

Flint Youth Awarded Highest Scout Honor

Wins Eagle Badge—Another Boy Rewarded for Saving Life.

Flint Mich., Sept. 24.—The highest service honor that can be awarded to a Boy Scout, the issuance of an eagle scout badge, was conferred upon Vernon Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram H. Hawkins, 1527 Lyon Street, Monday night, at the first meeting of the year of the Court of Honor.

The court doubly honored five other Scouts, awarding life scout and star scout badges, besides presenting Orville Hale, former scout and now a scout leader, with a letter of commendation for his act of heroism on June 23rd, 1921, in saving Miss Philomena Arndt from drowning.

Hale was swimming in the old gravel pit in South Flint when he divered into a deep hole. While under water he felt something grab him, and battling his way to the surface discovered that a young woman was clutching him. With great effort Hale brought Miss Arndt to shore. The fact that he was taken utterly by surprise, combined with his coolness in bringing Miss Arndt to safety is held by scout officials as most unusual. The letter of commendation, a lithographed manuscript, was sent here by the National Court of Honor and bore the signature of Daniel C. Beard, High Chief of Scouting.

For Scout Hawkins to win the Eagle Badge it was necessary for him to win 21 merit badges in various lines of scout endeavor. He is only the 11th Flint boy to be so honored over a period of seven years. Other Flint scouts who have won the badge are: Herman Clapp, Harold Holland, Chas. Hatch, Lyle Koepke, B. F. Miller, Jr., Sheldon Nemias, Lawrence Pettibone, William Pontiac, Milton Pettibone and Millard Saxton.

Merit Badges Issued.
Earl Richmond, Robert Darnton, Bennie Miller, Harold Eiseman and Robert Richardson were each awarded life scout and star scout badges. First class scouts were eligible to earn the life scout badge by winning five merit badges, while the star scout badges were earned by acquiring ten merit badges. The five scouts won their ten merit badges during the summer months, entitling them to double honors. One hundred and thirty individual merit badges were also awarded.

The exercises were presided over by Nelson Webster, chairman of the Court of Honor. The Eagle Badge was presented by E. W. Atwood, president of the Flint Boy Scout organization.

Vernon Hawkins, who won the Eagle Badge, is a nephew of Messrs. Charlie and Adam Hawkins of Athens.

FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN DESTROYS BARN NEAR ELGIN

Insurance Will Not Cover Loss of C. R. Taylor.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Harvest Thanksgiving Services to be Held Throughout Country.

Elgin, Sept. 25.—Much sympathy is felt for C. R. Taylor and family in the loss of the former's barns by fire on Sunday morning. His machinery, chickens were also lost. The origin is unknown. Some insurance was carried, but the loss will be a heavy one.

The annual school fair was held here on the 21st inst., with a large attendance, and the usual display of exhibits which reflected great credit on the pupils and teachers.

D. R. Halladay, of Sterling, Ont., was a recent visitor in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones and Masters Milton and Leonard, have returned to their home at Niagara.

Mrs. Wesley Churchill, Brockville, was a last week guest of Mrs. J. Penlock.

Leonard and Ford Kelsey, Toronto, were called here last week owing to the sudden death of their brother, Harry Kelsey.

Mrs. Hayward Ripley is on the sick list.

Mrs. T. Lee and Miss Mary attended the Kingston exhibition last week and are remaining for a few days visiting friends.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

General Topics of Interest Discussed—The Editor Talks to Reporter Readers.

A GLOOMY PICTURE.

The United States is described as the most lawless country in the world: a country of universal cynicism, skepticism, and inhuman materialism. A country that raises a stately memorial to Abraham Lincoln and forgets or openly jeers at his teaching. A country where class hates class and class arms against class, shooting and lynching and burning and dynamiting while the law looks on and the public is indifferent that it even looks away. A country which throws open its gates to alien criminal and alien lunatic, to anarchist, bomber and hired assassins, and where few Americans are born, few vote and few lead.

Had this appeared in Jack Canuck, or anywhere in Great Britain or Canada, it would have been denounced as a grossly unfair attack upon a friendly country. As a matter of fact it is taken from the Kansas City Star. Even so, we may allow for a certain exaggeration due to natural indignation against savage lawlessness. But there is enough truth in the picture to make patriotic Americans think.

Lawlessness is the root of the evil, and this cannot be blamed entirely on the new arrivals from Europe. Lynching has long been a reproach to the South, where the offending whites are mainly of the old stock. Associated with the lynching evil is the lax administration of the criminal law, which has been the subject of much comment. American detectives and police are accused of the harshest kind of treatment of persons under arrest, such as the use of the "third degree" to extort confessions of crime, yet many criminals escape. In Great Britain the accused person is treated with scrupulous fairness, yet crime is punished swiftly. It looks as if there were a close association between justice to the accused and justice to society.

Death of E. B. Wiltse Deeply Regretted

Remains Interred in Athens Cemetery Monday Afternoon.

The remains of the late Eldon B. Wiltse arrived in Athens from Winnipeg, Manitoba, on Sunday, Sept. 30th, 1923, and were immediately conveyed to the residence of his uncle, Mr. E. Y. Hollingsworth, the funeral taking place the following day, Monday.

It appears that the deceased left St. Thomas for a motor trip to the West and proceeded to Lac Du Bonnet for his fishing and hunting, and from there up the Winnipeg River to the Seven Sisters Falls with two former pupils (Mr. Wiltse having taught school at Lac Du Bonnet for two years). About a quarter of a mile below the Falls his troubles began, and they unfortunately got into a treacherous eddy, capsizing the boat, and bringing death to Eldon B. and one of his companions. The remaining young man was saved by clinging to a tent, which the boat carried. His father, Mr. Ford B. Wiltse, immediately left for the scene of the accident and was present when the body was recovered, nine days later, and accompanied the remains to Athens. The deceased was born 24 years ago last June on a farm east of Athens and was a graduate of the Athens High School, the family leaving here for St. Thomas about three years ago. He had a very promising career ahead of him and was regarded as one of the best business men in St. Thomas, where deep regret was felt at his untimely death. While yet in love with life and enraptured with the world, he passed to silence and pathetic dust. He possessed a charming personality and held the warm affection of all his friends and acquaintances, who deeply mourn his early passing. During his brief life he added to the sum of human joy; and were everyone to whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave, he would to-night sleep beneath a wilderness of flowers.

The pallbearers were Nelson Cross, Wilford Coon, Lawrence Taylor, Andrew Ferguson, Everitt Rowsome, Harold Howe.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss his father and stepmother; his grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Wiltse; brothers Roy and Charlie, and sister Ciella Elaine, to whom is extended the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral, on Monday, was largely attended and the service at the church and grave was conducted by Rev. S. F. Newton.

The lesson of the grim tragedy of life was deeply engraved on the hearts and minds of all present, for it was realized that whether in mid-sea or among treacherous currents, a wreck at last must mark the end of each and all, for "in the midst of life we are in death."

Besides his father, his brother, Roy, of St. Thomas, and aunt, Miss Arietta Hollingsworth, of Carman, Man., were in Athens attending the funeral.

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF MR. NORRIS FERGUSON, OF JUNETOWN.

The death of Mr. Norris Ferguson, which occurred Thursday afternoon, September 13th, came with such suddenness that the countryside was shocked and deeply grieved. He had appeared in his usual health when he left the house about an hour before for a load of corn, but when he did not return his wife went to look for him, and when she found him he was lying on his face beside his load of corn. She could not realize that he was dead, and she spent some time in trying to revive him before running some distance to the house to call the physician and some neighbors, who, upon their arrival, found that he was dead. Deepest sympathy is felt for his grief-stricken wife, who is prostrated at the shock of finding her husband dead when he had left her only a short time before, happy and in the best of spirits.

During the days following his death hundreds of friends called to view the remains, where he lay, as if peacefully sleeping, in a casket of dove grey velvet surrounded by a wealth of floral tributes.

Norris will be greatly missed not alone by his own immediate relatives, but by a host of friends whom he had won during his life by his unfeeling cheerfulness, his kind, neighborly ways, and was always ready to join with those that sorrowed as well as those that were happy.

Sympathy is also expressed for his little daughter, Irene; his father, Mr. Ben. Ferguson; sister Margaret, and brothers Fred and Frank.

The high esteem in which the deceased was held was shown by the large floral offering and by the large number of friends and neighbors who attended the funeral, which was the largest ever held in this district.

The funeral service was held on Sunday, September 16th, at 2 p.m. at the Union church, Tilley, and was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. A. W. Gardener, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Caintown, who took as his text, James, 4 chapter and the 14th verse.

After the service the remains were laid to rest in the beautiful Union cemetery at Tilley. The pall-bearers, all cousins of the deceased, were: Dr. S. O. Morris, B. J. Ferguson, S. D. Ferguson, Lloyd Foley, Arthur Fortune, Clark Foley.

The large quantity of floral offerings were taken to the grave by Mr. M. Hall, and were sent with deep sympathy by the following friends: Pillow, wife and daughter, Irene; wreaths, sister Margaret and brother Fred, the pupils of the Junetown public school; censents, Mrs. Wm. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rourke, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Seeley, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis; mount, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Dyke; bouquets, Misses Gladys and Edith Ferguson, Marion and Willie Ferguson; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fortune, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Avery, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ferguson, Misses Alma and Arley Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Root, Mrs. John Stinson, Mrs. Emma Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Ferguson, Ly country. As a matter of fact it is

Death of Harry Kelsey

Elgin and community were shocked beyond measure when the news was circulated on Thursday morning, the 20th inst., that Harry Kelsey had passed to the Great Beyond during the night. Mr. Kelsey had discharged his duties the evening before in his usual health, and had retired for the night when seized with a terrible pain in the head which developed into a cerebral hemorrhage. Medical aid was at once summoned but to no avail, the patient lapsing into unconsciousness, and passing peacefully away about midnight.

Deceased was born near Clear Lake, i. 1868 and was, therefore, in his 55th year. In 1875 he came to reside in Elgin where he had lived continuously ever since, commending the love and esteem of every acquaintance. Being of a kind, quiet, patient and unassuming disposition, he won a host of friends all of whom learned with unfeigned sorrow of his untimely demise.

For the past few years he acted in the capacity of mail carrier and kept a well-arranged livery stable. In this connection he was well-known by the travelling public, who evidenced their true friendship by many sincere expressions of regret and the large attendance at the funeral.

Some eight years ago, he was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Baker, of this place, who survives to mourn his loss, besides two sisters: Mrs. C. T. Sherwood, Elgin; Mrs. Ernest Jones, Niagara; and five brothers: Thomas Kelsey, New Westminster, B.C.; Watson W., Newboro; G. Burton, Elgin; W. Ford and Leonard R., both of Toronto. Other out-of-town relatives who attended the obsequies were: Mr. and Mrs. William Berry and son, Hilliard, Arthur Elliott, Mrs. George Williams, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. John Berry, Sterling; Penock, J. A. Tabbot, Gananoque; H. N. Lillie, Miss Gertrude Penock, Mrs. George Sly and Miss Dora, of Seelye Bay; Gordon Berry, South Lake; Mrs. Mary Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Kelsey, Newboro; Homer Kelsey of Lyndhurst.

Funeral services were conducted on Saturday morning last at 10.30 to the Methodist Church of which deceased was a faithful and consistent member. His pastor, Rev. A. E. Sanderson, assisted by Rev. W. T. Keough, his former pastor, conducted the solemn ceremony, the latter speaking in very eulogistic terms of the life and character of the departed. The edifice was full to overflowing with friends, neighbors, and acquaintances from various callings. The Delta I.O.O.F. Lodge, to which deceased belonged, attended in a body and conducted their service at the grave.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful and verily expressed a sentiment too profound for mere words. They included wreaths from: I.O.O.F. Lodge, (Delta), Mrs. H. Kelsey (wife), Elgin business men, Epworth League, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sullivan; sprays from Elgin Rural Mail Route, Brothers, Leonard and Ford, Mrs. Kelsey's Sunday School class, Mr. and Mrs. Hughie Soper, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burt, Mrs. Charlotte Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Tallman, Miss Laura Alford, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor and family, First Brook Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Moulton, Masters Merion, Ben and Hudson Camoëll, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. John Pinkerton, Mrs. S. Smith, Misses Mary and Bertha Delong, Mr. and Mrs. Miss Leavine; pillow from Mrs. W. H. Pearson. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot.

Snow at Sault the Earliest Since the Fall of 1900

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says:—Snow Friday morning was the earliest to arrive in the Sault of any fall since 1890, when, on the same date, September 13, a trace of snow was recorded. The early arrival of snow was heralded by hail and sleet. Hail was reported from the section just east of the Sault, and right in the city there was sleet both in the afternoon and at night. The sleet turned to snow, though it did not whiten the ground at all. The pounding waves on Lake Superior during the storm did not cause any serious damage to the ships, but the waves swept over the decks of some of the smaller freighters.

A despatch from Cobalt says:—The first snow of the season fell in Cobalt, Swastika, and other northern points Friday morning. It did not last.

Imperial Appeal to Japanese Nation

A despatch from Osaka says:—An Imperial rescript dealing with the reconstruction of the national capital has been promulgated. After dwelling on the disastrous nature of the earthquake which was characterized as an unprecedented national calamity, the rescript appeals to the nation for a supreme effort and drastic measures to restore confidence and also emphasizes the necessity not only for restoring, but for further developing Tokio, which it says is the political and economical centre of the country and the main source of national civilization.

Tokio, says the rescript, remains the national capital, although its outward structure is destroyed. It further states that a special organization has been established for the revival of the capital and concludes by calling for a united effort by the Government and the people for the relief of sufferers, the suppression of disquieting rumors and the revival of the national strength.

JAPANESE RELIEF FUNDS ARE LARGE

Washington Reports U. S. $5,000,000 Objective Exceeded.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—The Japanese consul has advised Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who has charge of Japanese relief measures in Canada, that the districts suffering from the recent catastrophe need lumber and other building materials, as well as clothing and blankets. They are not asking for foodstuffs.

The minister said that further quantities of the materials in demand would be shipped to Japan, on the part of the Canadian Government, just as quickly as shipping facilities became available.

A despatch from Washington says:—Japanese relief funds are far beyond the $5,000,000 goal. The Red Cross reported $5,663,100 in hand Thursday night, and hundreds of thousands more in prospect.

The Red Cross bought 1,000 more tons of corrugated iron for prompt shipment to meet the housing problem. Purchase was also made of 300,000 additional suits of underwear, making a total so far of 500,000.

Relief supplies of all kinds, including much heating apparatus, are moving rapidly. Advances received by the Red Cross from Japan request all relief ships to go to Yokohama, indicating that harbor is not as disrupted as first reported.

Nurses and Doctors Poisoned by Food

A despatch from Detroit says:—A thorough investigation has been ordered by Dr. Thomas K. Gruber, superintendent of the Receiving Hospital, to determine the cause of an illness from which 25 nurses and six doctors in the hospital have been suffering. It is believed tainted food crept into the menu, despite stringent precautions in the institution.

All the patients, with the exception of one doctor and six nurses, partook of a chicken dinner in the dining-room Sunday. The chickens were killed Thursday, and although they are supposed to have been continuously on ice until they went to the cook's hands, Dr. Gruber thinks they may have spoiled.

"No person can guard absolutely against bad food," said Dr. Gruber. "We have done everything we could, but apparently it was not enough in this case."

MOVEMENT OF GRAIN FROM WEST BEGUN

But the Heavier Producing Districts Have Hardly Started Shipping.

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—The annual movement of grain from the prairies to the head of the lakes is well under way, but the heavier producing sections have hardly commenced wheat shipments yet. Total inspections of grain from the opening of the crop year, Sept. 1, were 4,402 cars, as against 9,954 cars at the same date last year. Of the total 2,072 cars came via Canadian National and 2,330 by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Loadings were considerably lower to date than at the same period of 1922, and it will be some time before the peak of the movement is reached. In Edmonton district, from which it has been estimated there will be a total wheat tonnage in the neighborhood of half a million bushels, the harvesting of grain was delayed by unfavorable weather, so that only some 11,000 bushels have been loaded.

The car situation is very favorable, and on the Canadian National Railways it is stated to be better this year than at any previous time.

PRINCE OF WALES SEEKS REST IN CANADA

Is to Pay Brief Visit to Lord Byng, but Attend No Public Functions.

A despatch from Quebec says:—The Prince of Wales, traveling as Lord Renfrew, arrived here Thursday morning on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France. On landing, he motored to the Chateau Frontenac, where he remained overnight and left Friday morning on a special train for his ranch in Alberta, where he is to stay for a month, tasting the simple life.

Officers of the liner said that apparently the Prince had thoroughly enjoyed himself on the trip over. He had mixed quite freely with the passengers and had taken part in all the dances. On Sunday he read the lesson at the service. His genial manner made it an easy task for everybody on the ship to regard him simply as an ordinary traveler.

Empire Exhibition Buildings Going Up

A despatch from London says:—At Wembley Park, a short distance out of London, an army of men is toiling over a vast timber and metal strewn area constructing innumerable buildings for the great Empire exhibition next year.

Fully 2,000 men already are hard at work on the grounds, and by next winter that many more will be employed. The contractors are ahead of schedule, and at the present rate it is expected that all the buildings will be finished early in 1924.

The Canadian section will be one of the first completed, probably early in November. But it will be beaten by the Indian pavilion, which will be done a month before, and will constitute the exhibition's finest feature.

One of the most interesting sections will be that of West Africa. It will reproduce the conditions under which the natives live. Four compounds are being erected to house more than seventy picked craftsmen of the Yoruba, Fanti, Hausa and Mendi tribes.

VAST EMIGRATION FLOW FROM SCOTLAND

60,000 Have Left for Canada and U.S. Since Year Began.

London, Sept. 14.—The flow of emigration from Scotland continues. During the next two weeks the exodus will be unparalleled for the period.

A dozen ocean liners are due to sail from the Clyde in the two weeks, carrying over 10,000 passengers, nearly all of the emigrant class. Canada will receive the majority of the emigrants, but a large proportion will go to the United States.

It is estimated that since the beginning of this year 60,000 emigrants have left Scotland for Canada and the United States.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM 15TH STORY

Japanese Clerk, in Despair Over Loss of Family, Commits Suicide.

New York, Sept. 14.—Tokunovske Inouye, member of a family of high standing in Japan, driven to despair by the almost certain belief that his wife and children had lost their lives in the earthquake and fire horrors which overwhelmed Tokio, where they lived, jumped to his death on the Broadway sidewalk from the 15th floor of the American Express Building at 65 Broadway, at a little before 8.30 o'clock today.

First Snowstorm of Year in Portage District

A despatch from Portage La Prairie says:—Reports received here Thursday from points south of the Assiniboine River in the Portage district, record the first snowstorm of the season. At Oakville and other points south of the river it began to snow during the night and when daylight came it showed to be about two inches on the ground, a real wintry day.

ESKIMOS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Guilty of the Murder of Corp. Doak, R.C.M.P., and Otto Binder.

A despatch from Fort McMurray, Alta., says:—Two Eskimos, convicted of murder, were recently sentenced to death by Judge Lucien Dubuc at the Herschel Island detachment station of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the Arctic, according to passengers on the steamer Northland Echo, which arrived here from the North.

The Eskimos will be hanged on December 7. The executioner, who went North with the judicial party from Edmonton, remained at Herschel Island, but will possibly be brought to the "outside" by dog team via the Yukon and Alaska on the completion of his duties.

Another coast native, also accused of murder, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Judge Dubuc and his party are coming down on the steamer Slave River, it was stated.

The murders for which the Eskimos were convicted were that of R.C.M.P. Corporal Doak and Otto Binder, Hudson Bay trading post factor.

Silk Worth $200,000,000 Lost in Disaster in Japan

Aboard Oriental Liner President Jefferson, Sept. 14.—Silk worth four hundred million yen ($200,000,000), stored in the Yokohama Custom House, was destroyed in the disaster of September 1, according to Ray Gahr, of the Wanger Company of New York, one of those who escaped.

MEN WHO PAY NO TAXES

In the earlier days of the war, when Mr. Gerard still represented the United States at Berlin, the Embassy was searched during his temporary absence and all his papers examined. From the point of view of the Law of Nations, no worse outrage could possibly have been committed. Not many years ago such an act would have meant the instant breaking off of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The reason is that an ambassador has always been regarded as representing the very person of his King or President. He is entitled to direct access to the Sovereign of the country to which he is credited, and can claim public or private audience at any time.

His house, too, is regarded as a part of his own country, and not only he, but all his suite are exempted from taxation by the country in which he resides.

In the days of Queen Anne, the Russian Ambassador of the time was arrested for a debt of fifty pounds.

Peter the Great was furious, and the result was the passing of a statute exempting ambassadors from being punished for any legal offence. For a long time this privilege was complete and extended to all the ambassador's suite.

Of late years it has been somewhat modified, and a few years ago an attaché of the Austrian Embassy in England was not only arrested, but tried and punished for a criminal offence.

But there is still no arrest of an ambassador or his servant for debt; and a tradesman has no remedy against even the footman or butler of an ambassador to whom he has given credit.

Ambassadors have special letters, and are allowed to import their goods without paying any customs duties.

These privileges have given rise to curious incidents at one time to another. Some twenty years ago a certain Turkish reformer, knowing that the Sultan Abdul meant to have his life, took refuge in the British Embassy.

The British Ambassador flatly refused to give the man up, and when the Sultan sent a high official to demand the man, our Ambassador would not even get up to meet him, but received him in bed.

Then there was the more recent case in which a Chinese patriot was seized and imprisoned in the Chinese Embassy in London. A note which he had flung out of a window was found, and a police inspector sent to release him.

Here the Chinese Ambassador could not justly protest, for it was found that the man had not entered the Embassy willingly, but had been decoyed to a spot near it, then seized and dragged in.

The Endless String

Ask a friend to take off his coat. Tie the ends of a string, about nine feet long, together and slip it over his right arm. Ask your friend to place his right hand in one of the pockets on the right side of his vest. So far the trick is easy—but now—

Ask him to remove the string from his arm without breaking it, untying it or taking his right hand out of his vest pocket. It seems impossible but it can be done. Show your friend how to do it by putting the string on yourself in the manner indicated and proceeding in this manner:

With the left hand, reach inside the vest, out through the right arm hole and grasp the string. Pull it through the armhole. Then put the loop over your head and then through the opposite armhole from the inside of the vest. Reach up under your vest and draw the string down around your body. The finish of the stunt will now be apparent. Draw the string down over your feet—and the trick is done.

(Clip this out and paste it, with other of the series, in a scrapbook.)

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can Be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters' complexions and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Climate and Character.

That different climates determine different types of people is now a well-recognized fact. Medical experts are not only agreed that climate exerts a great influence on the formation or deterioration of character, but they are beginning to give a scientific accounting for the same after years of research.

Those who inhabit a country where the mountains run down to the sea are superstitious, imaginative and realize how infinitesimal any man is in the ultimate scheme of things. Mountain people are short in stature and so are their animals, as may be seen in the Shetland, Devon and Welsh ponies.

Explaining the inability of the white man to adapt himself to the colored man's country, and vice versa. Dr. Leonard Williams, Royal Institution, London, says it is a question of skin pigmentation.

The function of the pigment in the colored races is to intercept the active rays, thus the deleterious effect of the solar spectrum at a certain angle on human beings is counteracted by the pigment. In India, for instance, the inhabitants show a varying degree of pigment, and accompanying this difference is a marked difference in character and characteristics. As pigment varies with climate, so does character vary.

Climate is the reason why the British are great colonizers. Their white skin, according to Dr. Williams' theory has given them reserves of energy which has lured them to the furthest ends of the world, where, by service and sacrifice, they hope to establish themselves and their British civilization.

Man adapts himself to climate or climate compels adaptation and influences the human being, physically and mentally. Civilized man is influenced also by the environment, irrespective of climate, mentality and physically, although climate is the most potent factor in this direction.

The Prince and the Veterans.

Two interesting incidents marked the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to Worksop and Welbeck Abbey.

The Prince drove through the town slowly in one of the Duke of Portland's open cars. In the main street a halt was made, and the Prince presented to each of four disabled soldiers a key with which to open his new home, built for the men by Sir John Robinson at Worksop Manor. The drive was then continued slowly through the streets amidst great enthusiasm.

Later, near the ornamental gates which give access to Welbeck by the Duke's private drive, Mr. John Jones, aged 96, a resident of Worksop, was presented to the Prince. Mr. Jones, 70 years ago, started work as a miner at Shiraok's colliery, afterwards becoming manager and later a director of the company.

The missionary ship, John Williams, was built in 1894 at a cost of £17,000 collected in pennies by British children.

Vaccination is the surest way to protection against smallpox. Although bitterly opposed by many, it has won on its merit and is now widely practiced over the whole civilized world. Although smallpox inoculation was practiced in England and America during the latter part of the eighteenth century it was due to an observant English physician, Edward Jenner, to discover vaccination as it is practiced to-day. Hitherto, matter taken from a pustule of a patient suffering from natural smallpox was injected under the skin and he or she thus developed a mild case of smallpox. But this procedure had certain drawbacks. While inoculation was followed by a milder form of the disease, owing to the fact that the person inoculated was in good health at the time, the disease thus acquired was contagious, and those acquiring it by contagion developed it in an aggravated and often fatal form. Consequently, inoculation lost its popularity for a time, but was revived in England and America after it was found unnecessary to take the matter for inoculation from a person who had natural smallpox, but that it could be taken from the arm of a person who had been inoculated, and that it could be transferred from arm to arm quite indefinitely. Jenner's discovery was epoch-making. He lived in a dairy country in Gloucestershire, and as was the custom with doctors he had occasion to inoculate numerous persons for smallpox. From time to time he noticed that among the cows in his home district a disease appeared, marked by the presence of pustules on the teats, and known as cowpox. Oftentimes milkers who had even slight abrasions on their hands would become infected after milking cows with these pustules on their udders. Pustules would develop on the fingers and hands of these milkers, and some of them would go to the doctors for inoculation against smallpox. It became quite generally known among the doctors practicing inoculation that persons who had had cowpox did not develop smallpox following inoculation. Jenner was not the first to make this observation, but he was the first to investigate scientifically the relation between these diseases. On May 14, 1796, he took some matter from a cowpox sore on the hand of a dairy-maid and used it to inoculate James Phipps, a healthy boy about eight years of age. This treatment was followed by a single pustule which rapidly formed a scab and dried up, leaving only a scar. Six weeks later, Jenner inoculated this boy with smallpox; the inoculation was without effect. During the next five years more than five thousand persons were first inoculated with cowpox and subsequently with smallpox, and in no instance did the second inoculation have any effect. In the whole history of scientific experimentation there has never been an investigation so widely tested with human beings rather than animals. There has been much opposition to this simple procedure speak for themselves. Its history has been a remarkable one. Even as far back as 1805, Napoleon ordered that all of his soldiers who had not had smallpox should be vaccinated. France soon offered free vaccine to all those who were not able to pay for it. The Empress of Russia ordered that the first child submitted to the operation should receive the name of Vaccinof and should be educated at public expense. Spain sent ships carrying doctors and vaccine matter to its wide domains in the Western Hemisphere. Jenner sent vaccine to a tribe of American Indians suffering from smallpox, and after proving its value the Indians, returned the following message: We send a belt and string of wampum in token of our acceptance of your precious gift, and we beseech the Great Spirit to take care of you in this world and in the Land of Spirits.

Do You Collect Postage Stamps.

The boom in stamp collecting continues, and to-day the number of people who collect stamps is believed to exceed that of all other collectors lumped together.

The field is enormous, for there are now 23,000 varieties of stamps in existence. But if you include variations in shade, paper, perforation, and the like, you could probably increase the number up to thirty-five or forty thousand.

Stamp collecting began about 1861, when an English schoolmaster began to encourage his boys to collect postage stamps. The first stamp-collector's advertisement appeared three years later.

The biggest collection on record was that of the Turkish Government, which numbered seventeen million stamps. It was divided into 280 lots, and sold. With the proceeds was built one section of the Baghdad railway.

The most valuable collection belongs to a Frenchman, and is said to be worth a quarter of a million pounds. Two wealthy Americans, Mr. G. H. Worthington and Mr. C. L. Peall, are credited with collections each worth about $500,000.

The collection of the late Earl of Crawford realized about $100,000, while King George has a collection which is almost unrivalled.

MRS. DAVIS NERVOUS WRECK
Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee Street, Winnipeg, Man.

CHAPTER IV.

It was not until Ruth was in the train that she was able to take stock of certain trivial details which might be of importance after her return to the house in Kensington Palace gardens. For instance, one cannot be pitched out of a motor car into a hedge without showing some outward signs of the accident. Fortunately her hand, covered in thick fur-lined gloves, had escaped without so much as a scratch. Her fur coat had protected her clothes from injury, but the coat itself had been torn, and there was a rent quite eight inches in length on the left sleeve. She had shielded her face with this arm, but some twig had passed her guard and made a small mark on her forehead. It was neither a scratch nor a bruise, but just an abrasion of the skin, about an inch in length and a sixteenth of an inch wide. Ruth, who had a compartment to herself, examined it in the little mirror she carried in her bag, and came to the conclusion that it would not be very difficult to account for so small a wound, if indeed it could be called a wound at all.

Then one of her stockings was torn, and her hat, a small close-fitting toque she had selected for the occasion, had suffered severely. She took it from her head and examined it carefully. She had taken it off before at Trehorn's house in order to tidy her hair, but until now she had not realized the extent of the damage. The framework was bent and twisted, the velvet torn, and two out of the four red feathers were missing. The remaining two were crumpled and broken. She pulled them out and flung them through the open window. Then the train began to slow down, and she hurriedly put the toque on her head again.

The train stopped at some small station, and a footman opened the door of the carriage. A tall graceful woman in furs entered the compartment and seated herself, in the true English fashion, as far away from Ruth as possible. The door closed, the footman raised his hand to his peaked cap, and the train moved on.

Ruth, no longer able to examine her own personal appearance, turned her thoughts to other matters of importance. She had her trunk with her—that new trunk, in which every article was new, and unmarked with her name. She would, of course, have to leave it in the cloak-room at Charing Cross and there it would remain, unclaimed, until the railway company sold it. All that was easy enough, but there were other dangers. Dr. Trehorn had himself put the trunk into the car, but the servants would, of course, notice that it had disappeared. Ruth was just a little afraid of the kind-hearted young doctor. He would not give her away, but he could not be expected to think of everything. "Oh, what a coward I am," she said to herself. Yes, there was no doubt about that. She was a coward, and had been so from the very first. The fear that had prompted her to "cover up her tracks" had culminated in this supreme act of cowardice—her return to London as though nothing at all had happened. She ought to have stayed with the man she loved. She ought to show fight instead of running away. She ought to have defied her husband and have defied Paula.

Oh, no, all that was ridiculous. She had done the only possible thing. John Merrington's loss of memory had tied her hands. What could she have done when John Merrington was asking for Paula, when John Merrington did not

About the House

WHAT I TEACH MY CHILDREN AT HOME.

By being with his father the most of the time when not in school, our son learned by observation something of the different kinds of work done on the farm. Many times his father showed him just how a thing was done and explained why. In this way he learned much that has been a help to him in school, even in high school. Often points have come in the nature study and the sciences that have been reviewed rather than new material.

When we got our first "divver," the boy was with his father when he learned to drive and also when repairs had to be made. When he was old enough to have a driver's license, he knew how to drive, and also a good deal about caring for a machine.

We live a few miles from a small city where we do our marketing; when it was convenient, son accompanied his father and became acquainted at the stores. When he was quite young he occasionally made the trip alone, and we never had any reason to think any grocer ever took an unfair advantage of him because he was just a boy. Last year he took sole charge of selling the berries—a crop that brought several hundred dollars. He was very successful in this.

Two years ago we were quarantined by diphtheria, and the boy had to do all the kitchen work. He also took care of a little six-year-old cousin. This was work for which he was wholly untrained, but he got along fine, and the food prepared for the patient and his father, who acted as nurse, was surprisingly good. He was a happy boy, however, when Mother was able to take charge once more, and as we could then obtain help he had an honorable discharge.

I feel that he had learned a good deal, because we have not always kept him at the drudgery of chores, but have given him work that required some care and responsibility. We have told him about our business, and have made him feel that he has an interest in it.

We believed experience was the best teacher, and he has learned by doing. I think the way he managed when we were in quarantine showed that he had an ability to take responsibility, and the disposition to make the best of a bad situation. And with the teaching of other things we have tried to teach him that "honesty is the best policy."—Mrs. H. N. M.

HAPPY BROTHERS AND SISTERS

Dear mother, when the busy day is done,
And sleeping lies each tired little one,
Then fold your own hands on a heart at rest,
And sleep with them upon God's loving breast.

The love that gave you such a sacred charge
Is passing tender and exceeding large!
Oh, trust it utterly, and it will pour
Into each crevice of your life its store.

Then things unworthy shall no more
find room,
And like a sweet contagion in your home
Your life shall be. A life that's hid in God.

Tells its great secret without spoken word.

CLEAN IT WITH JAVELLE WATER.

In every house there should be an emergency closet carefully furnished and promptly replenished when supplies begin to lower.

In it should be kept a cleaning fluid, turpentine, gasoline or benzine, javelle water, oxalic acid, prepared chalk, chloride of lime, ammonia, absorbent paper, alcohol and the thousand and one things which, if not used daily, are indispensable when they are wanted.

Javelle water is one of the most useful of the family supplies, especially at this season. Handkerchiefs never get so hopelessly yellow as during the summer, when they are used to wipe perspiring faces and hands, but a bath for ten or fifteen minutes in a weak solution of javelle water will restore them to a clear complexion. Javelle water, too, will remove obstinate stains of ink and iron rust. The stained portion should be rubbed in the fluid and then washed thoroughly.

Javelle water is the trusted friend of one housekeeper at least who has employed it for years in her laundering. Pillow cases that show a yellow tinge and table linen from which fruit stains have not been removed before washing, and which have contraband markings and spots, all come out from the rinsing water.

A POPULAR HOUSE DRESS MODEL (WITH INSERTED POCKETS).

4426. The slenderizing features of this style, will appeal to the stout woman, while the practical points will make the style attractive to all figures. Figured percale with trimming of mercerized poplin is here shown. Gingham, with an edging of rick rack would be good—or, damask, with organdy for collar and cuffs.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 5 yards of 32-inch material. To trim with contrasting material as illustrated requires ¾ yard. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2½ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps, by the Wilson Publishing Co., 78 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Allow two weeks for receipt of pattern.

THE USE OF TOMATOES.

Canning—Use only firm fruit. Blanch in boiling water 1 to 2 minutes. Cold dip, core and peel. Pack close in jars, add 1 teaspoon salt to a quart (2 teaspoons of sugar if desired). Fill jar with boiling tomato juice or water. Process in hot water bath for 30 minutes or under 5 pounds pressure for 15 minutes.

Puree—Cook tomatoes (may be peeled or not) until tender, and put through sieve. Add salt, sugar if desired in proportions as above. Boil until reduced one-half. Fill jars and process in water bath for 25 minutes, or at 5 pounds pressure for 15 minutes. Puree may be seasoned ready for soup or sauce as follows: For 1 gallon add 1 onion, 1 cup chopped green pepper, celery leaves, 1 bay leaf.

Chili Sauce—Chop 2 dozen ripe tomatoes, 5 onions, 5 green peppers. Boil 1½ hours with 4 cups vinegar, 1-3 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves, ½ teaspoon allspice, 1 tablespoon celery seed. Can and seal.

Catsup—Cook ½ bushel tomatoes, 6 large onions, 4 red peppers, 2 cups brown sugar, ½ cup salt, 1½ quarts vinegar, 1 grated nutmeg, ¾ teaspoon whole cloves, 2 teaspoons stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole allspice. Cook until thick and strain. Bottle. One pint grape juice can be substituted for 1 pint of vinegar.

Uncooked Pickle—Chop 3 pints tomatoes, 1 cup celery, 4 tablespoons each onions and red peppers. Add 4 tablespoons salt, 6 tablespoons each of sugar and mustard seed, ½ teaspoon each cloves and cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ teaspoon allspice, 2 cups vinegar (tarragon, if possible). Mix thoroughly in stone crock and cover. This must stand a week before using, and will keep six months.

TOMATOES IN SWEET COMBINATIONS.

Honey—One pound tomatoes and rind of lemon and orange cooked and strained. Cook with each pint 1 pound sugar and juice of lemon and orange until like honey.

Butter—Ten pounds tomatoes, 4 pounds sugar, 3 pounds tart apples, 1 quart mild vinegar, spice bag of ½ ounce each cinnamon and ginger, ¾ ounce each mace and cloves. Cook until thick.

Green Preserve—Ten pounds sliced tomatoes, 6 sliced lemons (do not peel), 1 cup apple juice or water, ½ pound candied ginger. Stand overnight. Simmer ½ hour, add 8 pounds sugar and boil until thick. Use green or partly ripe tomatoes.

Marmalade—Two pounds tomatoes, 1 pound tart apples, 2½ pounds sugar, ½ lemon (juice and rind). Boil one hour. Add another half lemon juice and rind. Cook until thickens.

Conserve—One pound cut tomatoes, ¼ pound sugar, juice 2 lemons and 2 oranges. Stand overnight. Cook until thick with spice bag of 1½ teaspoons stick cinnamon, 6 cloves, bit of ginger root and nutmeg. When nearly done add 1 cup raisins, ¼ pound walnuts and ¼ pound candied orange peel (or preserved ginger).

Boiling Pins in Beer.

It was not until 1840 that solid-headed pins came into general use. About that time an American named Wright patented a machine which could turn out 160 pins a minute.

In the manufacture of modern pins brass wire is used. It is drawn to the required length and pointed by means of a revolving cutter, while the heads are shaped by a die. At this stage the pins are boiled in weak beer to remove grease and other matter. Then they are given a bright silvery appearance by coating them with tin, or "coloring," as it is called.

The most costly pins are those made of very fine hair-like wire; these are used by insect collectors.

In the middle ages pins were made by a very slow and tedious method, each pin passing through sixteen different hands before it was finished! The head, which consisted of a small piece of wire, was made separately and secured to the shank by compression.

The Saxons made their pins chiefly of bronze and bone; they were curiously fashioned, some being in the form of a horse-shoe, while others resembled a cross.

Specimens of these ancient pins have been unearthed from the prehistoric cave dwellings of Switzerland. In length some of them compare favorably with our modern hat-pins! They are wonderfully carved with ornamental heads, some resembling animals, while others, with round amber heads, look like modern scarf-pins.

During recent excavations at Pompeii, safety-pins were discovered resembling those in use at the present time.

The increased cost of fine teas has tempted some to try cheap, inferior teas to their sorrow. It is real economy to use "SALADA" since it yields to the pound more cups of a satisfying infusion and besides has such a fresh, delicious flavor.

Following Directions.

A doctor brought a dyspeptic farmer a big brown pill.

"I want you to try this pill at bedtime," he said. "It's a new treatment, and if you can retain it on your stomach it ought to cure you."

The next day the doctor called again. "Did you manage to retain the pill on your stomach?" he asked, eagerly.

"Well, the pill was all right so long as I kept awake," said the farmer, "but every time I fell asleep it rolled off."

Saving Seed of Garden Peas and Beans.

There is no apparent reason why every person who has a garden should not save seed of these two crops for planting the following year. The seed is easily harvested, can be safely stored in a dry place, and is usually of better vitality than that bought. If a variety does particularly well it should be retained for the next year. A great saving could be effected also, as a very small area will produce seed that would cost a dollar or two if bought. Further, if seed is saved, more is usually available for planting than would likely be bought, and in this way much more of these desirable vegetables will be grown.

When the peas have nicely matured, the vines are pulled without shelling, the pods, and piled into small piles to dry. This takes from four days to a week, according to the weather. Should wet weather ensue and the piles become compact, they should be turned over to prevent the seed from remaining damp and spoiling. If a loft is available, it is a good plan to take the vines inside and spread them thinly, when they will soon dry out. When the vines are nicely dried out in the field it has been found that to put them into bran bags and hang them up in a loft away from mice until they are threshed is a good plan. After they are threshed they can be placed away from mice and sorted over when time permits. If not for sale no sorting is necessary.

Beans, when nicely matured and after the leaves have been removed by frost, are pulled and allowed to dry for a day or two, when they may be handled in the same way as peas. If bean rust is present it is wise to select pods free from the disease before threshing, keeping this seed separate from the rest. Those showing the disease after being threshed should be sorted over carefully and any showing signs of blackened skin should be discarded. This is an indication of the presence of the disease, which is carried over in the seed.

It does not require much time to save the seed necessary for a good garden, and those who make a practice of saving their own seed are always pleased that they have done so. If it is desired to get into newer and better varieties and only a limited number of plants are being grown, a year or two of careful sowing and selection of rust-free seed of these varieties will build up a satisfactory stock. The harvesting of garden peas and beans is not different from the method of harvesting similar field varieties of these crops.

A Farmer's Account Book.

Any merchant handling several different lines of goods would regard it as folly to neglect to keep a complete set of books enabling him at all times to ascertain his profits and losses on the various commodities he sells, his assets and liabilities, and so on. A manufacturer who failed to do so would be heading for insolvency. It

Poultry

By the use of the trapnest the flock may be accurately culled so that only those birds which have given a profitable production need be retained; but for the vast majority of farmers and poultry keepers this method is not practicable in that trapnesting takes more time than they are able to devote to it. Therefore it becomes necessary for those who do not use trapnests to use the less certain, but still practicable, method of culling by visual evidence.

The heavy laying hens will be sprightly and active in appearance, will have a clean-cut head, lean face and prominent eyes, a large moist vent and a full abdomen which will be soft and pliable. After she has laid heavily for a time, if she is of the yellow-skinned variety, the color will have faded from her vent, eye-ring, beak and shanks, and her plumage will look the worse for wear, the feathers of the tail in all probability being badly broken from rubbing against the sides of the nest box.

It is safe to cull all birds that show decidedly weak constitutions; those that show great age; and those that are coarse in the head, thick in the skin and show heavy internal deposits of fat. This last condition is evidenced by a full hard abdomen. Besides these indications there are others—the opposite of what is expected in a good layer—that, taken collectively, are fairly sure.

A dry puckered vent, or a dry shrivelled comb, indicate that the hen is not laying at the time; rich yellow legs and beak usually indicate either that the hen has laid very few eggs or that she has taken a sufficiently long

Cheese and Butter Scoring Contest Results.

In the Educational Cheese and Butter Scoring Contests—conducted by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch on the same lines as in the past three years—in May, June and July, Nova Scotia stood at the head for flavor of butter with an average score of 42.16, and Saskatchewan in workmanship with a score of 55. flat. Saskatchewan was second in flavor with an average score of 42.15. Manitoba was third, Alberta fourth, Ontario fifth, Quebec sixth, New Brunswick seventh, British Columbia eighth, and Prince Edward Island ninth. In workmanship, after Saskatchewan, the order was: Quebec, Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, the last mentioned having an average score of 54.20, and Ontario at the foot with 52.66. In cheese the standing for flavor was in the following order: Ontario, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, New Brunswick, Alberta. In workmanship the order was New Brunswick, Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, and Alberta.

SEPTEMBER 23

Timothy, a Good Minister of Jesus Christ. Acts 16: 1-3; Philippians 2: 19-22; 2 Timothy 1: 1-6; 3: 14, 15. Golden Text—Be thou an example to the believers in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.—1 Tim. 4: 12.

LESSON FOREWORD—Our study this week is the life of Timothy. The story of the friendship between the great apostle and the young disciple is full of interest. Paul's letters to Timothy show his tenderness and tact. They show how Paul understood the art of encouragement in teaching and training. They show how he understood the temptations of the youthful worker for Christ. His advice is: watch yourself, watch your teaching, watch your work.

I. TIMOTHY'S BLAMELESS YOUTH, ACTS 16: 1-3.

Vs. 1, 2. A certain disciple was there; at Lystra. It is not certain whether Lystra was the birthplace of Timothy or his place of residence at the second missionary visit of Paul. The seeds of truth had been sown in Timothy's heart during Paul's missionary journey. Timotheus, the son of a Jewess, a father, a Greek. The mother was a Jewess. She also received Paul's word. His father was a Gentile. The Jews applied the term "Greek" to all who were not Jews. From the little mention made of the father, it is thought that he was dead. Well reported of by the brethren. Seven years elapsed between the two visits of Paul, and during that time Timothy had grown up to manhood and his Christian character had been noted by the believers in Iconium as well as in Lystra.

V. 3. Him would Paul have to go forth. Paul saw in Timothy the makings of a true missionary, and called him to the greater work, but Timothy was first of all a good home missionary. Circumcised him because of the Jews. Part of the message of Paul on this journey was a declaration or decree of the Council of Jerusalem which said that Gentile converts were to be free from the Jewish observance of circumcision. But in the eyes of the Rabbinical law, the child of a Jewish mother was reckoned as a Jew. Timothy, therefore, in the eyes of the Jews, would not be a Gentile who had freedom from circumcision, but a Jew who had ignored the religious requirements of his race. Therefore, while Paul thought that neither circumcision nor uncircumcision availed anything, yet, as a matter of tactful policy in non-essential matters, he sought to remove any prejudices of the Jews against Timothy.

II. TIMOTHY'S UNSELFISH SERVICE, PHIL. 2: 19-22.

Phil. 2: 19-22. I trust . . . to send Timotheus. After his call Timothy was one of the most constant companions of Paul. Now he is with Paul in his imprisonment in Rome. Now Paul proposes to send him to Philippi, that he might learn, through Timothy, how the church at Philippi was faring. Paul's thought is of the work, not of himself. I have no man like-minded. "I have no one like him for genuine interest in your welfare." For all seek their own. Sincerity and unselfishness are the characteristics of Timothy. You know how he has stood the test. That, as a son with the father; "as a son helping a father." Timothy had maintained the true attitude of the younger to the older, but the bond between them had been affection.

III. TIMOTHY'S DIFFICULT TASK, 2 TIM. 1: 1-6; 3: 14, 15.

Vs. 1-4. An apostle . . . by the will of God. Paul insists always that his call was a divine, not a human, call to service. I thank God . . . remembrance . . . in my prayers. For Paul a friend is a divine gift for which he thanks God. And as he thanks God for friendship, so he prays for the friend. Being mindful of thy tears. After Paul's release from his first imprisonment in Rome, Paul and Timothy visited Asia, and then, when Paul went on to Macedonia, he left Timothy in Ephesus. Timothy went at the parting. Now Paul, in Rome again, longs to see him.

Vs. 5, 6. When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith. The thought of Timothy's weeping for love reminds Paul of the faith of Timothy. Dwelt first in thy grandmother and thy mother. These two had been powerful influences in the life of Timothy. They had saturated his mind with religious truth. Stir up the gift, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands. When Paul placed his hands on Timothy's head in blessing, thus setting him apart to his work as a missionary, that solemn moment would in a very real sense be an awakening of Timothy's spiritual gifts.

2 Tim. 3: 14, 15. Continue in the things . . . thou hast learned. Timothy had hard work in Ephesus. False teachers were there who disputed the authority of Paul, and despised the youth of Timothy. Paul urges Timothy to hold to the truth. Knowing of whom thou hast learned them. He was to reinforce the truth by a remembrance of him from whom he had learned these truths. Paul's life was to be Timothy's commentary on the truth. From a child . . . the holy scriptures. But above Paul, Timothy, was to hold to the Bible which Timothy had known before he knew Paul. The scriptures were the fountain of true knowledge through Christ. Paul was the commentary, but Christ was the text.

APPLICATION.

A Good Minister. Paul was quite evidently very desirous that Timothy should be a good minister. All that Paul writes to Timothy, and all that he writes about him in other letters, witnesses to the very warm place that Timothy has in his heart. He loves him, and trusts him, and rejoices in him and longs for his presence, and wishes that others should honor him, and all the time he covets for Timothy the worthiest character and the most influential life. There are evidences in the Epistles to Timothy, that Paul did not regard his young friend as having come to absolute perfectness of character, or utmost effectiveness of service. From a study of Paul's letters, Dr. A. D. Jones says: "I do not think Timothy himself was a great and striking personality . . . There was a strain of weakness in Timothy's character. There was a certain sensitiveness and delicacy about him which made him timid and diffident and yielding sometimes." And Dr. Jones goes on to say, "Timothy was what Dr. Horton calls a 'dependent' Christian. He sheltered himself behind Paul's granite strength." All of which may be true, and yet there must have been excellent qualities in Timothy that warranted and called forth Paul's love and admiration. I think that Paul really thought that Timothy was a good minister.

The Making of the Minister. The things that went to the making of Timothy are the things that are needed to-day to secure a faithful and effective ministry.

Ancestry. To have a good minister it is desirable to start from fifty to a hundred years before he is born. There is doubt in the minds of biologists as to the possibility of the transmission of acquired characteristics, but believing in the homely wisdom of the farm, there cannot be much doubt that heredity does count.

Tradition. It is a fine thing for a family to have traditions. Timothy inherited from his mother's mother certain standards. Lois, in her loyalty to Jehovah, doubtless influenced the mind, and helped to form the character of her daughter Eunice. Paul refers to "the unfeigned faith which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice."

Christian Nurture. Important as is the spirit and atmosphere of a home, there should also be a definite religious training. This was a duty laid by the ancient law upon all Jewish parents (see Deut. 6: 7).

The Call to the Ministry. Timothy had been converted by means of Paul, and thus became his "own son in the faith," on Paul's first visit to Lystra; and now, on his second visit, he was chosen to be the companion of the apostle on his missionary journeys, virtually taking the place of Mark. It is pleasant to read of the good life and reputation of Timothy in his home church—he was "well reported of by the brethren." "The brethren" of any live, spiritual church have high joy when they see an eager, earnest lad of promise, and they can do much for him, too. They can provide opportunities for service and development. Dr. Blaikie says the "three elements, inclination, ability, and opportunity, constitute the call to the Christian ministry."

Use enough to get a big lasting suds

Big lasting suds—one secret of Rinso's amazing power to dissolve dirt. If you don't get lasting suds, you have not used enough Rinso.

After soaking, only the most soiled clothes need a light rubbing with dry Rinso.

Your clothes don't need boiling if you use Rinso. But if you like to boil your white cottons, use enough Rinso solution to get the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world to do the family wash as easily and safely as LUX does fine things.

The Removal and Care of Extracted Honey.

Honey should not be removed from the hive until it is ripe, otherwise it is likely to ferment in a short time. The combs should be at least two-thirds capped before the honey is extracted.

When the time comes to extract, the bees may be cleared from the supers by using bee-escape boards fitted with bee-escapes. The wood-wire board fitted with two escapes is a rapid super clearer. The board can be easily put in place beneath the supers and if done in the evening the supers will usually be cleared of bees by the following morning. Before putting on the escapes see that the springs are spaced properly to allow the bees free passage through them but not wide enough to allow them to return. If bee escapes are not available the bees can be shaken or brushed from the combs, but this excites the bees too much.

As soon as the supers are removed from the hives they should be taken to the honey house, which must be bee proof, as the odor of the honey will attract the bees and likely start them robbing. All uncapped combs can later be returned to the bees to be filled and capped.

Honey can be extracted more readily if done while it is still warm from the hives. Before extracting, the honey must be uncapped. A steam heated knife is best suited for this purpose. Keep combs. As some honey will be removed with the cappings this work should be done over a proper receptacle, such as a capping strainer, capping press or melter, as described in the supply catalogues. As the honey is extracted it is strained and transferred to refining tanks. Where a large quantity is to be extracted it is advisable to use a honey pump. The honey can be strained by passing it through a strainer into the tanks; a double thickness of cheesecloth is satisfactory. Some beekeepers prefer the gravity method by allowing it to stand in the tanks for a few days and then skimming the surface.

Care must be used in extracting, especially if the combs are new. It is a good plan to extract only part of the honey from the first side of the combs and then to reverse them and empty the other side after which the first side may be finished. Do not turn the extractor too fast.

It is well to let the honey stand in the tanks for two or three days before placing it into the final containers, do not leave it long enough for it to begin to granulate, or the sugars to separate.

After the honey is drawn off into containers it must be tightly sealed and kept in a dry place. Extracted honey will keep from one year to another if kept in a suitable place. All Canadian honey will granulate in time; this may be retarded if the honey is headed before it is put into the containers. Granulated honey can be brought back to its liquid form and flavor by heating at a temperature not higher than 150 deg. F.

To Kill Poison Ivy.

A scientist connected with one of the mid-western universities says that poison ivy may be eradicated by saturating the ground at the base of the plants with waste motor-oil from the crank-case. Where a farmer wishes to kill out this pest on a large scale, arrangements could be made, no doubt, with automobile service stations for saving the drainings from cars which have their oil supplies replenished. Waste lubricant of this sort has little commercial value and can be obtained without great cost in considerable quantity if arrangements are made for saving it.—O. C.

A TREATISE on the HORSE-FREE!

This book is one of the best ever written for the horseman and the farmer. In plain, everyday, unobscured English it deals with every ailment that besets the horse, and tells how to treat them. It has chapters on shoeing, breeding and feeding. The book is worth many dollars to the handler of horses, but all you have to do is to ask your druggist for it. It is absolutely free. Here is one opinion: SORE BEAVER, N.S., Jan. 19, 1922. "Please send me by mail your GREAT book showing positions and actions of sick horses. I have been using your Animal's Spavin Treatment for years and think it is a great treatment." PRELIMINARY. If your druggist has not a copy of the book left write us direct: DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburg Falls, Vt., U.S.A.

ATHENS AND VICINITY

Mrs. Richard Lawson spent part of last week at Toledo with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Amp. Watson have returned home, having recently visited relatives at Alexandria Bay, N.Y.

The Misses Hazel Rahmer and Vera Topping left last week for North Bay where they will attend Normal School.

Mr. Frederick Newton left this week for Montreal to further pursue his studies.

Miss Grace Conlon left on Tuesday for Ottawa where she will attend Normal School.

Mrs. Sarah Clow has returned to her home in Brockville, having spent a few days here a guest of Mrs. R. Knowlton and other friends.

Mrs. J. Code, of Frankville, has been spending a short time here visiting her cousin, Mrs. Ida Soper, Central street.

Miss Belle Wiltse is home again, having spent a couple of weeks at Cananogue and Brockville visiting relatives and friends.

Many will be grieved to hear of Mrs. Mary Moulton's illness at the home of her niece, Mrs. Algure, Jr., of Wiltsetown. Mrs. Niblock is nursing her at present.

Rev. Miss Reynolds, who has charge of the Holiness Movement church here, is in Ottawa this week attending a conference of that denomination, which is being held there.

Mrs. T. R. Sheffield, practical nurse, of Watertown, N.Y., has returned home, having spent her two weeks' holidays here the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Johnston, of the post office.

Mrs. George Bulford accompanied her son, Lenord, who has been home for a few days, back to New York State to spend the week-end, where her husband and son are employed.

Mrs. L. Green, who has spent the summer here with her sister, Mrs. Mulvaugh, has returned to Ottercliff, Ont., where she is principal of their public school.

Mrs. Clarence Knowlton and children have returned home from Ottawa (having accompanied her sister home who had been visiting her), where they have spent the past two weeks visiting Mrs. Knowlton's parents and other relatives who reside there.

Mrs. M. A. Johnston and son Douglas called on friends here last week on their way home to Montreal from Charleston, Lake, where they have spent the summer. Douglas will continue his studies in medicine at McGill University.

Early? Yes, it is a little early, but Miss Rappelle wishes to let her friends know that she will have the Bible calendars for 1924, so they will have plenty of time to find out how many they can make use of for Christmas and New Year's, and they will be as nice or nicer than other years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. S. McBratney have returned home, having spent the past six weeks at the following places—Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, the famous Drum Hiller coal mine in Alberta, Vancouver, N. Vancouver; and what they enjoyed seeing most of all was the beauty spot of British Columbia, Suspension-Bridge, and went over it.

Those who were fortunate enough to attend the harvest thanksgiving service at Christ church on Sunday morning certainly enjoyed a rare treat. The church itself was a bower of beauty, decorated as it was with lovely fall flowers, fruits and vegetables. The rector, Rev. V. O. Boyle, M.A., B.D., preached an eloquent sermon, taking for his text Deut. 26:10, "I have brought the first fruits of the land," etc. The music, under the able direction of Mrs. Boyle, was beautiful; the anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord," being sung exquisitely, the solo taken by Mrs. Ross, whose charming voice is always a pleasure to hear. The Honor Roll of the Athens heroes was beautifully decorated with made leaves, fitting emblems to those who made the name of Canada forever glorious before the world.

Miss Mary Howorth has returned home after visiting friends in Kingston and attending the Fair.

Mrs. Harry Stevens has had the pleasure of entertaining her sister, Miss Josie Irwin, of Cardinal, this last week.

Mr. G. W. Robinson has been appointed tax collector for Athens, and J. Seymour is town policeman, succeeding R. C. Latimer.

Geo. Bulford will hold an auction sale of household effects at his residence, Prince Street, Athens, on Tuesday, October 9th, at 1.30 p.m.

The attendance at the High School continues to increase each week. It is a real school this year, with a highly qualified staff of teachers in charge.

Dr. Grant spent Sunday and Monday at his old home town, Alexandria, Gleggarry county. His mother returned with him and will spend a few days in Athens.

Mrs. Jas. Windsor was called to McIntosh Mills last week to see her brother, Mr. Thomas Curtis, who was seriously injured in an auto accident.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. I. W. Grier had as her guests at the New Theatre, Brockville, Rev. and Mrs. Boyle and Mrs. Walter Thomas, all of whom enjoyed thoroughly the splendid performance given by the Jane Hastings players.

Mr. Wm. Whitmore, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Sculley, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore, of Sheldon's Corners, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hamblin and son, Eric, were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Caroline Davidson.

"The Reporter" was favored with a call on Saturday from Mr. H. E. Johnson, of Delta, secretary of the Conservative Association of Bastard and Burgess (S.). A meeting for election of officers and the reorganization of the Young Men's Conservative Association was held in Portland village on Thursday evening, October 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Donovan, of Toronto, and their guest, Miss Fraser, of New York, motored to Athens on Parish, K. Taylor, N. Dickey, M. old friends. Mr. Donovan has just purchased a fine Overland car, which was quite admired.

MORGAN BERRY will hold an auction sale at his residence, half-way between Lyndhurst and Morton, on Wednesday, Oct. 10th, 1923, at 12.30 p.m. sharp. An exceptionally heavy sale of Farm Stock. Everything goes. Nineteen Choice Grade Holstein Cows. H. W. Inerson, Auctioneer.

Wednesday night the death occurred of Henry Kelsey, a well known and highly respected resident of Elgin. For some years he had held the contract for handling the mail between Elgin village and the C.N.R. station. He discharged his duties Wednesday evening as usual, and later in the night was taken sick, dying very suddenly. He was 50 years of age.

A wedding of interest to many in Athens and vicinity took place recently in Colorado Springs, Colo., when Miss Gwendoline Klyne, only daughter of Rev. Dr. S. S. and Mrs. Klyne, and niece of Miss Dora Klyn, Athens, was married to Vernon D. Smith, of Chicago. She was married at the parsonage, the home of her parents, her father performing the ceremony, in the presence of some 80 guests.

The many friends of Mr. H. H. Arnold are pleased to have him home again after five weeks' visit with his son in the West. Notwithstanding there is a good crop this year, Mr. Arnold states that there is a general business depression everywhere in the prairie provinces, and that it will be some time before there is a prosperity revival again.

STEVENS—At the residence of her nephew, F. C. Stevens, 2274 Hatcher Street, Montreal, the death occurred of Eliza A. Stevens in her eightieth year. Funeral from St. Michael's Church to Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

ELECTRIC CLIPPERS INSTALLED.

Mr. Hone, one of our tonsorial artists has recently added to his equipment a fine set of electric clippers, which appear to be quite the popular thing, especially with the boys and young men. The clippers do their work smoothly and quickly, and every one who has work done by turning on the electric current speak in high terms of the efficiency of the clippers. Where time and help are limited it should certainly prove its merits as a time-saver.

Mrs. Leah Lilly and her sister, Mrs. Connell, left this week for New York City and Boston on a visit.

Rev. V. O. Boyle and their guest, Mrs. J. W. Grier and also Mr. and Mrs. Walker Thomas, were entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Wallace Connerly at her charming cottage, Charleston Lake. The Lake at this time of the year is certainly a beauty spot—the ever-changing foliage of gorgeous colorings making a panorama rarely seen even in nature.

The Missionary Anniversary next Sunday in the Methodist Church will be conducted by the pastor, and the special preacher will be Dr. King, of China. Mrs. Dr. Leonora King, his wife, is on furlough and is staying with her brother, Mr. Eugene Howard. She has had 52 years continuous service and residence in China as a medical missionary. Since a recent illness her voice has been affected so that she cannot engage in public speaking, but it is expected she will be present and take some part in the service. These veterans return to China at once, sailing from Vancouver on November 1st, so do not miss hearing them.

Annual Rally Day

The annual Rally Day services were fittingly observed in the Methodist Church last Sunday, when a large gathering of parents and friends assembled with the school to enjoy and receive inspiration from the spirit and thought of the hour. The programme as outlined by the Religious Education Council of the five great churches was carried out, supplemented by three or four recitations and some special musical numbers. The topic for study was "Growth," based on the four-fold growth of Christ as given us by St. Luke (II, 52), strikingly and splendidly enlarged upon and delivered to us by Mr. Bruce Marwick, of the H.S. staff. We also followed the R.E.C. by adopting their plan of promotion for our primary classes, a form of promotion exercises of this entire part of our school (including the Cradle Roll) being carried through and it is probable that this will be a yearly event in future, as the little folks enjoy promotion as well as older persons, and by observing it they are more likely to grow and develop naturally and normally. Perhaps special mention should be made of the duet "Consider the Lilies," the action song on "Growth" by the junior girls and the decorations. For the latter Mrs. James Hannah, Miss Klyne and Mrs. Knowlton and Mrs. Cornell, deserve special mention.

At the conclusion of the above programme the pastor, who occupied a seat on the rostrum with the superintendent, Mr. H. R. Knowlton, asked the entire school and guests to proceed in regular order with him to the cemetery adjoining (each person being provided with two astors as they left the building) and on reaching the cemetery the graves of the deceased superintendents, Mrs. Duncan Fisher and Mr. W. H. Wiltse, were lovingly and gratefully remembered by this simple little mode of decoration. At the conclusion of this ceremony the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. J. Curtis.

HARD ISLAND.

The Community Sunday School at Hard Island has re-opened after a few holidays, with a full staff of officers and teachers. The place—Hard Island school-house. The time—2.30 p.m. The superintendent is genial and kind. The teachers capable and devout. The singers, consecrated. The members, hospitable and true. Come and enjoy a profitable hour. Mrs. Donnelly and Mrs. Phillips are spending a few days at Charleston Lake this week.

Campbell—Duffield-Wills.

On Wednesday evening at seven o'clock a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Edward Duffield, Athens, when her adopted daughter, Mary, the eldest daughter of William and Margaret Wills, of Addison, was united in marriage to Hugh Campbell, the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. James Love, Addison, by the Rev. V. O. Boyle, M.A., B.D., rector of Christ Church. The bride, wearing a draped gown of white crepe-de-chene and silver lace, a bridal veil caught up with orange blossom and a band of pearls, adorned with a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and carrying a bouquet of Opelia roses, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Mrs. V. O. Boyle, and stood under a floral bell suspended from a rope festoon of leaves and flowers. After the ceremony a sumptuous banquet was served in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of pink and white with touches of green. The happy couple left on their honeymoon for Toronto, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue serge with hat to match, and fitch throw. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts. The groom's gift to the pianist was a handsome gold bar-pin set with pearls.

The many young friends of Miss Mary Duffield, charivari the home of Mrs. Duffield on Wednesday evening, when Mary was married to Mr. Hugh Campbell, of Addison. The bride and groom came out to accept the congratulations of their friends and treated them to wedding cake. The groom gave the boys a handsome donation to treat the crowd, who cheered him with "They are Jolly Good Fellows" and the school yells. About ten o'clock the young people all returned and showered the happy couple with confetti as they ran the gauntlet to the car waiting to take them to Brockville and other points.

LARGE SALMON LANDED.

One of the largest salmon trout ever taken from the depths of Charleston Lake was landed on Tuesday. One of the American guests at "Cedar Park Inn" was the lucky fisherman. The fish was 40½ inches long; 26 inches girth and weighed 27½ lbs. It is now on exhibition at the hotel and is proving quite an attraction.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE NOTES.

A debate, the subject of which was "Resolved that the girls of to-day are superior to the girls of grandmother's day," was the main feature of the September meeting of the Women's Institute, and attracted a goodly number of ladies who carried away with them pleasing mental pictures of the demur, modest, attractive and capable lass of grandmother's day, and at the same time were reminded of the fact that the girl of to-day is just as winsome and just as clever. Miss Edyth Montgomery and Miss Maggie Gibson ably upheld the girl of to-day in her attractiveness, resourcefulness and abilities, and urged the audience not to judge the great majority of girls by the small percentage of "flappers." The forcible arguments brought forth by Mrs. C. C. Slack and Miss Dora Klyne on the negative side almost convinced the audience of the superiority of the girl of yesterday, and showed how, apparently, a deterioration had taken place in modesty, dress and even morals. The judges, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. J. D. Johnston and Mrs. E. Neff, after careful deliberation decided in favor of the affirmative. The debaters received congratulations on the keen, earnest and laudable way in which both sides were supported.

Mrs. W. G. Towriss was appointed delegate to the Ottawa convention to be held October 23-25. Mrs. Ettie Eaton will attend the convention as district representative.

An interesting game of baseball was recently played between the High School Girls and the Town Girls, resulting in a total score of 14-18 in favor of the Town Girls. The line-up was as follows:—

High School—K. Beale, W. Davis, M. Algure, D. Mulvena, M. Earl, M. Gibson, N. Eaton, B. Purcell, M. Kerr.—Score 14.
Town—C. Purcell, B. Bulford, T. Parish, K. Taylor, N. Dickey, M. Lyons, T. Gifford, M. Earl, H. Burns.—Score 18.
Principal Campbell acted as referee.

HARLEM

Harlem, Sept. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Burton G. Chant returned on Friday evening after a month's wedding trip to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Chant, where a reception was held. A number of their near relatives were present and spent a most enjoyable time.

Sunday school rally service will be observed here next Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Derbyshire, who was seriously ill for nine weeks in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, recovered sufficiently to be able to be brought home last week and is slowly improving. Mrs. Derbyshire appreciates the great kindness shown to her by all in the hospital.

Miss Veita Irwin, nurse-in-training in the General Hospital, Brockville, returned last Friday after spending three weeks here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin, and other friends.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Pope were Mr. and Mrs. Sage, Mr. Pratt, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackman, Sealey's Bay; Mrs. Day and daughter, Mrs. McMachen and Miss Day, of Plum Hollow.

Mrs. M. Giffilen and children, of Lyndhurst, paid a recent visit to relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli White and children, of Lyndhurst, visited relatives here one day recently.

Rocky Glenn, Sept. 25.—Mrs. R. Phillips, of Algonquin, spent a few days with Mrs. Albert Manhardt last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Amer and Miss Anna Throop, of Brockville, spent Sunday in the Glen.

Alden Throop, of Maynard, visited his home here on Sunday last.

Mrs. Alden Throop, of Brockville, who has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. Throop, has returned home.

A number from this vicinity attended the school fair at the Tincap.
