School Debentures Cleaned up; Fire Brigade Organization Complete

Parking Areas for Autos is Designated—$500 Additional to Navy League—The Civic Wood Question

(From our own Correspondent)

Simcoe, Sept. 9.—At the night's meeting of council, Chairman Langford, of the finance committee, reported that the last of the $40,000 school debentures placed on the local market in June, 1917, had been taken up a few days ago.

The total realized, exclusive of accrued interest, was $33,415.27, a total loss of $1,584.80, and though a much better sale than was effected some three years ago, $370 more would have been realized had the advice been taken in the spring of 1917.

Of the proceeds of sale $35,033.77 has already been turned over to the board, and a resolution went through ordering the payment to the board of $4,966.23 to complete the $40,000. The clerk was instructed to advise the secretary of the board of education that in future the town treasurer would not honor orders from the chairman and secretary of the board, but that this body must hereafter obtain funds in advance of collection of rates by application to council in the conventional way.

Rules and Regulations for Fire Brigade

Alderman Jacques submitted for the approval of council, an exhaustive set of rules and regulations for the organization, discipline and business meetings of the fire brigade and the duties of the various officers. The compilation was the result of much labor on the part of Ald. Jackson, Chairman Jacques and Chief Kendall, and had been in force well perused by the men. The rules are intended to itself in internal organization, and the brigade have the privilege of nominating men to fill vacancies or re-electing the members of the council without nomination and the brigade elects all its other officers.

Limited Parking Privileges

The police committee recommended the following localities for parking of autos:

Reasonably close to the boulevard about the corner of the street, east side of Lynwood avenue; north side of Argyle from Falls street to the Phoenix club house. In these cases shall cars be left across lanes or private entrances nor within 20 feet of street intersections. The police have been instructed to be lenient regarding lights on cars standing in reasonably close to the boulevard, but cars parked in shaded or darker areas will not be so dealt with.

Church of Simcoe Has Best Boston—Milton Porter Has Good Percherons—Yeager's Stables Get First

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Simcoe, Sept. 9.—After 12 years absence from the Toronto show, John S. Martin of Port Dover, took down a few birds from his Wyandotte stock and cleaned up the following prizes:

For Cockerel, against 23 competitors, 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 6th.
For Pullet, against 43 competitors, 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 6th.
For Hen, against 30 competitors, 1st, 2nd, 4th and 6th.
For Pen, against 6 competitors, 1st.

White for Years, Mr. Martin has been busy with the big shows over the border he has listened good-naturedly to the taunting inquiry, "What don't you show at Toronto, Mr. Martin?" Mr. Martin has answered, "Boston Bells Home."

Mr. Joseph Church stepped in for the week-end on his way from Toronto to London with his three express. He does not trust the express companies this year after his experience in having three animals smothered in a "Peter Church" took at Toronto five firsts and the bronze medal for best Boston in the show under 17 pounds. "Miss Canada," a sister puppy won 2nd in the show. "The Spirit," 3 years old, won 1st open and 2nd in limit. A Good Come Back Ansley Yeager reappeared at Toronto in the show. He took 2 firsts in combination, 1 first in single high stepping class and a number of seconds and 4ths. Mr. Porter's Percherons W. Porter, who has five Percherons down to Toronto was quite pleased with the winning made by his entries. Pte. Gordon Jackson Wounded Pte. Gordon Jackson, son of E. H. Jackson of the E. H. Jackson Co., Simcoe, was yesterday reported wounded in the leg and arm. The news came from a private source through a Glasgow friend. A letter recently received by his parents and written just after the Canadians made their dash in August for the march and surprise attack on Fritz indicated that his brother Bruce though in another division was quite near him. They met a day or so after the smash in a dugout where the wounded man recognized as one he had occupied before. The letter describes in graphic detail the march in at midnight. The writer was in the front line of the attack and they laid flat in the mud till precisely 4.20 when the barrage went over from guns of all calibres like "all hell let loose." They advanced through thick ground, fog till well on in the forenoon and on reaching their objective dropped as the supports rushed past them to the attack. He was sent to the rear where he got breakfast, and slept soundly till 9 next morning. It took him the remainder of the day to catch up with his battalion. His brother Robert signed up with Norfolk's unit. Leonard Gauthy, listed with him, was one of three brothers resident here. Their father had charge as chief gardener of the then "Hodges" property. P. Magistrate Guntton's court had to adjourn a four o'clock appointment after a preliminary session on another case because the solicitor retained to defend a quartet of youths charged with gambling or something of the sort, was busy on another case across the way. Council was advised that Dominion Canners have paid to the town treasurer $2,407.28 to meet the 15th plant debenture payment of this amount.

Help Your Own Community

The corn pack is on in earnest at Dominion Canners, and with it the town of the tomato pack, plum and pear. This time is no child's job. And help is required. In the interests of the whole community this crop should be taken care of. Next year's success depends among other factors, on the amount of help Simcoe can contribute to the pack.

MILITARY VICTORY IS A DREAM

So Says President of Hungarian Independent Party

(By Courier Leased Wire)

Basel, Monday, Sept. 9.—President Wilson's program as a basis for negotiations for peace is endorsed by Count Michael Karolyi, president of the Hungarian Independent Party. A dispatch from Budapest, quoting from an open letter written by Count Karolyi to his electors to whom his resignation as early peace, says: "A decisive military victory, despite its successes is a dream for which it is useless to pursue. The only conditions of negotiation are the cessation of the organization of imperialistic theories. A second is that we should not become slaves to the idea of a military or political alliance, economically or politically and that we should not strengthen our alliance with Germany which would form the first step towards the realization of this central Europe.

at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kelly, Sept. 9.—The charge was by consent reduced to common assault, in fact, that was somewhat the tenor of the original wording before the mill began to grind.

Robinson was found guilty and fined ten bucks and costs for being indiscreet. T. J. Agar for the Crown, W. E. Kelly for the defence.

DUCK SHOOTING ACCIDENTS

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 10.—Carlyle Grisdale, 14-year-old son of Reeve Grisdale of Thorold, was accidentally shot through the stomach by one of a party of young friends late yesterday. He is in a critical condition. Within the past two months two other sons of Reeve Grisdale, Arthur and Lionel, have been fatally reported killed in service. Another son is still on active overseas.

Belleville, Sept. 10.—Jas. Ketcheson, aged 15 years, youngest son of ex-Mayor Ketcheson of this city, was last night the victim of an accident which may prove fatal. In company with a companion named Wagon Luftman, he was examining a revolver when the weapon discharged, the ball entering Ketcheson's abdomen, inflicting a gaping wound. His condition is serious.

FEDERAL REVENUE UP BY $12.5

For the First Five Months of the Fiscal Year

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—An increase of over $12,500,000 in the revenues of the Dominion for the first five months of the current fiscal year, ending August 31, is shown by the financial statement for the month of August, issued to-day by the Department of Finance. The increase is encouraged because of the fact that customs collections have fallen off by approximately $7,000,000.

A July 31 miscellaneous receipts, including a number of the new war taxes, from $8,803,937 for the April-August period, 1917, to $16,877,079 for the same period this year makes up for the loss in customs revenue and provides $3,000,000 of the $12,500,000 increase. Despite the enforcement of the prohibition measure excise revenues have increased by over $1,000,000 and Government railway receipts are higher.

The total revenue for the five months' period is $118,350,020, as compared with $105,785,600 for the same period last year.

War expenditures for the five months have totalled $63,580,275, as compared with $51,427,162 last year. For the month of August alone Canada spent $19,571,723 on the war.

The net debt now stands at $1,196,238,348, as compared with $964,143,530 on August 31, 1917.

Ruth Takes Position With Fifth Avenue Decorating Firm.

CHAPTER XIX.

Ruth looked at her with unusual care. She wore one of her dressiest dresses, a quiet but elegant street dress. When she emerged from the little hallway leading to her flat, she was flawless from the top of her patent leather shoes to the tip of her close-fitting tulle, which covered, but could not hide her glossy hair.

"She went first to one of the large Fifth Avenue shops—a very exclusive one, by the way. They received her courteously, as would any man. Women of her type, clothed as she was, that morning, are not often found seeking work."

But to their sorrow, they had no place for her. They had experts in all departments, and trained assistants. If she would leave her address they would bear her in mind.

Ruth had no intention of giving her address. She herself realized that, considering the way she dressed, it was incongruous. So she simply told them she would perhaps "call on" some friend who would be glad to do so, and with a smiling bow she departed.

"I wasn't discouraged because she wouldn't try me at the very first place," she soothed herself, as she walked down the street.

Her experience at the next place, a lower establishment, was almost identical. "I'll go down one more," she decided, "and if I don't succeed, I'll go home and wait for my husband."

At last, when they were willing to accept her, she was offered a position in a small, but well-known, and well-situated, firm.

"I'll take it," she said, "but your husband is so wealthy."

"No, he is a young lawyer," as if that explained their poverty.

"I see. And while he is waiting for clients, you want to help keep the pot boiling?"

"Yes, surely," Ruth hesitated. Then she said: "But I hate housework. We cannot afford to hire a maid, so I decided to try and do something more congenial, and then have a woman to do the work at home."

"A wise decision," Arthur Mahdel remarked, thinking that the dainty creature before him was surely out of place in a kitchen.

Ruth waited. There was no more to tell. Was he simply curious about her, or was he intending to give her work? Finally, he said:

"I will give you twenty dollars a week at first. If you prove as able as I imagine you will, you soon will be worth more. My head woman was married two weeks ago. I have not yet filled her place. In fact, I had no hope of being able to, for some time. She had been with me twelve years, and, besides knowing her part of the business, could attend to much that did not come directly in her department."

"She must have been very valuable," Ruth said frankly, thinking she would try awfully hard to fill that other woman's place, and wondering what they paid her.

"When can you come?" Mr. Mahdel asked.

"At once. To-morrow morning if you want me to," Ruth replied, her thoughts on Brian, and what he would say to her high-handed way of doing things.

"Very well. Nine o'clock or even half past will do. Our hours are not long. But we keep very busy during the time we remain open," so saying, Ruth saw he expected her to be "on the job" as Brian would say.

Ruth had his good morning. He naturally opened his door for her. Perhaps it was just as well that he did not know his eyes followed her with admiration until she gained the street.

(To be continued to-morrow.)

After talking a moment, the proprietor, a man of attractive appearance, about forty years old, asked her to step into his private office with him. He was interested in what Ruth had told him of her self; had fascinated her since childhood. Her clothes proved her taste, and she herself intrigued him to know her further.

"Now, tell me why you want work," he said, after the door had closed them in. "Your clothes do not indicate the necessity."

"I know," Ruth said with a smile, "trying to think how best to answer the question which, while emphasizing, had been put in a kindly voice. My trousseau is still new and fresh. I have been married but a few months. My aunt, with whom I lived up to the time of my marriage, is a very wealthy woman, and she bought my trousseau."

"I take it, then, that your husband is very wealthy?"

"No, he is a young lawyer," as if that explained their poverty.

"I see. And while he is waiting for clients, you want to help keep the pot boiling?"

"Yes, surely," Ruth hesitated. Then she said: "But I hate housework. We cannot afford to hire a maid, so I decided to try and do something more congenial, and then have a woman to do the work at home."

AVOID WASTE IN ALL DEPARTMENTS. BORDEN URGES

Plea for Economy Delivered by Premier at Central Exhibition

By Courier Leased Wire

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—In opening the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, this afternoon, Sir Robert Borden made a plea for economy. "There must be an avoidance of waste in all departments of national activity by federal, provincial and municipal governments," he declared. "This can be accomplished only by the cultivation of a healthy public opinion, and by the realization of the same purpose on the part of the people in their own personal affairs. The country's resources are enormous and they must be conserved as far as possible for the benefit of the whole people."

After congratulating the directors upon the courage and vision which had enabled them and their predecessors to build up the exhibition to its present status and to maintain it during the past four years of war, Sir Robert spoke of the educative value of such exhibitions. There must be a definite purpose beyond mere amusement or enjoyment.

Persons sent from European countries, such as France and Belgium, where the density of the populations has taught the people lessons not yet learned here, have been impressed enough with the waste in our country, where apparent in this country, it had been asserted by those who had given close attention to the subject that in almost any city in Canada enough waste could be eliminated to provide food for the whole city for two days out of the seven. Perhaps that was an exaggeration, but it was perfectly true that there was great waste in our country.

Many examples of this could be given. Several species of fish are now used for food were regarded as valueless twenty-five years ago. Indeed many articles that in other countries are found to be both edible and nutritious have been discarded here. There is waste also in the preparation of food as to which we have yet to learn many useful lessons.

"There must be an avoidance of waste in all departments of national activity by federal, provincial and municipal governments. That could only be accomplished by the cultivation of a healthy public opinion, and by the realization of the same purpose by the people in their own personal affairs. The burdens of the country would be great, but compared with our resources, if properly conserved, they would not be unduly serious. The country's resources were enormous and they must be conserved as far as possible for the benefit of the whole people. In order to do this, it is necessary, or desirable that resources should be developed in the interests of the people and not exploited for individual profit. Addition of life and vigor to the nation that equality of opportunity which should be the sure purpose of every true democracy."

Among the great resources with which Canada has been so amply endowed are its vast water powers. While our mineral resources are enormous, nevertheless the supplies of coal, however great, must eventually become exhausted. But water powers are inexhaustible, and they can be developed and utilized for the advantage of all the people without any serious difficulties in organization or distribution. The use is Manifold, ranging from the operation of great transportation systems to that of small farms. The Canadians who have fought so gallantly for our liberties and those of the world, and who have given to our country a great place among the world's nations, will return to Canada with a wider vision and with a higher appreciation of the opportunities which lie before them. Undoubtedly there will be difficult problems during the period of reconstruction; no one can be sure whether those problems will be more or less difficult than we now foresee. The Governments of the Dominion and of the Provinces, as governing bodies of the whole people, must unite in an earnest endeavor to meet these difficulties, however great they may prove, with true courage, with sincere purpose and with the most effective endeavor. Above all, let there be unity of purpose. He had spoken of waste; but unnecessary discord and unseemly controversy were the worst possible waste of the nation's effort. Discord arose chiefly through lack of better understanding. Canadians of different communities and Provinces should know each other better, should strive for a wider vision. Upon that true understanding the united national spirit of the future must be founded.

The Governments of the Dominion and of the Provinces, as governing bodies of the whole people, must unite in an earnest endeavor to meet these difficulties, however great they may prove, with true courage, with sincere purpose and with the most effective endeavor. Above all, let there be unity of purpose. He had spoken of waste; but unnecessary discord and unseemly controversy were the worst possible waste of the nation's effort. Discord arose chiefly through lack of better understanding. Canadians of different communities and Provinces should know each other better, should strive for a wider vision. Upon that true understanding the united national spirit of the future must be founded.

THE SITUATION
 After congratulating the army upon passing through many dark days, Field Marshal Haig, in an order of the day, remarks: "The enemy has spent his effort." The British commander does not in any sense possess the exaggerative habit, and this pronouncement upon his part not only carries with it all the weight of his position, but also that of a man noted for his careful judgment.

The British troops yesterday recorded some excellent work, taking many points of strategic advantage. As far as the French are concerned, the chief interest now centres upon the convergence of five of their armies upon the St. Gobain Massif. It is here that a massive forest exists, and heights which dominate the entire country side. In fact the salient is spoken of as the centre and the backbone of the German occupation of France. If they can be defeated there, then indeed their hold, which is now slipping in such a marked manner, will become permanently loosened.

Word from Siberia is of an encouraging nature. The Czecho-Slovaks are reported to have made a marvellous eastward sweep of six hundred miles, and presumably defeated all of their enemies en route.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE PREMIER.
 The Christian Science Monitor pays this tribute to Canada's First Minister:—

Few statesmen of the present day possess to a greater degree the ability to say the right thing at the right time and in the right way, than Sir Robert Borden, the Prime Minister of Canada. This ability has, indeed, been uniformly characteristic of his career, but especially during the momentous part of it comprised in the last four years. It has its cause simply enough, in the fact that Sir Robert, notwithstanding all considerations of party, determined from the first to have before him no standard of action but the simple though remorseless one of the highest good, not only of his own country, but of all humanity. The man who, in the face of the most bitter opposition, even from his own friends, strove untiringly to achieve union government at home; who was never discouraged in the effort, but as soon as there he would serve blocked one channel, sought for another; the man who saw the justice of conscription and the imperative necessity for prohibition, and placed them both on the statute book, in spite of the storm which these proposals roused in many quarters; the man who has thus thought what was right and done what was right, finds no difficulty in recognizing the right way to say the right thing, or to say it in the right way.

WILL REACH BILLION MARK
 Mr. F. M. Chapman, editor of the "Farmers Magazine," after a review of the entire situation, says:

"Totalling the crops of Canada from the census returns and from reliable estimates in the provinces, including Miss Cora Hind's reports in this issue, we find that the whole field crops of Canada this year will likely total $1,000,000,000 in value. Considering the heavy drought and frost damage to the grain crops of Western Canada in August where the wheat totals have been reduced by nearly 100,000,000 over 1917 returns, this is an amazing fine record.

Ontario carries a great crop in all departments, so does Quebec and the Maritimes, where advices state that the oats are record crops in many places. On the whole Eastern Canada surpasses in wealth her wonderful field crops returns of 1917.
 Field crops of Canada last year figured out by the Census Bureau at $1,144,626,000 in value. The loss to the Western crops shows how strong the whole country is by reason of its mixed farming and livestock operations. Had the prairies held even an average wheat crop year the returns would readily have beaten any previous year. But the splendid crops in Eastern Canada have held up the totals to nearly last year's totals. Thrashing returns are showing heavy weighing grain and big yields in Ontario. The Ontario Government report for the week is optimistic in all lines, with comparatively little demand for labor. The good weather has assisted farmers to take care of their crops. In very few places in Canada will there be any shortage in money this year.

Although the first week of September has opened up with much cooler weather in Eastern Canada, no frost damage to buckwheat, tomato and corn crops is reported from south and central Ontario where the bulk of these crops are grown. Warmer weather is expected and the outlook now is for a good month of fall weather. Corn crops have developed wonderfully, far exceeding all early expectations. The supply of fodder for stock and dairy feeding this winter is good. There is a fairly large acreage of buckwheat in Ontario and Quebec which will be harvested this month. Ontario carries a great crop in all lines."

MASKED BANDIT KILLS HOTELMAN
Help Up Party of Card Players in Vancouver Sunday Night

By Courier Leased Wire.
 Vancouver, Sept. 9.—Masked and dressed in movie masquerading costume, a bandit entered a private home where seven men were either playing cards or watching the game about midnight last night. In the melee which followed a brusque command to hand over valuables, Thomas J. Roberts, a pioneer hotelman, of Vancouver, was shot dead and Harry James, a logger, was seriously wounded. The bandit after firing the remaining players up against the wall backed out of the house to a waiting taxicab and made his escape. The murderer has not been apprehended.

When the bandit entered the room the players were inclined to believe that a hoax was being perpetrated and it was not until the robber, making a demand for a diamond ring on Roberts' finger after having obtained other booty punctuated his remarks with a revolver shot that the card players saw they were in for a desperate game. Roberts was unable to get the ring off his finger and invited man to try for himself. As Roberts shoved his hand toward the bandit, he attempted at the same time to knock the gun from the desperado's grasp. The men grappled and Roberts was almost instantly killed.
 Eames then grappled with the murderer, but the latter was too quick for him and by a deft movement got behind Eames, shooting him.

Many men who come in the nineteen year old class have received their orders to report. This draft was to have been called on Sept. 1st, but has been delayed as there was no immediate need of men.

SAILORS' WEEK.
The fact that this event in Brantford and Brant County is going to elicit a fine response is indicated by subscriptions already received by Mr. W. G. Raymond. The British Red Cross fund will also be included in the same canvas.

NO REIMBURSEMENT.
A dispatch from Quebec says: In practice court-to-day Justice Dorion decided that Col. Ashton of Ottawa, could not be forced to reimburse money advanced him to appear as a witness in habeas corpus proceedings here, because the alleged subpoena served on Col. ARRESTED IN DUNDAS.
The local police received notice this morning that two Brantford men, who are wanted here on various charges, have been arrested in Dundas.

POLICEMAN INJURED.
Only one casualty has been reported among the ranks of the silent guardians of traffic as yet. The extent of the injuries involves the loss of the flag from the top of the post, and its condition is easily repairable.

RETURNING MACHINES.
The racing machines that were here for the races on Saturday and Labor Day, are being shipped back to their owners to-day, and all morning the work of crating them up has been in progress at the store of F. J. Gott and behind the Y. M. C. A.

LANDOWNE PARK.
The permits for the first fifty buildings that are to be erected on Landowne Park were issued at the city engineer's office to-day. The houses are to be of nine different plans, and the average cost of each house is $3,500.

NO MORE FORDS.
A dispatch from Detroit states: Production of motor cars by the Ford Motor Company has been suspended entirely, it was officially announced at the plant here to-day. The move will enable the company to devote its entire facilities to government work. This announcement does not affect the supply of cars in Canada, as those sold here are manufactured at the Canadian plant at Ford, Ont.

POLICE COURT.
In the Police Court this morning Robert Cammel was fined $200 and costs for having liquor in an unauthorized place and $10 and costs for being drunk. Etta Camp was on the list this morning on a charge of trespass. She failed to appear and a warrant was issued for her arrest. A. Peddie on a charge of stealing an auto tire was remanded until Monday.

REPORT OF ONTARIO SAFETY LEAGUE.
In a bulletin issued by the Ontario Safety League, through Mr. J. F. H. Wyse, organizer and engineer, the notice of the public is drawn to the large increase in accidents along electric railway tracks, especially on grades. After investigation, the bulletin says, it is found that the main cause of these accidents is the common practice among drivers of automobiles and other vehicles of keeping on the tracks unnecessarily, or of driving alongside and stopping close to the tracks, when at least six feet should be left between the car tracks and standing vehicles. The Ontario Safety League asks the co-operation of railways and drivers of all vehicles in their anti-accident campaign.

FLYING CASUALTIES.
During the past few months numerous errors have been made in regard to the number of casualties in training squadrons of the Royal Air Force. This has greatly lowered enlistments in the R.A.F. The following records of the casualties are official and are received by the officer in charge of recruiting in Canada. In the training squadrons in Canada, in 36,253 flights, covering 13,566 hours flying, there were a total of 59 accidents, of which only 26 necessitated removal to a hospital. During 9,000 flights, in 4,000 hours flying, there were 58 accidents, of which 16 were removed to hospitals. It will be seen that in four times as many flights and three times as long a period there are practically the same number of casualties.

OPERA HOUSE OPENING.

P. AND L. VICTORIOUS.
The Simcoe amateur baseball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Pratt & Leitchworth team in an encounter behind the dyke last night. The score was 12-0 to the favor of the Brantford boys, who are looking in first class condition. To-morrow night they will engage the Verity's team to decide the championship of the league.

IN GOOD CONDITION.
The fire alarm system is in very good condition, Chief Lewis reported this morning. There are one or two boxes that trouble is being had with, but as a whole the system has been in very good condition since the installation of the storage battery system. Hamilton has had considerable trouble with its system, and at one time the insurance companies threatened to increase the rate if the system was not improved.

THEFT CASE.
A case which caused much confusion was aired in the Police Court this morning. According to the evidence of the complainant, Lo Millidolan, the defendant, Dolomon Agaganian, who keeps a boarding house, at which the complainant boarded, removed from his trouser pocket a sum of money, that constituted his wages for two weeks. After hearing considerable evidence, the case was adjourned till Friday in order that a thorough investigation may take place.

PLATOON SYSTEM.
A movement is on foot to reorganize the fire departments of Ontario under the platoon system. The system is greatly favored by all concerned. The firemen instead of working twenty-one hours a day would work twelve. There would be more adequate protection in case of a large fire as there would be more men available. The men will still be able to have their regular day off but with the security that there would be a man to take the place. The system is being instituted in Hamilton and has been used with success in large cities in the States. Chief Lewis is strongly in favor of the plan and it could be established here with four additional men. Action will probably be taken by the Council within the next two months.

WAITING FOR ROLLER.
Work on the roads at each side of the Bell Memorial is being held up because the city road roller is at present being used by the company repairing the bitulithic pavements throughout the city. The roads have been gravelled and are now waiting for the final rolling down.

Proven Satisfaction
Last week, one of our customers, on coming in to order his second outfit, told us that he got caught in a rain at Toronto Exhibition; got his suit pressed at a Yonge tailor's who made flattering remarks about the quality of the cloth and the fine tailoring that was in this young man's suit. He was highly pleased, and so were we, at such a compliment to our tailoring. Such decisions from men who know what real goods are, is evidence that Firth Bros. have the goods. This week we received a shipment of the finest woolsens that ever came into this country, the very finest British worsteds. These will enhance our reputation as Quality Tailors. See them at 120 Dalhousie St.

P.S.: Pure Wool Overcoatings are here in abundance, $25. to $40. for famous Meltons, Freizes and Blanket Cloths, from the finest makers in the world.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

LIFE IN THE AIR CORPS

Is Thrillingly Described by Flight-Lieut. Hardy

Vivid Description of the Incidents of Aerial Work

Judge Hardy is in receipt of the following highly interesting letter from his son, Lieut. Arthur Hardy: R.A.F. B.E.F. France, 13, 8, '18.

Dearest Father: On receipt of letters from Mum and yourself of July 24th and 5th respectively which, I might add, I enjoyed immensely, not having had anything but boxes and papers for nearly three weeks previous. I am going to attempt, as you ask, to expand and make as clear as possible to you my exact work and all concerning the honorable one who holds pen in hand and thought in readiness, and is enrapt in the delightful occupation of writing to dear old ones at home.

Of course you know that I arrived in France on the 4th of May and proceeded from there to the Artillery Observation Squadron where I am now, and have been for exactly fourteen weeks and two days, to date. Of course I have my thrills here, we all do as far as shooting and night bomb raids, conducted under the auspices of the German army, in general go, but why should I write letters home filled with wild chatter about such subjects which only serve to destroy any well-founded sense of ease and happiness on the part of the recipient for my position, and here, my idea is to make you believe that I am having an invaluable experience out here, which is, undoubtedly, the case. The only things that annoy me most intensely are night bomb raids and German "Archie's." (If you don't know what the latter is, Mum will tell you as she knows).

My particular job here is patrolling the German lines, to the extent of the width of my particular corps front, and watching for enemy movements, or trains, troops, transports (motor and horse), on which, if any are seen, I have to direct our artillery fire by wireless telegraph. Another job of an artillery patrol is, "flash spotting," that is, watching for the flash of the discharge of a German gun or battery and pin-pointing it on maps, possibly divided into squares and sub-squares to enable speed and ease to travel hand in hand during this operation, as it is very essential that it be "flash spotted" and immediate "pin pointing."

After a patrol the pilot comes down and goes to the artillery office and hands in his "Dumps" or notes, pin points, and the artillery officer wires through to "counter batteries" office and a "pre-arranged artillery shoot" is arranged, with your pin points as the objective, to be carried out next day and so on as the days go on one by one.

I suppose you have already heard the news of the big counter attack which was launched by us on the north to the northern side of Poch's great "Rheims and Soissons, push," on the south. We have gone ahead into Hun territory in this direction to a depth of the deepest point, of 7 miles. I have flown over the whole of this front while the push was at its zenith, and also when the sky was absolutely black with our machines which were engaged in bomb raids. There were S. E. 8's, Camels, French Spads, Dolphins, French baby Nieuports, Scouts, D. H. 4's, D. H. 9's, Handley Pages, Bristol fighters, A. W.'s, R. E. 8's, two seaters and bombers, all in huge formations, sailing sublimely on over the Hun soil and making their lines a perfect living "hell." I have never seen such a glorious sight before or any other sight in which the Allies supremacy for the air was so clearly marked. During this advance and up till the present we have captured in all 10,000 prisoners, 500 guns, several thousand machine guns, three railway trains complete with supplies and personnel, two divisional headquarters with staff, one corps headquarters with staff and are, generally, walking right into them.

It seems so funny when I get papers from home telling me all about such places as Amiens and Albert and Arras, Vimy Ridge, Cambrai, Bapaume and places which I know so well on account of flying over them. Of course they are not all inside our lines, but then we have to fly over enemy territory too. I received a paper from you the other day with a map in it and on the map, as bold as you like was the very place where we are stationed, exactly where our airbase is.

You would have cheered and huzzayed your life away entirely had you been here the other night during a bomb raid when the raider was caught and held by our searchlights for over 40 minutes. In the meantime one of our night flying scouts, having seen the easy mark, signalled to our Archie to stop firing and immediately began to climb up to the raider, who was about 8000 ft. as fast as he could. The Hun never suspected anything at all and went on as usual, for no apparent reason whatever, the Archie ceased firing, but alas, poor Hun. He knew not what was in store for him. In the meantime our Camel, for such was he, had gotten well up and was slightly above his tail (the Hun's) and of a sudden in he dashed into the rays of light, did a loop and came straight down, one burning mass of fire. When the Hun reached a height of about 4000 ft. both his wings folded back and tore away from the downward racing machine, only to continue burning in mid-air and come down more peacefully by themselves.

The Hun's engines were wide open during the dive to ground and during silent moment amongst us on-lookers you could hear the engines over-racing themselves and thereby causing a moan which started at a low range and ascended to shrill shriek as the flaming machine sped to death who was waiting it on the ground, with outstretched arms and scythe over his shoulder. He finally hit the ground and one of his bombs went off on impact and blew him up pretty badly. It burned gloriously for about 15 minutes and then an aerial torpedo took it in its head and sent it off very still, with the best of luck and a terrible crash. Of course after that there was not much left of the poor machine, but we were sorry to hear that the pilot who killed our man who became very curious and wandered to within 150 yards of the burning mass.

The next day when we considered it safe to venture near, we went and had a look at what was left, and what do you think we saw. It had been a new brand of Hun heavy Bomber machine and was apparently a perfect monster and carried no less than 5,500 h.p. engines, one of which came up to my chin in height. There were also 4 other aerial torpedoes which had gone off and 3-112 lb. bombs also in the same state and about one dozen 25 lb. bombs which hadn't gone off either. The wreckage was cleared away from the site and the pilot of our man had made and no less than eight poor Huns laid to rest in the centre of a crater that their own dear bomb had made for them as their grave. Five of the Huns had jumped out when the machine burst into flames, and although not mangled very much were instantly killed on arrival. The other three stayed in, and well, there was hardly anything left, and I think it more delicate not to go into details concerning their state. However, I don't suppose that those chaps, whose lives were had the faintest idea that the hole made by their own darling bomb was to do them their last earthly service, that of supplying them with a "grave." I can quite imagine how that plucky little devil of a scout pilot must have felt when he did them.

We have been having some grand weather lately and although very nice and warm and sunny our work is prevented from being carried on fully on account of the very thick autumn haze which accompanies these delightful days. I motored yesterday with our O.C. who went on leave and after a most enjoyable trip with the country at its best and a good day in — I arrived back here at 11.30 p.m. I will be going on my first leave in three weeks more—with luck— There is a Hun photographer over the camp at present and although I can't see him, I presume he's having a hot time as I can hear "Archie" flying off at him. Remember me to all who ask. Your devoted son, Arthur Curtis Hardy.

Woodstock, Sept. 9.—A Court of Appeal under the Military Service Act was held this morning, Judge Wallace presiding. Seventeen cases were heard, and all the appeals were made by Oxford county farmers who previously had been granted exemption for farm work for an indefinite period. To-day Judge Wallace announced that all exemptions were to be limited to November 30, provided, of course, that the applicants continued in the farming occupation. All applicants have the right to apply for extension of time. In this case they will have to write to the military authorities at London between the dates of October 1 and October 15. George Jones, a farmer near Granvethurst, was killed by lightning on Saturday while stacking grain. A G.T.R. wreck near Stratford, in which 24 cars were ditched, caused damage placed at $40,000 to $50,000.

TELLS STORY OF HIS WOUNDING

Pte. W. C. Heyd Was Struck as Charge Started

Mr. Miles Curtis, 175 Rawdon St., has had the following letter forwarded by Mrs. F. W. Heyd, Montreal, Ariz., written by her son and his grandson, Pte. W. C. Heyd, whose wounding has already been reported to the Courier.

August 17, 1918. Dear Mother, Dad, Grace, Hope: Well, I suppose you know long ago I have been wounded, perhaps you have one of my cards by now too. I suppose you have not heard of my death, but let it step now for I am jake-a-loo. I was hit August 8th, at 4.30 a.m. when the Canadians started the big offensive. I have a few souvenirs taken off dead Fritzies to send you some time. My friend Lusby was hit in chest and lungs, with shrapnel by the same shell that hit me. Jack Ballie of the old scout gang got it too, how old dad Roberts mid-air and come down more peacefully by themselves.

The Hun's engines were wide open during the dive to ground and during silent moment amongst us on-lookers you could hear the engines over-racing themselves and thereby causing a moan which started at a low range and ascended to shrill shriek as the flaming machine sped to death who was waiting it on the ground, with outstretched arms and scythe over his shoulder. four miles away and took me eight hours to get there. Was dressed, put in a trench-bus, taken twenty miles for a clearing station, then in an ambulance train to Rouen, France, hospital No. 5. There I was operated on and felt O.K. all the way. Three days later I was put on a boat for Blyth. Can the worry, I have only got a bit of shrapnel in the left thigh and I am in the pink. Another says: "The men cannot keep their eyes open, owing to strain and fatigue; they must have relief." Still another soldier says: "We hear that the Bavarians and Saxons no longer wish to fight. How is it going to end?"

With the British Army in France, Sept. 10.—Some idea of the state of the German morale may be had from the following quotations picked at random from captured German documents and letters. One German wrote home but did not get a chance to post the letter: "I have been in the line for fourteen weeks. Johann is being well looked after. I wish I, too, was a prisoner of war." Another letter reads: "When we retired two Alsations

At a Banquet Given in His Honor He Declares the Allies Will Not Negotiate but Dictate Terms of a Lasting Peace

By Courier Leased Wire Chicago, Sept. 10.—"We will not negotiate terms of peace, but will dictate them," the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, declared in a speech at a banquet given in his honor last night.

"Peace will not be negotiated, but it will be dictated. It may be in months, it may be in years; only when we have certain assurance that the menace of Prussian autocracy and militarism is not only defeated, but that it is wiped out for all time," he said. "Indeed I think I may state our aims explicitly by quoting one of your distinguished statesmen, 'Peace will not be negotiated, but it will be dictated. That is the end which we ought to be but is the only sound notion on which we can act.' 'Never again can a clique of nations attempt any such outrage. Once and for all we must lay down the principle that the rule of law and order must be restored, that the same relations must exist between nations as exist between men. The war is not a war fought by governments, but by peoples united for the rights of humanity.'"

A TRIPLE BY RUTH

Put Two Runs Across for the Red Sox

They Nailed Another Game of Series by 3 to 2

Boston, Sept. 10.—The Boston Americans got the big edge in the world's series by beating the Chicago Nationals in a mad scramble for the fourth game yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. This gives the Red Sox a lead of three to one in the series, and it is necessary now for them to win only one more game to make them the war-time baseball champions of the world.

Both teams departed from letter-perfect baseball for the first time since the meeting, and the explosions which resulted kept the fans in a future of old-time series excitement. "Babe" Ruth, Boston's big southpaw and slugger extraordinary, led the first bombing party, which apparently wrecked the Cubs machine for good and all, but was hoisted by his own petard in the ninth inning.

That Fourth Inning Hoodoo
The game was broken wide open by Boston in the fourth. Tyler got himself into a hole by passing Shean, the first man up. Strunk smashed the ball to hard centre, but Packert reeled under it for a neat out. Shean, taking advantage of Tyler's wind-up, dashed for second and made it standing up, while Killifer let the ball get through him for a short pass ball. It was a clean steal for Shean, nevertheless, and the crowd roared for a run. With White man up, Tyler wobbled again and issued another pass. The stands were fairly rocking when "Stuffy" McInnis strode to the plate. But the best of the glovester boy could do was to force Shean at third.

Then along came Ruth. Two runs were on base. Red Sox rooters feared Tyler would not take a chance with the big black bat, for the first three pitches were wide of the plate. The next one curved over for a strike. Owens called the next one strike two, while the burly "Babe" scratched around third box in disgust. Then he dug himself in at the plate, and with the count three and two waited to see if Tyler dared to send one over. Tyler dared. Ruth swung into the ball savagely, and the gleaming sphere soared in a steadily upward sweeping climb for the right centre field. It was a hard drive to judge, and Plack ran in a wild chase. Before the ball slammed into the outfield barrier Whiteman and McInnis had scampered home and Ruth was heading for third like a big tank run wild. He beat the throw in easily, and enjoyed a quiet grin on third while the National League leaders tried to adjust themselves to the same chaotic conditions. Ruth's shock bat has created in the American League all season. Everyone rooted for Scott to bring the big fellow home, but the shortstop lifted a high one to Paskert.

Double Play Saves Ruth
For three innings Ruth's personally-conducted mopping-up party had the Cubs demoralized. But in the seventh Manager Mitchell, detecting signs of wildness in the husky southpaw began rushing in his reserves. With Paskert out of the way, Scott to McInnis, Ruth walked Merkle, and then Zeider up in place of Plack. Ruth lost all liaison with the plate, putting two men on bases. O'Farrell was injected into the game here and the first ball Ruth sent within range of the plate was smashed over second. It looked like another clean-up this time for Chicago, but Scott, gliding with uncanny speed in back of the bag, scooped up the ball with his gloved hand, tossing to Shean for a force-out of Zeider, while the Arlington boy, making one of his lightning shots, got O'Farrell at first for a double play, retiring the side and saving Ruth's bacon for the time being.

Ruth showed his ability to cross up the opposition in Boston's half of the seventh, when he came to bat after McInnis had reached first on a clean single to left. Tyler gave the signal for a strategic retreat by all outfielders and then shot one over the plate. Ruth was braced for one which scored McCabe. Fred Thomas ended the agony by throwing out Paskert at first on a slow, bounding roller.

Douglas Error Loses Game.
Boston went into its half of the eighth full of malice at having to win the game all over again. For the first time in the series they found a right-hander facing them in the box, Douglas replacing Tyler. Schanz, batting for Agnew, lost no time in demonstrating that the Red Sox were out for blood. He scouted a single to centre, and on a short passed ball sped to second. Captain Hooper was at bat, and he laid down a crafty bunt which Douglas neared wildly in the general direction of Merkle. By the time the ball was recovered Schanz was home with the winning run and Hooper was perched on second. Shean Strunk and White man made a tame ending of the inning.

Cubs Tie Score.
Ruth, fairly reeking with wildness after the way of great southpaws when they begin to lose the sense of location, walked Killifer, the first man up. As he tried to steady himself, he grooved over for Hendrix, who batted for Tyler, and the pinch-hitting pitcher cracked an ominous single into deep left. Killifer took second. "Babe" then unloosed a wild pitch, putting Killifer on third and Hendrix on second, which now out. McInnis walked to the box and talked very plain Anglo-Saxon into Ruth's ear, and what the

SAYS THE DRUG IS ANOTHER COMPOUND

Just a few drops loosens any corn so it lifts out without pain.

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of Freezone." This will cost very little, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, or the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out with the fingers without pain.

This new drug called Freezone is an ether compound of skin. Cincinnati man, who says that while Freezone is sticky it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but cut this out and make him try it.

ira first baseman forgot to say Dave Shean was on hand to supply "Babe" with sweat, but game. He put over a good one for Plack, who tapped it to McInnis for an unassisted putout, while the other runners held to their bases. McCabe was put in to run for Hendrix, as the hard-hitting Hollister came up. Hollister hit sharply to second, but was thrown out. Killifer, scoring in the melee, Leslie Mann then tied up the game with a sharp single to left, which scored McCabe. Fred Thomas ended the agony by throwing out Paskert at first on a slow, bounding roller.

With the British Armies, Sept. 9.—British forces have advanced to the east of Roisel, about seven miles east of Peronne, and Roisel is now under a heavy fire from the German long range guns. The enemy is reported to be leaving Heudecourt, southwest of Gouzeaucourt, in response to our offensive pressure. The east of Arras, are being heavily gassed. Fires continue to burn at some places and within the last few hours fires have been observed in Douai.

Further indications of the growing discontent in certain sections of the German army have been received. A number of Germans recently captured were formerly in Russian captivity. They express themselves most bitterly against their military leaders. They said they had been told they would be used on the lines of communication, but instead they were put through the field recruit departments and placed as infantry in the trenches.

Many Germans are becoming increasingly worried over the prospect

BATTLE ENTERS ON NEW PHASE

Enemy Making a Last Stand Just in Front of Hindenburg Line

BEING DRIVEN BACK

By Courier Leased Wire
London, Sept. 9.—The battle on the western front is entering a new phase. The enemy at last is making a serious stand just short of the Hindenburg line, commonly called the Hindenburg line.

The Germans are doubling the rearwards and seeking by counterattacks to slow up, if they cannot stop outright the encroaching tide of the Allies. Their efforts have been in vain, notwithstanding the measures adopted in checking the advance of the French and British for both pushed forward yesterday in the direction of St. Quentin. The French made such progress across the Crozat Canal that the enemy no longer can hope to defend it.

General Humbert's centre is at the gates of La Fere and General Mangin's is beginning to creep around the St. Gobain forest by the west, while his right beat off the enemy's attacks, by which the Germans sought to cling to the Aisne front. More of such attacks are probable, but General Mangin will know how to deal with them. They are local affairs and a more serious effort is not likely to be made.

General Ludendorff is working for the respite which he must have if he is to sort out his disorganized divisions and try to whip up some sort of strategic reserve. This respite he loses his shortened front, requiring present battle front, or whether a Marshal Poch is likely to be aware, however, whether the enemy is sufficiently weakened and demoralized to be smashed in at some part of the present battle front, or whether a stroke elsewhere would be advisable, thus giving the armies that have fought so indecisively for the past two months a rest.

With the British Armies, Sept. 9.—British forces have advanced to the east of Roisel, about seven miles east of Peronne, and Roisel is now under a heavy fire from the German long range guns. The enemy is reported to be leaving Heudecourt, southwest of Gouzeaucourt, in response to our offensive pressure. The east of Arras, are being heavily gassed. Fires continue to burn at some places and within the last few hours fires have been observed in Douai.

Further indications of the growing discontent in certain sections of the German army have been received. A number of Germans recently captured were formerly in Russian captivity. They express themselves most bitterly against their military leaders. They said they had been told they would be used on the lines of communication, but instead they were put through the field recruit departments and placed as infantry in the trenches.

Many Germans are becoming increasingly worried over the prospect of winter, not only for themselves, but for their families, who, in many cases, according to the German reports from captured men, are now starving.

With the French in France, Sept. 8.—(By the Associated Press) — Evening.—The destruction of towns and villages within the zone of the recent operations has been so successful to offer little basis for comparisons. South of the Somme and between the Aisne and the Oise the work of demolition has been uniformly thorough. Settlements, big and small, have been reduced to ghostly ruins.

Novon offers the only contrast to the devastation that is characteristic of other towns. Montdidier was razed to the ground. Novon was almost completely ruined, but is still erect. The walls of most of the houses still support only partial by collapsed roofs. From a distance they appear to require only repair, but close inspection shows that the Germans made good their boast that they would destroy the town in its entirety.

When the French troops first entered the city it was three-fourths intact at least. Shelling with gas and high explosives followed at once. The shells were distributed so evenly and impartially that not a quarter was slighted and not a house left untouched. What could not be done by shells in the brief time left to the German artillery was accomplished by mines.

At several places the mines not only blew great gaps in the streets but caved in the house fronts on both sides. At one spot an explosion uprooted a tree which took down the corner of a house in its fall.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
The text of the French War Office statement reads:
"North of the Somme we have made further progress to the east of Avesnes in the direction of Chiffres and have occupied La Motte Farm. Our forces crossed the Crozat Canal in front of Liez."
"Between the Oise and the Aisne the night was marked by the reaction of enemy infantry and artillery. Two strong German counterattacks launched in the region of Laffaux were repulsed, 80 prisoners belonging to five different regiments being left in our hands."
"In the Champagne we executed a raid in the region of Mont Sans Nom, taking prisoners."
"A German aid was checked to the east of Auberville."
