The 2 T's for Fine Clothes

There's no use disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes. With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles and good making we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, ready-made, such exclusive styles in suitings and overcoatings as we are showing, and every one of them is from the best American and English mills.

Then, too, every New Method garment is built to come up to our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, placing of the sleeves and stays and making the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which marks clothes as being ready-made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high, but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

NEW METHOD SUITS $7.50, $10, $12.50 and $15.
NEW METHOD OVERCOATS $7.50, $10, $12.50 and $15.
NEW METHOD PANTS $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50 to $5.

OVER 200 BURGHERS FELL IN FORT ITALIA FIGHT

It was a Greater British Victory than was at First Supposed—Gen. Botha Routed.

Ladysmith, Natal, Sept. 30.—The British Success at Fort Italia is now known to have been greater than was at first reported. Two hundred Boers were killed, and more than three hundred were wounded or captured.

London, Sept. 30.—Gen. Kitchener telegraphs to the war office that Gen. Bruce Hamilton has inflicted heavy losses on the Boers at Italia, Zululand. The enemy attacked in force. He is now pursuing them.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.
Durban, Natal, Sept. 30.—A force of 1,500 Boers, commanded by General Botha, made an attack which lasted all day long on Sept. 26 on Fort Italia, on the border of Zululand. The burghers were repulsed, but at heavy cost to the garrison, whose losses were an officer and eleven men killed and five officers and 38 men wounded. In addition, 63 men are missing, of which number many are believed to have been killed or wounded. The Boer Commandant Opperman and nineteen burghers are known to have been killed.

THE BOER TRAITORS' TRIAL.
Pretoria, Sept. 30.—The trial here of the Boers accused of being traitors has resulted in their conviction. One was sentenced to penal servitude for life, three to five years' imprisonment, four to three years' imprisonment, and the others to smaller terms.

BECKER WAS ACQUITTED.
Trooper Becker, formerly belonging to a Boer commando, who was accused of killing a Kaffir, has been acquitted on the plea of Advocate Nathan, the defending counsel, that he only obeyed orders in shooting the native. The verdict is much criticised.

FLOG ALL THE NATIVES.
The statement that General Prinsloo had ordered his men to shoot the natives under certain circumstances was incorrect. It appears that he ordered the Boers to flog all natives who did not have Boer passes, and to shoot only those who had passes issued by the British.

FIRE ALARM WAS SOUNDED

And the Central School Rooms Were All Emptied in One Minute and Eight Seconds.

Successful Test Instituted by Chairman of the Board and the Fire Chief.

A person walking along near the Central school this morning about half-past ten o'clock would be surprised to hear the loud clang of the fire alarm in the school and to see all of the children trooping out in excellent order and with perfect ranks. It was a test alarm and the result was most satisfactory.

Chief Pritchard, of the Fire Department, and Dr. Bray, chairman of the Public School Board, walked up to the school at the above mentioned time and without acquainting even Principal Prewes of their intention pulled the fire gong and then watched the children troop out. There were over 600 scholars in the school, scattered around in twelve rooms, and in exactly one minute and eight seconds after the first clang of the gong sounded the school was empty. The sight was a very interesting one to an onlooker. Not one scholar moved faster than a walk and kept time to a march played on the piano by one of the kindergarten teachers. A second test was made and this time the exercise was done in one minute.

One peculiar circumstance in connection with the fire alarm is that as soon as it sounds the teacher does not say a word, but walks to the door and opens it. The scholars, of their own accord, stand up and file out one row at a time.

Mr. Prewes afterwards informed The Planet that when the scholars are working and the bell rings they can pick up their books put on their coats and get out of the school in less than five minutes. This is exceedingly good time and Mr. Prewes certainly deserves a great deal of credit for the manner in which he has drilled his scholars in the event of a fire in the school. He is proud of his school and well he may be. He is exceedingly popular with his scholars and adheres strictly to the rule of working while you work and playing while you play. In this way the scholars apply themselves to their studies and take an interest in their work.

"There are a few improvements which we ought to have here," said Mr. Prewes to The Planet, "but I suppose we can't have everything all at once. We should have all of the floors oiled and the stairways padded so as to avoid so much noise. We should also have iron or brass poles running down the centre of the stairs leading to the street, as the steps are very narrow and the children are very liable to fall."

BATTLE ROYAL WAS WAGED

Alister McKay and City Engineer Participants in Exciting Verbal Duel.

The Laying of a Sidewalk was the Cause of Contention—Board of Works Chairman will Investigate.

"Now, see here, Mr. Engineer, I am getting tired running all over town to look for you when I want you to do some work for me, and you had just better tend to business a little more regularly."

"I have nothing to say to you. If you have any complaints to make, spin your little spell to Mr. Marshall. I get my orders from the chairman of the Board of Works."

This interesting verbal duel took place between Alister McKay and City Engineer McNab, about a quarter after eight o'clock last evening. Scene—Clerk's Office, Harrison Hall; present—Mayor Sulman, and Alds. Marshall, Cowan, Edmondson, and Mounteer.

A special meeting of the council was called to adopt some certificates on public works, but, owing to the inability to secure a quorum, the meeting was not held.

The aldermen were waiting in the clerk's office when Mr. McKay arrived on the scene. He had a grievance to air, and he wished to do it when the engineer was present.

The trouble arose over the contemplated sidewalk on the south end of William street from Park's foundry south one block. The Board of Works have not decided to build the sidewalk this year, but Mr. McKay wishes to commence at once with his share of the work.

Mr. Marshall stated that he had no objections to him building the walk, as long as he did so under the supervision of the City Engineer. This, however, is where the difficulty comes in. Mr. McKay and the Engineer have evidently previously talked the matter over between themselves and their ideas in reference to the same do not exactly correspond. Mr. McKay wants the sidewalk put down outside of the line of trees, while the Engineer says there is not room outside of the line of trees to put down the sidewalk, and besides it would spoil the street to have the sidewalk where Mr. McKay wants it. The majority of the ratepayers on the street want the walk put down inside the trees, where the Engineer says it is the proper place to put it.

The Engineer—It would spoil the whole street to put that sidewalk down outside of the line of trees.

Mr. McKay—Now, I know better. I know as much about putting down a sidewalk as you do.

The Engineer—There is no doubt about it.

After a lengthy discussion, Mr. Marshall decided to go down and view the walk and see if some amicable arrangements could be made.

DELIGHTFUL EVENING

It was Spent by the Many Who Attended St. Andrew's Anniversary.

Successful Service of the Ladies—Enjoyable Program Rendered.

To merely say that the anniversary tea-meeting of St. Andrew's Church was successful would not do the ladies, who worked so hard to make it such, full justice. The supper was served from six to eight and was most enjoyable and sumptuous. The tables, as well as the rooms, were very beautifully decorated and arranged.

The ladies having tables were: Mrs. Landon, Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Pilkey. Assistants—Misses Ruby Duff and Lena Bell.

Mrs. Park and Miss McNaughton. Assistants—Miss Steele, Miss Annie Taylor and Gardiner Park.

Mrs. McEachern and Mrs. Kelly. Assistants—Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. J. Pritchard and Miss Lily Kelly.

Mrs. Somerville, Mrs. McColl, Mrs. Burwood and Miss Montgomery. Assistants—Miss Somerville, Robt. Tob, and Jos. McKellan.

Mrs. Charteris and Mrs. (Dr.) Duncan, without assistants.

Miss McNaughton, Mrs. Jos. Tilt and Mrs. McKellar. Assistants—Misses McKerrall, Ryan and McKellar.

Mrs. H. H. Macdonald and Mrs. Grey. Assistants—Miss Battisby, Miss J. Gemmill and Mr. Douglas.

Mrs. Bell. Assistants—Miss Greening, Miss Atkinson, Miss Bell and Miss Margaret Bell.

Mrs. Innes and Mrs. Hadley. Assistants—Miss Gemmill and Mr. Fleming.

The concert after the luncheon was highly appreciated by a delighted audience. The solo by Claire Monteith was perhaps the event of the evening, while the other musical features were heartily applauded. Mr. Innes made a model choir man.

The program was as follows:
Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow—By all.
Anthem—Choir.
Address—Rev. T. G. George.
Solo—Claire Monteith, accompanied by Mrs. Marshall.
Anthem—Choir.
Address—Rev. Dr. Hannon.
Solo—Dr. Russell.
Solo—Solo—Henry McCaw, accompanied by Miss Lillian Pratt.
Reading—John G. Kerr.
Anthem—Choir.
"God Save the King."

WEAK HUMAN NATURE.

The mad race of Canadians after titles is not at all creditable.—London News.

Neither is the mad race of Canadians for wealth, points out the Hamilton Herald. But the craving for the one is not more natural than the craving for the other. Both are selfish, but both have been very powerful motives of human conduct ever since the dawn of history, and no doubt, long before history began.

The craving for personal distinction is what makes the savage chief claim the right to be adorned more conspicuously than the other members of his tribe. It is precisely the same feeling which makes British noblemen long for the blue ribbon of the Garter, Canadians to squabble over K. C. M. G.'s, and C. M. G.'s, and citizens of the United States to eagerly apply for membership into fraternal societies which will enable them to wear gorgeous regalia and be dubbed "Sir Knight," and see their names in print followed by a string of mystic letters. It's only one form that the universal quality of egotism takes. Of course, the manifestations of it are often grotesque and laughable; but after all, it is closely akin to self-respect and the desire to be thought well of by one's fellow-men.

It is a pardonable weakness; but it is a weakness. How much more noble is the desire and determination of a man to be honored only for what he is and what he does, and not by visible symbols of distinction! While we admit that Disraeli earned his earldom, we instinctively recognize the superior character of his "great rival who died as he had lived, plain Mr. Gladstone. Who can fail to admire the noble scorn of the younger Pitt for titles of honor, which he scattered among his followers with a lavish hand, preferring himself to remain simple William Pitt to the end! Canadians do not honor Alexander Mackenzie any the less because he refused a knighthood, nor do they honor Sir Wilfrid Laurier any the more because he accepted one. A title of honor is like fine clothes: a man may have a liking for them and a desire always to be dressed in the height of fashion; and he may be a very good or even great man for all that, or a very weak and vicious man! The love for titles is evidence of a harmless sort of vanity which men would be the better without, but which is not serious enough to be "viewed with alarm."

THE AIMS OF SOCIALISM.

A frequent mistake made in this country and the United States is the confounding of Socialism with Anarchy, though Socialism has no resemblance whatever to the hideous doctrine whose sole aim is the destruction of order and the murder of its representatives. A short time ago at a meeting in Indianapolis, the various Socialistic clubs in the United States were consolidated into one harmonious whole under the name of the Socialist party, and the new body enunciated a platform, which, though revolutionary in some respects, entirely removes the suspicion that its members have anything in common with the society which breeds such monsters as Szolgoz. Their principles differ little from those of advanced Liberals here and in England, the chief among them being government ownership of railways, telegraphs, industries now controlled by trusts; reduction in the hours of labor; education of the young by the government at the public expense; public work for the unemployed; the initiative and referendum, and state or national insurance for workmen. This is Socialism as understood by its votaries in the United States, and not only are the objects which it proposes to itself perfectly legitimate in a free country but it is predicted by many Americans that if the capitalistic element of the Democratic party continues to gain ascendancy as it is doing millions of voters who are averse to seeing the country governed under the direction and in the interest of Wall street manipulators will be driven into the Socialistic fold, in which even social democracy will become an overmastering issue in the big republic.

BANFF THE BEAUTIFUL

J. W. Young Was Especially Impressed with the Watertown Place of the West.

Another of His Entertaining Letters to the Planet—On the Homeward Journey.

Portage la Prairie, September 21, 1901.

On September 12 I was forced, much against my will, to leave Stratford and Edmonton before I had seen the half of either place. My friend, Lawyer Boyle, introduced me to H. A. Conroy, Government Indian agent, and I had very pleasant company during the day's ride from Edmonton to Calgary. Mr. Conroy had just returned from distributing the yearly annuity to the Indians and, having been as far north as Great Slave Lake, he had many an interesting story to tell of the great north land of Western Canada.

"I left Edmonton for March," said Mr. Conroy, "and crossing Lesser Slave Lake by pack horses, we had to cut a path through the brush for 20 miles. The Indians of the north are an exceedingly fine class of men. I think the wood Cree is the finest of the northern Indians and much superior to the prairie Cree. (The real reason for the northern Indians being so much better is that they are removed from contact with civilization and the white man. It is unexpected but, nevertheless, it is true that the Indian is spoiled by civilization. I would much rather do business with a pagan Indian because the values he has word above all else.

"If you are starving and can reach an Indian settlement, the Indians will put before you the best they have even if it is the last meal. The Indians are full of hospitality and they wonder why the white man is not the same.

"I have often heard it stated that the Indians are unkind to the aged, but I found this to be false. They are exceedingly kind to their old people and the men treat their squaws with the same consideration as a white man. The Indians are fairly clean, as clean as you could expect them to be with the thermometer often down 60 below zero. Even the white men, when the weather is that cold, have little inclination for water and there is little danger that the most fastidious white man would care for a wash. He will postpone any desire to bathe and keep postponing till summer comes.

"I used to be a little particular myself about eating the meals of fish dried by the Indians, but I soon got over my prejudice. I had in regard to eating these and now I enjoy them. Place and hunger make a big difference in what you eat.

"Up along the Peace River, six hundred miles north of Edmonton, they raise everything that grows. The land is the finest and most fertile in the Dominion. There are a few settlers at Spirit River and a large settlement at Vermilion. You can get in some idea of the excellence of the climate in this far northern country when you learn that George McLeod, of Ottawa, and John Bremner, a Scotchman, have ranches there and the cattle must out all winter. There's a grand prairie at this point just the place for ranching, with bluffs and a river.

"After leaving the Foot Hills, we went on the Peace River by boat to the Beaver Indians at St. John, B. C. Then returning, we went north to Great Slave Lake. This is as far north as I went and it is some 800 miles north of Edmonton. Here the Indian has an unnatural craving for whiskey and he, like the reverend gentleman who was with me, gulped down the red ink, but only because he can't get the whiskey. You will scarcely believe it, but the Indians drink red ink, perfume, pain-killers or any other concoction they can get hold of that contains alcohol. The unscrupulous traders, and I believe they are few, who go north to trade with the Indians take a good supply of ginger from which they make a vile drink in lieu of whiskey. It is odd, but the Indians don't understand how to ferment liquor so that they are unable to distill intoxicating beverages themselves. The Indian in addition is the greatest tea drinker in the world, and you will go a long way before you will find a better judge of good tea.

"There is no kinder hearted people on earth than the Northern Indian, and they are head and shoulders above the civilized Indians. These Indians, too, are as well dressed as any white man, and this is not surprising when you learn that many Indians make as much each year as a bank manager. They generally have from $1,000 to $2,000 worth of furs to sell annually. The dusky denizen of the land of cold and snow is cute and he knows what his furs are worth just as well as the white man does. The Indian takes his furs to his camp and goes to the trading post and looks around examining the goods. The trader apparently doesn't pay any attention, but he knows from the goods the red man is looking at the amount of fur that the Indian has.

"The Indian having examined the goods of the trader goes and gets his furs and throws them down in the store. He tells the trader what furs there are, so many being prime and so many being not prime. The trader doesn't look at the furs but takes for granted that the Indian takes him the two best to begin to dicker. The red man knows the price of the fur just as well as the trader does, and he knows just what he is going to get. If he thinks he hasn't got the highest price he goes to another trader and gets his price if the furs were all prime. He then figures out what primes are worth, and knowing this, the Indian is prepared to sell at his own price. For a heavier skin

Fresh in the Right Way.

ALMOST every man who has been successful has written an article for some magazine on how he did it, or been interviewed by some newspaper, but all this information has been scattered carelessly abroad, so that when we want to know what to do, or the right step to take, we cannot lay our hands on the particular species of advice which we remember to have read. The result is that we stumble along as best we can, and probably make the very mistakes of our lives, all for want of knowing what Caleb Cope did at this point.

The writer hopes herewith to supply this deficiency, as he has kept a record of the principal necessities laid down from time to time by great men who have given the results of their experience, and lays them before the reader, to follow closely and not shrink. To begin with, you should select for a birthplace a dingy-looking little farmhouse, on the outskirts of a clearing. Log cabins have gone out of date. At one time they were quite fashionable, but something a trifle better is now demanded. As time goes on, who knows? Maybe some of our great men will be born in the "Ladies' Home Journal" three-thousand-dollar country houses. This, however, is a remote contingency.

Be good to your mother. While the other boys of the neighborhood are playing hooky, marbles and baseball, you will be doing chores around the house. This, however, does not imply so coarse a course as Sunday-school, and when you are not sawing wood and laying the foundation of the wonderful constitution which is afterwards to carry you through life, you will be reading a few well-chosen books, such as the dictionary, the Bible, and one or two good comic papers. You will find the jokes useful later when you are called upon to make after-dinner speeches.

You can then take your choice of "struggling" through college or leaving the farm with a dollar in your pocket. Better leave college alone, however, as it teaches you a lot of superfluous things you may regret. Many a man who might have accumulated a large fortune has spoiled it all by going through college and learning to love other things more than money. The best plan is to come to New York with a dollar in your pocket. Go at once to the leading savings bank and deposit seventy-five cents. Lie on the balcony until you get work. As soon as you get work, save at least seventy-five per cent. of your wages, if you can; or, better still, ninety per cent. You will thus acquire habits of frugality, which will be a source of happiness to you throughout your whole life.

At the end of a few years you will have saved up a few thousands, and your success is now assured. Do not gamble. Gambling is not only safer and surer, but it is legal. Protected by the laws of your country, you can feel entirely safe. Reorganize a railroad.

Start a small trust, or get acquainted in Washington. When you get to be seventy you ought to be worth at least a hundred millions. You can then make a bluff at giving it all away, and be quoted as saying that it is wicked for a rich man to leave anything behind him.—Tom Masson.

Mr. Balfour on Illustration.

"There are books," said Mr. Arthur Balfour, at the dinner given to Sir John Tenniel in London the other evening "in which the text is a mere afterthought and almost unnecessary appendage to the illustrations. There are other books, still larger in number, in which the illustration is an impertinent intrusion upon the attention of the reader, distracting his mind from the literary masterpiece with which he is concerned, and intruding alien and unsympathetic ideas to disturb the current of his thought. These books are numerous. But there is a third class of book in which the illustration and the text are so intimately connected, in which the marriage between the two is so happy and so complete, that you cannot conceive the text adequately without the illustrations any more than you could conceive the illustrations unaided by the text. Our guest of this evening is one of the happy creators of this kind of illustration. There are books known to all of us in which it would be as impossible to forget the author as it is impossible to forget the illustrations. Of course, the book was 'Alice in Wonderland.'"

Stable Asides.

Fanny Kemble once gave a most amusing instance of the extent to which 'stage whispering' may be carried on unknown to the audience. It was in a well-known theater, and 'Romeo and Juliet' was the play. Romeo was at the words (stage version, not Shakespeare's), 'Quick let me snatch thee to thy Romeo's arms,' when he pounced upon her, and lifting her up, bodily staggered down the stage.

"Let me go," she whispered, "you've got me up horribly; let me down," but all in vain. The climax came at the passage, 'Fare not my heart-string thus; they break, they crack, Juliet!' (still the stage version), when—

Juliet (to corpse)—Am I, smothering you?
Corpses—Not at all; but could you, do you think, be so kind as to put my wig on again for me? It is falling off.

Juliet (to corpse)—I am afraid I cannot, but I'll throw my muslin veil over it. You have broken the veil, have you?
Corpses—No, indeed.

Juliet—Where's the dagger?
Corpses—Don't you know, don't know. All these 'asides' went on unknown to the audience in the very crisis of the tragedy.

Just Think of It!

In the last 'Berichte,' Nencki and Marchlewski describe the very interesting discovery of the close chemical relationship existing between the red coloring matter of the blood and the green chlorophyll of plants. Haemoglobin, a derivative of haemoglobin, and phytylcytin obtained from chlorophyll, both yield on reduction haemoglobin, which is probably an isobutyl or methyl pyropyrrol.

AFTER MANY YEARS

Of suffering from kidney disease, Miss Minnie Ryan, of St. Louis, Mo., found a complete cure result from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is such cures as this which establish the soundness of Dr. Pierce's theory: "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." Every other organ depends on the stomach for its vitality and vigor. For by the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition the food which is eaten is converted into nutriment, which, in the form of blood, is the sustaining power of the body and each organ of it. When the stomach is diseased the food supply of the body is cut down, the organs are starved, and the weakness of starvation shows itself in lungs, heart, liver, kidneys or some other organ. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and so cures diseases of other organs which have originated through deficient nutrition or impure blood.

"I had been suffering with kidney trouble twenty years," writes Miss Minnie Ryan, of 157 Louisiana Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., "and I had doctored with a number of the best physicians. Two years ago I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Favorite Prescription, and took also several vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I took eight bottles (four of each), and I feel now perfectly cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

A Question of Nationality. It happened at one of the Baltimore police stations. The prisoner, a long haired hobo son of Erin, lounged against the bar of justice. The justice glared at him over his spectacles.

"What's his name?" he inquired of the lieutenant.

"Michael O'Hara, squire; charged with being drunk on the street."

"Elm! Foreign born," mused the justice. "Sprechen sie Englisch, O'Hara?"

The prisoner straightened up in his solesless shoes and, with the dignity of generations of kings, said: "Squire, it's an American citizen I am from me birth, being born in Oireland. I want me case tried by an American judge not by a foreign dago with a satchel that a Christian can't understand."

"Oh, you're Irish. I thought your name had a German sound," said the squire, more humbly. "Case dismissed, lieutenant."

Marine Creatures That Catch Birds. "One of the names of the great, clumsy, moon shaped, wide mouthed fish commonly called the angler," said an old fisherman, "is goosifish. There is nothing goes like in the angler's appearance, and somebody once saw an angler, big and clumsy as it is, come up unaware and nab a goose that had settled on the water and drag it under; hence the name."

"But then, as far as that's concerned, you wouldn't expect seals to be bird catchers, would you? As a matter of fact the harbor seal does occasionally get a bird, such as a duck, which it might so chance upon as to be able to capture it."

A Bar to Marriage.

Daughter (cooing)—Papa, do have a little mercy and let Charles and me be happy together.

Papa (mathematical professor)—What? You want to think of marriage when you don't even know where to find the hypotenuse of a right angled triangle?

Always Careful.

Mamma—I hope you gave that young Custer a piece of your mind when he kissed you!

Ethel—Ah, mamma, I wanted to hear your opinion about it first.

A Great Man and a Child.

In his reminiscences of Horace Greeley in the "Youth's Companion" series of Recollections of Famous Editors, Noah Brooks says that Greeley could bear a great sorrow or a great disappointment with the fortitude of a stoic, but a trifling annoyance would provoke him to an outburst of wrath that was simply childish. The death of his little boy, his only and idolized son, was to him an awful blow. No man can know what agony the stricken father silently endured, his grief coning the drops of his heart's blood. But a typographical blunder, especially if it were in one of his own writings, drove him into spasms; then his maledictions on the offending typesetter and proofreader were something blood-curdling to hear. When he was told of the error in the "Tribune" office to find the compositor who had made a bad error in setting the types for one of his editorial articles in the paper, he rushed into the composing-room, with blue fire in his eyes and shaking the paper folded across the page to show the offense, he shrieked, "Show me the man! Show me the man that did this!" He rushed into the composing-room, with blue fire in his eyes and shaking the paper folded across the page to show the offense, he shrieked, "Show me the man! Show me the man that did this!"

Of his education, Mr. Greeley said it "was picked up by the way." It is natural that one who knew him should wonder what manner of man he might have been if he had been trained and disciplined in an institution of learning. He might have been a very much greater man, thinks Mr. Brooks; and then, too, his raw resources might not have been so strong and abundant under a scholastic rule.

When he was a lad of nine years he was offered free tuition in the academy at Exeter, New Hampshire. His parents declined the offer, partly through pride, Mr. Greeley thought, although naturally because his mother was unwilling to part with him at that tender age. Later in life, speaking of this failure to secure an academic course of instruction, he said: "I suppose I ought to be sorry, but I am not much."

Mr. Greeley affected contempt for college-educated men, and was accustomed to say, with great emphasis, "Of all cattle, the most useless is a newspaper office in a college-bred man!" This seemed to be an affectation intended to justify his own lack of scholarship, as if he were the shining example of what a great editor could be without special training. As a matter of fact, adds Mr. Brooks, during my term of service on the "Tribune" a majority of the men on the staff were college-bred men.

Some Epigrams on Growing Old.

Max O'Reil, in an article on "Old Women," says, among other things: "A woman who knows how to grow old gracefully is a delight; but an old woman, whose wrinkled grimaces try to be inviting, voluptuous smiles, whose skeleton, loaded with diamonds, seems to crack as if on the point of crumbling to dust, who has a painted face, dyed hair, and false teeth—that woman makes me shudder; it is the most horrible sight in the world."

"For man, love is an expectation at twenty, an irresistible desire at thirty, a habit at forty, an indiscretion or a hesitation at sixty, and a profanation at seventy. For a woman love is a dream at twenty, an experience at thirty, and a reminiscence after forty."

"Balzac, the greatest authority on love and women, and the most wonderful dissector of the human heart who ever lived, says that the best and most artistic effort of a clever and refined man is at fifty-two, and that a woman is perfect only at thirty-five. There is hope for some of us."

"Happy the woman who knows how to grow old! Happy her husband especially!"

"I have heard it said that few women know how to get old. However true this may be, the old woman who believes that she is still a maiden is much less ridiculous than the old man who believes that he is still irresistible."

The Considerate Dog.

A yellow dog who had bayed the moon ever since sunset was approached by a sedate old mastiff about 5 o'clock in the morning.

"See here, friend," said the mastiff, "will you be so good as to explain why it is you get so much comfort out of barking all night at the moon?"

"Well, it's this way," explained the yellow dog: "You see, I am afflicted with insomnia, and it takes an acute form which makes me feel obliged to bark at something; so I, being a considerate dog, bark at the moon, knowing that it cannot hear me. Therefore it is not annoyed in the least, and I am afforded much relief."

"So you are actuated purely by considerate motives and sincere desire to spare anyone annoyance?"

"Just so!" and the yellow dog wagged his tail proudly.

"But did it never occur to you to consider your neighbors also?" demanded the mastiff.

The yellow dog was overwhelmed with confusion. He listened for a moment to the hitherto unnoticed profanity and tearing of hair that was going on all over the neighborhood. Then he tucked his tail beneath him and slunk under the house.

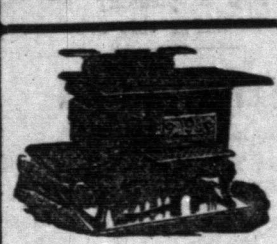

Moral: Before striking at an enemy be sure you have no friends within range.

Stuck to It.

In a school for colored children there was a little boy who would persist in saying "have went." The teacher kept him in one night and said: "Now, while I am out of the room you may write 'have gone' fifty times." When the teacher came back he looked at the boy's paper, and there was "have gone fifty times." On the other side was written: "I have went home."

HOME AGAIN

City Editor Young of The Planet Returned From His Western Trip.

John W. Young, city editor of The Planet, returned this morning from his long western trip. Mr. Young is somewhat unburned but has been enjoying splendid health and speaks in glowing terms of the great west.

Mr. Young wrote his last letter to this journal from Banff and the manuscript only beat him home by a day. Since that writing he has continued his homeward journey and spent a couple of days at the Pan-American.

"It is a magnificent country," said Mr. Young when one of his Planet colleagues undertook the complicated task of extracting an interview from him, "and I have enjoyed the trip immensely. One does not properly realize the vastness and the possibilities of our Dominion until he has viewed its great west. It is simply grand. By-the-way, I'm already looking forward to another western trip some day. The time this year seemed all too short."

There was one disappointment on the home journey. The Duke missed Jack; and no doubt both are chagrined at the unfortunate circumstance.

PRESENTMENT

The Grand Jury Report on the Different Public Institutions—Cases in Court.

Court resumed again yesterday afternoon and up until noon to-day the case of Brewer vs. the L. E. & D. R. R. was still in progress.

The evidence for the prosecution went to show that the fence was too high to see the train approaching and the whistle was not blown nor was the bell rung.

The evidence for the defense was directly contradictory and showed that the plaintiff was driving his horses recklessly and also went to prove that the bell was ringing.

M. Wilson, K. C., for the defense, delivered his address to the jury, and J. B. Rankin, K. C., for the plaintiff, was still addressing them at the time of going to press.

We, the Grand Jury of the Fall Assizes in the County of Kent, beg leave to present as follows:—

PRESENTMENT.
It is a matter of gratification to ourselves that the County of Kent, being so large and populous a county, is so free from crime of any important nature, and we reciprocate with your Lordship in your remarks in your address to us that our duties have been so light.

In compliance with your Lordship's directions we have visited the jail, and wish to congratulate the commissioners of the County Council upon the important improvements made to the county jail and court house, whereby the prisoners are properly classified, and the equipment modernized.

There are at present seven prisoners confined in the jail, six males and one female. We found every department clean and in perfect order and would congratulate the governor of the jail and County Council thereon.

We would recommend that an awning be placed over the window of the jailers' office to prevent the sun from beating in so strongly at times so as to prevent work.

We also visited the House of Industry and through the courtesy of the Superintendent, Mr. T. Arnold, was thoroughly shown through the institution and found all the inmates happy, comfortable and contented and well cared for, and that we are well pleased with the institution and believe it is the proper way to care for the aged and infirm.

The building and farm as a whole is complete in furnishings, labor and accommodations for the inmates and is a credit to the county of Kent and the officials.

We visited the two city hospitals, the General Hospital and the St. Joseph's Hospital. We were kindly received at both institutions and shown through. These hospitals are doing a great and valuable work in our community. We would strongly recommend that an elevator be placed in the General Hospital for the use of the patients and nurses.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. W. WILSON, Foreman.

NO WIND

Sad Story of To-day's Yacht Race.

THE LIPTON BOAT HAS SURPRISED YANKEE SHARPS.

Outpointed and Outfooted Columbia in Light Breeze.

Shamrock Turned First Mark Well in the Lead.

PROGRESS OF THE RACE.

WEATHER SHARPS DUBIOUS.

New York, Oct. 1.—Both yachts were ready for a start by 8.30. The mooring chains had been unshackled and they were holding only by a slip line.

All night the wind blew strongly from the northwest, but it began to subside at sunrise, and the weather sharps shook their heads dubiously and predicted that the beautiful 10-knot wind would not hold long enough to get the race fairly started. The wind shifted around to the north-northeast, but the sea, owing to the off-shore wind for the past day or two, seemed to have subsided and there was very little surf on the Jersey coast.

At 9 o'clock the observer on Sandy Hook reported the wind at 14 miles from the northeast and the sea smooth.

Columbia was the first to start for the lightship in tow, and she was followed a few moments later by Shamrock.

There was a large fleet of pleasure craft hovering about, and a noticeable increase in the number of sailing yachts. Lewis Nixon's houseboat, the Louden, was anchored near Sir Thos. Lipton's Erin, while near by was the old schooner yacht America, which, 50 years ago brought to these shores the silver trophy for which Columbia and Shamrock are struggling.

As the yachts drew toward the starting line the wind was decreased perceptibly.

The close race of Saturday and the beautiful weather in the early morning to-day drew an attendance considerably in excess of either of the preceding days.

By 10 o'clock the racers were at the lightship, and the skirmish line of the excursion fleet was sweeping around the Hook.

Lipton's Erin was well to the front of the fleet with a distinguished party on board. The big dent in its port quarter, made by the revenue cutter Grisham in collision on Saturday, had been straightened out, and a coat of green paint covered all outer marks of the accident.

Special to The Planet.

FIRST LEG DUE EAST.

New York, Oct. 1.—After a conference on board the committee boat signals were set for a course as follows:

The first leg due east, a beat; the second south-southwest, one-half west, a broad reach on the port tack, and the third north-northwest, one-half west, a close fetch to the finish on the starboard tack.

Meanwhile the wind had fallen so light that the two big yachts stood up like churches, the breeze not being strong enough to give them any heel.

New York, Oct. 1.—9.45.—Long Beach, on the Long Island shore, reports wind falling fast. Long Branch says it is not blowing over seven knots.

At 9.15 the wind had dropped to 12-14 knots at Sandy Hook station. Both yachts were going to the starting line. It was blowing up from the south, which may mean a wind later.

At 7 o'clock the wind was blowing 15 knots off Sandy Hook.

Weather forecast last night said the winds would decrease toward noon and become variable and light.

10.10.—Wind now 11 miles from north east at Sandy Hook.

10.35.—Wind is falling steadily.

10.46.—Preparatory gun fired at 10.45.

10.55.—Wind not over four knots.

Warning signal fired.

11.02.—Starting gun fired at 11, with Columbia in excellent position.

Special per C. P. R. Telegraph. New York, Oct. 1.—10.55.—Boats are maneuvering at start to the leeward of the line, wind not over four knots; warning signal was fired at 10.55.

11.02.—Starting gun was fired at 11 o'clock, with the Columbia in excellent position.

11.05.—The Columbia had by far the better of the start, being clearly to the windward of her rival and an observer on shore at the Highlands caught her time at 45 seconds ahead of the Shamrock.

11.12.—The official time start as given by the Macromi Telegraph—Columbia—11.00.10.

A Scotch Toast

A new Scotch story (or else an old one that has enjoyed a decent period of quiescence) is being told which hinges upon the old subject of Queen Victoria as a woman, from the Scotch point of view. At a dinner once given in Scotland (says The Glasgow Mail) by a Scotchman, who, in a few words, delivered his opinion as follows:—

"Now, gentlemen," said the Chairman, "will ye a' fill your glasses, for I'm about to bring ferri' the Queen. Our Queen, gentlemen, is really a wonderful woman, if I may say it: she's one o' the guid auld sort. Nae whigmairies or faddicals about her, but a douchie decent lady."

"She's respectable beyond a' doubt. She has brocht up a grand family o' well-faured lads and lasses—her auld-est son being a credit to ony mither—and they're a' weel married. Ane daughter is the less than married to the Duke o' Argyll's son and heir."

"Gentlemen, ye'll maybe no' believe it, but I once saw the Queen. I did."

"It was when I took my auld broon coo to Perth Show. I remember her weel-such color, such hair—"

"(Interruption and cries of "It is the coo o' the Queen ye're proposin'!")

"The Queen, gentlemen, I beg your pardon, but I was talking about the coo. However, as to the Queen, somebody pointed her out to me at Perth station, and there she was, smart and tidy-like, and says I to myself, 'Gin my auld woman at hame slips awa' ye needna remain a widow anither hour langer.' Noo, gentlemen, 'The Queen!'"

Food for Hot Weather.

A hot weather topic for those who are prone to talk about their food, and particularly for vegetarians, is furnished by a "vegetable substitute for meat," which has been newly patented. It is declared by the inventor to have the flavor and nutritive properties of meat, while actually of purely vegetable ingredients, and the chemistry section of the Patent Office at Washington has endorsed the claim as truthful. As a matter of fact, the compound appears to contain protein and other elements, utilizable in the body for making flesh and blood and for fuel, in about the same proportions as in beef or mutton.

"In a word," says The Saturday Evening Post, "the compound is a vegetable substitute for meat, containing the same nutrients in the same proportions, and easy of digestion and assimilation. The stuff of which it is made is wheat-gluten, water and peanut meal. Of course, peanut meal is exceedingly rich in protein (the flesh and blood making substance of foods), while its oil is a capital fuel for the body. Wheat-gluten furnishes the balance of the elements required for the late meat. In preparing the mixture the gluten is first washed to free it from starch, and is then mixed thoroughly with the water and peanut oil. Finally, the mixture is cooked in sealed cans for from one to three hours, at a temperature of from 212 to 230 degrees Fahrenheit, the result being a total change in the consistency and flavor of the contents. It is the cooking, indeed, that seems to give a peculiar quality to the product."

A Great and Good King.

The approaching celebration of the memory of the great and good King Alfred is certainly stirring the depths of the admiration universally felt for him to an extraordinary degree. The latest suggestion of the zealous is that St. George be forthwith dethroned from his position as the patron saint of England and "Saint Alfred" installed in his place. Ecclesiastics of the position—of the Dean of Ely, have approved of the suggestion. The Anglican Church, according to the Dean, "neglects to people with noble names and worthy memories the vacancies of All Saints' Day, or fill up the dwarfed and impoverished Anglican calendar with native types and saintship." Another equally prominent churchman endorses the opinion of Freeman that the perfect character in history, a saint without superstition, a scholar without ostentation, a warrior whose wars were waged in defence of his country, "As England was recently dedicated by the Roman Catholics to St. Mary and St. Peter, we should be able," remarks The Daily Chronicle, "under the protection of four patron saints, to confront our national destiny without misgiving."

Maria Pia and the Pope.

There are stories afloat which, if true, show Queen Maria Pia of Portugal as a woman with a will of her own. When on a recent occasion she was in Rome to "assist" at the christening of Princess Tolianda, it was declared that a political cast would be given to the visit as a result of an interview with the Pope, which, it was said, would undoubtedly take place. By way of elucidation it may be added that the Queen, who is only Queen-dowager, is a sister of the late King Humbert, and that the Government of Portugal is presently said to be contemplating a measure directed against the privileges of the religious orders in that country.

On her arrival in Rome, accordingly, (so the story runs) the Vatican conveyed a hint to her through the Portuguese Minister that if she would apply for an audience with the Pope his Holiness would waive the rule which excludes Roman Catholic Princes from being received by the Pope when they pay their respects to the Italian Court. It was stipulated, however, that Queen Maria Pia should not drive to the Vatican from the Quirinal in a Court carriage, but that she should proceed from the Portuguese Legation for the Vatican in the carriage of the Portuguese Minister.

But Queen Pia not only refused to apply for an audience, but gave out the statement that, as she had gone to Rome on a family occasion, she had no intention of calling on the Pontiff. She is said to have added the outspoken words:—"I will never subject myself, even with the consent of my nephew, the King of Italy, to the indecorous comedy of starting from a place which is not my residence and in carriage not belonging to the Court, to belong to Portugal, and, though the King of Portugal is my son, I cannot meddle in questions of State, and still less lay my conduct open to an interpretation which would correspond neither to the truth nor to the feelings of the people. It must never be thought that I am, or could be, in opposition to the King and his Government."

Observatore Romano, however, in a Vatican communiqué has denied that there had been any overtures made to Queen Maria Pia "other than those customarily made to royalties of Catholic States when visiting Rome." So there the matter rests.

Famous Painter of Dogs.

Miss Francis C. Fairman of London is the most famous woman artist of dogs. She was some time ago introduced to Queen Alexandra, who was so pleased with her lifelike groups of canines that she commissioned her to paint all her special pets. She made a charming picture of the trio, Pounce, Fanny and Little Billie. Fanny is well-known to the general public; he is the little Jap who figures with his royal mistress in the portrait painted by Mr. Luke Fildes, R. A. Pounce, another Jap "doggie," knows many tricks. Little Billie, who is a tiny Thibet spaniel, retains his proud position of first favorite, and accompanies the Queen wherever she goes when it is possible for him to be taken. Miss Fairman spent many weeks at Sandringham painting these, also the Irish water spaniel, the favorite dog of the Princess Victoria of Wales, and the Dandy Dismont Venus, who was the pet of the late Queen of Greece, and who, after her death, attached himself in the most pathetic manner to King Edward, then Prince of Wales. Miss Fairman has also painted some of the late Queen's favorite dogs. One of these may be called "unintentional information." A peasant woman who had seen the Kaiser's consort as a slender girl in Prein Kenau, gave blunt rustic expression to her astonishment as to how the figure looked after the birth of several children. Her outcry was mentioned in gossip at a village inn, when it struck the ear of a gendarme who happened to be present. This rudeness reported to the matter. His superior prosecuted it, and the amazed and bewildered old woman was transported from her cottage to a cell.

Disorientating.

An Irish farmer went into an ironmonger's shop to buy a scythe. After serving him the shopman asked him if he would buy a bicycle.

"What is that?" queried the Irishman.

"It's a machine to ride about the town on."

"And, shure, what might the price of it be?"

"I'd rather see fifteen pounds in a cow."

"But what a fool you would look riding round the town on the back of a cow!"

"Shure, now," replied the Irishman, "not half such a fool as I'd look trying to milk a bicycle!"

In for Principle.

An old gentleman reproved his nephew for fighting with another boy. "But," said the lad, "he called my sister names!" "Why, you haven't any sister, and never had one!" exclaimed the uncle in astonishment. "I know it," replied the boy doggedly, "but he thought I had, and called her squint eyed, and I sailed in on the principle of the thing."

Children's Kidneys

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets The Most Successful Treatment For the Kidney Weakness of Children.

Mothers know what distress and anxiety they have when the little ones cannot retain their water properly, or have any trouble with their kidneys.

For any weakness of the kidneys, bladder or urinary organs of children, Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, which are the prescription of the eminent specialist, Dr. Zina Pitcher, are the most effective remedy known to science.

Mrs. M. M. Glover, Pearl street, Brockville, Ont., says: "One of my children that had been suffering from sluggish kidneys read about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and procured a bottle. They removed the whole difficulty promptly. The depressing pain over the kidneys stopped, dizziness and headaches ceased, and there was a general invigoration of the system. There is no question regarding the merits of these Tablets for the back and kidneys. We have great confidence in them and recommend them highly."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 60 cents a box at all drug-gists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

Curious Bits of News.

Few persons know that an ordinary gas jet will consume as much oxygen as four human beings. It is, therefore, well to remember when sitting long in a gas-lighted room to occasionally open a door or a window for a few moments and bring in some fresh air.

"Roughly speaking, the world's consumption of sugar in the last fifteen years has doubled, while in Great Britain it has trebled per head in forty years," says the "Medical Times." "The English and Americans stand easily at the head of the list as the sugar-eating nations."

Adding to his already long list of horticultural triumphs, Luther Burbank of Santa Rosa has produced a prune without a pit, says the San Francisco "Bulletin." Years of experience of Santa Rosa wizard were required to perfect this latest marvel. The hybrid is understood to be a cross between a plum and a prune. The pit of the ordinary prune has been a great drawback to the popular consumption of the fruit. Burbank's creation has no pit, but a tiny seed that is edible and in no way requires removal.

"American promoters must take a 'back seat,'" says the "Railway Age," "while a French mining engineer outlines his project of a trans-Alaskan-Siberian railway about 4,000 miles long. Besides immense steam ferries across Bering Sea, and capitalised at $200,000,000, Circle City, a charming winter resort in the Arctic regions, on the Yukon River, a couple of thousand miles or so from its mouth, is to be the southern terminus of the road, and Vladivostok, in Russia, will be the always convenient Asian end."

It is generally understood that journalism, especially "yellow journalism," is expensive, but most people probably do not realize how very expensive it is. Dr. Parkhurst and other reformers have talked about the desirability of establishing endowed newspapers, which should be independent of popular patronage. If a paper like the "Journal" were living on the interest of an endowment fund without any business income to balance its outgo, the fund would have to be over $100,000. The pay-rolls of the great New York newspapers run from $30,000 to $60,000 a week, and that is only part of their expenses.

A German judge cites a rather remarkable case of lese majeste, which, he says, may be called "unintentional information." A peasant woman who had seen the Kaiser's consort as a slender girl in Prein Kenau, gave blunt rustic expression to her astonishment as to how the figure looked after the birth of several children. Her outcry was mentioned in gossip at a village inn, when it struck the ear of a gendarme who happened to be present. This rudeness reported to the matter. His superior prosecuted it, and the amazed and bewildered old woman was transported from her cottage to a cell.

Among the many uses to which the automobile is applied in military service is that of a new Austrian invention, called the Schweitzer Military Mill-Bakery Automobile. This will follow the regiments on the march and make fresh bread from the wheat obtained on the spot. There is mounted on an automobile car a mill with bolters and kneading-troughs, all run by the same motor which runs the automobile. The oven is drawn along in the rear. The bran obtained serves as food for the cavalry horses. By this method five thousand men can be fed daily. This mill-bakery can also render service in cases of large labor contracts which bring together numbers of workmen.

Australians have queer nicknames for different states and for one another. The Queenslanders are dubbed "bananalanders." Western Australians, known as "sandgroppers" or "gropers," now abbreviated into Westralians. The Westralians class the whole of the other states in one group, and call them "other side," and the inhabitants "other siders." Tasmania, so much like England in climate and other characteristics, is usually regarded as a little behind the times, and referred to as the land of "other time." "The land of sleep a lot," and so on. Tasmanians are called Tassies, also "jameaters," jam being one of the chief productions of the "light little island."

"During the progress of the construction of the reservoir for the enlargement of the London water-supply, a splendid specimen of an ancient ship," says the "Scientific American," "has been discovered in the bed of the old River Lea, the course of which has been diverted in order to permit the excavations. The vessel was found at a depth of seven feet below the surface. It is about 50 feet long and is constructed of oak throughout, with the exception of the keel, which is of elm. The ribs of the boat are secured to the sides by treenails, while the timbers are secured with crude and primitive, though well-made, iron nails. The floor-boards are also fastened together with nails and the caulking is done with felt. Many antiquarians, who have examined the relic, think that it constitutes a part of the fleet with which King Alfred the Great fought against the Danes. Another curious dugout boat, estimated to be about 2,500 years old, was also unearthed, and is to be deposited in the British Museum."

Corticelli sewing silk quality begins in the selection of the "raw" or "cocoon" silk.

Only the cocoons of large, strong worms are selected.

The worms are kept at a moderate temperature and develop slowly but strongly.

That raw silk costs more than the "forced" product of rapidly developed but weakly worms.

But only the best is used in Corticelli sewing silk.

Life in the Sea.
In a fascinating article in the August number of The North American Review, Dr. Charles Minor Blackford gives much interesting information about "Life in the Sea." It was long thought that the dark waves were a fit abode only for strange, misshapen monsters. But as between the sea and the land, Dr. Blackford contends, if the reproach of barrenness must attach to either, the land must bear that reproach, for the sea contains a richness of flora and fauna which the land cannot rival. From the surface downward, says Dr. Blackford, the ocean teems with life, to such a degree that naturalists stand aghast as they contemplate its infinite variety. Here is a description of what is to be seen on a coral lagoon:—
"Life on the bottom exists in its greatest beauty and profusion in water that is free from sediment and shifting sands. On our Atlantic seaboard the conditions are not very favorable, and, though anemones, molluscs and crustaceans abound, the more beautiful forms are scarce. The diverse sea-pen lives on the mud banks, and forms of great symmetry are found; but this is nothing compared with the wealth of a coral lagoon. The vertical rays of the sun, reflected from the bottom, make the water as transparent as air; and, as the boat floats slowly across, one can gaze through the glass in the bottom of the boat on a scene of indescribable beauty. Great branching masses of coral of varying hue look like shrubs or even trees. Wonderful anemones, or flower animals, and the zoophytes, strange animal-plants, are distributed freely over the bottom. In other places, great lichen-covered rocks seem to be spangled with red, star-shaped flowers; and through and about it all the parrot fish flit, nibbling and browsing on the buds. No garden can equal these oceanic paradises in richness or variety of color; yet they are filled with animals almost to the exclusion of plant life. The lichen is a hydroid coral, the starlike flowers are but the vermilion ends of boring anemones, and the parrot fish do not nibble the stony coral, but seek gorgonias, madrepores, or small crustaceans. "Strange world in which the animal kingdom blossoms and the vegetable does not!"

The Heifer's First Calf.
The idea seems to be gaining ground that the first calf dropped by the heifer should not be allowed to suck, the reason given that the heifer should not find out that there is any way but to be hand-milked, and the affection that would otherwise be bestowed upon the calf is as freely given to the milkster, and the maternal instinct that is so strong in the desire to supply nourishment for her young then knows no other demand; and if the man who milks her is gentle and coaxing and feeds her, she quickly adopts him, and gives him all her milk, and in her way "loves" him. But if the calf is allowed to suck for a week or so, the heifer cannot understand the change to hand-milking, and the usual performance of milking has to be done through milk in the calf's mouth, but kicked over, and less milk is obtained, the estimate being that between two weeks of milking, the calf will give 15 per cent. more milk, and will milk the longest. The calf need not be removed from her sight, but tied at her head, but if hand-milked she quickly abandons the calf and cares only for the one who milks her. The question is an interesting one, and is worth not only discussing, but giving it a trial. C. G. Freer-Thomson, in London Farm and Home.

Skimmed Milk for Chickens.
At the Indiana Experiment Station skim milk has for two years been tested as a food for chickens. In both cases there were two pens of chicks, each containing the same number, and each lot having the same total weight. The same mixture of solid food was supplied to both, the only difference being that one flock had only water to drink and the other had in addition all the milk they would consume. The trial lasted six weeks. The water drinkers gained 11.2 pounds, while the milk drinkers gained nearly 13 pounds. The food cost of producing a pound of chicken, without milk, was 4.12 cents, and with it 3.2 cents. The milk with milk to drink consumed ten pounds more solid food than those that drank water.

Wind.
I am the Wind, the deathless dreamer, Of the summer world, Tranced in snows of shade and shimmer, On a cloud-curtain curled.

Fluting through the argent shadow, And the golden shimmer, Of the golden lonesome summer, And its dreams divine. All unseen, I walk the meadows, Or I wake the wind; Speeding o'er the tawny billows With my phantom feet.

All the world's face, hushed and sober, Wrinkles where I run; Tearing sunbeams into shadow, Shadow into sun; Stirring soft the breast of waters With my winnowing wings, Waking the grey ancient wood From hushed imaginings; Where the blossoms droop in languor, Or a vagrant slip, Lifting nodding blade or petal To my cooling lips.

Not a sorrow do I borrow From the golden day; Not a shadow holds the meadow Where my footsteps stray.

Light and cool, my kiss is welcome, Under sun and moon, To the weary vagrant wending Under parched moon.

To the languid, nodding blossom In its moonlight dell, All earth's children, sad and yearning, Know and love me well.

Without passion, without sorrow, Driven in my dream, Through the season's trance of sleeping, Cloud and field and stream;

Haunting woodlands, lakes and forests, Seas and clouds imperious, I am Wind, the deathless dreamer Of the summer world.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures Chronic and Complicated Cases of Rheumatism.

IT BANISHES EVERY TRACE OF POISONOUS ACID FROM THE BLOOD.

Has Made More Permanent and Wonderful Cures than All Other Medicines in The World.

All rheumatic sufferers dread the variable and trying weather of October and November. Sufferers from the various forms of rheumatism—gout, muscular, inflammatory, gout, and lumbago—suffer more intensely in the autumn months. Chilling winds, damp air, cold rains and night frosts, aggravate existing misery and agony. Thousands of victims of rheumatism have come back from summer health resorts only to find themselves as badly tortured and crippled as they were before they started for their false Meccas of health. Malarial fevers, baths and massage systems can never drive out the morbid principle of terrible rheumatism from the blood and joints.

Careful medical tests and a long experience prove that Paine's Celery Compound is the only agent and medicine for the cure of all forms of rheumatism, and succeeds when everything else fails. With a confidence created and strengthened by thousands of victories over rheumatism, we urge suffering men and women to use Paine's Celery Compound. Its marvelous virtues will meet your case and do for you what it has done for others. Mrs. J. Vance, Barrie, Ont., says: "I am happy to say I have taken Paine's Celery Compound with great results. I had sciatica so badly that I could not turn in bed of night with three weeks was helplessly laid up and suffered pain that at times was almost unbearable."

"I tried many medicines, but all in vain. I was afterwards recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used six bottles and am entirely cured, and enjoy good health. I take great pleasure in recommending the valuable medicine that cured me."

Let us be of good cheer, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those that never come.

SOLDIERS' TRIO

Three Dublin Lads, Inseparable For Years, Killed in One Battle.

London, Sept. 29.—A pathetic incident of the Boer war is narrated by the parents of Trooper Olliffe, of the 74th (Dublin) Company of Imperial Yeomanry. In childhood Olliffe and two comrades, Bonyng and McLean, attended the same Sunday school, and for twelve years the trio belonged to the Boys' Brigade attached to Trinity church, Dublin. So greatly were the three attached to each other that they vowed never to be separated in spite of all obstacles. Time only cemented their friendship, and when manhood was reached they were still inseparable. So when the Imperial Yeomanry were being recruited in Dublin, the gallant trio determined to enlist and fight for their country in South Africa. Together they embarked, together they took part in the same engagements, and when the attack on the convoy was made at Rooikoppies on August 24, together the three young Irishmen defended the convoy, fighting shoulder to shoulder till at length they fell mortally wounded, and now all three share the same resting-place under the soil.

A memorial service was held at Trinity church, Dublin, recently, when the Rev. J. Duncan Craig, D.D., paid an eloquent tribute to the heroic trio united in life and death.

SAN FRANCISCO STRIKERS.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—A pitched battle between strikers and policemen occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this morning in Kearney street. Seven men are known to have been wounded, one probably fatally and it is thought that several others who escaped arrest were injured. Not less than 60 shots were fired. Several of the injured were innocent passersby. A number of plate glass windows were broken by flying bullets. Four special policemen and a recently discharged naval man were made targets for an assault by a mob of strikers and sympathizers numbering at least 200. The police succeeded in arresting about 30 of them. Four were identified as striking teamsters. They were heavily armed.

JOHN BROWN RELICS.

New York, Sept. 29.—A London despatch to The Herald says: Among the many changes taking place at Baltimore in connection with the visit of the King is the disappearance of the cairns and all reminders of the late John Brown. Only the stone in the churchyard of the Cratie remains to keep alive the memory of the Queen's faithful retainer at Baltimore. Apropos of the King's visit to Scotland, the announcement that his Majesty will hold court at Holyrood for the coronation festivities next June means a good deal to Edinburgh. For while the late Queen on several occasions visited the ancient palace, she never took up her residence there, nor have any royal functions been held within its walls since the visit of George IV. to Scotland in 1822.

Paris, Sept. 28.—The police to-day suppressed and seized a special number of a satirical paper, L'Assiette au Beurre (Butter Plate), devoted to depicting British atrocities in the Transvaal. The cartoons were drawn by John Weir, the artist, whose eccentric painting, "The Goose," in the New Salon, attracted much attention. He also drew sketches of an extravagant character, published in a special number of The Bire (The Laugh) which lampooned the Emperor William's tour in Palestine. There is a caricature of King Edward of the same character as those painted some time ago of Queen Victoria, which excited such deep indignation in England. The

A New Departure

A NEW EFFECTUAL AND CONVENIENT CURE FOR CATARRH.

Of catarrh remedies there is no end, but of catarrh cures, there has always been a great scarcity. There are many remedies to relieve but very few that really cure. The old practice of snuffing salt water through the nose would often relieve, and the washes, douches, powders and inhalers in common use are very little, if any, better than the old-fashioned water douches. The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes, and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease. Catarrh is just as much a blood disease as kidney trouble or rheumatism and it cannot be cured by local treatment any more than they can be.

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach an internal antiseptic is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system, and the new catarrh cure is designed on this plan and the remarkable success of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is being used internally, it drives out catarrhal infection through action upon stomach, liver and bowels.

Wm. Zimmerman of St. Joseph, relates an experience with catarrh which is of value to millions of catarrh sufferers everywhere. He says: "I neglected a slight nasal catarrh until it gradually extended to my throat and bronchial tubes and finally even my stomach and liver became affected, but as I was unable to keep up and do a day's work, I let it run along until my heart began to fail me and then I realized that I must get rid of catarrh or lose my position as I was clerk, and my hearing was absolutely necessary."

"Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh salve but they were no good in my case, nor was anything else until I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and bought a package at my drug store. They benefited me from the start and in less than four months I was completely cured of catarrh although I had suffered nearly all my life from it."

They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel I cannot say enough in favor of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan, and the tablets are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada.

worst drawings are too disgusting to mention. Another deal with Mrs. Kruger and Queen Victoria in their future state. Still vaguer are the drawings representing Lord Kitchener as a huge toad, wallowing among dead and dying, and Mr. Chamberlain, depicted with a pickaxe delving among a heap of slain soldiers.

The Assiette au Beurre contains one conception, entitled "The Wreck." It presents a colossal naked figure of Mr. Kruger, stranded on the sands of Holland and succored by the youthful Queen of that country.

The papers not seized are selling for five francs each.

THE GREAT YACHT RACE

Ex-Ald. McKeough Witnessed the Struggle of the White Winged Flyers.

Interesting Interview Regarding His Holiday Trip—Sketches of Places Visited.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McKeough, Mr. J. F. McKeough and Miss McKeough returned yesterday from their trip to Buffalo, New York, Newport and Boston. The trip was one of exceptional interest, inasmuch as the Maple City tourists were spectators of the first great international yacht race between the Shamrock II. and Columbia, in which so great an enthusiasm has been manifested here.

Ex-Ald. W. E. McKeough was seen at his office by The Planet this morning and in an interesting interview chatted pleasantly regarding the trip. Mr. McKeough is an earnest and accurate observer and a most entertaining conversationalist and kindly consented to give this journal a brief description of his tour. He is an ardent Shamrock supporter and in speaking of the great yacht and their first contest he warmly enthused over the fact that the Lipton boat always showed to advantage when breeze materialized.

"We left Chatham early Monday morning via Wabash Railway for Buffalo," said Mr. McKeough, "where the wonderful architecture of the buildings of the Pan-American and their exhibits engaged our attention during the afternoon and evening. Leaving Buffalo at 11.20 p. m. by New York Central for Albany, we took, next morning, the day line steamer 'Albany' down the Hudson River, reaching New York at 5.30 p. m."

"We spent three days in the great metropolis, putting up at the St. Denis, a very comfortable and conveniently situated hotel. We witnessed the great yacht race on Thursday, going out on the steamer 'Shinnecock,' leaving the wharf about nine o'clock and reaching Sandy Hook in good time to see the start. One of the prettiest sights of the day was to see the two yachts maneuvering for places just before the race commenced waiting for the signal to go up. The Columbia was painted white with pure white sails, while the Shamrock II. was of a golden bronze color with sails of palest pink. As many as 600 steamers and yachts followed the race, among them being the Corsair, owned by Pierpont Morgan, and the ocean flyers, little floating palaces, of the Astors, Van derbilts, Goulds, and other rich New Yorkers. Sir Thomas Lipton was on board his yacht 'Erin.' It was a good race while the wind lasted, and the Shamrock was leading, but when the wind dropped the Columbia gradually stepped near and the Yankees were puffed up with pride when she rounded the buoy seven and a half minutes before her competitor, and their brag made one tired—they had entirely forgotten that the 'Columbia' had captured the Canada cup about seven weeks ago—it was nothing but 'America leads the world.'"

After the race, we were dined at the Waldorf Astoria, where we were treated to a sumptuous dinner, and $4,500,000 to furnish it. Fourteen hundred servants are employed and it accommodates 1,500 guests, and there was a full house. When we tired of dining and admiring the beautiful women and brave men, an attendant showed us through the kitchen, which is a marvel of cleanliness, and the royal apartments and ball rooms. There are 300 servants in the kitchen, five of whom are cooks. The dishes are washed by machinery, and dried by heat. Four thousands of meat, and 11,000 pounds of butter, are consumed each day. There is $400,000 worth of wine in their cellar, and 3,000,000 cigars. Mr. Boldt, the lessee, pays half a million dollars rental per annum, besides having furnished the hotel himself—and it is said he made a million dollars last year.

"One evening at Weber & Field's theatre, with an all star company, in Holby-Tony—including De Wolf Hopper, Lillian Russell, Fay Tonneton, and supper afterwards at Delmonico's, and another evening at the Manhattan theatre, where Mrs. Minnie Madden Blake is playing in 'Miranda of the Bagoes,' and supper at Sheraton's formed part of our entertainment while in New York. Living in the large eastern cities is becoming more and more expensive, while tipping is exacted more systematically than in Europe."

"We left New York Friday evening on the magnificent Fall River line steamer Puritan, and reached Newport next morning at eight. Here we enjoyed the famous drive of about ten miles in extent along the ocean and Bellevue Avenue, admiring the beautiful summer homes of America's millionaires, that of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, called 'The Breakers' being the most elaborate, although it has many rivals. After the drive, we visited the Casino, where the gay world meet, and some shops containing costly antique wares, and left for Boston about eleven, arriving there at one o'clock. Here we stayed at the Hotel Touraine, facing Boston Common, which is as grand as the Waldorf Astoria, in New York, although not so large. The afternoon was passed in visiting Harvard University in Cambridge, which is an aggregation of sixty-two buildings and which has an annual attendance of over 3,000 students. It is a great old historic place and is the alma mater of thousands of America's greatest men. Not far away is Longfellow's old home—a lovely old colonial house—now occupied by the poet's daughter, Miss Alice Longfellow, in front of which the Cambridge people have laid out a small square, so that the view of the Charles River referred to in his writings from the mansion may never be obstructed."

"We next visited the Boston Public

Library, which contains, besides a very valuable collection of books, some handsome wall paintings by Puvion de Chavannes, representing 'the Muses greeting the Genius of Enlightenment,' also Edwin A. Abbey's celebrated pictorial presentations of 'The Quest of the Holy Grail,' which are wonderfully beautiful pictures.

"Oliver Wendell Holmes' old home on Beacon street was inspected before we returned to our hotel. We arose early Sunday morning and went out to view Bunker Hill monument—a very plain affair—erected to commemorate the battle of Bunker Hill, 17th June, 1775. The old State House, the old South Meeting House, and the spot where the Boston merchants dumped the tea into the harbor were next then we attended service at Trinity Church, made sacred by its long association with the saintly and eloquent Phillips Brook. Trinity is probably the handsomest Protestant church in America. Its stained glass windows are most beautiful and its mural decorations were painted by the distinguished painter La Farge. The singing of the choir was enrapturing, some of the best singers in Boston taking part. We reached home yesterday, delighted with our little trip and delighted to return to our little city. The large cities are pleasant places to visit occasionally, but Chatham is an excellent place for a home," was ex-Ald. McKeough's warm and patriotic concluding sentiment.

WOMEN WHO WEAR WELL.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life will make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach that is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant drains which are often consequent on marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness. As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, a established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Half a million women and more have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Theatrical

At Grand Opera House on Thursday and Friday Nights of this week Palmer Cox and Malcolm Douglas' newest spectacular success, 'The Brownies in Fairyland' will be seen for the first time in Chatham. The sale of seats will begin tomorrow, the prices being only 25, 35 and 50 cents. Over 150 will appear in the gorgeous production, which has enjoyed a tremendous popularity in Toronto, Montreal, and other cities. The Chatham public will remember pleasantly the splendid extravaganza that Mr. Douglas and Mr. Cox brought here some four years ago. The entertainment at the Grand on Thursday and Friday nights will be equally enjoyable in its way. Mr. Douglas is now in Chatham to personally stage the big production, which will be full of novel features, and which will be presented with all the original New York costumes, effects, etc. All the funny Brownies will again be seen the Dudes, Policemen, Chinamen, Indian, and others, and this time they will be impersonated by young Chatham people under Mr. Douglas's direction. No one should miss 'The Brownies in Fairyland,' for it will prove one of the most unique attractions of the season.

THE FUNNY BROWNIES.

Seats are now on sale at the Central Drug Store for Palmer Cox's big production of 'The Brownies in Fairyland,' which will be seen for the first time in Chatham for the benefit of the Kent Children's Aid Society at the Grand Opera House on Thursday and Friday nights of this week. The scale of prices for the unique spectacle is only 50, 75 and 25 cents, and it is advisable to secure seats in advance, as the theatre will undoubtedly be crowded on both occasions. Among the notable features will be the fascinating dances, 'A Pretty, Perfumed Fan,' which will be performed by the Misses Kerr, Miller, Gemmill, Shambles, Campbell, Bogart, Philmore, Hennessey, Riddell, and Dennis. The Brownies cake-walk, a great hit in Toronto, Detroit, and the other cities, will also be presented. Those who will participate in this are Edna and Ruby Hickey, Morel Bedford, and John Northwood, Pansy Pope and Germet Slagg, Mildred Stevenson and Walter Peck, Nettie Guy and Claude Sharpe. To the couple who receive the most applause from the audience a cake will be awarded at each performance. 'Queen Flora' will be played by Miss Clara Tefft, and 'Prince Alkisar' by Ray Peck, while 'Aesop's Fables' will be introduced to Miss Belle Siddell, who incidentally will sing.

The Brownies will be presented at the Grand by local talent on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 3 and 4. Malcolm Douglas, of New York, who will stage it, will arrive here with costumes on Monday next. The Toronto Telegram says: "The Brownies in Fairyland" abroad with their flimsy fineries, in Massey Hall last night captivated the hearts of a full three thousand people. Four score little fairies, ranging in age from 5 to 15, in their dancing, frolics and singing, made time pass all too quickly to those who looked on the beautiful scene. Fairies and Brownies, they made merry among themselves, and the great audience came away insisting Palmer Cox's Brownies never

Umbrellas—We Tag Them

Big direct buying counts in umbrellas just as it counts in tweeds. Your umbrella would cost more if we had not bought it to the best possible advantage for you

This is a very practical stock. Every grade from a zanilla at 50c to a slender, close-rolling taffetta at $3.00. Lots of distinctive handles, and some of them look a good deal more expensive than they are.

At $2 and upwards we tag the umbrella if you like. Fasten a silk label in the frame with your name and address. That gives the other man a chance to send it back.

A NEW FIELD FOR SPORT.

The latest issue of the "Four-Track Series" No. 34, entitled "To Ottawa, Ontario, via the Rideau Lakes and River, From the Thousand Islands and the Territory of the New York Central Lines," is a delightful folder with a brand new map, the first ever printed of this region, accurately engraved and printed in colors, which will give an entirely new field to the average American pleasure seeker.

The new outdoor sport afforded by the house-boat is becoming immensely popular and will in time take the place of many other sports, for a house-boat affords opportunities for open air amusements that nothing else gives and this particular trip is one of the most delightful that can be made. You can leave New York in the evening by the New York Central and land at Clayton, next morning; from Clayton it is only two hours by boat to Kingston; there you strike the boat through the Rideau River, Lakes and Canal, for Ottawa, and if you can make up a party and charter a house-boat you will find the trip filled with the most novel pleasure imaginable; but the trip by steamer is delightful as well, and can be made more quickly, of course, than by a house boat.

You can leave Boston in the evening by the Boston & Albany and make this connection; you can leave Niagara Falls or Buffalo in the evening and make the same connections as from New York, so that the new pleasure grounds for Americans is open to everybody, and you don't have to take a long and tedious journey to reach it.

A copy of No. 34 will be sent free postpaid, to any address on receipt of a postage stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, New York Central, Grand Central Station, New York.
