fortunate that the Labor Day, holiday, intervening between receipts of the news and resumption of trading, gave space for assimilating the news and judging its effect on business, but, at least, the markets most affected withstood the shock in a remarkable way.

Full realization was given to the fact that many of the losses to trade would be compensated by the additional supplies which Japan will need not only for immediate relief, but for rehabilitation. Many people questioned whether too much stress was not being placed on these temporary advantages, in comparison with the undoubted destruction of property and capital and the certain loss of a certain portion of international, trade for a long period.

The fact remains that the level of prices on the stock exchange, outside of some specialities affected particularly by individual conditions, remained about the same as on Sept. 1. before the disaster occurred. The trading of the week made it apparent, however, that one effect of the tremendous news events has been to drive the general public out of the market for securities. Investors Show Hesitation.

Investors Show Hesitation.

Individual investors were not frightened into tossing their holdings overboard, but, on the other hand, they showed unmistakable inclination to pause and consider cause and effect before taking on new commitments. With the market thus left in the hands of the professional element, trading was featured by the taking up of specialties and the resumption of pool operations, resulting in the irregularity which such operations entail. This was exemplified by the speed with which short interests in some of the industrials run to cover on the first hint of favorable trade development. Investors Show Hesitation.

This was exemplified by the speed with which short interests in some of the industrials runt to cover on the first hint of favorable trade development.

European News Not a Factor.

The dominant effect of American trade news was fully exemplified. Practically no attention was given to the developments in the dispute between Greece and Italy and the action of the council of the League of Nations in the controversy. Even less consideration was given to the situation in the Ruhr. The foreign exchanges falled to reflect these factors by an exception of the German mark. The mark, however, can hardly be considered a standard of currency in dealings with foreign nations. Its violent fluctuations this week have shown that it is impossible to use it as a measure for National Eliscuit. ations this week have shown that it is ations this week have shown that it is impossible to use it as a measure for computing business transactions. The terrific expansion of the paper currency issued continues, and makes all estimates regarding the German budget valueless. Taxes may be fixed, but before they can possibly become operative the standard has changed, so that they're inadequate.

Trade Improvement Discounted. Trade improvement Discounted.

It is a question vigorously debated, however, whether the advance in stocks from the low period of late July until Sept. I has not just about discounted the trade improvement and earning prospects for the near future. The record freight loadings continue unparalleled in railroad history, and the traffic probably has to reach its peak. This fact, however, is counterbalanced to some extent by the fact that net earnings of the class one roads have fallen slightly from previous levels in recent weeks.

Operating efficiency undoubtedly has increased in proportion to the carrying out of equipment programs. Up to Aug. 15, 103,374 new freight cars were installed in service. At that date 80,385 new cars were on order, with deliveries being made daily. The roads also put nto commission 2.364 locomatives up to Aug. 15. The roads seldom have been o Aug. 15. Steel Industry Stimulated.

The improvement programs of the gailroads have been a stimulant to the steel industry, for the tonnage of rails booked has been extremely heavy. The Steel Corporation now is operating at about 87 per cent. Wage adjustments coincident to the abolishment of the twelve-hour day are being made without friction, and prices so far have not shown indication of advance.

Both grain and cotton have shown strength in the past week, while silk and wool have advanced. Conditions affecting production and consumption have been such that the elimination of Japan, as a buying factor in cotton and twool was nullified, while quotations offered no detriment to wheat. Perhaps the effect of the Japanese disaster will be felt more severely in the American silk industry than in any other line but the suspension of trading in raw silk has given manufacturers and Van. # ROTARIANS HOLD ROUSING LUNCHEON

Club Members Gather in Knox Presbyterian Church Dining-Hall.

As is the custom on the opening of Fair week, the Rotary Club held their regular weekly luncheon in the Knox of the wealthy districts in this counthe Fair grounds. A number of the Rotarians were forced to divide their allegiance between the Rotary luncheon and that of the Fair board in the General Buildings. And also, several of the directors were guests of the Rotary Club in the Knox Church tent. The meeting, without formal pro-J. H. Saunders, chairman of gram, and presided over by "Bill" Yendall, in the absence of both the president, Dean Sherwood Fox, and the vice-president, E. V. Buchanan, was the liveliest meeting of the year. Western Fair Board, and Mayor Wenigeboth, gave brief speeches relative to the successful opening of the Fair and the bright promise it holds. Mr. Saunders was also appreciative of the of Rotarians who are backing the Western Fair both by exhibiting in it and in various other

Mayor Wenige was emphatic in vouching for the continued backing of the city council.

"The Fair stood either to go ahead or to decay," he said. "We decided it had to go ahead, and so the council unanimously decided to give it the necessary financial backing. As far as lies within the means of the council, I know that policy will be continued." vouching for the continued backing

Three rousing cheers for the ladies of Knox Church concluded a meeting at whith the major part of the program consisted of witty sallies on the part of all members themselves and at which there was a large and appreciative audience not only, of Rotarians, but of bystanders, who crowded at the sides of the tent to learn the cause of all the merriment. Inspector Tambling carried off the palm. This question he leveled at the head of Russ Taggart, the American consul, j answering it himself a few seconds later:

"I hear Ford's going to make a good president. How's that? He's about to make the leap, a spectator of the professional parties and as the animal reached the final barrier and was about to make the leap, a spectator of the professional parties and at which there was a large and appreciative audience not only, of Rotarians, but of bystanders, who crowded at the sides of the tent to learn the cause of all the merriment.

Inspector Tambling carried off the professional parties and at which there was a large and appreciative audience not only, of Rotarians, but of bystanders, who crowded at the sides of the tent to learn the cause of all the merriment.

Inspector Tambling carried off the professional parties and at the wides of the tent to learn the cause of all the merriment.

Mr. Weld was putting his horse over the jumps, and as the animal reached the final barrier and was about to make the leap, a spectator.

Brigadier Amnond Returns to City After Absence of Twenty-Four Years.

Brigadier Amnond, who has succeeded Brigadier Creighton as head of the local division of the Salvation Army, arrived in the city Friday and was officially welcomed on Sunday Brigadier McAmnond has recently been in command of the North Bay division of the Salvation Army and comes back to London after an absence of 24 years. In 1899, he was head of the local corps. "During the past 24 years London made great strides," said Mr. "Upon my arrival in McAmnond. the city on Friday I was struck with the cleanliness and beauty that everywhere prevailed. I was more than pleased to note the good work the Salvation Army has done since the last time I was here. Bethesda Hospital is a credit to the local corps, and the growth of the army from a small band of soldiers in 1899 to the present large corps is a credit to past brigadiers who have been in charge of the local division. London has grown tremendously, and it is one of the prettiest cities in Canada." Brigadier McAmnond's large district of the north, stretching from the headquarters at North Bay as far west as Armstrong, including Timmins, Cochrane, the Soo, Muskoka district, and up into the extreme north, is probably one of the hardest districts to handle in Canada. Ac-Presbyterian Church dining Hall at try, and the people of the south do not realize its possibilities.

"The immense pulp and mineral resources should attract many settlers to that district, but because of tales of the extreme cold and the dangers existing, such as forest fires, people of the east are afraid to venture into the northlands, and, consequent ly, the population required to develop the north is not very large. Brigadier McAmnond was in Hail eybury at the time of the great forest fire, which entirely swept the little town, and left its inhabitants with poverty and famine. "The optimism of the people of Haileybury was re-markable," the brigadier said. "They they are seeing to it that this time the structures will be absolutely fireproof. All of the underbrush within a radius of one mile of the town is a radius of one mile of the town is being cleaned up and every preven-tion against a repetition of the fire is being guarded against. Possible Change of German Policy Arouses Interest On Wall Street.

By STUART P. WEST. New York, Wall Street, Sept., 10.— tocks today were pursuing a rather irregular course until the report reached Wall street toward the close of the second hour that Germany had abandoned her policy of passive resistance offered. in the Ruhr. Confirmation did not seem ecessary to arouse speculative interest, and the list developed renewed activity and prices rallied

The advance was orderly, however Continued confidence in the money situation and favorable trade reports had evidently been discounted. The market absorbed with marked firmness what selling occurred and seemed inclined to turn its face toward constructive factors.

The coppers, notably Utah, Kennecott, Chile and American Smelters were in greater demand than they had been at any time during the summer and early fall. Germany, before the war, was the largest buyer of copper. It has been said all along that if this buying power were restored, it would react favorable upon the copper companies.

ing affair on the Montreal stock exinterest in the market, and traders are apparently awaiting developments in Europe as well as in America to take a more definite course. Around the noon hour the news was flashed from London to New York that the German government had ordered the cessation of the passive resistance in the Ruhr. If this proves to be correct, the turning point in European politics might have been reached. The outstanding week-end announcement was that of the proposed re-organization of the Riordon Company. The plan shows that instead of a present capitalization of $47,000,000, made up of $10,000,000 7 per cent first preferred, $10,000,000 7 per cent first preferred, and $7,000,000 in common. The re-organized company will have $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative prior preferred, $500,000 7 per cent preferred and $500,000 7 per cent preferred and $600,000 7 per cent preferred and $600,000 shares of common.

Everything, practically, in connection with the exhibition is completed, and we can now watch the results of a year's preparation, and I am sure that no one will have any cause to say that the fair this year was not all that was claimed for it, and the spectator again called out, but the animal paid no attention this time. However, a prominent citizen did, and warned the man that any further interruptions would mean a police with the manner in which the wound court case. There were no more interruptions.

With Moderate Cattle Run, Prices Display Generally Higher Trend.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 10. — There was a slightly firmer tone to the market today for anything of choice quality. The run was moderate, and without the heavy load of western cattle, which was a drag on last week's market. Frices were not quotably higher than last week's best, but the quality was even and more cattle soid near the top.

A load of heavy steers topped the market at $8.60, about equal quality, and conditions considered to the load sold last week by the same firm, J. B. Shields, at $8.75. Another load of heavy steers sold at $8.35, and another at $8.15. The foregoing top prices were paid by local packers for heef killing purposes. For export on the hoof to the old country about 300 heavy cattle sld from $7.00 to $7.55. Choicest handy-weight butcher steers sold from $7.50, and butcher steers and heifers, mixed, from $6.50 to $7.25. Common stuff not more than steady at about last week's prices. Fat cows steady from $4.50 to $5.00 for choice quality. Bulls quiet around $4.00 to $4.25, and light) bologna bulls $2.50 to $3.00. Choice lambs a little firmer at $12.25 to $12.50, top. Light sheep steady. Calves barely steady, $10.00 to $11.00 tops.

Just a few minutes before the afternoon newspapers are circulated on the streets the eclipse of the sun is scheduled to take place Only six or eight times in a century does an eclipse of this nature occur, and weather permitting, citizens will be given an opportunity of seeing for a few minutes a sight, ordinary in these parts, but wonderful in Mexico, California and the West Indies.

Totality Begins At Noon.

In Catalina Island, California, where Professor H. R. Kingston of the University of Western Ontario will watch the eclipse along with other Canadian scientists, totality begins at high noon—that is, about 5 minutes, 37 seconds before 4 p.m., London, Ontario, time. This city, however, is not in the path of totality and the marvelous spectacle in which darkness occurs, stars peep into view and the coronal display is visible, will be denied. The eclipse will hegin about 3.12 and end at 5. will begin about, 3:12 and end at 5 o'clock here. At the middle of the eclipse in London the moon will cut nearly half way (about 45 per cent) across the sun's surface. While not spectacular, a partial eclipse is well worth observing. But one must be careful to use smoked glass and in no case view the sun with the naked

According to Professor John Dearness, former principal of the Normal School, the last eclipse was on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, this year. Not for 40 or 50 years has London been in the path of totality which makes it possible to see the stars and other planets during the afternoon. "If the sun is clear we will see the lower half of the sun shaded." Prof. Dearness said. "We will see around the edge of the moon at the interesting of the sun's light. Police Magistrate Tells Charles Mossop Family's Support Comes First.

Should a man support his wife and then pay his doctor bills if he has anything left over, or should he pay the doctor first? Magistrate Graydon is of the opinion that the wife comes first, even if she is separated from her husband, and as a result of the magistrate's feeling in the matter Charles Mossop will have to pay his wife Isabel $5 a week starting next Monday. The cash will be handled

y Police Court Clerk John Moule, H. B. Neely who appeared for Mossop took the grounds that the magistrate had no right to try the case as there had been an agreement signed in 1920 by Mossop and his wife. His client had paid the money as long as he was able, but owing to sickness was out of work for some time.

Mr. Neely's objection was noted by the court and the decision may be appealed.

Mrs. Mossop in the witness box was questioned by her counsel W. B. Henderson. She stated she was married to Mossop January 8, 1908. Her husband had kept the signed agreement for one year and after that time she had received but $20. She had always kept the child. The father had never acknowledged his daugh-ters' letters. At the present time she was keeping house for a Mr. Smith in St. Thomas and was getting $3 a week which was not sufficient to keep herself, and child in clothing.
She stated that her husband made about $5 a day painting houses.
Cross questioned by Mr. Neely, Mrs.
Mossop stated that she led an awful life with her husband. Mr. Mossop in the witness box stated he took his wife back to live with him in 1919 on two conditions, namely that she would not have a certain girl live at the house and

The girl did come back to the i. and in his opinion she was not a fit person to live there. Mossop stated that he did not work from October up with rheumatism, sciatica and trench fever. He was still taking The remark seemed to rile Mr.

"Yes, I've paid my debts as well as I could. I paid my wife's out of my gratuity money when I came back from overseas and that's more than you can stick up," said Mr. Mossop as "Personalities are not allowed here rersonances are not allowed here Mr. Mossop," declared the court and the episode was closed.

"How did you live all last winter? asked Mr. Graydon.

"My friends kept me," said Mossop, "I naid $5 a week beard but I mong the delegates of the London Trades and Labor Council assumed greater proportions today when Arthur Mould threatened to resign as a member of the Federal Union.

Delegate Mould was the Labor standard-bearer during the last federal election and is a delegate from the local federal union to the trades council as well as a delegate and very active worker in the Labor political field, the London Labor Party. Drew Ire Upon Selves.

It was just after the last provin-cial campaign when F. D. Burke and Fred Young, treasurer and secretary respectively of the trades council drew unto themselves the ire of a majority of the councillors, not so much, it seems because they openly repudiated the Labor nominee, Dr. Stevenson, but because, their opponents charged, they used the name of the trades and labor council "as a lever to spread propaganda" for the Conservative candidate, Sir Adam

To The Advertiser today, Arthur Mould stated that he would not re-sign, however, until the question, still compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was 153.3 in August, show-ing only a slight fall as compared with July, when it was 153.6. City Will Sell Considerable Property in 1924 To Secure Payment.

Considerable property in the annexed districts of East London will be sold in 1924 by the city to secure inpaid taxes, the city treasurer announced today.

The owners of more than 30 lots have returned their 1921 tax notices with the information that the property is not worth the assessment levied in 1920. Treasurer Bell ex-plains that the la wrequires that three years elapse from the date of payment before the city may sell. This time limit is apparently set in order to allow the owners plenty of time to change their mind and pay.

Considerable property will be listed in a similar manner after the threeyear period expires for payment in
